LEONARD W. KIDD, LEWIS B. KIDD, and GRACE E. KIDD, Plaintiffs. vs. CORLISS P. STONE, and CHARLES H. BURNETT, Defendants.

The United States of America send Greeting

To CORLISS P. STONE, one of the above named Defendants.

YOU ARE HEREBY REQUIRED TO APpear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs, in the District Court of the Third Judicial District of the Territory of Washington, holding terms at the City of Seattle, in the County of King, for the counties of King, Kitsap and Snohomish, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within twenty days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within the said County of King; or if served out of that County, but in this District, within thirty days, otherwise within sixty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of the complaint.

The said action is brought to recover judgment against you for the possession of the following described real estate in the city of Seattle in said King County, to-wit: Block numbered Fifty three (53), as designated on D. S. Maynard's plat of the Town (now City) of Seattle, and for $2,100 damages and costs of suit. And you are further notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiffs will take judgment against you as confessed, and apply to the Court for restitution of said real estate and for an assessment of said damages, for judgment for the same and for costs and disbursements of this suit,

In the District Court of the Third Judicial District of the Territory of Washington, holding terms at the City of Seattle, in and for the Counties of King, Kitsap and Snohomish.

Franklin Matthias and Erasmus M. Smithers, Executors of the Estate of Charles C. Terry, Deceased, vs. Plaintiffs, Alexander S. Bailey, Defendant.

Complaint filed in the County of King, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court

The United States of America send Greeting

To ALEXANDER S. BAILEY, Defendant.

YOU ARE HEREBY REQUIRED TO APpear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiffs, in the District Court of the Third Judicial District of the Territory of Washington, holding terms at the City of Seattle, in the County of King, for the counties of King, Kitsap and Snohomish and to answer the complaint filed therein, within twenty days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within said County of King; or if served out of that County, but in this District, within thirty days otherwise within sixty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of the complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court for the foreclosure of a certain mortgage described in said complaint, and executed by the said Alexander S. Bailey, on the 14th day of March, 1873, on Lots 5 and 8, block No. 70 in Terry's first addition to Seattle, in King County, Washington Territory, to secure the payment of a certain promissory note, dated Seattle, King County, W. T. March, 13th, 1873, made by the said Alexander S. Bailey, for the sum of three hundred dollars, payable in gold coin of the United States, twelve months after the date thereof, to the order of James R. Robbins, with interest thereon at the rate of one per cent. per month; that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold and the proceeds applied to the payment of said promissory note, with interest thereon, at the rate aforesaid, and costs of suit, with Attorney's fees stated in said mortgage, and in case such proceeds are insufficient to pay the same, then to obtain an execution against said Alexander S. Bailey for the balance remaining due, and also that the said Alexander S. Bailey, and all persons claiming by, through, or under him may be barred and foreclosed of all rights, title, lien, equity of redemption and interest in the said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief.

And you are hereby notified, that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will take decree against you according to the prayer of said complaint.

SEAL. Witness the Hon. J. R. Lewis, Judge of said Court, and the seal thereof this 13th day of October, A. D. 1875.

FROM DAILY OF FRIDAY

ANOTHER BURGLARY.—On Wednesday evening about half past 8 o'clock, the soda factory of Mr. John Anderson was entered by a burglar, who had made up a bundle of tools and was preparing to leave, when the proprietor returned. Mr. Anderson, on perceiving the situation, gathered a piece of plank and made for the burglar. After wearing out the plank on the intruder's head, Mr. Anderson closed in, with him just as he was going through the back door, and they clinched and fell from the platform to the ground together, a distance of ten feet. The burglar then gave in and was turned over to an officer. He proved to be a Northern Indian and gave the name of John. He was examined on Thursday morning before Justice Scott and ordered to give bonds in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance at the next term of the District Court, in default of which he was committed to jail.

THE SALVADOR.—We learn from Mr. Freeman, agent of the Company, that the steamship Salvador has arrived in Victoria and will be here about 7 o'clock this evening. She had 300 tons of freight for Victoria and a large amount for this place. She has, in addition to her large Victoria and Sound passenger list, 40 for Portland, and the steamship will go on to Tacoma tonight to make connection with the five o'clock train for Portland. Since the establishment of this line to the Sound, quite a large share of the passenger carrying between Portland and San Francisco is done by way of the Sound.

PETIT LARCENY.—There were two trials for petit larceny before Justice Scott yesterday.—The first was that of a man named Robinson, charged with stealing an overcoat at the Seattle coal mine. The charge was not sustained and he was discharged. The second was that of John Seattle, an Indian, charged with stealing a box of mittens from the store of Schwabacher Bros. & Co. and a pair of gloves from Bean & White. He was fined $10 and costs.

THANKSGIVING.—Thanksgiving Day was observed in some degree throughout the city. Services were held in a number of the Churches, the publication of the two daily newspapers was suspended and a few of the business houses were closed.

NEW BUILDING.—The lot adjoining John Anderson's soda factory is being graded for a store building which Mr. Yesler intends putting up there. The building is to be 20x40 and is to be occupied by the grocery store of Chilberg Bros., now in the room adjoining Piper's.

COMMENCED LOADING.—The bark Windward has commenced loading with lumber from Colman's mill. She will take about 400,000 feet.

TO BE MOVED—The Post Office will be moved to-morrow to the building formerly occupied by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express office, on Mill st., just this side of Colman's mill.

REBUILDING.—Patrick Cull has the lumber hauled and has commenced rebuilding his house, blown over in the recent gale.

Magic Liquid Arnica Plaster cures instantly all cuts, burns, boils, bruises, etc. For sale at the barber shop, next door to the Fashion Saloon.

[FROM DAILY OF SATURDAY.]

NO FIRE ENGINE.—Mr. George Hall, one of the City Fathers, returned from San Francisco on the Salvador last evening. He was given instructions by the City Council of this city to buy a fire engine but failed to find a suitable one in San Francisco. It will probably be necessary to send east for one.

GRAIN.—The schooner Winged Racer arrived here last night, loaded with grain from La Conner.

Rev. James Hall will preach in the Baptist Church to-morrow at 11 o'clock. At 7, P. M. preaching by the pastor.

BALL.—The Sing Verein Germania will give a grand anniversary ball on New Year's Eve.

CIVIL SUIT.—The following suit was tried yesterday before Justice Scott. Murfin and Hansen vs. Wm. Jensen, for $30 for work and services rendered.—Judgment for plaintiffs for $15 and costs.

The steamer Otter has finished repairing and gone off Hammond's ways.

CENSUS OF SCHOOL CHILDREN.—The City Assessor is taking the census of school children, which includes all between the ages of 4 and 21. The census has already been taken south of Mill St. and it shows 204 children in that section of town.

NEW SAFE.—A large Hall safe for the S. C. & T. Co. came up on the bark J. B. Bell, and was landed on the wharf this morning.

SAILED.—The schooner Ocean Pearl, loaded with Renton coal, sailed this morning.

RETURNED.—Mr. W. G. Jamieson, the jeweller, returned to this city last evening on the Salvador. He has been below, purchasing his Christmas stock of goods.

EPISCOPAL.—Divine Services in Trinity Church to-morrow at the usual hours, morning and afternoon.

BROWN BREAD.—Hot Boston Brown Bread at the Eureka Bakery every Sunday morning. Leave your orders on Saturday for delivery.

* WM. MEYDENBAUER.

DIED.—In this city, on Wednesday, the 24 inst., of pulmonary consumption, John Brown, a sailor, aged about 30.

IN TOWN.—His Excellency, Gov. E. P. Ferry, accompanied by his wife, is in town on a brief visit.

ARRIVAL OF THE S. S. SALVADOR.—The steamship Salvador arrived at this port last evening, about 8 o'clock, and between two and three o'clock this morning proceeded up the Sound for Tacoma and Steilacoom. She will be back to-day and sail from here for Victoria, en route for San Francisco on Monday night next. The following is her list of passengers and freight for this place: Passengers—Mrs. Pitchford, Geo Finn, Mrs. M. Wade and two children, Mary Turner, Mrs Avery and infant, J. Bradshaw, Mary Bradshaw, J. Avery, A. H. Kellogg, G. W. Hall, W. G. Jamieson, H. Harris, Jos. Wilson, J. E Voice and wf, Geo. Voice, J. N. Turner, L. F. Thompson and wf, F. Allen, T. G. Lowe, Capt. RELICS.—A gold ring and memorandum book were placed in the hands of Mr. Todd, Superintendent of Provincial Police, last night, which most probably belonged to Mr. Gold Commissioner Sullivan. The ring was a signet ring which appeared to have had the crest or design filed off it, and the book contained memoranda, the handwriting of which was said to be Mr. Sullivan's, and apparently relating to his last unfortunate voyage, to the effect that Cape Flattery light was sighted at 4, P. M., etc., on the 4th inst. These relics were found at Beechy Bay.

If the rudder found at Bentinck Island proves to be the Pacific's, the evidence is conclusive that the steamship was split from stem to stern. If the hull had remained intact the rudder could not have broken away in the manner it seems to have done.

THE LUCKY MAN.—Mr. S. A. Spencer, the photographer on Fort Street is the holder of the winning ticket No. 347 at the Mechanics' Institute and is now therefore the owner of the celebrated two acres of land.

NEIL HENLEY.—This young Scot, the only survivor of the crew of the steamship Pacific, was again before the coroner's jury yesterday. His feet are still so sore that he can walk only with the greatest difficulty and pain. He is receiving the kindest attention from the authorities.

Mr. D. N. Allen, of the firm of Crane, Hastings & Co., arrived from San Francisco by the Salvador to take charge of the remains of Mr. Hastings, who was lost on the Pacific.

A telegram received from Mr Robson, Paymaster of the Railway forces, states that he has arrived at Cache Creek after a hard trip from Kamloops, the cold being intense.

THE SURVIVING PASSENGER.—Mr. S. A. Spencer has presented us with cartes de visite of Jelly, the surviving passenger of the Pacific capitally done. Mr. Shakespeare has presented us with a cabinet likeness of Jelly with a rustic frame. Mr. Shakespeare has also sent a copy to the Canadian Illustrated News for publication.

The frost five days ago at Cache Creek was 30 degrees belw zero.

SEARCHING INQUIRY.—It is reported that a searching inquiry will be made at San Francisco into the causes that led to the sinking of the Pacific.

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE.—George Byrne, Esq., of Cariboo, has been made an official assignee for British Columbia. George will not wax fat on the fees.

HE DIDN'T WANT CANDY.—During a rain storm last week, a little boy rushed into the room where his mother was sitting, and asked:

"Mamma, may I go to the store? I want to buy something."

"No, Tommy;" said his mother, tenderly; "if you should go to the store in this rain to buy five cents' worth of candy, you'd take cold and die."

The boy looked at his mother in amazement for some time, then brightening up, he squealed:

"Yes; but I don't want to buy five cents' worth of candy. I only want to get a penny pickle."

THE DOWNFALL OF TWEED.—The New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, speaking of Tweed and his faithful wife, says: They were married when the man was a chairmaker, and they might have had a happy career had the former remained honest. They lived in a plain manner, mingled with mechanics' society, and were the parents of two boys and two girls, good looking and healthy children. The era of meritricious splendor has come and gone like a dream. The girls are married. Each had a diamond wedding and each has sunk into obscurity and poverty. The two sons once held fine appointments in the service of the ring, but they are now only lounging around the City Hall. The mother is in a widow's desolation. The ill-gotten wealth is almost all gone. A million and a half has passed into the hands of her lawyers, and husband is still a prisoner. A seedy and corpulent old man inhabiting a pair of rooms in Ludlow street jail is all that is left of one who has been alderman, congressman, chairmaker and lawyer, commissioner of parks, public buildings and docks, state senator, and for seven years the autocrat of this city. The only redeeming feature is the faithful wife, who is reducing herself to poverty in hope of obtaining her husband's release.

The sole survivor of the Pacific steamship disaster was less than a year ago a resident of London, Ont., and was engaged in the Pacific Railway Survey. His companion named Fraser, who was drowned, was also a resident of London, and engaged on the Survey.—Toronto Globe.

MESSAGES FROM THE SEA.—The message the late S. P. Moody wrote on a piece of wreck as the Pacific went down to apprise his friends of his sad fate recalls to mind instances of messages written under similar circumstances that have reached the shore and been forwarded to friends for whom they were intended. When the Brother Jonathan struck a reef below Portland, te years ago, one of the passengers was a Scotch gentleman named Nesbit, editor of the San Francisco Bulletin, who was on his way to Victoria to dispose of some real estate. A week or so after the disaster the body was discovered floating with a life-belt on it, and in his pocket was found his will written in pencil on the leaf of a memorandum book. He had time to write that he was face to face with death on the steamer which was sinking. Some two years ago a steamship sailed from Montreal for the maritime provinces. She was missed and her fate was involved in uncertainty until panels of her cabin doors were picked up on which was scrawled a message signed by passengers on board that the ship was on fire and that no hope was entertained of any of her people escaping. Charred portions of the wreck were afterwards found and bore out this message. Several years ago a steamship bound from Liverpool to Montreal disappeared. Portions of her upperworks were picked up off Cape Sable, and among other articles a sheet of music was found on which was written these words, "Lizzie dies to-night." Lizzie was the Christian name of a young lady known to be a passenger on the steamship and the handwriting was that of a male passenger who was devotedly attached to her. Some bard, commemorating the sad event, composed the at one time popular ballad, "Lizzie dies to-night," from this incident.

Seattle, W. T., Dec. 2, 1875.

Telegraphic

KALAMA, Nov. 27.—Last night about 11 o'clock, the steamer Gussie Telfair was steaming down the river on her way to Victoria, when she struck on a rock at Waterford, about 40 miles below here. She stove several holes in her bottom and is now beached on the Washington Territory side, with about ten feet of water in her forward compartments. She had on board 125 tons of freight and a small lot of passengers. The passengers and 50 tons of freight were transferred to the steamer Emma Hayward this morning and taken to Portland. The rest of the freight is a total loss.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The six story brick building, 19 Nassau street, was destroyed by fire this afternoon.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 25.—The extensive strike among the knitting mill operatives at Amsterdam, N.Y., has ended, they having submitted to the reduced wages.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—This morning a coal oil or fluid lamp exploded in the bedroom of Mrs. Charlotte Chew, of Camden, N. J. The lamp was sitting on the mantel, when it burst, throwing the fluid over the carpet which immediately ignited. Laura Chew, aged 18, sprang out of bed and rushed to the door to call for help, when her nightclothes took fire. She then opened the window, from which she either jumped or fell, and was injured so badly that she died in a few minutes. The clothes of the mother also took fire, and before they could be extinguished she, too, was so dreadfully burned that she expired to-day. Wm. Chew, son of the deceased, was also severely burned.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—A drunken gambler named Davis this afternoon shot and killed instantly Chas. D. Whitestone, proprietor of the St. Elmo Restaurant. Davis was arrested.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—There was a run on the People's Savings bank, Third Avenue, this morning, and the officers closed the doors, taking advantage of the 60 days' notice. As this bank was affected by the run on the Third Avenue savings bank a short time ago, there was also a slight run on the Security Savings bank.

The Manufacturers' and Builder's Bank, at Third avenue and Fifty-seventh streets, suspended this morning. The excitement in the vicinity among depositors is intense.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26.—Daniel Halleran, a switchman at this point for the short line of railway, was run over and killed by a passing train.

DETROIT, Nov. 26.—Christopher Lang working in a lumber camp at Kulkosa, was killed by a falling tree yesterday. He was unmarried and his parents live in Canada.

Aug Sieste, a boy, was killed from a similar cause at a camp near Clam lake.

A farmer named Nellis, residing at the town of Aurelies, near Eaton rapids, was thrown from his wagon yesterday ana killed.

CIMMARON, N. M., Nov 26.—The Indian situation here is still serious. The government has demanded the delivery to the authorities of the Indians engaged in the shooting at the agency. Thus far the Indians have failed to comply. Rations have been stopped at the agency. Capt. McCleves' company of the 8th cavalry is here and citizens are arming in anticipation of further outbreaks. Capt. Allison's company of volunteers, and from 200 to 300 other citizens will take the field in case of further hostilities. The Apaches are camped in the mountains, to the number of 250 warriors, and expect reinforcements from the Utes. Their women and children are being sent away. The interior department sends orders to the agent to turn over the control of the Indians to the military. The citizens, with few exceptions, are urging the removal of the Indians to reservations to prevent further depredations.

CHEYENNE, Nov. 26.—Col. Stanton arrived from the agencies last night and reports extreme cold north, and that the escort suffered considerably. Captain Pollock's command have evacuated the Black Hills and have arrived at Fort Laramie to go into winter quarters, and hundreds of miners were met going into the hills, which are now unoccupied by troops. California Joe, after being released on charges for murder of old man Richards and nephew, was arrested at Red Cloud for attempt to murder his partner, and placed in the guard-house at Camp Robinson. He escaped the same night, notwithstanding a number of shots were fired by the guards, and is now at large. A number of persons have been arrested for selling whiskey at agencies and are coming to Cheyenne under guard for trial. J. S. Hastings, newly appointed agent of the Sioux, arrived here to-day en route to Red Cloud agency.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—There is little doubt the President has determined to remove Gov. Dunn of Arizona on account of the position assumed by the latter in public speeches on the common school fund. Dunn's advocacy of allotment to Catholics of a share of the fund for their own control, puts him in opposition to Grant's Iowa speech.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Ex-member of Congress Richard Ferrncho, who has been the Central Pacific's principal representative before Congress, died yesterday.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 25.—It is stated on good authority that a ring of speculators has been systematically defrauding the Pottawattamie Indians, who until recently occupied a reservation near Topeka, Ks. The principal charges are that certain members of the tribe living in Indian Territory were represented as being dead, and their estates were administered upon and the proceeds pocketed by the ring. The amount realized by the scheme is estimated at $20,000.

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—Royal, Gilkey & Co., extensive coal and lumber dealers, of Watertown, Mass., failed to-day; liabilities estimated at $250,000. The failure was caused by inability to collect from a large number of master builders and carpenters indebted to them.

Thanksgiving was observed in this and in all the other New England cities by a complete suspension of business. The observance of the day is more general than usual.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 25.—To-day a lunatic named Hile, at the county hospital, killed a woman named Beatty, who went into the room to clean it. He choked her until insensible and then drove the small end of a broomstick into her brain.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The veterans of 1812 met to-day to celebrate the British evacuation of New York.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 24.—The apiarists' convention last night was well attended and a resolution and memorial to the legislature was adopted, asking that the trespass law be amended so as to include land not under cultivation as well as that cultivated; to exempt a certain amount of bee-keepers' stock and utensils from execution, and to protect certain honey shrubs and flowers from destruction.

Rain commenced at 7 o'clock this morning and has continued gently ever since. It is everything for this country. Probably an inch of rain has fallen, and it is still raining.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—It commenced raining at 5 o'clock this morning, and at 2 o'clock P. M. was raining hard and steady. The storm extends to San Diego south and east to San Bernardino and Colorado Desert, and is general throughout Southern California.

Yesterday, a young man, Rudolph Brown, attempted to blow through the barrel of a pistol that he supposed was unloaded. It was discharged and blew that top of his head off.

Jonathan, the driver of Gold Note, for very disrespectful language to the judges, yesterday, was fined $50 and pulled off the track for one year.

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—A fire occurred this morning in the flouring mill of A. Fisher Desplains. Loss $20,000; insured.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The weekly sale of government gold postponed till Fryday, because of the usual Thursday being Thanksgiving, has been postponed till Saturday owing to the funeral of Vice President Wilson on Friday.

MONROE, Mich., Nov. 24.—A daring and successful burglary was committed on the First National Bank of this city early this morning. The watchman was bound and gagged. The outer doors of the safe were blown off and an entrance obtained to the inside of the safe by prying open the inner door with wedges. Between $17,000 and $18,000 were obtained. Five or six men participated in the robbery, some of whom remained outside on guard and adjoining. The office was entered by some of the party and the inmates kept quiet by having pistols held to their heads. The explosion was very heavy, bursting out windows and making a complete wreck of the rooms. No arrests.

MADRID, Nov. 30.—Mr. Cushing will to-morrow present to the minister for foreign affairs a telegram from his government, replying to the last Spanish note. The tenor of the American dispatch is considered very satisfactory and dissipates the recent apprehensions.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Gold closed at 15⅛ @ ¼. Gold is higher by reason of the rumors of war with Spain.

It is reported that the Government used the cable wires for some hours this forenoon in the transmission of dispatches between Secretary Fish and Mr. Cushing at Madrid. A rumor is current that Spain has remonstrated against the United States permitting the sale of Cuban bonds in this country, claiming that their issue are in violation of treaty obligations.

Orders have been received at the Brooklyn Navy Yard to place ten more monitors into commission, and the various naval rendezvous throughout the country have been instructed to enlist available men of all grades.

PORTSMOUTH, Nov. 30.—The activity in the Navy Yard requires extra force to to be taken on to-morrow. The U. S. steamer Marion goes into commission in a few days.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Chas. O'Conor is lying dangerously ill at his residence at Fort Washington. Prayers for his speedy recovery or happy death, were offered in Catholic churches yesterday.

Later.—Chas. O'Conor, the distinguished lawyer, died this morning at his late residence. The several courts adjourned, as a tribute of respect to his high character.

Still Later.—A dispatch from Fort Washington denies the report that Chas. O'Conor is dead, and says he is improving.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Secretary of the Treasury is still engaged on his report and it will not be printed until Friday, when it will be sent to the principal cities for distribution to the press on the day of its transmission to Congress. All bureau reports have been printed, with one or two exceptions. As to the reports of heads of departments, it is known that the Postmaster General and the Secretary of the Navy have had theirs printed. The President has not yet finished his message. Some portions or all of it will be read to the Cabinet next Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—The appointment of commissioner of Indian affairs in place of Smith has been tendered to Edward S. Toby, of Boston. Toby is here to-night at the request of the President and Secretary of the Interior. There is every reason to believe Toby will accept and be appointed on Monday. The vacancies caused by removals to-day in the Indian bureau will be filled after consultation with the new commissioner.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A special to the Daily Telegraph from Paris states that in the Spanish reply to the Washington government nothing is conceded to the United States except that the accused may invoke the aid of counsel before a court-martial in Cuba. Telegrams from Madrid to the same paper say, so far as can be learned, Spain promises reform in the matter of confiscation of property but declines to adhere to the treaty of 1755.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—A Washington special says the Secretary of the Navy still continues his mysterious operations. The Nantucket, the last of the ironclads that is finished and available, was ordered into commission. The complete list of available ironclads will now be ready for the most efficient service in a few days. It is said orders have been sent to Lisbon directing the entire Mediterranean squadron to return home. The entire torpedo corps is also actively engaged in preparing torpedoes. The operations are conducted with the strictest secresy. Orders have been issued in the navy department to permit no information of the movements of the ironclads to be made public. All those vessels that are on the Atlantic Coast, north of New Orleans have been ordered to rendezvous at Norfolk.

RAGUSA, Nov. 28.—It is stated that with a view to prevent Austrian intervention, Montenegro has proposed to Servia an offensive and defensive alliance in favor of Herzegovina. If accepted, both will take joint action in April.

Reminiscences of Two Months in Japan.

BY ONE JOHN VICHERY.

NO. II.

Taking a sampan at the Hataba we were sculled by a venerable father and stalwart son, through the canal that cuts through the headland that divides Yokohama from Mississippi Bay (so named by Commodore Perry). Gliding past the market, through the suburbs of the city, by the rice fields past farm houses that were universally in need of paint, we at length passed the breakwater and were out upon the bay which we had to cross in order to reach Goldboro's Inlet, upon which Kanasagawa, the point of departure for "Kama Kura," the ancient capital of Japan, is situated. Having crossed the beautiful bay with its myriads of white sails and oarsmen, we dismissed our coolies and walked into the native hotel and after taking off our shoes we were shown to a large room in the second story; here ordering some refreshments which were served a la European, we departed for Kama Kura. As we passed each house or hamlet the children rushed out saluting us with the Japanese salutation, "Ohio!" which means, "it is early." and which from its similarity of sound to one of our States, is highly pleasing it is said, to people of the Buck-eye State.

Night had fully set in before we reached the vicinity of Daiboots and as the starry expanse of heaven twinkled with its innumerable stars that seemed to keep time in a rythmical sort of way to the bubbling of the water as it fell from one grade to another through the rice fields, we could not help partaking of the spirit of the silent placid beauty that stretched around us, wherein moss-covered monuments of the departed dead rose like ghostly sentinels from out the rice and cotton fields. And as cross Cynthia showed only half her face over the hill at our back, her anger melted into soft rays that shone in a mellow light the images ennotched in the cliff which we were rounding.

At last we reached the summit of the range that stood between our point of departure and Kama Kura; a deep cut, in which we passed several belated pack horses with their drivers, showed that these people had made considerable progress in engineering. Down the mountain side we went out on the plain again and after taking a moonlight view of the Temple of Hatchiman Sama, we proceeded on our way leaving the top heavy building behind us. As we rounded another bold cliff long lines of Japanese lanterns gave briliancy to the scene and as we advanced we could hear a murmur of many voices which my interpreting friend afterwards told me were thanksgiving and invocations to the Goddess of Mercy, "Arimada Sama." Passing through the throng we entered the village which once was a city containing over one million souls, and put up at a hotel kept by natives in native style.

Again obeying the custom of undressing the feet, we passed many people sitting upon mats and making their chopsticks fly in a way that would make a Yankee envious even in a R. R. eating house. Up stairs we went and were shown into a room whose walls consisted merely of paper, partitioning one room from another, but which were scrupulously clean. Ordering supper and some native wine we were quickly served by a rather good-looking maid. While awaiting the result of our order, we were served with "tit bit" pastry and with some "sack-ee," also a bowl containing some ashes and live coals together with pipes. After which, giving us time for a smoke, the courses began with fish, not cooked enough for our taste, then eggs, chicken, sweet potatoes, rice and tea. No bread was served us, nor butter, but as the tea was remarkably fine and the eggs, though small, were duly seasoned with rock salt, we made a good meal, rendered awkward by lack of experience in using the "chop sticks," which were pencil-shaped and used by pressing or holding our food between the ends. The guests meanwhile peeping through the partitions and giggling at our frantic efforts to eat gracefully. While eating supper the governor of the place sent a constable to obtain our names and residence that we might be under police protection, we being the first "white men" that had ever spent a night in the place.

Supper being over, we took a short walk through the town and as there were many pilgrims in the place who had never seen a Caucasian before, we were the "observed of all observers," especially my friend, an Englishman, six feet, two inches in height in his stocking feet, making him a giant among them. Going back to the hotel my friend asked us if we wished a bath and shampoo; answering in the affirmative, he gave the order and hearing a long, low and somewhat sad whistle which we had heard both by day and by night in Yokohama, and which though it had excited our curiosity, we had failed to enquire the reason of, he went into the street and brought in a blind man whom he said was to do the shampooing. The bath being ready we went down stairs and were shown into a room, whose wet floor showed it be in constant use.

Taking off our gown we discovered that there was no door to the room. However, as nobody was in sight we started to get into the bath and with astonishing dexterity got out of it again; in fact it was but a few degrees lower than the boiling point. Pouring in a pail full of cold water that stood near we again essayed the bath, with like results; shouting for more water we were disconcerted by the appearance of our maid while we were in a state of nature. She, however, took no notice of us but began throwing cold water in the bath in which we in our extremity had plunged, and were nearly boiling in; she had to pour and pour the water in before we could assure ourselves we would not boil; there we were, both in mental and physical pain, but at length we could bear it and finishing our bath we donned our gown and returned to our room. Then the "blind man'" took us in charge. Commencing with our feet he knuckled us all over, prying between every muscle and tendon in our limbs and back and which after he was through made us feel as limber as an acrobat.

Having once more put on our long gown our beds were made by putting a couple of thick blankets on the floor and a couple of coverlids; fixing up our mosquito net, they then retired after leaving us a bountiful supply of sack-ee, their distillation from rice and which they use with as much matter of course, as the French do their claret. Thus was our evening spent at Kama Kura, the favorite residence of their Gods, and we fell asleep nursing the thoughts that told of the sights of the morrow.

The sun arose unclouded on the following morning and after a breakfast served on the floor somewhat similar in quality to the supper of the evening before, we paid our bill which amounted to one dollar and seventy-five cents; this for both of us, including our wine. Having remarked to our friend the cheapness of our entertainment he replied that he had paid them a little extra to encourage similar treatment to other foreigners, and that that was the reason our bill amounted to one dollar and three quarters, else, he said, it would have been a little less.

Strolling out into the street, a few hundred yards brought us to a dell in the mountain side, which contains the enclosure in which we could see the sacred image looming up. Arriving at the entrance there, in the early morn we stood by the shrubbery gazing upon an "Ideal" of "contemplation" that is the very acme of human representation, an esthetic triumph that would grace the sacred temples of Rome or Greece.

In a sitting posture, with the head slightly bowed, with broad, expansive brow, and eyes buried in themselves, a mantle falling gracefully from its shoulders, with hand in hand, and thumbs apeak, resting easily in the lap of its mantle, with knees at their antipodes, and feet gathered beneath the folds together, the whole resting so majestically on a pedestal in the shape of a "lotus leaf," that a peaceful calm stole out of the enclosure and we for the moment felt wafted over us the inspiration that guided the powerful, brilliant and delicate soul that conceived this idea of infinite rest.

'Twas power that conceived it in its grand proportions, brilliancy that saw so far, that every feature bore tribute to the contemplative whole; delicacy, that seemed to fill the very air with a realization of the all but holy, and at least extreme poetical conception. Forty-four feet in height from its pedestal, forty-four feet in stretch from knee to knee, eleven inches around its wrists and five and a fraction inches around the thumbs; its immense body in such mathematical proportion that by its very symmetry it lost all heaviness of appearance, and seemed fairly light and airy in the morning air; thus appeared bronze Daibuts or Daiboots on the morning of the 28—9—'75.

The Idol as some persist in calling it, is not prayed to, or invoked as a God itself, but is merely supposed to convey an idea of the utter joy and serenity of the Divine Essence. For the Budhist priest declared that God has not a person or "figure" within our conception, but is a Divine Essence, and that this Essence is "contemplative," both in prospective and retrospective, continually evolving the ideas upon which the universe acts, or dreaming of the intricate past.

The priest kindly introduced us into the body of the Image in which candles are kept perpetually burning; ascending a ladder we entered its head and we were astonished at the fact that we could stand upright therein; and after after gazing about we at length satisfied ourselves in regard to it's mechanical workmanship and declared it to be accurately and cunningly done.

We however forgot to mention that within the shrubbery we had to pass an arch, in the sides of which, protected by bars, were a couple of wooden image of demons, which were plastered completely with paper wads. Our curiosity being aroused at such school boy play, we asked the reason of such ugly monsters and were told that they were representatives of the imps of the polytheistic religion and that the disciples of Budha threw the wads at them to show their contempt for any other than the one true God; and to show others that Satan does not exist, or if so that he is powerless to avenge insults in the presence of a shrine dedicated to Budha. Which to say the least is novel if not absolutely absurd but which only goes to show how many innovations will creep in any religion, not excepting, alas! the Christian faith also.

With these to be reminisences we left Daibutz, the greatest monument of the most popular religion in Japan.

* These blind shampooers are said to be made blind in their childhood that they may follow their avocation any where without disturbing the sensibilities of any one.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN SCANDAL.—Another addition is now made to the list of Royal scandals. The Russian Prince, recently imprisoned for stealing diamonds for his mistress, has become the subject of an "expose" at Peris. While he is still in prison his mistress, a very handsome American lady, has published his letters in full; and now all Paris is rushing to see what a Prince, madly in love with a danghter of the Republic, will say in amatory confidence. His love is certainly wild. He is jealous, and he is also political. The Russian Court is so much hurt that it has demanded that the woman shall be sent out of France. This is to be done; the book itself has been seized and prohibited; it is, consequently, selling at tremendous prices and in large numbers. More than that Paris is proud of its Prince's mistress. Her rooms are crowded. Her admirers are legion. She is one of the heroines of the hour. Do not let any Englishman put himself on the high stilts of indignation at this announcement. It is not so many years ago that the English court did homage to Madame de Querouailles. Bishops could speak of a married King as "religious" who brought his German female friends in his train; and that King's son's highest and most affecting declaration of fidelity to his dying wife was that he would not marry her again." Non, non! j'an rais une maitresse!" Still, we do hope we have passed those days in England.

'Tis the mission of Hope to hold forth the germ of many a fair yet fragile flower. But they blossom forth or wither away, as God may decree it, in close proximity to the thorns of bitter disappointment.

"TURN ABOUT."—George—"I say, Tom, do take care! You nearly shot my father, then!" Tom—"Sh! don't say anything, there's a good fellow! Take a shot at mine!"—Punch.

COMMERCIAL ST., BETWEEN MAIN AND JACKSON,

SEATTLE, W. T.

TO MEET THE PRESSING WANTS OF many person on Puget Sound needing Medical and Surgical aid, and for comfortable rooms, good care and Moderate Prices, I have fitted up a Hospital, where every convenience and comfort will be provided in connection with experienced and skillful Medical and Surgical attendance.

We aim to make this a permanent Institution, and to give special attention to cases of fracture and injuries of all kinds that are constantly occurring in the saw mills, coal mines and logging camps surrounding us.

Seattle being centrally located, with regard to these interests, and more accessible than any other point, we mean with the aid of these advantages, and by giving personal and thorough attention to its entire management, to build up an Institution indispensable to the sick and disabled who have no homes, and worthy of their confidence and that of the public.

The Hospital is in a pleasant and healthy location, the rooms neatly and cheerfully furnished.

In Memoriam.

At a regular communication of St. John's Lodge No. 9, A. F. and A. M., held at their Hall in Seattle, W. T., on the 27th day of November, 1875, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, On the 4th of November, 1875, by the wreck of the steamship Pacific, its devoted Commander, Brother Jefferson D. Howell, lost his life at his post of duty; therefore,

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Howell this Lodge has lost one of its most valued and beloved members, his relatives a loyal Brother, an affectionate son and a faithful friend, the community a citizen of great public usefulness.

Resolved, That the members of this Lodge unanimously bear testimony to the high moral character of our departed Brother, his fidelity to every public and private trust and obligation, his purity of life and abstinence from every vicious practice and degrading indulgence.

Resolved, That Brother Howell, in his death as in his life, illustrated the most cherished tenet of our order: "duty whereever found is the first announced law for man forever;" and while we hold his memory in affectionate remembrance, we will all endeavor to emulate his noble example.

Resolved, That these resolutions be recorded upon the journal of this Lodge, and that the Lodge be draped in mourning for thirty days, and a copy thereof be transmitted to such of the relatives of Brother Howell as may be known to any Brother here, and published in the city papers of Seattle.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.—An old Frenchman, known as "French Peter," who lived a solitary, hermit life on Hat Island, opposite Mukelteo, has turned up among the missing. He had promised to bring a boat load of apples over to Mukelteo a week or so since, but failed to keep his engagement. Supposing the old man was sick, as he did not appear for a week, some men went over to his place in a boat and found his house open and deserted and no traces of him. They returned to Mukelteo and got a number of men to try and hunt him up, but they had not succeeded in finding him when the Fanny Lake left last Friday. Some suspicions of foul play are entertained, but the general impression is that he went out after his stock on the night of the big blow and was killed by the falling timber.

LOADED.—The bark Aureola, loaded with 1,100 tons of Seattle coal, has hauled out from the wharf and made way for the bark Montana.

CHANGE OF STEAMERS. — The steamship City of Panama will take the place of the Dakota on the route between here and San Francisco. Though not so large as the Dakota, she is elegantly fitted up and it is expected will be a favorite.

BALL.—There will be a grand ball given by the Seattle string band, on Christmas Eve, at Yesler's Hall.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—A farmer from up the river, whose name we did not learn, on Sunday morning, reported at his hotel that he had been stopped on the street, the previous night, by two men, who choked him and robbed him of $45. He left for his home without putting the matter in the hands of the proper authorities.

☞ The steamship Salvador will sail for San Francisco at 10 o'clock to-night.

☞ The schooner Juanita, loaded with grain, arrived here to-day.

From Daily of Tuesday.

PASSENGER LIST.—The following is the list of passengers on the Los Angeles, which left San Francisco yesterday for Victoria and Sound ports:

R. K. Bonney and wife, Jno. O. Hard, Geo. H. Barber, Thos. Keegan, Mrs. P. Rutherford and 3 children, S. Tarter, P. Greenleaf, C. Shingler, J. C. King and 20 in the steerage.

Tacoma—Vic Agner, G. Walker, A. Osborne, E. Meeker, W. Boatman, W. Case, A. Hardie, C. A. Cancross and 10 steerage.

Victoria — 17 cabin and 30 steerage.

Total—38 cabin and 60 steerage.

MURDER.—We have received the following letter from Squire Frost of Mukelteo, which explains the disappearance of the old Frenchman living on Hat, or Gedney, Island, which we spoke of yesterday:

MUKELTEO, Nov. 28.

EDITOR DISPATCH: — A most brutal and fiendish murder has been committed on Gedney Island, lying between here and Tulalip. John Ross and friend called here on Friday morning last about 10, A. M., and informed us that something was wrong at Peter Goutrie's, as the house was open and no one to be found. A boat was dispatched with three men, viz.: Robt. Niles, H. C. Vining and Robert Wigging. On landing they were met by the dog, which was opposed to their coming any further. They pelted him and he soon went away. The house was found broken open and the lock lying on the ground. Nothing appeared to have been disturbed in the house. Mr. Vining went a few rods west of the house and stepped upon a drift log, from which he discovered the remains of Peter Goutrie, lying on some old drift-wood, guarded by his faithful dog. On their return they reported the discovery of the body, horribly mutilated.—Yesterday morning I summoned a jury and proceeded to the residence of the deceased for the purpose of holding an inquest. I found Mr. Goutrie lying on his back, with a heavy charge of buckshot in his breast and neck, and the right side of his head was blown entirely away so that the brains had fallen out, a most horrible sight to look upon. The verdict of the jury was that the deceased came to his death by gunshot wounds in the hands of some person or persons unknown The remains were buried as decently as circumstances would admit of. Appearances indicate that he was murdered about two weeks ago or previous to the late heavy storm. There is no clue to the murderers as yet. Mr. Goutrie was about 72 years old and highly respected by his neighbors. M. H. FROST.

LOSS OF THE BARK FLORENCE.

BY TELEGRAPH.

PORTLAND, Ogn., Nov. 29.—The Oregonian received the following particulars, under date of Gardiner, Oregon, November 23d, of the loss of the bark Florence, from Port Discovery with lumber to Mastick & Co., San Francisco. Daniel Deary, the only one saved, makes the statement that on Tuesday, Nov. 16th the vessel encountered a heavy southeast gale and commenced leaking. Part of the deck load was thrown off, when all hands were called to the pumps as there was nine feet of water in the hold. At 3, A. M., Wednesday, the Captain ordered the boat got ready, as the vessel was sinking. The sea was breaking over her so that it was impossible to get anything forward of the mainmast. The boat was launched with great difficulty. At 3, P. M., land was sighted, but the sea being too rough they put to sea again. On Thursday morning the crew requested the Captain to land, as they had no water or provisions. The Captain said it was impossible to make a landing but would take his chances with the rest, and steered for the breakers. The boat was capsized and all the men thrown out. Deary swam back and hung on the painter of the boat and was washed ashore. The rest were all drowned. Deary was picked up by Indians and kindly treated. The vessel drifted ashore during the night with everything gone but the mizzenmast. The crew consisted of Capt. A. A. Dayton, First Mate Anderson, Second Mate Carey, seamen, Welch, Malcom Grant, Wm. Duncan, McPherson, a Norwegian from Tacoma, name unknown, and a Chinese cook. The vessel foundered 40 or 50 miles off the Umpqua Bar and drifted 25 miles to Northward. Search is being made for the bodies of the crew.

PORT GAMBLE, Nov. 29.—Sailed, ship King Philip, San Francisco.

FINISHED. — The new warehouse on Yesler's wharf, is now completed and ready for use.

HAY.—The large scow of Morrill & Morris, loaded with hay, came down from White River yesterday.

SAILED. —The bark Aureola, loaded with Seattle coal, sailed this morning for San Francisco.

RENTON COAL.—The bark Marmion has commenced loading with Renton coal from barges.

From Daily of Wednesday

OUR SHIPPING. — There are four vessels now loading here, besides two others awaiting loads. Of the four loading, each is chartered by a different company. The bark Montana is loading from the Seattle Coal Co.'s bunkers, the bark Marmion from the Renton Co.'s barges, the bark Windward with lumber from Colman's mill, and the barkentine Victor with Talbot coal from the bunkers. The two awaiting loads are the ship Commodore and the bark J. B. Bell, both to load with Seattle coal. This is the first time that all of our coal and lumber companies have had vessels loading at the same time.

REAL ESTATE.—The following deeds have been filed for record in the Auditor's office in the last day or so:

Ira Woodin and wife to H. H. Goldmyer, 10 acres in sec. 16, Township 24th, N. of R. 4 E; $150. W. Hointer to Chas. Diener, lot 3, block 56, Terry's ad.; $150. Paul Paulson to Sam. Frauenthal, lot 1, block 10, Boren's addition; $925. W. J. Wadleigh and wife to Jas. M. Colman, 160 acres in sec. 29, Tp. 25, N. of R. 4 E.; $2,450.

DRAMATIC READER.—Miss Imogene Holbrook, the celebrated dramatic reader, will give a series of readings in this city, next week.

NEW STORE.—Mr. J. L. Jamieson has opened a stationary store in this city, with a fine stock of goods. He is temporarily occupying the old Post Office room in Stone & Burnett's building.—He has a very choice selection of goods in his line.

LUMBER. —Morrill & Morris' large scow is loading with a a quantity of lumber from Colman's mill for White River.

☞ The Fanny Lake will make her usual weekly trip to Snohomish City to-morrow.

☞ The Port Townsend Argus says:

Andrew Botago, who took the mail to Neah Bay this week reports having seen a vessel inside of Tatoosh Light, under jury-masts, with only the jib set. The pilot boat Lottie went out to speak her, but Mr. Botago was obliged to leave before the result was obtained. This was on Monday. The next day, Tuesday, he saw what he supposed to be the body of a man, but the weather was too rough to admit of his reaching it.

Three items published by the Seattle Tribune within a week are gross errors. First, the one published about the imminent collision between the Oliver Wolcott and North Pacific, near this place last week, the Cammander of the Wolcott assured us was false. Second, the one about the mail sloop of Mr. J. Pugh's being sailed from San Francisco to Port Discovery by two men, and the probable loss of the men and sloop; now, as will be seen elsewhere in our columns, the brig Deacon sailed up to Port Discovery with the sloop on board of her. Third, that $2,000 had been offered for the recovery of Mr. Hasting's body, is without any foundation whatever.

British Columbia Items.

From the Colonist.

☞ The large barn of Mr. John Durant at South Saanich gave way on Sunday night beneath the weight of snow and was entirely demolished. We are sorry to say that, in addition to the loss of the building Mr. Durant had three valuable horses killed by the falling rafters.

☞ A Memorial Shaft to the memory of the victims of the Pacific's disaster is proposed to be erected in some public place in this city by public subscription.

☞ The life of the late Otis Parsons, passenger, was insured for $10,000; that of the purser, Mr. Hite, for $10,000, and that of Mr. McDonough, chief officer, for $5,000, in the Mutual Life. All these named persons sank with the Pacific.

☞ Judge Elliott yesterday delivered judgement in the suit of Phamphlet v. Seabury, Captain of the steamship City of Panama, for $298. 75, on remand from the 22nd of October. Judgment for complainant for the full amount claimed with $14 costs.

WET FEET.—The rainy season is coming on and George I. Lambert says he has waterproof boots and rubbers of all sizes; also, the celebrated Hersome Gaiter. Call and examine goods before purchasing elsewhere. 1

BROWN BREAD. —Hot Boston Brown Bread at the Eureka Bakery every Sunday morning. Leave your orders on Saturday for delivery.

* WM. MEYDENBAUER.

☞ The Alida came down Tacoma this morning. She did not bring the mail but it was brought down by the Zephyr this afternoon.

☞ There were no cases, criminal or civil, in either of the Justice's Courts to-day.

☞ Two steamers came down from Olympia to-day, but no mail.

"There is no terror, Cassius, in your threats
For I am armed so strong in honesty
That they do pass me by as the i'lle wind."
JULIUS CÆSAR.

Scarcely had I reached home, ere it becomes my painful duty to pay a parting tribute to the memory of one who was nearer a brother to me, in kindness and all that most enobles friendship, than any other living man. The awful calamity by which over two hundred beings were swept away into eternity on the ill-fated Pacific, calls forth a wail of mourning from every house on the coast, and the eyes of the beautiful are still wet for the unreturning brave. And of all who perished in that scene of woe and misery, there was none more dearly loved than the brave and youthful commander. Capt. Jefferson D. Howell was a native of Mississippi and entered the Confederate navy during the rebellion. When the war was over he accepted the issue in good faith and went North. Instead of mourning over the Lost Cause, he went manfully to work and shipped as third mate, on a ship bound for China, from whence he came to San Francisco. Since his arrival here, some seven years ago, he has served as first officer on the steamers John L. Stephens, Ajax and Oriflamme. His first command was the Idaho, of the Holladay line, from whence he took charge successively of the steamers Moses Taylor, Pelican, California, Nevada, Los Angeles and lastly, the ill-starred Pacific. After seventy hours of exposure on a raft, tortured by the pangs of thirst and starvation, his brave and gentle spirit returned to the God who gave it. And when his lamp of life was quenched on Earth, the Infinate kindled a new star above.

His worth was equalled only by his modesty, yet he had the pride of a dozen Cæsars. Owing to some disagreement between himself and Ben Holladay, jr., he resigned command of the Pelican about two years ago. He was offered several positions as chief mate, but could not obtain a captaincy. Rather than go backward in his profession, he actually went up to Napa Valley, and hired as a common farm laborer at $35 per month. There he remained till January last, when Goodall, Nelson & Perkins sent for him to visit Puget Sound, with a view to putting on an extra steamer. He went up as a passenger on the Los Angeles, and the steamer broke her propellor shaft. At Howell's request Captain Sholl landed him on the beach above Tillamook, and he walked to Astoria to obtain a tug which came down and towed the disabled vessel into port.

Last Summe rI was a passenger with him from San Francisco to Victoria. In the steerage was a passenger who was nearly gone with pulmonary consumption. Howell had him removed to the cabin, and visited him almost every hour. The sick man was from Massachusetts, and had been a sailing-master in the Federal navy during the war. On my remarking the intimacy that had sprung up between them, two former enemies, he gave me a look that I shall never forget, and answered, "Misfortune has no politics." Though by no means a handsome man, Captain Howell was one of those who attracted everybody to him. Avoiding all foppery in dress, he appeared so plain that he won all who love modest men. His was an Anglo-Saxon face of the highest type, with high brow, fair hair, and laughing blue eyes. He combined the tenderness of a woman with the courage of a man. His little room was hung about with portraits of his friends, and in the center was an ivory miniature of his dead mother, whom he adored. Rest, heart of oak, the bottom of the sea is as near heaven as the summit of the highest mountain. And in the last day, when the Great Commander shall summon about him all who have "gone down at sea in ships," there will be room on the quarter-deck for you, dear Jeff—room for you——

The pilot who stood at the helm of our bark,
In the midst of the tempest's commotion,
Was swept from the deck in the storm and the dark,
And sank in the depths of the ocean.
What heeds he of riches? What recks he of fame
Or a word decked in grandeur or beauty?
If the marble shall speak that bears his dear name,
"He died at his post doing duty."
—T. B. MERRY in Coos Bay News.

MARK TWAIN.—Coming out the Erie Railway building, I yesterday saw Mark Twain, whom we used to know in the old Frisco days as Sam Clemens. He wears the same old brigand hat and cloak, and one is always sure when looking at him that he would rather look shabby than wear a pink overcoat with yellow buttons. It is just ten years since I sat one day on the steps of the American House, in Honolulu, Sandwich Islands, with Clemens, and happened to mention that I was writing letters to the New York Herald. He was then unknown, except as an odd character in San Francisco, and as the writer of letters to the Sacramento Union, and he very timidly said he had received an offer from a musical monthly to write a page for it for six dollars. He wanted to know whether it would pay him to go to New York. I had never read anything of his, and I told him that if he went on to New York he wouldn't earn his salt. Yet there he stood yesterday, with his saucy mustache and gimlet eyes, as unconcerned as if he hadn't made a hundred thousand dollars and hadn't married a girl with more salt lying around loose than would pickle all Honolulu.—N. Y. Cor. Danbury News.

There is a chain-lightning story from the Portland Advertiser: "During the storm Saturday morning a bolt struck some nineteen cans of milk that a Falmouth farmer had placed in front of the barn all ready to be sent by train to Portland, scattering the milk and cans in all directions, and a slant across the family cat, who was trying to steal some milk, singeing every bit of fur from her body, but not killing her, and the next day, she was lively though hairless."

HOW A DEAD HOG KILLED A MAN.—A negro man in the adjoining county of Baldwin killed a large hog in the woods. He opened the animal, removed the entrails, and devised a method of carrying the pork which was altogether sui generis. This manner of transportation was effected by tying the hind legs together, passing his head between them, and the heavy carcass in front, easing the weight on his neck by lifting on the fore legs with his hands. It is presumed that he got along remarkably well until a rail fence got in his way, and in order to climb this, he needed his hands. Accoringly, he relieved them by lifting the hog over the top rail and letting it drop on the other side. It is presumed that he proposed to follow the hog, but he did not. A few days since a congregation of buzzards attracted attention to a locality where a negro man was found hanging on one side of a rail fence and a hog on the other. The weight of the animal evidently having pressed his neck down upon the rail until he was choked to death.—Pensacola (Fla.) Gazette.

HOW TO TREAT TRAMPS.—For years I have been almost daily besieged by able-bodied men asking for food, and not being able to discriminate between worthy persons and professional beggars, have invariably given to all, on the principle that it is better to feed some who are unworthy than that the innocent and honest should go hungry. Within a few months I became almost convinced that information was communicated from one tramp to another where to call for their meals, and I determined to try another method, which has worked admirably so far. I set every one to work now who calls for for food, and when he has worked as long as I think is just, he gets his meal. No one has yet refused to work, but from present indications I need not flatter myself much on the amount of work I shall get done this way. They very seldom give me a call. I have planned in advance for all comers, and they have probably heard of the new method.—Cor. New York Tribune.

The San Francisco Real Estate Circular thus interprets the large mortgages recently given by Wm. Sharon: "The meaning of the large mortgages last month given by W. Sharon is that Mr. Sharon has been paying the late Wm C. Ralston's debts. They amounted to over four million dollars. Mr. Sharon is to keep Mr. Ralston's property, which the latter deeded to him in trust, on the day of his death. He is said to have 'made' William Sharon, in a pecuniary sense. If he did, Mr. Sharon has not forgotten the obligation. He has most nobly stepped in and paid off his late friend's debts."

NEWSPAPER BY-LAWS.—1. Be brief. This is the age of telegraphs and stenography. 2. Be pointed. Don't write all around a subject without hitting it. 3. State facts, but don't stop to moralize. It's a drowsy subject. Let the reader do his own dreaming. 4. Eschew preface. Plunge at once into your subject like a swimmer into cold water. 5. If you have written a sentence you think particularly fine, draw your pen through it. A pet child is always the worst in the family. 6. Condense. Make sure that you really have an idea, and then record it in the shortest possible terms. We want thoughts in their quintessence. 7. When your article is completed, strike out nine-tenths of the adjectives.

A BIG FAMILY.—Joseph Long writes to the Centennial Commissioners from McAllisterville, Pa: We are coming to the Centennial—Abraham, Calvin, David, John, Benjamin, Isac, Daniel, James, Samuel, Emanuel, William, myself (Joseph) and sister Hester. You will see there are thirteen of us—twelve brothers and a sister. We were all born of one father and mother, and are therefore full brothers and sister. Our average weight is 230 pounds per man, and together we twelve brothers make the beam kick at 2,645 pounds. We might as well throw Het in. We are not very much on tall, but I would really like to know if there is a bigger family in these United States, and if so will be glad to meet them at the Centennial next year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The colored citizens last night made arrangements to attend the funeral of Vice President Wilson. The committee representing the Senate, House of Representatives State Department and Supreme Court met this morning at the Department of State. The general wish was expressed that the funeral should take place on Saturday, at noon. Services are to be conducted in the Senate chamber and the remains will be conveyed to Philadelphia to lie in state at Independence Hall until Monday morning. In other respects the programme, as usual on such occasions, will be followed. A sub-committee was appointed, consisting of Senator A. G. Thurman, of Ohio, Representatives Warren, of Massachusetts, and Garfield, of Ohio, to mature arrangements after consultation with the delegation appointed by the governor of Massachusetts, who will arrive here this afternoon to make such modification of the proposed programme as they may suggest. Senator Boutwell is expected on Wednesday evening. The morning being wet and cold, only a few persons were at the Capitol, where the remains of the Vice President lie in state, still guarded by the Capitol police.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The Fort Sugg and Willowski claims investigation committee has begun the examination of witnesses. Those examined were Acting Third Auditor Gangore and Geo. Doolittle, chief of the miscellaneous claims division of the Third Auditor's office. The investigation is conducted with closed doors.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Carlist official organ insists that Don Carlos has saved Cuba and the honor of Spain, his recent offer of truce having caused the Americans to modify their attitude.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23- To-night the extensive brewery and malthouse of David Jones, on Sixth street, near Avenue C, was destroyed by fire. The building was heavily stocked with grain, malt and hops, besides immense vaults filled with beer in process of manufacture, and great quantities of barrelled ale and beer. Loss estimated at $350,000; insured for $30,000. The adjoining buildings were damaged by falling walls to the amount of $30,000. The fire originated from an explosion of gas which escaped from a leaking pipe, and was ignited by one of the workmen striking a match.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The Pacific Mail Company, through their attorneys, Bell, Bartlett & Wilson, has commenced suit in the supreme court against ex-Congressman John G. Schumaker, of Brooklyn, to recover $30,000 alleged to have been unlawfully paid to him by Richard B. Irwin, agent for the company, for alleged services in procuring a government subsidy for the company in 1872. It is charged by the company that Irwin had the largest amount of its money in his posession, which he disbursed unlawfully to a number of persons, among whom was Schumaker. This suit goes out of the Congressional investigation in the subsidy matter, about a year ago.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The American Jockey Club is considering the feasibility of offering a grand Centennial purse, of from $15,000 to $30,000, for a great race to be run at Jerome park next season. If a large purse were offered, it is thought that two or three English racers would be entered for the contest, which would be made open to all-comers, with weight for age. The size of the purse will depend somewhat on the aid they may derive from hotels and railways. The purse will not, at all events be made up on the principle governing the California $30,000 purse, where entrance fees, ten per cent of the purse, go into the hands of the managers. As there are nine entries in the pending California race, $27,000 of the purse is paid by owners of horses entered. The entrance money for the proposed Centennial purse will be added to the stakes, even if the Jockey Club is obliged to make up the purse entirely.

CAPT. HOWELL.—The following communication appeared in the Oregonian of Wednesday morning:

NEW TACOMA, Nov. 21, 1875.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Your occasional correspondent from this place has foully slandered the late Capt. J. D. Howell, in his letter published in your issue of the 20th inst. On Sunday, the 30th of October, the steamship Pacific arrived at this port, about 12 M. Within an hour after her arrival Captain Howell went up the Puyallup valley on business connected with the line. On his return, Mr. W. H. Fife, a resident of this place, met him upon the railroad wharf, entered into a conversation with him in regard to business matters, accompanied him aboard the ship where they met a gentleman and lady waiting to see Capt. Howell. Mr. Fife thereupon bid the captain good by, and came ashore. Mr. Fife informs me that Capt. Howell was not intoxicated at the time. This was after dark, probably after six o'clock. I saw Capt. Howell occasionally during the evening, and between 9 and 10 o'clock had occasion to go to his room to consult with him about matters connected with the interests of the line. I spent probably half an hour with him and I deny most positively that Capt. Howell was intoxicated on that evening. I have no hesitation in saying that, though not a total abstinance man, Capt. Howell was temperate in his habits. As regards the statements with regard to the life-boats, I have only to say that the ship had not over six, and I think that were but five. We know from the sworn statements of the survivors of the wreck that at least two of them were safely launched and filled with people, but immediately afterwards swamped by circumstances beyond the control of any man. I have the testimony of Mr. W. H. Fife and others, who have made the trip to San Francisco and return, on the steamer Pacific, that Capt. Howell and his officers were untiring in their attention to the wants of their passengers and to their duties on board the ship. I trust that you will give this denial of the falsehoods of your Occasional Correspondent, as an act of justice to as able a seaman and as true a man as ever walked the deck of a ship. By so doing you will receive the approbation of numbers, who like myself knew not how well they loved the man until death taught them how he had endeared himself to us. J. S. WALKER,

Agent G. N. & P. S. S. Co.

A PETRIFIED FOREST IN NEVADA.—The Winnemucca Silver State of November 1st has this notice of a great natural curiosity: From David Rideout, who has been engaged in preparing a section of a petrified tree for the Centennial exhibition, we learn the following relative to the petrified forest in the desert of north western Humboldt. On the plain, about thirty miles west of the Blackrock range of mountains, stands one of the greatest natural curiosities ever discovered in Nevada. It is a petrified forest in which the stumps of many of the trees, now changed into solid rock, are still standing. There are no living trees or vegetation of any kind other than stunted sagebrush in the vicinity. Some of those ancient giants of a forest, which flourished perhaps thousands of years ago, when the climate of Nevada was more favorable to the growth of luxuriant vegetation than at present, rival in size the big trees of California. Stumps transformed into solid rock, stand in an upright position with their roots imbedded in the soil, as when growing that measure from fifteen to twenty-six feet in circumference, and the ground in the vicinity is strewn with the trunks and limbs which retain their natural shape and size. Mr. Rideout, determined to secure a section of one of these trees for the Centennial exhibition, with two other men, spent twelve days in cutting it from the stump. This was done by drilling all around the tree and seperating it with wedges. The specimen is three feet high and eighteen feet in circumference, and its estimated weight is three tons. It stands on the stump from which it was severed, ready to be loaded on a wagon. Mr. Rideout does not feel able to incur the expense of bringing it by team to the railroad, though he once made arrangements to do so, but the other party to the agreement failed to perform his part. He is anxious to call the attention of the Centennial Commissioners to the matter, and see if they will not furnish the means to get it to the railroad. The country in which it is situated is an inviting field for geologists.

TURNING THE TABLES.- Fouche, the famous French Minister of Police prided himself on his perfect system of espionage, by which he was master of the secrets of European courts, and of the movements of all suspected parties. With all his shrewdness, however, he was sometimes overreached. Louis XVIII. once mortified him severely. He was begging for office, and the king exacted as one of the conditions that he should reveal the names of unfaithful servants who had betrayed his own secrets.

"You urge me to say what must wound your Majesty's heart."

"A king is accustomed to be deceived."

"I was in constant correspondence with the Duc D'Artmont."

"I must acknowledge," said the king, "that he was very poor and had many expenses, as living was very dear in England.

"He wrote me the minutest details of all your movements and words."

"Well, then," replied the king, "Mr. F., it was I that dictated those letters you received every week, and I gave him fourteen thousand out of the forty eight thousand francs you remitted so regularly."

For once even the arrogant self-conceit of Fouche was silenced, and he was filled with confusion to find he had only been a tool for others when he supposed himself to be master of the situation.

"There may be such a thing as love at first sight," remarked a Detroit girl, as she twisted a "friz" around the curling iron, 'but I don't believe in it. There's Fred, I saw him a hundred times before I loved him. In fact, I shouldn't have fallen in love when I did, if his father hadn't given him that house and lot."

THE BOY COULDN'T SEE IT.—A Grand River avenue grocer saw a boy about twelve years old loafing around his store yesterday, and he patted him on the head and said:

"Boy, go to work George Washington was a worker; Thomas Jefferson swung the axe; Henry Clay used the hoe."

"Did they?" asked the lad.

"They did, my son. Labor is grand; labor is ennobling; labor is the foundation beams of this country. The boy who cultivates habits of industry will sooner or later achieve success and independence. There's fifty bushels of potatoes in there to sort over. Go to work at them, my boy, and to encourage you I'll give you fifteen cents a day. In a few days, if you are industrious and trustworthy, I'll let you saw some wood, and then you may pick over some beans, and it won't be long after that before you can run for Governor of Michigan. Come, now, go to work."

The boy went in and worked for an hour, and was then missing. On a board was a sign he had left behind him. It read; "Your bank Clay and george Washington Kin go to blazes."—Detroit Free Press

A PEARL NECKLACE.—A very curious circumstance recently occurred in Paris, relative to a necklace, or rather a string of beads. One of the vacant shops on the Rue de Rivoli was occupied temporarily by one of those Arab venders of pipes, perfumes, limitation jewelry, shawls, etc., wherewith the visitors to Long Branch and Newport have become familiar. A gentleman residing in the upper part of this city stopped at his stall the other day and purchased a string of imitation pearls, for which he paid ninety cents. This necklace he gave to his daughter for one of her dolls. A celebrated jeweler happened to call one evening while the child was engaged in amusing herself with the new toy. "How foolish you are to let the child have so valuable an object to play with," remarked the jeweler to the father. "Valuable!" responded the latter. "I gave four and a half francs for it the other day." The jeweler took the necklace from the little girl and examined it long and minutely. "I do not care what you paid for it," he said at length, "but this much I do know: the pearls are rare and the necklace is worth 10,000 francs ($2,000) at the very lowest computation. If you doubt my sincerity, I will prove it by giving you 8,000 francs for it on the spot."

An Illinois county clerk refused to issue a marriage license because the man was only four feet high, while the woman was six. He said he knew something about domestic life with the proportions reversed, and could not assist a fellow-man to "buy into a lottery when the odds were so fearfully against him."

ANSWERING LETTERS.—A great many people in this country are shamefully negligent about answering their letters. Nothing is more annoying. In European countries it is regarded as the height of ill-breeding to allow a letter which needs a reply to go unanswered, and so it ought to be considered here. This is a point on which parents should lay great stress to their children. They should be taught to consider it as rude not to reply to a letter which needs attention as to hand a fork with the prong end. The busiest people are generally those who are the most exact in this respect. The late Duke of Wellington, who, it will be admitted had a good deal on his hands at different times of his life, replied to every letter, no matter from how humble a source. Once a clergyman, who lived in a distant part of the kingdom, wrote to his Grace, on whom neither he nor his parish had a shadow of a claim, to beg for a subscription to rebuild a church. By return of mail came back a letter from the Duke to the effect that he really could not see why in the world he should have been applied to for such an object; but the parson sold the letter as an autograph for £5, and put the Duke down for that amount among the subscribers.—Detroit Free Press.

☞ A medical correspondent of the Lancet makes a suggestion which may prove useful on emergency to some of our readers. He says: "In consequence of the difficulty I experienced in removing from a patient a portion of steel bedded in the cornea, which did not yield to the spud or needle, some other means of removal became necessary. Dry, soft, white silk waste suggested itself to me, and was wound round a thin piece of wood, so as to completely envelop its end. This soft application was brushed once backward and forward horizontally over the part of the cornea where the foreign substance seemed fixed. To my astonishment it was at once entangled by the delicate but strong meshes of the silk, and was withdrawn with the greatest ease, caught by the same. A gentleman, in turning steel at a lathe, suddenly felt that a portion had entered his eye. He went at once to a surgeon, who, with the most skillful manipulation, failed to extract the same, saying it would soon work out of itself. The next morning the patient saw me, having suffered severely since the accident, and on the first application the portion of steel was extracted."
