Statement of Theodore Tilton. New York, July 22.—The statement of Theodore Tilton against Beecher is published, and has produced intense excitement. In a long letter to the investigating committee, he gives as his reasons for making the disclosures that they had been demanded by the committee and by Beecher, and that, as he was in the habit of doing, he was not bound to remain silent.

Conflict of Authority. Military men are proverbially punctilious. The question of rank has always given rise to disputes when promotions were in order, or extraordinary honors were conferred.

Is It the Same Man? (From the Portland News.) Among those occupying high official positions in Washington Territory is Mr. H. G. Struve—his position being nothing less than that of Secretary of the Territory. We are informed that in October, 1854, a man named Henry G. Struve was enlisted in New York in the army for five years' service, and that he was assigned to Company A, First Dragoons; that thereafter, on the 10th of May, 1854, he deserted from the service, he being at the time said desertion stationed at Benicia, California. So much for the Struve who enlisted in New York in 1854. Now there comes a man named Dougherty, who says that he was in the service of the United States, and that at one time, while in said service, was at Benicia, California, where he saw and became acquainted with the Mr. Struve in question; and he says and makes affidavit that the Benicia soldier Struve, who is on the Records of the War Office as a deserter, is the identical gentleman who is now Secretary of Washington Territory and prominent in the politics of that Territory.

RAILROAD IRON.—We learn that part of the iron intended to complete the local railroad has already been shipped and may be expected to arrive at an early day.

OPPOSITION BOATS.—We learn that parties at the Dalles are arranging to build a couple of sailing vessels to run on the Columbia River between Celilo and Walla Walla. In early days the freighting on the Upper Columbia was done by means of such boats, and it is thought that this movement at the Dalles looks as though we are about to go back to early times.

A CHECKER is reported as traveling North, and in all probability will reach Walla Walla late in the season. Before coming this way it would be well for the manager to secure a liberal bank account, or otherwise he will be unable to pay the city tax of $25 on each and every performance. Our city authorities have no notion of allowing showmen to pack money out of the country.

HARD TIMES.—We hear of the case of a fruit grower in this valley who started out on the Boise road with a load of apples. He expected to dispose of his cargo at La Grande, but disappointed there he continued on to Baker City, where failing to find a purchaser, he turned back and arriving at the Walla Walla River threw his whole load into the stream. Hereafter fruit has not met with ready sale all along the line of the Boise road, but this year even that market has fizzled out.

ATTRACTING IMMIGRANTS.—A pamphlet has been issued and is being circulated in this section of country, showing the inducements Los Angeles presents to persons seeking new homes. We were only allowed a hasty examination of the pamphlet, but glancing through it we noticed that it gives full and explicit details as to the best and cheapest modes of travel, the price of land, facilities for irrigation, and in fact, the inducements on the other side. It occurs to us that a publication of this character, showing up the resources and advantages possessed by our own magnificent valley might be useful in attracting immigrants.

TAXATION.—In Iowa the rate of taxation for State purposes is 20 cents on the $100. In Washington Territory the tax for territorial purposes is 40 cents on the $100, or just double the Iowa rate. Iowa supports her own judiciary, pays her State officers, and defrays all the expenses of local government. In Washington Territory, all these expenses, including the pay of members of the Legislature, are paid by the General Government, and yet despite this advantage, our tax is just double that paid by the people of Iowa. There is no good reason why the tax should be higher here than in Iowa, and if rates are equal to those in Iowa, but business is not as active, the rate of taxation will be reduced.

SMITH AND SHERMAN.—On Saturday evening, about 10 o'clock, a salute in honor of Gen. Davis, was fired in front of the "Star House." A salute followed, when in response to the call of the assembled crowd, Gen. Davis appeared on the balcony and returned thanks for the compliment. The speech was brief but well timed, and at its close three cheers were given for Gen. Davis. Subsequently Gen. Davis was invited to join in a banquet that had been prepared in his honor. The attendance at the banquet included Gen. Davis and staff, and about twenty well known citizens. Mayor McCallip presided at the head of the table, with Gen. Davis on his right, and Dr. Wiggins, U. S. A. on the left. Capt. German was at the foot of the table. After giving full justice to the substantial and luxurious repast provided by Mr. O'Brien, toasts were called for, when in response to a sentiment complimentary to himself, General Davis responded quite at length, and expressed his high appreciation of the honor paid him. He said that on his visit to Walla Walla he had been kindly welcomed by its citizens, and now that it was about to depart he was glad to know that his administration of the Department met with the cordial endorsement of the people. For Walla Walla he would ever entertain kindly feelings, and whenever in his power he would endeavor to further their interests. Other toasts followed, and altogether the occasion was one long to be remembered.

FOR SETTLEMENT CALIFORNIA.—We hear of quite a number of old settlers in this valley who are arranging their business preparatory to leaving for Sonora in California. Among those who are likely to be in this way is the Hon. H. D. Bryant, who expects to start for Los Angeles about September 1st. Mr. O'Bryant was a pioneer settler in Oregon, where he held many positions among them Mayor of Portland, President of the Territorial Council, and other trusts—in all of which he acquitted himself creditably and to the satisfaction of his constituents. Soon after this valley was thrown open to settlement Mr. O'Bryant took up a claim on the Tencher, and from that date to this he has been one of our most influential as well as respectable citizens. On several occasions he has represented this county in the Legislature—the last time in the Council—and we can testify from personal observation that no people ever had a more faithful representative. In a country whose great want is population the loss of any citizen is a misfortune, but when it comes to a representative man like Mr. O'Bryant, the loss is intensified. The cause for the removal of these old settlers is readily understood. They have waited for years and years in the hope that railroad connections would come. They have waited until their patience is worn out, and now in utter desperation they seek some where improvements have kept pace with the times. To those old stand-byes is depressing, and the very nerve that we should strain every nerve to secure railroad connection with the Columbia, and thence a free river to the mountains to the sea. Either this, or we may prepare to see these fair valleys depopulated and this magnificent domain surrendered to the rule of the wild savage.

Growing at Our Railroad.

Our Methodist friends never do anything by halves. The word radical—through—better applies to them than any class or denomination of people we can call to mind. In all their undertakings they are in earnest; no half-way measures; no compromise policy for them. They believe that what is worth doing is worth doing well, and that a man who slight his work is almost, if not actually, an infidel. This thoroughness, or rather, energy, is the secret of the great and wonderful success of their church. As a general rule their ministers are possessed of great courage; fighting and wrestling with the "wicked one" until his Satanic Majesty is frequently compelled to cry out, "In mercy, hold!" This courage was well illustrated on Wednesday evening, the occasion being a concert for the benefit of the church, when one of the visiting Brothers from California, being called upon for an address, undertook to point out our deficiencies, and hinted that if he were to judge by our public enterprises, his estimate of the people of Walla Walla would not be flattering. He was particularly severe on our wooden railroad, and said that a people who could stand that road ought to offer no objection to having wooden hams and wooden nutmegs imposed upon them. Now, this railroad of ours is somewhat like a family quarrel; we can growl at it and fight over it as much as we like, but when an outsider interferes our quarrel assumes altogether another turn; ceasing to growl, we make war upon the trademark of our common property, and, as generally befalls the lot of all intruders upon family jars, he gets badly worsted. Again, if our railroad is a wooden one, it is the only road we have, and, like the man with an incipient hole in his pantleg, we dislike to have our poverty held up to ridicule. The road may not be the best—we are willing to admit that it is not near as good as our ambition would like it—but no one was robbed to build it. It was constructed with honest money, free from the taint of Credit Financier and all other corrupting elements that clutter around the mere pretensions of California. We needed a road, and our means only permitted a wooden one, and, sooner than demand the Government or any innocent bondholders, we in our honest simplicity, went on and constructed just such a road as we could afford. We are sorry it don't find favor in the eyes of our California Brother, but as the money came out of our pockets and not out of his, we know of no reason why he should complain. On serious reflection we think that our Brother will agree with us that the occasion was hardly designed for a family quarrel. Those who were present were to be amused and not to be indignantly abused for their want of enterprise. On such occasions all are supposed to be in a cheerful mood. One enemy to usefulness, however, who is always unwelcome to the friend who speaks his mind. He is a flesh character and out of place in the happy world. He always speaks of your faults, but never mentions your good qualities. He has no sympathy for the shortcomings of his fellow-men. In a different spirit writes the poet:

"In men who man a common will
I find as much of goodness still,
In men who man a common aim,
I find as much of good and kind,
I hesitate to have line
Between the good and the bad line."

DEPARTMENT OF THE BANK OF TAXATION.—In looking over the statutes for 1873, we find that the Legislature amended the charter of the town of Seattle, and almost at the same time amended the charter of Walla Walla city. In both cases the Legislature fixed the rate of taxation to be imposed for municipal purposes. This was right and proper, but what strikes us as strange, is that the rate of taxation for Seattle was fixed at one-fourth of one per cent, whilst for Walla Walla the rate was placed at one-half of one per cent, or just double the rate imposed upon our Seattle neighbors. Now, this difference will appear the more striking when we come to consider the characteristics of the two towns. Seattle is the principal support in the Territory, and as a consequence a large number of seafaring men—always a lawless class—are attracted there, and required to be kept under a strict surveillance. Seattle is also the resort for a large number of men from the different logging camps and milling establishments, who repair there after pay-day, and being for the most part single men, indulge in great license. A population embracing elements of this character necessarily requires an efficient police force. Here at Walla Walla we have the trading centre for an agricultural population, and we are almost entirely exempt from what is known as the "floating class." In all respects our settlement corresponds with what is known as a quiet country town, much such a place as Salem, Oregon; and with this advantage of a quiet, orderly population in our favor, we are required to pay just twice as much for municipal purposes as is paid by a less favored community. The explanation of this difference, we take it, is to be found in the fact that Seattle was represented in the last Legislature by men who were in favor of economy, whilst Walla Walla had men to speak for her whose highest ambition was to see to what extent they could bleed their immediate constituents. Just think of it! Seattle, a seaport town, is run at one-half the tax imposed upon Walla Walla, an interior town and the trading centre of an agricultural population! Look at this picture, and on that!

OPPOSITION.—It is stated that a company, with sufficient capital, has been organized to put a fast freight line in operation on the road between the Dalles and Celilo, and that, in addition, it is the intention of the company to build a steamboat to be run on the upper Columbia, and by the means of the opposition steamboats now running on the Cascade route from a through line from the head of navigation to Portland. It is estimated that a steamboat of capacity sufficient to meet the present wants can be constructed for $15,000 and it is thought the amount can be raised without difficulty. How much truth is in these reports we are unable to say, but as we obtain them from a reliable party we are naturally led to believe that there is something more than mere talk in the rumor.

Town Talk.

Mrs. J. M. Hunt, landlady of the Dayton Hotel, is visiting her friends in town. Several Portland capitalists have recently invested largely in real estate in this city. All the granges in Walla Walla and Umatilla counties are in a flourishing condition. Col. Hoyt, late disbursing Quartermaster at Walla Walla, has been ordered to Fort Vancouver.

The Methodist Conference is in session, and so it is that yellow-legged chickens instinctively roost high. Rev. Mr. Chamberlain is "doing" the Sabbath at the Mt. Hood Mountains, about twenty miles from town. Reporters are having a hard time of it—no murders, no suicides, and no insubordinate rascals—that is, for Walla Walla.

According to the local papers, Mrs. Chamberlain, the spiritualist, met with a very odd reception in Baker City. All quiet at the county jail. The prisoners are afraid to "beat up" lest they might be dragged into service as harvest hands. There is a good demand for harvest hands in Umatilla county, but still the editor of the Pendleton Tribune walls his untanned hide.

On Tuesday a little child four years old, a son of Mr. Bonnet, of Umatilla, was run over by a heavy wagon and very seriously injured. The skating rink is a thing of the past. It was demolished a few days since, the lumber being used in the construction of a mammoth warehouse.

On Tuesday evening Rev. Mr. Van Horn will deliver an address on the subject of Geology and the Bible, as relating to the creation of the world. The Health Committee propose to inspect back-yards and out-houses. Property-holders who do not desire trouble should see that their premises are cleaned. We take pleasure in calling attention to Smith & Wain's advertisement, and really believe their stock not only a pride to the owners, but an acquisition to the community.

There seems as yet no decrease in the gross amount of liquor sold on Sundays, but, on the contrary, it seems that the Sunday law has increased the sale of ardent spirits. A few days since a farmer became enraged at his horse, which he had attached to a plow, and taking a swing-knife from the stable, beat the animal over the head, killing it instantly. Messrs. Paine, Rice & Moore, by order of the War Department, have been released from their horse contract, and the Quartermaster has been ordered to purchase the animals in open market.

An effort is being made to raise money to establish a paper at Dayton. Walla Walla county could support three papers; that is, if they were properly distributed. At present there are too many in one place. It is said that the newspapers are ungenerously large this season. The only satisfaction that we get from this is the hope that the mail men will walk around the back-yards at night and cut up the papers. P. J. O'Connell, Esq., late editor of the Spirit, took his departure on Tuesday for Ohio. Mr. Astor is a young man of great promise, and it is true to himself will one day occupy a high position in the journalistic world. A correspondent writing to the STATESMAN from Portland, among other things, states that Paymaster Sherman is a deserter from the ranks of the 12th Regt., and a court martial has been convened to discuss his case.

Col. Green, commanding the military force operating in the Walla Walla Valley, has been ordered to Portland on emergency duty, and is expected here tomorrow. Col. Whipple, on the departure of Col. Green will assume command of the expedition. The best investment the people of this city can make is a liberal contribution to the Summerville wagon road. With proper management Walla Walla can make the shipping point for Grand Rapids, Baker and Boise. By the Summerville road Walla Walla is nearer those points than Umatilla. Our people should assist this enterprise. General Howard will not assume command of the Department of the Columbia until the first of September. As he will be governed, to a certain extent by the recommendations of General Sherman, and as that officer is favorably impressed with the necessity of maintaining a military force at this point, there need be no fear in relation to the abandonment of Fort Walla Walla.

There is considerable fuss being made about what is termed the Beecher-Eilton scandal, and, to the exclusion of several interesting cases of a similar character, some news is monopolized the attention of our local scandal-mongers. Friends, if you need scandal, you need not go so far away from home to get it. In this, as well as in everything else, it is the duty of all who have the property of the town at heart to patronize home industry. Col. Smith requests the STATESMAN to announce that in no event, and under no combination of circumstances, will he be a candidate for Congress. For forty years he has maintained the reputation of being an honest man, and at this late day, when his character as a first-class boot-black is finally established, he is loathe to be guilty of any act that would lower him in the estimation of his fellow-citizens. Therefore, the Col. insists that his name, in the future, be omitted from the list of Congressional aspirants.

THE SUNDAY OBSCURANCE was again disregarded last Sunday by R. Roy, proprietor of the Bank Exchange. It will be recollected that Mr. Roy was up before the recorder, charged with violating the ordinance. For this offence a fine of $25 was imposed, whereupon an appeal was taken up to the District Court. This appeal is based upon the following provision in the city charter: "A majority of the members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of any business except the final passage of any ordinance which shall require a majority of all the members." At the time of the passage of the Sunday ordinance that three members were present. Of these two voted for the ordinance, and one in the negative. The plain interpretation of the law, as we have quoted it, is that it requires a majority of the whole number of members to pass an ordinance. In this respect the ordinance is deficient, and it is on this question the District Court will have to pass. In the meantime, and until a final decision is rendered, we think it would be well for the parties concerned to keep within the provisions of the ordinance.

FROM THE WALLA WALLA.—Lt. Bonnis, who was compelled to leave the Walla Walla valley expedition on account of a severe attack of sickness returned to the city on Wednesday, and is present, we are pleased to state, convalescing.

W. Alford was laid aside. H. K. Hines' charge was taken up. S. G. Havermale's charge passed. H. C. Caldwell's charge passed. The school question was resumed. Thomas Pearce and Rev. Walter outlined an address on the best class. A Conference proposed to the formation of a Conference Missionary Society. A constitution was adopted and the following officers elected: President, J. H. Wilbur; Vice-President, S. G. Havermale; Secretary, H. B. Lane; Treasurer, H. C. Caldwell; Messengers, Caldwell, Kenady, Kenady were elected as additional members of the Board of Managers. "Oh Lord! Thou knowest," prayed a Connecticut deacon in church meeting, "that I am afflicted with a most impious and depraved son. Thou knowest that he will swear, and lie, and steal, and do all sinful things. Thou knowest that on last Sunday he was seen walking down the principal street in this village, with his hands in his pockets, whistling the following ungodly tune"—And the congregation were astonished to hear "Yankee Doodle" flow melodiously from the deacon's pursed lips. When Bismarck appeared at the Public Gardens in Kissengen after the attempt to assassinate him, there was great enthusiasm among the people, and hearty cheers were given for the German Empire and the allied German Princes.
