THE SENSATION OF DROWNING.—A sailor named George Forbes, who was lost overboard from a scow in Lake Michigan and nearly drowned before he was rescued, thus describes the feelings he experienced on the occasion. We quote from the Detroit Free Press: "I was feeling more courage and striking out with a will, when a sudden cramp caught me all over, and I could not do another stroke. I felt like a lump of lead. My head began to spin around, a great lump rose up in my throat and choked me, and my eyes closed as if a weight had been hung on the lids. I began to drown—I felt it; then came a feeling something like a red-hot rod being drawn through my brain. My head felt like fire. A humming, roaring noise went through my ears, and my body felt as light as a feather. The waves carried me about without an effort on my part, and I laughed—it seemed so curious that I actually laughed. I didn't care to be picked up—didn't care for Lizzie—only wanted to float and drift forever on the rollers. The water came into my face and mouth, but I never tried to keep my head up. I wouldn't have moved to have been aboard the scow. It grew darker and darker; the old fire feeling came through my head again. Something clutched me by the leg and drew me down. I rooked to and fro, felt a noise like the discharge of a cannon, and then dropped to sleep.

IF WE KNEW. If we knew the woe and heartache waiting for us down the road, If our lips could taste the wormwood, If our back could feel the load, Would we waste the day in wishing For a time that ne'er can be; Would we wait in such impatience For our ships to come from sea?

Narrow Escape of Two Divers. These are two things which I do not care ever to do—dive down into the sea in a diving-bell, and dive up into the air in a balloon. It may be necessary for somebody to do these dangerous things, though about that, in most cases, I have my doubts, and I can conceive of some possible situations where I might be laughed at as a coward, for refusing to make such a venture. But I candidly confess that, with my present scruples, neither wounded pride nor heroic ambition would be strong enough to cause me to venture from terra firma very far, either in an upward or downward direction.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE LAW pertaining to the sale of tobacco, in the form of cigars, chewing, snuff, etc., is very severe, and if strictly enforced must annihilate the retail trade in those articles. If a retailer sells a cigar, except taken at the time of sale from the original box, he is liable to two years imprisonment and a fine of one thousand dollars! So in regard to chewing tobacco and snuff—they must be retailed from the original package, or a like penalty is incurred. A retailer cannot take a handful of cigars from a box in his show-case, place them upon the outside glass and sell one or more from the lot without the risk of fine and imprisonment; but he must let the customers select from the box—the original package—himself. The unnecessary obstructions to the trade thus presented are calculated to destroy it, and oppress a large and industrious class of citizens. Snuff cannot be sold from a jar, but must be taken from the bladder—the original package—by the cent's worth. U. S. Detective Horton has entered complaints against a number of manufacturers and retailers upon the testimony of a man named Veazie; the parties implicated have been arraigned and bound over for trial. No previous warning was given.—Boston Statesman.

THE UTAH HYBRID CHERRY.—The Mormons of Utah have started a new cherry. It is a cross between the cherry and the wild plum, producing a dwarf tree with willow branches. The fruit approaches the size of a plum, but retaining the distinct shape and seed of the cherry. The taste is a combination of both the plum and the cherry. It is very prolific, and trees a year old are full of fruit. Mr. J. E. Johnson, who writes about it, says that the best plan for making a well-shaped tree is to bud it into the limbs of a two to three year old peach tree, about four feet from the ground, and then clip in the limbs, so that they will not reach the ground when loaded with fruit.

A GOLDEN THOUGHT.—I never found heartless pride in a noble nature, nor humility in an unworthy mind. Of all the trees, I observe that God has chosen the vine, a low plant that creeps along the wall; of all the beasts the patient lamb; of all the fowls, the patient dove. When God appeared to Moses, it was not in the lofty cedar, nor in the spreading palm, but in a bush—as if he would by these selections check the conceited arrogance of man. Nothing produces love like humility; nothing hate, like pride.

GOOD SENSE AMONG THE MORMONS.—In all the Mormon schools there is a department which relates entirely to instruction in the every day duties of business men, and is similar to the commercial colleges in this part of the country. There is a post office, a telegraph office, an express office, a titing office, offices for banking, insurance, and the sale of railroad tickets, in short the endeavor is to teach pupils what they will need most to know upon undertaking the actual duties of life.

THE BRIDAL HANDKERCHIEF. I was all prepared to go to the wedding I was going, father was going, the gals was going, and we was going to take the baby. But come to dress the baby, I couldn't find its little linen shirt. I'd laid a clean one out of the drawer a-purpose; I knew just where I'd put it; but come to look for it, it was gone.

NEGRESSIES IN WASHINGTON CITY. A correspondent thus pictures the condition of society in Washington City: "Out of about 150,000 population, Washington City numbers at least 60,000 blacks, and 20,000 carpet-baggers, who lead them and share every element of their degradation except their ignorance. Of these 60,000 negroes, at least 57,000 are former slaves. Of the 57,000 former slaves, at least 50,000 are of the class that, in days of peace, we called field-hands—negroes who worked in gangs out in the fields, lived among themselves, and did not pass that lary ordeal of houseservice which mellow the darkey into an offensive, quiet, dutiful animal. Of these 50,000 field-hands, at least four-fifths have drifted into this unhappy city in the wake of the Federal armies, and have come from all parts of Virginia, Maryland, and the Carolinas, being the worst of their race, whom the advent of peace entailed upon the best Government: the world ever saw as 'wards,' political pets, and virile voters.

GRAPPLING-HOOKS were at once thrown out by the pitying crew, but to no purpose. The signals continued, though fainter. Soon they ceased. Were the men dead? Providentially, a diver in submarine armor was above water at the moment, in one of the nearest ships of the squadron, and just ready to go down again.

ONE OF THE STRANGEST PLACES in Venice is the Exchange for Pawn Brokerage. It is in one of the old palaces of the dukes. It is under the control of the Government as much as the Post Office. Soldiers parade before the door, and men in uniform are in attendance. The utmost order and system prevail. Not a loud word is spoken; no crowd, no confusion are allowed. A motly crew wait on this institution—men and women of all grades, characters, and dress, with their shoes, bonnets, hats, in full dress, and in the garbs of mendicants. They stand in a long line, waiting their turn at a small window. The goods they have to pawn are all the way up from dilapidated clothes to watches and diamonds. A regular tariff is placed on every thing; such a percentage only is allowed. A small bill is given to the depositor, who uses it as a check, and goes to another window where the money is paid. Goods can be redeemed at any time after twenty-four hours. A small fee only is charged for the use of the money. Soldiers and guards are in every part of the building to preserve order.

CHRONIC ALCOHOLISM, it is asserted, is becoming a frequent cause for the removal of officers in the United States Army. In the ordinary walks of life also, "Epidemic Alcoholism" is on the increase, and the high price of genuine spirits having introduced inferior whiskies and brandies, the fatal effect of the spurious taste for liquors are more and more to be observed.

VANITY ruins more people than vice, though in a more general way. One comes from a weakness of mind, the other from a like defect in morals.

AM HERBES IN DISGUISE.—The St. Joseph (Mo) Gazette of a recent date relates the following somewhat romantic story: Sometime last fall a young lady came to St. Joseph from the East to spend the winter with a relative. Unassuming, handsome, graceful and intelligent, she created a most favorable impression with those who enjoyed the pleasure of her acquaintance, and formed an agreeable addition to the social circle in which she moved. She was remarkably reserved and quiet in her manners, and studiously sought to avoid all ostentatious display in her apparel, but at the same time exhibited in her dress the most exquisite taste, and in her manners the most elegant refinement. Shortly after the lady's arrival she was called upon by a young gentleman (a resident of this county), who had formed her acquaintance in the East, and soon thereafter his visits became frequent and his attentions marked and devoted. It was noticed as the friendship of the two ripened into intimacy, that the lady began to insinuate, in a very cautious manner, inquiries for the purpose of ascertaining whether the gentleman had the least idea of her history and condition, and particularly of her financial affairs. These inquiries were prosecuted for some time, and seem to have resulted satisfactorily. At least, after a courtship of some months, she committed her happiness and fortunes to the care of the gentleman alluded to, and the celebration of the nuptials were duly recorded in the early part of the present spring. The happy couple immediately started for the East, and are now residing at the former home of the bride. And now comes the sequel. The quiet and unassuming young lady was in reality the possessor of immense wealth, and the undoubted heiress of an estate worth over $4,000,000—a fact wholly unknown at the time even to the gentleman who had sought her hand and heart. She had taken this method to test the sincerity of her admirer, and finding his heart the true gold, had committed unhesitatingly a golden treasure and a pure warm heart to his keeping, without even permitting the many glib-tongued youths of St. Joseph, to catch the faintest idea of the glittering prize apparently within their reach.

THERE are not a few chaps about town whose skill in pedestrianism consists exclusively in unreceipted bills behind them.

ple here, at least, have no idea of social morality. Every black woman on "The Island," with only such exceptions as age and sickness make, prostitutes herself gratuitously to every solicitor out of mere love of lust. The men are only less bad because the black women desert them in favor of their white paramours, of whom there are plenty. These negroes, irrespective of sex, herd as animals. Marriage is not even a name among them. "Wife" means "a woman, sar, dat I took up wid, down in Werginy wen de army moved off." The children all know their mothers, but no child has yet been found on the Island proverbially wise enough to know its own father. As a whole, these negroes are a mass of thieves, murderers, and bawds, the lowest of the low and the vilest of the vile.

JUDGE PHILADELPH VAN TRUMP, was the permanent Chairman of the Ohio Democratic State Convention at Columbus, and in his speech on assuming the chair said: "We never may be the result of the conflict which is now plainly before us—whether the Constitution shall survive or perish in the shock of opinion, the democratic party, as its latest, if not its last, defender, will be sustained by the proud consciousness that it stood as the firm and unflinching champion of the rights, as well as the union of States as ordained by the Constitution. Heretofore, the point of dispute has been confined to a mere question of Constitutional interpretation; but now, after the convulsion of a great civil war, and as one of its retributive results the Constitution itself is put upon its trial, and the right of self government, and of local representative, liberty is again presented as a political problem, as sharply marked, if not yet as sharply disputed, as it ever was in Rome or Attica two thousand years ago. In this modern repetition of the struggle, we are not called upon to fomentate any new doctrine in political ethics. Every utterance of the Democracy party, whether in storm or sunshine, in victory or defeat, is a re-affirmation of the 'divine right' of the people to govern themselves, through the agency of just laws made by themselves under written constitutions. Nor does the crisis which is upon us, in any of its dire necessities, demand of us any new pledges of action not recognized in the great original and fundamental principles upon which the American government is based. We have no new road to travel, no former heresy to repudiate, nor any doubtful party problem to solve. Our pathway is plainly before us." Mr. Van Trump said that the consolidation of political power in the Government is the twin-heresy of secession and the impending danger which lies before us. Consolidation and secession, he contended are two hostile forces growing out of the very inertia of a well-balanced Government like ours, and in this connection, he said: "Upon this great question of innovation, of revolution in the form and structure of our Government, the Democratic party will stand where it has ever stood—upon the clean and naked platform of uncompromising principle. It will be the pillar of fire by night, and the pillar of cloud by day to guide the Israelites of the Constitution through this wilderness of anarchy and confusion. Whether we shall reach the 'promised land,' or perish in the Red Sea of tyranny and despotism, is an alternative in the hands of Him who notes alike, a sparrow's and a nation's fall. In this trying mission of the Democratic party it will turn neither to the right hand nor to the left upon any question of more policy or expediency."

GRAPPLING-HOOKS were at once thrown out by the pitying crew, but to no purpose. The signals continued, though fainter. Soon they ceased. Were the men dead? Providentially, a diver in submarine armor was above water at the moment, in one of the nearest ships of the squadron, and just ready to go down again.

Barck Pomeroy requests us to exchange. Certainly.

THE TWO C'S.—The editorial staff of the Union is now organized as follows: Cross to do the lying, and Cook to take charge of the perjurious department.

JUDGE DARWIN is publishing a series of letters in the San Francisco Times, in which he boldly champions negro and Chinese equality.

DISTRICT JUDGES.—The latest report assigns Judge Jacobs to the First Judicial District; Judge Dennison to the Second, and Judge Kennedy to the Third.

WHEAT AND FLOUR.—San Francisco dispatches note an advance in the price of flour. The quotations for leading city brands are for superfine, $4 87 1/2 @ $5; extra, $5 75 @ $5 87 1/2.

THE HERALD'S RICHMOND DISPATCH says the majority for Walker in the Walla Walla election is estimated by the very sanguine to be 40,000.

"THE FIVE HUNDRED DOLLAR MAN."—The secret is out. How a third-rate, utterly unknown and obscure lawyer of New Jersey came to be made a member of the Federal Cabinet over the heads of one hundred thousand able and better men than himself, is no longer a mystery.

WASHINGTON ITEMS.—A private letter from Washington notices the presence of H. Parker, and says that he has been endeavoring to have Moore removed from the Walla Walla Post-office and Andrews appointed in his place.

THE BEAUTY OF RADICALISM.—As illustrating the beauty of radicalism, we copy from a South Carolina paper the following report of court proceedings: "At the present term of the Court of General Sessions, out of thirty-four petit jurors summoned, twenty-three were negroes, and eight white men."

DEMOCRATIC FUTURE.—The Detroit Free Press, one of the best democratic journals in the West, thus discourses upon the present and future of the democratic party: "The democratic party will not, because it has met with defeat, abate for one moment its devotion to the great principles of civilization and progress, of justice and right, which underlie its organization and constitute the basis of its existence."

COMING STATE ELECTIONS.—The following is a list of the State elections to be held during the summer and fall of this year: August 23, Kentucky; State Treasurer and Legislature. August 23, Alabama; members of Congress. August 5th, Tennessee; State officers and Legislature.

An Infamous Decision.

The infamous 'opinion' just given by Attorney General Hoar, asserting the legality of military trials of citizens, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, vindicates the faith reposed in him by his party and the Administration. He was selected as a fit and capable instrument for the execution and defense of the dirty jobs demanded by the exigencies of radicalism, and he has given ample proof that his 'heart is in his work.'

"If Mr. Hoar should decide that the State is not a State in the Union, according to the reconstruction laws of Congress, then, if I thought, the President will have the same power there that he has in Virginia, Mississippi and Texas, and will recognize Georgia as having only a Provisional Government."

So it appears to be an article of faith in the advanced radical creed, that the existence of the State Government, and the rights of the people represented in them, are subjects upon which the Attorney General is competent to 'decide'; and an opinion of his, prepared to order, to meet a supposed political emergency, is to be accepted by the President as authority for overturning the entire institutions of the State, and putting its population under martial law.

SENATOR WILLIAMS is returning home overland, having failed in his mission to Washington. The old renegade expected to induce Grant to change his Indian policy, but on reaching Washington he found that he had no influence whatever with the Administration.

WILL RESIGN.—The Olympia papers state that B. F. Donnison, Chief Justice of Washington Territory, will send in his resignation at an early day. He finds himself unable to live on a Judge's pay, and hence his resignation. He will at once return to the practice of his profession.

TOADYISM.—On the arrival of Senator Williams at Boise City, the commander of the military post ordered a salute fired in his honor. This is toadyism of the worst kind, and for such an exhibition Col. Sinclair deserves to be dismissed the service.

THE MURDER OF JESSY BOYCE.—We have already noticed the death of a young girl, in Polk county, Oregon, under suspicious circumstances. The Polk county Times has the following in relation to this affair: "After a tedious process of investigation covering three weeks this affair is still a very unsatisfactory condition."

FINANCIAL CRISIS.—The long looked for crisis in the financial life of the nation is, perhaps nearer than persons generally suppose, and may be precipitated sooner than is expected. In the Supreme Court of the United States, the Kentucky case, involving the constitutionality of the legal tender act, has been argued and will be decided before long.

SERVED HIM RIGHT.—A man named

Bailey was recently tried before an Illinois Court on the charge of having killed the seducer of his wife, and acquitted. The facts in the case are in substance very brief and simple. Laird was criminally intimate with Bailey's wife. Bailey made the discovery one night last winter, and killed Laird. He had a fair and impartial trial, and the jury found him 'not guilty.' It was, therefore, in the opinion of the jury, a clear case of justifiable homicide.

Gov. Gibbs, of Oregon, is at the East, passing his claims for the U. S. Judgeship provided for by a recent act of Congress. Judge Deady wants the same place, for the reason that it pays better than the Judgeship he now holds.

NEW DISCOVERY.—A late discovery which has justly caused some excitement in the community, was made on July 14th, by John Chaucey, near the head of Whiskey Gulch. It is called the Home Resort. We have seen some specimens from it which are good, plenty of free gold visible.

DENTER.—Owen McMahon & Co., are engaged in sinking a shaft on this new discovery, and the prospects is very favorable for it to be a good lead, every particle of ore extracted from it, as yet, contains more or less gold visible to the naked eye.

RED JACKET.—Several hands are at work on the Jacket, and the indications continue very favorable. ALLISON.—The new hoisting works on this mine have been completed and are in operation. Mr. Walbridge has charge of it, and the mine will undergo a thorough test.

WATER DITCH.—Captain Tedford, Michael Jordan, Charley Abmon, A. Ferrigo and others, contemplate cutting a ditch for the purpose of conveying the waters of Jordan creek from near the old saw mill site, two miles above town, along the south side of the creek to Wagtown, for mining purposes.

Don't Fail Worth a Cent.—"Brick" Pomeroy has placed the business management of his papers in the hands of C. P. Sykes, an experienced publisher, and now devotes his entire time to the duties of the sanctum, where, relieved of business cares, he is making his giant weekly, Pioneer, the most reliable paper ever printed.

ALL PERSONS are cautioned against trusting my wife, CHARLOTTE JANE SHUMWAY, on my account, as I will pay no debt of her contracting. J. SHUMWAY.

Judge Wylie Shows Up His Assailants.

JOHNSON, THE INGRATE; COOK, THE PERJURER, AND SCOTT, THE SODOMITE.

OLYMPIA, W. T., July 17, 1869.

FRIEND NEWELL:—I see an article in your paper replying to an attack on me in the Walla Walla Union of July 3d, for which I accept my thanks. I have but a few words to say in reference to the Union's attack:

J. D. Cook, I am reliably informed, took the article to the office, and insisted on its publication. Cook is a nice bird, truly. Only some twelve months ago he was indicted in my Court for perjury, and to that meretricious construction of the law under which the indictment was quashed he owes that liberty of locomotion which he employed in taking the article to the office.
