The Result of Mixed Marriages.

As one means of protecting itself from losing any of its members the Catholic church has always discouraged mixed marriages. On this subject the San Francisco Monitor says: "The warning voice of the church, her prelates and her priests, as well as the admonition of many Catholic parents, seems to be lost upon the ear of young men and women in our day. Catholic girls marry non-Catholic men under the hallucination that they can convert them by their example and condensation. This is done sometimes, but for every non-Catholic converted by his wife, at least forty nine others are not so successful. In the same way Catholic young men get 'applied' by a Protestant preacher or a justice of the peace to some non-Catholic girl, and if he has any faith left he flatters himself that 'after a while she will come round' and to a church with him. But how many times does it not occur that the woman tempts the man—even as Eve did Adam—and they both march off to the meeting house of the Methodist or the 'free library' of the Episcopalians. Such 'lambs led to the slaughter' rarely, if ever, become out-and-out Protestants, but they are lost to the church all the same, and it is only through a miraculous manifestation of the mercy of God, through the prayers of a pious Catholic parent or relative, that such souls are saved from eternal punishment."

"Father Louis De Jolly of Newark, O., has done what many priests might do with profit, by preaching a sermon from the marriage register of the parish where he labored for ten years. In a recent sermon this priest told his congregation that in ten years he had performed 123 marriages—and of these fifty six were mixed marriages—a proportion of nearly one-half. 'Now, said he, 'as true affection between man and wife must not be limited to the mortal life, but extend beyond the grave, do not doubt the Catholic parties indulged the hope that the non-Catholic parties would be converted and their union become indissoluble in this life and in the next, and I give all credit for that in good intention, but how has it succeeded—how many conversions have been made out of fifty-six attempts? Just exactly three. On the other side, how many, to my knowledge, have become perverts or apostates to the Church? To my own knowledge I have to lament over the fate of eight among those fifty-six, without speaking of those who, moving to other towns, may have fallen into the same snare; it is time, beloved brethren, that a stop should be put to the frequency of these marriages, for which the Right Reverend Bishop cannot give a dispensation unless a good cause be alleged.'"

Sick to Your Trade.

"Stick to your trade," says an exchange, "nine-tenths of all the failures of the last year have come to men who were dabbling in outside affairs." There could not be more truth crowded into a few lines than is contained in the above. As a general thing when you hear of the failure of a man in business you can set it down that he has been dabbling in something he knew nothing about, and has sunk the money needed in his legitimate business. The merchant, even in a country village, who attends strictly to business, may in time lay by a snug little sum, but as soon as he commences to speculate in land, or even trade horses, he is liable at any time to hear something drop on account of taking the money needed in his business for speculative purposes. The farmer who works hard all summer, sows and reaps a good harvest, and puts the proceeds of the sale of his wheat into his pants pocket and goes to speculating in pork, may eventually find a mortgagee placed down over his property that it will take years of frugal industry to remove. You hear of the failure of a merchant engaged in trade and in nine cases out of ten you can trace the cause to the fact that he had a few thousand dollars invested in wheat when the price tumbled and the bottom fell out of his scheme for making a little money by outside speculation. A merchant may be all right and level-headed in his trade, he can weigh out coffee and sugar, or drive a sharp bargain in buying a load of green hides or a barrel of butter, but when he has a few thousand dollars invested in wheat, or pork, or lumber, and the price takes a drop, he loses his head and is laid out colder than a mackerel—Peck's Sneak.

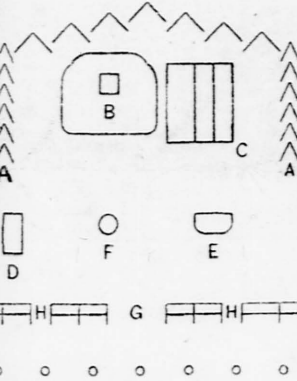

Brief Items.

Two women in Vermont act as mail-carriers. The shortest route between Australia and England is across this continent. "God Save the Queen" is to be translated into all the native dialects of India. In Paris men wear braçolets. A famous Bey wears one of diamonds valued at $200,000. The Spaniard, after taking his cup of very thick chocolate, drinks a glass of very cold water. One of Bavaria's most illustrious learned men, Steinheim, boasted of smoking 6,000 cigars a year. It is said that the sleigh stage which runs between Fairhaven and Benson, Vt., has been used 124 years. A fan made of bank-notes was the gift made to a Methodist pastor at Newark, N. J., the other evening. The imitation alligator skin so largely used for little satchels, pocket-books, etc. is made of pig's skin. A copy of the first Aldine edition of Homer, printed on vellum, and in two volumes, was recently sold in London for $20,000. One hundred thousand dollars in gold weighs 368 pounds 12 ounces, and a cubic foot of the same metal weighs over a ton. A new fabric, recently patented, is woven into matting for floors, rugs, borders, window-shades, chair seats, table-covers, etc.

THE ADVENTISTS.

In Camp near Milton—A Large Gathering—Exercises Work by the Elders—Diagram of their Quarters—Milton Notes.

Near the eastern suburbs of Milton, in a beautiful little grove, are encamped the Columbia River Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, and holding daily services. Yesterday a STATESMAN reporter visited that place and was surprised at the large concourse of people assembled. The camp is approached by a sharp turn from the road to the right, just near the bank of the Tumulum. Entering the enclosure the first object that attracts the eye is a large circus tent, with seats properly arranged and a pulpit at the further side. Below we give a perfect diagram of the scene sketched on the spot by our reporter:

A.—Resident tents. B.—Service tent. C.—Uncovered platform. D.—Soda water stand. E.—Book stand. F.—Well. G.—Site for enclosure. H.—Biting post.

Ritiled around the grove were a great many teams and horses, owned by the campers, who brought a goodly supply of provender for the inner man and spread the same around their wagons at a picnic fashion. We were informed yesterday that the daily attendance during the past week averaged about 125; on Sunday there was all of 300 people there, principally farmers from all parts of the country, who come in wagons bringing their entire families. In the rear of the resident tents are places reserved for cooking and no visitor is allowed to pass near these spots. Following is a programme of daily exercises: 5 o'clock A. M., Rising bell. 5 1/2 " " Prayer service. 7 " " Breakfast. 7 1/2 " " Family worship. 9 " " Vatted work. 10 " " Preaching. 12 " " M. recess. 12 1/2 " " P. M. dinner. 1 1/2 " " Services. 2 1/2 " " Social gathering. 6 " " Recess. 7 1/2 " " Evening address. 8 1/2 " " Retiring bell. 9 " " Quietude.

No conversation of lights allowed between the hours of 9 P. M. and 5 A. M. No congregating in groups, running, or smoking allowed inside the railing. Many other notices were posted throughout the grounds, but the above were the most pertinent. It will be seen that seven religious meetings are held daily aside from other duties, consequently the presiding elders are kept busy. The conference is under the ministerial charge of the following gentlemen: Elder W. C. White, of Oakland, California; Elder Hastell, of the same place; Elder Chas. Boyd, of Salem; Elder Colcord, Walla Walla; Elder A. T. James, of Farmington.

At the book stand, pamphlets and tracts of the society are sold to all who desire to buy, the money being devoted to the Missionary Tract Society. An enterprising individual, who set up the candy stand, reaped an abundance of shakels yesterday from the sale of soda water. The camp meeting will close on next Wednesday morning, and all who desire to attend should govern themselves accordingly. We noticed a fine large brick store going up at Milton. A pet bear at the hotel in Milton causes much amusement for the denizens of that place. Posters are up daily announcing that Milton will celebrate the coming Fourth of July. In the evening they will have a grand ball.

The business houses of Milton, like those of Walla Walla, close on Sunday; nevertheless the thirsty can find the back door of almost any.

There are possibly five stores, two blacksmith shops, one barber shop, one hotel, three saloons and one doctor in Milton.

Caught at Last.

Leonard Vogler, says the Sprague Herald of the 14th inst., was arrested last evening on the charge of furnishing liquor to Indians, also for being in jail without license. Vogler pleaded guilty to both charges, and was fined $100 on the first, and $50 on the second charge. In default of payment he was committed to jail.

For the past ten days there has been more or less drunkenness among the Indians about town, and to discover who they obtained whisky has baffled the most alert, until in this instance, Mr. Etelson caught Vogler in the act. Vogler bought several bottles of whiskey during the day at Etelson's place, the quantity amounting to a cask, and was not right, whereupon Etelson marked the last bottle and followed the man to his cabin. Soon an Indian was seen going to the cabin, and on being searched the identical bottle was found, which led to Vogler's arrest and conviction. The United States statutes makes this crime punishable with a term in the penitentiary. At the last term of court Judge Wingard sentenced a half-breed to the penitentiary for two years for his first offense, with the remark that he was bent toward him on account of his being a half-breed.

ROUND MENNE.

An Able Diagnosis of the Railroad Question, Respectfully Submitted for the Examination of our Business Men.

There are few questions of more vital importance to an interior town, than the subject of railroads, and none that is probably so thoroughly misunderstood, especially among the merchants. This is so, it is hard to tell, yet it is generally the case, when two parties become absorbed in conversation over this matter, they do not take even rational views, but go it in a headstrong way, jumping at conclusions, and the sum and substance of their talk will be that they will finally wind by curing the railroads and wish that they had never had one. Now railroads are built to make as much money as possible for the stockholders, and if it is conceded that this is the controlling policy of the road, every effort will be made to accomplish that end.

It is often argued that railroad companies make their own towns, and we are at their mercy, which is true in a measure, but they admit that they must have the co-operation of a town and its business men to do this successfully; and then on the other hand the fact that many towns make themselves, is often overlooked. It is unreasonable to think that a railroad company have a preference for one or two sites, when the profits from carrying goods to and from both are the same. These towns doing the same amount of business are entitled to the same conveniences and advantages in shipping, which the railroads are bound to respect. If the merchants here in Walla Walla are active in this matter, and show themselves as a city to be anxious to secure any advantage, or to become a shipping point there is no question about the success of such a departure, but it will require the united efforts of every business man. Endeavor to increase the traffic on the railroads, and the sum total of all the goods from each house shipped to different parts of the country will be a surprise, and an agreeable one, to say the least.

You will then have interests in common with the railroads, who will see that this increase of business is an increase of profit also, and taking up the first idea, that railroads are built to make money, why is it not a most probable idea, that they would foster that new condition of things, and make every effort to accommodate it. If a railroad company is not proof against competition, even though it may enjoy a monopoly of the traffic to-day, in the territory through which it passes, and it may be shown in a number of instances, where another company has quietly entered the field of opposition to it when least expected. Recognizing this to be inevitable and in face of these possibilities all railroad companies see the importance of pursuing a liberal policy inasmuch as they are common carriers for the people, and they do it to a certain extent. Now, in support of the theory that Walla Walla is located for the distribution of different lines of goods, let us turn our attention for a moment to the experience of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, now one of the most prosperous cities in that state, if not in the west. She is enjoying the advantages of being a commercial center, and a wholesale manufacturing point, though only 220 miles west of Chicago, but seven or eight years ago she was comparatively in her infancy. How did she thrive as a supply point, being so near the "hub" of the west? Mainly by the combined efforts of enterprising business men. To-day they have an established trade, and increased railroad facilities, which is the natural order of things, and would be most certain in the case of Walla Walla if prompt and decisive action was taken in all matters pertaining to this question.

Death District.

We have received from Hesth District, Washington county, Idaho, some very fine samples of the different ores of that highly mineralized locality. The rock is from the Belmont Mine, owned by James Roth, and is full of chlorite. That from the "Greenhorn" is also rich, but more of a blue sulphur character. Some iron ore is evidently a cap to richer deposits beneath. The district was discovered in 1875 by James Ruth and Tom Heath, who located the "Belmont," "Greenhorn" and other ledges which have been worked ever since. The ledges are in porphyry and syenite and sometimes slate or limestone, but the formation is the best for rich deposits of ore we are acquainted with. The miners there have proved the richness of their ledges and now it only remains for capital to take hold and work them judiciously to prove the district one of the richest in the country. John Atwell ("Scotty") will please accept our thanks for the specimens sent us.

Valuable Horse Recovered.

Nearly one year and a half ago, Mr. Chas. Lee, of Lee & Adams, in this city, lost a valuable Milton Modem 2-year old colt. The animal was supposed to be somewhere in the Touchet hills, although every effort was made to recover the same. Mr. Lee had about given the animal up for gone, and the occurrence all but passed from his mind, when yesterday morning Mr. Wm. Huckleboe called at the stable with the colt, and turned him over to his rightful owner. The horse is valued at $200 by Mr. Lee, and of course his recovery was considered quite a windfall. Mr. Huckleboe received $50 for his trouble, and says he found the colt wandering in the hills. It is thought that he was kept by some person who anticipated receiving a large reward for his return.

Inspecting the Road.

The railroad officials who came up from below yesterday, returned to Portland on this morning's train. The party, consisting of Roadmaster Shaw, Superintendent Rowe, and Mr. H. M. Chas, of this city, went up the road as far as Riparia, for the purpose of inspecting the road and company buildings. They report everything in a first-class condition, and return to Portland highly pleased. Mr. Shaw has removed his family from this city to the former place, owing to the necessity of the general offices being located at one place.

Big Land Company.

Articles incorporating the Spokane Land and Improvement company, an organization of Washington, D. C., capitalists, who purpose to speculate in lands in the Spokane country, were filed in Olympia last Monday. Capital stock, $100,000. G. E. Cassman, of Washington, D. C., who represents the company, is in the city. Mr. McArthur of Fargo is now in the Big Bend country in the interest of the company. They have already purchased over $10,000 worth of town lots in Spokane Falls—Oregonian.

Special Rates.

It has been officially announced by Mr. John Mout, Superintendent of Traffic, that a discount of 40 per cent. would be made on all round trip tickets sold from any point on the road to Walla Walla, on the 21, 3d and 4th of July, the same to be good for the 5th. This note is a good one and will greatly assist in augmenting the crowd in attendance in this city from the surrounding country on that occasion.

Probably Murdered.

BAKER CITY, June 4, 1883. About ten o'clock Sunday morning a messenger arrived in town with the news that a man had been found dead under his wagon in Pleasant Valley, about twelve miles from here. Cooner Darke immediately summoned a jury, and accompanied by Dr. Estes, proceeded to the spot where the man was reported dead, and there he lay stiff and cold in death, a bullet having pierced his head. Half a dozen or more witnesses were examined, but sufficient light was not thrown upon the affair to satisfy the jury, therefore, no verdict has been rendered up to this time. The inquest will be continued to-morrow and I will send you further particulars to-morrow. The body was brought to town in its own wagon about seven o'clock yesterday evening. There seems scarcely any doubt that the man has been fully dealt with.

PRESCOTT POINTS.

[FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.]

PRESCOTT, June 5, 1883. ED. STATESMAN—A picnic party to-day from Hadley Station, are having a good time playing croquet, fishing and picking berries, on the banks of the beautiful Touchet river.

New-comers are frequently seen, asking who has improved farms for sale. There are a few land-owners joining Prescott who expect to sell portions of their farms. Land has increased in value astonishingly within the last year.

Lots, which sold less than a year ago in Prescott for $50 per lot, now sell readily for $300 per lot, unimproved.

As the lots are mostly sold in the original plot, the sale in Panco's addition will take a boom. The land is really the richest in the valley.

Messrs. Buck & Ross, who own land joining Prescott, are lucky men, and they could get $35 or $40 per acre, which will weigh their pockets.

Legitimated.

Last night Officer Ames arrested a soldier named Premer for having in his possession a $16 silver watch, stolen from a citizen in this city. Premer claimed that he bought the watch from a brother soldier named Winslow, and this morning Judge Whitman had the latter up for examination. Winslow stated that he was in the saloon kept by Chas. Rose, and got into a poker game during which his opponent put up the store-said watch and lost it. Winslow upon arriving at his quarters sold the time-keeper to Premer, and seemed highly elated at his good luck.

His Honor asked Winslow what kind of a looking man his opponent in the game was. Winslow said he wore a kind of gray suit, had a heavy mustache, and with a significant look at Prosecuting Attorney Thompson, stated that he wore a broad brimmed black hat. George immediately detected his sonneteer and hid it underneath the table.

After hearing all the testimony his Honor discharged the prisoner, first admonishing him to be careful hereafter, and patronize the reading room instead of saloons.

It was conclusively shown that the soldier had come by the watch honestly, and was in no wise cognizant of the theft.

The old telephone line between Western and Blue Mountain has been sold to C. H. & R. B. & Co. of Walla Walla. The old line was operated by the Western Telephone and Telegraph Co. and was a very successful business. The new proprietors will put in telephones and renew communication between these two points. The O. R. & N. Co. have discontinued their office in Walla Walla, and the office is now in the hands of the new proprietors. We find the above in the Daily Examiner, a paper published in Cantonville, and it quite surprises us. It is possible that such a thriving town as Western cannot afford to maintain enough to the railroad company to cause them to continue a little office there? Yet, a few days since, while passing through the town, we were very much struck back to find that, although only one mile from a railroad there was no one there with sufficient enterprise to place over a conveyance on the road between the terminals and the town in an unobtrusive passenger. In those rushing days, when taxes are competing for attention, each one must show considerable energy or it is liable any time to be left out in the cold.

Reported Horse Stealing.

News comes to town that three young men, named F. Hicklin, E. M. Towers and Wm. Smith, have been stealing horses from the neighboring foothills. On Thursday night they entered the barn of Mr. O. P. Howard and made away with four good horses. They took them from a man named Simon Crook, who resides in the upper end of the country. The thieves are well-known in the locality, and officers are in hot pursuit of the fugitives. They are supposed to be hiding somewhere in the Blue Mountains, where they are getting to gether a band of stolen horses.

An immigrant, named Cox, who has been camped near Ennis' slaughter house, reports his horse either strayed or stolen. During his absence some mischievous scoundrel is stealing a valuable cantonment some clothes from the wagon.

Attempt to Steal from Milton.

We were informed this morning by a gentleman who had just arrived from Milton that an unsuccessful attempt was made by some mercenary to turn that place on last Saturday night. A large hole was cut in the side of the residence of Mr. T. A. not a prominent building of the town, and turpentine poured over the floor. Fortunately the scheme was discovered before the article subject could be accomplished. If the object could be accomplished, the immigrant Cox, from whom it had been stolen the night before. All the articles were recovered save a suit of clothes and some white shirts and handkerchiefs. The thief evidently only was in need of clothing, as he left a few revolvers and other valuable articles in the value.

Reply of the Executive Commanders at Vancouver Barracks and Walla Walla in Answer to an Invitation to Join in Celebrating the Centennial of the Birth of George Washington, June 22, 1732—Portland's Call, Our Reply.

LOOK ON THE PICTURE AND THINK ON THAT.

VANCOUVER PARKS, W. T., June 6, '83. Messrs. Com. the U. S. Veterans' Post and Fourth of July Celebration, Portland, Me., June 3, '83. GENTLEMEN:—Your invitation to join in the celebration of the centennial of the birth of George Washington, June 22, 1732, has been received. We are sorry that we cannot be present, but we are sure that our countrymen in the United States, who are celebrating the centennial of the birth of our great patriot, will be able to do so.

WALLA WALLA, June 3, 1883. Respectfully returned the thanks of the Executive Commanders at Vancouver Barracks and Walla Walla for the invitation to join in the celebration of the centennial of the birth of George Washington, June 22, 1732.

The shore is in the foreground. The building in the background is the residence of Mr. T. A. not a prominent building of the town, and turpentine poured over the floor. Limitation Baking Powders.

Many articles called against the practice of the public who sell what they claim to be Royal Baking Powder, some of which, without label or trademark. All such powders are to be eliminated. Analysis of hundreds of samples of baking powder in bulk to parties called for by Royal have shown them to be largely adulterated, mostly with alum, dangerous for use in food, and comparatively valueless for leavening purposes.

The public is to well aware of the injury to health caused by the use of any 'taking powder' known to be made from this drug, but the dealer's assurance, "Oh, it's just as good as Royal," or "It's the genuine Royal," only buy it by the barrel to save expense of can, etc., is apt to mislead unsuspecting consumers into buying an article which would be known to be in their food under any consideration. The only safety from such practice is in buying 'making powder' in the original package of well known brand, and a thoroughly established reputation.

The Royal Baking Powder is sold only in cans, securely closed with the Company's trademark label, and the weight of package stamped on each cover. It is never sold in bulk, by the barrel, or by weight or measure, and all such offerings of the public under any pretense, are imitations.

If consumers will bear these facts in mind, and also see that the packages purchased are properly labeled, and the label unbroken, they will be always sure of getting a baking powder perfectly pure and wholesome, and of the highest test strength in the market.

J. C. H. & G. and President, Royal Baking Powder Co., N. Y.

A Sensible View.

The Oregonian of last Tuesday, in a long article, published the following interview with Mr. J. Fred Clarke, a prominent business man and capitalist of Portland, who gave a very logical view of the present situation of the real estate market, as well as the effect the recently passed mortgage law has upon business. That journal says: J. Fred Clarke, on being called on by an Oregonian reporter about the matter, gave the following statement: "The condition of the real estate market at present is similar in all respects to that of previous years at the same season as can be seen by the county records, or more easily by the condensed records in our office. It is quiet without the faintest sign of weakening, save in outlying additions which have been somewhat overdone. Business property never was so firmly held as now, and good residence properties, both improved and unimproved, are equally strong. The reason for the annual comparative quietness now existing is easily explainable. At this season the farmers of Oregon have for the most part exhausted their surplus cash. They are being carried by the country merchants. The country merchants, in turn, are being carried by the city merchants, who consequently require much more than ordinary advances from the banks. The canneries, too, are absorbing more than the usual amount of coin, owing to the high prices being paid for food. When the grain crops begin to be sown the farmers will begin to pay the city merchants, the city merchant the banks, and money becomes easier. The same remarks apply, in a greater or less degree, to the salmon fisheries. The opponents of the Terminal Company's bridge have damaged the market. We do not think they can do more than they have done.

The mortgage law is operating unfavorably, but chiefly on country property. Country members of the legislature made the law and they will find many of their constituents in great straits before they can have an opportunity to amend the act, from which they will suffer.

The arrival of Li Hung Chang at Shanghai, with a view to taking command of the Chinese troops on the Tonquin border, indicates the growing seriousness of the Indo-Chinese problem. With the abandonment of Majunga by Admiral Pierre, the advance of Gd. Desbordes on the left bank of the Niger, the performance of De Brazza and the Sagittario in the Congo, and the recent engagements in Annam. France in four places at once shows a disposition to win back that prestige and that share of the world's attention for her military prowess which the events of a dozen years ago so largely forfeited. Africa and Asia seem to furnish her a field for military adventure which Europe would not; yet it looks as if she would not be content with that, but would seek to conduct the movements in required funds so not to bring the republic into trouble with the wretched nations around her. The Annam hostilities, for example, if they led to a war with China, must excite English fears for the blockading of the Chinese ports and the consequent check of trade. The action of France in Madagascar is likely to arouse the distrust not only of England, but of Germany; while the conduct of De Brazza on the Congo seems to antagonize France with Belgium and all the other powers that are backing Stanley and the International African Society.

THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

Have you any fears as to Gen. Crook's safety at present? "No, I think—as he would think of me if I was in his place and he in mine—that he will act judiciously. I can't tell as to the probabilities of his success. As I don't know the number of Indians with whom he will have to contend, I should not suppose they numbered more than a couple of hundred, but, as I said, am without information on the subject. The band is desperate. They have lost all, or nearly all, their women and children; and in my judgment none will ever be taken alive. The Apaches are said to run away when attacked. So they do; it is their method of fighting, but they are the most dangerous antagonists in the world, so far as an ambush is concerned. You may ride right through their country and never see a head nor hand, so perfectly do they conceal themselves, and you can ride right into an ambush where you least expect it. The first indication you are likely to have is the ping of a rifle bullet."

How about Crook's scouts?

"The Apache scouts are excellent for a time. So long as you keep them moving; so long as you give them active work, something to interest and excite them, they are excellent. They cannot stand inaction, however, and are very apt to get tired, want to go back and, if permission to do so is refused, to desert and take the back trail."

What of the alleged Mexican complications?

"Of them you know as much as I do; your sources of information are the same as mine."

The country is very difficult of access and for travel, is it not?

"None could be more so. It is far worse than the lava beds of Northern California and Southern Oregon."

Stricken Down.

It will be seen by a special dispatch to the STATESMAN, to-day, that Judge P. C. Sullivan, of Colfax, while in a heated argument in the Hamrod Grinnell murder case, was stricken with apoplexy, dying instantly. No man at the bar has had a more varied experience than Judge Sullivan. He was about 57 years of age, and at the time of his death retained the full vigor of his mind and body. He has practiced his profession in several states of the Union and occupied a number of official positions, always with credit to himself. The deceased stood among the leading lawyers of the Territory; was a ready debator, and stood up for his clients always with unflinching zeal. He had been retained by Frank Hammond who was on trial for the murder of Herbert Grinnell, as Attorney. The deceased was married not a short time ago to a most estimable lady, who will have the sympathy of the entire community.

New Job Press.

The Statesman office has the largest and latest improved job press now on the road from New York. It is larger and better than the only one of its kind on the Northwest coast.

Northern Pacific Through Passenger Rates.

Through passenger rates from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and Superior are now published, to take effect from June 1st. The rate of through tickets to either of the above places from Portland is, first-class, $119; second class, $85; from Walla Walla $105 10 and $86 55.

Uniform Corps.

It is proposed by the Knights of Pythias, of Portland, to organize a "uniform corps," to be composed of members of the several lodges there. They will have regular drills, and their uniform will vary slightly from those worn by Knights. A meeting for the purpose of organization will be called for early next week.

Wants to be Released.

J. A. Woods, the Washington Territory fugitive, charged with the theft of $900 from an employer at Spokane, came up yesterday before Judge Tooley on another writ of habeas corpus, petitioning for his release on the grounds of being illegally held, inasmuch as no case has been continued for more than the time allowed by law.

Buffalo Bear.

On Monday the patrons of Washington Market in Vancouver were served with buffalo beef, an article not seen in this section since the beginning of this century probably. Hamer brought the matter, a yearling, down from the upper country, where it had been preserved from hunters, who brought it over from Montana across the Rocky Mountains.

A Bastardly Trick.

Yesterday afternoon some dastardly mutilated a fine pointer dog, the property of Mr. T. A. Clark, with Simonds & Young, by cutting off the poor brute's tail. The dog came to Mr. Clark's room, last evening about 7:30, which was the first intimation the gentleman had of the contemptible trick. A reward of $10 will be given at this office for the apprehension and arrest of the guilty party.

A "Celebrated Case."

In the office of the clerk of the District Court we were this morning shown a transcript of the case of Timothy P. Denney vs. Holland Park and John F. Boyer, the same covering two hundred pages of legal cap. This is a difficult case which involves a large amount of real estate in this county, and the complaint was filed April 27, 1877. This voluminous document was before the Territorial Supreme Court at Olympia in July next.

Decorative Configuration at Blalock's Station.

At 12 o'clock last night the division round house of the P. & N. Co. road at Blalock station was discovered by the watchman to be on fire, and before assistance could be obtained the building was burned to the ground. There were six locomotives housed at the time, two passenger and four freight engines, all of which were burned. It is estimated that the loss will reach something like $120,000.

Should Organize.

It is in good order to call the attention of our base ball players to the fact that the season is now advancing and they should lose no time in organizing. We believe there are players enough in this city to organize a first-class team. There is no field sport so healthful and invigorating as base ball, and from the pleasure derived from friendly contests with other clubs. We have excellent locations for suitable grounds, and we hope to see the ball put in motion.

Postponed.

We are requested to state that the closing night of the skating rink has been postponed from this (Wednesday) till tomorrow (Thursday) evening. On that occasion the First Cavalry Band will be in attendance, and the latter part of the evening devoted to dancing. As this will be the last opportunity for lovers of this delightful recreation to put on the rollers, no doubt the attendance will be very large.

Old Bags.

With the idea of creating another little industry in this city, Mr. H. M. Chase has recently made inquiries respecting the price of all kinds of paper, etc., at the Clackamas Paper company's mills and he has been informed that 21 cents per pound is paid for white cotton rag; colored and mixed cotton 17 1/2 cents; old paper 12 cents. Manila paper and mill paper are not taken. White paper mill in this upper country, quite an industry could be built up in this line of old rags alone.

Agent at Missoula.

Mr. J. H. Carney, one of the oldest and best known real estate agents in the Northwest, and for the past three years stationed at Astoria, for the Northern Pacific, has been elected and accepted the agency for the same company at Missoula. Mr. Carney has many friends in this section, who will rejoice at his good fortune in securing that desirable station. Mr. Ed. Ross will accompany the gentleman as assistant agent, both leaving for Missoula the first of next week.

A Case Call.

Yesterday while Mr. Louis Scheller, of the post office store, was riding a spirited animal, he met with an accident that nearly resulted seriously. While passing under the frame of Milton the horse shied, and as he whirled suddenly around the girl broke, allowing the saddle to turn and throwing Mr. Scheller to the ground. His foot being caught in the stirrup, he was dragged quite a distance. Things looked serious for a moment, but his companion, who was also on horse-back, by a dextrous movement managed to head the frightened animal, and in detaching the bride brought him to a stop. Fortunately Mr. Scheller met with no more injury than a severe shaking up and a good fright.

Always Something New.

His Last Words.

Tragic Death of Hon. P. C. Sullivan—How Long Would He Have Waited Before He Took Death at Grinnell's Feet?

From A. Reeves Ayers, the courteous Clerk of the District Court, and who was in the room at Grinnell when Judge P. C. Sullivan fell dead on last Friday morning, we learn the following detailed account of the sad affair.

"The case of Hammond for killing Grinnell at Astoria was before the court," says Mr. Ayers, "and the argument for the Territory had been made Thursday evening. Friday morning Judge Sullivan commenced the argument for the defense. At that time the court room was crowded. The deceased's wife and daughters occupied seats on the raised platform back of Judge Wignard. Hammond was seated at a table beside Judge Sullivan's son and the latter gentleman stood at the end of the table facing the jury and his Honor. Upon rising to his feet Judge Sullivan remarked that he did not feel well and the jury would pardon him for occasionally taking medicine to strengthen himself. He then commenced speaking and made one of the most eloquent pleas I have ever listened to. Once he reached for a tumbler of water that was near the end of the table and dashed a few drops into his face with his hand. He was describing the encounter between Hammond and Grinnell in the saloon, and in an impassioned voice said, as he referred to the incident when the latter had Hammond by the throat: 'How long,' said the learned court, 'would he have waited before he fell dead at Grinnell's feet—' and these were the last words uttered by Judge Sullivan. With the word 'fell' he fell partly forward and clutched at the glass, raising himself up full backwards into the arms of one of the lawyers sitting near. In a moment everything was in confusion. His son flung up and was carried out of the room. Mrs. Sullivan with rare coolness spoke to Judge Wignard and requested that her husband be brought upon the platform and laid on the floor near the open window. But life was extinct before he reached that spot, in fact he died instantly."

How J. B. Allen took up the argument next morning for the defense and made a masterly plea for his client. Hammond was tearfully broken up by the death of Judge Sullivan, and he seemed to realize that his main stay was gone.

World Not to be Interviewed. This morning a STATESMAN reporter called on the county jail accompanied by Sheriff Thompson and asked for Towner and Hawkins, the recently captured horse thieves. The two worthies stopped forward and followed the reporter to a secluded part of the corridor, and upon being questioned fully refused to say a single word. They kindly stated that what they had to say they would say in court.

The reporter lays his failure to interview these individuals to the wily McPherson, awaiting trial for the murder of Cummings. Some months ago this same McPherson was interviewed by a STATESMAN reporter, and because he was not shown up in this journal as an innocent man, he has from that time done everything to prevent our interviewing criminals. As Towner and Hawkins were passing his cell door this morning, the reporter, who was a few steps in advance, heard him say so "that's him," and became at once convinced that he would not get anything out of the men. As McPherson leaves for Dayton next week for trial, our report will not be troubled by him much more.

A Singular Accident. Yesterday as freight train No. 7, east bound, was passing Shell Rock, just inside of the Cascades, a huge boulder started from the side of the mountain, and came crashing down with terrific force. The engine and several cars were past its track, and the rock struck about the middle of the train. It demolished three cars—knocking two of them completely into the river, where they immediately sank from view. The brakemen on top of the cars saw the rock coming down the side of the mountain, and ran with all speed along the top of the cars to get out of the way. The wrecking car was sent down from the Dolles to clear the track, but this work could not be accomplished without making No. 1, the east bound passenger, travel over six hours late.

Oregon Walls to be Sent Overland. Arrangements have been made by Capt. B. B. Tuttle for the transportation overland of mails for Oregon and Washington Territory from the East, which, it is believed, will materially shorten the time of their transit. Instead of being sent in their usual manner the mails will be taken off the overland train at Sacramento and thence forwarded to Portland via Redding, by stage to the extension of the Oregon and California railroad from Rowing. Mails arriving one day previous to the sailing of the Portland steamers will be landed in San Francisco and forwarded by water. The new arrangement went into effect on last Tuesday.

Officers of the Do. The general Fourth of July Committee met last evening, and in the routine of business appointed the following officers of the day: President of the Day, Hon. N. T. Cator; President of the Night, Hon. R. C. Orator; T. J. Hamilton; reader of the Declaration of Independence, J. L. Sharpstein; Chaplain, Rev. H. D. Lathrop. Miss Alicia Thomas was selected to deliver Drake's address to the American flag.

A New Machine Firm. Russell & Co. have opened a branch office and supply house in Walla Walla, where they will supply the trade at first hands, with their threshing and saw mill machinery. Sample machines can be seen at their warehouse opposite the Stine House, on Main street, where they would be pleased to see their customers and friends.

Almost Insane and Cured. "Most of the eminent doctors in the East, as well as several of the medical faculty in New York City," writes Rev. P. P. Shirley, of Chicago, "failed to help my daughter's epilepsy, which began to show signs of turning in to insanity. By the good providence of God we tried Somerset's Nervine, and it cured her." Your Druggist keeps it. $1 30.

Kind of Men We Want. G. F. Dearborn, Esq., of Manchester, N. H., is now in this city; he is a member of the family that has so often proved their faith in this upper country in general and Walla Walla in particular, by largely investing their real estate here. In this they show their foresight, for no city or town on northern coast has a better future before it than this. Situated as we are, in the center of the most prolific wheat growing country in the world, which is rapidly settling up and being cultivated, where but three years since "the deer roamed and the coyote leapt to dwell," our possibilities are tremendous. Mr. Dearborn is the largest outside investor in Walla Walla real estate we know of, and we hope soon to elaborate the fact that he will settle down and make this his home.

GOOD WORK.

HOSE THIEVES RUN DOWN AND CAPTURED AT SOMERVILLE. They Suffered Without Resistance—All the Missing Hoses Recovered—Names of the Party Who Captured Them.

Our readers are aware that for several days past farmers in the neighboring foothills have been greatly incensed at the depredations of three horse thieves—Farrin S. Hoskins, E. W. Tower and Bill Smith, a hard character from Texas. Five horses in all were stolen—the property of Simon Eloek, Chas. Spencer, and a man named Turner.

Last Saturday Mr. Simon Eloek aroused the townsmen among the new townsmen around farmers for help to go in pursuit of the thieves, and the following sturdy yeoman answered his call: Walter Barnard, Tom Farrell, Chas. Barges, Chas. Scott, Chas. and James Spencer, Chas. Smith and J. P. Howard—all from the vicinity of Russell creek.

Hastily arming themselves, this body of determined men started out for the mountains, and early Sunday morning struck the fugitive trail. This they followed up and gained inch by inch upon the thieves. The course took them toward Somerville in the Grande Ronde valley. About dark on Sunday night the small cavalcade rode slowly into that little place, worn out and nearly starved. As they approached the central part of the village Mr. Eloek saw two men sitting on their horses eating, and immediately spotted them as the thieves. The party rode up and commanded them to surrender, which request was complied with at once by Tower, but Hoskins, who had a rifle slung through his saddle, demurred. Eloek covered him with his rifle and told him if he did not raise his hands he would fire. Not liking the look in the determined man's eye, the wretch complied with the request and surrendered. About this time the party was surrounded by the citizens of Somerville, who mistook the farmers for highwaymen, and came tearing upon the party before an explanation could be given.

Bill Smith it seems was away from his companions when the capture was made, and as he was returning saw the state of affairs and immediately took to the mountains. Three of the horses that were stolen strayed back to camp and the animals taken from Hoskins and Tower complete the number stolen.

The men were bound hand and foot, and the entire party then started for Walla Walla, arriving in this city at a little after noon today. After lodging their prisoners in the county jail all hands repaired to the French restaurant where they fell to a hearty dinner with a glass.

The work of their capture was entirely under the direction of Simon Eloek, who has exercised throughout rare judgment and skill. It is believed the thieves were making for Idaho and intended to strike somewhere in the neighborhood of Idaho City.

The three horses taken by these men were rode down in trying to get through the mountains, and then turned loose in the neighborhood of Russell creek. The thieves then took two fresh ones, which they had when captured. Smith when he escaped was on foot.

The sheriff of Union county, who has a large posse of men, are hunting in the mountains for Smith. It is a pity that this rascal escaped, as he was the most hardened criminal of the whole lot. Both the thieves captured are young men.

A Border War Probable. A Washington special of June 7th says: Ex-Governor McCook, of Colorado, now here from Mexico, says the recent decision of Secretary Fisher, withdrawing lands from settlement and awarding them to the Southern Pacific, is likely to produce border warfare. The settlers here are in possession of a large portion of the land for many years, have erected valuable improvements, established cattle and other ranches. In fact the effect of the decision will be to either oust these people to purchase their homes at exorbitant prices from the railroad or to secure leases. Failing in this they must abandon their homes and property or resist being dispossessed. McCook states that the feeling is very bitter among these settlers and that they will be driven to desperation, and doubtless violence if disturbed. McCook believes that the vast tracts of railroad monopolies on the public domain will yet make serious trouble in the west, and he, at no distant day, a great political issue before the country.

A Bonanza for Farmers.

On Saturday last we were invited by Mr. Ed. Hughes, manager for Russell & Co., to see the new and see the New Massillon Thresher and their Straw Burning Engine running in full blast in front of their store on Main street. Hundreds of farmers and thrashermen visited the scene of operation and while we were there the throng was so great we could hardly get up to the machine. Straw and chaff were fed through the cylinder, the better to exhibit the working of the machinery. The strong current of wind from the fanning mill coming up with such force that it seemed to be the general impression among the farmers that this machine beyond a doubt will clean their grain.

Mr. Hughes sold two steam threshing outfits on the ground that day, and says he can furnish half the machinery that has demand for.

Ground Broken.

A force consisting of about seventy men, with the necessary outfit, says the Record, passed through Yakima on the 21st inst., and are now at work on the N. P. line, between here and Ellensburg. Mr. Lother left Portland last Saturday for Horse Bend with a force of sixty men. More laborers will be added to these forces as fast as they can be organized and sent forward. At no distant day, during the summer, a full force will be at work between here and Astoria. Captain J. T. Kingsbury is in charge of the line and will push the work rapidly forward. He is familiar with this line, well acquainted with our people, who are fortunate in his assignment to duty here. Capt. I. N. Campbell, for the past two years with Mr. Hallett, is Capt. Kingsbury's efficient assistant. Their office is in Centennial Hall.

The Kind of Men We Want.

G. F. Dearborn, Esq., of Manchester, N. H., is now in this city; he is a member of the family that has so often proved their faith in this upper country in general and Walla Walla in particular, by largely investing their real estate here. In this they show their foresight, for no city or town on northern coast has a better future before it than this. A CINGER.

HONEY WILLARD IS OPPOSED TO KINDLING THE ROAD FROM TEXAS PERRY TO WILLOW CREEK.

An open letter from the Railroad Magazine to Hon. J. B. Allen, of This City—He Says His Constituents Don't Sanction the Work.

COMMERCIAL RAILWAY & NAVIGATION CO. President's Office, 11th Building, Broadway, New York, June 1, 1883.

Dear Sir—You will no doubt remember the promise I made in my reply to the address which I was honored through you, that I would make known my conscientious objections to the reconstruction of the proposed Walla Walla, regarding the reconstruction of the construction of the line from Texas Ferry to Willow Creek, at the earliest practicable moment.

It is my regret that in consequence of a severe rain storm which overtook us at Lewiston, where we intended to drive through the country, and owing further to the unusually tardy arrival of Chief Engineer Thibault, I was prevented from carrying out my original intention to examine the line in question, personally. I am, therefore, not prepared to give you the promised debate answer at this time. I feel in duty bound to say, however, that my official constituents are unanimous in advising against the building of the line.

Respectfully yours, H. WILLARD.

If the company finally decides not to build that short piece of road it will be a serious set back to Walla Walla. When we take into consideration that but a short gap of 16 miles keeps us from having a continuous rail connection with Spokane Falls it is time for our citizens to make an effort to have it built, by offering inducements to the company. Heretofore we have been in a miserable state of lethargy in relation to this matter; now let us begin to realize and see that the gap is covered by rail, and we can take the gas direct to Spokane over that route.

Special to the Statesman. Lewiston, June 12, 1883. Last night Sheriff Rapp and his posse had a fight with a band of horse thieves from Clatsop, who were camped in Tammany Hollow, near this place. After a severe struggle the sheriff captured four horses and their entire contents, outfit. The thieves escaped and took to the mountains. Although the thieves were escaping if no one was hurt. The thieves are being hotly pursued by the sheriff and his men.

Excellent will news has been received from the county seat of Lewis and Clark, where the sheriff is now on duty. The sheriff of Lewis and Clark, where the sheriff is now on duty. The sheriff of Lewis and Clark, where the sheriff is now on duty.

Contract Let to John Lakes Washington and Union. Advice from Seattle are to the effect that the Washington Improvement Company have let the contract to cut a canal between Lakes Washington and Union, and to deepen the present channel from Lake Union to the Sound to J. J. Cummings. One hundred and fifty white men and twenty teams began operations last Monday and additional force will be employed. The work will be pushed with vigor. The completion of this canal will be of great value to this city and the country, as it will open up to the market a large body of excellent farming lands along Lake Washington, giving cheap and speedy communication with that city. When the work is completed Seattle will be heated upon an island.

Advice to Consumptives. On the appearance of the first symptoms—general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chills, sweats, followed by night-sweats and cough—prompt measures for relief should be taken. Consumption is a scrofulous disease of the lungs—therefore use the great anti-scrofulous, or blood-purifier and strength-giver, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to Cod Liver oil as a nutritive, and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood, and kindred affections it has no equal. Sold by druggists the world over. For Dr. Pierce's pamphlet on consumption, send two stamps to WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

Off for Washington.

SPokane Falls, W. T., June 11, 1883. EDITOR STATESMAN—Chief Wagoner, of the Columbia river Indians, Tanawaket and Sarsupkin of the Okanogan and Lat of the Lower Spokanes, left here on Tuesday in charge of Major Frank Baldwin for Washington via the N. P. R. R. With a little proper engineering the Moses restoration can be thrown open to settlement and the Indians all peacefully satisfied. George Heron, a half-breed, goes with them as interpreter. Yours truly, X. Y.

One Experience from Many. I have been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailment I was completely debilitated and distressed. In this frame of mind I met a certain Mr. H. B. Bates and told them my condition. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unusual, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hurrah for Hop Bitters!" and they were just as happy. The Mother.

Wm. Jones has removed to corner Third and Main streets, (formerly occupied by Gross & Wagoner), adjoining Schwabacher's, and will continue to sell the following popular goods: Buffalo pants—including the Nebraska Breaker and Brownie gun, LaBelle wagons, Case, Scott & Co's. traction straw burning engine, Gold Medal Thresher and a full line of first-class machinery.

We Come to May. Truthful representation, honest goods and low prices are our stepping stones to success. If you want a neat stylish fit in a boot or shoe, a good common sense comfortable one of the finest goods, yet durable, or a good shirt for boys, misses, children and infants, call on J. S. SPECIAL FROM LEWISTON. Horse Thieves Routed—Four stolen Horses Recaptured—Sheriff Still in Possession of County Seat Question—Troup Outlock—Building Room—Etc.

Special to the Statesman. Lewiston, June 12, 1883. Last night Sheriff Rapp and his posse had a fight with a band of horse thieves from Clatsop, who were camped in Tammany Hollow, near this place.

Those Women Folk. How Hard-Headed Men Estimate Some Things which they don't understand. Any lady who has led a domestic life knows how common such things as the back-say, and pins in the chair, are among the women who do the work.

Contract Let to John Lakes Washington and Union. Advice from Seattle are to the effect that the Washington Improvement Company have let the contract to cut a canal between Lakes Washington and Union, and to deepen the present channel from Lake Union to the Sound to J. J. Cummings.

Advice to Consumptives. On the appearance of the first symptoms—general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chills, sweats, followed by night-sweats and cough—prompt measures for relief should be taken.

Off for Washington. SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., June 11, 1883. EDITOR STATESMAN—Chief Wagoner, of the Columbia river Indians, Tanawaket and Sarsupkin of the Okanogan and Lat of the Lower Spokanes, left here on Tuesday in charge of Major Frank Baldwin for Washington via the N. P. R. R.

One Experience from Many. I have been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailment I was completely debilitated and distressed.

We Come to May. Truthful representation, honest goods and low prices are our stepping stones to success. If you want a neat stylish fit in a boot or shoe, a good common sense comfortable one of the finest goods, yet durable, or a good shirt for boys, misses, children and infants, call on J. S. Barrett.

Lady Beautifiers—Ladies, you cannot make fair skin, rosy cheeks, and sparkling eyes with all the cosmetics of France or beautifiers of the world, while in poor health and nothing will give you such rich blood, good health, and rosy cheeks as Hop Bitters.

Our Settlements in a Nut The following from the Seattle Herald we heartily endorse: "Governor Newell was in the city yesterday and took occasion to call at the Herald office and return thanks for our endorsement of his Chieftain letter. The Governor can rest perfectly well assured that neither he nor any other man can obtain an endorsement of anything but facts. We have heard men who ought to know better than the Governor as an enthusiast, and assert that he writes for an effect. The frozen truth is that this gentleman has done a noble service in making the resources of this Territory known. He does not hide his light under a bushel. It is our fixed opinion that Washington Territory, so far as rugged population, is several thousand souls the more numerous because of his indefatigable labors as an exponent of the natural elements of wealth and progress of which this land is possessed."

Whitman College will close for this year June 21st. The usual written examinations for the quarter have already begun. Students are allowed two and one half hours to prepare answers in each branch of study. The following schedule gives the day for each examination, commencing at a quarter past 9 A. M. until another hour is named: June 20th, Geology; June 21st, University algebra; June 22nd, Xenophon; June 23rd, English grammar; June 24th, arithmetic; June 25th, calculus; June 26th, Latin reader and geography; June 27th, spelling; and at 2 P. M. reading; June 28th, Botany. The marks of all students attending as high as 70% in final examinations during the year will be read. Visitors always welcome.

Information Wanted If Ebenezer Shannon Longaver, of Thompson Addition Longaver sees this notice he will please communicate with his sister Mrs. Evalina Mytinger, at Warrenton, Va. Her husband, now days of each other, and she is left almost alone in the world. It will be a favor worthy bestow if Oregon and Washington papers will kindly copy this notice.

A Little One. Joaquin Miller may have known enough of Idaho some twenty years ago, but in adding people to write to Col. Craig, as he did recently in an article on Idaho to the Coloradoan, he proves that he is not so well posted on the country as he might be. Col. Craig has been dead several years.

Milton Kelly of the Base Statesman has apparently entered into a crusade against the "Oregon style" of journalism. The fact is that peculiar style originated with Mit. himself and it would be fun indeed if some rash youth were to stir him up just for the sake of seeing him belch forth once more. The only readable part of most of the new era papers is the "Oregon style" portion.

The Oregonian speaks of Moscow as being in a timberless country. Never was a greater mistake made. Moscow is within a hour's distance of one of the largest bodies of the finest timber on the northern slope of the Coast Range.

A revenue tariff is a schedule of taxes levied on imported goods, with an eye of equitable taxation only. A protective tariff is a schedule of taxes levied on imported goods with a design to raise the price of certain home commodities.

The New York Mutual Accident Association of Utica must be a heavy concern. An examination of the books recently disclosed the fact that the association had on hand six dollars to meet claims amounting to over $4,000.

While General Ratur was at the head of the Internal Revenue Department, he collected $850,000,000 from the people. The cost of collecting this vast sum was between thirty and forty million dollars.
