EASTERN OREGON.—The Portland Bulletin says: Mr. Bloch informs us that he has seen flour made from the wheat raised in Grand Ronde Valley of as good quality as the choicest he ever saw in the Willamette. That the large valley is, in fact, especially adapted to wheat growing, while its circumjacent hills and highlands are admirably fitted for wool growing. The same can be said of other portions of Eastern Oregon—in Wasco, Grant, Umatilla and Baker counties. What that whole region wants very much is immigration of people, to cultivate and to develop it. But it labors under another material disadvantage, for lack of which it lingers, unfortunately, adequate—is the want of means for adequate transportation for produce, merchandise, and its chief staples especially. It wants railroad facilities, and until railroads shall be built to put Eastern Oregon in ready communication with this portion of the State, with Idaho, Utah, California and the States eastward, the splendid wealth of its soil and the richness of its mines will not be developed and known as they ought to be. The project to construct to connect the Portland and Salt Lake Railroad through that division of the State, is therefore the most important measure at this time before our people. It is quite as vital to this division of the State that it be built, as it is to that division, and accordingly we all ought to aid in pushing it onward.

The natural resources of Eastern Oregon are all that they are represented by our Portland cotemporary; the adjacent territory thereto in Eastern Washington is of the same general character, the two forming a territory larger in extent and far richer in resources than the whole of Western Oregon. The whole wheat product of the famed Willamette and Umpqua valleys was 3,000,000 bushels last year, and is estimated at 4,000,000 bushels the present. The wheat product of the single county of Walla Walla was 750,000 bushels last year and will be not less than 1,000,000 bushels the present, averaging over thirty per cent. an acre more than the Willamette product. The wheat lands of Eastern Oregon and Washington are in extent more than four to one in Western Oregon and much more productive. In mineral wealth, the West bears no comparison with the East.

The disadvantage under which that large and wonderfully rich country now labors for the means of transportation, would undoubtedly be materially relieved by the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad, but incomparably more by the Seattle and Walla Walla Railroad. The distance from the junction of the two lines of railroad is not a mile greater to Seattle than to Portland. If there was direct railroad communication between Portland and Seattle, a distance of about 170 miles, three-fourths of the carrying trade between Portland and the ocean would be carried on by the way of Seattle instead of by the mouth of the Columbia river. Large vessels are now chartered to convey wheat from Oregon, and lie at Astoria to receive their freight by river steamers from Portland, and when loaded, are subject to the expense, peril and uncertainty of crossing the Columbia bar, besides the weeks of delay in receiving freight, caused by ice in winter. We know of one case which occurred last winter, in which a shipper was obliged to pay a single vessel's charter, $70 a day for three weeks' delay caused by ice in the river. None of the disadvantages above enumerated pertain to the shipping port of Seattle. The cost of constructing the Seattle and Walla Walla Railroad, as has been demonstrated by actual surveys and estimates, would not be one-half as much, from the point of junction, as to Portland by the Columbia River route, if the latter route is not absolutely impracticable, an opinion which is entertained by competent engineers who have surveyed both routes.

The foregoing facts are perfectly demonstrable to any one who will examine the matter; but we have not, like Portland, two Senators and a Representative, with a powerful steamboat monopoly backed by the Northern Pacific Railroad combination with its land rings, to make intercession for us in Congress.

A NEW IDEA IN SHIP BUILDING.—The Boston Journal of the 31st ult. describes the launch in that city of a schooner built upon a new plan, from which our ship builders may possibly profit. The peculiarity of the vessel is that she is built without a frame, the hull being laid up in sections and bolted together. She is 122ft. 6 inches long on the keel, 138 feet on deck, has 33 feet six inches breadth of beam and 12 feet 2 inches depth of hold, with 4 inches dead rise at half flour, and will measure about 300 tons. She has a long, sharp bow, with a raking stem, an upright sternpost, and a full, rounded body, indicating large capacity and buoyancy. Her keel is of hard pine, 12 by 14 inches; she has three depths of midship keelsons, each 12 inches square, and assistant keelsons of 10 by 12 inches. From the keel to the deck she is built of single logs of spruce, each 12 inches wide, and varying in thickness from 12 to 6 inches from the keel to the deck. These are placed one upon the other and bolted together every 6 inches, the bolts 1 inch in diameter and 6 feet long. The garboards are bolted alternately through the keel and each other. On the flat of the floor she has timbers of 7 by 12 inches, bolted to the bottom and ceiled with 3 inch plank, and these are the only timbers in her with the exception of the deck beams. She is 12 inches thick throughout, and her iron fastenings is the only substitute for timbers. Her stem, apron, cutwater, sternposts and rudder post are oak. The main transom is also of oak, 18 inches square, and at the ends of her after-body terminate. They are not, as in other vessels, mortised into the sternpost. This gives her a very clear run. The dead-wood, which forms the centre of the run, is scathed to the keelsons. The first piece extends 14 feet inboard, the second 8 feet, the third 5 feet, and the fourth 4 feet; thus the sternpost is backed by about 12 feet of solid timber, bolted in every direction.

The beams are 14 inches square, the carlines 8 by 10, and the deck plank is 3 1/2 inches. The beams are let into the hull, and are also strongly secured with hackmatack hanging and lodging knees, bolted every six inches. The hanging knees are sided 7 inches, have 4 1/2 feet bodies and 2 1/2 feet arms; and the stanchions are 6 by 14 inches, clamped and bolted with iron above and below. Her bulwarks are about three feet high, built solid. She will have a trunk cabin, low enough above the deck to give scope for working the mizzen boom, and the accommodations for the crew will be forward. She will have three masts, fore-and-aft rigged, and 81, 82 and 83 feet long; the bowsprit will be 30 feet outboard, the jibboom 16 feet outside the cap, and the other spars in proportion.

Mr. Gibson, who designed and has personally superintended her construction, says that 27 tons of iron have been used in her construction, which is a substitute for a frame, but 25 to 30 per cent. less timber than in any other vessel of her capacity, with a corresponding reduction in labor, and that, having no frames, she cannot decay, and if springing leak the leak can be stopped on the inside. He also claims that she can carry from 20 to 25 per cent. more cargo than vessels of the same tonnage built on the old plan. Mr. Gibson considers her much stronger, and believes she will prove more durable than if she had been built in the usual style. He thinks he could have saved 10 per cent. in the cost of construction if the material had been saved instead of hewed.

Ordinance No. 57.
IN RELATION TO SIDEWALKS.
The City of Seattle does ordain as follows:
Sec. 1. That the owners of property on the East side of Third street from Mill to Washington street shall build a good and substantial sidewalk, six feet wide, with planks not less than an inch and a half thick.
Sec. 2. In case any person or persons shall fail to build a good and substantial sidewalk as above described, within thirty days after the publication of this Ordinance, the Street Commissioner is hereby authorized to build such sidewalk and the expenses incurred in building the same are to be collected from the owners of the property as fines and penalties are recovered in other cases.

RUFFIANLY ASSAULT.—On the steamer North Pacific, on Tuesday night, between Port Madison and this city, a fellow of the name of James Russell committed a murderous assault upon a Chinaman, a merchant from Victoria. He first commenced teasing and annoying the Chinaman until he provoked a blow from him, when he knocked him down and jumped upon him, stamping him nearly to death. The Chinaman was landed here for medical treatment, and Russell has since been arrested on a warrant issued by U. S. Commissioner Smith, and will probably receive the punishment due to such a brutal act.

COUNTY BUILDINGS.—A proposition is before the County Commissioners to convey to the County two of the lots now owned and occupied by John Fennell, adjoining the premises known as "The Mad House," for county court house and jail. If this proposition is accepted, Fennell guarantees to abelish the liquor and other business heretofore carried on in his buildings and grounds, and to establish a Temperance Hotel instead, for which his extensive improvements are admirably fitted. As to the eligibility of the site for county buildings, we have nothing to say. It would undoubtedly answer for several years yet, and the increase in the value of the ground will probably reimburse the county for the cost of the buildings necessary at present, and materially aid in procuring larger and better grounds and buildings in a more central location when they are demanded and can be better afforded.

The war on the Chinamen employed upon the Seattle and Walla Walla Railroad has subsided without bloodshed. The Company promptly paid off and discharged the men engaged in the riot, and sent back the Chinamen upon the work, under the protection of a Deputy Sheriff who can command all the force necessary to protect them from violence, and advertised by handbill for men to supply the places of the white men discharged. Some of the discharged men have been received back upon the work on their explanation that they acted on the false information that all the white men were to be discharged at the end of the month of May, and their places supplied by Chinamen. We believe there will be no further difficulty on that score, and the first section of fifteen miles will be pushed to completion as speedily as practicable.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—The following is the list of passengers per Prince Alfred: W. J. MacDonald, D. Kurtz, Mr. Brodie, wife and servant, Mrs. Bearson and 3 children, J. Smith, W. H. LIBERAL SUBSCRIPTIONS.—We are informed that cash subscriptions to the amount of about ten thousand dollars have been made to the Seattle and Walla Walla Railroad within the last few days, by citizens of Seattle, the money to be expended in the construction of the first section. There is no longer a doubt in the minds of the most sceptical that the road will be built.

BETTER TIMES.—We are assured by our leading merchants that their sales are much better and collections much easier than they were a year ago at this time. Business of all kinds is living up, many improvements in progress and many more of large proportions in prospect. A Howard old gentleman once said to his daughter, "Be sure, my dear, you never marry a poor man; but remember that the poorest man in the world is one who has money and nothing else."

A MODEL JURY.—In Truckee last Wednesday, upon a jury trial, the Sheriff was sent by the Court to interview the jury, which had been out some time. The Republican describes the sight that met the officer's eyes when he went into the room: One of the jurymen had an immense bass drum strapped on his back, and as he marched around the hall another jurymen followed behind with drumsticks. Still a third juror was beating a snare drum vigorously, his design being to produce as much noise as possible without regard to time or music. A quart bottle was an object of deep interest to several others of the jurors, while a game of euchre occupied the attention of the remainder. The Sheriff was so awe-struck with the imposing scene that he retreated and called his Honor the Judge to witness the solemn deliberations of a Truckee jury. The Judge called the jurors to order and inquired if they had agreed upon a verdict. They replied through their foreman that they had agreed to disagree, and that a verdict was out of the question.

An Oregon payer has the following: While Mr. Pramer of Polk county was plowing with his horses last Monday, one of them became suddenly ill and died in a few hours. A post-mortem examination was had, and it was found that the stomach of the animal was almost entirely gone, nothing left but a web-like substance, not sufficient to hold the food it ate. The straggled part about it is, the same horse ate a hearty dinner a few hours before, and seemed as healthy as any horse. Several other horses have died in the same way recently, and horse doctors can make nothing out of it.

A COON STORY.—A farmer a few miles from this city, caught during the recent snow storm three coons, and shut them up in a barrel in his woodshed. Next morning having occasion to leave home on business, he was absent all day. About twilight a two year old porker came smelling about, and thrust her nose into a crevice in the barrel, where a piece of broken stave had dropped out. One of the coons instantly seized piggy's snout and held her fast. The hog gave a squeal that could have been heard a mile away, the farmer's dog hearing the noise rushed up, and by way of doing something, caught the pig by the leg and began to pull and gnaw with might and main. By this time the farmer's wife got upon the scene, and after vainly trying to beat off the dog, she seized him by the tail and began to pull too, and scream almost as loud as the pig. A neighbor hearing the uproar, ran to the relief of the party, and seeing sparks flying out of the stovepipe, concluded the house was on fire,—so he snatched up two buckets of water, scrambled to the roof and pouring it down the stovepipe, cranking a new stove in several places. Meanwhile the united strength of the woman, the dog and the pig, upset the barrel, and one of the coons rushed out stumbling over the dog, and seizing his tail close to the woman's hand bit it through, the woman with a fragment tumbled over a snow-bank, as the man descended from the roof of the house. He ran to her assistance, and was in the act of picking her up, when her husband returned, who, seeing his wife struggling in the arms of a stranger, rushed upon the supposed intruder, and a rough and tumble fight ensued with various success. At length they paused to take breath and enter into explanation, the result of which was, that everything was put to rights, save the stove and the dog's tail.

BERNARD BROWN, EDITOR
Seattle, W. T., June 11 1874

THE DIGNITY OF JOURNALISM.—The "Oregon style," has become proverbial the country over as representing all that is low and blackguardly in journalism; and although there are men of ability and gentlemanly deportment in private connected with the press in that State, the vocation will continue to be degraded and a subject of contempt and derision so long as the present ruling politicians dominate and editors and publishers consent to be their tools and dupes; not only to lead a dog's life, but to be treated like dogs. By the Constitution of Oregon the position of State Printer is made a State office, equal in dignity with the Governor, Secretary or Treasurer, and subject to the same conditions; that the incumbent of the office should be competent to the discharge of the duties of the same; that is, that he should be a practical printer is as essential to the proper discharge of the duties of the office as that a Judge of the Supreme Court should be educated in the law. But the Oregon politicians have paid no attention to the proper requirements for a State Printer, uniformly using the office as a stock in trade to buy votes for the Governor, either in Convention or at the general election, in utter contempt for the rights of journalism or the dignity of the craft; and the miserable subsidized and subjugated party editors never had the manliness to utter a single protest or word of reprimand against the insect to every class of mechanical or artisan labor; but accepted as a proprietary offering a swindling liti-gant act, more degrading to the craft, as it makes them consenting parties to an infamous public and private robbery which brings the press into odium among all decent people. Four years ago Grover was nominated for Governor by a direct trade on the office of State Printer, and bilked the man with whom the trade was made out of the nomination, giving the nomination to a worthless bummer who never set a type or wrote a newspaper article. The office was subsequently vacated, and Governor Grover appointed a bankrupt Attorney to the vacancy, who has taken the Revised Statutes of the State to San Francisco to be printed, thus defrauding the printers of Oregon of their legitimate rights, and taking from the public treasury to send to California several thousand dollars which should have been expended in the State under the direction of a practical State Printer. This is the way in which the Democratic Governor of Oregon represents the interests of the people and the rights of labor, to which he is most devotedly attached by profession.

But a practical printer has at last been elected State Printer of Oregon. M. V. Brown, by keeping himself inside the ring, being a party to every trade in convention, constantly playing toady and lick-spittle to the ring masters, resenting no wrong or affront put upon him or his craft by them, and doing whatever dirty work they demanded, succeeded in getting the nomination, and barely escaped defeat by hedging against the tricks of his associates on the same ticket. In Marion county, where Grover lives, he was traded like so much whiskey or tobacco for votes for Governor. In one precinct Grover received 128 votes for Governor to 4 for Tolman; Brown received 24 votes for State Printer to 110 for Waite. That precinct was attended to by an emissary of the Governor, holding a position in the State penitentiary, acting in conjunction with a friend of Waite. A few more such operations would have left Brown in the vocation. So long as editors and publishers of newspapers at low themselves to be duped and cheated by politicians, they deserve to be degraded and despised.

In this Territory, where the uniform rates for legal advertising are less than in any other State or Territory on the Pacific coast, some little damage, who is undoubtedly himself a treasury leech, introduced a bill in the last Territorial Legislature, which passed without attracting attention or discussion, requiring County Commissioners to advertise for proposals for all legal advertising, to be let to the lowest bidder. The only County which has acted under this law, within our knowledge, is Thurston, and there the contract prices are one-third higher than have ever been paid before. That is right. When petty demagogues conspire to make public capital by degrading the press, it is the duty of printers to combine for self-protection.

"Sec. 2. They shall at their meeting in May advertise for proposals for all the public printing for the term of one year." At the regular May term of the Court no action of any kind was taken in this matter; no advertisement for proposals; no official notification to publishers; then or subsequently. Mr. Andrews did ask us, in our own office, if we proposed to bid for the work, and we replied, not unless the letting was fairly conducted, and not as heretofore, when the bid was awarded upon special specifications for work over which the Commissioners had no control, and the County was charged double rates for work not specified in the proposals issued by the Auditor. That private conversation was all the notification of any kind we ever had, and no order of advertising proposals was made by the Court at that session. At the same term we called upon the Court, in session, and were distinctly informed that no action would be taken in the matter at that session, and we heard nothing more of it until our attention was called to the publication of the above order, made at an adjourned meeting, without official notification to any party interested, or any attempt to comply with the law, except the false pretense that the Court had notified the publishers of both newspapers in the county to present proposals for such printing; when the fact is, the Court had taken no action whatever in the matter, and the records do not show a movement of any kind to comply with the mandatory law which distinctly says: "They shall at their meeting in May advertise for proposals," etc.

We do not believe the County Commissioners had any sinister design in this matter, but followed the established precedent of trusting everything of this kind to the Auditor, who in turn has "followed in the footsteps of his illustrious predecessor," in regarding office as a "prerogative" to be exercised for the exclusive benefit of a ring composed of self and friends. The Intelligence was the adopted organ of the old ring, and not only the county treasury but tax delinquents were bled unconsciously by its support. The present Auditor, while acknowledging that he owed his election to our efforts for reform, has used all the influence and patronage of his office in sustaining the organ of the abuses which we assailed. Under the old ring management delinquent tax payers were forced to pay $2 50 a description, of one line, for advertising the tax sales in the Intelligence for three weeks. Last year the publisher was awarded the county printing under contract to publish the tax sales at the rate of 72 cents for three publications of each square of 12 lines. One dollar a description has been charged to every person who has redeemed land sold for taxes, and advertised under that contract. The whole advertisement would average not less than six descriptions to a square of 12 lines; the contract price of which would be 12 cents a description; while the price demanded and received by the collecting officer is one dollar.

This is but a single specimen of the manner in which old abuses have been perpetuated in our county affairs. We have heard many other complaints, all of which we shall attend to in due season.

TOO DEAR.—There are many persons in this community who are so unreasonable as to express the opinion that when the County Commissioners paid John Pinnell two thousand dollars to abolish the "Mad House," they pushed their regard for public morals to the utmost limit of their discretionary powers, and that to give him the county farm at a nominal price, was a personal act of generosity at the public expense which was both unnecessary and unwarranted. We are not informed of the real value of the farm disposed of, though from the description we have of it we are confident no individual owner of similar property would have disposed of it at the same rate. We believe it is possible to fill our public offices with men not only expert in business, but who deem that the duties and obligations to a public trust are not secondary to their own private interests; but this will never be done until personal and party considerations are put aside in the selection, and personal accountability to the public is demanded of every one holding an official position, without fear or favor. Every public officer is a public servant, with no more right to use his position for his own benefit or the benefit of his immediate friends, or the public detriment, than a clerk has to apply his employer's means to the same use. It is the imperative duty of every elector to exercise the same discrimination in the selection of public officers he would use in choosing an agent or manager in his own private business. Until a majority of the voters act upon this principle, no moral responsibility will attach to official position, and public affairs will be conducted as heretofore, in a loose, unsafe, unbusiness-like and unsatisfactory manner, and nobody accountable for it.

STARVED OUT.—Within the past few days Doctor Price and several others, residents of Tacoma, have been in this city looking for domicils for the purpose of removing their families here. They all bear the same testimony to the fact that Tacoma is a dead failure as a town; there is comparatively nothing doing, nothing to be done, and nothing to live on. The Cookes have closed up and gone East, Hosmer has followed, C. P. Ferry has gone back to Portland, Rev. C. B. Bonnell, the energetic Rector of two parishes, who has done more work for less subsistence than any minister we ever know, is about sending his wife East and throwing himself upon the primitive resource for support—a box of matches and a clam fork, and poor Dolph Hanna has gone and got married, and been elected village constable, and Harry Chapman is bound over to Court for instigating law suits, and the Daily Prosh has been compelled to suspend publication. What is left of the great territorial city of the defunct Northern Pacific Railroad is not worth mentioning. Kalama and Tacoma will only be remembered in the future as "twin relics" of the achievements of the Land King.

NARROW GAUGE RAILROAD.—The Denver narrow gauge road is now completed and in operation for 118 miles. It is the first narrow gauge railroad of any considerable length constructed in the United States. It extends from Denver south along the Rocky Mountain range, to Pueblo, and is destined for New Mexico, and so on to the "Halls of the Montezumas." It has also a branch to Canyon City coal mine, about 40 miles from Pueblo. An Oregonian who recently made a journey on the road, says it has twelve locomotives, ten passenger cars and 258 freight cars. It did a business last year of $500,000, one-half of which was net profit. Its managers report a saving in operating expenses over the broad gauge of 35 per cent, and a saving in construction of 87 1/2 per cent on what a broad gauge would cost. No serious accident has yet been reported on the road, although it makes time nearly or quite equal to the trains of the broad gauge tracks, which is a proof of the safety of this sort of road, in addition to its much greater cheapness in construction.

OREGON ELECTION.—The Democratic State ticket prevailed in Oregon, at the late election, with the single exception of the candidate for School Superintendent, Dr. Dawne. The officers elect are: Member of Congress, G. A. La Dow; Governor, L. F. Grover; Secretary of State, S. F. Chadwick; Treasurer, A. H. Brown; State Printer, M. V. Brown; Superintendent of Public Instruction, L. L. Rowland, (Republican). The Independents elected two Judges of the Supreme and Circuit Courts—E. D. Shattuck and John Barnett—and hold the balance of power in the Legislature.

TERRE HANTO EXPRESS SAYS: There is a dog in an East-side grocery store that has his tail walked over by careless customers no less than twenty times a day. It is gradually becoming flat. The dog has a resigned expression in his eyes, and sometimes will but lie and moan while a tall Granger stands on his tail and talks of the price of coffee.

APPARENTLY MURDERED.—Tenderly stroking the soft silken curls of his innocent boy, and gazing into the liquid depths of his blue upturned eyes, with a glance that told what fountains of parental love were running over in his breast, Mr. Marrowfat affectionately murmured: "No, Ataraxxes, you can't learn to chew tobacco so long as your dad is boss of this ranch."

SUCH IS LUCK.—The Marysville Appeal says: A few days ago a single man in this city, who is well-known by the size of his boot, purchased two tickets in the Havana lottery, one numbered 12, 036 and the other, 13, 079. The former ticket he sent to a rich widow in San Francisco and the latter he put in his pocket. The drawing took place April 23rd, when his gift ticket drew $5,000, while the one he pocketed drew him $5.

FOUR ex-Tammanians are now inmates of the Lunatic asylum. The stoppage of their supplies by the overthrow of the ring proved too much of an intellectual strain, and they are now harmless fools. A new lunatic asylum should be at once established at Washington to accommodate the sufferers by the pending investigations. But perhaps it may not be necessary, as congressional consciences are probably case-hardened.

The Omaha Republican takes the following cheering view of the farmers' movement: "From the present appearance it seems safe to conclude that the formation of the Grangers will do more to build up, educate and enrich our State and the West than any other action of the people that has taken place since the first plow was sent through the prairie soil. The one great result is to keep money in the country. To make the balance of the trade from the East to the West instead of from the West to the East. Those who are looking for a failure will look in vain. Success cannot but attend a movement that enriches, elevates and improves."

A firm in Pittsburgh, dealing largely in photographs, lately received a letter from a correspondent in an adjoining county, with the following singular request: "Mr.—, living here, has been a picture of his wife. She has wanted forty-four years, was a medium sized woman, light sandy complexion, hair a little on the dark sandy order, blue eyes, weight 140 pounds, red cheeks, and thirty-six years old when she died. Enclosed find fifty cents for the picture." This bona fide request was complied with. A picture was selected from the large assortment in stock as near the description as possible, and forwarded on. Singularly enough it proved entirely satisfactory.

A young lady in Mansfield, La., writes to her sister in Polk County thus: "Is there a Dr. Young living anywhere near you? A Dr. Young ran away and went to Oregon; at least he was there two years ago. He has deserted a wife who then lived (seven years ago) in New Orleans, but now lives here in this place, with an uncle who moved here three years ago. She is a very nice lady, and did not know whether he was alive or not, so she wrote he would be at home to dinner on such a day. She thought he had been murdered. Her uncle knows he was in Oregon two years ago, but they never mention his name to her, as she is so very sad. She was and is devoted to him. I write this to warn you against such a man, as he is an adventurer."

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

Seattle, W. T., June 11 1874.

Tobacco.—Mr. W. N. Bell, as an experiment, planted a small tobacco patch on his place at Bell Town. The plants are doing finely, being now as large as a man's hat.

Runaway.—A team belonging to Mr. Monahan created quite a little excitement by running away Tuesday forenoon. They started from the wharf and ran through the alley back of Schwabacher's building. As they were coming out of the alley Mr. Monahan attempted to stop them, standing in the middle of the road, but the tongue struck him in the head, knocking him down, and the wagon passed over him. The horses were soon afterwards stopped. Mr. Monahan's injuries were quite severe, but not enough so to detain him in town.

Stray.—A small red and white cow—rather more white than red—with a rope around her horns. A liberal reward will be paid for the return of said cow, or for information of where she may be found, on application at this office.

Festival.—The ladies of the First Presbyterian Church, of this place, intend to hold a Strawberry and Ice Cream Festival on the evening of the 18th of June. These ladies are industriously collecting a nucleus for a building fund for a church, which they hope to erect during the coming season.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—A bill passed by the House directs the Secretary of the Treasury to establish life-saving stations at Humboldt Bay, Point Reyes, Point Conception and Point Lobos in California; Cape Arago, Oregon; Neah Bay, Cape Disappointment and Shoalwater Bay, Washington Territory.

Brunot, Campbell, Bishop, Dodge, Farwell and Stuart, the remaining members of the Indian Commission, have joined in a letter of resignation. They congratulate the President on his adherence to the Indian policy announced in his inaugural address, and express a hope that the present success may make it permanent. The main reason given for their resignation is on account of an amendment to the Indian appropriation as it passed the House, requiring an examination of accounts, contracts and vouchers to be made in Washington.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., June 6.—John McDermott, a saloon-keeper constantly under the influence of liquor, went to the house of his mother-in-law, where his wife, who had left him on account of ill-treatment, was staying, and begged her return with him, which she agreed to do. On Monday he went away and returned shortly after with a navy revolver and shot at his wife, who was nursing a babe. The bullet struck the babe in the back of the head, killing it instantly, went through it and into the breast of the mother, inflicting probably a fatal wound. The murderer then blew his own brains out.

DEMORE, June 6.—Ralph C. Smith, a well-known real estate dealer, suicided today by taking prussic acid, while suffering under a mental derangement caused by financial trouble.

NEW YORK, June 6.—United States steamer Swartara, with a scientific party detailed to observe the transit of Venus, sails to-morrow morning.

TORONTO, June 6.—A London dispatch says Sargent, the manager of the South Devon Railroad, has been appointed successor of Bridges in the management of the Grand Railroad of Canada.

PARIS, June 6.—The left centre have adopted a platform calling for a proclamation of a definitive Republic and the dissolution of the assembly. 110 Deputies have signified their opposition to this programme. There is no longer any hope of an alliance between the left and right centres.

HAVANA, June 6.—Advices from Mexico to May 31st that a pronouncement against the Government is regarded as inevitable in the State of Mexico. Three persons, leaders in the movement, have been imprisoned.

Lema's revolutionary band has been dispersed. Bands of Indians had burned a number of ranchos near the frontier settlements of Cohahuila, and the people were terror-stricken.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—House Post Office Committee have agreed to report a bill providing that, on news paper and periodical publications, mailed from a known office of publication or news agency, and all addressed to regular subscribers or news agents, postage shall be charged at the following rates: Newspapers and periodicals issued weekly or more frequently than once a week, one cent and a half; on those issued less frequently than once a week, three cents for each pound or fraction thereof.

Receipt of such papers and periodicals at the office of mailing, they are to be weighed in bulk and postage paid by a special adhesive stamp. Newspapers, one copy to each subscriber residing within the county where printed in whole or part and published, go free through the mails, but the same shall not be delivered at a letter-carrier's office or be distributed by carriers, unless postage is paid thereon as by law required. Newspapers and magazines reciprocally interchanged between publishers, not exceeding fifteen ounces in weight, to be confined to a single copy of each publication, go free through the mails. All mailable matter of the third class may weigh not exceeding four pounds for each package, and postage shall be charged at the rate of one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof. Affidavits are to be made by publishers or news agents to secure their adherence to these provisions, for the violation of which penalties are prescribed.

CHICAGO, June 6.—The new Secretary of Treasury starts with indications of making a radical change in the manner of conducting the business in his department. Assistant Supervising Architect, Mullett, sent up a requisition to be signed by the Secretary, when the latter sent for Mullett and had him explain everything in connection with the matter—to produce plans, estimates, etc. The proceeding, it is said, filled Mullett with wonder, as nothing of this kind had occurred to him before yesterday.

Vanderbilt, the appointment clerk, was interviewed to-day. He was instructed that he would be held responsible—that no one is hereafter on the rolls unless an equivalent in actual labor for which the salary is rendered. This frightened Vanderbilt and he intimated that the responsibility would be a heavy one, which he might not be able to stand up under without assistance, to which Bristol responded, "I will sustain you Mr. Vanderbilt, and I assure you that you will not find any deficiency in my back-bone." An active search is making for those who receive pay without work and they will be discharged promptly. Eighteen went today and many more will follow before ten days have elapsed.

NEW YORK, June 6.—It is rumored that Jay Gould has made an offer for the Erie Railroad by bidding for proxies to control the election of Directors. James D. Potter, ex-Colonel, was committed without bail under an indictment for the diamond robbery. He makes the tenth prisoner in the toms to answer for the great forgeries of New York, Central and Buffalo and Erie R. King selected a suitable camp for his pack train, and started on foot in search of a rancharia, which was found the same night on the crest of a precipitous mesa, about two miles east from Diamond Butte. Next morning an attack was made. Four Indians lay on the ground, and those who escaped the soldier's bullets jumped over bluffs and endeavored to make their way out through a little canyon, where four more were killed. On the 27th another rancharia was discovered, and troops cautiously advanced to surprise it; but their approach was unfortunately detected by the hostile Indians who took flight, leaving one dead man behind in their rancharia.

NEW YORK, June 9.—All attempts to procure an investigation of the charges brought by Congressman Luttrell against the Central Pacific Railroad monopoly, have resulted in failure, although startling facts have been brought to the notice of the Committee; and it is not strange that the belief should extensively prevail on the Pacific Coast that its members have been influenced by arguments more potent even than Credit Mobilier shares, the Central Pacific Credit Mobilier, which is called the contract and finance company, having been a more profitable concern than the other and having fewer members to divide its gains. Under these circumstances, the men who have grabbed not only the Central Pacific but all the railroads and enormous tracts of land in California, while they leave the tax-payers of the whole country to pay interest on their bonds, could well afford to pay handsomely for favorable action by Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—It is thought nothing but the want of time will prevent the Senate from passing the anti-polygamy bill which passed the House. The Senate, it will be remembered, passed at the last Congress, a bill looking to the abolition of polygamy, much severer in its terms than the present House. Those who are therefore most active in favoring the latter are pressing it earnestly upon the Senators. Prospective ones of U. S. officials, real estate combinations, etc., seem to cover the greater part of the interests in this new legislation, more than any zeal against the Mormon religion.

The Committee on Civil Service Reform have adopted a resolution that they do not recommend any appropriation to carry on the experiment as hitherto conducted. Butler, Luttrell, and Whitehouse voted yes; Kellogg and Willard of Vermont voted nay.

ernment is at this time engaged in considering the terms of a treaty by which the commerce between the United States and the British provinces of North America is to be regulated, and by which Congress will be deprived of its constitutional right to control these important subjects, thus specifically awarded to it by the terms of the Constitution. A dozen objections were made and it required unanimous consent to pass the resolution.

CHICAGO, June 5.—A Washington special says when it was represented to Gen. Bristow that very strong pressure was brought to bear to retain Sawyer as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, the General very promptly and decisively remarked: "If Mr. Sawyer does not go, I will not remain. We cannot sail in the same ship." The result was, that after a long struggle, Sawyer has agreed to resign, and will send a formal letter to that effect to-morrow. So the last of the Sanborne crowd has finally withdrawn.

NEW YORK, June 5.—A Cuban letter says the corps commanders of the Spanish forces have quite recently been coming to Havana for the purpose of conferring with the Capt. General. The Committee also voted down a resolution postponing all action in the case, but it is generally believed that future consideration of the question will be postponed until next session.

MADISON, June 5.—In the U. S. Circuit Court yesterday, application was made for an injunction to restrain the Wisconsin Attorney General and the Railroad Commissioners from enforcing the law regulating rates on roads, which was passed at the last session. Attorney General Sloan asked for a delay of argument, which the railroad counsel were ready to concede, providing the authorities would do nothing, till the case was decided, prejudicial to its interests of the defendants. To this the Attorney General declined to agree, preferring an early argument even with a limited time for preparation. The argument will be postponed to some day, probably about a fortnight hence, to be fixed by Judge Drummond to-day.

IMPOSSIBLE.—A rabbi of Pennsylvania says it is impossible to fanaticize an Israelite. He says the latter cannot appreciate these crusades, because he drinks and is no drunkard, plays, and is no gambler, and lives well and is no glutton.

The following story comes from Ireland: Two men had a quarrel in a liquor shop. They adjourned outside to settle the dispute. The first man being from Connaght, immediately seized a lump of stone and let fly at the head of his opponent, who dipped his head and missed the stone, which went through an expensive plate glass window and did much damage. A magistrate was called upon next morning to determine which of the two should pay the cost. The evidence clearly showed that the aim was a good one, and that if the second man had not dipped his head he would have been struck. "Therefore," said the magistrate, "he must pay the damages, as it is certain the first man didn't intend to injure the window, and the window would not have been injured if it had not been for the act of the second man."

A small boy got another boy, somewhat smaller than himself, down on the ground the other day, and got hold of both his ears, placing his knees in the small of the boy's back, and asked him in a very persuasive manner, if he would give him that white alley of his'n. The boy replied in the affirmative. How easy it is to settle things when one goes about it in the right way.

A Paladine relates that foxes are tormented by fleas, and when the infestation becomes unbearable, they gather a mouthful of moss and slowly walk backwards into the nearest stream until only the mouth is left above the surface of the water. The fleas meanwhile take refuge on the little island of moss, and when the fox is satisfied that they have all embarked, he opens his mouth, and the moss drifting away with all its freight, the wily animal regains the bank, evidently satisfied at his freedom from his tormentors.

The insane snobbery of the man who, disregarding the natural claims of his relatives, left all his property to the queen of England, has been imitated by another dunkey, Lionel Levy, proprietor of the Globe theatre, London. He made the Duke of Edinburgh a wedding gift of a solid gold dessert service worth nearly twenty thousand dollars. The Duke, if true to his record, will sell it shortly, pocketing the proceeds.

The ways of washerwomen are often devious and queer, but there is a sameness about them which has made them comparatively uninteresting. Few, ah, few, are the fortunate beings who possess a genius so fresh, original, and gracious as that of the Washerwomen of Cleveland, or the Bold Buccaneer.

Picture to yourself an amiable young man walking on a pleasant afternoon with a charming young lady, and absorbed in agreeable conversation. Then imagine an old woman of forbidding aspect, whom he has never before observed in all his life, approaching that happy man and in clear tones demanding "that dollar and forty cents, he owes her for washing?" Is it any wonder the confused and frightened wretch yields the money up to his despoiler and walks on conscious of a depth of agony 'twere vain to paint.

The Springfield Republican tells the following: "The evangelist, Mrs. Van Cott—seven evangelists must have bonnets, you know—wrote from New Orleans to Mrs. Hull of this city, recently, for a Spring bonnet, which was to catch her at Chicago on her way across the continent (trim it with lace; no flowers or feathers," she said); and told this amusing incident of a prayer offered in her behalf by a colored brother in one of her ardent meetings: "O Lord, Send thy angel to pin the wings on sister Bannock's heels, dat she may fly troo de world preachin' de eberlasting gospel!" And one added: "Lord, give her wings on her shoulders, too, or de preachin' will not have effect, for she'll fly upside down."

A CHILD EATEN UP BY A HOG.—A gentleman who arrived in this city yesterday morning gave us the particulars of a horrible affair that occurred in the northern part of DeKalb county on Monday evening. About five o'clock in the afternoon, Mrs. Jane Stivers, who had resided in that county a number of years, had occasion to pass to the barn in search of some eggs, and left her baby, only about seven months old, playing on the floor of the house. She was absent about twenty minutes, and on returning was horrified at the shocking spectacle presented. The baby lay upon the floor, dead, its right arm and a portion of its right cheek and breast completely eaten off, while a large hog that had been running in the lot for some time was still munching away at the lifeless remains. The mother sprang to the rescue of the child, but too late.—The brute had effectually accomplished his work. Mr. Stivers was away from home at the time, and returned in the evening only to learn the loss he had sustained.

SEATTLE, August 19, 1873. I have been a sufferer for several years from chronic bilious affections from which no medicine tried by me afforded any relief. As an experiment, I tried Mr. Poncin's Egyptian Bitters from the effects of which I have experienced the most gratifying results. I can sincerely recommend it to others similarly afflicted.
