is nny mites by trail to Eagle City, with the flockies to cross,—the whole making a difficult and rough route."

What "bursts the bubble?" The idiotic conglomeration of nonsense that preceeds the opening of the above paragraph? Is there anyone imbeelle enough to suppose for the fraction of a moment that columns of any such rubbish is to effect Spokane Falls as a shipping point to the mines, considering its situation and advantages? About the only correct statement that will bear inspection in the whole article stands out in the above paragraph like an oasis in a desert, and it is that Spokane is in Washington Territory, although the figures attached have the effect of locating it down on Snake river. As a geographical description of the country and route into the mines from the Falls the effort above quoted stamps the author as the most jumnitigated ignoramus on the conglinent, and we republish the same so that the people hereabouts may form some idea of the reliability of many of the statements now peasing current for correct reports of the form some idea of the reliability of many of the statements now passing current for correct reports of the mining district in the press of the mining district in the Trees of the country. Let us flash a ray of light on the above statements. Spokane Falls, as a point of departure for the mines was never a bubble. Last summer, when the first rumors of gold discovery were whispered about the country, in easy reach of the present gold center men refused to believe that gold could exist so near and yet remain unknown to the world up to so late a date, but the constant display of coarse grains of Courier took the lead in making pub-lic these finds and as soon as it was lie these finds and as soon as it was demonstrated by ocular proof the REVIEW came in a good second and announced the existence of gold. From that very date Spokane Falls has been considered one of the best points of departure, as it will ever continue to be. The travel flowed from here naturally, and was never bolstered up by artificial methods and as a bubble it is the most substantial one that was ever inflated. The very very iocation of the city neading toward the innes, and we've ten thousand new starting points to be laid out, Spokane would always remain the principal and best. It is not 130 miles from the mines, unless one wished to go in by the way of the Columbia river or other remote points. The preposterousness of the statement that "you travel 35 miles statement that "you travel 35 miles up a trail along a stream," would not be noticed were it not that it may be swallowed by those for whom the hook was bated with such trash. The road from Spokane Falls to Post Coeur d'Alene is up the wide and magnificent valley of the Spokane river, and at all seasons of the year is one of the most delightful drives in America, not only on account of the absence of all impediments but also on account of the variedness of the absence of all impediments but cyulative with the region what a subshed fool a man can make of himself when he tries:

"The aim in this article is to present imple facts touching the new gold discretized with that of any road world. The river is crossed but the between Idaho and Montans, which we come to be called the Cour d'Alene ince, but which, as will be seen, are missined. The facts are based on information. The facts are based on information.

nature has set up almost insurmountable harriers, which will countened the efforts of interested individuals to a great extent Prior to the discovery of the mines the long stretch of railroad between Spokane Falls and Missoula contained but a few uninviting, unattractive way and water stations, with no hopes of a growth and with no inducements to attract settlement. After the gold find was made known it became apparent to many shrewd and money making men that all that was necessary was to get hold of some land adjoining the railroad anywhere between the Falls and Missoula, and by judicious advertising of a new route to the mines make a big speculation out of the venture. So one after another hitherto unknown stations were sprung upon the public and such names as Herron, Trout Creek, Hope, Gold Run, Tompkins' Falls and a host of others became commonlater. The last candidate for public sprung upon the public and such names as Herron, Trout Creck, Hope, Gold Run, Tompkins' Falls and a host of others became common-place. The last candidate for public notice is Belknap. As the article states, capitalises purchased the land at Belknap, and by standing in with the railroad—(which by the way is one of the most unscrupulous acts the corporation has ever been guilty ofy—and paying the company a certain per cent. of the sales of lots, the railroad discriminates in its favor by ignoring other stations just as favorably located as Belknap. Tids may make lots more marketable, 8th it does not make the trail one whit the better. After succeeding in bringing to their aid this powerful factor, those engaged in lauding the claims of Belknap go on to say that a wagon road is being constructed to Eagle City, and that vehicles will be running over it in a short time, carrying passengers, freight, express, mail, etc., and representing it as the only open route to the mines. Let us consider this trail of road scheme. If you see a report published that a road has been laid out from any

If you see a report published that a road has been laid out from any point since winter set in, put it down as a snare and delusion. Winters in the high altitudes of that part of the world in which the several points of departure are located are no tame affairs. It must be understood that the co.d is intense and snow fails to a great depth. Spokane Falis can be reached by the Northern Pacific from east or west. From here there will be two routes into the mines next spring, at present there being but one. There is a level, finely graded road from here to Coeur d'Alene City. At the present time there are two stage companies running to that point. The Spokane and Coeur d'Alene Transportation Company run out two rigs every morning, one for passengers and the other for freight, always learning of the specimen of accurate the control of the specimen of the specimen of accurate the control of the specimen of th have but little stomach for scenery, it will be here held out to them free of charge. These roads were surveyed out before the snow fell and are just as represented. With the completion of this wagon road, which will be pushed ahead as soon as the weather permits work, and for which money has alfready been subscribed, Spokane Falls will have a direct route into the mines at all seasons of the year. thousands of dollars. The Belknap trail is one of a day, and is doubtful for that length of time in the face of continuous storms. It may be only 35 or 40 miles from the mines by road, but from the natural impediments it might as well be 200 miles. We have nothing against Belknan. It can never be a rival to the Falls as a point of departure to the mines, but when paid suckers endeavor to attract travel to that out-of-the-way place by misrepresenting our city we are right here to chronicle real facts in the case. We have shown up the discrepances and silly bulls in the article from which we quote, and will close by showing why Spokane, at the property of the mines. It is a well known fact that gold and silver both exist of the finders whether or no the result of the assay would justify the working of the vein, and pending the report of experts it was thought unwise to create an excitement that; if the reports were unfavorable, would only bring disappointment to those led into a trip to the country by permature publicity through the columns of the press. The specimens forwarded to assayers have been thoroughly tested and if any faith can be put in the written statements of that class of professional gentlemen we are at liberty to say that the quartz mines of Stevens Country willeut an important figure in the mineral production of Washington Territory for years to come. Severaf claims have been taken up in the same vicinity and before the expiration of the year there will be a busy colony in the neighborhood of this find. Should the mines prove as productive as is anticipated, the section will be of great importance to Spokane Falls as well as the country at large. Our city would have no competition in the bid for trade, and its ability to supply any demand made upon it gives it a prestage that competition in the old for trace, and its ability to supply any demand made upon it gives it a prestage that insures the place not only the patronage of the northern country, but of all the territory surrounding. The City Council met last Monday evening, but on account of the absence of S. C. Ilyde, who is in the mines, the Board adjourned to Monday evening next without transacting any business. If Mr. Ilyde returns in time it is expected that several new ordinances will be passed and a franchise begranted for lighting the city with the electric light.

The Northesset, E. V. Smalley's paper published in New York City, very plainly hints that the object of the visit of A. M. Cannon and J. J. Browne to the East is to secure a railroad from Spokane Falls into the mines. We have suspicioned all along that that was the aim of the trip, and would not at all be surprised if the genilemen succeeded in their undertaking. We direct attention to the card of Stigleler & Morrow, Abstractors, in another column. These young gentlemen come to our country highly recommended, and propose to make a complete abstract of titles to lands in this country. They are now at work at Cheney, and in a short time one of the parties will open an office here. They are competent men and are doing a work that has long been needed to this country.

Glies Clark, of the firm of Clark & Mavin, struck out this week for his home in Ionia, Mich. Mr. Clark has been with us for several months and has done well with his large carriage and wagon factory on First street. He goes east for the purpose of bringing out his family and making this his future home. We wish him a pleasant journey and speedy return.

L. S. Howledt, of Portland who will probably be the next Governor of Washington Territory, called at this office this week during the absence of the editor. Col. Howlett has been spending several days in our city and was entertained by the principal residents during his stay. The gentlemen is a brillant writer, a charming conversationalt and possesses more than ordinary ability, and should be be appointed to the gubernatorial chair we believe him perfectly capable of conducing the affairs of state in a satisfactory and a business like manner.

We are sincerely pleased to once more be able to shake the fist of Louis Ziegler, who appeared on the street this week after a prolonged, painful and dangerous attack of sickness. Mr. Ziegler looks as though he had had a tough time of it, and in fill out the rotundity that ensewhile stretched his vests. The town has been flooded with rumors regarding the sudden demise of Mrs. C.W. Carson. All kinds of reports have been put in circulation, some of them too absurd to pay any attention to. We regret this on account of the husband of the deceased and the friends of the family, and hope to put at rest any and all absured stories. The body was thoroughly examined by three of our most competent physicians and they make the following statement, which ought to set to rights any suspicion of foul play or violence.

We, the undersigned physicians, called in to examine into the cause of the death of the late Mrs. C. W. Rockane Noticer Brist does not hold its prestige as the entrepot for the mining territory It will be no fault of the citizens. They have in this Instance shown an activity and enterprise worthy of the cause, and have grasped the situation with a grasp that will not give way before any obstacle. They have contributed time, labor and money with a liberal hand and the result shows their sagacity. It will be the means not only of drawing thousands of people to our city en route for the mines, but provides them a transportation that they would not find elsewhere. While we have an excellent road to Coeur d'Alene City, with connection with the Steam Navigation Company with the Steam Navigation Compan to carry freight and passengers by water to the mines, yet the promot-ers of the local enterprise did not stop there but pushed still further stop there but pussed still intriner ahead in the determination to fur-nish a direct route that the most in-chement season can not impair.
