THE RIVER OF TIME.

BY B. P. TAYLOR.

O! a wonderful stream is the river Time,
As it runs through the realm of tears,
With a faultless rhythm, and a musical rhyme,
And a broader sweep and a surge sublime,
As it blends with the ocean of years.

How the winters are drifting, like flakes of snow,
And the summers like buds between,
And the year in the sheaf—so they come and they go,
On the river's broad breast, with its ebb and its flow,
As it glides in the shadow and sheen.

There's a magical Isle up the river Time,
Where the softest of airs is playing,
There's a cloudless sky, and a tropical clime,
And a song as sweet as a vesper chime,
And the Junes with the roses are staying.

The name of this Isle is the LONG AGO,
And we bury our treasures there;
There are brows of beauty and bosoms of snow—
They are heaps of dust, but we loved them so,
There are trinkets and tresses of hair.

There are fragments of song that nobody sings,
And a part of an infant prayer,
There's a lute unswept and a harp without strings,
There are broken vows and pieces of rings,
And the garments that she used to wear.

There are hands that are waved, when the fairy shore
By the mirage is lifted in air;
And we sometimes hear, through the turbulent roar,
Sweet voices we heard in the days gone before,
When the wind down the river is fair.

O! remembered for aye be the blessed Isle,
All the days of our life till night—
When the evening comes with its beautiful smile,
And our eyes are closing to slumber awhile,
May that "GREENWOOD" of soul be in sight.

KING CHOLERA.

DEDICATED TO THE CITY FATHERS OF NEW YORK, BY THE LATE "MRS. GRUNDY."

A fearful whisper comes from the East
Of a raging monster, that Making of men, a vampire-feast,
Highest and lowest, greatest and least—
And all that he finds are food for him.

And ever westward he holds his way,
Marching with slow, insidious tread;
His victims struggle and weep and pray,
And naught can his terrible hunger stay
Till his path is strewn with a thousand dead.

Squalor he loves, and filth and crime;
What shall we do to avoid his wrath?
Can we not purge our city in time,
With charcoal, water and sprinkled lime,
And leave no place for his hideous path?

Or, will our rulers no danger know
Till at our door King Cholera halts,
While dead-carts hither an thither go,
And the thick air shudders with cries of woe,
And everywhere gape the burial vaults?

Take heed of the warning now—take heed
While still there is time our homes to save!
For everywhere ripens the poisonous seed
On which King Cholera loves to feed,
That our city may be but a mighty grave.

Cleanse, O, Fathers, these gutters and styes,
Festering kennels and filthy slums,
Reeking under the dog-day skies,
For, if their stench must still arise,
What shall we do when King Cholera comes?

POISON.—Poison, of any conceivable description and degree of potency, which has been purposely or unintentionally swallowed, may almost instantly be rendered harmless, by simply swallowing two gills of oil. An individual with a very powerful constitution should take nearly twice the quantity. This oil will positively neutralize every form of vegetable, animal or mineral poison.

THERE is one thing more permanent than wealth, more enduring than political preferment, more to be desired than legal lore, and that one thing is, elevation of thought. The public man, the thinker, or the writer, who appeals to any thing less than the highest, the best, the most magnanimous sentiments of his fellow men, will neither be kept in remembrance, nor attract posterity to honor his native city.

General Fremont, at the head of a company of Eastern capitalists, is about to embark in the business of manufacturing railroad iron. The company has purchased extensive tracts of mineral land in Missouri.

A Chinese boy, learning English, coming across the passage in his Testament: "We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced." rendered it thus: "We have toot, toot to you, why you no jump."

A National Bank has been chartered at Atlanta, Georgia.

RAILWAYS WITH REFERENCE TO OREGON AND SAN FRANCISCO.

The Stockton Independent talks sense in an article under the above head. The Independent addresses itself to the capitalists and merchants of San Francisco, saying:

"We want immigration, but realize emigration instead; and this will continue to be our poor condition, until we imitate the people of the Western States, and build railways. San Francisco should take the lead. She has shoveled in nearly all the capital of the State, and she will be the first and last to profit by such enterprises. She ought, at once, help to build a railroad to Copperopolis. It would, in one year, increase the copper trade eight-fold. In less than five years, it would have a hundred miles of branch roads to a thousand new mines. It would more than quadruple the population of Calaveras county, and augment its trade and wealth in far greater proportion. The history of all railway countries proves this."

San Francisco capital should not only build railways south, but north. Look at the great trade of the Sacramento Valley, in this State, the immense trade of the Willamette Valley, in Oregon, and the rapidly increasing trade of Idaho.

What millions of gold would pour into the lap of San Francisco, over a railroad on this line, bringing the trade of two States and a Territory? Such a road would be second only to the great Pacific Railroad. It is singular that there is so little railroad enterprise in a city where there is so much enterprise in everything else. The capitalists of San Francisco should first take hold of the half completed road from Lincoln to Marysville. If it is too late to build the Vallejo and Marysville road, the broken link between Oroville and Sacramento should be built immediately. When this is being completed, a railroad from Oroville should be surveyed. The postponement of this work is as short-sighted, in San Francisco merchants, as delay by the owners of the Comstock Ledge, in cutting the adit to carry away its waters. Here is a field for enterprising capitalists, greater than creating banks or mining-stock boards. When will San Francisco see that, by helping the interior a little, she will help herself a great deal more.—Ex.

INGRATITUDE.—The course pursued by the robbers of Mr. Davidson, the immigrant, living on the farm of James Imbrie, on the Tualatin Plains, shows an insensibility to favors, worthy of the surest and severest retribution. The two young men taking this money, were named Jacobs—brothers, as we understand the matter. On the trip across the continent, the train to which the young men originally belonged, was sacked by the Indians, or Mormons, their horses stolen and their wagon burned, leaving them penniless. The day or two succeeding the depredations, they were fortunate enough to find a good Samaritan in the person of this Mr. Davidson. He took the "Jacobs boys" in with him, fed them, and brought them here safely. They learned from the good old man that he had some money. He had sold everything he had, in the Eastern States, and was coming to Oregon to live. These young men were trusted by him, and while Mr. Davidson was absent from the house, where the party was temporarily stopping, they stole the money—$1,200, in twenty-dollar pieces—and a horse, nearly the whole of the old man's earthly possessions, and escaped.—They should be overtaken, and rewarded with the severest punishment that can be meted out by the strong arm of justice.—Oregonian.

TILLAMOOK seems to be getting her share of the new immigrants. It is said that over fifty families have gone over into Tillamook Valley this Fall, and that there is yet room for many more. There is now a good trail leading from Simmons' ranch, near the head of Panther Creek, in Yamhill county, Oregon, across the Coast Range mountains. The logs are all cut out, and the trip across can be made, on horseback, in a day. No wagon road is yet opened, but those who have traveled over the trail, say a good road can be made, over which a span of horses can draw 1,500 pounds.—This is doubtful, though the trail is said to follow divides all the way, crossing none of the cañons through which the streams flow. There is a toll gate on the trail, where one dollar is collected for each man and horse.—Ex.

"Do you think," asked Mrs. Pepper, rather sharply, "that a little temper is a bad thing in a woman?" "Certainly not," replied the gallant philosopher, "it is a good thing, and she ought never to lose it."

A medical man says that those ladies who make it a business to trouble dry-goods clerks, and never buy anything, ought to be called "counter-irritants."

"ALL flesh is grass," sighed Spriggles, after dinner, yesterday, and the wretched man immediately added—"Of all grasses, give me grass-widows!"

WHAT IS A NATIONAL BANK?

To organize a National Bank, there must be an association of at least five persons.—They shall enter into articles specifying what they propose to do, a copy of which must be forwarded to the Controller of Currency, Washington, to be filed in his office. Second—They must have a capital of at least $100,000; but if in a town whose population does not exceed 6,000 inhabitants, the Secretary of the Treasury may especially authorize them to do business on a capital of $50,000. It can discount money, negotiate notes, bills of exchange, buy and sell coin and bullion, and transact all business usual with banks of deposit and discount. It shall not have less than five directors, each of whom shall own, in his own right, ten shares of stock, and the Board shall report to the Controller of Currency, who is the immediate head of all the National Banks. The shares shall always be $100 each, be deemed personal property, and be transferable on the books. The shareholders shall be held individually, each for himself, ratably, responsible for the contracts and debts of the association. At least fifty per centum of the capital must be paid in before the bank commences business, and the remainder in monthly instalments of ten per centum on the whole amount, all of which must be certified, under oath, by the President or Cashier of the Bank, to the Controller. Every Bank is required to deposit with the United States Treasurer, U. S. registered bonds, interest-bearing, to the amount of one-third the capital stock of the Bank. Every Bank is required to have constantly on hand at least fifteen per cent. in lawful United States money—that is, treasury notes, or gold or silver—of its own notes in circulation. It is allowed to loan or discount money at rates of interest lawful in the State where the Bank is located; but where the law of the State fixes no lawful rate, seven per cent. may be charged and taken in advance, from the loan or sum discounted. Usury is punished by forfeiture of twice the amount of interest charged.

HOW OLD NICK WAS "FROZE OUT."—A young man who ardently desired wealth was visited by old Apollyon, who tempted him to promise his soul for eternity if he could be supplied on earth with all the money he could use. The bargain was concluded; at last to have the soul, unless the young man could spend more money than the devil could furnish. Years passed away, the man married, was extravagant in living, built palaces, speculated wildly, lost, gave away fortunes, and yet his coffers were always full. He turned politician and bribed his way to power and fame, without reducing his pile of gold. He became a filibuster, and fitted out fleets and armies, but his banker honored his drafts. He went to San Francisco to live, paid the current rates of interest for all the money he could borrow; speculated in wild cat; boarded at a fashionable hotel, etc. etc.; and, though the devil made wry faces when he came to pay the bills, yet they were all paid. One expedient after another failed; the devil counted the time, only two years that he must wait for the soul, and mocked the efforts of the despairing man. One more trial was resolved upon—the man started a newspaper. The devil growled at the bill, at the end of the first quarter; was savage in six months; melancholy at nine, and at the end of the year—broke. So the newspaper went down, but the soul was saved.

SOMETHING TO THINK OF.—An Idaho correspondent of one of our cotemporaries writes, that a large number of parties, a majority of them, in that Territory, obtain the machinery for their quartz, and other mills, from Chicago, freighting them overland. The quality of the machinery procured in Chicago, is not so good as that procured in San Francisco; but the cost of freight from the former city is so much cheaper than from the latter, that it becomes a matter of great saving for the Idaho miners to make their purchases on the shores of Lake Michigan, instead of on the shores of the Pacific. The distance from Chicago to the Idaho mines is fully fifteen hundred miles; while from San Francisco, it is less than seven hundred. Yet freight can be transported over the former long and tedious route, much cheaper than over the latter short one.—S. F. Call.

A gentleman who had the curiosity to spend a dime in answering an advertisement which promised valuable advice, for that amount, received by mail the following answer: "My friend, for your ten cents, postage, please find enclosed advice which may be of great value to you. As many persons are injured for weeks, months and years, by the careless use of a knife, therefore my advice is, when you use a knife, always whittle from you."

A late invention is, a self-fastening button, by which buttons are attached to any garment without the use of thread. They can be instantly detached, at will, and always stand straight and firm, never hanging half loose from the garment, as is the case with the kind in common use.

DECISIONS UNDER THE HOMESTEAD LAW.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office, announces the following decisions:

First—Can a pre-emptor file his declaratory statements upon a tract of land previously entered under the Homestead Law?

Answer—He can, if his declaratory statements are accompanied by his affidavit that he had actually made his settlement prior to the homestead claimant.

Second—Can two or more parties enter the same tract, under the Homestead Law?

Answer—They cannot. The tract should be awarded to one applicant. If two or more apply at the same time, it should be awarded to the party making the highest bid for the privilege of making the entry, and the sum thus bid, should be credited to the United States, in the returns, as an excess, with a memorandum of the facts.

Third—Can a party enter, under the Homestead Law, a tract upon which a pre-emptor has filed his declaratory statement?

Answer—He can, if he files his affidavit that there is no pre-emption settlement on the same, and makes his entry subject to the pre-emptor's claim, in case such claim should be established, after notice to, and hearing of the parties concerned.

HE IS ONLY A PRINTER.—The following tribute to the noble preservative art, we find in a cotemporary, and we commend its strong contrast to the intelligent reader:

"He is only a printer." Such was the sneering remark of a leader in a circle of aristocracy,—the codfish quality. Who was the Earl of Stanhope? He was only a printer. What was Prince Frederick William, who was married to the Princess Royal, of England? He, too, was only a printer. Who was William Caxton, one of the fathers of literature? He was only a printer. What was G. P. Morris, N. F. Willis, James Gales, Charles Richardson, Charles Dickens, James Harper, Horace Greeley, Bayard Taylor, Thiers, Douglas Jerrold, Geo. D. Prentice, and Senators Dix, Cameron, and Niles? They, too, were printers. And last, though not least, what was Benjamin Franklin, than whom the world has produced none greater? He, also, was a printer. Only a printer! Every one cannot be a printer.—brains are necessary.

NOR "SOUND ON THE GOOSE."—The London Saturday Review is seldom puzzled by a slang phrase, but confesses itself unable to understand the following sentence, which it finds in a recent American paper: "Everything is lovely, and the goose is greatly elevated." The astonished critic says:—"What, or whose goose was elevated, why it should be elevated, in what consists the process of elevating a goose, and the connection between the elevation and the general loveliness of things, are all points, on which we can throw no light."

MERE physical insensibility to danger, does not constitute true courage. Nearly all brave men have been of a fine organization, and, therefore, of nervous temperament. Julius Caesar was nervous, so was Bonaparte, so was Nelson. The Duke of Wellington saw a man turn pale, as he marched up to a battery. "That," said he, "is a brave man; he understands the danger, but faces it."

A LADY who read of the extensive manufacture of odometers, to tell how far a carriage had been run, wished some Connecticut genius would invent an instrument to tell how far husbands had been during the evening, when they "just stepped down to the post office," or "went down town to attend a caucus."

An average of sixty-seven persons out of every million, commit suicide in England yearly. Hanging is much the most popular method, twenty-eight, using the cord, thirteen, the dagger, twelve, having a preference for drowning, and six, for poison.

Six years ago, a lady in Norwich, Connecticut, planted three peach stones in a box. Only one of them came up, but now, from the three branches of the tree, she has gathered three different varieties of peaches.

MRS. MOORE, the widow of Tom Moore, the great Irish poet, is dead. She survived her husband nearly fourteen years. She was the "Bessie" of his Memoirs and Letters. The Moore family is now extinct, as all the children of Thomas Moore died before he died.

OPIMUM SMUGGLING.—The Mountaineer is informed that the large force of Chinamen, now at work on the Columbia, near Fort Colville, are supplied with opium, smuggled overland, from the adjacent British provinces.

THERE are in Berlin, twelve thousand cellars inhabited, in six thousand three hundred of which different trades are carried on. The thirteenth part of the population, or forty-six thousand persons, inhabit these dens.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Late advices from the East, indicate an increasing interest in favor of this work.—Enthusiastic meetings have been held in some of the cities, capitalists are moving in the matter, and people generally, not peculiarly interested in the California road, are beginning to appreciate the importance, and to discover the superior advantages of the Northern Pacific Railroad. If the enterprise can now get a fair start, it may yet be the first completed road connecting the great oceans which bound our continent. On this side, our people are all anxious for the commencement of the undertaking; and although slightly at issue as to the proper terminus of the road, and, also, as to the best pass through the Cascade Mountains, we trust our local preferences will in no wise interfere with the progress of the work.—Both the route and the terminus will be determined by competent engineers, with a view to cheapness and practicability. In this connection, however, we claim the right to say a few words about our favorite pass through the Cascade Mountains, for the purpose of correcting an error in relation thereto, which is said to prevail among the friends of the Northern Road, in the East. The Snoqualmie Pass is that which Governor Stevens surveyed, and pronounced the lowest and most practicable route for a railroad through the Cascade Mountains, and yet, in Mr. Stevens' report, it is stated that a tunnel of several miles in length must be cut through a hill in that Pass. This is a great mistake, as has been fully demonstrated by recent investigations. The country through the Snoqualmie Gap is generally level, with very few obstructions to road-making, excepting the heavy growth of timber, which covers about half the distance—twenty miles. There is but a single bill of any considerable size, in the Pass, and over this, and through the heaviest of the timber, for over twenty miles, a good wagon road has just been constructed; and the road goes over the hill simply because it was a shorter route, and could more easily be made passable for wagons than the almost level route around the base of the hill, following up a branch of the Snoqualmie River. In viewing the ground for this wagon road, it was found, that not only is no tunnel required, anywhere in the Pass, but that the ground is generally level, presenting less obstructions, to either a wagon road or a railway, than the adjacent country on either side of the mountains. It is generally believed, now, that Mr. Stevens never personally went through the Snoqualmie Pass, and that his erroneous report, about a tunnel being necessary, was based upon the representations of the surveying party in his employ. Be this as it may, it is now ascertained that no tunnel is needed, and the friends of the Northern Pacific Railroad, in the East, who have been picturing to themselves such gigantic obstacles, may calm their fears in this regard. Let it be remembered, that all who have visited the Snoqualmie Pass, pronounce it the best mountain pass they ever saw, and declare it the only one in the whole Cascade range that does not require a tunnel.

PERSONAL.—Governor Pickering arrived at Seattle on Monday last, and took passage on the steamer Gem, the same day, for Olympia.—The Governor is understood to be deeply interested in the Mercer immigration scheme, and will probably be surprised to find that almost the only opposers of it are the people of our Territory, themselves, especially the rusty old bachelors,—ungrateful scamps,—for whose benefit, particularly, the scheme was devised.

CHRISTMAS PARTY.—In another column of to-day's issue, will be seen the advertisement of Mr. D. Sires, for a Social Party which he will give on Christmas night. Those who wish to enjoy a pleasant evening should attend, as every exertion will be made to render the Party a pleasant one. Good music is engaged, and an excellent supper will be provided; so be sure and attend, ye devotees of Terpsichore.

ARRIVAL.—The barkentine W. H. Gawley, arrived at this place on Sunday last, from San Francisco, with a cargo of merchandise. She also brought up a little propeller for Captain Robinson, to ply between the ports of the Sound.

WETNESS has set in with its dark, gloomy days, drearily raining and high winds. One of its accompanying southwest gales prevailed for a short time on Tuesday last, making the bay quite rough, though doing no damage that we have heard of.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S DECISION.

The day before the execution of the assassins, there was a great deal of discussion in this city about the probable reprieve of Mrs. Suratt. A company of gentlemen were at the Astor House, most of whom agreed that the woman would not be executed, some assigning the reason that the President would not have pluck enough to brave public sentiment, and allow a woman to be hung. A well known merchant of New York who was present coolly remarked, "A man who talks about Andy Johnson's want of pluck evidently don't know the man. If Andy Johnson has signed the death warrant of Mrs. Suratt she will die. If he had intended to have reprieved her, he would not have signed it." He added: "Let me tell you what I know. I was shut up in Nashville when the city was surrounded by twenty thousand rebel troops, who demanded its surrender. General Buell was in the city in command of ten thousand men. He determined on the surrender of the city to the rebel forces. He came to Gov. Johnson, and announced that he could not defend the city, and that Nashville must be surrendered. The Governor heard him quietly through, and then replied: 'You are in command of the United States troops, and can do as you please with them; but two of the regiments belong to the State of Tennessee. Over those I have control. In the center of the city is a powder magazine; I have trenches dug connecting the magazine with every prominent building in Nashville, and trains are laid. Now you march out with your troops. I'll defend the city with my two regiments as long as I can. When I can do no more, I will fire the city and blow it to the heavens, for Nashville shall never be surrendered while I am alive.' Buell did not march out, and Nashville was not surrendered. What I tell you," said the merchant, "I heard. The moral grandeur and heroism of these utterances cannot be told. And that," quietly said the merchant, "is Andy Johnson, and so all will find him who have to do with him."

THE NEW RAILROAD AT THE CASCADES.—The last term of the District Court of Clark county, Washington Territory, closed on the 29th of October. During the session the case of D. F. Bradford and others against the Middle Cascade Portage Company, came up for hearing. It seems that certain parties are engaged in building a railroad from the Middle Block House to the head of the Cascades, and their line crosses certain property belonging to Mr. Bradford and others. Having a charter from the Washington Territory Legislature, with the usual power to take and appraise lands and assess damages, the Middle Cascade Portage Company procured the appointment of appraisers from the District Court, and proceeded to assess the sum to be paid. This was fixed at $1,000, and Mr. D. F. Bradford and associates appealed to the District Court. In court they refused to join issue on the facts, and plead irregularity of the award of the appraisers, and the invalidity of the defendants' charter. The Court sustained the appraisers and the validity of the charter. The case goes up to the Supreme Court of Washington Territory.—Mountaineer.

MOUNT HOOD.—The S. F. Call, in speaking of Hill's picture of Mount Hood, now on exhibition in the window of Jones, Wool & Sutherland's frame store, says it is one of the most poetic pieces of painting that has been exhibited in San Francisco for a long time. The view is from the bank of the Willamette, about forty-five miles from the volcano, and there is more "distance" expressed in this painting, than in any California picture ever produced, not excepting Bierstadt. The sun is just setting, the elk are browsing peacefully upon the bank—their figures in fine relief against the quiet mid-distance of water. On the right, is a clump of cottonwoods; on the left, the oak—the brilliancy of the dying leaf contrasting beautifully with the chilly silver white of the majestic, awfully grand object, which seems to float in the air, like a spirit mountain, rather than one "whose feet are in the foundations of the earth." The natural quiet and repose of the hour is represented to a degree that soothes the gaze, and lingers in memory, after turning to jostle along the unsentimental thoroughfare.

The steamer Sierra Nevada came near being lost while crossing the Columbia river bar on her last trip to Portland. She was struck by two tremendous seas in succession, which knocked the eagle off her stern, shook and loosened all her stern fastenings, and filled the cabin with water. The passengers thought they were lost, the ladies running about in their nightclothes crying, and wringing their hands, and the utmost consternation prevailing. The storm was one of the most terrific ever experienced in that proverbially stormy neighborhood.

Mr. Wilbur, Indian Agent at Yakima, is now engaged in collecting the scattered bands of Indians within his district for the purpose of taking them to Simcoe valley.

TELEGRAM, received at this place, a few days since, announces the safe arrival, at Washington, of the Hon. A. A. Denny, Delegate elect from this Territory.

The Legislature of Washington Territory meets on Monday next. We shall, in future, make some suggestions in regard to legislative matters.

SAILED.—The bark Geo. Washington sailed on Thursday last, with a cargo of lumber, for San Francisco.

Miscellaneous Items.

Hayden, clerk in the Post Office, died suddenly of heart disease, at the Clipper Restaurant, San Francisco, on the morning of Nov. 5th, the steward of the establishment being seized about the same time with cholera morbus. Quite a panic was created among the boarders, who imagined the cholera had broken out.

The Umatilla Advertiser of the 15th, says: "Monday night the safe of the Orleans Hotel was robbed of $3,500 in gold dust, belonging to a returned miner from Kootenai and Blackfoot, deposited for safe keeping over night. In addition, $3,000 belonging to the proprietor of the house went at the same time."

An Eastern paper says an edition of Webster's Illustrated Dictionary is in preparation in England, to be printed on large folio paper, in the best possible style of the art, regardless of expense. Less than three hundred copies will be struck off, and these will be sold by subscription, in paper cover, at £25 each.

The annual report of the Harbor Master of San Francisco shows that there are now engaged in the bay and coasting trade at that place, five hundred and twenty-seven vessels, having an aggregate of six hundred and thirty thousand and twenty-four tons.

It is but little known that the first anti-slavery paper started in the United States, was published in East Tennessee. It was called the Emancipator and published at Greenville, the home of President Johnson, by Benjamin F. Lundy, a Friend in religious faith, and a native of Belmont county, Ohio.

Talleyrand once took the conceit out of a young coxcomb in Paris, where he chanced to be dining. "My mother was renowned for her beauty," said the dandy. "She was certainly the handsomest woman I ever saw." "Ah!" taking his measure at once, "it was your father who was not good looking!"

Ex-Governor Wise said recently: "I am now convinced that the war was a special providence of God, unavoidable by the nation at either extreme, to tear loose from a black idol, from which we could never have been separated by any other means than those of fire and blood, sword and sacrifice."

Lieut. Col. Drake, 1st Oregon Infantry, on the 19th inst., assumed command of the Department of Columbia, with headquarters at Fort Vancouver, in place of George B. Curry, who has ordered himself out of the service.

Judah P. Benjamin, the late rebel Secretary, has been for many years separated from his wife, who lives in Paris. He is not a friend of womankind, it is said. The Chicago Republican understands that he is on his way to Australia, to practice in the criminal courts.

Billionaire is a new term invented for the benefit of the shoddy aristocracy.

GOLD DISCOVERIES.

The Washington Standard says: "We are informed by Mr. F. P. Foster, the prospector, that he has discovered a gold and silver bearing lode in the Cascade Mountains, situated about fifteen miles east of Mount Rainier, in a mountain called by the Indians Queathblue Lumati, or 'mountain of curious stones.' Mr. Foster came to this place with specimens of ore taken from this lode in August last, which were assayed by Mr. Pathro and pronounced good. Since then Mr. F., in company with a party of others, returned to the lode by way of the Nisqually trail, and came in a few days ago by the Naches road, bringing a quantity of ore for further investigation. An assay was made in Victoria, which resulted in a yield of forty dollars per ton. Two other assays have also been made, the certificates of which we have seen, both showing better than the first. The last test was as follows: Gold $45 00; silver, $11 25; total, $56 25. Mr. F. informs us that the rock is much decayed and easily broken. The vein runs in a northerly direction, and dips to the westward at an angle of forty-five degrees, and is ten feet thick, cased in granite. It has been traced to a distance of about fifteen hundred feet. Less than half a mile from the lode, is a stream of water sufficient to run a ten-stamp mill, at its lowest stage. There is plenty of good timber along the stream. Mr. Foster has named the ledge the 'Mount Rainier Lode,' and a company of five has been formed to commence operations with an arrastra, early in the spring. The distance to the lode from Olympia is about one hundred miles, and about the same from the Dalles. The location from this place by the Naches wagon road, leaving the same on 'the Summit,' and taking a southerly direction. We hope the company will give an early report of their proceedings, and that the yield may meet their most sanguine expectations."

MONTANA.—The Montana Post of October 28th says prospectors have the cold and snow of the mountains, and we hear of lodes discovered every where. The mill on the Lucas is progressing finely, and will soon be at work. Close to the Cavarone, a fine lode called the Coccaine has been struck by E. B. Cooly, prospecting heavily in gold. The following ledges have been recorded in the Madison County Recorder's Office: The Norwegian, Ramshorn district, by Fairweather & Co.; the Chas. A. King, Brown's Gulch, by M. C. Israel; the Saviry, Brown's Gulch, by Wm. Halford; the Bridger, in Wisconsin district, by John D. Moores.

A gentleman in town has informed us that he has discovered a quartz mountain, a few miles from Jefferson. The entire body of the mountain is dark, liver-brown gold ore.

The Walla Walla Statesman says: "Our friend, Dr. Bates, just down from Colville, informs us that Capt. Len. White is progressing finely with his steamboat. All the machinery was in and the vessel nearly ready for launching. A number of miners were down from the Upper Columbia, and bring flattering reports from the new mines. One man who had worked but a few weeks, brought down $2,500 as the result of his labors. In all, our informant estimates that returning miners had brought in $25,000. Captain White's boat, when finished, will be able to run up within sixty miles of the mines. There is then a bad canyon to pass, after which boats can readily ascend to the new diggings. The mining demand had effectually stripped the market of provisions, and the supply of flour was so light that shipments will have to be made from below."

GERMAN EMIGRATION.—The New York Herald has a letter from Berlin, in which the writer states that there is no diminution of the desire on the part of the Germans to emigrate to America, and predicts that there will be no falling off in the number arriving on the shores of the United States for a long time. It has been thought that new Germanies were to arise in Chile, on the river Platte, in Brazil, and in Australia, but the authorities directing these movements have given it up in despair, in view of the all-absorbing attractions which America impresses on the imagination and interest of the Germans. The Bremen Company have ordered two new steamers to meet the increasing emigration, and both lines will soon reduce the fares. Other lines are reported as about to be established.

An Eastern correspondent of the Oregonian gives the following as the prices for staple articles in Pennsylvania, at the present time: "There is every prospect of a hard winter here for poor people. Although grain and grass are abundant, cattle and hogs are scarce and high. We have no fruit at all, and very few potatoes. Wheat is worth over two dollars per bushel; potatoes, two dollars and twenty cents per bushel, and any kind of meat is twenty-five cents per pound. Fat hogs are selling at twelve and a half cents per pound on foot. Coal, eight cents per bushel. Butter, forty cents per pound, but money is plenty, and business of all kinds good."

Congress will convene on Monday next, and since the establishment of the Republic, none has ever had measures of graver import and more intimately connected with the existence and welfare of the nation, to deal with, than will this one. The great question to be dealt with is the reorganization of the Southern States, and it will require statesmanship of the highest order to accomplish it, so as to give peace and security in future to the country.

"MARCHING ON."

The following paragraph, taken from the Oregon Statesman, showing the present prosperity and wealth of the Willamette Woolen Mill Company,—all accumulated in the space of six or eight years, from the profits of their factory—may be read with interest and profit by those contemplating engaging in that business here, and is certainly a result sufficiently encouraging to induce the closest business man to invest freely in so profitable an enterprise. The wealthiest lumbering company on the Sound, cannot show a record of as great prosperity, although it commenced operations a capital many times larger than did the Salem Mill Company. Very fair profit is made by those engaged in lumbering and merchandising here at present, but we predict that the company who engage in woolen manufacturing, will soon leave them behind in the race for wealth, and will eventually be the capitalists of the Sound country: "The Willamette Woolen Manufacturing Company has purchased, during the past week, the extensive Furniture Factory water power, and eighteen acres of land, owned by Messrs. Watt & Bolter, lying on Mill creek, on the east side of Salem.

"We understand that it was this company which purchased the 'Methodist Parsonage Grounds,' noticed last week, and that they are now negotiating the purchase of the extensive Tannery of Holman & Clark, near the above Furniture Factory. When the Company secures this, it will have Salem surrounded, and own the Willamette Woolen Factory, the largest flouring mill on the coast, a sash and door factory, a furniture factory, a tannery, and water power mill sites enough for a dozen more mills—a very large success from a small beginning."

BIRMINGHAM.—General attention, says a London exchange, is directed to Birmingham, where a working man's industrial exhibition has been inaugurated with brilliant success, an ode for the occasion having won the prize offered by the Corporation by one himself professing to be an employee. Some years ago the term Birmingham was derisively applied to all articles of pretentious or meretricious worthlessness. We had Burmungan wit, philanthropy, gentility, morality, and scholarship. The name had come to be a synonym for all that was shabby and tricky, but, "non aconis clungit tot cetera." Whilst Birmingham is the toy-shop of the world she is also the queen of manufacturing towns, and few, if any, great undertakings in our empire could be completed without her assistance. Whether it is setting the jewels for a fair woman's neck, drawing out wire that is to carry our thoughts to the end of the earth with lightning speed, forging the bolts of our grim iron-clads, constructing the infant's cot, or beating out the coffin plate, she stands unapproached, the great Mother of Industry.

THE HEAD OF DANTE.—An Englishman who writes from Ravenna, Italy, thus describes the head of Dante, as found amongst his recent discovered bones:

The head was finely formed, and as the remains of the poet lay in state, on Sunday, the 25th of June, within the glass urn, under the chapel of Braccioforte, previous to their interment on the following day in the marble urn from whence they had been so recently abstracted, the cranium, which was slightly raised, showed by its ample and exquisite form that it had held the brain of no ordinary man. It was the most intellectually developed head that I ever remember to have seen.

IMPORTANT CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT PROPOSED.—The papers are circulating a proposed amendment to the Constitution, which contemplates the constant accession of the Vice President to the Presidency. A President and Vice President are elected. At the end of four years the former retires and the latter takes his place. Of course at each subsequent election only a Vice President is chosen. In this way the one term rule is adopted; the Vice President is selected with reference to his fitness for the first position; and for four years he is being educated for the next responsibilities he is to assume.

COATING WOOD.—A method of coating wood with varnish hard as stone, has been recently introduced into Germany. The ingredients are forty parts of chalk, forty of resin, four of linseed oil, to be melted together in an iron pot. One part of native oxide of copper, and one of sulphuric acid are then to be added, after which the composition is ready for use. It is applied hot to the wood with a brush, in the same way as paint, and, as before observed, becomes exceedingly hard on drying.

The Victoria papers report the discovery of a new creek in the Big Bend country, which was named Moberly Creek. It is said to pay from $10 to $50 per day. Mr. Turnbull, Civil Engineer, who was sent to explore a part of the Big Bend country by the Government, is missing. He was last seen in company with two Indians. A party has been sent in search of him.

DROWNED.—A dispatch from Canyonville, dated on the 18th inst., says: To-day about noon as Mr. A. Riddle, with his brother's wife and young babe, was attempting to cross the Umpqua about fourteen miles north of this place, the buggy capsized, drowning Mrs. Riddle and child. The bodies had not been recovered at the date of the dispatch.—Albany Journal.

NATIVE POLICE.—The Nainimo Gazette thus describes the capture of one of the Thorudye Murderers by Indian Police sent after him by Mr. Franklin, the Nainimo magistrate: After a rather stormy passage the canoe reached a spot about a mile distant from the Eucaltau camp on the Cape, where it was beached, and its crew, the better to ward off suspicion, hid themselves in the bush until darkness had set in. As soon as there was sufficient obscurity to conceal their movements they proceeded warily towards the hut where the supposed assassin resided—one of the party who knew the place acted as guide. The hut was reached without any mishap, and in it our Indian was discovered fast asleep. Creeping silently to the sleeper, the police endeavored to secure his arms and legs with deerskin thongs; but our gentleman was not to be taken so easily, throwing his would be captors aside, he managed to obtain his knife, and with it furiously attacked his assailants. The struggle was desperate, but of short duration, the knife was knocked from his hand by a blow from a club, another blow laid him prostrate, and the capture was complete. The police then conveyed their prisoner silently and rapidly to the canoe, which they launched, and made the best of their way down to Nainimo.

SHIPWRECK.—The Victoria Post says: Captain Mankin, of the bark Woodland, reports that on Tuesday last, while on his way to the Straits, he sighted a vessel at anchor near the American shore below Race Rock, apparently in distress. He at once stood up for her to proffer assistance, and on reaching her, found her to be the bark Hugh Barclay, from Port Discovery with lumber for San Francisco. She had been caught in the terrific south-easter of Sunday last, and lost her mainmast, her decks being clean swept of everything—cabin and midship house stove in, boats, galley, and even bulwarks carried away. The Captain asked Captain Mankin to report him to Mr. Wood, the manager at Port Discovery, and ask him to send a steam tug at once to tow him into port.

ARREST OF COUNTERFEITERS IN CANADA.—The Government has had Detective Armstrong for two weeks hunting a gang of counterfeiters of American silver. Armstrong arrived at Toronto, October 10th, having arrested five wealthy farmers, who are represented to have for forty years been manufacturing bogus silver, near Sterling. He also captured all the dies and money in the possession of the prisoners. They belong to a very extensive gang, of which many of the first merchants of the country are members.

The War Department has issued an order that all the sea-coast forts south of Fortress Monroe, excepting forts Taylor and Jefferson in Florida, will be garrisoned by colored troops. The requisite number of regiments has been selected for this duty.

An Emigrant Aid Society has been formed in Portland, Oregon, for the purpose of assisting the ladies, who are being brought out by Mr. Mercer, in finding homes.

The election in the State of Nevada has resulted in the success of the Union party, in nearly every county in the State.

SAILED.—The barkentine W. H. Gawley sailed for Port Madison yesterday.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—High and low, old and young, rich and poor, have availed themselves of Holloway's remedies, and have in gratitude testified to the success which has followed the employment of them. Few maladies can befall mankind which do not admit of alleviation, relief, or cure, by these healing, soothing, and purifying preparations. The action of Ointment and Pills is wholesome in the highest degree, and can never be harmful in either external or internal ailments. Holloway's remedies cure sores, ulcers, sprains, bruises, diphtheria, chest complaints, digestive disarrangements, and bilious disorders. In influenza, bronchitis, hoarseness, coughs, shortness of breath, and palpitation of the heart, this Ointment should be well rubbed upon the throat and the chest every night and morning.

RECIDIVITIES OF YOUTH;—SORES AND ULCERS.
 Blotches, as also swellings, can with certainty be radically cured if the Ointment be used freely, and the Pills be taken night and morning as recommended in the printed instructions. When treated in any other way these complaints only dry up in one place to break out in another; whereas this Ointment will remove the humour from the system, and leave the patient a vigorous and healthy being. It will require time, aided by the use of the Pills, to insure a lasting cure.
DIPHTHERIA, BRONCHITIS, SORE THROATS, COUGHS AND COLDS.
 Any of the above class of diseases may be cured by well rubbing the Ointment three times a day upon the skin covering the throat, chest and neck of the patient. The unguent will soon penetrate the pores and give immediate relief. To allay the fever and prevent inflammation, eight or ten Pills should be taken night and morning. The Ointment will produce perspiration, which is so essential for removing fevers, sore throats, and those oppressions of the chest which arise from Asthma, Bronchitis, and other causes.

HOLLOWAYS PILLS.
HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT
 THE EFFECT OF THE OINTMENT ON THE SYSTEM.
 To the very core, and centre of all diseases which affect the human body, this remarkable preparation penetrates. It disappears under the friction of the hand as salt disappears when rubbed upon meat.
 The unguent performs its healing errand rapidly, safely, and without pain. Simple eruptions, open sores, hard tumours, scrofulous developments of all kinds, abscesses, cancers, old wounds, and in fact, every species of inflammation or suppuration, whether in the skin, the flesh, the glands, or among the muscles, can be arrested in its destructive course and permanently cured without danger, by rubbing in this inestimable Ointment.
BAD LEGS, BAD BREASTS, SORES AND ULCERS.
 In many Hospitals in Europe this celebrated remedy is now used for the cure of old wounds, sores and ulcers; in Spain and Portugal, and in many parts of Italy, the first Physicians regularly prescribe its use.
 It is a sovereign remedy for bad breasts and bad legs; and likewise for all skin diseases. It is to be found in the chest of nearly every sailor, soldier and emigrant.
PILES, FISTULAS, STRUCTURES.
 The above class of complaints is surely removed by nightly fomenting the parts with warm water, and then by most effectually rubbing in this Ointment.
 Persons suffering from these direful complaints should lose not a moment in arresting their progress.
 It should be understood that it is not sufficient to merely smear the Ointment on the affected parts, but it must be rubbed in for some considerable time, two or three times a day, that it may be taken into the system, whence it will remove any hidden sore or wound as effectually as though it were palpable to the eye. Bread and water poultices, after the rubbing in of the Ointment, will do great service. This is the only proper treatment for females in cases of cancer in the stomach, or for those who suffer from a general bearing down.
