Democratic National Address. Washington, March 5, 1877.

At a caucus of the democratic members of the House of Representatives, held on the blacks.
3d of March, 1877, in the hall of the House, whether islatures easily to be convened, the only demand for their presence was made by the State executives. The elections in these States, therefore, were held in the shadow of military power. The bayonets glistened at the polls in depositing their ballots. They only erjoyed such liberty as the army permitted. In other States the elections were nunsually peaceful. Immediately afterwards the result showed that 196 Tilden electrors had been chosen. Of the popular vote they received a majority of more than one-quarter of a million, and of that of the Cancasian race, which controls every other Christian and civilized government of the world, they receive a majority of more than one million. On the day succeeding the election it was almonunced by the chairman of the republican national committee that 184 Tilden and consumed by the chairman of the republican national committee that 184 Tilden and consumed by the chairman of the republican national committee that 184 Tilden and consumed the themptation to Kellogg and his returning board was very great to manufacture was one court which could not lay its hands upon fraud when brought before it for review. These exceptions of the tribunals were the returning boards of Florida and Louisiana, and that exceptional court is the electoral commission. Fraud has found an entrenchment of the world, they receive a majority of more than one-quarter of a million, and of that of the Cancasian race, which controls every other Christian and civilized government of the world, they receive a majority of more than one million. On the day succeeding the election it was announced by the chairman of the republican national committee that 184 Tilden and constant the constitution was a proposed to vest it in the returning boards; it can be considered to make a case of intimidation, for it was only in that the exceptional double the elections of intimidation, for it was only in the temptation to kell the temptation of the deought and the temptation of the deought and the temptation of the deought a 185 Hayes electors had been chosen. Noth-thing had been learned of the election except the vote actually cast. It has never since been disputed that, by the vote, the majority of Tilden electors had been appointed. Such announcement, therefore, could only have been made in pursuance of arrangement to change the vote shown to have been given by the people. We charge that after the true result had been proclaimed a conspiracy was formed by the republican leaders to reverse formed by the republican leaders to reverse the decision made at the polls. The field chosen for the development of the conspiracy was the States of Fiorida and Louisiana. The persons to act as the original conspirators were the movers and members of the returnboards of these States. The field was well chosen. For more than 10 years these States had been subject to governments not of their choice. Taxations and maladminis-trations had robbed them of their substance And all your scul is full of light,

While considering members of the board endeavored to enter into negotiations with the republican and democratic national committees to sell their decision. Half a million of dollars of eight to seven refused to receive testimony of eight to seven refused to receive testimony of the facts, except as to the ineligibility of one member in Florida. Against these decisions we protest most carnestly, in the name of free republican government. That the first place, they struck a fatal blow at the constitutional powers of the two houses to count the electoral vote. This power has been exercised by both houses t without dispute from the foundation of the government. Where votes were thrown out, whether this intimidation compelled some person to vote against their will or prevented some from attending the polls, it afforded in their case precision of the polls, it afforded in their case precisions and rules of morals, in excluding the evidence of fraud submitted; nothing can stand which is tarnished by fraud; it vitiates everything; it annuls every deed; cancels person to vote against their will or prevented some from attending the polls, it afforded is their case no justification for a deliberate rejection of the ballots by the returning boards.

The text of the statute of Louisiana, only authorized proof of indimidation, in a case where charges of violence were made, in writing by the commissioners of elections on the day when the election was the old South, and while engaged in that effort, it was striving to make good its probable losses in the North by dividing the votes of the South. Frightful Scene in a Church.

New York, March 8.—There was a panie in the church of St. Francis Xavier, Sixteenth street, near Sixth avenue, to-night, caused by a woman fainting and cries of fire; a rush of women from one of the galleries was made, and in the tumult which ensued, six women and one boy were trampled under lood and killed. The audience was composed entirely of women and children, it being women we k in leat. The number of persons injured could not be ascertained. Father Langracke was preaching on hell and the terrors of the damned, and as the preacher was picturing the torments of purgatory a young woman in the corner gallery, overcome by her feelings, fainted and gave utterance to a hysterical scream, starting the worshippers and causing them to spring to their feet. The next moment some reckless person crad fire, and this gave rise to the pasic. Father Langracke implored the people to keep their seats, as there was no cause for alarm. Father Merrick, the pastor, hard the screams and rushed into the sanctuary. He called upon the congrecation to keep their seats, as there was no fire. The congregation was dismissed and the organ began to pay. The women in the main boly of the church and gallery passed out in an orderly manner, but the people coupying that portion of the gallery where the commotion had begun and centered, rushed toward the feat through the properties of the bottom makes a sharp turn, before it reaches the vestibule.
