INSULTING THE PRESIDENT.

The interview between the President and Fred. Douglass has given the Radical a touch of the rabies. They are so enraged, that they have taken to openly insulting the Chief Magistrate. The following extracts from the Chicago Tribune are a specimen of the talk of these extremists:

But let Mr. Johnson step down from his official position, and, standing simply on his merits as a man, meet the ex-slave Douglass in fair debate on any of the great political issues of the day, or advertise to speak in competition with him, and who does not know that Douglass' superiority in logical power, in memory, in wit, in rhetorical eloquence, and in every charm of oratory, would leave his competitor wholly in the shade. Had Mr. Johnson possessed those finer instincts of a gentleman and a true democrat which so nobly distinguished his predecessor, he would have felt that, in conversing with Frederick Douglass, he was talking with a gentleman who was, in all but official station, the equal, and in many respects his superior. Even during the interview, the dignified, brief, but appropriate words of the ex-slave, contrast forcibly with the rambling, ungrammatical, disconnected harangue of the President, through which the mind wanders in vain in the search for either heart, intellect, logic or coherency. In illustration of this contrast we ask the reader to carefully weigh the modesty, dignity, conciseness, and condensation of argument in Frederick Douglass' brief speech, as compared with the rambling, ungrammatical, disconnected harangue of the President, through which the mind wanders in vain in the search for either heart, intellect, logic or coherency. In illustration of this contrast we ask the reader to carefully weigh the modesty, dignity, conciseness, and condensation of argument in Frederick Douglass' brief speech, as compared with the rambling, ungrammatical, disconnected harangue of the President, through which the mind wanders in vain in the search for either heart, intellect, logic or coherency.

The contrast between the dreary twaddle of such a speech and the pithy utterances of our late President, always keenly revealing some jewel of principle or gem of truth, is painful in the extreme. It is, however, shown clearly, and that, that Mr. Johnson represents no feeling or sentiment on this question, that is acceptable to the great majority of the American people. The brazen approbation of copperheads only confirms our censures. What they have approved has been a steady and always wrong from their birth, as at one, until to-day. Fortunately, as this important movement in the history of medicine abilities may by accident become President, it is also a garment which the mediocrity of their abilities cannot destroy.

The next day the same paper raved in a negroid strain as follows:

When black insanity in an instant of time accomplishes musical feats that white sanity cannot master in a lifetime, and a black man beards a white President in his house and slivers his half hour of argument in a half minute of common sense, it is time to stop and consider whether we are drifting, and to find some means for the suppression of this evil. Tom, and his kindred Douglasses, whose are our enemies, we call upon the Grays and Marezekas and Ulimans, the singing schools and church choirs, to muster their forces for combined suppression of this idiot, who accomplishes without brains more than they can with them, before the acceptance of his from their grasp and a race of black idiots sing the "Morgan" and "Trotter" from our stages, and "Meat" and "Boylston" from our choirs. We call upon the Doolittles and Guthries and Sausburys to suppress this man Douglass, who so irreverently demolishes a white President, lest it may be noted against us in historic chronicles that we of the nineteenth century proposed naming to our equality men whose black cuticles were the only sign of humanity!

Surely, chaos cannot be very far off when glib-tongued mulattoes like Douglass, and born idiots like Blind Tom, are glorified by white men at the expense of their own race.

THE HERODIAN HORROR.

Herod the Great may not have died from partaking too freely of trichina spiralis with his roast pig; but the presumption that he did is supported by the historic assertion that he was eaten by worms before the breath was fairly out of his body. It is apparent that he died of an ordinary disease. Other and greater men died before Herod the Great, and the Herodians who pains to mention the particular disease that took them out of the world.

It was reserved for an age of microscope to discover that the Herodian horror was only an aggravated case of trichina in the stomach and viscera. We are indebted to the German physician, for this important addition to the knowledge of the flesh which heir to—swine flesh in particular. It is not a pleasant reflection that a single ounce of this flesh may contain a hundred thousand animalcules, and that while they devour the same preference for swine that the devil did, they readily colonize in the human stomach, and are indigestible and pass through the human system. Microscopic as they are, they endure extremes of temperature with a tenacity of life that is wonderful. They boil, fry, and stew with composure. Indeed, any degree of heat under 212 rather quickens than retards their vitality. They become torpid like frogs and lizards in winter, but at the first sensation of heat awaken to a sleeping activity.

Good people, who dearly love a roast of pork, a slice of ham, or a savory sausage, have flattered themselves that trichina were indigenous to Germany, and would confine their labors to the domesticated and domesticated offspring of the wild herds of the Thuringian forests. Not a bit of it! Since the German physician has made such valuable use of his microscope, others have engaged in inspections of pork, and the result is the announcement that trichina have developed themselves in the swine of America. The Chicago papers inform us that a load of pork put on sale at Peoria, Illinois, last week, was examined microscopically, and two of the hogs were alive with trichina. Dressed hogs were examined at Dixon, and also discovered to be inhabited by these infinitesimal creatures. The St. Louis papers of Saturday announce the poisoning of two families in that city from eating "diseased pork," though no attempt appears to have been made to discover the character of the disease. Doubtless it was the Herodian horror.

There are two ways of keeping trichina out of the human stomach. Buy a microscope, or leave off eating pork. If you are so fond of roast-pig as Charles Lamb was, and will have it, keep a microscope in your kitchen. It will have to play an important part in domestic economy. Engage a cook who is not as familiar with the microscope as with a waffle ring. Avoid sausage—German sausage (imported particularly). Yield not to the temptation of Bologna, and eschew Westphalia Ham. Eat sparingly of pork though you know who raised it, and are positive that it was tormented. A microscope would not be objectionable by the side of your plate, but spread the morsel that tantalizes you on the fork's end. It will be a slow process, this inspection, by mouthful, but it will be safe.

The Paris working-men have raised the sum of five thousand francs by contributions of one sou each, the whole sum to be devoted to the manufacture of a medal commemorative of their indignation at the assassination of President Lincoln—the medal to be presented to the United States Government.

THADDEUS STEVENS.

The Stockton Independent gives an account of the life of Thad. Stevens, and endeavors to make him appear as a very honest statesman and the champion of justice. The Independent, however, neglects to mention a very prominent incident in his life which proves his characteristic disregard for Constitutional and legal authority, and his inherent contempt for the solemnly expressed wishes of the people. Thad. Stevens was Secretary of State (we believe) or member of the Legislature of Pennsylvania during Jo. Ritner's Administration. At least he held a very prominent position, and generally controlled its policy. Old Pennsylvania will recollect the Buckshot War, (of 1839, if our memory serves correctly). D. R. Porter had been elected to succeed Ritner as Governor. Under the advice of Stevens the "Sinnits" under Ritner refused to give up the various offices of State to the parties elected thereto by the people, and Thad. Stevens, Ben Middleworth, Tom Barron, Charles B. Penrose, and several others, concluded to hold on to their offices by force, and consequently entrenched themselves in the State House. The Governor called upon the militia of Dauphin County to aid him in expelling the traitors from the capitol, and they were ignominiously expelled. Thad. Stevens making a hasty exit through a back window of the capitol with a bayonet in close proximity to his rear. In this affair—revolutionary and treasonable, as it was—Thad. Stevens strongly exhibited the contempt for Constitutional authority and the expressed wishes of the people, which have been the marked characteristics of his life. He is a man of great energy of character, extreme moral boldness, winning address, ready with speech, reckless and unscrupulous in the pursuit of objects he wishes to attain. These qualities have enabled him to succeed in keeping himself prominently before the public in spite of the fact that he has never originated a practical measure. His real capacities as a statesman and political economist are illustrated in his monstrous bill for making dealing in gold a penal offence. No man with a practical turn of mind, or at all apt to legislate for the needs of a great Nation, would have proposed so great an absurdity. That bill, had it become a law, would have made felons of all in California, yet now we are told by the members of the order of "Whip and Spur" that he is the man we must especially honor. Another marked evidence of his want of political common sense, and his utter disregard for Constitutional and legal obligations, was given in a speech he made some three months before the meeting of Congress. He then contended that Congress should, without any regard to the Courts, declare a sweeping confiscation of all property in the Southern States, and give the same to the negroes and soldiers. He was the first to propose such a measure, and he was the first to propose it to the South for freedom and trying them afterwards! The wisdom of that policy can be estimated from the fact that it would have entailed the necessity of supporting a standing army of more than a million of men, for which the people of the North would have had to pay, the water-works of the cities, and the maintenance of the railroads—for, deprived of property, and the means of livelihood, they must have starved to death, and the keeping of the South in such a condition that it could not produce a dollar of wealth to aid the necessities of the Nation for ten years. Yet we are told that this rampant, raving, impracticable, law disregarding theorist, is the man whom we should imitate in our political conduct, and that we should accept of his leader. This is the man whose political crudities we are called upon to support, in opposition to the matured and well-pondered opinions and views of such successful and competent statesmen as Seward, McCulloch, Morgan, Doolittle, Raymond and others.—S. F. Call.

CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

The Civil Rights Bill, as it passed Congress over the President's veto provides—

First—All persons, without regard to color, but within the United States, are citizens, except the Indians who are not.

Second—The inhabitants of every race and color, without regard to any previous condition of slavery or involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall have the same right to make and enforce contracts, to sue, and be parties to any suit at law, to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real and personal property, and to have the full and equal benefit of all laws and proceedings for the security of person and property, and shall be subject to like punishments, pains, penalties, and to the same rights, and to the same laws, statute, ordinance, regulation or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

Third—Any person who, under color of any law, shall subject or cause to be subjected, any inhabitant of any State or Territory, to deprivation of any right secured or protected by this Act, or to different punishment, pains, or penalties, on account of such person having aided in the execution of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation or custom, to the contrary notwithstanding, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, or by reason of his color or race, than is prescribed for any other persons, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding $5000, or imprisonment, or both, during one year, or both, at the discretion of the Court.

Fourth—The United States District Courts have exclusive jurisdiction of cases arising under the Act, and also concurrently with the United States Circuit Courts, of all cases, civil or criminal, affecting persons who are denied or cannot enforce the rights secured by this act in judicial tribunals of the State. United States Marshals, District Attorneys, and agents of the Freedmen's Bureau, are empowered to prosecute cases under this bill. Severe penalties are provided for all persons who may in any way hinder the operations of this bill.

AN HONEST LIFE.—The poor pittance of seventy years is not worth being a villain for. What matter if your neighbor lies in a splendid tomb? Sleep you with innocence. Look behind you through the track of time. A vast desert lies open in retrospect; wearied with years and sorrow, they sink from the walks of man. You are to leave them where they fall; and you must go further, and you will find eternal rest. Whatever you may have to encounter between the cradle and the grave, every moment big with events, which come set in succession, but bursting forcibly from a revealing and unknown cause, fly over this orb with diversified influence.

The Chicago Journal says the last season has developed the feasibility of raising cotton and tobacco in Southern Illinois, and that large crops of both these products will be planted the coming season.

No nation can become fully enlightened when mothers are not qualified to discharge the duties of the home work of education. Parents, give your daughters, as well as your sons, the best education in your power.

EASTERN NEWS.

From telegrams to the Portland Herald, we append the following:

PASSAGE OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

In the House, on the 8th, the Civil Rights Bill and the Veto Message were taken up, and it was a quarter past 2 p.m. when the reading was completed. Wilson of Iowa, after a few remarks, demanded the previous question. Eldridge of Wisconsin, moved a call of the House, which was declared not to be in order. LeBlond of Ohio, moved to lay the bill on the table. Negative, yeas, 39; nays, 121. Eldridge and Finch made motions to adjourn, which were voted down. Eldridge then announced the secession of indignant members, saying they had left the House on seeing a determination to pass the bill over the veto, by the operation of the 500 rule. The previous question having been ordered, the vote was taken and resulted as follows: Yeas, 132; Nays, 18. The Speaker declared the bill had become a law. When tremendous and long continued applause broke forth, followed by hisses.

THE VOTE ON PASSING THE BILL.

Mr. Raymond voted against the Civil Rights Bill to-day. Bingham of Ohio, who voted against the original passage, was paired off. The only other members elected as republicans who voted with the Democrats against the bill were Latimer and Willy of West Virginia, Phillips of Maryland, Rousseau and Smith of Kentucky, and Noel of Missouri. There was a murmur of applause when Davis and Hale of New York, and Nelson of Ohio, conservatives heretofore acting with Mr. Raymond, responded aye.

THE RAILROADS REJOINING.

New York, April 10.—A white of 100 guns was fired at Union Square this morning in honor of the passage of the Civil Rights Bill. Chief Justice Chase, last evening, in a speech at the Methodist meeting at St. Paul's Church, alluded to the passage of the Civil Rights Bill as a great triumph; he said the next step would be to give universal suffrage.

WHAT THE PRESIDENT SAYS.

Prominent friends of the President say he will enforce the Civil Rights bill in good faith, though he regrets that he has exercised his constitutional prerogative in vetoing the bill, and Congress having exercised its prerogative in passing it, he should feel bound by his action. These gentlemen also express the belief, that having seen the power of Congress, and with what unanimity it is sustained by the people, he will now endeavor to conform his action to that there may be harmony between them. General Howard will, under verbal instruction from the President, issue a circular to his subordinates, apprising them of the passage of the Civil Rights bill, and instructing them to inform the freedmen of its provisions and to assist in maintaining them.

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL TO BE TESTED.

The first suit under the Civil Rights Bill has been instituted in California, and a writ is being claimed to enforce a contract under it, while the defendant claims the benefit of the State Constitution and black laws. Judge Gest, of the State Circuit Court, has the case under advisement, and will probably send it to the State Supreme Court, now in session.

REVOLUTION THREATENED.

The National Intelligencer solemnly warns the people that as a very early day the country will be started with a sudden advance step in progress to the great end of the nation, and that the traitors be in the meantime discouraged by proper demonstrations of constitutional loyalty.

IMPEACH DAVIS TO BE PAROLED.

New York, April 9.—The Tribune's Washington special dispatch says, it is generally expected that the President will, in a few days, release Jeff. Davis and C. C. Clay on parole.

ELECTIONS—DEMOCRATIC GAINS.

CHICAGO, April 11.—The Democratic State Convention of Iowa is called for the 8th of June. Conservative republicans who support the President, are invited to join. At the city election in Springfield, Illinois, yesterday, the vote cast was the largest ever polled. A democrat, Mayor was elected by 25 majority. At the Albany, N. Y., election, yesterday, G. H. Thatcher (Democrat) was elected Mayor by 790 majority over Robert H. Pruyn. At the Trenton, N. J. city election, yesterday, the democrats had 300 majority. The municipal election in St. Paul, Minnesota, yesterday, gave the democrats 1,300 majority.

MARINE CORPS NOT RESTORED.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Judge Underwood, holding a term of the United States District Court at Alexandria, yesterday decided upon an application for a writ of habeas corpus, that the President's peace proclamation does not restore the privileges of that writ. President Johnson orders the suspension of Major Monroe and Alderman Nixon of New Orleans, till they are pardoned. Acting Mayor Clark continues in office. General Grant was arrested, last Saturday by a policeman, for fast driving. He was tried today before the Justice of the Peace, and paid the fine.

DOOLITTLE REQUESTED TO RESIGN.

CHICAGO, April 12.—The Wisconsin Legislature, by a strict party vote, except two republicans members in each branch, adopted resolutions declaring that Senator Doolittle has betrayed the people of Wisconsin and ought to resign. A resolution approving the President's policy was voted down without a single republican vote being given in its favor.

DURING ALL THIS clamor of Congress for severity towards the conquered States, the exhibition which a very large number of Congressmen made for themselves on the field of the first Bull Run will occur to a great many minds. Their scrambling was a sight to see. The Springfield Republican says most truly, that the men who put down the rebellion do not join in the demand for the punishment of the secessionists, but, "If there is a general who has never won a battle, a soldier who invariably skulked when fighting was to be done, a camp-follower who was ever on hand to plunder conquered towns, a civilian who was ready to pour out the blood and money of everybody else to save the nation, these are the men who are now ready to kick the prostrate foe and confiscate his valuables, these are the men who are optically making abortive attempts to arouse all hatreds and stir the popular heart to vengeance."

The London Times says: "The courage and decision exhibited by President Johnson in refusing his assent to the Freedmen's Bureau bill, confirms the respect in which his policy has been held in England, and will enable him to stand as one of the ablest statesmen who have ever conducted a great nation successfully through a crisis by firmness, moderation and wisdom."

Pen d'Oreille Route and Steamer.

The Oregon papers have been continually giving the public the fact, that a steamer which belongs to Hayes Ferry, on Pen d'Oreille, and that she would be ready to run by the end of April, the machinery being already on the ground etc., all of which is false in fact, and chimerical in theory. It is true that Mr. McKee, who by the way, is a clever gentleman, has caused several times to be put out at the ferry and had men engaged there in whipsawing timber for a boat, and for what we know to the contrary, may have carpenters and joiners engaged on a boat. But the machinery which has been put on land with such a flourish of trumpets, and which has been published again and again as on the grounds at the Lake, never reached there. It left Snake River on ox teams in November, and reached the Spokane when the winter set in upon them and they were obliged to return; so that the machinery has never been across the miles of the Lake, and is now either on Snake plain or has returned with the teams to Snake river or Walla Walla.

The building of a boat however, will be a small item in the endeavor to divert trade and travel to the Pen d'Oreille trail, if it is to be a relief. True, the Pen d'Oreille route is a relief to packers from having to drive their mules through about fifty miles of mud

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

A synopsis of which we give on our first page, is the first and most decided step which has yet been made in this country towards a centralized despotism.

FROM BLACKFOOT.—Mr. Waldron, the expressman, arrived at Walla Walla, on Wednesday, the 18th, having made the trip through from Blackfoot in fourteen days.

ANNEXATION.—In the Senate, March 13, Mr. Williams asked and obtained leave to bring in a bill for the annexation of Walla Walla county, W. T., to the State of Oregon.

BLACKFOOT DUST.—The last express from Blackfoot brought down quite a liberal installment of dust.

THE PEN D'OREILLE ROUTE.

In looking over our Montana exchanges we find frequent reference to the Pen d'Oreille route, and uniformly accompanied by the expression of grave doubts as to its practicability.

FROM COLVILLE.—Gen. James McAllister has just returned from Colville, and kindly furnishes us the latest news from that locality.

BLACKFOOT EXPRESS.—It will be seen from their card that Messrs. Waldron, Edgar & Buchannan have formed a partnership for the purpose of conducting the express business between Walla Walla and Blackfoot.

TERRITORIAL LAWS.—T. F. McElroy, Public Printer, sends as a copy of the laws passed at the last session of the Territorial Legislature.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.—Persons requiring anything in the literary line will read the card of S. J. McCormick, of the Franklin Book Store, Portland, Me.

WOOD.—Several loads of wood will be received at this office in payment of subscriptions, if delivered early.

MONTANA CORRESPONDENCE.

HELENA, M. T., March 25, 1866. EDITOR STATESMAN:—Having emigrated from the "other side," and being one of the proscribed ones in Montana, it is but natural that my sympathies should remain with those with whom I have been formerly rather pleasantly associated.

THE VALLEY OF THE BLACKFOOT.—Here, in nearly every gulch, gold in paying quantities exists. In some, want of water prevents their being worked successfully; in others, the usual difficulty of hauling pay streaks has impeded the prosperity of the miner thus far.

Important Merchants and Traders.—FRANK LUDON CITY, February 1, 1866. EDITOR STATESMAN:—In view of the fact that large quantities of liquors, tobacco and cigars will be brought into this Territory the present season from your place and other points on the Pacific coast, I deem it advisable to call the attention of freighters and merchants to the following, which, if heeded, will save them much loss in time and money.

DISTRICT COURT PROCEEDINGS.—JOHNSON AND DRUMHELLER vs. J. M. ARMSTRONG; settled at plaintiff's costs.

ALL THE LATEST EUROPEAN, EASTERN AND CALIFORNIA NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES! Received regularly by every Steamer by S. J. M. CORMICK, FRANKLIN BOOK STORE, 105 Front Street, Portland.

FOR SALE FOR CASH! A STOCK, WITH ALL THE NECESSARY FIXTURES, adjoining WATTS' FLOUR MILL, on the Tomcho, is now offered for sale at a most reasonable price.

Walla Walla Statesman.

THE GUIDE POST. D'ye know the road to the bar'l of flour? At break o' day let down the bars, And plow y'r wheat field hour by hour, Till sudown—yes, till shade o' stars. You peg away the livelong day, Nor loaf, nor nap around, And that's the road to the thrashin' floor, And into the kitchen, I'll be bound. D'ye know the road where the dollars lay? Follow the red cents here and there, For if a man leaves them I can guess, He won't find dollars any where. D'ye know the road to Sunday's rest? Just don't o' week day be afeard? In field and workshop do y'r best, And Sunday comes itself, I've heard. On Saturday it's not far off, And brings a basket full of cheer— A roast and lots of garden stuff, And, like as not, a jug o' beer? D'ye know the road to poverty? Turn in at every tavern sign; Turn in—'tis temptin' as can be; There's brass new cards and liquor fine. In the lava there's a sack, And when the cash your pocket quits, Just hang the wallet on your back, You vagabond! see how it fits! D'ye know what road to honor leads? And good old age—a lovely sight! By way o' temperance, honest deeds, And tryin' to do y'r duty right. And when the road forks, ary side, And you're in doubt which one it is, Stand still, and let your conscience guide, Thank God, it can't lead much amiss. And now the road to church yard gate, You needn't ask it! Go anywhere! For whether roundabout or straight, All roads, at last, 'll bring you there. Go, fearin' God, but lovin' more! I've tried to be an honest guide— You'll find the grave has got a door, And somethin' for you 't'her side.

SCENE IN THE SENATE.—Jim Lane, of Kansas, about whose position there was some doubt, recently stood up in his place in the Senate, and boldly proclaimed his intention to sustain the President's policy. This declaration called forth all the venom of that leader of the mad radicals, Ben Wade, of Ohio, who is thus reported: Wade said in reply: Who is your President, that every man must bow to his opinions? If you please, sir, we all know him. He is no stranger to this body. We have measured him, sir; we know his height, his length, his breadth and capacity, all about him; and you set him up as a paragon and declare you are going to wear his collar. Is that the idea, that you are going to be his apologist and defender in whatever he may propose? Three millions of people, sir, are exposed to outrage and plunder from those worse than savages, their former masters, murdered, we are told, every day, their lives taken away, their humanity trampled under foot; and when Congress, under the Constitution of the United States, is endeavoring to tender them some protection, how are we met? Sir every attempt of your Moses has been to trample them down, make their condition worse and throw every obstruction in the way of everything proposed by Congress. Lane in reply said, I wear a collar;—indicted for treason by a pro-slavery grand jury, hunted from State to State by a writ found on that indictment, a hundred thousand dollars for my head. Jim Lane wear a collar? Great God! Mr. President, wherever he is known that charge is denied as false by both friend and enemy. Wade, "I wish it was." Lane appealed to Wade to withdraw the serious charges he had against the President. He (Lane) would not defend the President's speech of the 22d of February, as it was made under excitement. Doolittle, of Wisconsin, said he had striven to prevent a collision between Congress and the Executive, and was sorry to see such a disposition among some of his friends towards the Executive, as though he was unworthy of their confidence. The Bill contains a proposition, upon which the men in whom we had undoubted confidence, differ.

BEHIND THE AGE.—The man that don't take newspapers was in town the other day. He brought his family in an ox wagon. He still believed that Millard Fillmore was President, and wanted to know if the "Kam-schatkians" had taken Cuba, and if so, where they had taken it. He had sold his pork for six cents, when he might have got ten. One of his boys went to a blacksmith shop to be measured for a pair of shoes, and another mistook the market house for a church. He hung his hat on a meat hook and patiently waited one hour for "meeting" to begin. One of girls took a lot of "seed onions" to the post office to trade for a letter. She had a baby which she carried in a "sugar trough," stopping occasionally to rock it on the side walk; when it cried she filled its mouth with a cotton handkerchief, and sang "Barbara Allen." The oldest boy had sold two coon skins, and was on a bust. When last seen, he had called for "sody and water," and stood soaking gingerbread in it and making dry faces. The shop keeper mistaking his meaning, had given him a mixture of sal soda and water, and it tasted strongly of soap. But he'd "heart tell of sody water," and was bound to give it a fair trial, puke or no puke." The old man had a tea kettle he wanted "fixed up," and he carried it to the milliner shop. The lady of the establishment thought the man was crazy, but noticing the hole in the kettle, politely told him that Mr. Phillips could mend it for him. He then took an old plow to the jeweler's to have it "pinted and sharpened." We told the old fellow he ought to read the papers, but he would not listen to it. He was opposed to "internal improvements," and he thought "larnin'" was a wicked invention.

HINTS TO HUSBANDS.—If your wife does her own work to save the expense of hire, help do not let her get up and make a fire cold, mornings while you are lying comfortably in bed. Do not let her go and tend the barn, milk the cows, see to the poultry, come in and dress the children, prepare breakfast, and still find you in bed. After breakfast, do not put on your great coat and gloves and walk down street, while your wife brings in wood and water, does her morning work in the house, and gets dinner in time to see you walking back. You eat your dinner, have a smoke, and then walk out. Don't do it, if you have any love for your wife; she may bear it all and not murmur, but love must be strong that will not get chilled by such treatment.

Little Things in the Garden.

In planting the family garden, all the standard vegetables will suggest themselves as things necessary to be provided for; but very much of the comfort afforded by the garden consists of the numerous little luxuries it affords—things which in themselves can hardly be considered as food, but which add to the attraction of the table, by rendering other food more palatable. Those who are fond of pickles will in time provide for cucumbers, marjorams, peppers, green musk melons, refugio beans, and all those things which are used for pickling, not forgetting the spicy nasturtium. Parsely is valued by most people as a flavoring herb, and it is very handy to dress a dish of cold meat. The seeds are very slow in germinating, and as a consequence should be sowed early. Majoram, savory and thyme are the popular flavorings for soups and stuffings, and when cut in flower and carefully dried, and then rubbed up and put into an air-tight box or bottle, may be had in greater perfection than any that can be bought at the stores. The first two are annuals. Sow the seeds in drills a foot apart, and thin or transplant to 6 inches in the rows. Thyme is a small, shrubby perennial, which may be raised from seed, or propagated by dividing old plants. There are very few who know what an excellent flavor a pinch of spearmint gives to soup, or it would be more generally grown. In the older parts of the country it is found naturalized in wet places; but it will do perfectly well in the garden, and then we always know where to find it, as once established, it will remain for years. Sage is always in demand in the family for culinary or medical uses, and can be had in the garden with but little trouble. Seeds sown this spring will have a fair cutting by autumn. It is very readily raised from cuttings of old plants. Slip off the young shoots which start this spring from near the base of the plant, and set them in sandy soil, and put over them a frame covered with common muslin; they will thus be kept moist and shady, and will strike root readily.

STRONG CHARACTERS.—Strength of character consists of two things—power of will and power of self-restraint. It requires two things, therefore, for its existence—strong feelings and strong command over them. Now, it is here we make the great mistake: we mistake strong feelings for strong character. A man who beats all before him, before whose frown domestics tremble, and whose bursts of fury make children of the household quake—because he has his will obeyed, and his own way in all things we call him a strong man. The truth is, he is the weak man; it is his passions that are strong; he, mastered by them, is weak. You must measure the strength of a man by the power of the feelings he subdues, not by the power of those which subdue him. And hence composure is very often the highest result of strength. Did we never see a man receive a flagrant insult, and only grow a little pale, and then reply quietly? That is a man spiritually strong. Or did we never see a man in anguish stand as if carved of solid rock, mastering himself? Or bearing a hopeless daily trial, remain silent, and never tell the world what cankered his home peace? That is strength. He, who with strong passions remains chaste; he who keenly sensitive, with many powers of indignation in him, can be provoked, and yet restrain himself, and forgive—these are the strong men, the spiritual heroes.—Rev. F. W. Robertson.

A BAVARIAN Israelite, writing to the Israelite Indeed, has a statement on the process of the restoration of the Jews to Palestine, which is worthy of note. He says: "The gathering of the Jews is now beginning to take place. Not only many single families immigrate to Palestine, but there have been formed a number of societies in almost every land on this continent, to prepare an immigration on a large scale, provided with all possible means, money, implements and tools, of every kind, to commence the cultivation of a long desolated land, at once, and with the utmost vigor. There are men of considerable wealth among them, and not one without some means, enough at least to defray the expenses of the journey; and to purchase a lot of ground. I am happy to state that I am one of the leading members of a society forming here in Bavaria, which numbers already over nine hundred heads of families, besides a number of young people who would not form an allegiance with the other sex until settled in the Holy Land, upon the soil of their rightful heritage." He adds: "The Gentiles hereabouts—that is the petty German Protestant Kingdoms and principalities—are even more astir about Palestine than the Jews."

A CURE FOR BAD GRAMMER.—A schoolmaster, after giving one of his scholars a sound drubbing for speaking bad grammar, sent him to the other end of the room to inform another boy that he wished to speak to him, at the same time, promising to repeat the dose if he spoke to him ungrammatically. The youngster, quite satisfied with what he had got, determined to be exact, and thus he addressed his fellow-pupil: "There is a common substantive, of the masculine gender, singular number, nominative case, and in an angry mood, that sits perched upon the eminence at the other side of the room wishes to articulate a few sentences to you in the present tense."

A LOUD "NOAT."—A United States revenue officer in Springfield (Mass.) has received the following "noat," which seems rather a loud one: "To Mr. Adams, I have his scilla chestnuts by the kwart to sum naburs on the boys say I shall be prosekutid if I dont have a lisen or git my chestnuts stamped onto. How much have I to pay for sellin a few chestnuts?"

PARTIES are engaged in perfecting a process to make "played out" oil wells perform again. They say that a well which has stopped running or even pumping, can be made to yield again by introducing a torpedo acid exploding it.

A NEW gas, made from crude petroleum, is being introduced into Chicago. The Chicago Post says the light of the petroleum gas is fully four times greater than the light of the coal oil gas, and that it can be made at a much less cost.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. The Remedy for Curing Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, CROUP, Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest or Lungs, Difficult Breathing, and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERNATIVE, IRRITANT, SENSITIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus, CHANGING SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heats the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that IT IS WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED TO GIVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION IN THE MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT TO PRODUCE COSTIVENESS (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NERVE TYPHOUS MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle. For sale by SMITH & DAVIS, Portland, Oregon, General Agents. Also, by Dealers in Family Medicines generally.

Divorce Notice. TERRITORY OF WASHINGTON, COUNTY OF WALLA WALLA—SS. THERESA M. BASSETT vs. CHAS. H. BASSETT, TO CHARLES H. BASSETT, Defendant: You are hereby notified that THERESA M. BASSETT, plaintiff, has filed a complaint against you in said Court, which will come on to be heard in the first term of the Court, which shall commence more than two months after the 8th day of April, 1866, and unless you appear as defendant and answer, the same will be taken as confessed, and the prayer thereof granted. The object and prayer of said complaint is the dissolution of the bonds of matrimony existing between you and plaintiff, and to give to plaintiff the care and guardianship of Charles Henry Bassett, infant son of plaintiff and defendant. Complaint filed March 29th, 1866. LASATER & LANGFORD, 16-2m Attorneys for Plaintiff.

PALOUSE BRIDGE. THE PALOUSE BRIDGE IS NOT CARRIED away, as falsely reported. The Road from Walla Walla to the Spokane River, by way of the TAKSAS FERRY, is now in fine condition for pack animals and mimmers, with plenty of Wood, Water and Grass, and twenty-five miles nearer than the Corville crossing, below the mouth of the Palouse. Therefore, if you are going to Kootenai or the Blackfoot Mines, and want to save a day and a half's travel, pay no attention to the false statements of certain interested parties, and if the Bridges—one on the Touchet, and one on the Palouse—are not standing, we will make no charge for FERRIAGE AT TAKSAS FERRY. JESSE THOMPSON, T. SLOUMB, T. NEWLON.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS. THE DELINQUENT TAX BOOK has been placed in my hands. All persons wishing to save further expenses will please call at my office at the Court House in the City of Walla Walla, W. T., and pay their taxes. A. SEITZ, 31st) Sheriff of Walla Walla County, W. T.
