Sitting Bull.

Remarkable Career of the Sioux Chief. Sitting Bull's surrender may be said to close one of the most remarkable careers in Indian history.

As a fighter he undoubtedly ranks higher than the Seminoles, Billy Bowlegs, who gave Gen. Scott so many 'trubs' in Florida.

As a diplomatist he heads the Indian list. As a strategist and commander he has earned the title of the Sioux Napoleon.

Here favorable comparisons must end, however. There is nothing in his life that can commend him to civilization.

A savage in the worst sense, he has despised our institutions and seldom missed an opportunity to butcher and mutilate the whites who have fallen into his hands.

committing outrages that have shocked every sense of humanity. A brief review of some of his acts, however, will prove of interest.

Fourteen years ago he was what is known as the blanket Indian on the plains. In 1869 he began to show that bold, defiant spirit and hatred of our race which subsequently placed the nation in mourning.

At that time Gen. Henry A. Morrow was in command of the United States forces at Fort Buford on the Missouri river.

Various depredations were reported in the vicinity of Buford and these were charged to Sitting Bull. The wily Indian denied all knowledge of these matters.

Soon the settlers entered on the campaign of retaliation, and one of Bull's warriors was killed. This he deemed an act of reprisal, and avowed his intention of avenging the death of the Indian.

General Morrow, hearing this, arranged to meet Sitting Bull, and being convinced that in this instance the settlers were wrong; Morrow pacified him by piling presents on the dead, pursuant to Indian usage.

In so doing, however, he created a dangerous enemy. His spirit of independence became known, the bold Indians flocked around him from all quarters, and he soon found himself at the head of the most powerful and most dangerous bands on the plains.

As his band increased in strength, Sitting Bull's arrogance and ferocity became more marked. He refused to live on a reservation, and in due time he camped in a wild part of the country on the Yellowstone river, and claimed all the land along that river and its tributaries.

Early in the year 1875 some settlers from Montana went down the Yellowstone and built a fort on the territory claimed by the Indians. Sitting Bull ordered them to leave. They paid no attention to him, and he sent some men and shot them up in their stockade.

One of Sitting Bull's invaders were killed by the whites; then Sitting Bull retaliated by killing two of the mountaineers. This opened a war which lasted until January, 1875.

Fort Pease, as the settlers called their inclosure, contained only a few whites, against whom 500 Indians were sent. This was complete. For three months the whites kept the Indians at bay, during which period six of their number were killed and nine wounded.

The provisions at Fort Pease gave out and starvation threatened to make short work of the country. The officers were then resolved to send for help, and two of the fort one night under the cover of darkness and succeeded in reaching Fort Pease after a perilous journey on foot on February 20, 1876.

The alarm was given and Gen. Terry, the department commander, immediately set out to relieve them. He was met by the Indians, and three companies of Montana militia and 100 friendly Crow Indians were on the march.

Sitting Bull withdrew before the troops reaching Fort Pease on March 6th, without firing a shot. He declared only a desire to have the country left to the offensive white man. As soon as the white men had been taken away Sitting Bull set fire to and destroyed Fort Pease, then returned to his camp. Immediately on the arrival of the half starved whites at Fort Ellis war was declared against Sitting Bull.

He was ordered to surrender within ten days. He refused to do so, and Gen. Terry and Gibbon, from the departments of the Platte, Dakota and Montana, were sent against him in different directions with heavy columns and instructions to capture or destroy him and his band.

Sitting Bull gathered his warriors on the Rosebud where Gen. Gibbon found him. His camp, which was seven miles long, contained about 8000 men, women and children—the fighting men numbering about 3000.

Gibbon saw unequal a contest he would have to make with his 600 men and kept on the opposite side of the Yellowstone until General Crook was advancing on him from another direction, Sitting Bull gave him battle and checked his advance. He then turned down the Rosebud and waited.

Hearing next that Gen. Custer was coming, he crossed over to the Little Bighorn and there he met Gen. Custer. Here the brave Custer found him, and, as was fully set forth at the time, sacrificed himself and his entire command, rushing into an ambush from which none escaped to relate the history of one of the most bloody and barbarous fights in the history of the United States.

It was here that Sitting Bull secured the reputation of being at once a great commander and a merciless, unmovable savage. From that day to this he has been a fugitive. He escaped to Canada and secured protection and food for a while, but desertions and poverty have at last so far reduced him that he has been forced to sell up to the United States government.

It is, perhaps, well for him that the quality of mercy to be shown him is determined by military instead of civil law.

The Talbot brothers, hung a week ago to-day for murdering their father, were nice boys. Following is a copy of the articles under which they and their partners did business:

MONDAY, October 25, 1880. We, this day of our Lord, 1880, go into contract together, Albert P. Talbot, Charles E. Talbot, Wilford Mitchell, Frank B. Hudson, for the purpose of bank robbery, train robbing, stage robbing and safe, and each one will be sworn into the same, and stay together until death in any attempt to obtain booty, and in case any one betrays any of our men death is his portion at any time their train or bank is robbed.

Anyone on the bond can resign, if he chooses, and if he does resign, he must keep all secrets to himself, or he shall be killed; and there must be an equal division of the booty. Before any train is robbed or anything is done there is one traitor in the gang who must be killed before he can proceed further.

visiting the city would do well to examine his stock. They are of the best quality, for strength and usefulness are among the best in the market.

PLENTY OF SHIPS ON HAND AND COMING.—There are now in the Columbia river 15 wheat vessels, having a registered tonnage of 15,496 cubic to nearly one-half million carrying capacity.

Besides this there are ships due with an aggregate tonnage of 45,000 more. Who says there are not ships enough? It is good for our producers, and we are only too glad to chronicle the fact.

A TALE OF A DONKEY.

James G. Blaine. His Career and Character Reviewed in an English Paper.

In one of a group of four tall houses, built of brown stone and red brick, situated on Fifteenth street, Washington, and bearing the number 821, dwells the American Secretary of State.

With the assurance of meeting with the kindest welcome from a statesman universally known for his hospitality and amiability, and with being entertained by his charming conversation for a few minutes, if the pressing morning duties of the Premier will at all admit it, we stroll along the quiet street, and, arriving at the next doorstep, pull the bell at Mr. Blaine's.

Our cards are taken by a young negro, who, in English undelivered by the slave's jargon of the southern plantation, makes the usual cautious remark that she does not know if Mr. Blaine is at home.

Four large rooms constitute the drawing room suite, the ground floor at Mr. Blaine's. A bow-window on the street adds to the size of the rooms, and affords further scope for the loving ornamentation with which each of these apartments is endowed.

There are many valuable objects here; much rare China on the walls and in cabinets; fine pictures; some good statuary; but the greatest charm of the place is its homelike spirit, which enters the heart of the visitor, and tells him that the Premier and his family specially inhabit these rooms, and keep no corner of their house sacred to the cold ceremony of merely receiving visitors.

Mr. Secretary Blaine's house is inconspicuously the most popular in Washington. On Wednesday afternoons—the days in Washington when, during the session of Congress, the wives of Cabinet ministers and those of foreign ambassadors receive—there is no house in the American capital so crowded.

Whatever the weather, however thin the attendance in other drawing rooms, there is always a throng at Mr. Blaine's. Nor is this due to the importance of his present position as Secretary of State.

It was the same when he was in Congress, whether as member of the House or of the Senate; it was the same when he was in the Senate; it was the same if Mr. Blaine were not in politics. People go there because they like Mr. Blaine and all his family, which consists of his intellectual and ladylike wife, a kinswoman of brilliant reputation in American letters who uses the non-plumbeous 'Gall' Hamilton; and six fine promising children.

Never since the days of the silver-voiced Henry Clay, of Kentucky, has there been a man in the United States whose personal magnetism was so potent as that of Mr. Blaine. The power which Mr. Blaine exercises over men, the unflinching success he enjoys in winning their affection, has been variously attributed to his vigorous physique, his delightful personality, to his earnest face and his splendid physique. But there is a simple explanation. Mr. Blaine's popularity is directly derived from the sweet and unaffected nature of the man, and from the unchanging goodness of his heart.

All those who are attracted to him, whether statesman, and yet a kind, generous and sympathizing friend; to uncountable scores of little people whose acquaintance he has made during the last twenty or thirty years of his life; to maintain a demeanor of perfect dignity at all times, and yet to know how to unbend to each visitor in just the degree necessary to make the latter feel that all "good feelings" in the world, "Blaine of Maine" is the best, demands intellectual talents and moral qualities of the highest order. These talents and these qualities are well known to be the attributes of Mr. Blaine; and they are not doubted by any one whose interests in the political arena are arrayed against his own.

Black to the Rescue. Col. Bob Ingersoll, the great atheist and infidel, has met a foe in at last who is too much for him. This grand warrior in behalf of the christian religion is Hon. Jeremiah S. Black, the great lawyer and former chief justice of Pennsylvania.

When he gets through with the Colonel there won't be much left of Ingersollism. The judge can't be bamboozled, confused or mixed up. Neither the specious reasoning of Ingersoll, his ridicule nor his sarcasm, can upset Judge Black nor lessen the force of his powerful logic.

It is a good thing that the skeptical Colonel has finally fallen into hands that are able to master him and hold up his folly to the gaze of mankind. It is of more weight that this man should be laid out by Judge Black than that he had been assailed by a thousand pulpits, for thousands of people will read the great lawyer who would not be attracted to the preacher.

The mind of Judge Black is peculiarly fitted to overthrow a man like Ing. roll, who would be nothing if he was not an infidel. That is his whole stock in trade—and the advocacy of the equally evil principles of the Republican party. Trying to teach infidelity, for he is holding enough now, the monstrous doctrine that there is no God, no great, overruling, supreme Being—that the world made itself by a natural process of evolution—a doctrine that is repulsive, ridiculous and incomprehensible to the most ordinary mind.

Idle, foolish and idle theories have been completely overturned by Judge Black, and in such a way, too, that any one who reads him will never again think of believing Ingersoll; in fact will only think of him as a lunatic or fool. It was a bad day for Robert when the great judge took up the engine and from that day we may date the downfall of the infidel and his simony.

J. W. SIMONSON, for many years agent of the associated press, has resigned. Simonson, in his peculiar line of business had outlived his usefulness and he should have been retired years ago.

The trumpety dispatches he has sent across the continent for the last decade and the partisan, political and unfair spirit he has shown should have condemned him long since. Under his regime the wires have been prostituted for the basest purposes, and we can only hope that his successor will display a live spirit corresponding with the go-ahead age in which we live.

SEATTLE has an ordinance providing for a prize of $5 to the first team hitched to the engine on an alarm of fire being given. The effect is that their heavy engine is always on hand. Why could not Walla Walla do the same thing. No. 1's engine is altogether too heavy for the limited number of men who attempt to pull her to fires. Let $5 ordinance pass and the steamer will always be on hand.

The Territorial University.

From the annual register of the university of Washington territory for 1880-81 the following items have been selected:

BOARD OF REGENTS. Hon. H. G. Struve, president; Hon. O. Jacobs, treasurer; Hon. Jas. Powell, Hon. G. A. Weed, M. D., and J. P. Johnson.

FACTORY. A. J. Anderson, A. M., president and professor of mental philosophy, mathematics and theory and practice of teaching; Mrs. Louisa P. Anderson, professor of botany, zoology and reading; Frank P. Gilman, professor of chemistry, physics and geology; Miss Mattie L. Hanse, preceptress and teacher of common English branches, history and Latin; Louis F. Anderson, librarian and teacher of Latin and Greek; E. Steinhilber, professor of German; J. J. Anderson, jr., teacher of penmanship and surveying; Miss Minnie Spurling, teacher of painting and drawing; Professor Steinhilber and Mrs. Curtis, teacher of instrumental music; W. H. Davies, teacher of telegraphy; and ———, teacher of vocal music.

The World's Harvest.

The world seems destined to reap but sparingly this year. The reports from different portions of this country are so uniformly unfavorable that we can not expect any such harvests as those of the last two or three years.

Taking all kinds of grain, and averaging the crops and consumption of the past ten years, Austria produces 500,000,000 bushels a year, and consumes 530,000,000 bushels, leaving a surplus of 30,000,000 bushels.

The Price of Wheat.

With a bountiful harvest our farmers have the additional encouragement of probable good prices for their wheat. This last arises from several causes, principally among which is the extra quality of this year's grain and the arrival in San Francisco of a large fleet of ships brought thither by the high freights and charters of a year ago.

Clean Wheat.

By the past few years of low prices for grain we presume that our farmers have already experienced the fact that wheat speculators are more than ready to jump at any excuse to pull down the market rates.

It is well known that Conkling declined the tender of the chief justiceship made by President Grant, but it is a revelation, if true, that the real reason was the disability of the appointee.

From a scared Portland paper we gather that it is rumored that the steamship Mississippi now on her way brings $20,000 dollars worth of printing material for the O. R. & N. Co., wherewith the latter will start a newspaper.

ORCHARD GRASS.—A valuable grass which is coming into favor for pasturage is orchard grass. It is as yet but little known—not one farmer in twenty probably having ever seen it; but those who have tried it say that for permanent pasture it cannot be equalled.

THE STOCK REPORT remarks that it is seldom that the democratic press bothers itself about religious matters, but just at present it seems to have very serious doubts about what prayer is efficacious.

GEN. GIBBON, of Big Hole fame, is today visiting the scene of his terrible battle. The editor of the STATESMAN, then a war correspondent, scout and courier, feels proud of the fact that he was one of the few who rode with Howard to his relief.

THE PORTLAND Standard is unique in journalism; in no other paper in the northwest, or in fact on the slope, is the Sheik of a male so beautifully grafted on the stability of a jockey.

NOT AGRICULTURE.—The St. Paul Pioneer Press says that there is nothing known of the true character of the intention of running a line of steamers to China and Japan.

Portland Correspondence.

PORTLAND, Aug. 9th, 1881. EDITOR STATESMAN: Dear Sir:—Deeming your many readers will be pleased to peruse an occasional correspondence from the chief city of the northwest I appeal the following as an initiatory of a series that will follow at regular intervals.

The first races given under the auspices of the Northwestern District Association, proved a great financial success, and the stockholders are in consequence highly elated. Everybody that is anybody here was talking nothing but horse, dwelling upon the fine points of their favorites, and elevating the weak points of all others.

POLITICAL PROBABILITIES.

The recent majority question has opened afresh; the bad feeling that has existed for some time in the republican camp, and the two factions are now engaged in a bit war, the continuation of which cannot result otherwise than in the election of two democratic successors to Grover and Slater.

The Geneva Precedent.

The time has come for this country to practice what it preached at Geneva when it was demanding compensation from England for losses inflicted by the Alabama, Florida and Shenandoah. It is true that Ireland is not in a state of insurrection, or war with England, but that does not affect the principle which we asserted at Geneva, and insisted on England's acknowledging, should govern the conduct of any nation when individuals seek to use it as a base of operations against the government or people of another nation.

STATE FAIR.

Our last fair was not what might be termed a success, but on the contrary might be considered as the beginning of the end. Salem has long enjoyed the privilege of these fairs, and until the last year was the last ever held here.

MILES SCHWATKA.

These distinguished officers arrived on the last trip of the Columbia. An formal reception was tendered the General at the parlors of the Esmond Hotel. A large number of citizens shook the hand of so distinguished and successful a soldier. With all due respect to the late commander we can not but state that the department of the Columbia has been highly honored by the appointment to its command of Brigadier General Miles.

MECHANICS' FAIR.

While the state fair is on the decrease the mechanics' fair is steadily pushing its way to a similar position that the San exhibition fair has achieved. The coming of the last was the last ever held here. The management made a wise move in securing the Walla Walla cavalry band, having no equal this side of the Rockies, and are making every effort that money can be towards making it a success.

The Dirty Pool of Politics.

City politics took a new and unexpected turn this evening. Before opening the Yosemite Democratic convention ex-Senator Tim McCarthy accused Mr. Devin, one of the proprietors of the Examiner, charging him with treachery in selling out the party and emphasizing his remarks by flourishing a big walking stick. In calling the convention a joint note was received from the Democratic Walla Walla Valley, so would not be surprised if the report had more than ordinary foundation.

On the Use of the Pistol.

The Chicago Times asks: "What sort of a community is it where the murderer is ever busy and the hangman forever idle? Whose fault is it? The law's, the state's attorney's, the police's—whose, that this is the case? Killing is growing mightily common in the streets of Chicago. Police officers are shot down, and it isn't known who does the work. When it is known, what difference does it make? Kill, kill, kill is the order in Chicago. Not a week passes that there is not a murder within the limits of the city, but does anyone ever hear of the scoundrels being hung now and then? Arrests are made sometimes, indeed generally, especially when the murderer great himself up. What then, but a little boarding in the jail for the benefit of the sheriff, a trial, possibly, an acquittal sometimes; in the long run generally an escape. It's a long time since anyone was hung in Chicago for murder. But it isn't a long time since anyone was murdered. Years and years mark the interval between the putting up of the gallows, but the murderous revolver is constantly hot. Why does crime flourish in this community—one which is supposed to be intelligent, progressive, law-abiding? Is not one reason the uncertain and unsteady of punishment? Is there not laziness in the prosecution, indifference in the court, uncertainty in the law? And while the murderer can pop and pop and feel certain that any shrewd shyster will not bring him successfully off, won't he continue his engaging pursuit upon the slightest provocation? Give the hangman something to do. It may not be the most effective deterrent, but it will dispose of fellows who, not fit themselves to live, have gone about killing other people. Re-erect the gallows. Stop the too much killing in Chicago. The murderers are running riot. It will soon be every man's daily task to look after the integrity of his throat and viscera. The man who carries a revolver is nine times in ten, may, eleven times in ten, an ardent coward or a reckless brute. Stop the pistol carrying. Stop the murdering. Bring on the hangman."

FOREIGN.

Spain.

FERROL, CORUNIA, Aug. 10.—A correspondent telegraphs this evening that the King and Queen of Spain arrived safely at Ferrol, and were received with much enthusiasm. Here is the bay of Belazona where one-half the actual army of Spain now lies. The authorities present the steamer, quays and vessels so as to give the best possible idea of the state of the bay. A large force of Royal marines and chasseurs lined the streets and naval yards and the guns in the forts (some of them) were fired when the flag ship appeared at the head of the harbor again; then, according to the old established custom, the Governor of Ferrol handed the King the keys of the fortress.

A Sup For Cerebus.

LONDON, August 10.—It is stated that Gladstone gave a dinner to-night to a number of Irish members who have supported the government in connection with the land bill. Over one hundred, liberals have returned to-night for the purpose of supporting the government and resisting material amendments in the House of Lords to the bill.

Medical Congress.

The seventh international medical congress closed to-day and the members dispersed after a grand banquet at the Crystal Palace to-night. A heavy rain yesterday caused much disappointment to the members of the congress especially to the Americans and Canadian delegates who had been invited to attend the Banquet Burdette Counts' garden party at Holly Lodge, Highgate, one of the most beautiful residences of the northern heights above London; in spite of the rain, however, over 1000 delegates with their wives made the pilgrimage, but were deterred by the rain from enjoying the beautiful parks, and were received in one of the long conservatories. The American husband paid special attention to the United States and Canadian delegates.

The Dirty Pool of Politics.

City politics took a new and unexpected turn this evening. Before opening the Yosemite Democratic convention ex-Senator Tim McCarthy accused Mr. Devin, one of the proprietors of the Examiner, charging him with treachery in selling out the party and emphasizing his remarks by flourishing a big walking stick. In calling the convention a joint note was received from the Democratic Walla Walla Valley, so would not be surprised if the report had more than ordinary foundation.

On the Use of the Pistol.

The Chicago Times asks: "What sort of a community is it where the murderer is ever busy and the hangman forever idle? Whose fault is it? The law's, the state's attorney's, the police's—whose, that this is the case? Killing is growing mightily common in the streets of Chicago. Police officers are shot down, and it isn't known who does the work. When it is known, what difference does it make? Kill, kill, kill is the order in Chicago. Not a week passes that there is not a murder within the limits of the city, but does anyone ever hear of the scoundrels being hung now and then? Arrests are made sometimes, indeed generally, especially when the murderer great himself up. What then, but a little boarding in the jail for the benefit of the sheriff, a trial, possibly, an acquittal sometimes; in the long run generally an escape. It's a long time since anyone was hung in Chicago for murder. But it isn't a long time since anyone was murdered. Years and years mark the interval between the putting up of the gallows, but the murderous revolver is constantly hot. Why does crime flourish in this community—one which is supposed to be intelligent, progressive, law-abiding? Is not one reason the uncertain and unsteady of punishment? Is there not laziness in the prosecution, indifference in the court, uncertainty in the law? And while the murderer can pop and pop and feel certain that any shrewd shyster will not bring him successfully off, won't he continue his engaging pursuit upon the slightest provocation? Give the hangman something to do. It may not be the most effective deterrent, but it will dispose of fellows who, not fit themselves to live, have gone about killing other people. Re-erect the gallows. Stop the too much killing in Chicago. The murderers are running riot. It will soon be every man's daily task to look after the integrity of his throat and viscera. The man who carries a revolver is nine times in ten, may, eleven times in ten, an ardent coward or a reckless brute. Stop the pistol carrying. Stop the murdering. Bring on the hangman."

FOREIGN.

Spain.

FERROL, CORUNIA, Aug. 10.—A correspondent telegraphs this evening that the King and Queen of Spain arrived safely at Ferrol, and were received with much enthusiasm. Here is the bay of Belazona where one-half the actual army of Spain now lies. The authorities present the steamer, quays and vessels so as to give the best possible idea of the state of the bay. A large force of Royal marines and chasseurs lined the streets and naval yards and the guns in the forts (some of them) were fired when the flag ship appeared at the head of the harbor again; then, according to the old established custom, the Governor of Ferrol handed the King the keys of the fortress.

A Sup For Cerebus.

LONDON, August 10.—It is stated that Gladstone gave a dinner to-night to a number of Irish members who have supported the government in connection with the land bill. Over one hundred, liberals have returned to-night for the purpose of supporting the government and resisting material amendments in the House of Lords to the bill.

RAILWAY INCORPORATION.

The Spokane Falls and Columbia River Navigation Company.

Last week, says the Spokane Chronicle, there were filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory and with the auditor of Spokane county, articles of the incorporation of the Spokane Falls and Columbia River Railway and Navigation Company.

The company, through the employment of a practical engineer, and a gentleman whose judgment in such matters can be relied upon, has made a thorough investigation of the country through which the road is to pass, the resources of the country beyond that and the probable cost of the road.

Timber of the finest quality, coal and iron, are found along the margins of this lake. To the west of the Columbia there is a vast stretch of rolling grass country, that in beauty, in an agricultural sense, compares favorably with any in the northwest, and is an empire in extent.

ANNOYING.—Our Justices of the Peace have been charged with not taking into consideration the annoyances many men have been subjected to when brought before them for examination for trial or so called assaults.

POSTPONED.—The Chronicle says: The excursion from Dayton to Walla Walla, which was advertised to take place last Wednesday, was by order of Mr. Buckley, indefinitely postponed.

AS EXPLORING EXPEDITION.—Messrs. Brewer, Robt. Stott, F. J. Parker and one or two others have in contemplation an expedition to explore the wild country between the Wallawa and Eagle Valleys in Eastern Oregon.

PENDLETON PICKER.

Our Weekly Hatch from "Doss," the Statesman's News Gatherer.

Pendleton had a lull for a few days after the railroad hands left, but the spell was broken yesterday on account of the demolition of the "Royal Anger," kept by the notorious Delia Neville, with "Butch" as chief manager of "Destruction."

Building going on as rapidly as amount of hands to be had will permit. There is lots of work but no side hands. Brick layers would strike a bonus here. Weather warm as Hades, Young Halley is now assistant editor of the East Oregonian.

Sheriff's Sale of Real Estate. By virtue of an execution issued out of the District Court of the Territory of Washington and for the First Judicial District holding terms at Walla Walla, Walla Walla county in said Territory, and to me directed and delivered for a judgment rendered in said court on the 5th day of January, A. D. 1881, in favor of E. A. Harvey and C. H. Wood, plaintiffs, and against James Moore, and John Moore, defendants, for the sum of three hundred and thirty dollars, with interest, at the rate of one per cent, per month, from August 1st 1879, and forty ($40) dollars, attorney's fees, and costs of suit, I have levied upon the following described real estate, to-wit: The north half of the NE 1/4 and the NE 1/4 of the NW 1/4 of Sec. 22, T. 8, N. R. 36 east, situated lying and being in the Territory of Washington, Washington Territory. Notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 8th day of August, A. D. 1881, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M. of said day, I will sell all the right, title and interest of said defendants James Moore and John Moore, in and to the above described real estate, at the public house, in the city and county of Walla Walla, Washington Territory, at public auction to the highest bidder to satisfy said execution and all costs. Given under my hand this 8th day of July A. D. 1881.

MISCELLANEOUS ADVERTISEMENTS. OFFICE OF THE PACIFIC MUTUAL Life Insurance Company, OF CALIFORNIA.

A. MC KINNIE, Manager for Oregon Washington and Idaho. To our Policy Holders and the General Public of Oregon and Washington Territory:

The first consideration with applicants for Life Insurance is, or at least should be, safety. Will the money paid out for the policy be prudently invested? Are the affairs of the company honestly and efficiently administered? When the policy becomes a claim, will it be promptly paid, and thus the object which induced the payment of premiums be fully attained? These are queries naturally suggested, and the character of the answers determine the course of the questioner and the selection of his company.

In this connection the managers of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company respectfully beg leave to submit the following facts and statements concerning the company:

1. Since its organization, A. D. 1868, it has paid 367 death losses, on policies amounting in the aggregate to $855,198.

2. It has paid to policy holders, for matured endowments, dividends and surrender values, in round numbers, $1,000,000.

3. It has repeatedly been examined by sworn experts, and most thorough and searching investigations made of its condition and business, and in every case its solvency and trustworthiness have been demonstrated.

4. Its stockholders and directors are widely known among the most capable business men and able financiers of the state of California, and the integrity of their management is unquestioned.

5. The laws of the state, including the constitutional provisions affecting corporations, are of the most rigid character, such as to make the company one of the safest institutions of its kind.

Section 3, Article XII of the new constitution of the state of California is as follows: "Each stockholder of a corporation or joint stock association shall be individually and personally liable for such proportion of all its debts and liabilities contracted or incurred during the time he was a stockholder, as the amount of stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation or association. The directors or trustees of corporations and joint stock associations shall be jointly and severally liable to the creditors and stockholders for all moneys embezzled or misappropriated by the officers of such corporation or joint stock association during the term of office of such director or trustee."

Believing ourselves entitled to the confidence and business of such as propose effecting insurance upon human life, we solicit their patronage and pledge ourselves to discharge to the best of our ability the duties of the position of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company.

The Pacific Mutual is the only Life Insurance Company loaning money upon real estate on the Pacific Coast.

It has loaned more than $2,000,000 upon approved real estate to citizens of this coast, thus materially aiding in the development of the natural resources of this country, and affording palpable and indisputable evidence of financial strength.

A considerable portion of the sum mentioned has been loaned in Oregon and Washington Territory, and still further sums are being loaned there.

The following is a list of death losses paid in Oregon and Washington Territory, together with amount of premiums paid in each case:

CERTIFICATE OF ORGANIZATION: CAPITAL, ASSETS AND LIABILITIES OF A COMPANY OF THIS STATE: OFFICE OF INSURANCE COMMISSIONER.

I, J. C. MAYNARD, hereby certify that I am the Insurance Commissioner of the State of California, and have supervision of insurance business in the State, and as such commissioner further certify that the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California is a corporation properly organized under the laws of this State, and possessed of a paid up capital of $1,000,000 equal to full coin of the United States, is authorized to do business in the State, and I further certify that, upon the examination of the books and papers of said company, at the close of the year 1880, it was shown to be possessed of good valid assets, amounting to the sum of $1,179,285 06 and has outstanding liabilities, as defined by the laws of the State amounting to eight hundred and thirty-eight thousand two hundred and thirty-seven ($838,237) exclusive of capital stock. As witness my hand and official seal the day and year above written.

By M. M. RHORER, Deputy.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, held last evening, the following resolutions were adopted by unanimous vote:

Resolved, That the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California has been promptly and justly in all its dealings with the individual members thereof.

Resolved, That the members of the board regard the statements as to the solvency of said company and integrity of its officers recently circulated in this community by agents of rival companies as utterly false and malicious.

Resolved, That we recommend the Pacific Mutual to the people of the Pacific Coast as the best company to be insured in.

Resolved, That we request in Mr. A. McKinnie, the manager of said company for Oregon and Washington Territory, an able, energetic and courteous and thoroughly reliable officer to handle the business of the company in this department cannot fail to prosper.

Resolved, That this Board will heartily co-operate in the work of increasing the business of said company and maintaining its prestige in Washington Territory.

Resolved, That we request the members of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, who are in California, to be prompt in their payments.
