Aspects of the Planets for January.

Jupiter is morning star until the 19th, and then evening star until the 7th of August. There is no question as to which star shall head the list during January, for Jupiter puts his grandest aspect on the 19th, when he reaches opposition. This event occurs at 10 o'clock in the evening, when the regal planet will be toward toward the zenith, and can be seen in his best estate. Though Jupiter never shines with the bewitching brightness that distinguishes Venus in her period of greatest brilliancy, he enjoys a great advantage over his fair rival, in that he is an outer planet, he may be seen at opposition, opposite the sun, rising about sunset, and making his transit, or meridian passage, at midnight. Since Venus is an inner planet, she is never seen more than 45° from the sun, either three hours after sunset or three hours before sunrise. Jupiter seems to make the circuit of the sky. Venus seems to oscillate in straight lines east and west of the sun as if she were fastened to him by an invisible chain. In reality, both planets revolve around the sun in the same orbit. The different aspects they take on are simply the way they look to terrestrial observers, the giant planet traveling outside of our domain, the fairest of the planets traveling within our boundaries.

What Came of Being a Deadbeat.

"What a little thing it will get away with a public man!" said a citizen of Michigan, the other day. "Only a year ago and all he could hear was 'Begole,' 'Begole,' the greatest and best man in the state. He was the man of the people, who would never let a man go to the railway monopolies. People were excited about the railroads, and they looked up to Uncle Joseph as their deliverer. When the disclosure about Governor Begole asked a railroad for 'one of them little red books, also one for Mr. Begole,' came out, the people refused to believe it; but now that the proof has appeared, there is weeping and wailing. Why, sir, a year ago Begole was talked of up here for president of the United States, but now he couldn't be elected chief master in a back town. Asking for that pass killed him in Michigan."

Medical Lake.

The Saratoga of the northwest is situated on the north bank of the lake of the same name. Its future prosperity is assured, and one of the most prosperous cities in the northwest is now in its infancy and on the verge of future greatness. Large tracts of land have been purchased by eastern parties with assurances of a large hotel, something like the El Monte or Sierra Maestra, whereby large excursion parties from the eastern cities can enjoy a summer's rest and at the same time enjoy the luxury of one of the finest bathing places in America. The following extract from a noted traveler explains the true impression of all who visit the lake: "Miss Francis E. Willard, the noted and gifted temperance lecturer, after visiting Medical Lake last July, in the Union Signal of Aug. 15th, says: 'When making the Northern Continental trip be sure to take a bath in Medical Lake water. The hot springs of Arkansas are wonderful, the thermo-electric and Turkish baths are luxurious, the sanitariums of Clifton, Danville and Elmira are delicious in their bathing privileges, and for a sense of completeness, verification and unequalled wholesomeness, try the milky soapy waters of this marvelous lake. The beauty of it is that unlike any other health resort this one can be carried away with you, a precipitate of the best qualities in the form of a fine white powder can be used at home in one's own bath room with never failing delight. I count this a discovery too pleasant not to be imparted and so write the name Middaugh Harwood & Co., now changed to The Medical Lake Manufacturing Co., Medical Lake, W. T. Medical Lake salts contains not a single ingredient but what is obtained by evaporating of this water, and its effect is, scrofulous, rheumatic and similar affections, is said to be really magical.'"

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

The mails are badly demoralized again. Effus had a portion of the Palms in his pocket when captured. Henry Sanderson has been appointed steward of Vigilant and New Engine Companies. Mr. Willard has actually sent in his resignation. Is this the last of him? We doubt it. Pot hunters had better leave off shooting chickens as the time allowed by law is expired. A letter sent from the STATESMAN office to Astoria, Dec. 29th, reached there January 3d. General Mackenzie of the Department of Texas, has retired to the Bloomingdale Inn, Astoria.

Washington Letter.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.] WASHINGTON, December 25th, 1883. The first step in the presidential campaign of next year was taken Wednesday, when the Republican executive committee met in this city and selected the time and place for holding the National Republican Convention to nominate candidates for President and Vice President. The basis of representation was settled at the last meeting of the committee of four delegates at large from each state and two delegates from each congressional district. Senator Frye asked that it might be changed so that but one delegate shall be elected arbitrarily from each congressional district, and another delegate shall be chosen for each ten thousand republican votes in the state, the delegates-at-large to remain as they are. Senator Frye's proposition failed to meet the approval of the majority. There was a full attendance of committee members, and the disputed points were the place of holding the convention and its chairmanship. Senators Logan, Frye, and Secretary Chandler were candidates for the latter, and Saratoga, Chattanooga, Philadelphia, Indianapolis, Chicago, and Cincinnati, claimed the convention, the sharpest of the conflict being between the two latter places. Chicago won on the fourth ballot. The third of June is the time appointed for the meeting of the convention, and Senator Sabin of Minnesota was unanimously elected chairman.

Willard's Management.

It appears to be a fact that Henry Willard has positively resigned the presidency of the Northern Pacific railroad, and that his predecessor, Frederick Billings, is to be re-installed in the position. This, of course, due to the recent decline in the price of the Willard stocks, whose holders got frightened when their pockets were touched by the fluctuations of the stock exchange, and led them to demand the resignation of the great railroad magnate. There would have been in this proceeding nothing of particular interest to the public—it would have been simply a corporation matter—but for the villainous misrepresentation to which Willard has been subjected since his retirement. He is the best known man in America since Horace Greely ran for the Presidency. Not content with ousting him from the Northern Pacific his former friends accuse him of treachery and dishonesty, and attribute to him the recent decline in Northern Pacific securities.

Bill to Open the Umattila Reservation.

On December 11th, Mr. George introduced a bill providing for attachment of land in severalty to the confederated bands of Cayuse, Walla Walla and Umatilla Indians now living on the Umattila Reservation in eastern Oregon, and for the sale of that part of the reservation remaining after the settlement. This bill is certainly a proper and just one and its enactment would not violate any treaty with the Indians or leave them without maintenance. It is in principle, as far from that which proposed to rob Chief Moses of his country last year, as right is from wrong. The Umatilla reservation occupies the fairest location in Umatilla county. Its area of 150,000 acres is about equally prairie and timber land, the former being only suitable for general farming and the latter almost as valuable for a range and for its timber. Upon this splendid domain a little band of Indians, not more than 700 in all, are quartered. They make some little use of the land in the way of farming and for pasturage, but most of it lies a sacred wilderness, surrounded by a rich and progressive country. Its presence instead of being a blessing is a drawback to the country, for it is a hindrance to great development. The bill, an abstract of which follows proposes only to do what would be for the good of all of them. It provides, too, for the disposal of the lands remaining after the settlement in a way which will secure what they are worth, and in this respect the bill is a great improvement on plans heretofore prepared, which would have made the vacated lands the object of a grab game.

The Market Pig.

The style of market pig has undergone a great change with a few years. The large 400 or 500 pound hog is now seldom found, says the Chicago Stock Journal. The overgrown hog is no longer sought after, and pig feeding has been more carefully studied of late years. Shrewd feeders have found that the older the hog, the more its carcass costs per pound. It is also found that the flesh of the large hog is coarser and stronger and not as sweet and fine-flavored, as ten to twelve pound pig. It is true, the older and over-fatted hog yields more lard, but this does not carry profit with it, as lard often brings no higher price than the side pork. The hog, therefore, to grow these large hogs no longer exists, and the 200 to 300 pound pig has displaced the 500 pound hog.

The Natchez Pass.

Mr. Boyd, of Yakima county, who is now in Tacoma, describes the Natchez pass as the most direct of all the Cascade passes in its course towards the western termini of the Northern Pacific railroad, being some forty miles nearer than any other of the practicable mountain passes. It has an easy approach from the east, and though its backbone or summit is somewhat higher than the Snoqualmie pass, the amount of tunneling required, he now thinks will not be extensive, if the summit comes up to a sharp point and is not very extensive. The pass is formed by the confluence of the Greenwater and Natchez rivers, and abounds in the finest timber prairies, building stone, gypsum and coal mines. There is no richer mountain country on the coast, and the approaches on both sides are very favorable.

Ref Tea vs. Whisky.

Here is a cue for the temperance folks. It is now said that ref tea is supplanting whisky as a beverage in Omaha. A bar-keeper said a few days ago to a reporter who inquired into the matter: "At first we laughed at the idea of going to the trouble of making it, but now we laugh because we do make it. We sell over 100 drinks per afternoon, and it is a 15 cent drink there is no reason why we should not smile. Why drink it, do you say? Why, everybody; the boys come in here in the morning and call for ref tea; the business men who drop in with a bit of tea; the temperance men who drop in with a bit of ref tea; and the rest of the lot, in fact, everybody is coming 'ave to it.'"

Society Notes.

Every fourth year is set apart by divine dispensation for the special benefit and redemption to active life of dormant old men who have been refused the consolations of matrimony. From the demure and hopeless and dejected spinsters she suddenly blooms up as an aggressive and somewhat unaccountable force in the social world. From a wall flower or mere bush-decoration in the ball room, she blossoms forth with gymnastic activity she glides among the terrified dudes and fills her programme with their names. She dances every set, and will not even sit down between sets. She has already begun her arduous work on the male generation and her awful avial will not terminate for a year. These observations are thrown out as mere pointers for the boys with the further information that the fare to the Cour d'Alene mines is not over $50.

Estate of a Sewing Machine Man.

The settlement of the vast estate of the late Mr. Singer, inventor of the sewing machine of that name, is nearly concluded, the executor having paid off four of Mr. Singer's families, the fifth now under consideration. Mr. Singer's estate was valued at about $16,000,000, and there has been enough money for the wives and twenty-five children. The sewing machine business was a very profitable one for Mr. Singer, who, not being a man of frugal habits, or a conscientious and punctual moralist, required a large amount of money. Had he lived ten years longer he might have squandered his great resources, for the year before his death he bought a nobleman's estate in England and began to improve it in imperial fashion and with utter recklessness. Although his married life was not very happy, Mr. Singer seems to have enjoyed himself more than many other paupers inventors of useful appliances.

A Big Railroad.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul rail road earned during the year 1883 the great sum of $23,000,000. This company owns more miles of road than any other in the United States. The equipment in every particular is first class. The sleeping and dining car service is unequalled, as every traveler from the northwest who has taken the line from St. Paul to Chicago can attest. Large additions are made to the lines of the company every year, radiating from Chicago to the west and northwest, making in all nearly 5,000 miles of road under one management.

Fearful Accident.

Ed. Saunders, while engaged in bettorizing hogs for Chris Starns on Friday, accidentally fell into the vat containing boiling water and before he could extricate himself was scalded so terribly as to be partially boiled. Mr. and Mrs. Starns rendered every assistance until Dr. Boyd could be sent for. It is feared that the injuries will result in death.

Stranger than Fiction.

Truth is stranger than fiction any time, and when we published that article of a famous correspondent, "Edward O'Donovan, a few nights ago, we did not think he was likely to be known in this city, but such is the fact, and Mr. T. C. Marum, of the firm of Delaney & Marum, was his friend and companion and served in the same squad with him during the Franco-German war. Mr. Marum may not be as famous as his old companion in arms, but to the head of a large and prosperous business is better than to be killed as O'Donovan was, by the troops of El Mahdi.

A Disgraceful Act.

The action of Attorney McCulloch, in throwing a chair at a spectator, is so disgraceful that he deserves to be severely punished, if not disabled. Even if Mr. McCulloch had just cause for complaint against Mr. Taylor, his act is inexcusable. Attorneys at law are considered gentlemen because their studies and profession are accepted as guarantees that they are such; but such acts as that referred to lower them to the level of the common scamp who delights in blackguarding, and against whom the doors of all respectable people are closed.—Wool River Times.

Notes from the Mines.

Frank Orselli has returned from his visit to the sunny home of his birth, and to the STATESMAN's office has brought evidence in the shape of the largest orange and lemon we have seen here ever sown. The orange measured 13 1/2 inches in circumference and the lemon is six inches long. Frank looks well after his trip but all the same is glad to be back again.

Blaine's New Book.

To the student of American politics Mr. Blaine's book will be a welcome visitor. The author was not only an active participant in all the events that have agitated the country since the breaking out of the rebellion, but he has seen the practical operation and results of the different policies. In this respect he has the advantage of all his predecessors. In this progressive age new issues are crowding in quick succession and they must be met and disposed of. A knowledge of the past, such as Mr. Blaine's 20 years in Congress, puts within the reach of every man what is an invaluable aid in the solution of pending issues. J. Dewey & Co., of San Francisco, have the agency of this coast, and their agent is among us soliciting orders for the work, which it is expected can be delivered by the middle of February.

Some Advice for Democrats.

If the signs of the times are read aright, coming events cast their shadow before in the political world, and the elections this year, national, state and local promise to be of unusual interest. Many Republicans who have voted with that party since its organization openly avow their belief that the time has come for a political revolution in national affairs and announce their intention of co-operating with the Democracy to secure it.

There are also here a class of self-seeking, ambitious Republicans who are afflicted with a mania for holding office. There is a clique of such in this city. Conversing with Republicans on political matters they will loudly proclaim themselves as the original Black Republicans, and will narrate their services, loyalty and fidelity to the party until they tire their listeners.

Divorce.

Dr. Leonard Woolsey Bacon has for some time been paying particular attention to the practical working of the divorce laws of the several states, and his articles in the Providence Review have attracted wide and deserved attention. He has spared nobody, and has been especially severe upon the divorce laws of his own New England, where a demoralizing state of affairs exists.

The divorce attorneys dwell emphatically on the fact that their clients need fear no publicity, and they guarantee divorce absolute within sixty days. The true way to reach the evil is to require the greatest publicity, and to make the term of proceedings as long as possible, and to permit no absolute divorce, with privilege of re-marriage, except for the cause of adultery.

Our "Absolute Sovereignty." Many years ago Chancellor Kent declared the "absolute sovereignty" which Congress would possess over the people of the territories, to be organized in the then comparatively unknown West.

A Peasant Proprietary. The Earl of Devon, who is a large owner of land in Ireland, is reported to have offered his tenants their holdings at a stipulated price, that they may become proprietors and independent of landlords.

Telegraphic Squibs. COLUMBIA, Jan. 8.—The Democratic caucus, in secret ballot to-night, nominated H. B. Payne, of Cleveland, for Senator, to succeed Pendleton. The nomination was made on the first ballot—Payne 48, Pendleton 33, Ward 9.

What the "Standard" Says. The Walla Walla Statesman has entered upon its 23d year of publication. Since the Statesman was first published, and especially since Col. Parker has controlled it, a great many good people have wasted breath in predicting its demise.

Diversified Farming.

The subject of diversified farming has become hackneyed through long use, and yet there is nothing that should more interest the farmers of the Walla Walla valley. Home cured bacon sells at 17 cts per pound, and yet at this price fully nine tenths of the bacon used here is imported.

Men are never wanting to encourage with their talk enterprises from which a community will benefit, but when it comes to a patronage these same men; nine times out of ten, are found wanting. And so while the originators of the Dayton mills were struggling along, doing their utmost to make their enterprise pay and keep money in the country, which had been sent out of it for inferior goods, those who should have stood in with them gave their patronage to shoddy goods for the reason that they were the cheapest.

96,000 POUNDS OF WOOL. And have every facility that a first class wool mill should have. In the card room there are two sets of cards, two spinning jacks and spooler for stocking yarn. The weaving room are six broad and two narrow looms, spooler, dresser, shears and brush for shearing and brushing cloth. The finishing room is provided with a fuller, washing and gig, and two pickers in the picker house.

The Dayton Woolen Mills.

The woolen mills situated in our sister city of Dayton have always had the reputation of turning out a class of goods that cannot possibly be excelled anywhere else no matter where they may be manufactured.

Men are never wanting to encourage with their talk enterprises from which a community will benefit, but when it comes to a patronage these same men; nine times out of ten, are found wanting. And so while the originators of the Dayton mills were struggling along, doing their utmost to make their enterprise pay and keep money in the country, which had been sent out of it for inferior goods, those who should have stood in with them gave their patronage to shoddy goods for the reason that they were the cheapest.

IN PROBATE. In the matter of the estate of Charles H. Hull, Deceased. CITATION.—On reading the duly verified petition of F. F. Adams, filed in this court, setting forth that said Charles H. Hull, died intestate in the county of Walla Walla, Territory of Washington, on the 24th day of March, 1876; that decedent at the time of his death was a resident of said county, leaving real estate therein; consisting of lots 1 and 10 in block 11, Barron's addition to the City of Walla Walla, W. THE FALL IN PRICES

DOHENY & MARUM'S WHY WE REDUCE DRESS GOODS! WHY WE CUT DOWN SILKS! READ THE REASONS! The completion of the Northern Pacific Railroad brings New York, from a business point of view, as near as San Francisco.

We have made arrangements with eastern importers and manufacturers for the future delivery of Dress Goods and Silks in this city and the difference in prices between New York and San Francisco revealed an alarming situation. It has revealed the positive fact that Dress Goods and Silks purchased in San Francisco are too high in price.

OUR REMEDY. The remedy for all this will be to us a dead loss, but we grasp the situation as it exists. Events once in a while make startling changes, and the channel of trade in this case develops a solid advantage to the public although we lose by it.

WE WANT ONE THING UNDERSTOOD. The fact that we sell goods exclusively for cash, a very important reason why we can sell dress goods and silks at cost price. We sell dress goods now for 50 cents per yard that cost us 50 cents, but we must have the cash. If we gave credit where would be? It is very reasonable to understand that a house giving credit cannot offer goods at low prices.

OUR PRICE—All Goods Marked in Plain Figures. Since our advent in business in this city these rules have been some of the chief reasons why our establishment has become so popular. They were a radical innovation on the old custom of "getting all you can." Our competitors didn't believe in it, but strange, most all of them have now pretended to adopt those rules themselves.

COUNTRY ORDERS. To our patrons residing at a distance from Walla Walla such an opportunity has never before been offered in this Territory. Any lady can get the same advantage 100 miles away as if she were personally present.
