To Young Men.

And then remember, my son, you ave to work: Whether you have to handle a pick or a pen, a wheel-barrow or a set of books, digging ditches or editing a paper, ring ing an auction bell or writing funny things, you must work. If you will look around you will see that the men who are the most able to work are the men who work the hardest. Don't be afraid of killing yourself with overwork. son. It is beyond your power to And, my son, in all human probability, you will not want to divide. do that. Men cannot work so as to die on the sunny side of 30. They die sometimes because they quit work at 6 P. M. and don't get home until 2 A. M. It's the intervals that kill, my son. The work gives you an appetite for your meals, it lends solidity to your slumber, it gives you a per fect and grateful appreciation of a holiday. There are young men ing the end of a cane, whose entire mental development is insufficient to tell them which side of a postage stamp to lick; young men who can tie a necktie in eleven different knots and never ore money in a day than you an earn in a month; who will go amy; but a majority of Young's to the Sheriff's to buy a postal Street Commissioner for a mar-riage license. If you can covince the world that you are necessary to its well-being, its happiness, its pleasure, its moral existence, then the world will begin to claim you and make room for you in the body pews with the softest cushions and the easiest footstools. But don't fall into the common error of supposing that the world owes you a living. It doesn't owe you anything of the kind. The world isn't re-GUNSMITH, come here, and in no sense is it a good comfortable living. SPOKAN FALLS, THURSDAY, Dec. 16

A live newspaper is essential to the growth and prosperity of any town or community. It fights the battles, represents the interests, and encourages all worthy enter prises of the community in which it is published. But it takes money to run a good paper, and it is highly necessary that all business firms for whom it works so faithfully should be good advertisers, that the appearance of, and revenue from, its advertising column may justify its labors. In every town there are a few so-called business men who creep in among first-class traders and endeavor to gain all the benefits of the local by certain transactions of the same t paper without contributing to its support unless it does by them much better than it can by good business houses. They sponge the paper off their more enterprising neighbors, and reap as much benefit as possible from the enterprising firms and industrious editor who have drawn trade to the company within the past ten days.

We claim that they have a perfect right to continue the sponging business as long as they like. At the same time the editor of the local paper will not have performed his bounden duty till he has brought into the town business men who are greatly needed, and who will join hand in hand with first-class business men in every laudable en terprise, not even excepting a gen erous support to the local paper. Live business men are as essen tial to an enlarging trade as a live as a live newspaper; and both elements are necessarily united.

The establishment of signal service throughout the length and breadth of our vast domain was a questionable 'undertaking in years gone by. Men wise in any respects doubted the advisability, of the service, and some opposition was raised against the measure. But the counsels of friends of growing crops, our great shipping interes's, and com merce in general, prevailed, an the system of reporting the state of the weather and the approach of storms all over the country was effectually established. The ber efits derived from such service have already been felt throughout the land. Crops have been secured, preparations have been made for approaching storms, and hazardous trips have been delayed because of the timely warning telegraphed from signal station offi ces. SHOEING HORSES.—The London Live Stock Gazette says: If the farriers or blacksmiths are anxious to do something useful at a small expense, let them publish an illustrated broadside fit for hanging in blacksmith shops, telling smiths and their masters what not to do 'Don't carve the frog; don't oper the heels; don't rasp the outside of the hoof; don't cut the hoof to fit the shoe, but, after shortening the toe, if needed, fit the shoe, to the foot," and so on, as common sense dictates.

To Make Vinegar .- 1. Boil either corn, wheat, barley or rye about one pint of the grain to a gallon of water, strain, and to the liquor thus obtained add sirup or sugar until pleasantly sweet. stand in a warm place, and you will soon have good vinegar. Th stronger and sweeter the liquor the better will be the vinegar longer in making. 2. Pack in a jar the skins and cores of apple nade in preparing pies and sauce and cover with boiling water When another lot is made, add them and more hot water till the jar is full. In warm weather set the jar in the sun, carefully cover-ed with a cloth; in cool weather in a warm place in the house. The apples do not rot at all. In eight weeks the water is turned into excellent vinegar and of amber color. No yeast, nor spirits, nor acids, nor sugar, nor molasses are needed-nothing whatever but the skins and cores and water.

Then he hauls the onions from where they grew and piles them in carefully on this, and puts more chaff on top and covers up with a foot of dirt from each side, and packs it smooth with the spade, where they can remain a part or all of the winter, or until wanted. They were quoted at $1.25 last winter and spring in Minneapolis. If they freeze it will make no difference; they will come out all right when the will come out all right when the frost leaves the ground. Cabba-ges may be pulled up on a dry day and packed in the other end of the pit, roots up, and also corered with straw and dirt, when they or the onions can be taken out as wanted. The cellar is one of the worst places to keep onions or cabbages in, as it is almost always too damp or warm.
