GOVERNOR OF NEBRASKA.—The Washington Star intimates that Major Nicholson, the editor of the Union, will be appointed Governor of Nebraska, in place of Governor Burt, deceased.

News by Stuart's Express!

The following is a digest of the latest news received by Stuart's Express:

Sir John Franklin and his party have been found—thirty bodies. It is supposed they perished from starvation.

The reciprocity treaty has been confirmed by the New Brunswick legislature.

The Know Nothings in New York have split—some for Ullman, for governor, and others for Clark.

There were one hundred and seven deaths by cholera, in New Orleans, during the week ending October 30th.

The freesoilers of New Hampshire have nominated Asa Fowler for governor. Fowler was at one time a partner in the law business with Frank.

The Congressional election in South Carolina has resulted in the selection of John McQueen, William Aiken, Lawrence May, Preston S. Brooks, James L. Orr and Wm. W. Boyce.

George L. Curry, Wm. H. Farrar and Benj. F. Harding, have been appointed respectively to the offices of governor, attorney and secretary of the territory of Oregon, by the president.

Messrs. Walker and King, in a card which they have published in New York, state that the $300,000 necessary to be deposited as a condition for completing the incorporation of the Pacific railroad company had been promptly sent out, and would reach Austin by the time specified.

A correspondent of the Boston Atlas, writing from Marseilles, states that the English consul at that place had received reliable information that the most fearful ravages of the cholera were devastating Messina, no less than 16,000 persons having fallen victims out of a population of 40,000—a mortality hardly less than during the prevalence of the great plague in 1843.

The virulence of the yellow fever at New Orleans continues unabated. During the week ending Oct. 30th, there were one hundred and seven deaths of this disease, and among the victims was lieutenant-governor Farmer. At Montgomery, Ala., the disease has entirely disappeared; and at Charleston and Savannah the authorities have adopted resolutions that the fever has ceased as an epidemic, and that it is perfectly safe for absentees to return home.

The following Indian agents have been appointed for Oregon:

Nathan Olney, vice J. L. Parrish, resigned.

George H. Ambrose, vice —— Culver, removed.

Edwin P. Drew, sub-agent, vice Philip P. Thompson, deceased. The parties are all of Oregon.

TERRIBLE RAIL ROAD ACCIDENTS.—A frightful accident took place on the 26th October, on the Great Western Railway in Canada, between Niagara Falls and Lake St. Clair. Nothing like it has occurred since the Norwalk tragedy. It is dreadful to reflect upon. Forty-seven human beings were hurried into eternity in the twinkling of an eye, and forty-one mangled and maimed bodies dragged, after great exertion, from beneath the fragments of broken cars, one-half of them with just sufficient vitality remaining to save them from being included in the first hastily prepared list of the dead! And all this awful loss of human life is attributable, as is alledged to the negligence of one man, a watchman, who fell asleep at his post. This person, it appears, informed the conductor of the train which should have waited for the passenger train, that it had already passed him. The gravel train proceeded, and the terrible collision ensued.

Among the survivors were Mr. Thomas Francis Meagher and Mr. O. A. Brownson. Nearly all of the victims of this shocking event were emigrants. The collision took place amid a dense fog, which in no small degree added to the horrors of the scene. In addition to this lamentable affair, a rumor was circulated in Detroit on Friday afternoon that a collision had taken place on the Toledo and Norwalk road, near Toledo, on the previous night, and that twenty persons were killed. The New York Herald says: "We have received no telegraphic despatch confirmatory of the rumor, and are, therefore, inclined to think it incorrect, at least so far as the reported loss of life is concerned."

ANOTHER TERRIBLE CATASTROPHE.—Following close upon the frightful accident upon the Western Railroad in Canada, we have to record another equally disastrous. On Wednesday, Nov. 2d, at Midnight, a train on the Rock Island Railroad, when near Minoka, ran over a horse, which threw the engine and cars off the track, breaking the ribs of the engineer and killing and wounding between thirty and forty first class passengers. Many of the latter were so dreadfully scalped that no hope was entertained of their recovering.

ABOEITION RIOT.—A great abolition riot took place at Worcester, Mass., on the 28th October. It seems that Mr. Asa O. Butman, an officer attached to the department of the United States Marsal at Boston, rendered good service in energetically carrying out the directions of his superior on the occasion of the arrest of the fugitive slave, Burns. Mr. Butman was also, we believe, one of the officers deputed to deliver Burns into the custody of his owner, and his conduct excited the approbation of the citizens of Richmond, to which city the slave was taken. The abolitionists were exceedingly wroth at all this, and vowed vengeance. On Sunday, it was discovered that Mr. Butman was stopping at one of the hotels at Worcester. Having once scented their prey, the abolitionists assembled in force, and attempted violence upon the person of Mr. Butman, who endeavored to defend himself. The courage of the mob oozed out at the sight of weapons, and a warrant was got out upon a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Subsequently the leading fanatics succeeded in appeasing the fury of the mob for a time, and Butman endeavored to reach the railroad depot, when he was set upon by a gang of negroes, who pelted him with missiles and kicked and beat him unmercifully.

Europe--from the Seat of War.

By the arrival of the Pacific and Arabia at New York, we have dates from Liverpool to Oct. 21st, one week later than previous advices. The news from the Crimea is to Oct. 8th, at which time Sebastapol had not yet been taken.

The source from which the false report first originated has been discovered. It was at first suspected that some unprincipled speculators in Bucharest and Vienna had fabricated the news, but the following passage in a letter of Sept. 25th, received by the Ost Deutsche Post, from Constantinople, clears up the mystery: At sunset, a report spread with the rapidity of lightning through the city that a steamer had just brought the news of the taking of Sebastopol by the allies. It has, however, been discovered that the author of this "little joke" is M. Sommariva, the correspondent of L'Impartial de Smyrne. The effects of this silly falsehood were, however, tremendous.

Reports as to the fall of Sebastopol have again circulated simultaneously in Vienna, Paris and London, and large stock operations were said to have been made on the faith of these statements, but the public were slow to believe.

The Soldaten Freund says that Prince Menschikoff left 20,000 men in Sebastopol, and entrusted the command of the army there to General Chomutoff. He left on Oct. 1st for Perekop, where three infantry divisions, three cavalry divisions, and eight Cossack regiments had been concentrated. On the 7th, he set out on his return with these reinforcements, and it was expected that with the reinforcements advancing from Cherson the Russian army would, by Oct. 20, be 76,000 strong. The northern forts of Sebastopol, and not Bakshiserai, now form the base of the Russian operations.

General Canrobert had stated in a dispatch to the French government, that he considered the position of the allies before Sebastopol as impregnable, and that it could be held by 80,000 men and two hundred guns, against a force of 200,000 Russians. A corps of 15,000 Russians were posted near Sebastopol, but it was believed that they could not long retain their position there.

The Turkish army is ready to second the operations of the allies, and we again here that Omer Pacha is preparing to assume the offensive in Besarabia. It is supposed that his operations will commence on three points, the Pruth, the Dobrodja and the sea.

Letters giving details of the battle of Alma continue to express disapprobation that the admirals did not land a couple of thousand of marines or seamen to relieve the troops of the fatiguing duty of burying the dead and removing the wounded. Slight disagreements have occurred as to the respective merits of the different corps engaged, and especially as to who captured the only Russian gun that was taken. As the words "Grenadier Guards" were found chalked on the gun, that regiment's claim to it certainly seems the best. It is said that the French, to swell the amount of their "glory," included in the return of killed those who had died of cholera. All admit that the Russian infantry and artillery fought well, but the conduct of the cavalry is characterized as spiritless. No eagle, standard nor regimental ensign was displayed by the Russians. British accounts say that the Russian loss amounted to 7000 or 8000, but as the allies, remaining masters of the field, had to bury the Russian dead as well as their own, and only buried 1230 Russian bodies, the loss seems exaggerated.

We hear from unquestionable authority that nearly all the siege artillery has been landed, and that from three to four hundred canon, howitzers, etc., were looking down from the heights upon the doomed city. A despatch received by the French minister of War, from General Canrobert, dated Oct. 3, announces that the two armies were placed in excellent military positions.

No day had actually been fixed for the opening of the bombardment. The last advices from Balaklava, of the 8th October, state that it would be between the 10th and 15th. The two generals in command, Raglan and Canrobert, are brave, cool-headed men, and will not hurry matters, but go on steadily till the arrangements are completed, and then to work in earnest. It was expected that forty-eight hours after the firing commenced, a sufficient breach would be made to allow the British troops to scale the forts, sword in hand.

The possession of Balaklava by the allies is a great point. It establishes an unrestricted communication with the fleet and Constantinople, and enables the reinforcements to land without the fear of opposition; 10,000 French additional have already arrived; numbers more were on the way; the Sultan has ordered 10,000 Turks to join immediately; some 4,000 cavalry, of which the want was so severely felt at Alma, have also landed.

The position of the German powers is becoming daily more delicate. Prussia has sent a reply to the last Austrian circular. It accuses Austria of neglect in consulting German interests. It agrees that, as regards the four points or guarantees demanded from Russia by the joint notes of the 8th of August last, the two first points correspond to German interests.

It is admitted that the free navigation of the Danube implies a German interest, and that the Russian protectorate might make place to another arrangement, more compatible with the interests of Germany, and consents that the Diet at Frankfort shall express itself in this sense. The Diet is, however, likely to do without such a permission. The sympathies of the people are against Russian influence, consequently go with Austria the more openly she declares herself; and matters have come to this, that Russian troops are actually concentrating on the Austrian frontier with a view to hostilities. As to Berlin itself, public opinion openly manifests itself, and despite the censorship, the Berlin journals speak their mind pretty freely.

Two British steamers had been ordered to proceed to the sea of Azof to bombard a town on the coast of that sea.

There is every probability that Sebastopol will fall, and perhaps speedily. But it by no means follows that its fall will end the war. Turkey is well nigh exhausted of recruits. France, it is true, has still 150,000 men to spare; England has not a single regiment, unless she brings forward her sepoys from India. Russia, on the contrary, has immense reserves, and may protract the war indefinitely.

LATER.—Oct. 20—There is no later direct news. A Russian despatch (supposed to be reliable) says that nothing of importance had happened on the Crimea to the 13th.

A private despatch from Bucharest, dated the 16th instant, announced that the bombardment commenced on the 13th. Two hundred pieces of heavy artillery were employed. Sebastopol was not expected to hold out more than three or four days.

Thirty thousand Russians have crossed the Danube into the Debrudscha. The vanguard is at Babadach. Twelve thousand Russians under Uschakoff occupied the Danube ferries near Toultsch.

The German press everywhere gives indications of the approaching rupture between Austria and Prussia. Great anxiety exists at Berlin.

The London Chronicle, noticing that an impression appears to prevail that Omer Pacha will immediately assume the offensive in Besarabia, says that it may perhaps be doubted whether such a movement is actually contemplated; but even if the Turkish commander should not cross the frontier, the menacing attitude which he maintains in its vicinity will be almost equally efficacious in detaining in compulsory inactivity a large Russian army of observation.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Parliament is further prorogued from 19th October to 16th November.

The English papers at length, publish a list of the killed and wounded, private men, at the battle of Alma.

The amount of the national subscription for relief of the sick and wounded in the Crimea, now exceeds £6000 sterling. A regiment of women has been organized as nurses, and are to be immediately sent to the hospitals at Scutari.

There can now be little doubt that the Baltic fleets will return home without attempting any further operations. All the smaller English steamers have already left, and the whole of the French fleet is on its way to France.

At a recent great fire in Memel, the whole place would have been burned down had it not been for the exertions of American and English sailors then in port.

Mr. Upton, an Englishman settled in the Crimea, and son of an engineer of fortifications in Sebastopol, has been taken prisoner by the British, and is sent to Lord Raglan's headquarters to have information extracted from him respecting the works.

LOUIS NAPOLEON TO VISIT ENGLAND.—The Paris correspondent of the Morning Chronicle says it is expected that Louis Napoleon and his wife will visit the Queen in November, and that Queen Victoria and Prince Albert will return the visit about the middle of May next, when her majesty will not only see the French Exhibition, which will then be open, but see Paris in all its glory.

SIR EDWARD BELCHER AND OFFICERS.—The court martial on Sir Edward Belcher, for having abandoned his ships in the Polar Seas, has terminated. In the case of Captain McClure and the other officers who acted under Sir E. Belcher, the verdict was that "they are honorably acquitted;" and in each instance the sword was returned, with a complimentary remark.—In the verdict on Belcher, the word "honorably" was omitted, and his sword returned to him in silence. The proceedings are reported at full length in the London papers, and the evidence elicited some interesting particulars of Arctic life.

FRANCE.—A statue of St. Arnaud is to be placed in the gallery of the Pallace of Versailles.

Stone bridges are to take the place of the Iron suspension bridges of Arcole and the Invalides, Paris, and are to be open to the public by the first May.

The greatest activity prevails in preparing for the great exhibition of May next, which, if we may believe our French friends, will be the world's wonder!

There is no political news of interest.

THE ALLIES AND POLAND.—There are many indications, say numerous Paris correspondents, little in themselves but amounting to something in the aggregate, that the Courts of France and England have actually under consideration the practicability of re-establishing the kingdom of Poland as an independent power. Such a stroke of policy, it is believed, is a faforite project of Napoleon 111., who hopes thereby to cripple Russia's influence over the German powers, and as the influence of Russia diminishes to build up that of France in its room.

SPAIN.—Despatches from Madrid state that the foreign refugees have received orders to leave Madrid within eight days.—Those only who can give good reasons for their residence, or can offer security for their good conduct, will be allowed to remain.

The Epoca of Madrid states that important colonial reform are about to be effected; amongst them, it says, Porto Rico is to be declared a free port; the Bank of the Philippines is to be authorized to issue notes, and the colonies are to be allowed to prepare their own budgets for the Cortes. M. Olozaga, Minister of Ppain in France, had forwarded to the Constitutional Alcade of Madrid a sum of 25,395 reals, raised by Spaniards in France for the relief of the families of the killed and wounded in the combat of July.

Revenue Cutter.

The revenue cutter Jefferson Davis, Captain William C. Pease, sailed from Port Townsend on the 6th inst., in search of the schooner L. P. Foster; which vessel was supposed by her owners to be ashore on Vancouver's island, and the crew and passengers in the hands of the natives.

The cutter was to proceed to Victoria, to take on board some blankets for the purpose of ransoming the unfortunate persons belonging to the schooner, if found in the hands of the natives. She was also to take on board powder at Victoria, but no hostile demonstration was to be made unless absolutely necessary.

The prompt manner in which the young captain of this vessel rushes to the rescue is worthy of all praise and admiration, and we congratulate the government in having so able and efficient a commander for this station.

Not long since when at Seattle, the prosecuting attorney was taken suddenly ill, and the captain represented the territory at the bar of the court of chief justice Lander, in the prosecution of a citizen for the murder of an Indian, and was, on motion of Col. Wallace, the oldest lawyer of the territory, admitted as an attorney and counsellor at law. Truly, Young America is sometimes to be found, and when found, generally "faces the music."

☞ The steamer Maj. Thompkins, Capt. Hunt, arrived at this port Sunday, Dec. 10, at 3 p. m., bringing the U. S. mails and Stuart's express from Victoria, Bellingham Bay and intermediate ports.

ARRIVAL OF STUART.—Stuart, with his Express, arrived here on Wednesday evening last, 42 hours from Astoria, through which we are indebted for the late news from the Atlantic States.

☞ We understand that Ed. C. Fitzhugh, Esq., has just returned from San Francisco with a large force of experienced miners, preparatory to commencing, on a large scale the further development of the coal fields at Bellingham Bay. Upwards of six hundred tons per month will now be delivered on the wharf for exportation.

☞ Capt. Wm. Webster has arrived at Port Townsend on the brig "Sarah C. Farland," with mining materials and a steamer to be used in towing on the Dawamsh river, scows, &c., for the opening of the coal veins of the Sawamsh Bay, which will now be commenced in good earnest.

From the San Francisco Herald, Dec. 2.

Topics of the Day.

We refer our readers to the first page of to-day's issue for a summary of the news from Europe brought by the steamer. We give a connected narrative of the military operations, with a glance at the condition of the various European powers and the ever-varying relations they bear to one another and to the United States. At last accounts the Allies had not yet commenced the bombardment of Sebastopol. They had completed their vast preparations, however, and were expected to open their batteries, which are now immense, in two or three days. Menschikoff, it is reported, has abandoned his position at Bakchi-Seral, near the Allies, and proceeded northward to the Isthmus of Perekop, there to await the arrival of the reinforcements expected overland from Odessa. We hear nothing more, however, of the advance of these reinforcements. The French and English are sending large bodies of troops to reinforce their armies in the Crimea.—Serious difficulties are brewing between Austria and Prussia, growing out of Austria's interference in the Eastern war. It is said the Allies are seriously contemplating the re-construction of the kingdom of Poland, as a barrier against the future aggressions of the Czar. It is very doubtful. Our readers will find the details of the news on the first page highly interesting.

THE FAILURE OF MESSRS. BEAN & CO.—The liabilities of Messrs. Bean & Co. Bankers, of New Orleans, amount to about one hundred thousand dollars.

THE SLAVE TRADE.—The Madrid correspodent of the London Chronicle, writing on the 17th of October, says: "I understand that Lord Howden has sent in a note to the Spanish Government, requesting them to declare the slave trade to be piracy—a proceeding to which the Government here can hardly object, if really desirous of fulfilling their engagements on the subject, as it is piracy in its strongest sense. I would not anticipate a negative reply to the above proposition of our Government, but it may be observed that it has been found on previous occasions that progressista governments have been more intractable on matters in which English policy is interested, than any others; and even the present expulsion of Major General Bristow is considered, by persons whose opinion is entitled to respect, to be very much owing to a refusal to give way on a point which might possibly revive the imputation wont to be thrown at progressista governments in former times, of being "English."

MR. WILEY—In the published report of the proceedings of the district court of King county, I notice, that the name of E O. Murden, Esq., as attorney and counsellor at law, is omitted. By giving insertion this note you will oblige a reader at PORTUGAL.—Advices are very unfavorable, both as regards the wine districts and the general condition of affairs commercially. At Lisbon numerous failures had occurred, including some of the French houses established there, as well as several of the native farms.

DENMARK.—In Denmark a popular convulsion seems inevitable. In the Chamber a motion for a committee to impeach the Government, has been carried by a majority of eighty to six.

The abrogation of the so-called "Succession Treaty" wth Russia, was agitated, and had created considerable excitement.
