

POLITICAL.—The Oregon Union State Convention met at Corvallis yesterday. It is anticipated that the Convention will be a stormy assemblage. The great difficulty will be to frame a platform on which the discordant elements composing the Union party can harmonize.

INGRATITUDE.—The radicals of Oregon in throwing off on Governor Gibbs, are guilty of the basest ingratitude. To secure their favor, the Governor has eat any amount of dirt, and gone far beyond the promptings of his own convictions.

AN AUTHORITY DECISION.—In the Baltimore Convention which nominated Lincoln and Johnson for President and Vice President, Thad. Stevens objected to the nomination of Andrew Johnson for the reason that he belonged to a Southern Territory, and as a consequence was ineligible.

THE ROBBERY OF COLLECTOR ADAMS.—It is known that the San Francisco papers utterly scouted the idea that Billy Adams' trunk was robbed, and boldly affirmed that the Collector was trying to play sharp.

FLIP, FLOP.—In the winter of 1864-5 Senator Williams, then just arrived in Washington, was in favor of the immediate admission of Louisiana and Arkansas, as desired by President Lincoln.

THE FREIGHT QUESTION.

It will be seen from the official report of the merchants' meeting, that measures have been taken that will relieve shippers from the inconveniences attending the payment of freight money at Wallula.

THE TOUCHET ROAD.—We are requested to call the attention of the County Commissioners to the miserable condition of the road leading from Walla Walla to the Touchet. Teamsters complain that the road is in an impassible condition; and further that unless it is repaired, they will be compelled to give our town a wide berth.

GOOD APPOINTMENT.—The telegraph has it that Wm. H. Barnhart has been appointed Superintendent of Indian Affairs for Washington Territory. We trust the report may prove correct.

DR. BALLARD, of Linn County, Oregon, has been appointed Governor of Idaho Territory, vice Caleb Lyon of Lyonsdale, removed.

WE notice that the Vancouver Register, edited by Brown, of the Land Office, endorses the radicals in their war upon the Administration.

A SHIPPER'S VIEWS.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—I attended a meeting of the Merchants of this City, on the evening of the 24th inst., called for the purpose of devising means to meet the demand of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company.

The President of the Company has been addressed upon the subject, but without any satisfactory results. Freight bills must be paid in full before delivery, or the goods cannot be delivered.

THE QUESTION.—A disinterested individual known as Wm. Big(b)low, certifies that parties bound for the Upper Columbia mines can save one hundred miles travel by going by way of White Bluffs.

THE OREGON DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION meets at Portland, on Thursday next, the 4th of April. All the democratic papers in the State now support the President, and as a consequence it may be regarded as a foregone conclusion that the Convention will endorse his reconstruction policy.

MULTNOMAH COUNTY.—The Union Legislative ticket for Multnomah county is as follows: For Senators—J. N. Dolph and David Powell. Representatives—W. W. Upton, John S. White, A. Rosenheim, and J. P. Garlick.

FOR CONGRESS.—The Wasco county democrats have instructed in favor of Col. N. H. Gates for Congress. The Wasco county Union Convention did not intrust, but it is understood that the delegates favor the nomination of Judge Denny.

COMBINED.—The owners of the rival steamboats that have been plying on the Willamette have combined, and as a result the days of low fares and cheap freights are over.

The Freedmen's Bureau Bill.

The radical presses on the Pacific coast continue to harp over the Presidential veto, and seem to regard this exercise of the Executive prerogative as the unpardonable sin.

MEETING OF MERCHANTS AND SHIPPERS. Pursuant to call, a meeting of the merchants and shippers of Walla Walla, was held at the Court House, on Saturday, the 24th inst.

Later from Montana. The correspondent of the Salt Lake Tribune, writing from Montana, under date of February 26th, has the following:

PORTLAND DIRECTORY.—Mr. S. J. McCormick, the publisher, sends us the Portland Directory for 1866. The book is well and neatly got up, and is filled with a great variety of statistical and other information.

COLORADO REJECTED.—The U. S. Senate has very properly rejected the application of Colorado to be admitted into the Union. This hot-growth of States is an evil that should be checked, and we are glad to see a disposition in Congress to discourage the practice.

ROW IN THE CAMP.—The Portland Herald furnishes a report of the Union primary meetings, from which it appears that at the South Portland Precinct, Governor Gibbs was in attendance, and introduced a resolution excluding all democrats from taking part in the proceedings.

FREE BRIDGES.—The bridge across the Touchet, at Wall's Mill, is completed and ready for the use of travelers, free.

Letter from Mr. McBean.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—I observe that Mr. Spaulding is greatly interested to make me appear in the eyes of the public; but notwithstanding his quotations from Mr. Osborne, and his exaggerated, absurd and contradictory statements on the subject, I still adhere to and maintain what I affirmed in my former communication.

Walla Walla Statesman.

How the Money Goes. How goes the money?—Well, I'm sure it isn't hard to tell; it goes for rent and water rates, for bread and butter, coal and gas, for hats, caps and carpets, hoops and hose, and that's the way the money goes!

How goes the money?—Nay, Don't everybody know the way? It goes for bonnets, coats and capes, silks, satins, muslins, velvets, crapes, Shawls, ribbons, furs, farbelows, and that's the way the money goes.

How goes the money?—Sure, I wish the ways were somewhat fewer! It goes for wages, taxes, debts, for parties, pomade and eau de rose, and that's the way the money goes.

How goes the money?—Now, I've scarce begun to mention how; it goes for feathers, lace, rings, Toys, dolls, and other baby's things, Whips, whistles, candies, bells and bows, and that's the way the money goes.

How goes the money?—Come, I know it don't go for run; it goes for schools and Sabbath chimes, it goes for charity sometimes, for missions and such things as those, and that's the way the money goes.

How goes the money?—There, I'm out of patience, I declare! It goes for plays and diamond pins, for public aims and private sins, for hollow shams and silly shows, and that's the way the money goes.

The art of living easily, as to money, is to pitch your scale of one degree below your means. Comfort and enjoyment are more dependent upon easiness in the detail of expenditure than upon any degree in the scale.

Guard against false associations of pleasure with expenditure—the notion is absurd that because pleasure can be purchased with money, therefore money cannot be spent without enjoyment.

What a thing costs a man, is no true measure of what it is worth to him; and yet, how often is his appreciation governed by no other standard, as if there were a pleasure in expenditure per se.

Let your self feel a want before you provide against it. You are more assured that it is real want, and it is worth while to feel a little in order to feel the relief from it.

When you are undecided as to which of the two courses you would like best, choose the cheapest. This rule will not only save money, but save also a good deal of trifling indecision.

Too much leisure leads to expense; because, when a man is in want of objects, it occurs to him that they are to be had for money, and he invents expenditure in order to pass the time.

HINTS TO FARMERS.—It was a sentiment of Dr. Johnson that "he who waits to do a great deal of good at a time, will seldom do but little," and it may be stated as a rule, admitting but few exceptions, that the farmer who waits to perform improvements upon his farm or his buildings upon a large scale, will in the end accomplish but little.

A farmer of wealth, or who has money enough, can of course, do what he likes, and when he pleases; but the great mass of our farmers are not in a condition to do this. Hence it is necessary that improvements should be made upon a small scale, but always with a view to future enlargement, so as to harmonize completely.

It is the farmer who is always "fixing up" his buildings and improving his surroundings year by year, and making annual improvements of some kind upon his farm, who succeeds best and has things in the most complete order.—Rural New Yorker.

TAXATION IN ENGLAND.—Nearly all the duties upon what are strictly the necessities of life have been removed. All that enters into the construction of dwellings is absolutely free from taxation.

There is no duty upon bricks, glass or iron. All that enters into the clothing of the poor is free from taxation. Bread and meat are subjected to no tax whatever. The same with cheese, eggs, fruits, etc.

And turning from the necessities to the comforts of life, there is a vast and wonderful change for the better. We remember when sugar paid as much as three pence sterling a sugar duty.

Now it only pays one penny. It is only a few years since the duty on tea was four shillings sterling a pound. Of course all such articles as stimulants, whether spirits or tobacco, are highly taxed.

Beautiful Forever.

The beauty of youth and complexion is one of the things on which may be written "eminently perishable." Like all scarce and attractive things, it has a wonderful value; and, like all precious things, it has its imitations, more or less skillful.

Beauty of feature remains long—elegant carriage can be found in women whose youth is sorrowfully long left behind; and beauty of expression, that highest loveliness of all, lovely because lovable, is peculiar to no age, though it is most often developed late in life.

The first mentioned beauty, however, appears to be that most coveted—and to be so just because it is most fleeting.—Herrick says: "Gather ye rosebuds while ye may, Old Time is quickly flying."

A good many women of our own day seem determined to make time appear to fly more slowly, and so to prolong the period of rose gathering. To this end they adopt all manner of inventions as to washes and dyes, and paints and cosmetics, and "Arabian baths"—having for object and end the attaining or retaining the bright bloom of youth.

This is all very foolish. If a woman is no longer young—if the first youth is left behind—the advances of time will show; and nothing that can be done will restore the accompaniments of youth, beautiful in themselves, but very transient.

Some women, we acknowledge, retain their freshness and brightness of tint much longer than others; and perhaps they find it hard when these begin to fade.

There is no cosmetic which can supply the place of youth; and nothing that can prolong its charms so well as good health and good temper. To those whose youth is leaving them, we would recommend exercise in the open air, the constant use of the bath (not the "Arabian," but that of fresh water), and the cultivation of contentment and cheerfulness.

Fretfulness and indolence, care and disease, will make sad havoc of beauty, and no nostrums in the world can get rid of the marks they make. Until the "mill which grinds people young again," can be brought into profitable operation, the inventions of restorers of charms will be of very little avail to give back beauty which Nature has ordained shall be impaired.

SECRET OF MAGIC.—Robert Houdin concludes his memoirs with a chapter of Arab miracles, which he explains. The Alisnaea eat pounded glass. Houdin powdered some for himself, and ate it, and he avers that his appetite for dinner was improved by the same.

They walk on red-hot iron with bare feet, and pass their tongues over white hot plates of iron. Prof. Semetriedi discovered that by rubbing into the skin a solution of alum evaporated to a spongy state, it was rendered insensible to the action to the red hot iron.

He rubbed himself with soap, and found that even the hair did not burn. He rubbed the alum into his tongue, and lapped the glowing metallic surface without pain. Houdin then tried passing his hands, slightly dampened, through a stream of melted iron, and found, as others have done, that it left no scar on him.

An English conjurer used to thrust a sword through his body, shove a knife up either nostril to the handle, and, thus spitted, sing a song. Houdin bought the secret of the invulnerable, and divulges it. The performer was very thin. With a waist-belt he strapped his tender paunch down upon the vertebral column, substituted a card board stomach for the compressed part, covered all with flesh-colored tights; between the true and false abdomen he fastened a scabbard, covered the apertures on the sides with rosettes, placed a sponge filled with red liquid in the scabbard, and then thrust in his sword, which came out filled with bogus blood, of course.

The pug-nosed mountebank enjoyed a physical conformation which permitted the delicate and frightful performance.

HORACE GREELY.—The New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial says that persons well acquainted with Horace Greeley are aware that with all his amiability and good heartedness, he is not particularly orthodox. Many persons will remember the solicitude of one of his extremely poor friends, who asked him, when his two daughters were ill some years ago, if they had been baptised. "O, no," said Horace Greeley; "but they have been vaccinated."

An earnest advocate of foreign missions forced himself into the presence of the Tribune's editor-in-chief in the Bible House the other day, while he was hard at work on his "Conflict," and importuned him to subscribe to the cause. The veteran journalist looked up from his manuscript in very choleric mood, and said crustily: "Don't ask me to give anything for the salvation of souls; I am convinced (looking significantly at the intruder) that not half as many people go to hell—I now as ought to." For which irreverent jests Horace Greeley makes ample amends, by frequent attendance at Chapin's (Universalist) church, where he enjoys the reputation of one of the soundest sleepers in the entire congregation.

THEIR DUTY.—The Journal of Commerce, in an article upon the duty of those who, at this crisis of the country, stand by President Johnson, to say so, remarks that: "Those who are against him on the present questions are striking at 'the life of the nation.' Strangely enough they are the very men who, four years ago, urged Mr. Lincoln to imprison northern men and suppress northern newspapers for opposing his policy, which opposition they declared to be treason, and they are to-day doing vastly more harm to the President's plans and policy for the salvation of the Union than all the democrats in the land did in four years to the policy of Mr. Lincoln, and they are doing this at a moment of critical danger, when the fortunes and prosperity of the whole country are at stake."

TWO gentlemen met a lady whose bonnet was all on fire. The lady was blissfully unconscious of the conflagration until her attention was called to it by one of the gentlemen. How it caught is of course a mystery, but it was probably from a spark. The fire was extinguished as soon as it reached the water-fall.

NO TIME FOR ARGUMENT.—"Ain't it wicked to rob dis chicken roost, George?" "Dat's a great moral question, Sam; we ain't got no time to argue it now—hand me another pullet."

MEDICAL CIRCULAR. EVERY PHYSICIAN located in the country or in a village, and engaged in the practice of his profession, has more or less frequently had the successful treatment of Chronic Diseases difficult, if not impossible, owing to the absence of many facilities, and the want of the reach of those residing in the cities or larger towns.

The undersigned has for this reason made arrangements for the treatment of this class of cases, in which patients can have the benefit of all appliances at present known, and in the most judicious manner. Persons placed under his care will receive in addition to correct medical and surgical treatment, the benefit of Dr. Langdon Parker's method of treating Rheumatism, Gout, and other diseases of the joints, and saline waters, both for bathing and general use, bathing in sea water, &c., when indicated; besides the ordinary general and local baths of water, heat and vapor.

Physicians having under their care or knowing of persons afflicted by obtinate Rheumatism, Gout, Chronic Diseases of the Urinary Organs, &c., who have resisted ordinary treatment, will confer a great favor upon such persons by calling their attention to the facilities here afforded.

For special information, apply in person or by letter, to J. L. PORTLAND, Oregon, or to W. F. COLMAN & CO., Entrance from Stark St. 14ly
