THE OTHER WORLD.

BY MRS. FARRIET BESCHER STOWS.

It lies around us like a cloud,
A world we cannot see;
Yet the sweet closing of an eye
May bring us there to be.
Its genfe breezes fan our cheek;
Ami our worldly caree;
Its genie voices whisper love,
And mingle with our prayers.
Sweet learts around us throb and beat,
Sweet hearts around us throb and beat,
and parjuistes the veil between the sitence, admost between
The sitence, awful, sweet and caim.

The silence, awful, sweet and calm,
They have no power to break;
For mortal words are not for them
To atter or partake.
So thin, so soft, so sweet they glide,
So near to press they seem,
They hall us gently to our rest,
They melt into our dream.
And is the bush of rest they bring,
'Tis easy now to see
How lovely and how sweet a pass
The hour of death may be.
To close the eye, and close the ear,

To close the eye, and close the ear, Wrapped in a trance of bliss, And gently drown in loving arms, To swoon from that to this—

Scarce knowing if we wake or sleep,
Scarce asking where we are,
To feel all evil sink away,
All sorrow and all care. Sweet souls around us! watch us still:
Press nearer to our side;
Into our thoughts, into our prayers,
With gentle helping glide.

Let death between us be as naught, A dried and vanished stream; Your joy be the reality, Our suffering life the dream.

COMBINATIONS IN FAVOR OF THE NORTHERN FACTURE RAILORD.—It appears from articles published in Eastern journals that a combination of influence is at work to secure the nid wasted for the projected Pacific Railroad. There are indications that the Northern and Sonthern lines may unite their forces for the purpose of getting their bills through Congress. The members from New England, New York and the Lake districts will favor the Northern Pacific, while as it is believed the members from Tennessee, Missouri and the other more Southern States, as far as the latter are admitted, will favor the Northern road for the sake of getting the help of the triends of that project for the Southern Pacific line. A combination of this kind would be very powerful, and there could hardly be a doubt of line. A combination of this kind would be very powerful, and there could hardly be a doubt of its success.

In discussing the subject of government aid for the Northern Railroad, a St. Paul, Minnesota, paper mentions a scheme which it thinks would be likely to concentrate important influences in favor of that line. This scheme is the extension favor of that line. This scheme is the extension favor of that line. This scheme is the extension favor of that line. This scheme is the extension favor of that line. This scheme is the extension favor of that line. This scheme is the extension favor of that line. This scheme is the extension favor of that line. The line of the line favor of that line. The line favor was to format, and another southeastern branch diverging from the Union Pacific at the 100th degree of longitude, and running to Fort Smith, in Arkansas, and Memphis, in Tencesser, these extensions to be based on the same financial scheme as the Union Pacific. A bill for this purpose was introduced into the House nearly at the close of the 39th session. The distance from the point of departure on the Union Pacific to the head of Lake Superior, and the route is almost an air line. From the same point to Chicaso is about 630 miles. The Sutheastern branch would satisfy the Southeastern branch would satisfy the Southeastern branch would satisfy the Southeastern branch would be enlisted in the support of a scheme which would make both the Northera belt and Southern belt largely tributary to it, and, also, by combining with these elements the Northern Pacific Railroad would be tierably certain of obtaining the government all which it desires. It is admitted that the Srthern Pacific Company, as at present organized, is the strongest, perhaps the very strongest, in the country. Ten of the principal railroads connecting with northern cities were represented in its organization, and it must gradually draw in other interests to its support and the principal railroads connecting with northern cities were represented in i tal, which this unfortunate preserves, we want occasional moments glimmerings of intelligence which showed that the wretched being had been something more than an ordinary man. When the physician left, he was told that he had seen what was left of Senator McDougall. Today the mournful drama is ended and the curtain has dropped. Senator McDougall was born in the contraint of the senator of Colifornia he emigrated thither, and soon attained a high position by wirtue of his remarkable talents and great seargy. He was a member of the Legislature, and took a prominent part in the organization of the State. Afterward, he served in the Federal House of Representatives, with great acceptance to his party and constituency. In 1861 he was elected to the United States Senate. In that body he took a foremost rank. The same fervid eloquence which had made him a lion of the masses of California, readered him powerful in the deliberative body; and some of his speeches will be long remembered as masterpieces of cratory. But a passion for strong drink proved his bane and the cause of his rink. Long before uctil a point is reached when the apparatus steps.

The inventor, quite a young man, commenced winding up the machine with what seemed to be a crank motion, and as I distinctly heard the tick of the ratchet, I therefore supposed it was worked by a coiled spring, but I have reasons since to think that I was mistaken. I suppose it look two minutes to wind it, when he mounted it and started it by pulling up the steel bar. It moved gradually so that for the first minute I could keep along side of it; but prešently it started at the speed of a fast horse, and in a moment more was lost, going round the curve of a circle. I suppose you know the grand Exposition has a series of concentric rings, each devoted to a particular branch of industry. The one the machine was running on was the Numero Quatra section del Mecaniques, and is the largest, measuring some yards more than an English mile. It seems to be incredible that he should have performed the entire circuit in two minutes and treels recorded. have performed the entire circuit in two minutes and twelve seconds. A bearty clapping of hands greeted the machine as it came careering on, and gradually stopping without any apparent trouble.

greeted the machine as it came careering on, and gradually stopping without any apparent trouble.

I noticed the Emperer, generally tacture, loud in his applause, clapping his hands, as I did, and I was assured by M. de M. that he had never seen his Majesty on any occasion before show the least sign of commendation. The inventor then said that he would put it up to its speed, but to do this he must give the machine a start. He then wheeled around, and just like a jockey starting a horse, got it up to the maximum. As he passed us he seemed to be flying. The circuit was made in fifty-eight seconds. A new salvo of applause methim as he brought the machine where the Emperor was standing, and I must say that I felt some emotion when the Emperor took the legion of honor from his button hole and placed it on the young inventor's breast. M. told me its endurance, if I may use the term, was extraordinary; that at its highest speed it would keep on going for four hours. I was led to believe that the mechanical power was secondary to it, and that a galvanic battery was the real motive power. It was rumored that a battery of constantly increasing elements ustains the motion. Anyhow, the secret is well keep, see Emperor having, with the freefierts, the only Edweledge of it. M. also told me that, in Vincennes, a hattery of artillery was to be moved with it, instead of horses.

I may say I saw four persons mount it and it moved more rapidly than would a carriage. An interesting experiment was made as to its capabilities for going over rough country. Several louds of lirt were shot on the floor, and it passed over it with apparent ease. One thing, I remarked was that there was a perpendicular play in the wheels, and as one difficulty was surmounted see wheel would be higher than the other, while the body was carried on the same plane.

TRIAL BY JURY .- Dr. Fransis Lieber propose to the New York Constitutional Convention the following system in place of the present require-

Each jury shall consist of twelve jurors, the agreemest of two-thirds of whom shall be sufficient for a verdict, in all cases, both civif and penal, except in capital cases, when three-fourths must agree to make a verdict valid. But agree against four, it is a verdict, in capital as well as common criminal cases. There is no

We think there is a general diminution of respact for jury trials. Lawyers seem to look upon them as impediments to justice, and we supnose this estimation does not change when law.

on them as impediments to justice, and we sup-pose this estimation does not change when law-yers come upon the bench. It is a most provo-king oppression when after a cosily trial, one re-fractory juror defeats justice. Obstructed jus-tices is injustice. Public opinion does not attrib-ute such a sanctity to this mode of jury trials as to make reform impracticable. Perhaps such a medification would increase the popular respect for trial by jury.

Casing Appear. — Yesterday evening Hon. Joan M. Murphy, who was appointed Governor of Idato Territory, and rejected by the United States Senate, because of certain abuses charged upon him by political enemies, met James S. Beynolds, editur of the Idaho Statesmen, in front of Wells, Farge & Co.'s Express Office, and accosted him very quickly, and immediately followed his salutation by an application of his walking came to the head and shoulders of Mr. Baynolds, after the manner prescribed for patent liniament, "well laid on." The affair was witpessed by a number of persons, and created considerable excitement.—S. F. Call.

Tax freedmen of the first and fourth districts of Georgia have issued addresses on congressional andidates, claiming that the right to vote carries the right to hold office, and that they, having a majority, will not vote for whites.

There are, in the present history of the coun-try, an abundance of young men who have been reared to years of maturity in comparative indolence and uselessness, who seek professions or the uncertain field of "luck" for something up-on which to subsist from day to day, or upon which to establish a business for future comfort the uncertain field of "lack" for something upon which to subsist from day to day, or upon which to establish a business for future comfort and independence. Not one is to of this class of young men can be found engaged in the mechanical arts or manufacture, where intelligence and application is needed more than anywhere in the industrial or professional pursuits of life. This disposition to ignore labor or to exercise the health functions, is not hereditary, for in the majority of cases their fathers had to work, and these incompetent young men are indebted to hard muscle and unceasing tail for the little they have to boast of, upon which they propose to build a a fortune and reputation without capital or labor. They are simply mistaken. Their education—instead of being at the plow or the anvil, where they had an opportunity to realize the value of a doilar carred, and where they were able to appreciate the benefits of advances, ment in industrial or mechanical pursuits—was given them in the superficial manner of the times, which begets neither skill nor success, and they are not prepared for any pursuit except that of the professions long ago, overstocked, or something to the mercantilo line at which thousands are every year failing. It does not seem to occur to these young men that ninety per cent. of the presons who enter the professions fail to earn a subsistence for themselves, and that but one third of the remaining forty per cent. really succeed, while a skillful mechanic and artizan was never known to fail so badly one day that he could not reseatablish himself the next. Yet they will devote weeks, months and years, to an idle and uncertain lite in the vain hope of finally making a "ten strike" which shall lead them to a fortune in the end. It is a great mistake, a grevious error.

To be accomplished in anything, no matter how humble, even to the vocation of a bootback, is from the professions. The country is sadly in want of mechanics who own will attempt to crow the professions. The country is easily and metaloids. The demand of the day is not for lawyers, dectors, or men of mere ornament, even to capitalists, but for skilled artisans who can make capital productive. To secure such men salary is no object. Their labor pays the employer two hundred per cent. more than the labor of the hundreds of mere pretenders who have been compelled, from force of circumstances, to adopt the first cathing which presented itself.—Eric Dispatch.

A FEARFUL SCAFFOLD SCENE —A horrible scaffold seeme occurred the other day in the prison yard of Jauer, in Silesia. A young woman, not of the lowest class of the population, was to be beheaded for gratifying her jealousy of her former lover by an act that had led to the death of several persons. The faithless man had deserted her and married another girl. The deserted mistress, to revenge herself, set fire to his house, and several persons perished in the flames. She was arrested, convicted and sentenced to death. On the scaffold, just at the moment A FEARFUL SCAFFOLD SCENE -A horri cent up which it desires. The route by which it is to reach its western terminus will soon become a very interesting question for ourselver and our neighbors; but whether it is to follow the Columbia River through the Cascade mountains or cross that range some further distance to the north, it will hardlif be disputed that the Columbia River through the Cascade mountains or cross that range some further distance to the north, it will hardlif be disputed that the Columbia River through the Cascade mountains coming from beyond the mountains.

Last Hours or Sisaron McDougall. — The Albany Journal, of September 3d, thus describes the death bed of Senator McDougall. A PROUD MAN.—Different men have dif-ferent modes of evincing their manly pride, says the Virginia Trespass. This observa-tion, entirely new with the undersigned, though not on its first appearance just now, was called to mind in the case of an now, was called to mind in the case of an athletic citizen, the head of a respectable family, who had been absent from home some three weeks. He returned to find his corner—in fact, all his corners—in the things he —in fact, all his corners—in the things he loved, in occupation of another, if not a better man. He complained to a friend; he had got home in the night; had latch keyed in, and had seen things is that state of case which precludes mistakes. He asked his friend's advice. "Come along, and we'll friend's advice. "Come along, and we'll soon settle the matter—here's a pistol; come with me "I' said his friend. "Well, just hold on a little," said the burly, much injured man. "Look here! If Julia was alone, I'd be willing to go with you in a minute—and talk the matter over—and see if she wasn't willing to call it all right, and commence as if nothing had happened just I tell you I'm not like some men; while there remains another man, or the slightest vestige of another man in my domicil, I'll not go near It! Let him go away, and I may talk things over; but while the intruder is there? No air!—I'm too proud for that!"

WHAT WILL INTOXICATE?—Judge Walston, of Augusta, Maine, deaided last week that hop beer was not intoxicating, within the meaning of the statute, and that any kind that hop beer was not intoxicating, within the meaning of the statute, and that any kind of beer, which has to be drank in enormous quantities to create intoxication, does not come under the head of "intoxicating liquors," as specified in the liquor law. This reminds us of the anecdote narrated by Major Jack Downing, of the old National Intelligencer, of another celebrated legal decision that happened "away down in Maine." The selectmen of a certain town, on the passage of the "Maine Law," took it upon themselves to decide what drinks were intoxicating. They resorted to experiment. They took a well known toper, and commenced by pouring into him a small quantity of whisky; then they tried New England rum; then gin; and as they had first decided, as a "rule of evidence," that the man must be "sick drunk" in order to be intoxicated, they decided that none of these tipples were intoxicating. The subject recled and raved somewhat, but was not sick. They then tried warm black tea, and as these produced the symptoms (and results) of nausea, they decided that black tea was "intoxicating," and prohibited its sale in that town. and prohibited its sale in that town.

Courship and Love—lo the new play "Under the Gaslight," the heroine gives utterance to the following: "Courtship is the only text from which the whole solemn sermon of merried life takes its theme. As lovers are discontented and unshappy sowill they be as wives and hustands. So as you would be happy all the years of your life, listen to the voice advising you: Let the woman you look upon be wise or vain, beautiful or homely, rich or poor, she has but one thing which she can really give or rr. fuse—her heart! Her toavily, her wit, ber accomplishments she may sell to you—but her love is the treasure without money and without price! Sue only asks in return that when you look upon her your eyes shall speak a mute devotion, that when you address her your voice shall be gentle, loving and kind. That you shall not despise her because she cannot understand all at once your vigorous thoughts and ambitious designs—for when misfortune and evil have defeated your greatest purposes, her love remains to console you! You look to the trees for strength and grandeur—do not despise the flowers because their fragrance is all they have to give. Remember, love is all a woman has to give. Remember, love is all a woman has to give. But it is the only earthly thing that God permits us to carry beyond the grave."

The Maine Farmer tells of a young man and woman who got married in Bethel, last winter, and the next day the happy couple started on their honeymon tour into the woods, where he had contracted to cut a large quantity of cordwood. He built a comp where she spruds must of her time in promoting the comfort of her husband, and on Saturday night they both make their appearance in the village, to secure their supplies for the week's work, and return on Monday morning to their camp home, as happy as a king and queen. These are the willing hearts and strong hands that will cut their way though life.

Kissing Babies — The highest achieve-ment of a politician is the kissing of babies. It goes straight to the mother's heart and makes her a zealous canvasser for the ballance makes ner a zestous canvasser for the bullance of the campaign. In kissing baties of a large growth, especialy if they are pretty and the persuasion femile, there is danger of be-ing regarded as one having an eye to person-al attraction. But with little babies the same is different, and the act is an undoubted compliment to the darling's mother.

CLEANING THEM OUT .- General Grant under the pretence of being clerks. It seems that Stanton had the Department filled with partisan pimps, who, while being paid by the people, were doing nothing but the dirty work of certain 'leading politiciaus.' PARENTS who take no pains to keep the light of eternity upon their domestic respon-sibilities, will neither do nor care much for the spiritual welfare of their children; but

Ar a recent Willimantic, Connecticut, camp meeting, a certain old lady, at the top of her broken and squealing voice, was heard to pray thus: "O Lerd, bless that young man I was talking with this afternoon; and another man awas and tried to get him away. Lord bless came and tried to get him away. Lord bless them both! And I told them it was time they were looking out for their souls. And one of them said: 'Every tub stands on its own bot-tom.' And I said: ''Ever, and if you don't look out for your bottom you'll go to heil."

EARLY responsibility is almost equivalent to early sobriety. If a stick of timber stand-ing upright wave, lay a beam on it and put a weight on that, and see how stiff the stick a weight on tant, and see now shift nesters becomes. And if young men waver and vacillate, put responsibility on them and how it straightens them up. What power it gives them. How quickly it develops and puts forward all that is good in them.

FRIDAY EVENING, October 18, 1867.

THE OREGON STATE FAIR is represented by th valley papers to have been a big thing. THE GRAIN MARKET. - Wheat is quoted in San Francisco market at $2 15@$2 25 per bundred. Flour, $6 50@6 75. The demand is active, and a still further advance is anticipated. A LITTLE paper, published at Marysville, Cal-ifornia, nominates Phil. Sheridan for President.

In this case the nomination like the nomined may be set down as a small affair. EXCHANGE .- The Genius of Liberty, an able democratic paper, published in the interior of Pennsylvania, has been received at this office and and placed on our exchange list. Also, the Guardian, published at San Bernatdino, Southern California, is welcomed to our exchange list. RUMORED FAILURS.—A rumor was current early in the week that the First National Bank of Idaho had failed. The rumor is not confirmed, and we presume that the report is a mistake In the absence of positive information as to the condition of the National Banks, it would be well to decline to receive their issues. HUMBUGS .- The Portland Advocate has a sensi ble article in relation to humbugs, and expresses the opinion that the country is infested with quacks in theology, law and medicine. We in-cline to the opinion that a stringent law ought to be passed directed against quackery of all kinds, and more especially against quacks in the medical profession. TRADE.—Business of all kinds is looking up, and the complaint of dull times, so common few weeks back, has ceased. Money is easier and loans are effected at low rates. All the indications are bealthy, and the opinion now obtains that having touched the bottom, in future we may calculate upon a lively trade and active de-mand for our surplus products.

THE BEARTOWN TRAGEDY. - Elsewhere we have given place to the details of a homicide in which Jimmy Ryan, a former resident of Walla Walla, figures as a principal. The Helena Gazette, of October 5th says that the excitement in relation to the killing of Lovejoy is intense, and that it is apprehended that an effort will be made to lynch the murderer. Jimmy Ryan is a younger brother of Johnny Ryan, with whose tragic end our read-ers are familiar.

THE MINERS' STRIKE .- The Owyhee Avaluache ges a failure. It says the whole movement is to regretted. It did the miners no good, and to a limited extent, injured the companies. country like this, where labor is in demand, there is no occasion for "strikes," and a resort to them generally originates with a class of men who regard employers in the light of enemies, mon with themselves. With a better under standing of the relative duties of employers and employed, we should hear less frequently of

FROM LEMIN. - Mr. John Justice, just down from the Lembi country, has exhibited to us some very pretty specimens of gold, taken from Smith's Gulch. Mr. J. reports Salmon City and Leesburg as excessively dull. Both these towns may be considered "played out." The report that McManus was murdered is not credited at Lembi. The understanding there is that be shot himself accidentally, The mines, as far as About two bundred and fifty men will winter in With another season from five to six hundred men will find profitable employment in Lembi. our own there must ever be a very large body of men who are governed by no fixed political prin-ciples, and who cast their bullots for one party or the other just as public or private interests may dictate. For the past six years the republicans have mainly attracted this class of voters and hence the almost uniform success of that party. Lately, however, and dating from the Connecticut election, the tide has set the other way, and the democratic ranks have been swollen by accessions from a class of men who can has been the support of these men that gave the republican party all its strength, and in their withdrawal from that party organization, we have the key to the great political revolution now going forward.

THE INSANE ASYLUM.-If a tithe of what we hear reported is true, the condition of the Insane Asylum, under the patronage of the Territory, is a disgrace to our common humanity. The inmates, as we are informed, receive little or no medical attention, and the provision made for their personal comfort and subsistence, is of the most indifferent character. We further hear that females confined in the Asylum have been com pelled to minister to the lust of their keepers and that in one instance an unfortunate woman bereft of reason, has given birth to a child, the paternity of which is directly traced to an official connected with the institution. We know not whether these reports be true, and we only advert to them now for the purpose of awaking atten-tion and securing an investigation that will either set them at rest or bring about a reform in the management of the institution.

MONTANA VIGILANTES.—The revival of the vig ilance organization in Montana, and the excu tion of Charley Wilson, at Virginia City, has called forth considerable discussion in the Montana papers. They all, without regard to party, unite in awarding high praise to the vigilantes, and concede that without that organiza tion, peaceable, law-abiding citizens would have n forced to leave the Territory, and give it up to the vile and degraded. In this strain, the Helena Gazette, the leading democratic paper in the Territory, has the following:

the Territory, has the following:

"With many of our good citizens, we have deprecated the existence of such an irresponsible body in Montana as a Vigilance Committee, but chiefly deprecated its, at times, necessity. That this organization brought order out of the most bloody anarchy in Montana, at a time when law was powerless, its executive offices being in the hands of villains, no one at this day doubts. That many cold-blooded murderers and daring robbers have gone unwhipped of justice since they ceased to take cognizance of such matters, is also true, and has been lamented by all good citizens who wished to see the law predominant."

Editorial Paragraphs.

THE ANNEXATION MOVEMENT.—In looking over the proceedings of the meeting held at Lewis the purpose of furthering the annexation of orthern Idaho to Washington Territory, we otice that all the speakers take the ground that this movement is only preliminary to the division of the Territory by the line of the Cas-cade mountains, and the erection of a new territorial organization which will include North Idaho and all that part of Washington east of the Cascades. This, we presume, is the position of our Lewiston neighbors, but in all frankness we have to say that the people of this Valley take a very different view. So far as we have been able to ascertain the tendency of public sentiment in this quarter, it is decidedly favorable to the proposed annexation, but not with th ulterior view so prominently presented at the Lewiston meeting. The idea here is to extend and consolidate the present Territorial organiza tion, and mould the same into a State. A Ter ritory, organized as suggested at the Lewiston meeting, would be a one horse concern, that would remain in the condition of Territorial pupilage for the next half century, and this is a complexion of affairs that our people by no means favor. The developments of the last few months renders is quite certain that within a brief period we shall have railroad communica tion with Puget Sound, and when this is brought about our business connections and interests will all tend to strengthen our union with the Sound country. The North Pacific Railroad an accomplished fact, an important commercial town wil at once grow up at its terminus, from which we shall draw our supplies of merchandise, and at the same time find a market for our surplus products. Looking to the development of a pros-perous and influential State in the near future, wise statesmanship precludes the idea of dividing the Territory by the proposed mountain line, and we have to assure our Lewiston friends if this be their ultimatum, we shall have to part company. In discussing this question, we have favored the measure for the reason that it would strengthen Washington Territory, but if annexation means nothing more than an entering wedge whereby the Territory is again to be divided, we will have none of it. At the meeting which is called to be held at Walla Walla, or the 30th, there will be ample opportunity to dis-cuss the measure, and we trust that our friends will come prepared to speak and and act under-standingly. The annexation of Northern Idaho we greatly favor, but if it is to be on condition that the Territory is subsequently to be divided, then we shall have to forego the acquisition.

SWINDLING THE GOVERNMENT .- IN New York, here swindling has been reduced to a science, those .who plunder the public have formed "rings," and only those who have been admitted propriate any portion of the plunder. It is further known that in the progress of the war cor-ruption crept into the army to an unparalleled extent, and that by a judicious use of the means at their disposal, mere subalterns-Quartermasand even Lieutenants-in a few months, or at most years, accumulated independent fortunes. These abuses at first were confined to the Sastern States, but more recently the plundering system has been inaugurated on the Pacific coast, until now it has passed into a proverb that the officers are in with the contractors, and parties to the gravest swindles. A regular "ring" has been formed, and at any time in advance it can be told with a tolerable degree of certainty what particular favorite will secure a specified contract: This system is something new in the administration of military affairs on the Pacific coast, and the sooner it is exposed and broken up, the better it will be for the public service. If the Chief of the Military Department of the Pacific desires information on this subject, he can be furnished with detailed statements of facts showing the most bare-faced swindles, that only could have been carried out through the connivance of officials. These robberies are so frequent and bold in their character that they have become the subject of common remark, and un-less checked are calculated to bring obloquy and reproach upon the military service. At a time when the people are taxed beyond endurance, an organized system of plunder is not to be tolerated, and officers who are not troubled with itching palms will favor a thorough investigation of the alleged swindles. THE OCTOBER ELECTIONS -The result of the mocrate carry l'ennsylvania, electing their Supreme Court Judge, by from two to three thou over the election of a year since when the repub licans carryed the State by an overwhelming majority. In Ohio, the democrats carry both branches of the Legislature, thus securing the election of a conservative Senator, to take the place of Wade, who, with the exception of Sumner, is perhaps the most objectionable man in To offset this victory the republ cans elect their Governor by a few hundred majority. This is a surprising change in a State that has been supposed to be as indissolubly wedded to radical measures as Massachusetts. In Indiana and Iowa the democrats make large gains, thus showing conclusively that the reaction that first made itself felt in Connecticut, and then revolutionized California, has extended to the whole country, and is destined to grow and expand until radicalism has fought its last fight and is shoveled away among the debris of things lost on earth.

NORTH PACIFIC RAIL-ROAD .- According to preous announcement, a large and highly respect able audience was attracted to the Court House express his views in relation to the North Pas cific Rail-Road. The speech was able and in-structive, and embraced many facts that had hitherto escaped the attention of the general reader. The tensibility of constructing the Road the great results that would follow in its train and the prosperous future it opened up to this immediate section of country, and indeed the whole Pacific coast, were dwelt upon in an elab-orated manner that gave evidence that the speaker had carefully studied and thoroughly underer had carefully studied and thoroughly under-stood his subject. At the request of a very many persons who were gratified at hearing the speech, Judge Wyche has consented to write out the material portions of the address, when we propose to publish it in the columns of the Statzsman, as also in pamphlet form. Those of our readers who may feel disposed to give the document circulation, will send in their orders

One of the most gratifying results of the Ohio election, is that Ben. Wade, the coar and vulgar radical Senator, is to give pl most likely to George H. Pendleton, a state man of rare culture, and a gentleman nanly instincts, who have had an opporte nity of observing Wade's boorish manners, the Senate and out of it, will feel relieved his withdrawal from what in other days was termed the most dignified legislative body n the world. We know that Ben. Wade, men of his ilk, have done much toward detracting from the dignity of the Senate, but otwithstanding all this, the grave and digitfied conduct of the majority of the Senators is well calculated to inspire respect. A slight iographical sketch of the Senator, wh head has fell before the sturdy blows of the Ohio democracy, may possess interest for the general reader: Ben Wade was born Massachusetts, with the commencement of the century, and having mastered the mdinents of an English education, he mig to the then frontier State of Ohio, where he flourished for a time in the espacity of a Yankee schoolmaster. He next turned his attention to the study of law-that convenient refuge for men too lazy to work. Admitted to the bar, he soon became a Justice of the Peace, and from that it was an easy step to a District Judegship. The post of District Judge he retained down to 1851, when by a fusion between disaffected democrats and freesoilers, he was elected to the United States Senate for a full term. was elected a second time in 1857, and is now serving out his third term. He entered the United States Senate in the same year with Senator Sumner, and with the exception of the distinguished Massachusetts radical, has served continuously a longer period than any of his colleagues in the Senate. Since his advent on the stage of national politics, he has been consistently radical. He was among the very first to advocate the emancipation of the negroes, and with Sumper. was one of the earliest to agitate the ques tion of giving the ballot to the negro. All through the war he was forever barking at the heels of Abraham Lincoln, and denounce ing him as not sufficiently "advanced" in his anti-slavery views. In 1864, he resolutely opposed the re nomination of Lincoln, and with Henry Winter Davis, united in the publication of an address to the people of the United States, in which the President was denounced in the most opprobrious terms. Under the rule of party discipline, he was subsequently brought over to the support of Lincoln, but up to the day of the assassination he was known in Washington circles as the personal and political enemy of the President. True to his antecedents he has been among the fiercest of those who on the Senate floor have denounced the wise and statesmanlike policy whereby President Johnson hoped to again weld the Sauthern States to the Union. Destitute of all charity, and a stranger to the finer instincts of humanity, he has uniformly favored and advocated a policy that would give the Southern States over to a condition of anarchy, and without doubt inaugurate a war of races. With this record, toward the close of the 39th Congress, he was elected to preside over the Senate. This was in anticipation of the impeachment of the President, when it was proposed to inaugurate the burly Ohioan in the Executive chair. This, however, was even too much for radical digestion, and in face of the fact that Ben. Wade was to succeed to the Presidential office, the impeachment project hung fire. In the late canvass in Ohio, he went into the contest boldly bearing the banner on which was inscribed "Negro Suffrage," and in the fight he has gone down never to know a political resuree tion. On his political coffin, may fitingly be placed the inscription, "Wade in the balance and found wanting."

DISTRICT COURT .- The District Court com nenced its session on Monday last. There is about 120 cases on the docket, about seventy The affidvaits filed for change of venue, at the last term, were granted in all cases, except the criminal cases. The application made for a change of venue in the several cases against Loupe & Danenbaum, was overruled. In the matter of the Territory vs. Jas. McAuliff, a moon was made to strike the case from the dock et, on the ground that the complaint was no verified; the Court gave the counsel time to produce authorities. It is important to the interests of the county that this case should be disposed of at the present term. The Grand Jury have returned about a dozen bills, mostly for ry have returned about a dozen bills, mosely for minor offeces, and that body is still in session. It is thought the Court will be occupied near the full term allowed by law. Among the attorneys in attendance from abroad, we notice the U. S. Attorney, Hou. L. Holmes, and Mr. Gehr, from Umatilla. The U. S. Marshal is not the attendance. ance, but it is understood that he will be in time to pay the expenses of the Court,

GAMBLING IN OREGON.—The Supreme Court of Oregon, as our readers are already aware, has endered a decision, which virtually sets asidthe law against gambling in that State, Oregon City Enterprise severely criticises this ion, and closes by saying:

The radical press, including the whole par Tray, Blanche, Sweetheart and all, are now full chorus demanding the impeachment of Tray, Blancae, Sweeting the impeachment of the full chorus demanding the impeachment of the President. The removal of Stanton, the spy the Cabinet, seems to have been the sign for this outbreak of partisan malignity. It is possible that the radical reverses in the late elections may have a tendency to arrest a movement that looks to another civil war. But of this there is no certainty, and hence it is well that the country should understand the impen-ding peril. With the assembling of Congress ovember there can be little doubt but that articles of impeachment will be presented, and an attempt made to place the President on trial before a packed Senate. An attempt of this kind is sure to be resisted, and then will come the tug of war. The New York Herald, a paper that latterly has been supposed to foreshadow the President's policy, gives an outline of the course President Johnson is likely to pursue.

President Johnson is likely to pursee. It says:

"The President holds that each of the three great branches of the Government is for itself the judge of the constitutionality of alaw. Congress, in the first place, is a judge. It passets law according to constitutional forms by the requisite majority ever the President's veto. According to the Constitution it cast only legislate on certain subjects. Well, the lew is passed, sudd-t comes to the President for execution. He is sworn to fatthfully execute his-office, and "preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States." Who is to determine for him whether the law passed by Congress does not conflict with the Constitution be is sworn to defend? If he considers it clearly in violation of the Constitution, is he not under the most solemn obligation to refuse to enforce it? It is contended by some that the more usual mode is for the President to assume a law constitutional until otherwise declared by the Supreme Court. This the President considers only applies to loubful cases; but where the conflict with the constitution is clear and undoubted the President considers it his duty to decline its enforcement altogether. Applying this to impeachment, the following is the result: Congress. dent considers it his duty to decline its enroce-nent altogether. Applying this to impeach-nent, the following is the result: Congress pusses articles of impeachment, suspends the President, and orders his arrest. The alleged offense is that he refuses to enforce the laws which he honestly believes to be in antagonism which he honestly believes to be in antagonism with the Constitution.

He takes one view of the law, Congress another. He holds that he can only be removed on recurriction of treason, bribery, and other high crimes and misdemeanors." He holds that a men difference of opinion as to the constitutionality of a law between himself and Congress is neither treason, bribery, nor other high crimes or misdemeanor. He holds, therefore, that he cannot be impeached, suspended, or removed from office.

or misdemeanor. He holds, therefore, that he cannot be impeached, suspended, or removed from office.
Congress insists he can. Then, he considers, Congress places itself in an attitude of revolution. It thus violates the Constitution by attempting to usarp the executive power, and must be put down. How will this be done? The President, acting for the best interests of the country, and deeming the safety of the Republic in danger, will issue a proclamation prorogung Congress, calling for an election of new members, and invoking the aid of the people to sustain him. This, I am assured, is the view the President takes of the impeachment muddle, and the way he will act should the occasion arise.

voking the aid of the people to sustain him. This, I am assured, is the view the President takes of the Impachment models, and the way he will set should the occasion arise.

Under the Constitution the President has the power to prorogue Congress only in case of a disagreement to adjourn. But in a great public emergency, where the life of the nation is at stake, the President considers the exercise of extraordinary powers justinable. Moreover, Congress, by assuming nuconstitutional powers and attempting to destroy the Executive, disqualifies itself, is no longer a lawful Congress, but a last of assurers and traitors. As such they have no rights the Executive is bound to respect, and the Executive will deal with them accordingly. The President's theory is that they first inaugurate revolution by attempting an act subversive of the Covernment, and upon them will rest the responsibility of any strile or contusion that may follow.

THE BEARTOWN TRAORDY.—By parties

THE BEARTOWN TRAGEDY.—By parties just arrived from Beartown, we have learned the full particulars of the tragedy which octhat notorious camp on Sunday t. Smith's gambling and drinking saloon, on Main street, was the scene of the crime. Jimmy Ryan, one of the partners in the saloon, we believe, had, during the even-ing, some difficulty with another gambler. Between eleven and twelve o'clock this other gambler (whose name we have not learned.) started to leave the room, when Ryau-be somewhat intoxicated-threatened to ing somewhat intoxicated—threatened to shoot him. At this, Frank Lovejoy, who was sitting upon a table that was between Ryan and the door, shouted, "Go in Jimmy." We believe some other words passed between Ryan and Lovejoy, but nothing of a belligerent nature. Ityan now drew his revolver and fired, the shot entering Loves. revolver and fired, the shot entering Lovejoy's body just inside the left hip and lodging about oze and a half inches from his back. Ryan claims that he was shooting at the other gambler, and that the shot which took effect in Lovejoy's body was accidental.
After firing the first shot he fired three others, one of which, cut the watch chain of the other gambler, but none of them did him any injury. The affray was hardly settled, when Katie Smith—a noted courtesan of the place—brought to the door of settled, when Katie Smith—a noted courtesan of the place—brought to the door of the saloon, a horse ready saddled, upon which she urged Ryan to fly, at the same time presenting him with a pistol for defence. Ryan refused to do this, using the most defiant language against any one who should the contract to ware foreign description. attempt to avenge Lovejoy's death upon him About three o'clock the next morning he was arrested by the Sheriff with a posse of twelve men. The affair has been the cause of great excitement in Beartown, and in the of great excitement in Deartown, and a nevent of Lovejoy's death, a great disturbance, and probable bloodshed, is threatened. The town is pretty evenly divided between two parties—one, in favor of hanging Ryan in the provided Lovejoy dies, and the two parties—one, in layor of hanging Ryan instanter, provided Lovejoy dies, and the other, (including Ryan's friends, of course,) equally determined that he shall be tried by equally determined that he suan us tried by civil law. A collision between these two parties is seriously threatened. On Monday it was attempted to hold a public meeting—after the old Vigilante style—for the purpose of determining what should be done with Ryan, but it was found impossible to hold it out of doors, and it was accordingly hald in ane of the buildings in the neighbor. held in one of the buildings in the neighbor-hood. Three meetings of this character were held within doors on Monday; and about one-half the town is only awaiting the about one-half the town is only awaiting the death of Lovejoy, before making the attempt to seize Ryan. If Lovejoy lives, Ryand will no doubt receive his trial at the hands of the civil law. If he dies, we fear the most serious results.—Helena Herald

Late accounts mention the death of Love-by, and further state that it had been etermined to leave Ryan in the hands of the

THE GARDNER SHACKLE .- Mr. P. Benton, agen for the Gardner Shackle, is now at Walla Walls for the purpose of disposing of the right for this

A SALUTE .- The news of the great gains made by the democracy in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indi-ana and Iowa, was received at a late bour on Tuesday night, but notwithstanding the lateness of the hour the anvils were brought out and a salute fired in honor of the democratic victory.

DEDICATION .- The first church of the United Brethren in Christ, of Walla Walla City, will be dedicated to the Triune God, on Sunday the 20th inst., at 11 o'clock, A. M. Shuck will officiate. There is a cordial invita, tion extended to all to attend. There will, also, be preaching at 3 and at 7 o'clock, P. M., of the same day; also, at 7 o'clock, on Saturday evening, 19th inst.

By order of the Trustees.

A MANNOTH APPLE, -Hon. N. Ford, Senator from Umatilla county presented us with an ap ple of gigantic proportions, which was grown n his farm, situated in this Valley, and just across the Oregon line. This monster weighs 46 ounces, and measures 161 inches in circumference. We believe this is the largest and heaviest apple on record, and certainly it indicates that fruit flourishes in this Valley. The apple, which is of the "Gloria Mundi" variety, will remain on exhibition at this office, where those who are cu-rious in such matters are invited to call and ex-amine the specimen.

SUDDEN DEATH .- A middle-aged woman name Mrs. Baldock, whose husband is in the mines. died very suddenly on Sunday last. In the morning she was in her usual health, and attended worship at the Catholic Church. At dinner she ate heartily, and appeared to be in the best of spirits. At about two o'clock in the after-noon, she complained of dizziness in her head, and at six o'clock in the evening she was dead. Her death was caused by appoplexy, of which she had had a previous attack. Deceased leaves a daughter (Mrs. Kelling,) living at Walla Walla and a busband, who is in the mines. In he case we have an other illustration of the great truth, that "in the midst of life we are in death."

Parvicy FRUIT -- Mr. John Hancock, living or the Walla Walla, about ten miles below town, has left at our office specimens of the different varieties of apples and pears which took the premium. Of the apples that were particularly fine, we mention, the "Seek-no-further," "Gold-en Russett," "Yellow Bellflower," "Blue Pears main," "Eropus Spitzenberg," "Rambo," and "Tulpehocken." Of the pears there is a second growth of "Bartletts," the fruit of which was well matured. Also the "Vicar of Wakefield," and one or two other varieties. In the line of apples and pears, the Willamette has heretorors been conceded to lead the world, but since the orchards in this Valley have come to bearing the palm must be conceded to Walla Walla fruit.

THE M. E. CHURCH building has been peram oulating the streets for several days past, and a last has found a lodgment on Third street, two locks east of Main street. This is the lot lately bought for the purpose of a parsonage, and is decidedly a more desirable location than that just vacated. The church building will front on Third street, and the parsonage, which is being refitted, is immediately in the rear. The church trustees require assistance to enable them to complete the improvements now in hand, and to will respond liberally. The Catholics, the Congregationalists, and United Brethren have each of them creditable and commodious church edifices, and with the completion of the change being made in the M. E. Church building, Walla Walla will number four commodious places of worship. Churches and schoolhouses indicate the moral and material progress of a people, and tried by this standard, Walla Walla is eminently IRON ORE .- Mr. Wm. Phillips, of the Walla Walla Foundery, has just returned from a tour of observation in the "web-fhot" country," and among the curiosities, brings with him speciimens of iron ore, taken from the Oswego lead, and which is used by the Oswego Company in the manufacture of iron. The ore is remarkably rich in iron, and has been found to work to great advantage. The "pigs" as turned out at the works are fit without further preparation to be used in the making of castings. The foun deries in San Francisco already use this iron al most to the exclusion of Eastern iron, and find it to answer their purpose admirably. Those who are curious in such matters, are invited to call at this office and examine the ore. It may turn out that they know of similar rock in this are unacquainted. Mr. P. also brought with him specimens of the limestone taken from Swan Island, which most persons would take for ordinary gray granite. This stone, on burn ing, is found to yield excellent lime, and is used at the Oswego Works in the manufacture of iron. As already stated, we shall retain these specimens subject to the juspection of those who are

New York, October 10.—There was considerable excitement in the Stock Exchange to-day, owing to the discovery of counterfeit seven-thirties, of the issue of June, 1865. These notes are the best counterfeits of Government securities ever issued. It is believed the whole amount in not far from $2,500,000, as some of the largest dealers in this city have been deceived. It is probable that dealers in other cities have been swindled. The counterfeits are of the second series of svoru-birties, dated June 14, 1865, of the dimensions of a thousand dollars.

Sabsaparakilla, and see for yourself the surprising, activity with which it cleanase the blood and cures these disorders.

During late years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretenging to give a quut of Extract of Sarsaparlia for one dellar. Most of these have of Sarsaparlia for one dellar. Most of these have little it any, Sarsaparlia, but often ne curative properties whatever. Hence, bitter disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparlia which flood the market, until the name itself has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound "Sarsaparlia," and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name rem the load of obloguy which rests upon it. We think we have gre und for believing it has virtues which we irrevistable by the ordinary run of the discase; it is intended to cure. We can only assure the sick, that we offer them the best alterative which we know how to produce, and we have reason to believe, it is by far the meet effectual parafler of the blood yet. A valid Curany Pactronat is so universally known to surpass every other remedy for the cure of Cougha, Colds, Influenca, Hourseas, Croup, Bromehiti, Incipient Consumption, and to the relied of Consumptive Patients in advanced stages of the disease, that it is useless here to recount the evidence of its virtues. The world knows them.

GINGER SNAPS.—One pint of molasses teaspoonful of saleratus, half a teacup of ginger, butter size of an egg, flour enough to make it roll very thin. Cut the cakes to make it roll very thin. Cu with a tin ring and bake quickly.

HOMINY WAFFLES.-To two teacupsful of hot hominy add a spoonful of good butter; when cold, add one teacupful of wheat flour, a little salt, as much milk as will make it a atiff batter, and three eggs well beaten. Mix these well together, and bake in waffle LEMON CREAM .- Take a pint of thick ream and put it to the yolks of two eggs well beaten, four ounces of fine sugar, and the thin rind of a lemon; boil it up; then stir it till almost cold; put the juice of a lemon in a dish or bowl, and put the cream upon it, stirring it till quite cold.

LEMON HONEYCOMB.—Sweeten the juice of a lemon to taste, and pour it into the dish you serve it in; mix the white of an egg that is beaten with a pint of rich cream and a little sugar; whisk it, and as the froth rises put it on the lemon juice. Do it the day before you wish to use it.

CHABLES' PUDDING.—One quart of milk, one pint of bread crumbs, one cup of butter, one cup of sugar, four yolks of eggs. Boil milk, and mix well with bread crumbs, etc. Dish and bake, then take out and cover with a jelly; beat the whites of four eggs into a hard froth, with which cover the jelly. Bake again in a quick oven ten minutes.

Wine Roll .- Soak a penny French roll raisin wine till it will hold no more, put in raisin whee till it will not no more, put it in the dish, and pour round it a custard or cream, sugar, and lemon juice. Just be-fore it is served sprinkle over it some non-pareil comforts, or stick a few blanched slit almonds into it. Sponge biscuits may be almonds into it. Sponge biscuits may be used instead of the roll, if preferred.

TRANSPLANTING TREES.—An exchange furnishes the following advice, which it recommends to those persons who have occasion to transplant trees: "In taking up a tree, it should be so marked so as to secure its setting out in the same position. Thus the north side may be marked with chalk before work is commenced. If the side which has been exposed to the north is turned to has been exposed to the north is turned to outh, the heat of the sun is too great, and it dries up and loses its vitality.

EFFECT OF BAD SEED .- How slight a thing will sometimes have a serious effect. For instance, the farmer prepares a large-field of corn, plants it with bad seed, as is so often done, and the labor is all for nothing. He has to plant over, and then he will get a late crop; the drought will affect it and experience by force of the labor is all force. it, and sometimes the frost. If a third plants ing is necessary, as is sometimes the case, the matter is still worse. With wheat and the other grains, the crop is generally a failure. Planted at the right time a re-sowing must be too late, and thus defeats the whole crop Now, with a little care good seed may be had,—and then all this evil will be avoided. Is it not sheer carelessness? We cannot be two careful in genting ripe, sound, healthy seed -Rural World.

TRANSPLANTING IN THE NIGHT.—A friend, in whose powers of observance we have confidence, informs us that the last Spring and Summer he made the following experiment: He transplanted ten cherry trees while in bloom, commencing at four o'clock in the afternoon, and transplanting one each bour, until one in the morning. Those transplant ed during daylight shed their blossoms, producing little or no fruit, while those planted during the darker portions main ain-ad their condition fully. He did the same with ten dwarf pear trees, after the fruit was one-third grown. Those transplanted dur-ing the day shed their fruit; those transplanted during the night perfected their erop, and showing no injury from having been removed. With each of these trees he removed some earth with the roots .- Work-

FIRE-PROOF WASH FOR SHINGLES.—The following simple application will no doubt prove of great value. We quote from the Albany Knickerbocker:—"A wash composed of lime, salt, and fine sand, or wood abes, put on in the ordinary way of whitewashing, renders the roof fiftyfold more safe against taking fire from falling cinders or otherwise, in cases of fire in the vicinity. It pays the expense a hundred fold in its preserving of lime, sait, and hoe sand, or wood ashes, put on in the ordinary way of whitewashing, renders the roof fiftyfold more safe against taking fire from falling cinders or otherwise, in cases of fire in the vicinity. It pays the expense a hundred fold in its preserving induced against the effect of the weather. The older and more contents the weather. influence against the effect of the weather. The older and more weather beaten the shingles, the more benefit derived. Such shingles generally become more or less warped, rough, and cracked; the application of the wash, by setting the upper aurface, restores them at once to their original or first form, thereby closing the space between the shingles; and the lime and sand, by filling up all the cracks and pores in the shingles itself, prevents it from warping for years, if hot for ever."

One cow which will give twice as much milk and make twice as much butter as an-other, is worth more than twice as much money as a cow, because she will not eat twice as much food nor require twice as much care.

Two great lacks in agriculture, as it is ordinarily practiced, are information and carefulness. The most pressing and immediate deficiency is in the latter, the remedy of which cannot be too strongly enforced upon the attention of farmers and cultivators everywhere. Heedfulness may take a sure step towards success; negligence walks slipto poverty.

Englishmen are never tired of bragging Englishmen are never tired of bragging over their Stilton and Wiltshire cheese; there is nothing like it. Very likely, as hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of it comes into London every year from Westchester county, N. Y., and after being fraudulently labeled and stamped, it is all right for home consumption or export. John Bull can eat cheese, but it takes Americans to make it as it ought to be made.

made. We believe it is a settled fact in cow phystology, that where a heifer and a buil are both twins, the heifer will seldom, if ever, breed. They are called "free martins." But here is one that will give milk, if she does not breed: Mr. Edward Henshaw, of does not breed: Mr. Edward Henshaw, of West Waterville, has a heifer which was a twin calf with a bull. He works her with her atcer mate. She never had a calf, but she has given milk a year—gives now eight quarts per day. She is now three years old.—Maine Farmer.

A funny story comes to us that a learned agricultural society, which holds its meetings not a hurdred miles from New York, recently discussed the convertion of how flow.

TEA CARES.—Rub fine four ounces of butter into eight ounces of flour, mix eight ounces of currants and six ounces of fine Lisbon sugar, two yolks and one white of eggs, and a spoonful of brandy; roll the paste the thickness of an oliver biscuit, and cut with a wine-glass. You may beat the other white and wash over them, and either dust sugar or not as preferred.

Transplanting Trees.—An exchange furnishes the following advice, which it recommends to those persons who have occasion to transplant trees: "In taking up a tree, it should be so marked so as to secure in the source of its life, and the wise teachers of farming found to their surprise teachers of farming found to their surprise teachers of farming found to their surprise that growing flax carried its seed up with it and bore it at the top as proudly as any young bean that ever first saw the light of day. Some day we understand these same notables intend to debute the "Characteris" ties of Pankins and Squashes, and how to tell tother from which, especially with reference to prize strawberries, how to sepa-rate grapes from thorns, and the influence of dairy produce upon American social life."-N.
