Said one whose lips were touched with living fire,

"Which leads to fortune." It is true, but then Each life has tide-marks whence the waves retire.

We take the waters as they rise, and float, Hope for a guide across a stormy sea;
Each dancing wave that rocks our little boat, Brings nearer to the port wherew could be. Some gain the heaven that their spirits crave, The tide may ebb, but they abide secure;
While some are strained by the highest wave, On barren beach, with bleeding wounds pass cure,

Cure,
The tide ebbs out that bore them,
And leaves them wounded, lone and desolate.
I have been stranded thus, my boat set out,
Freighted with hope and love, to cross life's sea, But waves have washed my precious cargo out, And winds have shattered both my boat and me I had not skill enough to guide the boat,

I had not skill enough to guide the boat,
I had not strength to use the oar;
So all my treasures on the water float,
And I am stranded on a barren shore,
I cannot lay the blame on wind or wave;
I might have journeyed safe with thought and care,
But I have lost the hope that made me brave,
Cast off the love once holy as a prayer.
The tide ebbs out and leaves me to my fate,
Weary and wounded, sad and desolate.

Shooting at Bats.

Recently a number of crack shots went out to the Emmet Guard range, and in-dulged in a new variety of sport—bat-shooting. The bats are thrown up in the air by a person who wears thick buckskin gloves. They can also be sprung from a trap. Those who have tried both hand trap. and trap say that hand-throwing is more hen professionally effective, and saves considerable time.

The bats used were the first ever shot at in Nevada under the regular pigeonshooting rules. About two hundred were received by express from Sacramento, where they are found in great numbers in old barns and sheds, and are caught by boys in nets. The novelty of the sport attracted quite a crowd of pigeon shooters, who as first did not take very kindly to the innovation, but before the sport was over they all expressed themselves quite pleased with it.

The bats were thrown up at a twentyone yard rise, and some of the most ex-perienced pigeon-shots found considerable difficulty in hitting them. Each bat was thrown to a height of about thirty feet, when he would spread his wings and go through a series of evolutions which rather bewild red the shooters. The course taken by the bat consists of a number of sharp zigzag movements, as if he was going somewhere in a devil of a hurry and changed his mind about forty times in three seconds. At the end of three seconds he is generally about where he start-ed from. Then he calls in his scattered ed from. Then he calls in his scattered senses and shoots off in a straight line for the nearest building. Now comes the shooter's golden opportunity, and if he bangs away at the bat he generally brings him down (if he aims well.) Most men, a specialty. Leans Negotiated. or ten shots retired, amid the laughter of the crowd. About half of the bats got away. The sport wound up by throwing a box of twenty bats in the air, and allowing the crowd to bang away at will. James Summer took the box, and, pulling off the lid, threw the box about twenty-five feet in the air and ran for his life. About twenty guns were immediately brought to bear, and a succession of stunning reports followed. The bats seemed utterly frightened out of their senses, and some flew into the crowd. After the smoke cleared away the sports began to look for the dead but reported "nary bat." This was adto be the best shot-dodging done since Melone and Slack's famous duel on

A PENIAN'S PLICET.

Story of the Escape and Adventures of John Boyle O'Reilly.

In the last issue of The Boston Pilot, John Boyle O'Reilly, its editor, gives the first correct story of his escape from the penal colony of West Australia, to which he was consigned as a Fenian some ten years ago. The story is as follows:

"For several months previous to the date of my escape, I had been resolved on and in preparation for an attempt. No one knew my mind. I had before seen so many fail that I concluded it was best to make the attempt alone. Fortunately I was dissuaded from this purpose. One day I was visited at the camp of the convict road party named above by Rev. Patrick McCabe, a Catholic priest, whose 'parish' extended over hundreds of miles of his extended over hundreds of miles of the Maguire had brought, was sent to a hill to look out for the sailing of the Vigilant. At about 1 o'clock he came down at a run and reported the vessel, under full sail, steering north. We ran the boat through the surf and pulled out with light hearts. All efforts to attract the attention of the Vigilant failed, and at last the party put back to land, where O'Reilly passed the might in constant anxiety.

"Next morning, having made the boat watertight with paper bark, I went to sea in this craft, towing over the stern sufficient food to last me for some days. She was light and easily pulled. Before night I had possed the headland and was on the Indian ocean. I knew there was a current going northward. Next morning I gave up pulling and said down to watch, and wait. It ou the roads, but had charge of their stores and carried the warden's weekly report to the Bunbury depot. On my way with this report one day I came to a plain known as the 'Race Course.' As I crossed it I heard a the 'Race Course.' As I crossed i 'coo-ee,' or bush cry, and saw a man coming toward me. He was a big, handsome fellow, with an axe on his shoulder. He came low, with an axe on his shoulder. He came to me with a friendly smile. 'My name is Maguire,' he said; 'I'm a friend of Father Mae's, and he's been speaking about you.' I said as little as possible, not knowing the man. Seeing my hesitation he drew out a card from his wallet, on which Father Mechale had written a few works to me. Then Cabe had written a few words to me. Then I trusted him. He told me he was clearing the race course, and he would be at work there a month. The American whalers, he said, would touch at Bunbury for water in February (it was then December), and he was going to make all arrangements with one of the captains for my escape."

THE PLAN.

"Early in February, on my return from the weekly trip with the report, I found Maguire at the race course, waiting for me.

'Are you ready?' he said. One of the whalers, the bark Vigilant of New Bedford, was to sail in four days, and Captain Baker had agreed to take me on board, if he saw me at sea, outside Australian waters, and he had even promised to cruise two or three days

On the might of the 1Sth I was to get out of my hut at 8 o'clock, and strike into a bush on a line of his selection, where the native trackers would be at fault. I had previously secured a pair of freeman's shoes, as the trackers could easily discern the mark of a convict's boot. Having left the camp, I was to hold a straight course through the bush till I came to an old convict station on the Vasse road, where I was to lie till I heard some on the road whistle the first bar of 'Pat-and some one on board shouled my name,

We then formed in Indian file, to prevent the discovery of the number, each one covering the other's tracks, and walked ou for about another mile, till we came to a dry swamp

When the sun rose we were well out, and could just see the tops of the sand hills. We were crossing Geographe bay, on a straight line of about forty miles in length. We were to lie in wait for the Vigilant, on the farther shore, and cut her off as she passed the northern head of the bay. We pulled the northern head of the bay. We pulled strongly till the forenoon was closing. We had neither water nor feed; I don't know whether the arrangements for a supply had failed, or had been wholly forgotten. But I had eaten nothing from noon of the previous day, and I began to suffer dreadfully from thirst. It was almost noon when we ran the boat through the surf and beached her. In doing so our clothes were drenched with sea water, and I felt instant relief from thirst. I tried this afterward with good effect, except that it made the skin sore.

OFF AT LAST. "After that I left the sand valley no more. I wanted to sleep all the time, and there was no one to disturb me. In five days more I was thoroughly wakened, however, by the cheery voice of my friend Maguire, and with him came M—, who said he was resolved to see me through this time. Maguire brought me a brief letter from Father McCabe, asking me to remember him. The whalers were to sail next day, and Capt. Gifford of the Gazelle of New Bedford had agreed to take me off. To make it sure, Father McCabe had paid him 10£ to take me as far as Java.

"But there was one drawback. A criminal convict, one of the worst characters in the colony, a ticket-of-leave man, named Martin Bowman, of Beaumont, had discovered the means of my escape, and had gone to Maguire and threatened to put the police on the track unless he was taken off, too. Maguire could not dissent, so here was the scoundrel cooly looking at us and saying

HISTORY OF YELLOW FEVER. -The his tory of yellow fever in this country shows that it has hardly been the exception when the fever appeared as an epidemic the year following an epidemic. In 1842, there were 2259 deaths in New Orleans and 850 in 1848, and 737 in 1849. In 1853 there were 7970 deaths in the same city, and there were 2423 deaths in 1854 and 2670 in 1855. In 1858 there were 1867 there were 3093 deaths, and none the following year. In the same proportions the fever appeared in the smaller those years. In 1848, when it reappeared in New Orleans, it came in June, while the epidemic of 1847 began in August. The great epidemic of 1853 began in May and the epidemic of the year following came in July, and the next year in June The epidemic in North Carolina in 1862 was followed in 1864, two years afterward by one of increased mortality, but not in the same cities and towns as a general thing. In 1797 Philadelphia's death list was 1300; in 1798, 3500; and in 1799 there were 1000 deaths. So it was in 1802 three-fifths when Philadelphia next had the fever as an epidemic. In South Carolina it has been almost invariably the case that the second year brought an epidemic. Memphis, and all other points which were infected in 1873 escaped the second year. In that year the fever began at Shreveport first, and did not come until the latter part of August, rea Memphis September 14th. August has been the favorite month for its inception. Last year it began near the first of that month in the south.

"This is not the teaching of Christ," said Joseph B. Buzzell, on Thursday, a minute or two before he was hanged. We suppose he referred to the scaffold, the noose, and the hangman waiting to take his life. Was Buzzell right or wrong in this criticism? There are many thousands of Christiaus—good, bad and indifferent—in New Hamphire. Let them think the matter over.

He died in 1877, and for some time previous he had been in negotiation for the Cerro de Pasco silver mines. Pardo played fast and loose, using all the ability he had as master of the art of double-dealing to annoy Meiggs until he dropped into his grave. He was killed by Pardo as certainly as Pardo was stopped afterwards by the bullet of his stopped afterwards by the bullet of his importance, and he could manage them better than any one else.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE STATESMAN. Being desirous to pay the debts against the estate of Wm. H. Newell, deceased, I respectfully ask an early settlement. MRS. WM. H. NEWELL.

Samuel J. Tilden.

On reading the articles recently published in the New York Herald on S. J. Tilden, a man of sense who looks beneath the surface of things, reasonably jumps to the conclusion that the articles are not to be taken at once, but are intended to be a subject of research and thought. in allowing his name to be used as a candidate for the presidency, will be the ruin of the prospects of the party at the next presidential election. The general opinion s that the Herald is not in earnest, but as an independent paper, must, as a matter of policy, show no prejudice in favor of any one man. The Herald is a power in the land, and in this instance uses that power in a manner calculated on the surface to injure Tilden's prospects, but in reality will ultimately greatly redound to his advantage. That Tilden will be the next nominee is almost a foregone conclusion. The people know that he was swindled out of the presidency by the greatest fraud in the annals of our history. They want him and will have no other man. This is the natural consequence that will always ensue when the American people even suspect that a man no matter who he is, has been victimized by fraud and audacity on the part of open enemies, and of the worst tr achery and cowardine on the part of these he held. This is the natural consequence and cowardice on the part of those he had 1880. The situation is fast getting very interesting; it is to be noticed that while on the republican side every prominent man has his friends who are endeavoring by every possible means to get up a "boom" in his name, the democratic party has narrowed down to only two andidates in the persons of Tilden and Hancock. The latter is a soldier, and has a very good chance for the position he inclines unto, but his time is not yet come. It is already an acknowledged fact that without Tilden the great state of New York cannot be carried by the democrats. Tilden knows his power, and if he does not use it on the next occasion deserves defeat ever after. No matter R. track is laid to the mouth of Dry creek who the men are that are being placed in who the men are that are being placed in the front by treacherous democrats, they pleted, so that I can travel as a true Bohemian. Tilden is alive. He allows them to go on and amuse themselves in their own way, and knows all their plans before they are even thoroughly aware of it themselves, in placing these men prematurely before the public, the instigators reckon without their host. The sentiment in favor of Tilden is overwhelming, and politicians who cannot conceive the quiet manifestations are fools who deserve reproach and try ar

ANOTHER "BOOMER." Our territory have to thank Mr. Hayes, the white house inter-loper, for his kindness in sending out to us recently been exposed by the Oregonian, and proved that he is the man for the place for he has been doing a "land office business." He left Kansas to accept the berth offered him at Vancouver, and left his poor wife and children perfectly destitute, and thought he was only following the fashion of the Pacific slope by marrying another woman. He in-formed his wife in one of his letters that the people here are "ya hoos," and that "in about one hundred years or so the country might amount to something." He appeared to have congressional aspirations too, for he asked his wife if she would return with him when he came back as delegate to congress. Altogether he is one of the crowd we must put up with until Tilden is installed in his proper place in 1880. Until then it will be no use for us to make a juss for we are told no use for us to make a fuss, for we are told we must "grin and bear it."

a Waterloo defeat.

To FARMERS. -Our farmers will make money by remembering that they cannot market their wheat if they mix the bad with the good. They must be kept separate. This year the very closest inspection will be given to grain effect of or sale, and buyers will take probabilities. will take no chances in the matter. Portland wheat merchants are notifiying local dealers and farmers that any wheat sent to them that is not exactly what it is represented to be will be thrown back on the producers hands. It is a matter of the greatest imporhat care and judgment should be ercised, both as a source of profit to the farmer, and for the eredit of our valleys. A recent trip over the valley demonstrated very satisfactorily that while in the major-ity of cases, the wheat being thrashed is as ity of cases, the wheat being thrashed is as clean as it can possibly be; there are a very few large fields that are so mixed up that it is almost impossible to tell what grain will give the largest yield, for wheat, oats, rye, barley and grass are so mixed up. It is these solitary slovenly methods of farming that bring discredit on our more energetic farmers, and a solitary instance of poor grain being shipped is eagerly seized upon by being shipped is eagerly seized upon by buyers below, and they point to a solitary exception to prove the rule.

THERE is a tradition at Washington that once upon a time an order known as the civil-service order was promulgated by Mr. Hayes. It is more than a tradition—there cumentary evidence to the fact, much as an incredulous public in the light of later developments may be inclined to doubt it. This order, of which there is scarcely a memory left, and which Mr. Hayes was long ago compelled to swallow, was issued on the ago compelled to swallow, was issued on the 22d of June, 1877, and among other things recites that "no assessment for political purposes on officers or subordinates should be allowed."

It is a newsy, lively paper devoted to the interests of the community. We wish it every success. Whack us down for an X, and the Lord be with you.

THE CONKLING BOOM. -Ex-Gov. Sprague THE CONKLING BOOM.—Ex-Gov. Sprague, of Rhode Island, gave the Conkling boom its first impetus by drawing a pistol on the New York senator and ordering him to leave his house. Conkling lost very little precious time in obeying the behest, and it is very probable that, in so doing heat least carried out his extended threat and made "the greatest effort of his life." There is a big scandal mixed up with the affair, of which the world will very soon be enlightened.

THE remark comes from good authority that Jeff Davis is old, bent and feeble with age. Under this state of affairs it might perhaps be safe to reduce the army.

St. Mary's Hospital.

The work on this building is now progressing rapidly, and except something unexpected occurs the hospital will be ready to receive patients by the 1st of November next. The building is of brick, will be hard finished. finished, is 45x60 and will be three stories high. Neither cost nor attention will be spared to place St. Mary's amongst the first institutions of the kind on the Pacific coast It is no mercenary motive that moves the sisters to found this new asylum for the mit, the present interests and requirements of the people really call for such an institu-tion. By this we do not insinuate that the climate of our valley is calculated to bring patronage to the hospital, but the rapid growth of our population, the vast extent of country over which it is scattered, and our great distance from any thoroughly organized hospital, where proper nursing can be had and a choice of medical aid always at hand, all combine to show that a good hos-pital at present becomes a necessary item in the development of the country and welfare of the people.

Now, when the sisters set on foot a work of charity and benevolence, let it be remembered that they do not confine it to certain creeds and nationalities, but extend it without distinction to all. Acting therefore on this broad christian principle of "charity to all," the St. Mary's hospital will be open to the sick of every gread sol, and hat it elits.

Now such an institution must necessarily cost a large sum of money, and the writer of these lines is convinced that the sisters have hardly a dollar of their own to purchase the first brick. Columbia River Annual Conference.—
This body convened in this city on Thursday, August 7th, and adjourned August 12th. Bishop Gilbert Haven, presided; William G. Simpson was elected secretary. For the short time that this conference has existed, this being its 6th session, it has made long strides embracing a very large territory with over 30 ministers, and about 50 charges and circuits. Rev. D. G. Strong, presiding elder of the Walla Walla district, was, after a warm contest, elected delegate to the general Conference meeting in Cincinnati, Ohio, next May. The Conference has under its care and patronage, two educational institutes. On Sabbath morning Bishop Haven preached a sermon of power, a sermon of historic interest, and wealthy in grand thought. One feature of the Sabbath services, was the raising of $2000, which with a sum provided for by Rev. D. G. Strong, meets the debt upon the beautiful church edifice belongifig to the M. A New Bishop.—The Very Rev. Father Yunger, Vicar General of the diocese of Nesqually, has been appointed bishop vice the Rt. Rev. Bishop A. M. A. Blanchet, resigned. Father Yunger came to this country in 1861, and was the first missionary priest stationed at Walla Walla. At that time everything was new here, not only to the new missionary who had just then left an elegant and refined home on the Rhine, but to every one else, as this country had then been only about two years thrown open to settlement. Under these cir cumstances and with what the Oro Fino mining excitement brought along, the reverend gentleman experienced rather a rough and precarious subsistence, which early experience, we have no doubt, will ever remain green in his Lordship's recollections, Father Yunger is a pious and zealous priest, and a good man, who has endeared himself to every one by his uniform sincerity and goodness. We wish Bishop Yunger many, very many years of usefulness in his high station.

E. Oppenheimer gave us a call on Thursday.
It is a great source of satisfaction to know that he is now so prosperous, but we knew each other when we were all very poor.

Col. Parnell, one of the bravest and most gallant officers in the service is now at the Fort. He will take command of Perry's com-pany, who are said to be ordered to Camp Harney.

Our old Idaho acquaintance "Red," so well and favorably known in old Owyhee, is the same old "Reddy" he always was. He is now the right bower of the firm of Alexander & Co., at Pendleton.

Call and see Metzger and find out how he does business, then you will call again.

Killing of Hezekiah Tatman at Pomeroy, in Columbia county, last Saturday, we give the following particulars, which may be relied upon: An auction of the goods belonging to Dirk Zewel was going on, and this drew a large number of persons to that particular place on Saturday, August 9th. Among the number were Hezekiah Tatman, called by his acquaintances by the name of Mack Tatman, and Jacob B. Elliott. Tatman, in his usual tone of voice, said to Elliott: "Jake, I want to see you a moment." The two walked across the street side by side, wene suddenly they halted, Tatman dealing Elliott a severe blow on the left side of the head which drew blood from his ear. Elliott threw up his left hand, apparently to ward off the blow, and began a retreat, Tatman following up. When Elliott began his retreat he also attempted to draw his coat, and succeeded in getting one arm out of the sleeve.

A SAD STORY.—We hear a sal story of a young man who journeyed to the mountains in order to provide his Dulcinea with hucklebries. It appears that he gathered a large ounsity and sent them to his lady love; but on his paying his usual evaning visit he was thin leafured so much in obtaining. Good Man.—Tom Tierney is a man among men; he is an old pioneer of the country, honest, intelligent, and enterprising; he has the confidence of the community. Of late has been overworked on account of the great press of business consequence on the prediticions of our citizens for picnic excursions. Tom knows the country well, and his teams are like himself—thoroughbreds. He is always ready to pilot the way to the most pleasant places in the mountains for those who wish to escape the heat of the city, and enjoy cool places and good berrying in the mountains.

HUCKLEBERRIES. - These harries are mo HICKLERERRIES.—These berries are more plentiful in the mountains than they have been for years past. They are besolous and luxuriant. Our citizens could not put in their time to better advantage than in taking their families and their sisters and their cousins and their aunts up there for a few days. It will be money saved on the good old principle that it is better to pay the shoemaker's than the doctor's bill. Go to Dolan's new shoe emporium and he will tell you the same thing.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, For Puritying the Blood.

This compound is the blood.

This compound is a samparilla, Dock, Stillingia, and Mandrake with the loddles of Potash and Iron, makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. Aver's Sarsaparilla expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Eose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuraigia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrheza arising from internal ulceration and uterine diseases, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation and General Debility. THE CELEBRATED BAIN WAGONS.

The Leading Wagon of the United States and the Best Wagon Made

The great and constantly increasing pop flarity of the Bain Wagon is due to the extra care taken in selecting material, the thorough seasoning of all the wood before using, the rigid inspection to which the work is subjected at its various stages, the employment of nothing but the best skilled free labor, (no Convict labor being used,) in discarding piece work and paying mechanics by the day, thus insuring honest work and producing a wagon which for strength, durability, and lightness of draft, is unequalled by any other wagon made. Full Round Edge Tires, projecting over the felloes and protecting them from wear, oil cups with Brass Screw Caps, and patent Skein tightners, will be on all Bain Wagons imported the coming season.

REAPERS. MOWERS AND

The Champion Combined Reaper and Mower.

The Champion Combined Reaper and Mower is the most complete harvesting machine made. Not only is it well constructed throughout, of excellent material machine made. Not only is it well constructed throughout, of excellent material and with every facility for cutting grain and grass and raking grain, but it embraces every device for the convenience of the farmer. The Self-Raking apparatus is remarkably simple and not liable to get out of order. The rake delivers the grain at the side of the machine and out of the way of the team in making the next round. It is under complete control of the driver, and can be set to rake automatically, delivering a bundle at each revolution, or by means of the foot treadle, to rake at the will of the driver large or small gavels, or the rake can be held to carry a bundle around a corner, or any distance. This machine is also complete as a Dropper or as a mower. Each machine is built as a Mower, and so arranged before it leaves the factory that a Dropping Attachment or a Self-Rake Attachment can be bropper or as a mower. Each machine is owne as a brower, and so arranged before it leaves the factory that a Dropping Attachment or a Self-Rake Attachment can be added at any time by the farmer, and no tools are required to put on or take of these attachments, except such as are sent in the tool box with each n achine. Two smooth edged mowing knives and one serrated edged grain sickle are furnished with each Champion Combined Mower and Reaper.

HAINES SINGLE GEAR HEADERS.

To the farmers who still adhere to the old and economical method of harvesting with headers, we offer the genuine Haines' Headers with single or double drapers made by A. J. Hodge & Co., of Pekin, Ill., with many valuable improvements for the season of 1879, which will be found on no other headers in the market, as they are made to our order, from suggestions of some of the best farmers in the Terntory, and for our exclusive sale. Farmers who want the best header made, should

"Mansfield" Portable and Stationary Steam Engines. These Engines combine lightness with ample power, and economy of fuel and water in the greatest degree, being the only Portable Engine manufactured in the United States having Steam Jacket and Balance Steam Valve. For mechanical construction, accessibility of all its parts, regularity of speed and thorough workmanship, THIS ENGINE HAS NO RIVAL IN THE WORLD.

THE NEW ECONOMIZER ENGINE. In Agricultural Engines which require frequent removals, it becomes an object of great importance to have as little weight as possible to transport, and yet have the material of sofficient strength, and put together with skill—to withstand the hardships to which they are subject, and especially the Thresher's Engine, which is probably subjected to more abuses than almost any other class of engines, as they are moved very often and over all kinds of roads. In these respects the manufacturers of this Engine have taken great pains to build an engine and bolks that will stand the test for years. We invite competition with those of other makers.
