BABY TALK.
Where's my baby, I've lost the Mamma's little darling boy, Tom and time into his track, Look the little sugar toy.
Now we'll take it ridy, ridy, Darest, pretties, birdy, honey, Ma won't let it slide, idy, Gone 't would hurt her little honey.
O, you pretty sugar plummy, Does it want its story baby, So it will, you ducky, tummy, Let its Mamma see it walky.
My, what ails its sweetest mouthy!
Many said it's going toky, Only see its lippy pouty, Winkly darley, rocky bye.
Does the cabbage mamma eaty Makes its little tummy ache?
Is its little eyes asweepy, Hiccup keep it wide awake?
Does it want to see its daddy?
So it will, little whitey,
So it will, little whitey,
What does ails its beaded chity?
Ugh! you naughty, pin, go way!
Hushy, ducky, go to sleep, Mamma by her baby stay, Uggy fat from baby keep.

THE JEW OF WARSAW.—In the advance of the French against Russia, a Colonel, strolling in the suburbs of Warsaw, heard cries of distress from a house, and entering to ascertain the cause, he found four soldiers engaged in plundering and ill treating an aged Jew and a young girl. The marauders not being inclined to relinquish their prey, proceeded to blow; but the Colonel, who was an excellent swords-man, laid two of his assailants dead on the spot, and drove the other two from the house severely wounded; he himself received slight wounds, and a ball grazed his cheek. On the return of the French army, oppressed with fatigue, want and disease, the worn-out soldier, in rage, sought the dwelling of the Jew, and with difficulty was recognized, so completely changed was his appearance. The Jew completely changed his wardrobe and contrived to send him through the hostile armies to France.

At the peace, the Colonel was obliged to retire on a miserable pittance, which an aged mother and sister shared. He had forgotten the Jew of Wars w, when one evening in the spring of 1815, a man called at his humble abode in the suburbs of Paris, and having satisfied himself as to his identity, placed in his hands a packet and vanished. On opening it, the Colonel found bills on a banker at Paris, to the amount of £5,000, with the following note: "He whose daughter you preserved from the most brutal treatment whose life you saved, and whose house you protected from plunder at the risk of your existence, sends you an offering of his grate-tude the only return he requires is, if you ever hear Jews condemned, will you say that one of that race knew how to be grateful."

The old Jew died at Vienna, his daughter the heiress of his immense wealth, the largest portion of which was in the French funds, visited Paris; it was natural she should seek the brave man who had preserved her from the worst of fates, and with no common emotions she found the young girl he had protected now as beautiful as she was engaging. He became a lover and she consented to be a wife. With her hand he received more than one hundred thousand pounds.

A Russian Funeral.
The burial of the dead is a picturesque and interesting ceremony in Moscow. A body of priests, dressed in black robes and wearing long beards, take the lead in the funeral songs bearing in their hands shrines and burning tapers. The hearse follows, drawn by four horses. Black plumes wave from the heads of the horses and flowing black drapery covers their bodies and legs. Even their heads are draped in mourning, nothing being perceptible but their eyes. The coffin lies exposed on the top of the hearse, and is also similarly draped. The combination of sum-ber plumage and drapery has a singularly mournful appearance.

Priests stand on steps attached to the hearse holding images of the saviour over the coffin; others follow in the rear, comforting the friends and relatives of the deceased. A wild, monotonous chant is sung from time to time by the chief mourners, as the procession moves toward the burial ground. The people cease their occupation in the streets through which the funeral passes, uncover their heads and bowing down before the images borne by the priests, utter prayers for the repose of the dead. The rich and poor of both sexes stand upon the sidewalk and offer their humble petitions. The deep toned bells of the Kromlin ring out their solemn peals, and the wild and mournful chant of the priest mingles with the grand knell of death that sweeps through the air. All is profoundly impressive. The procession of priests with their burning tapers, the drapery of black on the horses; the coffin with its dead; the weeping mourners; the sepulchral chant; the sudden cessation of all the business of life, and rapid attention of the multitude; the deep, grand death knell of the bells; the glitter of boxes and carriages on every side; the green-roofed sea of houses; the winding streets, and the costumes of the people—form a spectacle wonderfully wild, strange and mournful. In everything that comes within the eye, there is a mixed aspect of barbarism and European civilization.
Yet even the stranger from a far-distant clime speaking another language, accustomed to other forms, must feel, in gazing upon such a scene, that death levels all distinctions of race—that our common mortality brings us nearer together.

The Rights of Married Women in this Territory.
We are advised by gentlemen in Olympia, that the following act introduced in the Legislature by W. O. Langford will, in all probability become a law. The subject being an important one to all citizens, is the reason we publish the act:
IN RELATION TO MARRIED WOMEN ACQUIRING AND HOLDING PROPERTY.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature Assembly of the Territory of Washington, That a married woman cannot acquire or hold property otherwise than she could at common law, except as hereinafter provided.
Sec. 2. Any woman who has personal property or chattels real at the time of her marriage, shall, as to her husband, continue to be the owner of the same in her sole right after marriage, with the power of disposing of the same to her husband or any other person, in all respects as a single person could do, and she shall, as against her husband, be entitled (during her life time,) to the custody and control of her individual real property owned by her at the time of her marriage.
Sec. 3. The property and rights above mentioned, shall be subject to, and liable on execution and attachment for any and all debts incurred by a married woman while she is single, and on such attachment or execution said property shall be first sequestered before the property of the husband shall become liable therefor.

Sec. 4. Any married woman may acquire property by gift, inheritance or purchase, from her husband or other parties, and such acquisitions shall be good as against her husband, and she shall hold the same as against him, as her sole property.
Sec. 5. No property or right acquired or held by a married woman as aforesaid, shall be deemed her sole property, as against the creditors of her husband, but the same shall be held subject to attachment and execution on his debts, unless such property is kept separate or distinguishable from her husband's, and a description thereof recorded with the auditor of the county in which the married woman resides, and the said property is situated.

Sec. 6. No gift or sale from husband to wife shall be valid as to existing creditors, and no property purchased by a married woman shall be deemed hers as to existing creditors of her husband, unless she shall prove that the identical money or property given for such property was her sole and individual property acquired and held according to the rules of the common law, or the provisions of this chapter, and any property, unless so acquired and held, shall be subject, to the debts of such creditors.

Sec. 7. Any married woman may contract obligations and debts as a single sole, and her sole property alone shall be liable on attachment and execution therefor.

THE REPUBLIC OF VENEZUELA.—The Republic of Venezuela lies to the east of Columbia, stretching far and wide over 420,712 square miles, but with a population less than two million. The word signifies Little Venice, a name given it by Vespucci, who discovered it, and observed that the villages were built Venice fashion, on piles in the midst of water. The country is very mountainous, about a fourth part being occupied by the Parima and Andes ranges, with their respective branches. It is well watered, having a large number of lagoons (lakes), and the splendid Orinoco traversing it from west to east, and splitting the country into two nearly equal parts. Venezuela was united to New Granada and Ecuador after the war of independence; but the union lasted only nine years (1821-1830), when the three countries were separated into three independent republics.
Since that time Venezuela has been greatly disturbed, and its finances have fallen into a most frightful state of disorder. The expenditure is sometimes threefold the revenue, and the national debt is so large that the Government rarely pays the interest of her loans; so that Venezuela, like Spain, is a byword on exchange, and a hundred pounds of its three-percent stock can be readily purchased for about one-tenth of its nominal value.

Peter and His Gal.
I hit my cheer up close to her, she my eyes, and tremulously said, "Sal you'er the very gal I've been hankerin after for a long time. I love you all over—from the feet of your sole to the head of your crown, and I don't keer who knows it; and if you say so, we'll be joined in the holy bonds of matrimony. Epluribus unum, non compus mentis, gloria Monday morning, six tember yranis, world without end," sez I; and I felt as tho' I had thrown like an algyater I left so relieved, with that she fetcht a scream, and after a while she sez, "Peter!" "What is it, Sally," sez I, "Yes," says she, a hidin of her face. "You may depend upon it I felt orful glad. Glory! glory!" sez I, "I must holler Sal, or I'll burst open.
Ho-ray, hooray! I can jump over a ten rail fence, I can do anything a fellow could, would, or order do." With that I sorter sloshed myself down by her and dugher the bargain with a kiss—talk about yer sugar-talk about yer melasses—talk about nite blowing sermons—they want no whar; you couldn't have got me to have come nigh on it, they would have tasted sour arter that. Oh, honey draw with argum, lassen on 'em! of Sals dady hadn't bawled out "it's time for all honest folks to be in bed." I do believe I'd stand all nite, you'd order send me when I got hum; I pulled dad out of bed and hugged him; I pulled mam out of bed and hugged her; I pulled aunt Jane auter bed and hugged her; I pulled the nigger servant outter bed and hugged her.
"Dad," sez I, "I'm going for to get married." "Married!" bawled dad, "Married!" squalled mam. "Yee get married," sez I, "married all over; jined in wedlock," hooked on for worse or better for life and for death, to Sal; I am that very thing, Peter Spornus Esq." With that I up and told them from Alpher to Onegan. They were mighty pleased and mighty willin, and we (N. B., I mean Sal and I) was apliced.

Origin of Illustrious Men Mark Twain has discovered the origin of the following "illustrious men": Wm. Smith was the son of his mother. This party's grandmother is deceased. She was a brick.
Edward Brown was the son of old Brown by a particular friend.
Henry Jones was the son of a sea-cook.
Wm. Jones was the son of a gun.
John Jones was a son of Temperance.
In early life Gabriel Jones was actually a shoemaker. He is a shoemaker yet.
Previous to the age of 85 Caleb Jones had never given any evidence of extraordinary ability. He has never given any since.
Patrick Murphy is said to have been of Irish extraction.

James Peterson was the son of a common weaver, who was so miraculously poor that his friends were encouraged to believe that in case the scriptures were strictly carried out he would "inherit the earth." He never got his property.
John Davis' father was a soap boiler and not a very good soap boiler at that. John never married at maturity—died in childbirth, he and his m-ther.
John Johnson was a blacksmith. He died.
It was published in the papers, with a head over it "Deaths." It was therefore thought he died to gain notoriety. He has got an aunt living somewhere.
Up to the age of 35, Hosesa Wilkinson never had any home but "Hums Sweet Home," and even when he had that he had to sing it himself. At one time it was believed that he would have been famous if he had become celebrated. He died. He was greatly esteemed for his many virtues. There was not a dry eye in the crowd when they planted him.

Mr. Shanks, at one time correspondent for the Chicago Tribune, and afterward for the New York Herald, has in press a volume of personal recollections of distinguished Generals.
He professes to sketch them as they are, without fear or favor, giving their bad as well as their good qualities, just as he saw them himself, "not on parade but in undress uniform." He depicts Sherman as the strategist, the genius of the war, full of life, energy and originality, but ill-tempered, egotistical, and "as great a despot at heart as Frederick the Great." Thomas, the tenacious, is a tactician, without originality or strategic ability—of cold blood, and apparently cold heart, but "pure as Bayard," of colossal mind, like Kleber, and slow and cautious, like Macdonald—in a word, the reverse of Sherman. Grant is the writer's hero, and he is delineated as the perfect General—the full combination of the strategist, Sherman, and tactician, Thomas. Sherman is as mercurial as a Frenchman, and as demonstrative as an Italian; Thomas as phlegmatic as a Dutchman, and as tenacious as an Englishman—while Grant, in every characteristic, in dig-gestness, pertinacity, positiveness and taciturnity, is thoroughly American, and nothing else. Sheridan is called "an inspiration not a General," without strategy and of rather erratic tactics, but a quick, dashing and stubborn fighter. A neatly drawn parallel between him and Sherman makes the latter's peculiar energy "that of the brain inspired;" Sheridan's, "that of the blood, inflamed." "Black Jack Logan," who is said to resemble in person the "Jack of Spades" (Sheridan) is called the "Jack of Clubs" is made out of "the same daring, enthusiastic and valiant fighter that Sheridan is, full of dash, and vim, and go, and of a naturally warm, enthusiastic temperament; and a similar portrait is presented of the adventurous Geary, of Pennsylvania.

How to be UNHAPPY.—In the first place, if you want to be miserable, be selfish.
Think all the time of yourself and your own things. Do not care about any body else having feelings for any one but yourself.
Never think of enjoying the satisfaction of seeing others happy; but rather, if you see any smiling face, be jealous, lest another should enjoy what you have not. Envy every one who is better off, in any respect, than yourself; think unkindly towards them and speak ill of them. Be constantly afraid that others may encroach upon your rights; be watchful against it, and if any one comes near your things, snap at him like a mad dog. Contend earnestly for everything that is your own, though it may not be worth a dime, for your "rights" are just as much concerned as if it were a pound of gold. Never yield a point.
Be very sensitive, and take everything that is said to you in plainfulness in the most serious manner. Be jealous of your friends, lest if at any time they should seem to neglect you, put the worst construction upon their conduct you can.

An Obedient Private.
During the war a good story used to be told of a private in one of the Massachusetts regiments—the 14th. I think. It seems that the captain was noted for his love of good things, and one day told the high private to go to some oysters; also giving him, in his usual jocular way, the command:
"Don't come back without them." Off went the man, and no more was seen of him for several days, and the indignant and disappointed captain reported him as a deserter, and gave him up as a "lost child." But lo! after the lapse of nine days, the captain beheld his reported deserter, Bailey, coming into camp leading a train of four wagons loaded with oysters. Approaching and respectfully saluting the amazed captain, Bailey reported:
"Here are your oysters, captain; could not find any at Alexandria, so I chartered a schooner and made a voyage to Fortress Monroe and Norfolk for them. There's about two hundred bushels; where do you want them?"

LOST HIS IDENTITY.—Living at West end is a couple of gentlemen whom we call Han-comb and Wiggins, who went to a political jubilation the other night, and got jolly on the champagne so freely dispensed. On going home together, one living a short distance beyond the first one's residence, who, standing at the gate, called out, "Mrs. Hancock!
Mrs. Hancock! please come and pick out Mr. Hancock, because Mr. Wiggins wants to go home!"—Port Argus.

EASTERN NEWS.
New Orleans, Dec. 29.—Gen. Howard, Superintendent of the Freedmen's Bureau, had two long interviews with Bishop Wilmer, the new Episcopal Bishop of Louisiana, respecting the religious care of the Freedmen. The General says that Bishop Wilmer's views on that subject more nearly coincide with his own than those of any one with whom he has had communication. It is likely that a plan of operations for Louisiana will be developed which will benefit all classes greatly.

Concord, N. H., Dec. 30.—The Pendercook Cotton Mill at Fisherville, a large factory building, was badly injured by fire yesternoon. The fire broke out in an upper story, to which the fire was mostly confined. The machinery and stock suffered considerably by water. The total loss is estimated at $50,000; insurance $30,000.

New York, Dec. 31.—A Herald's Washington special dispatch gives a statement from a trustworthy source, that instructions had been sent to Minister Campbell at New Orleans, ere this en route for Obubuhua, to meet President Juarez. Lieut General Sherman arrived last evening.

New York, Dec. 31.—A Herald's Washington special dispatch says that Stevens is preparing important measures which will be introduced immediately on the reconvening of Congress. They look to radical changes in Executive and Judicial quarters.
Recent decisions of the Supreme Court in regard to military trials together with reports of other important decisions to shortly follow, in which it is alleged they intend to declare several laws now on the statute book unconstitutional, has produced feelings of alarm.
Several jurists in both Houses are seriously considering the propriety of Congress taking immediate action to avert grave dangers.

The President is said to have conferred with several Judges of the Supreme Court in regard to the position assumed by Congress towards the Southern States, when he announced to the Commissioners from South Carolina, Col. Wetherbee, that the supreme Court would declare the amendment unconstitutional. He is thought to have spoken by the card.

Hooper, of Massachusetts, intends to press his Bank bill immediately on the opening of Congress after the holidays. He will strenuously oppose any increase of the three hundred millions capital fixed by the national banking law. Strong pressure has been brought to bear upon the Committee from the Northwest to secure a moderate increase; but Hooper, backed by the committee, strenuously opposes it, and will endeavor to defeat it in the House, notwithstanding members allege that Massachusetts has sixty millions of dollars invested in the national banks, while the entire Northwest is not much over fifty millions, and are debared from getting more. They will urge, therefore, a considerable increase over the three hundred millions as provided by the present law.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—A Washington special dispatch says the Paymaster General in a circular just issued, reconvenes the Examining Board for officers of Paymaster's Department of November, 1866, one Board consisting of Col. L. P. Audreway, retired Paymaster General, U. S. A., and Brer. Lieut.
Col. M. C. Gibson and C. Holmes, additional paymasters, will assemble on the 2d of January next. The other consisting of Brer. Brig.
Gen. Hiram Leonard, and Brer. Lieut. Col.
W. H. Gould, and R. S. Webb, additional paymasters, will meet at an early day at San Francisco.

New York, Dec. 31.—The application to remove the directors of the Atlantic Mail Steamship Company and declare invalid the has been denied by Judge Mason.

One of the leading theatres has reduced the price of admission to its performances.
Three boys, the youngest only 16 years old,

Toronto, Dec. 31.—The remaining Fenian prisoners, numbering thirty-two, will be tried January 10th. No delay will be consented to.
The prisoners convicted at Sweatsburg are the ones to be pardoned.

London, C. W. Dec. 31.—The switch was left open at Sarnia Junction and the train from the main line passed into the train of the branch road. Miss Campbell, of port Huron, had her thigh broken and will not recover. Kitchen and Daily, employees of the road, were badly injured—the latter fatally.

the Grand Trunk Railroad rolled over an entrenchment near Park Hill on Saturday a distance of several feet. One passenger was severely injured and several more, very badly bruised.

New York, Jan. 3, 1867.—The main Legislature met to-day and effected an organization. The Massachusetts Legislature has also met and organized.
New York, Jan. 3.—The steamer Henry Chauncey, from San Francisco with dates to the 10 of Dec, has arrived. She brings $620,119 in treasury.

Mexico discredit the hanging of Escobedo.

Isthmus was quiet. Mosquera continues the war on the Church. The war materials who are at war with Spain, were ordered to be seized. Peru still talks war.

expressing her approbation at the exhibition.
London, Dec. 29.—It is semi-officially announced that the great powers will not medcret, against Turkey.

Paris, Dec. 31.—he Emperor Maximilian has ordered his letters to be sent to Mexico and not to Gibraltar.

MISCELLANY.

A rather amusing incident came under our observation a couple of days since, which we volunteer to give our readers: "One of the "watering-carriage," used to dampen the streets of our city, was proceeding slowly down Washington street, engaged in the laudable task of hosing the dust, when a raw youth from the Western country was attracted towards the singular looking vehicle. "Hello, stranger," said he, addressing himself quite audibly to the driver, "your losing all your water there?" No answer was made by the person addressed. "I say, old host," said the vandant youth, "your losing your water right smart there, I tell you, and I'll be defined if your tub won't be dry next you know?" The driver was silent. The stranger again addressed him: "Look here, you fat, don't you see that somethin's broke loose with your old cistern on wheels, and that all of your water is leaking out?" Still the driver was silent, and the disappointed youth turned away in disgust saying: "I allow that that feller is a little the biggest fool I ever see; but if he is so blind to his own interest as to throw away his labor in that way, let him do it and be darned."

EXECUTIONS IN SPAIN.—Gaignoni describes a singular formality with which executions are accompanied. After the execution has performed his office, he is surrounded by gens d'armes and loaded with chains and taken to prison, and thence before an examining magistrate, when the following discourse takes place: "You are accused of having taken the life of a man." "Yes."
"What was your motive for the crime?" "To obey the law and fulfill the mission confided to me by justice." An indictment is then drawn up, and on the following day the man is taken before the tribunal which immediately pronounces an acquittal, and the prisoner is liberated, after his confinement of twenty-four hours.

On the 29th of last month, George Wells, a book-keeper for the firm of Dickerson and Lock, agricultural implement manufacturers, at Ironton, Mo., telegraphed to his employers from Ottawa, that he had been robbed by a pickpocket, while traveling by night in a crowded railway car, of ten thousand dollars in bonds belonging to them. Detectives were employed, and presently found the picket-book in a livery stable at Ottawa, where it had been thrown. On being placed in Wells' waistcoat, it was found to fit completely a pocket which had been cut, yet the pocketbook showed no marks of the knife. Wells was at once charged with having robbed himself, and he confessed and refunded.

ST. HELENS vs. PORTLAND. Several Journals published in Oregon and Washington Territory have predicted from time to time, that the owners of the Ocean steamers contemplate the transfer of the terminus of their lines from Portland to St. Helens. We have it from good authority that this project has been under serious consideration but has not been finally decided.

ENTER COLE—EXIT PICKERING.—The President has appointed Geo. E. Cole as Governor of this Territory vice Wm. Pickering removed. Mr. Cole came up on the last steamer and immediately went to the Sound to assume the duties of the office.

D. Howe, proxy for G. A. Meigs, Olympia; Berry Huntington, proxy for A. R. Burlank, Comitz; Levi Farnsworth, for Anderson Cox, Walla Walla; Wm. McLane, Thurston county; Leader Holmes, Vancouver.

Division Again.—We observe that the Pacific Tribune is swinging round the circle and now advocates the scheme of territorial division started and agitated by the inhabitants of Walla Walla and Western Idaho.

ALL WRONG.—The Standard says, that the editor of the Register "appears to think Clark county can't get along without him in the Legislature."

UNION CONVENTION.—The Territorial Convention will meet in Vancouver on Tuesday April 18th, to nominate a candidate for Delegate to Congress and candidates for other offices.

ABSENT.—We have been necessarily absent for several days attending Court at St. Helens, which is our only excuse for a scarcity of editorial matter and local news.

See the new stock of goods just received in Crawford, Stearns & Co's store.

ARMY INTELLIGENCE.

We are indebted to Major Foster, C. S. and A. Adjutant General for a portion of the following army intelligence: Companies "I" and "K," 23d Infantry U. S. A. are in San Francisco Harbor awaiting the expression of the wishes of Major General Steele, before assignment to duty in the Department of the Columbia.

There are now serving in this Department twenty-two companies of troops outside of a Detachment of Ordnance men and the band of the 1st Cavalry, of which number nine companies are stationed in the District of Boise. These companies average about 55 men each, making an aggregate of about 1,110 enlisted men, which number is increased by Ordnance men and others not on line duty.

Washington Territory Items. At the last session of Congress the treaty negotiated with the Nez Perce Indians, some three years since, was ratified by the Senate, with certain amendments, which made it necessary that the treaty be again submitted to the Indians for their adoption.

Just So.—As conclusive evidence of the fact, that Vancouver has "gone in," we call attention to the fact, that at a public auction of real estate held last week, one unimproved lot of 45x100 feet in size, sold for the paltry sum of $1,245 in U. S. Gold Coin. It was bought by Crawford, Stearns & Co. These gentlemen will in all probability erect upon this lot a large brick building early next spring for business purposes.

Assault a Battery.—An interesting case was tried at St. Helens on Wednesday, where, in one encounter a Connecticut Indian had no need of drivers and sundry citizens of Columbia county of committing an assault upon him, against the peace and dignity of the State of Oregon.

Jefferson City, Jan. 6.—The Missouri Senate, yesterday, ratified the Constitutional Amendment by a vote of 35 to 6.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The President returned the District suffrage bill to the Senate to-day with a veto message, taking the ground that a majority of the people of the District were opposed to it, and that there is a want of capacity in the population upon whom the elective privilege is proposed to be conferred.

Both HOURS OF THE DILEMMA.—We learn that some persons interested in the fine brick buildings at Portland to be soon occupied as Military Headquarters, are urging upon the War Department the removal of the Arsenal from Vancouver to East-Portland.

Mr. Wade, of Ohio, called up the Nebraska bill. Mr. Howe, of Wis., made a speech in favor of it and of the right of suffrage for the colored race.

The question was upon an amendment, and the act shall take effect only upon the fundamental condition that there shall be no distinction in civil or political rights among the inhabitants of Nebraska on account of color, and that the Legislature of that State agree to said condition before admitted as a State. The amendment was disagreed to.

FOR IS THE TIME.—The delinquent tax list is in the hands of the Sheriff for collection. Heretofore the payment of delinquent taxes has not been enforced by levy and sale and the consequence is that the burden of paying the county expenses has fallen upon those who voluntarily come forward and pay taxes.

Sec. 10. The sheriff shall proceed to call upon each person named in the transcript, and collect the taxes charged, as provided in this act, and if not then paid, shall levy the same on the goods and chattels of such person and give six days notice of the time and place of sale and the property to be sold, by posting up advertisements in four public places in the county, and sell the same at public auction, &c., &c.

Local Matters.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS.—Notwithstanding the inclemency of the season, we see many new improvements commenced in town.

MILITARY BALL.—This affair came off last Thursday evening and was well attended by civilians as well as the military.

Three or Four Hurdy Gurdies came to town the other night and opened their establishment for the boys, as we have been in town.

DISEASED SHEEP.—Farmers from the Fourth Plain inform us, that their sheep have taken the disease we spoke of the other week as having been imported from Oregon.

Mr. J. D. Healey has a very fine assortment of tin-ware and other articles, which are enumerated in an advertisement appearing in our columns this week.

THANKS.—The Sisters of Charity present their grateful thanks to the Artillery company of Col. Vincent for a handsome donation, amounting to $24.50 (specie), the proceeds of a ball held by that Company, for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum.

ST. HELENS.—This town is still improving. Some fifty new buildings will be built there in the spring.

RECENTLY, in a lead mine near Memphis, Tennessee, some specimens of red sandstone were broken open, and one was found to contain a petrified human hand, in a perfect state of preservation.

GOVERNOR OF WASHINGTON TERRITORY.—George E. Cole, who came passenger on the "Lafayette," was recently appointed, as we are informed on good authority, to the Governorship of Washington Territory, vice Pickens, removed. He has not, however, been confirmed by the Senate, and the probability is that he will not be.

CHAUVER'S POEM was realized the other day in New York, by the marriage of an elderly gentleman, well known, and wealthy, to a very pretty girl of sixteen, both belonging to our best society.

A CHARGE FOR THE "ANXIOUS AND AIMLESS" GIRLS.—Brigham Young has thoughts of compassion towards the Lowell factory girls, and wishes this passage from his last conference address:—

"The last time I was in the city of Lowell, there were fourteen thousand more females than males in that one city. This is many years ago. They live and die in a single state, and are forgotten. Have they filled the measure of heaven in bringing them upon the earth? No, they have not. Two thousand God-fearing men should go there and take to themselves seven wives apiece. It is written in the Bible, 'and in that day seven women shall lay hold of one man, saying we will eat our own bread, and wear our own apparel; only let us be called by thy name to take away our reproach.' The government of the United States do not intend that this prophecy shall be fulfilled, and the Lord Almighty means that it shall. Do you not think the Lord will conquer? I think he will, and I am helping him."
