Mormon Ambition.

Boston, June 23.—Several months ago, by authority of the war and interior departments, a gentleman of this city went on a secret mission among the Mormons and endeavored to learn the truth or falsity of reports that they were arranging for an uprising against the government. Although he has not yet made an official report of his observations and conclusions, he has indicated something of his important discoveries. In a private letter to a friend in this city he says that the time is not far distant when an army of 100,000 men will be none too small for a campaign that will spread from Utah to Wyoming and Montana on the north and to Arizona and New Mexico on the south. At the bottom of these troubles lie the Mormons. This infamous sect is the most thoroughly disloyal element in the union. All their actions since they settled by the shores of the Great Salt Lake have been governed by comprehensive and deep-laid schemes some day to establish a grand empire of their own, independent of the national union. This scheme they are carrying out with accuracy and comprehensiveness with a view of anything that has ever distinguished Jesuitism. They have not concentrated in one region, but have spread out over the widest possible territory. Therefore, an invading army would have to distribute itself over a wide extent of ground. All the region over which they have spread they are covering with a mesh like warp of ranches and farms, and are winding this up with the wool of their rapidly multiplying brood. Polygamy is a part of their scheme, the best instrument they could devise speedily to secure population to cover land with their own progeny. Mormon women, far from finding their position burdensome, as has been frequently asserted, really glory in it. Wives vie with each other to see which will bear the most children.

The Moscow Mines.

From the Nez Perce News.]
Some of the quartz from the recently discovered Moscow mines, especially the decomposed rock carrying red and black oxides of iron, is very rich in gold; we got nearly 40 colors from a piece of this size of a walnut by a simple water assay; acid tests develop traces of copper sulphates, but oxides and manganese of iron predominate over the base metals. The body of rich ore in sight is not extensive, but there is sufficient to justify those practical miners already in the field to give their claims a thorough prospecting. Outcroppings of the great vein, of which the new mines are feeders, have been traced through to the Spokan river; its course is due north and south, and from the surface indications it appears to dip to the eastward at about an angle of 45°. The range traversed by this vein is at the level of Paradise Valley, and may be described as spurs of the Coeur d'Alene mountains, an inter-montane range lying between the Cascade and Bitter Root divides. The country rock in the vicinity of the new mines is a gray decomposed micaceous granite, bearing palpable evidences by its irregular composition of having been subjected since its primitive formation to internal igneous action. The beds of the creek draining these hills have been profitably worked for the last twelve years and are still yielding moderately of the golden sands of Pactolus. The hills themselves are covered with float quartz from which color can be obtained by crushing and washing; the rock from the new discoveries presents, when roasted very much the appearance of cinnabar in its native state. It is of course impossible for the best scientist to predict what may or may not be developed as depth is

Good Farm Hands.

There are many young men seeking employment on farms who do not seem to comprehend what the term "good farm hands" means. It is not merely an ability and willingness to work, nor is it enough that he be acquainted with all the routine of farm business. Laborers come in contact with the farmer, and as a matter of conscience and duty the employer wants help of good moral character, who not only keep sober and are always at the place of business, but who will not be teaching his sons—the pride and hope of his life—all the foul lessons of debauchery and crime with which too many laborers are associated. When kind mother first hears her son swearing, or learns of his smoking cigars, she is generally informed that such things come from the example and teachings of the hired help. A farmer not only wants his help kind to his stock, but it is of far more importance that they should be careful of the morals of his children. In hiring hands those who use liquor should be taken only when strictly temperate and moral ones cannot be had. The practice of smoking is a serious one on a farmer. It is probable that half the fires in the country which destroy barns are caused by careless smokers. It is a dirty practice at best, but when it enters so seriously a man's character, he should discriminate against smoking. We acknowledge the right of any man to smoke, but the right to refuse to employ them is equally as just. Profanity, obscenity, intemperance, disregard of the law of God and the State, etc., should be a bar to all from the farm and from a free intercourse with the farmer's family, and we trust in employing help, farmers will look more to the moral health of their rising sons, as well as the security of their property. It is due to the future character of our country that the farmer should bear faithful testimony against intemperance, vice, immorality and obscenity in all their forms. And young men who are loose on all these questions should be taught that on the farm, with the innocent children, is no place for anything which is unclean. In thought, word or action.—Journal State Register.

Unwieldy Children.

The penitential refuses to put those two words together; but my ears ring with the dreadful story they have heard, and which it filled my heart must find an outlet. Do you expect a new record of some brutal beating or some horrid ill-treatment of a group of orphans? Not if that were all the injustice and shameful abuse of children, we might well appoint a day of exultant thanksgiving. Listen! This is what I heard. The speaker I know not. Of the whereabouts of that one home—no, I will not use that name—of that one staying place, I am happily ignorant. What city or town is so unfortunate as to contain it I hope not to know, for I should dread it. This I know; that somewhere there is a young husband and a young wife—a young father and a young mother—who make a business of congratulating their unmarried friends, and warning them to keep so. Why? Because, forsooth, there are "two nuisances, one to be taken up as soon as the other is put down," and all pleasure in life is gone. Sometimes I wish I knew the names of those poor babies, that happily I might see them in the death column and know that of unloving arms. And then I fear that those are only the outspoken words which other fathers and mothers do not yet quite dare to speak. God help those little children—worse than orphaned, for an orphan may embrace in the heart an ideal mother and pour out before it a child's devotion. God help those parents—save them from the misery of an old age in which they shall know yearning for filial love and tenderness, which is the blissful reward of parental love and care, and save them, too, from the remorse which sometimes rises like a ghost from the grave of an unwelcome babe, and whose haunting presence will not be banished. I remember a merry group of five children, boys and girls, full of health and activity. The mother—not an al### together unloving one—was orderly, energetic, full of life in her circle as were the children in theirs. I remember—I wish I might forget—how many times she said impatiently: "Those dreadful children, they are always in the way. I used to have a comfortable home—now the noise and confusion with their toys is unbearable. I can't go anywhere; there's always sewing to do for those troublesome children."

There came an evening when a messenger brought us a pleading request to "come speedily." Diphtheria had entered the house and was busy with its fearful work. Pitiful as were the sufferings of the children, those of the mother were more so. One after another four gave up the struggle, and only the fifth conquered and lived. Very merciful, God struck the mother with such physical weakness that she scarcely knew her bereavements till, slowly recovering strength, she gradually comprehended the change in the house. I am glad to remember, though they were so sad, the tender paths of the words she often spoke afterwards: "I was not worthy of them; how gladly now I would make it the business of my life to make them happy if I could have them with me. I count nothing burdensome I can do for the good and happiness of my darling who is left."

Columbia River Bar.

Our dispatches, say a recent issue of the Victoria Colonist, announce the loss of another fine bark on the Columbia river sands. These disasters have become so numerous of late that the day is not far distant when shipwreck and owners will have to turn to Puget Sound for a harbor which will be approachable at all hours and in all weathers. Nothing need be expected from the company who hold the section of railway from Tacoma to Kalama in their hands. They are too deeply interested in Portland town lots to make the carriage of wheat over their line to a Puget Sound port profitable. The only hope for Washington Territory to grasp, and control the wheat trade of its own section and Oregon is to attract the notice of Eastern capital to the rival harbors which indent the shores of Puget Sound, and to make it an object to the holders of that capital to construct a railway from Columbia river to Seattle by a road in running order three-fourths of the shipping that now finds its way to Portland would resort to Puget Sound. What makes this last disaster the more galling is that the bark was loaded with Washington Territory wheat, the shipment of which might easily be diverted to Seattle. We would impress upon our Puget Sound contemporaries the importance of directing the attention of their people to this unfortunate matter. Who is the Territorial Representative at Washington? and why is his voice not heard in support of this great scheme, which is worthy the attention of the foremost statesmen of the day? We can not help thinking that if the wide-awake Seattle newspapers would devote more time to pressing this matter on the notice of their readers, they would confer a blessing on the Territory. In three or four years' time ships will load at Victoria with grain in the interior of this Province, while Washington Territory—unless her citizens should bestir themselves meanwhile—will continue to pay tribute to Oregon, and will continue to see about every fifth cargo of her wheat come to grief on the bar.

The Hottest Spot on Earth.

One of the hottest regions on the earth is along the Persian gulf, where little or no rain falls. At Bahrin the arid shore has no fresh water, yet a comparatively numerous population contrive to live there, thanks to the copious springs which break forth from the bottom of the sea. The fresh water is got by diving. The diver, sitting in his boat, winds a great gasket bag around his arm, the hand grasping its mouth; then takes in his right hand a heavy stone, to which is attached a strong line, and, thus equipped, he plunges in and quickly reaches the bottom. Instantly opening the bag over the strong jet of fresh water, he springs up the ascending current, at the same time closing the bag, and is helped aboard. The stone is then hauled up, and the diver, after taking breath, plunges again. The source of the copious submarine springs is thought to be in the green hills of Osman, some 500 or 600 miles distant.

Secretary Hunt proposes to present to the next congress a report on the pressing need of the navy for proper vessels and for that purpose he appointed an advisory board of officers to consult, reconcile opinions and unite in recommending such as congress would likely approve.

There has been a sharp advance in the price of lumber in San Francisco.

Lumber which last year sold for $18 per thousand is quoted at $25, and that which sold for $27 now rates at $33 and $35.

Necessity for Earnestness.

From the Canada School Journal.
Much harm is often done by persons who are simply using the teaching profession as a stepping stone to another, and who, instead of having their hearts in the work, only perform it mechanically, which they tolerate because they expect soon to be done with it forever. Now, teaching is drudgery of the kind, if it be performed mechanically or unwillingly; but when performed by one who, from a love of the work, has chosen it as his life-long profession, and who day after day sits in judgment on his own work, and corrects yesterday's mistakes by today's clearer light, it is an ennobling employment, one in which there is no spark of drudgery.

Outward should be the teacher's motto, as well for himself, as for his pupils; and if it be not outward it will be backward; for if he be not a better teacher this term than he was last, he is a poorer one; and if at the end of the day he sees no errors, he has not interest enough in his work to look for them.

A teacher has no right to carry his personal cares and sorrows into the school-room, and go through his work with an abstracted air or a woeful countenance. He belongs in school hours not to himself, but to his pupils; and should drop outside of the school-room all selfish thoughts. This is by no means impossible to do; one will never be able to control the minds of others until he brings his own into subjection to his will; and when this is completed, a person need never allow a thought foreign to the subject under consideration to enter his brain. A teacher should be a cosmopolitan on which he spends more time than their importance demands, or which, because he likes them himself, he teaches to the exclusion of those who would tend more to the development of the intellectual powers of his pupils, or which would be of more practical utility to them in after life. He has no right to have a particular class which he wishes to advance. His full interest belongs to the school in general, not to a few individuals, or to a class in particular. If a teacher does not meet with that success to which he looked forward, he must not attribute it to the incorrigibility of his pupil, but search for the cause of failure in himself; in nine cases out of ten he will not have to go any further to find it.

It is the teacher's duty to cultivate a healthy constitution and a cheerful disposition.

A sound body is indispensable to a sound mind. It is true that many gigantic intellects have been enclosed in frail bodies; but their weakness was perceptible in all their mental acts. We can read Milton's blindness, Pope's suffering, and Burns' poverty, in nearly all their productions; so our own physical deformities and external annoyances show themselves in every undertaking, and that which in a great mind was simply a peculiarity, may become in us a monomania.

Our pupils will be just what we make them.

If we enter the school-room with a listless air, our pupils will be listless and inattentive; if we come in with a careless, languid gait, they will acquire a lagging gait and sleepy dispositions; if we are autocratic, they will be autocratic; if we are cheerful, amiable and industrious, they will be just as quick in forming these habits, for children are imitative creatures.

About two weeks ago a difficulty arose between James W. Offield and Matthew Montgomery, near Alnota, W. T., which culminated in the shooting and instant death of the latter individual.

Offield after the killing was arrested and lodged in jail. A few days since he had a preliminary examination before a justice of the peace at Pomeroy. It being shown to the entire satisfaction of the committing magistrate that the killing of Montgomery was justifiable, under the circumstances, Offield was discharged.

The Spokan Times.

Edited by Francis H. Cook
SPOKAN FALLS, THURSDAY, July 7.

OUR NATIONAL BIRTHDAY.

The celebration of the Fourth of July is wholly an American affair—American in its motive, its plans and its purpose. With the spirit of the day we are naturally carried back in thought to past events, calling to memory the time when this living, moving, growing young Republic first drew its natal breath. A little more than one hundred years ago Great Britain was probably the most powerful nation in the world. She had just terminated a war with the combined forces of France and Spain, and her victories on land and sea had been both advantageous and glorious. In order to liquidate in a measure her national debt, her ministers resolved to levy a tax upon the American colonies. The colonists claimed a representation in Parliament, and frankly denied the right of taxation without representation.

As early as 1755, the mother country restricted the trade of the American colonies with the West Indies. Afterward, she limited each province to the use of its own manufactures. This was followed by a bill laying heavy duties upon all importations into the colonies from the French and other West India Islands, payable into the English treasury in specie! Then was passed Granville's famous stamp act; and following this was the Boston massacre, and the overturning of cargoes of tea into the Boston harbor, by the disheartened Americans.

The British Parliament and ministers were plotting to subjugate the Americans who had even dared to think of freedom. They would darken the American waters by a British navy; overrun their colonies by an English army; cast a shadow across the doorway of every American household by a British guard; and finally, rivet the chains of servitude which they had long been forging on every American arm!

The first American Congress was called to meet in Philadelphia in 1774. With the battles of Bunker's Hill, Concord and Bunker's Hill, the Revolution began in earnest. When the second Continental Congress met the Declaration of Independence was drawn up by Thomas Jefferson and duly signed. It was received with the greatest enthusiasm by the American people.

At the request of Congress, George Washington took charge of the American army in 1776. At the end of seven long and eventful years, he triumphed over the genius of the most celebrated soldiers of the age.

We now look upon the United States as a nation free and independent of all other powers, and owing tribute to no king or ruler on earth. Every true American ought to feel proud of the nation to which he belongs; for this is truly a government for and by the people.

Let every youth remember that in this country people are not entitled to position on account of birth. Here a man is just what his real worth in knowledge and good sense proclaims him to be. Here the humblest may strive honestly and earnestly for high and honorable positions, and gain the same by virtue of their real fitness for such high stations.

We are of one speech, and have but one flag—the stars and stripes; but one national love, and that is our love for the Union of the States. God grant that our national emblem may ever wave over a free and independent people until national emblems are destined to wave no more.

It is to be hoped that the recent attempt to take the life of President Garfield was not the result of any previously formed plans on the part of any class of men. Evidently, the would-be assassin made the assault on personal grounds, without regarding the high position of his victim, or the insult he might offer the nation. As his crime is unusually great, his punishment should be correspondingly severe. Unfortunately, there is no punishment provided by law which is severe enough for his case.

The state fair is in progress at Salem, Or.

JUDGE SWEET'S OPINION.

Said Judge E. N. Sweet, register of the U. S. land office of Colfax, in his address on the Fourth at Spokan Falls.

The county of Spokan, the youngest county in the Territory, promises soon to take rank in population and wealth with old counties the ages of which are numbered by decades. Through the excellent grazing lands, fertile agricultural belts and thrifty forests of this county, the iron bands—great arteries of commerce—are extended, and will soon be completed, reaching from Lake Superior to the Pacific coast; and over this magnificent thoroughfare will pass many of the products of the old and new world. This, of course, gives prominence and prestige to this promising county, and will materially assist in the speedy development of its natural resources. In several places in this county promising towns are being established and built the future prosperity of which is foreshadowed by their known resources, and by the energy displayed and confidence exhibited by their citizens. I need not tell the people who are here assembled—for it is a prima facie fact,—yet I will whisper it to the world that it may not be forgotten, that the beautiful and vigorous young city of Spokan Falls is and will be the principal town on the line of the N. P. railroad in Washington Territory. The roar of the falls or cascades of the Spokan river which reaches the ear as I speak, as its waters tumble and surge over its rocky declivity to its level bed below, glide on to the magnificent Columbia and thence to the sea, evidences to the close observer that here is the place to establish manufacturing industries; that in yonder rushing stream is a vast and wonderful power which, if utilized, will make Spokan Falls in the near future the Lowell of the West. Wise, indeed, are those who have set their stakes on this beautiful town site with a determination to stand by it in adversity as well as in its prosperity. In my humble opinion, those who stay will win. The broad Valley of the Spokan, extending to distant mountains, rich nutritious grasses; the valleys and flats and sloping hills, fertile and fruitful, tributary to this city; yonder towering mountains, which meet the eye in majestic grandeur, covered with extensive and available forests, and underlying which there undoubtedly is buried nature's treasures, rich and rare; the stream which meanders at your very door, a natural channel down which may be floated the valuable timber which covers the slopes adjacent to the limpid waters of Coeur d'Alene; and above all, the energy, pluck and abiding faith of an energetic people—all foretell that there is a grand future for the embryo city which is located upon this favored and beautiful spot. Nature has done much for the site upon which this town is located, and when the artistic hand of man shall have tamed down and added to the primary work, here, indeed, will be a spot beyond comparison—in Eastern Washington, at least.

Notwithstanding the efforts of the German government, the emigration from Germany to this country is enormously on the increase. Whole villages in Posen, Schleswig and Prussia proper are being depopulated, and the authorities are seriously alarmed. An indication of their alarm was given recently in their refusing a gentleman permission to lecture at Berlin on the advantages of emigration.

Samuel Williams, for many years editor of the San Francisco Bulletin, died June 30.

Minnesota's wheat crop will be 45,000,000 bushels this year.

The recent census of Ireland shows that in some districts in Connaught and Munster whole villages are almost depopulated, and in all the population has been terribly thinned out.

It is said that the president now intends to leave the Berlin mission vacant until after the Ohio election, with a view of comforting Foster with it in case of his defeat.

9,160,000 bushels less wheat were exported from six Atlantic ports for the crop year to June 25 than last year, and 154,000 barrels more of flour, or a net of 7,232,000 less bushels wheat than the year before; exports of corn, 639,500 less.

Joseph Simon has taken the oath of office as Mayor of Portland, and will contest before the city council the election of D. P. Thompson.

At Albany, on the 1st Inst., the name T. C. Platt was withdrawn from the senatorial contest for the long term.

THE DAILY TIMES.

The time has arrived when the metropolis of Northeastern Washington needs something better than a weekly newspaper to publish the news of the world. On and after the first of July THE TIMES will be issued regularly as a daily paper, six days in each week, and will contain as late news and as much reading matter as the patronage of our enterprising people will justify. We do not intend to make a great splurge, or to print more columns of reading matter than we can pay for; but will give our readers a Daily as newsy and valuable to them as possible. Already the citizens interested in the growth of this new country have guaranteed a liberal support for the DAILY TIMES which will enable us to print a creditable little paper. It is very pleasant to notice the marked interest taken in this enterprise by every business man and friend of progress. Thanking our patrons for their flattering assurances of good will and support, we shall endeavor to satisfy them by commencing the regular issue of THE DAILY TIMES, July 1, 1881.

Clifton is now the scene of great activity on the line of the N. P. railroad, eight miles above this city.

NEWS SUMMARY.

Five inches of water recently fell in Kansas during a single stormy night.

Moses Titcomb, superintendent document room, U. S. senate for over a quarter of a century, died at Franklin Falls, New Hampshire, June 27, aged 80. Titcomb watched over Calhoun in his last sickness, and laid out with his own hands the body of Henry Clay in Washington in 1855.

Harvard beat the Columbia crew by three lengths in the four mile race.

Harvard's time, 21:45; Columbia's thirteen seconds slower.

Public exhibition of placards of emigration agents or of foreign seamanship companies has been prohibited and a bill impeding emigration will be introduced in the next session of the reichstag in Germany.

Gen. Brady demands an immediate trial and wants access to the records; but the special attorney for Star Route prosecutors denies the application.

The idea that workmen shall have a half holiday on Saturday is being pushed to practical solution in New York.

At a private trial Maud S. recently trotted a mile in 2:16 at Columbus.

Batavia, N. Y. is filled with excitement over the discovery of what are believed to be the remains of William Morgan, the man who betrayed the secrets of the Free Masons in his book entitled "More Mean Illustrations of Masonry," fifty-five years ago, and was abducted and made away with before the work was given to the public.

Notwithstanding the efforts of the German government, the emigration from Germany to this country is enormously on the increase. Whole villages in Posen, Schleswig and Prussia proper are being depopulated, and the authorities are seriously alarmed. An indication of their alarm was given recently in their refusing a gentleman permission to lecture at Berlin on the advantages of emigration.

CLEVELAND, June 22.—Shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon an east bound train on the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio railway when about 12 miles from here struck a buggy in which were riding Thos. Garfield, aged 80, uncle of the president, and Mrs. Alonzo Arnold, sister of Dr. Boynton, and a cousin of the president. Thomas Garfield was instantly killed and Mrs. Arnold's skull is so badly fractured that life is despaired of. The buggy was dragged 200 feet.

New York, June 24.—A meeting was held to-day of the subscribers to Villard's "blind pool" in the Northern Pacific Co. Villard made a report of eight millions paid in last spring. He had invested the money and about as much more. In all about sixteen millions, in the purchase of common and preferred stock of the Northern Pacific Co., the larger part being preferred, and had accomplished the object he had in view, namely, uniting the Northern Pacific and Oregon Railway and Navigation Co's interests, so as to prevent conflict in the valley of the Columbia river, and to secure to the Northern Pacific great advantages of traffic controlled by the Oregon Co's lines, which now include the railways in the Willamette Valley and their extension to California. It was proposed now to form a new company called the Oregon Trans-continental company, to acquire a majority of the stock of the Northern Pacific and Oregon Co's proposed capital, fifty millions, of which the proportion represented by the purchases already made as a-bore mentioned, shall be immediately issued and the remainder from time to time, as required for additional purchase.

ALBANY, June 25.—A movement is on foot for a party caucus as the only means of breaking the deal lock. It is expected to make nominations in the usual way and that the minority will submit to the majority.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 25.—Last night a whole train of cars fell down into the river San Antonio, near Cuautlan on account of a downfall of a stone bridge. Nearly 2000 dead and a great many wounded, mostly soldiers.

New York, June 25.—At a meeting of the Northern Pacific syndicate subscribers yesterday, the formation of a new company to be called the Oregon Transcontinental, was discussed. It was proposed that the new company should have the power to build lateral lines as feeders to the Northern Pacific and also should perform functions not allowed to the Northern Pacific.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—We understand that negotiations pending between parties representing eastern capitalists and Peter Donohue for the purchase of the Northern Pacific railroad from San Rafael to Cloverdale have failed. We further understand that a corps of engineers will be put in the field at once for the purpose of selecting a route for a railroad from San Rafael or Sausalito to connect with the Oregon system of roads. The Northern Pacific being controlled by these parties, we may look for through connection to the east by this route within three years.

New York, June 26.—A company has been formed to control the Northern Pacific and Oregon Railway & Navigation Co. Villard is president of it. Its capital stock is $50,000,000. Villard said that it was merely formed to relieve him of the responsibility which hitherto he has borne alone.

The Spokan Times.

We wish to offer no apology for this the first appearance of the regular issue of the DAILY EVENING TIMES. It will occupy the journalistic field extending from Ainsworth to Pend d'Oreille, and from Colfax to Colville, and will scatter the very latest home and foreign news among its appreciative readers.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

From Friday's Daily. First day of July. Particulars of the horse race will be given to-morrow.

Where are our rustling young men and the pluggies? Rockford is now laid out with regular lots and blocks. A side track two thousand feet in length is being constructed in this city by the N. P. railroad.

Mr. Batten, who has charge of the real music for the Fourth, requests us to invite all singers who will aid on the Fourth to meet for practice at the Episcopal church this evening.

Of the thirteen Grangers living in Deer Lodge county, M. T., through whose ranches the proposed line of the Northern Pacific will extend, ten of them recently announced their determination of not submitting to the terms offered by the company.

Westwood News.—A letter recently addressed to THE TIMES by the citizens of Westwood was lost on its way to this office.

Tourists.—We are informed that a party of excursionists from Ainsworth will be up this way about the 4th of July, and after spending a day or so in our city will pass on to lakes Coeur d'Alene and Pend d'Oreille—hunting, fishing and cracking jokes all the while.

Mr. M. Smythe has received the contract for furnishing Camp Spokane with 300 tons of wild hay at $28 per ton. Mr. Smythe was busy engaged with his tie contract in the timber when he first read the advertisement in THE TIMES.

N. P. WATER TANK.—Our N. P. friends are congratulating themselves on the completion of their 13,000 gallon water tank at this place. Water is brought to the tank a distance of 2,900 ft., through a two-inch pipe, with a fall of 84 feet.

AN IMMERSE SAFE.—One of the largest safes ever brought into Eastern Washington is now being placed in the Bank of Spokane Falls. We learn that its weight is 10,000 pounds, and that its cost was $2,000.

NEW N. P. OFFICERS.—Mr. J. A. Barker is now General Auditor, with office at No. 23 Fifth avenue, New York. Mr. Geo. Sanborn is Local Treasurer, and Mr. M. P. Martin Auditor for the Eastern division, with offices at St. Paul, Minn.

At the warmest moment, yesterday, the thermometer stood 89 1/2° in the shade, and still the weather was not considered disagreeable, so high and balmy is our atmosphere.

Improvements. Mr. Huusaker is clothing his saleroom. Col. Nash's residence is gradually improving in appearance.

Three hundred and fifty men at work in and about Spokane Falls, adding to the growth and beauty of the city.

Al. Hawk is providing a light, spacious room for his new billiard table. The City Restaurant building is being reshingled and is receiving a square front.

Important additions have recently been made to the Eagle and American stables. Wentzell's bath rooms are finished, and a neat pair of rooms they are.

Six cellars are in preparation for new buildings in this city. Morris's new building is being shingled. The new fruit house has been completed.

Young's new restaurant building is receiving cloth and paper. Lumber for Lamona's residence, Toussaint & Co.'s store, Knox's shop, and Mrs. Knox's new building, is arriving on the grounds.

Spokane Falls is the terminus of regular freight and passenger trains on the line of the N. P. railroad in Eastern Washington.

Capt. Hunter last week purchased six head of horses for cavalry service at an average price of $140 per head. The horses are for Fort Colville.

THE TIMES will not be issued on the Fourth of July; but Tuesday's TIMES will contain a full account of the proceedings of the previous day.

Until further notice the Sabbath school will be held in the City Hall, formerly known as Graham's Hall. Everybody invited to attend to-morrow at 2 o'clock.

Spokane Falls always affords the farmer the best market. A Palouse Granger recently brought two loads of chickens to our city, but was only offered six dollars per dozen for his cargo, so he went on east with his chickens because he could not get eight dollars per dozen.

The train was delayed an hour or so last evening while distributing telegraph poles along the route for the Western Union. The last pole was thrown from a flat car just as the engine reached Howard street. There is now a strip of only about eight miles between this city and Ainsworth where there are no poles.

A large force of men and teams is at work at Clifton preparing the way for the cars to cross the Spokane. In the absence of timbers to construct the Howe trestle bridge, and owing also to high water, a temporary means of spanning the river has been decided upon by Mr. McLellan. A trestle 78 feet high, standing in water to the depth of 18 feet, will furnish a temporary roadbed for the trains.

HORSE-RACING.—We are informed by Hank Vaughan that there will be three horse races on the afternoon of the Fourth, on the prairie below the city. The races will be free to all. One will be 300 yards, another one-fourth mile, and still another one-half mile. Several horses are in training for the contests, which will be quite exciting.

ORDER OF PROCESSION. Procession will form on Howard street. Band. Officers of the Day. Esquimen. Knights of the Tournament & Ladies. Citizens on Horselack. Carriages and Wagons.

The grounds were not the prettiest neither were they the handiest to the city that might have been selected. Music by the brass band and grand choruses of voices was highly appreciated. Mr. Wm. Bigham acted as president, and Rev. M. S. Anderson as chaplain, and C. B. Carlsen read the Declaration of Independence.

Col. Grover, of the 1st cavalry, declined the invitation of the Walla Walla people to participate in the Fourth of July celebration.

Col. E. I. Bailey, formerly medical director of the department of Columbia, has arrived at San Francisco and is on duty at division headquarters.

Mr. John A. Cress, captain of ordinance, has been assigned temporary charge of the office of acting assistant inspector general of the department, vice Col. E. C. Mason, who has one to join his new command at Fort Saunders.

Gen. C. G. Swettie, D. p. Q. M. G. U. S. A., lately stationed at Fort Vancouver, has gone on a trip of inspection to Florida and Louisiana. That is hardly as nice a summer trip as the inspection of Forts Canby and Stevens would be.

The Cheyenne Leader says: General Morrow, colonel of the 21st infantry, now stationed in Washington Territory, is in hopes that his regiment will be offered to relieve the 14th infantry at Camp Douglas, Utah Gen. Morrow was for several years at that post when he was lieutenant colonel of the 13th infantry.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Drum, widow of Capt. Simon H. Drum, 4th artillery, who fell in Mexico September 1848, died at Springfield, Ohio, May 13 at an advanced age, aged 71 years, 11 months. She was the mother of Capt. W. F. Drum, 2d infantry, now at Ft. Colville, W. T. Capt. Simon H. Drum was the brother of the present Adjutant General R. O. Drum, U. S. A.

ADVERTISING PAYS.—On the morning of the 2d last, Rev. Anderson, of this city, discovered that one of his horses, together with an old saddle and blind bridle, had been stolen from the stable. He hastened to telegraph friends in Colfax, Spangle and Coeur d'Alene regarding the misfortune, and had a full description of the horse published in the DAILY EVENING TIMES.

On the following day a man who had read a description of the stolen horse in the paper was passing through the woods between this city and the Pioneer mill, and discovered a horse tied in a secluded spot. Remembering the advertisement he had read, he made a close examination, called Mr. Anderson, and delivered to him the stolen property. Mr. Anderson was so well pleased that he said we might "tell it to the people."

The cars get to the Spokane river tonight. Miss Stella Bowen delivered the oration at Dayton.

The net earnings of the O. R. & N. Co. for May were $234,000. While working on the railroad above this city, last Sunday, a man named " " had his leg smashed by a bridge timber.

Only about twenty miles of telegraph wire to be stretched and poles set, and then we will have two telegraph lines and more direct communication with Portland.

The Seven Baptist churches north of Snake river have been dismissed from the Mount Pleasant Association, and will hereafter be known as the Palouse Association. The next annual session will be held in Colfax, in July of 1882.

A CONTRAST.—While we have been enjoying a few pleasant showers of rain during the past few days, and has been blowing along the Columbia river so as to delay railroad trains. On Tuesday the sand piled up on the track faster than it could be shoveled, and the trains were unable to connect with the N. P. trains at Wallula.

This issue of THE TIMES contains the entire news of the past newspaper week, together with the news of today up to four o'clock P. M. Look day up to these columns and carefully through these columns and you will find items of news which can not be obtained through any other source within your reach. Our daily subscribers get the benefit of the enlarged edition once each week.

The Lewiston Teller favors the construction of a railroad from Camas Prairie, in Idaho, to connect with the Northern Pacific at Cheney or at the crossing of Hungman creek, at Spokane Falls. This agrees, in part, with the route heretofore mapped out by THE TIMES. This would enable Idaho shippers to reach the Sound via the N. P. road, or to ship their wheat to the future great water-power grist mills of the Spokane.

THEY'RE COMING.—A train of eight immigrant wagons, loaded with 24 souls, hauling from Sonoma county Cal., and bound for town last Tuesday, passed through town last Tuesday. They were on the road just seven weeks and met with no serious difficulties, though the road was a hard one to travel. They came to either buy or take up land, and what's better still, they came to stay.—[Watchman.]

The highest temperature indicated by the thermometer in the U. S. signal office up to 3 o'clock this afternoon was 57°.

THE OREGON AND TRANS-CONTINENTAL COMPANY INCORPORATED. The object of the corporation is set forth as follows: To lay out, construct, furnish and equip, maintain and operate the following railroad and telegraph lines and branches: Along the south side of the Columbia river between Portland and Umatilla; From Umatilla to Pendleton and thence across the Blue mountains through the Grand Ronde valley via Baker City to a point near the eastern boundary of the state of Oregon; and thence up the Snake river and Bear river valley to a point of connection with the Union Pacific or near Granger station.

From Portland southward along the west side of the Willamette valley through the valleys of Umpqua and Rogue river to a connection with the railroad system of California. From Portland southward along the east side of the Willamette valley to a connection with the line last described.

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

ANOTHER SOUL MADE HAPPY.—Capt. P. B. Johnson has been promoted, and is now adjutant in the governor's staff and Lieut. Col. of the army and navy of Washington Territory. It's about time that the editor of the Watchman should come in for a little ham bone. For five long, weary years he "sit" for Uncle Sam, and lived on pork and beans straight, was badly wounded by the kick of a government mule, and now he "wants to be a colonel and with the colonels dwell."

He wants to be a colonel, And with the colonels stand, With a smile upon his forehead, A commision in his hand.

And right before the people, Proud, haughty, yet serene, He'd be the happiest mortal, That ever you have seen.

"Andersonville" will be a book of 656 large pages, and will contain about three hundred illustrations, drawn under the immediate supervision of the author. It is simply the daily experiences of a soldier, who, captured by the rebels at the beginning of the war, was confined for 15 months in the prison pens of Richmond, Saratoga, Andersonville, Milled and Florence.

From the heart of every loyal man and woman in this broad land goes forth a tender wish which twines itself around the memory of Andersonville; for that Golgotha, in which the daily experiences of a soldier, who, captured by the rebels at the beginning of the war, was confined for 15 months in the prison pens of Richmond, Saratoga, Andersonville, Milled and Florence.

The present book is the work of a man who is by taste and training a journalist; his reportorial habits of observation, of gathering, arranging and classifying facts, and of presenting them in a compact, readable manner were not all unused to the world, but were exercised continually. The story is told in a plain, simple, straightforward way—told as a soldier would tell it,—with a graphic and accurate description of places, events, and incidents, but without any straining after effect—any pretentious word painting—any attempt to excite prejudice or partisan hatred.

The author begins with an account of the raid made into the enemy's country by the cavalry command in which he was serving as a colonel & man. They meet the Rebel cavalry, and after a sharp fight, were killed, sending it flying from the field. For a while the Union cavalry live off the fatness of the land, but at length they are trapped in a narrow valley, and after a desperate resistance, are all captured and sent to Richmond. Two months of hardship and exposure on Belle Isle and the tobacco factories end by their being sent to Andersonville—the author arriving in the first clear of the year. Then ensues six months of terribly suffering in which four out of five of those around him die. This is ended by the fall of Atlanta, when the Rebels hurry the bulk of them off to other and more remote places of confinement.

PRICE, $3.00, CLOTH BINDING. Among the most thrilling romances anywhere is that of the desperado who infested the prisons, and six of them were hung in terror. This is the only full and accurate account of this noted episode that has ever been published. You should have it. Subscriptions received at THE TIMES OFFICE, FRANCIS H. COOK, Agent.

Notice.

The Union Pacific railway has applied for right of way for its Oregon branch across the Forest and Indian reservation, and a prominent official of the Interior department has been dispatched to Fort Hall to arrange it.

Notice. Is hereby given that the undersigned have bought the entire horse and brandy stock heretofore belonging to Gernain & Brooks, a well known trader, and the other D. B. DRUMMELLER & BIGHAM.

THE Little Joker Will wash more at a time, large garments, small on a few or many, and washes them clean; never tears off of buttons, buttons cannot rust the clothes a particle, is easily worked, and avoids picking clothes before washing, and is unequalled for washing woolen blankets.

PROF. HARMEN, Agent. Wentzell, the Barber of high renown, is a good shaver in our town; And he cuts hair in such nice styles, It wins the ladies' sweetest smiles. And makes them with admiring eyes Look pleasant as June morning skies. If you want your hair cut you all know That to Wentzell it is best to go. It will make things as lovely as when the house hangs high, And may help you to get a sweetheart, by and by. —Julius Wentzell.

It will astonish you, the bargain you can get at the Boss store.
