THE LEGS AND FEET OF HORSES.

It is a well-known fact that horses with legs and feet sound for many years with legs apparently much out of order. Enlargements take place in the sheath of the hoof, which strains, and from thence, where the parts become lined with a thick coat of lymph, and sometimes the body of the bone itself is found thickened, from a deposition of bony lamina over the original bone.

There is a report in the west that Sitting Bull has crossed the border and is on the Miles battle field with a large force of Sioux and Nez Percés, but the rumor is not believed, and, as it is to be hoped, untrue.

THE DEATH AGONY.—There is no denying the fact that the radical party is almost sinking into death—in articulo mortis, as the lawyers would say—and were a coroner's jury to sit upon the moribund body and give the verdict, premeditated suicide might be the evidence. It is the fourth great party that has arrayed itself against the democratic party within the past eighty years, only to be overcome and destroyed.

HAIRD.—According to the leading organ of the radical party, the radical control of the senate is "dependent upon the caprice of an unprincipled adventurer," meaning Patterson. "No worse thing could befall the party in the senate," says the New York Times, "than to have the responsibility without the substance of power, and to be reduced to making terms with some of the meanest and despicable of its members." This is hard.

SENATOR EDMUNDS evidently thinks that Senator Morton's mantle has fallen on his shoulders, but he is trying the place of leadership in times more troublous than any that Morton experienced. The democrats know that there is less than a year and a half before the election and the consciousness of that, quite as much as their greatly increased numbers, gives them a strength that they never had when they went to battle against Morton.

AVERAGE EXEMPLARS.—Fair specimens of the genus Southern radical legislator are presented in the persons of congressmen Small and senator Patterson. One is sentenced to the penitentiary, the other on the road for the same respectable retreat. What a party it is, that the radical party in the south should be utterly destroyed, when it may be twice as strong as it is now, and when it may be twice as strong as it is now, and when it may be twice as strong as it is now.

HOSTILE.—Latest accounts from Europe look as though the British lion was about to lock horns with the Russian bear. England has intimated an intention to intervene in case Turkey is pressed far, and the Russian bear has very emphatically expressed his repugnance to English interference. England is evidently preparing for war, and will old "Ironclads" takes a hand in the fight Russia will find her hands full. Other people may take sides as they like, but whenever it comes to a contest between English civilization and Russian barbarism, all our sympathies are with old Britannia.

FRANCE AND HER ARMY.—It is now proposed to re-organize the French army, some what after the Prussian system, in the enlistment of men and the term of service to be reduced from five years, as it is, to three years. The effect will be to largely increase the force and to provide a greater number of reserves. It will also give the advantage of the two years' release to agricultural, manufacturing, trade and mechanical pursuits. But Bismarck regards the proposition with much jealousy, and is planning to prevent it. He is resolved that France shall not gain in military strength if he can curb her in the attempt.

TOO BAD.—The remorseless manner in which Governor Wade Hampton of South Carolina is pursuing what the Chicago Inter-Ocean calls the "obnoxious republicans," is altogether too bad. That paper is sadly exercised because in the Palmetto state jurists will insist upon indicting and convicting "obnoxious republicans." It really is too outrageous—but then what can be done? All these "obnoxious republicans" are fashioned upon the moral and social pattern of which Messrs. Small and Patterson are such excellent examples. They all stole, they all forged, most of them committed perjury, and, unluckily for them, they have been detected, and now are undergoing the ordeal of trial, conviction and punishment.

THE TIME WILL COME.—If the radicals had been shrewd, they would have quietly acquiesced in the inauguration of the president-elect. But they made threats and proposed bargains, and now they are getting the full benefit of the system of barter which they inaugurated. Let the dance go on! If Patterson can keep out of the penitentiary by resorting to methods very closely resembling those by which Hayes kept in the white house, there is no present reason why he should not do so. If Conover wants to buy immunity from exposure he can consummate the bargain as promptly as Hayes consummated the Florida frauds from being exposed. Let this system of political barter have its run; and we may well be assured that the time will come when the whole people—republicans as well as democrats—will be ready and anxious to return to the old method of making even-handed justice the ruling principle of the republic.

OUR ARMY AND NAVY.—The annual reports of the secretaries of the war and navy departments reveal a startling condition of things in respect to the personal of each. In the army, the proportion of men to each other is as nine to one, and in the navy, as three to one. This is coming nearer to having an army and navy all officers and no soldiers or sailors than it is pleasant for the citizens to contemplate. As regards the navy, had Robeson been retained in charge, there would have been less vessels and fewer officers and seamen had cruises off-souddings been ordered. The terrible calamities of the Huron was one of the calamitous consequences of his secretaryship. Had he been retained ever to sea in one of the vessels he had built or repaired, either he would have made less money from rascally contracts by having them sea-worthy, or he would have lost the number of his missus ashore. It might assure better work in future if every contractor and builder, and the secretary of the navy also, were obliged to take a trial trip in foul weather in every ship they each had anything to do with it.

FRANCE AND ENGLAND.—The report comes, by way of Vienna, from Paris that diplomatic correspondence is taking place between Paris and London, with a view to a mutual understanding on the Eastern question. It is not improbable that this rumor had its origin in London. France is not at all likely to mix herself up in the Eastern question, England has thought proper at times to declare that she would protect British interests but France has steadily declared that she would not threaten interests she felt bound to protect. England's position, in view of Russia's success and the unmistakable indications of a perfect understanding between Russia and Germany, is a somewhat embarrassing one, and if France should kindly consent to share it with her, England would doubtless express much gratitude. But the recollections of the old alliance do not stir the British public to any perceptible extent, and the Germans were thundering at the gates of Paris, and the rumor that France is going out of her way to help England out of her present dilemma, is a somewhat selfish. Nations help nations which help them in a crisis, but not those who help them with the purpose to

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20, 1877.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—Following the example of congress, Mr. Hayes leaves the capitol for the holidays. Reversing his original plan, he goes north instead of south, and passes Christmas in New York. Whether or not recent political events have induced him to test his popularity in the state of Senator Conkling, no one knows. He will be, it is said, the guest of Mr. Roosevelt, rejected by the senate when appointed to one of the offices in the New York custom house. Mr. Roosevelt, by the way, was with Mr. Hayes at the White House, awaiting news of his confirmation, while the senate was acting on his case.

A persistent attempt is being made to belittle the probable consequences of the senate's action in the New York cases, and in its appointment of a special committee, with Conkling at its head, to consider Mexican affairs. The quarrel is a serious and permanent one, and it is not good policy for the administration or the democratic party to underestimate its importance. Senator Morton goes, there are no more republicans who have half the strength in the rank and file of the party that these two have. With them, also, is Mr. Wheeler, who, from his position, is powerful as a friend to these and dangerous as an enemy to Mr. Hayes.

These two men not only control the republicans of the senate as has been shown but the party itself. The course of Mr. Hayes towards the south, just and commendable as it was, will be to strengthen these radical republican leaders, and weaken him with the masses. We may as well realize now as later that the republican party is hopelessly divided, and that by far the larger portion of it will refuse to train under the banner of any action that the place of leadership takes, with a different understanding of the situation, will be certain to be a blunder.

The investigation into the Huron disaster seems to show that the officer in command of the vessel was in fault. It is also said that the evidence shows the vessel to have been stanch and sea worthy. There has long been rumors around town that the sailing of the Huron from Norfolk followed a period of excessive conviviality on the part of her officers. The evidence will all be published.

There was telegraphed from here last night report that Secretary Sargent would soon resign. From Chicago comes a dispatch stating that Shurz had written to that city he would leave the cabinet shortly. It has long been known that the duties of his position were irksome to him. He has a well developed political fitness for the place, his "civil reform" which was so highly praised in advance, is a by word and a reproach, and I should not be in the least surprised if he exchanged his present place for a more congenial one in some other branch of the government.

This month in Washington has been warmer than any other of December in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. The weather has been on some days uncomfortably warm, and has not once been unfavorably cold. The astonishing mortality among colored people here, at being more than twice as great as among whites, has caused the organization of that class with a view to finding out and remedying the evil. Intelligent colored men are at the head of it. Probably those in other Southern cities where the same state of things exist, will follow the example.

MARRIAGE BELLETS.—Marriages are of an every day occurrence, but it is not often our privilege to record the wedding of a couple whose nuptials were attended with the universal good wishes and general interest as that which Mr. Louis Schwabacher and Miss Belle Blum were united in the sacred bonds of man and wife. The event had been the society topic for some time, and its consummation last Sunday evening forms an epoch in the social annals of the Jewish population of this city. The groom, Mr. Schwabacher, is a member of the well-known firm of Schwabacher Brothers of Walla Walla, Washington territory, one of the most extensive mercantile firms on the coast; while the bride is loved and honored by all who have had the fortune of knowing her. The marriage ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 1528 Sutter street, Rev. Dr. Eikan Colm officiating. The spacious parlors were elaborately arranged for the occasion, and the floral decorations were as beautiful as nature and art could provide, and art or taste device. The bride was most royally attired in a white gros grain silk. The dress was composed of, what might be called, two distinct garments. A plain princess cut high neck, the front embroidered by hand, transversely, while in alternate folds small garlands of maquet combined with orange blossoms, corresponding with the front. The bride's hair was adorned with a side bouquet of orange blossoms, and the bridal veil was so large in its proportions, that its ample folds enveloped the entire person. Her arms were encircled with bracelets of orange blossoms, which were the only ornaments she wore. The presents received were most elegant and costly, and consisted of almost every design in silver ware and ornamental articles of vertu. The large number of donors and the elaborate character of the gifts, owing to our limited space, forbids any extended description. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the Concordia C. K. Hall, where the banquet had been partaken of, the good things had been consumed, and congratulatory telegrams from various parts of the Union were read, and all then retired to the main hall, where the reception took place. Dancing was indulged in until 2 P. M., to the infinite enjoyment of all who were permitted to participate.—San Francisco Exchange.

INTERVENTION.—England is the only nation among the great powers of Europe which exhibits any anxiety about intervening between the Turk and the Russian. It is understood that she has a selfish object in her attitude, which does not in any manner affect either Germany, Austria, France or Italy, and that indifference to the subject can, therefore, be well understood. It is said Turkey has made up her mind to fight the war to the bitter end, and this is given out as the resolution of the Sultan's chief advisers, and the interpretation is plain that the Sultan is of a different way of thinking, and would like nothing better than mediation to avoid what now seems a prospective partition of Turkish territory. Russia is by no means disposed—now that the period of her conquest seems so near—to accept other terms than those which she shall herself dictate, and it is not at all improbable, as has been declared, whenever Turkey exhibits a disposition, in the parlance of the razo ring, to "throw up the sponge," that a better understanding could be arrived at between the combatants themselves, than by the intervention of outside parties. Indemnity is expressly demanded by a conqueror to meet the expenses of a destructive war, and Turkey may not escape, in the contingency of submission, to escape. However, having achieved a full measure of glory in the war, Russia can afford to be magnanimous, and it is to wish this magnanimity that Turkey must look, rather than to the aid of those who manifest reluctance to interpose their good offices. The armies of both the contestants are being reinforced with a declared intention of further hostile operations, but this is no sure sign of the prolongation of the war, and since peace forms an active topic of discussion, such a thing is not impossible at an early day, if Russia is disposed to entertain the proposition.

HAYES IN POLITICAL BANKRUPTCY.—The Fraudulent President went into political bankruptcy on the 4th of March last, and the New York Sun avers that he has been sinking deeper and deeper in the slough ever since then. The fall elections showed that his party had deserted him, and the extra session has shown him to be without credit or honor in either branch of congress.

The Sun declared him to be a scoundrel at the time he took office, and his terrible indictment confronts him on the official records. It is through the suffrage of the democratic members of the house that he is allowed to hold communication with it at all, and it is through their votes that the measures, on account of which the extra session was convened, have been passed. In the senate he is in a still more peculiar and helpless predicament. Not only do the republican leaders there, from Conkling to Blaine, hold him in contempt, but in the whole body of republican senators there is not one of respectability who stands by him. When bitterly assailed a few days ago, not a voice was raised in his behalf, and even the carpet-bag senators slunk away from him when he was denounced by one of their own number. His suggestions are disregarded, and the nominations about which he is most anxious remain unconfirmed. He has tried to induce members of both houses to call upon him; but even those who do so quickly turn away. Republican caucuses have been held for the purpose of seeing if anything could be done about him, but judging from recent occurrences, these caucuses have turned out very adversely to his interests. This is the fate of the Fraudulent President. He stands isolated and helpless without a party or a purpose: Everts was in Andy Johnson's cabinet, and Everts is in Hayes' Fraudulent cabinet; but, though Everts helped him into the White House, he could not help him now that he is there. The regular session of congress has commenced; and before it terminates Hayes will be the most helpless fraud that plays any part in the politics of the country. His bankruptcy will have brought forth results that he did not foresee when he went into it on the 4th of March last.

MATRIMONIAL ADVERTISEMENTS.—The New York Herald has a department devoted exclusively to the publication of matrimonial advertisements. We give a specimen of two of these advertisements, clipped almost at random: A lady of 28, handsome and refined, desires the acquaintance of a gentleman between the ages of 35 and 60, in good circumstances; references exchanged; object matrimony. Address in confidence Sue Carsdale, Pittsburg, Pa.

American gentleman, fine looking, educated, age 26, desires to marry lady of means; age immaterial; perfectly sincere; good reference. Address, confidentially, Disappointed, Herald office.

A widower wants to form the acquaintance of a young widow with means, with a view to matrimony. Address William, box 114 Herald office.

I want to know some respectable, healthy, handsome brunette lady, under 20, matrimonially inclined; I don't care how poor; I've got lots of money. Address Robert, Herald office.

Occasionally these cards are "catches," intended to entrap the unwary, but oftener they are bona fide affairs, published in the hope of securing partners in the voyage of life.

RADICALISM DOOMED.—The most intelligent and shrewdest of the radicals chose the cattle-ground last year, and were beaten on it before the people. Wise or unwise, beaten or not beaten on it, the radical party can never rec occupy the ground. The old radical shibboleths can nevermore be placed in the lips or imbedded in the hearts of men. They are forever banished from the hustings, the party platforms and the radical press. The managers last year chose the only field on which they believed victory possible, and they chose sagaciously. But for that sectional view, the democrats would have carried Ohio in October, and then the radical party would have been beyond the reach of safety, by returning boards or an eight-to-seven commission. But this is not the most depressing phase of politics to the radicals. That platform entirely abandoned by the administration and a more humane and patriotic doctrine being enthroned, the party goes before the country in 1878 only to confront still more emphatic defeat. This to radicals is the over-topping melancholy fact. All roads lead to defeat.

SUICIDES.—The New Yorkers are investigating the cause of the great increase in the number of suicides. There seems to be a lack of frank work suicides which are not understood, for our quilty ones are rather excessive in their frankness, explaining matters down to the minutest details. We can furnish the New York committee any amount of material, explanatory of the cause of this evil, but we would rather wait until we can find out what they are going to do about it, after they ascertain the cause. If they propose to devise some means of furnishing suicides, we commend to them the advice of an Irish member of the English Parliament, who declared that the suicide ought to be compelled to marry the girl. Matrimony, provided the wife is in good financial circumstances, is undoubtedly a sure prevention of suicide.

DARWINISM.—Miss Sedgewick and a son of Charles Darwin are to be married. We hope that there has been no interference of calculating parents in this proposed marriage. Consistency requires that there should be no element of sordidness in this match. The world has a right to expect that this particular marriage be based upon the scientific doctrine of "natural selection." We know nothing of the respective qualities of the contracting parties, but we presume that the doctrine of the "survival of the fittest" will in good time make known this fact. In the meantime, we will assume that they are equally matched and well matched. The incidents of the courtship would in this case be very interesting; but all that we can say is, that "thereby hangs a tail."

SEPARATE WAR AND SEPARATE PEACE.—Russia intends that Turkey, whose armies she has fought for half a century, should make peace with her and not with her enemies, nor even with those of her friends in whose sincerity she has little faith. This is a purpose so reasonable that it seems almost ridiculous any one should deem it unjust. But England's position, is that peace between Russia and Turkey must not be made by these powers; that their war must be settled, not by themselves, but by their neighbors; and that, in short, any pretence to settle this great conflict otherwise than by a conference of the powers is an invasion of the rights of England.

THE THIMBLE RIG.—Morton with his thimble-rigging machine of "fifteen" stole the presidency. Ferry hopes by a similar arrangement of "fifteen" to steal the new state of Washington. Ferry is quite as unprincipled as Morton. All he lacks is the ability to make a successful rogue, and this is where he falls behind the dead conspirator.

SENATOR BLAINE is passing the winter at the Hot Springs, Arkansas. The Maine Senator is evidently preparing for the warm weather, "that sooner or later must overtake all his kind. If he can stand the Hot Springs now, he will be the better able to stand the fire and brimstone hereafter.

TURKEY CITY, according to an exchange, is to have a Methodist church. Now if Chickentown can be provided for, the brot-day, if Russia is disposed to entertain the proposition.

MARINE ITEMS.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—In compliance with your request I send you a communication from this locality. The "land fever" still rages to an alarming extent and fears of a serious character, are entertained that our children will be rendered landless. Immigrants seem to have little or no regard for our stock range, but on the contrary, locate themselves right in the midst of our most luxuriant pastures. Of course we will prefer that they respect "our rights," yet we dare not gumble lest we acquire the unenviable reputation of "monopolist." In fact we say let them come, and bring with them their money and their families, and let not the voice of any of our citizens be raised against those who may desire to locate in our "played out."

THE NO FENCE LAW, which has been agitated by a number of our most "far seeing" and enterprising citizens, will yet receive that support it merits, and which it must receive before the great Columbia valley shall become, what, in the ultimate, it will become the star wheat producing section of the American Union, if not of the world.

With respect towards all who have an honest difference of opinion from us we say it is useless to "back" against fate. The result can be delayed, and we rejoice in the well-grounded hope that the time of the adoption of the "No Fence Law" for Eastern Washington is much nearer at hand than the majority are willing to concede.

PATAMA GRANGE met Saturday evening and elected the following named persons as officers for the ensuing year: Master, J. M. Pomeroy; Overseer, G. D. Gibson; Lecturer, F. B. Logan; Chaplain, J. C. Wells; Steward, J. J. Berry; Secretary, G. M. Nichols; Treasurer, Thos. Reynolds; Gate Keeper, Willis Hall; Clerks, Sarah Waldrip; Pomona, Anna Wright; Flora, M. McClintic; Lady Steward, Mary Berry. The officers will be installed January 12th, 1878. The grange is in a flourishing condition and with the energetic and competent care of officers elected for the new year there is an encouraging outlook for the interest of the order in this locality. Prof. Merrill, a competent instructor, proposes to form a class in vocal music.

Prof. Pomeroy has returned to Walla Walla, and if sufficient encouragement offers will give one or two entertainments.

Lloyd Brooks, of Portland, and one of the earliest settlers in this valley, was at Walla Walla in the early part of the week.

Hon. R. L. T. Galbraith, member of the British Columbia Parliament, representing the Kootenai district, is at Walla Walla, en route to Victoria.

PERSONAL.—Mr. J. M. Boyd is called to Baker City, Oregon, where important business requires his attention. He will be absent about ten days.

Hon. R. L. Shaubert writes to Judge Goodrich, that he will start for Walla Walla early next spring, to be in attendance at the May term of the district court.

SOCIABLE.—The next free reading room social will be held on Thursday evening, January 10, 1878, at the residence of F. W. Paine. All friends of the reading room are invited.

DAVID FINE is suggested as a proper person to represent his council district in the constitutional convention. The daddy's friends claim that his experience and culture eminently fit him for the place.

Col. James Madison is down from Lewiston, where he has been engaged in the military service of the government for several months. We are gratified to see our friend looking well and in excellent spirits.

OUR FASHION EDITOR is a victim of the holiday fever, and hence fails to furnish his usual notes of fashionable sayings and doings. We intend to tone him up in the course of the coming week, and then see that he is in attendance at all fashionable gatherings.

A LARGE STOCK OF GRAPES.—Mr. Riz has a full crop of men busy grafting, and this week put up 20,000 Yellow Newton Pippin grapes. This is perhaps the finest winter apple known. Fine specimens were sent from here to New York city last May.

CRACK SHOT.—A number of extra good shots assembled on New Year's day for the purpose of shooting for a prize steer. Mr. C. Schmaeder, the gunsmith, distanced all his competitors and here off the prize beef. The shooting was at 60 yards, and is reported as remarkably fine.

The Walla Walla association for the advancement of science, will hold its next regular meeting at Science hall, Monday evening, January 7th, 1878, at 7 o'clock. This association is not an exclusive organization. Its monthly meetings are free to all, and a cordial invitation is given to young persons especially, to become members.

THE OLD DOCK.—A commission of fifteen had staid the presidency for the radicals. Acting upon this hint, Ferry has had the constitutional convention put up on the basis of fifteen, another 847 arrangement, and in that way expects to capture the democracy. Morton and his band of conspirators made the original three commission swindle stick. We doubt whether Ferry will succeed equally well with his "fifteen-gang."

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS will resume studies, Monday next, January 7th. Owing to the prevalence of diphtheria, the upper school has been closed for some two months. The lower school was closed to enable the teachers and children to enjoy the holidays. Contagious diseases having in a great measure disappeared, it is expected that the attendance at the schools will be quite large. Let the little ones return to school determined to make up for lost time.

A SUGGESTION.—When the so-called bon ton is put up as an entertainment, it is scarcely allowable to serve refreshments in the ladies' laps, with no other protection than minute napkins. A lady friend calls our attention to this matter, and we have only to add that when the writer assisted in getting up "entertainments," his first care has always been to see that the table was properly "set." Possibly the fashion has changed, as certainly there is a change in manners.

POPULAR SCIENCE LECTURES.—A series of lectures will be given during the winter and spring at Science Hall, in this city, for the purpose of defraying the expense of renting the hall, which will be fitted up and open to the public as a free reading room. The first lecture will be given Friday evening, January 11, 1878, by Dr. G. M. Sternburg, surgeon U. S. Army. Subject, "The microscope—how to use the instrument, and some account of the wonders revealed by it."

SADDLERY AND HARNESS STOCK.—Mr. Jas. Whelan, at his saddlery and harness store, near the head of Main street, has a very large and unusually fine stock of goods in his line, to which he invites the attention of purchasers. These goods were bought in San Francisco by Mr. Whelan in person, and are especially suited to the trade of this town. He also has in his employ a number of very superior workmen, and is thus enabled to fill orders on time, and in all cases give satisfaction. See his card.

A MODEL DELEGATE.—A private letter from Washington, addressed to the editor, brings the information that Hon. Selucius Garfield, former delegate from this territory, is running a "fine and poker room" at Washington. He is a professional "card sharp," and handles the chips with great dexterity. His strong suit is to rope in strangers from the Pacific coast, and when they are robbed of their last dollar he cheerfully informs them that they are "out of luck." "How are the mighty fallen!"

DELINQUENT TAXES.—The revenue law passed at the last session of the legislature divides the territory into two districts. The counties of Stevens, Whitman, Columbia, Walla Walla, Yakima and Kitchikan compose the first district. All the other counties in the territory are embraced within the second district. In the first district, all unpaid taxes become delinquent on the first day of March in each and every year, instead of the first of January as heretofore. Ten per cent. is added as a penalty in case of delinquent taxes, and is to be collected by the treasurer at the same time and in the same manner that the tax is collected.

THE FIDELITY.—A Willamette valley paper has a long account of the tricks played upon the farmers of that section by a couple of tree peddlers who hail from Ohio. It states that they sold plants at outrageously high prices, took notes in payment for the same, and were not at all particular to furnish the description of trees desired. People who allow strangers to pull wool over their eyes in this way deserve to be swindled, but lest some of our readers may be imposed upon in the same way we give the gist of the article by way of warning. The old story of the fly and the spider illustrates the tricks practiced by itinerant vendors. Look out for them!

PIONEER STEAMBOATS.
The steamer Col. Wright, the pioneer steamboat on the upper Columbia, made her trial trip in March, 1859. This boat was built at the Des Chutes during the fall and winter of 1858-'59, and was launched early in March. Her original owners were Col. R. R. Thompson and Capt. Lawrence W. Coe. These gentlemen had the contract for carrying Government supplies to Fort Walla Walla and previous to building the Col. Wright had used batteaux for freighting goods up the river. On account of the rapids and other obstructions, it was the general opinion that it would be impossible for steamboats to ascend the river. This feeling was so general, that Messrs. Thompson and Coe were laughed and jeered at, as investing their money foolishly, and numerous were the predictions of their failure.

Capt. Jordan, at that time chief quartermaster for the department, was a firm believer in the practicality of overcoming the rapids, and it was owing very largely to his countenance and support that the projectors of the enterprise were enabled to overcome the difficulties in their way. The builders of the boat were poor men, and when hard pressed for means Capt. Jordan came to their assistance and enabled them to tide over their financial straits. Batteaux on the river had been getting $100 a ton for carrying supplies from the Des Chutes to Walla Walla. The owners of the Col. Wright put the rate down to $80 a ton and at this figure had all the freight they could carry. During the summer of 1859 the steamer made two and three trips a week, and carrying an average of 100 tons to the trip, it will be seen that the earnings for her owners were enormous. From poor men Messrs. Thompson and Coe at once became wealthy, and took rank among the solid men of the country.

The spring of 1860 found them prepared with a second boat, of much larger proportions, named the Tenino. With these two boats they done an immense business, and in the course of a single summer made two or three fortunes. At that date the Bradfords and Capt. Ainsworth were running a small line of boats from Portland to the Dalles, and had a tram-way at the portage of the Cascades. They occupied the north side of the river. On the Oregon side Col. Ruckle and Harry Olmstead had a line of boats, as also a wooden track railroad at the Cascades. These lines were running "opposition," and it was a common thing for Colonel Ruckle to have his boats tied up by attachments. Untiring energy however carried him through, and he managed to keep his line running down to the spring of 1861, when a combination was formed that has existed from that day to this under the title of the O. S. N. Company.

During this year the O. S. N. Company connected with Thompson & Coe's line on the upper river, but at the end of 1861 overtures were made for a consolidation, and accepted. The line as then organized comprised the Tenino and Col. Wright on the upper river; the Hosatic and Mary between the Dalles and Cascades; and the Carric Ladd and Mountain Back from the Cascades to Portland. At this time the Nez Perce mining excitement was at its height and the boats on their up trips were crowded with passengers and freight. Previous to this time the Bradfords kept a small trading post at the Cascades, dealing principally in Indian supplies. Capt. Ainsworth had been in command of small boats on the lower Columbia, and Col. Ruckle and his partner, Harry Olmstead, had a desperate struggle to make ends meet. We have already spoken of Messrs. Thompson & Coe, and their financial condition at the time of engaging in steamboating.

REMEMBERING THE MEMORY OF THESE EARLY TIMES, we may state that several of the original employees of the combination still remain at their posts. Capt. John Wolfe, on the lower river; Captain J. McNulty, between the Dalles and Cascades; Capt. Eph. Baumman, on the upper river, and general George Knaggs, the purser, were employed on the line previous to the combination. True and faithful men, now that they are in the evening of life, it is proper that their rare merits should be recognized. We commenced to write a short paragraph, but the subject has grown upon us and we have drifted into an excess of early times, and when opportunity offers will give further particulars of the pioneers who inaugurated steamboat navigation on the Columbia River.

NEW YEAR'S FAVORS.—The editor of the STATESMAN was literally overwhelmed on New Year's day by favors from his friends. First was a set of quartz buttons and shirt studs, beautifully finished, a present from our life-long friend Hon. Thos. P. Page. This is a present to be kept for a life-time and left as an heirloom in the family. Next was a box of cigars and a case of lipsons from Messrs. Schwabacher Bros., who are fast friends of the poor printer. A case of wine from Messrs. Dusenbery Bros., gave taken to the good will of those old-time friends. A beautifully iced pound cake from Mr. O. Broedel, gave evidence that even when suffering under the heavy hand of affliction he still remembers his printer friends. Our young friend Sam, of the San Francisco Cigar Store, was early on hand with a fragrant box of Havanas, from which the editor and his friends will draw much pleasant inspiration. And last, a glorious box of great big apples, the gift of Mrs. Thos. Quinn, a lady of whom it may be truthfully said:

"None know her but to love her;
None name her but to praise."
To all the friends who thus kindly remembered us, we return our heartfelt thanks. The life of an editor very often appears to be a thankless one, but when friends rally around and almost bury him beneath the weight of their contributions, his labors brighten and he is made to feel that his skies have the full meed of appreciation.

MILITARY NOTES.—Lieut. P. S. Bonus, 1st cavalry, arrived at Walla Walla, from Lewiston, on the 1st inst. We are informed that Lieut. Bonus will immediately assume the command of company "F," during the absence of Capt. Perry. In the past six months Lieut. Bonus has been in charge of the transportation of Gen. Howard's expedition against hostile Nez Perce Indians. At the outset of the Indian troubles Gen. Howard foresaw the necessity of having an officer in charge of this department combining both perseverance, shrewdness and practical knowledge of fitting up pack and wagon trains, and engaging citizen employees to work said trains. Lieut. Bonus was selected for this duty, and we are informed has given entire satisfaction. His numerous friends will be glad to learn that he is back again at his old post, looking well and none the worse for his arduous campaign.

"GREAT SPEECH."—Some of our exchanges—notably the Astorian—are profuse in their complimentary allusions to Senator Mitchell's speech on the Pacific railroad bill. "A masterly effort," and all that sort of thing. Now, we have carefully read the speech in question, and if there is anything "masterly" about it, we failed to discover it. The fact is, the much named Senator is a very ordinary man, and never rises to the height of eloquence. He has a certain amount of cunning, is unscrupulous as to the means he uses to accomplish his ends, and so he managed with the aid of Ben Holladay's money to smuggle himself into the senate; but when men talk about his "ability" or "eloquence," they are simply indulging in gush.

TERRITORIAL LAWS.—N. H. Owings, secretary for the territory, has published the laws adopted at the late session of the legislature. In a note appended at the end of the volume he furnishes the following explanation of the remarkable shape in which the laws are printed:

Many of the manuscript laws of the sixth biennial session of the legislative assembly appear defective in orthography and punctuation, in numbering of, and references to, sections and chapters, etc. It being my duty to have the printed copies conform with these laws, in no case has there been a departure from the original text in phraseology or punctuation. Suggested corrections in spelling and numbering of sections have been made by enclosing the matter in brackets and superfluous matter indicated in parentheses; but, in the civil practice act, the Arabic and Roman notation and the numbering of chapters and sections have been printed as found in the original law.

In looking through the book we find whole sections that are without punctuation marks and otherwise incorrect. We presume that the secretary had no discretion in the premises, and was obliged to print the laws as they were returned to his office. It is not expected that every member of the legislature shall be a finished scholar, able to speak and write in accordance with the rules of grammar. To meet contingencies of this kind, enrolling clerks are employed, whose duty it is to make out correct and fair transcripts of the laws as passed. As a further safe guard the respective houses have enrolling committees who are expected to make all needful corrections and thus make certain that the laws will appear on the statute books in a creditable manner. All these safe guards appear to have been neglected by the late legislature, and the result is the laws are given to the public in a style that will make them the laughing stock of the country. Don Quixotte killed chivalry by making it ridiculous. The members of the late legislature brought representative institutions into disrepute by making them ridiculous.

FREE LIBRARY.—The committee of ladies having in charge the free library movement, are meeting with gratifying success. The social held last week at the house of Mr. Mike Ward netted them $34. The receipts from the loan exhibition were quite large, and altogether the finances are in a healthy condition. To aid in the organization of the library the ladies desire contributions of books, papers, magazines, and literary matter in any shape or form. Persons having bound or unbound volumes of magazines, are desired to send them in. Old newspaper files are specially desired, and any contributions in that line will be gratefully received. Donations of this character if generally made will add greatly to the interest of the library and reading room, and go very far toward making it a success. Dr. Day will receive contributions of this character and deliver them to the committee of ladies. A box will also be secured at the postoffice in which donations may be deposited. In aid of such a worthy cause, all should feel it a duty to lend assistance.

SCHOOL FUNDS.—Under the new school law the county treasurer is the exclusive custodian of the school funds. Formerly the school money was apportioned twice a year and the clerks of the respective districts drew the amounts and disbursed the same as ordered by the directors. As the law is amended, the teachers in the country districts will have to come to town to draw their pay, as all disbursements on account of the public schools must be made by the treasurer in person or by deputy. The arrangement will work well for hotel-keepers, livery stables, and that class of people, but will be hard upon the poor teachers.

VALUABLE PROPERTY.—Within the last week, G. Maier, Esq., one of our wealthiest farmers, became the owner of the valuable property known as the "Bush claim," situated about half a mile above town, and immediately adjoining the fair grounds. This is one of the best farms in the valley, and right on the outskirts of town, is a most desirable place for a family residence. For several years Mr. Maier has desired to secure a home in town so as to be able to educate his children, and we are glad that he has at length realized his wishes. Mr. C. S. Bush still retains the fair grounds, having only sold the farm and family residence.

NAVIGATION SUSPENDED.—Wednesday last the boats made the last trip for the season and were drawn off the route. During a residence of nearly twenty years east of the mountains, this is the first season that boats made a trip after the first of January. In one or two unusually mild seasons the river was open in January, but the boats were always tied up before the close of December.

JUDGE MIX, present owner of the old C. S. Penter property on Second street, is having the same refitted and converted into a very handsome residence. The house has been raised from the ground, and with additions and enlargements, is now provided with every convenience for a pleasant home.

WEATHER PREDICTIONS.—The balance of the winter will be full of sunshine if it don't cloud over. When the cold weather sets in the mercury will fall and light clothing will become uncomfortable. If there be no sleighing it will be caused by a lack of snow. Among the many predictions that have been made concerning the season, we feel assured that none will come nearer fulfillment than this of ours.

HON. W. T. BARNES, the gentleman who so ably and faithfully represented this county in the last legislature, was in town yesterday.

HON. DAN STEWART has returned from a trip to Whitman county, where he is the owner of valuable lands.

PERSONAL.—Dr. H. F. Adams, of Oakland, California, formerly of Chicago, has arrived at the Stearns House, Walla Walla, and will remain one month for the treatment of all forms of chronic disease. Dr. Adams is a regular graduate of a regular school of medicine, and is a thorough surgeon, a practical physician and scholar. And all the afflicted will do well to call and consult the Doctor. Procrastination is the thief of time.

E. R. PATEL, M. D., graduate of the Ohio medical college, physician and surgeon, Walla Walla, W. T. Surgical operations performed on moderate terms. Chronic and private diseases treated with but little medicine. Cures guaranteed in every case we undertake to treat, having no time to dabble with incurable diseases. Diagnosis in all chronic diseases accurately determined and consultation free. Office Main street, near corner First.
