PACIFIC COAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25—The ship Western Shore, for Seattle, the bark King Philip, for Port Gamble, and the Bolivian bark Don Nicolas, for Victoria, were towed to sea this morning. The tugs left them inside of the bar, which was breaking heavily, the wind too light to enable the vessels to work across against the heavy rollers, and all three were carried about a mile south of the beards, where the breakers are continuous from the beach to the bar. All anchored in the breakers. This afternoon the King Philip parted her cables and went ashore; the others are still holding on, but are liable to go at any moment from the heavy sea running, owing to the recent gale.

The fate of the crew of the King Philip has not yet been ascertained. She will undoubtedly soon go to pieces. She is a bark of 1189 tons, owned by Pope & Talbot of this city. All the vessels were in ballast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24—The Workmen's Convention reassembled this morning. Officers were elected; as reported last night by the committee on permanent organization, with two changes, Wm. Wellock being added as Vice President and H. L. Knight as Secretary, in place of S. J. Farren. The committee on platform have not yet completed their work, only a few sections being thus far decided upon. The Convention will probably be in session the remainder of the week.

LATER—The committee on platform and declaration of principles of the Workmen's Convention have not yet reported, but some of the articles have been decided upon as follows: Opposing Chinese labor; restricting all persons holding land in excess of one square mile to that amount for cultivation and pasturage; demanding a financial system consistent with the agricultural, mechanical and mercantile interests and requirements of the country, uncontrolled by bankers and brokers; abrogation of the pardoning power of the President and Governors; favoring the formation of a Labor Party, to embrace all engaged in protective industry and its distribution; malfeasance in office to be punished by imprisonment for life without pardon; abolition of the contract system in the State prison, and goods manufactured there not to be sold below market rates; labor on public works to be done by the day at current rates of wages; eight hours to constitute a day's work.

It rained heavily in the city all day, culminating about four o'clock in a sharp hail shower, after which it cleared up for a while, but is now raining again.

Dispatches from the interior report heavy rains throughout the state, except in the extreme upper portion of San Joaquin valley and neighboring regions.

The Supreme Court has made an order affirming the judgment order of the Fourth District Court in the case of John Rank for the murder of officer Coote, and directing that the Court fix the day for carrying the sentence into effect. No opinion was filed.

YREKA, Jan. 24—It commenced raining here again this afternoon and is still raining. The different streams in the county have risen considerable, but as yet all are passable and no damage has been done. Stages from Redding have come in as usual since Monday, but bring no mails from south of that point. Considerable snow has fallen on the high mountains up to date, and the prospect for a good mining season is excellent. High winds have prevailed, off and on, for several days, and barns have been blown down; no further damage.

DAKOTA.

BISMARCK, Jan. 24—Official information from Gen. Miles' post at Fort Keogh says news is received here that Sitting Bull is at Frenchman's Creek with over a thousand lodges, including the escaped Nez Perces and refugees from agencies. These last number 800 warriors, and Sitting Bull's own camp 2,300, all well armed. The principal hostile chiefs are with him, Red Bear and two companies of infantry have been sent to Fort Peck to hold it. Indians from Sitting Bull's camp have been seen within ten miles of Peck. An attack upon both that and Keogh is among the possibilities. Miles has only 500 men.

EASTERN STATES.

DES MOINES, Jan. 23—The General Assembly to-day took a vote for U. S. Senator. In the Senate the vote stood—Allison 32, Miller 12. In the House—Allison 67, Miller 23, Gates 3.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24—The Times London special says the situation is again becoming very critical. There is authority for the statement that Russia is indignant at the attitude of England and is disposed to break off negotiations entirely or else delay them until possessed of military advantages which will enable her to meet an attack from England.

Advices received from St. Petersburg this morning show a marked change in the tone of the semi official press, indicating a possible change on the part of the government.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, Jan. 24—In the House of Commons, after Sir Stafford Northcote's notification, the Marquis of Hartington, leader of the Liberal party, asked how Sir Stafford would reconcile the inconsistency of this with the promise made the first night of the session not to make a proposal until the conditions of peace were received, and whether he would make any other statement calculated to allay the anxiety sure to be raised by the notice. Sir Stafford reminded the House that he expected the first night to know the terms of peace within two days. A week had elapsed and not only was the government not in possession of the terms of peace, but considerable Russian forces were still advancing, and therefore the government think they cannot longer delay the proposal.

In the House of Lords, Beaconsfield, in response to a question by the Duke of Argyll, spoke in the same strain as Sir Stafford. Beaconsfield distinctly said that England was not going to be dictated to by any other power. The Earl of Carnarvon, Colonial Secretary, and Lord Derby, foreign secretary, were not present. It was rumored in the lobby that the Earl of Carnarvon had resigned. Great excitement prevailed.

It is asserted from Bucharest that the march on Gallipoli is a military necessity for the purpose of cutting off the retreat of Suleiman whose troops are being embarked at Janniza, on the Gulf of Saros.

There is considerable apprehension here that from this military necessity may grow military occupation of Gallipoli, which would greatly embarrass the English troops in case of hostilities.

A correspondent at Pera says that an armistice has been agreed upon, though the terms are not known. He believes it includes everything demanded by Russia, as the Porte is determined to conclude peace at any price, allow the remainder of the fighting, if any must be done, to be carried on by some other power.

KEZANLIK, Jan. 24—A portion of Suleiman Pasha's train, consisting of 2,000 wagon, was captured on the 18th inst., near Hermanli, about 40 miles west from Adrianople.

From details received by the Russian staff, Gen. Gourko's victory at Philipopolis was more complete than at first announced. Suleiman Pasha's whole army 40,000 strong was engaged, and finally split into two parts, one commanded by Farada Pasha, fled to the mountains and the other, under Suleiman Pasha, retreated in the direction of Haskoi, pursued by Generals Scobelloff and Scarsoff. The Russians captured 97 guns. Both fractions of the Turks seem to have reached Drama.

THE SKYKOMISH.

Year by year, the farms are steadily increasing in size, the stumps removed and an increased population secured for the cultivation of grain and similar crops.

The Skykomish is navigable for canoes thirty miles from where it empties into the Snohomish, or rather unites with the Snoqualmie to form the Snohomish. No steamer has ever attempted to go on its waters. A light draft vessel, most of the year, could go nearly as far as a canoe could run.

The logging camp of John Elwell, Jr. is some twelve miles from its mouth. No settlers are above that point.

A wagon road from Snohomish City, via Pill Chuck bridge, and along the west side of the big marsh, reaches the skykomish at Park Place postoffice, a new townsite some four or five miles above the mouth of the river, an excellent site for a town; Mr Salem Woods is the proprietor.

Four miles above this townsite Mr. S. owns one of the most valuable farms in the county, situate on Woods' Prairie, through which runs Woods' Creek. This place is some three-fourths of a mile from the river, a ridge separating the creek bottom from the river bottom. This ridge terminates a short distance above this prairie, from where it is level to the river. There are several very valuable places on the creek between Woods' Prairie and Park Place, formed in part by natural prairies, the principal ones being Cochran's, S. Peterson's and Richardson's. No more fertile soil or better situated places can be imagined than these. Mr. Peterson seems to be industry personified. He acquired title to his place but a short time since, and will allow none to surpass him in doing good work in improving and beautifying his place.

Mr. J. Cochran's place presents the most natural advantages to make money easily of any other place in the county.

A good sized prairie, sloping toward the south and east about ten degrees, soil as fertile as can be, with a small perennial, crystal stream running through it. Could Mr. C. have been content to confine himself to this beautiful place, he would now have had his tens of thousands of dollars to loan, and would never need to work more. In place of that, he interested himself in so much other land as to become land poor, then he turned his attention to prospecting for gold, silver, coal etc., and has rendered valuable service to the public in this respect, but not to his own benefit, thus far. Mr. Ford now lives on his place, and is manufacturing an excellent quality of cheese on a large scale. Mr. Richardson has a fine place adjoining Cochran's and is doing well. Charles Taylor lives adjoining Park Place and below it. He has a fine place, well improved and is liked by all. Nearly opposite and below him are the fine farms of C. Harriman and Andrew Johnson, among the best in the county. Mr. J. is considered the most systematic, neat and careful farmer in the county. Everything is in "apple-pie" order on his place and work is thoroughly done.

Back of these two places, some six years ago, Mr. A. W. Foye purchased improvements on the bottom land consisting of four acres slashed with about one-half of that cleared. Now he has thirty acres slashed and cleared, and thirty acres more slashed and partially cleared. His timber is mostly maple and other timber that rots easily. At this rate, in four years more, he will have 100 acres slashed and three-fourths of it cleared, as the stumps rot very quickly when the trees are once cut down. Beside this he has a new house and barn. For the time he has been there, he has made a greater showing than any one else on the river. He regrets not putting out an orchard when he first settled on the place. He is now making up for it, so it will not be long before he will have fruit in abundance. Others feel the same way in this respect, and are setting out large orchards, among them being Mr. Charles Cedergren, who lives on the road from Snohomish to Park Place.

Many other important points, with an account of the logging interests of the river, remain to be described some other time.

STILLAGUAMISH ITEMS.

Mr. D. O. Pearson reports improved business prospects. He has just erected a large and convenient warehouse on the river bank in front of his store.

A visit to the site of the Stillaguamish jam, some six miles, by the river channel, above Mr. Pearson's store at Stanwood, and the information there obtained in reference to that jam, furnishes matter of sufficient interest to submit to the readers of the STAR.

Work was begun on the jam April 11 1877, by Frank Ledger, J. H. Matthews and Jessie Jones. No saw-logs were in the jam, so there could be no other hope of remuneration than what they might collect on a subscription amounting to $422, raised among the people in that vicinity. The jam was one fourth of a mile in length. The timber was chiefly spruce and cedar. The men went to work to remove it as quickly as possible by cutting and removing the logs from one side only, allowing the rest to work loose before trying to cut across the stream; in this way they accomplished in a few months what good engineers had estimated to be the work of several years. The main jam went out of the river on Sunday, November 11, 1877, and there is no danger of its jamming again. Considering the means employed, the work to be done and the result accomplished, this is the most successful, praiseworthy and public-spirited enterprise of the kind, yet undertaken and carried through.

Mr. Robb, formerly a logger on this river, is opening up a valuable ranch near the head of the jam. He does not wait for the vine maple stumps to rot, but cuts them off high enough to fasten a chain around them, then a couple of yoke of oxen quickly pull them out of the ground. After grubbing an acre of land in this thorough way it requires no plowing.

There are now about twenty-five settlers above where the jam was. Messrs. Matthews, Ledger and others, report that there is room for thousands of settlers up that river; that a light draught steamer could run, a large portion of the year, some 38 miles up it, while it is navigable for canoes nearly or quite to its head waters, some 75 miles. The higher up the river you go, the less the overflow.

The head of the stream is a large spring which wells out of the ground, named by the surveyors of the N.P. Railroad Company, "Guzzlers' Glory." The portage is only 3 1/2 miles across from that place to the Sauk, one of the main tributaries of the Skagit.

A careful survey of the Stillaguamish valley will satisfy any one that it contains many elements of wealth heretofore unnoticed.

WHAT TWO MEN HAVE DONE.

Of all the places visited in Western Washington none excels in natural advantages for farming purposes, the sites offered by the ranches of Messrs. Cotton Hurley and others, holding claims on the north side of La Grande marsh, situate some five miles from town, between here and the Skykomish river. The general direction of the marsh is east and west. It might be truly said that these two gentlemen have done about all that has been done toward opening up and improving this, one of the most valuable tracts of land in the Territory. Beside building roads and clearing fir land for orchards and building sites, on the north side of the marsh, they have dug one main ditch a mile long, large enough and deep enough to float a canoe carrying two tons of freight, and have dug several miles more of smaller ditches for local drainage. Here are several thousand acres now opened up for cultivation. The title for most of it is in the hands of individuals. It is not subject to overflow. No diking required, yet equal in fertility to the best tide marsh. This tract, when all improved, is capable of raising as much grain as is now raised from the whole Swinomish flats around La Conner. With a dozen more men to go there and work as these have done, it could all be improved inside of five years. Mr. Hurley has 340 and Mr. Cotton 160 acres of land there, all drained, nearly ready for cultivation.

THE PLUMMER DRYERS.

The proprietor of the celebrated Plummer fruit dryer is now on the Sound. He has sold the right to a great number of counties, and it is hoped some one will purchase the valuable right for this county, and proceed at once to manufacture and sell them. They sell all the way from $75 to $600, according to size. The process is as valuable for drying meats and vegetables as for drying fruits; decreasing the bulk four-fifths; putting it in shape to be handled or transported anywhere, and at a trifling cost, more than doubling its value. On this river a fortune could be made drying wild berries, to say nothing of the benefits arising from an increased culture of fruit and berries for drying purposes.

The day of publication of the STAR has been changed from Saturday to Wednesday, the reason being that at reduced expense, it can be forwarded quicker to its readers, owing to present steamboat connections, than on any other day.

Local Items.

The small amount of reading matter in last week's issue, was owing to the fact that it was necessary to have the paper out at a given date to retain certain business, and there was not time to set up more matter. This community were so eager for its reappearance that they were well satisfied as it was, and no pains will be spared to make its future appearance such that none will have just cause for complaint.

It was a matter of general interest to the boys to see the transformation made in Chase's appearance when he doffed his logging camp outfit, and donned his nice, tidy, new clothes to go among folks. He looked so neat that a person would be apt to mistake him for some city gent in place of Chase, the logger. The boys being all there, it is unnecessary to say anything more.

PUBLIC ENTERPRISE:—Messrs. Larrimer and Stevenson, living opposite this place and south of the marsh, have begun work on the ditch, which they propose cutting from the place of commencement below Mr. Little's, wide enough for boats to go from the river to the highland across the marsh some two miles. They have received some assistance and deserve much more.

BAKERY.—Miss. Mathewson is supplying a want felt for some time past, by baking for the public. She is an excellent cook and none need to complain of the bread or pastry she furnishes. The bakery is in the rear of Hughes' butcher shop.

BRIEF NOTES.

Campbell's is the place to go to get fresh oysters, cooked in first-class style.

Mrs. R. Haskell is dangerously ill with typhoid fever. It is feared that she will not recover.

But few logs are now at the Point, and there will not be many to send from the river before May.

Messrs Packard & Jackson have just finished a convenient warehouse on their wharf in the rear of their store.

Competent judges estimate that there are now 5,000,000 feet of logs in the water, up river, at the Point and all other places in this valley.

Eugene D. Smith is running two camps, eight men each, and employs three teams, twenty-six oxen in all. One is a yarding team, the other two are on the roads.

The B. B. Coal Co. are offering to sell out their store, goods and everything connected therewith, on very liberal terms, as appears by the last Mail, in a column long advertisement.

Very heavy tides last week, flooding many ranches on the tide marshes. Over the dikes on the Stillaguamish and Swinomish. Dikes broken in several places in the vicinity of La Conner.

From all accounts Will Andrews is rapidly working himself into public favor at La Conner and its vicinity. His perseverance, industry and strict attention to business will doubtless make him the legal authority in that growing section.

NOTICE.

On Monday afternoon, Feb. 11, 1878, at ten o'clock, a meeting will be held at the Riverside hotel, in Snohomish City, of the Snohomish county Agricultural Society, for the purpose of making all necessary arrangements for paying the indebtedness of the Society, as well as take such action as may be deemed necessary toward reorganizing the Society so as to make it a stock in place of a membership society.

Should no action be taken on any proposed plan of reorganization, at that time, then said meeting will proceed to the election of officers for the Society for the ensuing year; otherwise the election of officers will be postponed until the acceptance or rejection of said proposed reorganization. The Trustees of the Society are also required to meet at the office of the Secretary, at 10 A. M. of the same day to make a final settlement of the Society accounts. Per order of the Trustees,

ELDRIDGE MORSE, Secretary.
