

For President, W. S. HANCOCK, Of Pennsylvania. For Vice President, WM. H. ENGLISH, Of Indiana.

Democratic Territorial Ticket. For Delegate to Congress, THOMAS BURKE, Of Seattle. For Brigadier General, JAMES MAULIFF, Of Walla Walla.

Democratic County Ticket. For Comptroller, B. L. SHARPESTEIN. For Representatives, R. E. REES, D. K. PIERCE.

After a name.

Under this caption the Youngstown (Ohio) Register, gives its opinion of the doings of Mr. Thos. H. Brents, our delegate in congress.

One of the principal businesses of a territorial delegate at Washington, is to advertise his territory, to make people talk about it, and force inquiry into its resources.

Accordingly he went to a second-hand clothing establishment and bought a suit of clothes for fifteen dollars, risking in the venture about one day's salary as a congressman.

He used the second-hand dealer for the fifteen dollars, and claimed a right to recover on the ground that the second-hand dealer had agreed to take the clothes and give him his money back, in case the fifteen dollar suit was not perfectly satisfactory.

As Ohio father got drunk, in order to show his sons what a spectacle a drunken man presents. When they saw how good-natured and jolly he was, the whole family, including the old woman, followed suit.

Col. Chas. H. Larrabee.

According to announcement Col. Chas. H. Larrabee appeared at the court house at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon accompanied by a delegation of influential democrats.

Let arrangements be made to have every one of them there at the time to deposit their ballots for Hancock and English.
