Our Washington Letter. WASHINGTON, Nov. 8, 1877. EDITOR STATESMAN:—The elections yesterday while casting beyond possibility of change a democratic majority in the United States senate in 1876, and adding Pennsylvania to the democratic column, did not bring so full a measure of success as many hoped for.

NOVEMBER. When thistle-down do lightly float About the pasture green, And shrills the hawk a parting note, And ceases the frost at night.

Snake Incubation. The Zoological gardens of London, always attractive, now and then acquire additional interest in the new arrival of some rare inmate, or the occurrence of some rare event among those already established there.

THE GREAT WALL OF CHINA.—The great wall of China was measured in many places by Mr. Unthank, an American engineer, lately engaged on a survey for a Chinese railway.

MILK-BEER.—Milk-beer, a new product of fermentation is discussed, in connection with the beer question generally, by a recent French writer.

HEAVY GORHAM, a Utah Mormon, undertook to chastise his six wives with a horse-whip for disobedience. He had previously punished them singly many times, and had grown arrogant; but this time he had overdone his power.

EVERY day come new evidences of the need of an increased army to preserve order in the Northern States. At Waterford, Pa., a few nights ago, a party of able-bodied men, well disguised, seized an unfortunate woman, stripped her, smeared her all over with tar, then covered her with feathers and placed her astride a rail.

A COLD DECK. AND THE WAY IT WORKED WITH AN OLD CALIFORNIA MINER. "Dan De Quillo" tells the following story in the Virginia Enterprise: In the early days of California, when the miners were digging "bushels" of money out of the gulches and hills, Reddy & Andrews (Tom Andrews, who is well known here and in the mining towns of California) owned immensely rich diggings in Forest City, Sierra county.

The greatest point of difference between the Arctic and Antarctic regions lies in the fact that the former is dotted over with numerous islands, peninsulas and isthmuses, whereas the latter is exposed to the dash of a vast deep ocean.

Among the lookers on was "Domingo Joe," a nervous, restless little sport, who was Dawson's friend and chum. Joe was skipping back and forth in his restless way, peeping over the shoulders of the two men at their cards as often as an opportunity offered.

Several thousand dollars had already been bet, and finally a stumper, Dawson went $20000, better. Reddy promptly "saw the raise" and said, "I go you another $20000 better. Quite absurdly, indeed, he then picked up the two cards in the draw, and then laying unnoted by his side.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S FAMILY INFLUENCE.—Victoria always is a good deal spoken about. It is said that she, and none other, untangled the raveled skein between the Prince and Princess of Wales, who were now so much together and apparently so well content with each other that the lady must have relinquished (if she ever entertained the intention of going to Copenhagen for an indefinite period.

OSBORN MEN HAPPIEST IN WEDLOCK.—No woman will love a man the better for being renowned or prominent. Though he be the first among men she will be prouder not fonder; as is often the case she will not even be proud.

GOVERNMENT LAND PATENTS.—A correspondent of an Eastern paper urges the importance of securing the United States patent deeds thereto, and says that the fact is revealed by investigations at the United States Land Office, that hundreds and probably thousands, of cases, owing to the poor ink used in the offices at Washington, the descriptions of land in these patents have entirely faded out, so as to become perfectly illegible, and it is only by the filing on the outside, made in the State office, that even the name of the person, and town and range, can be known.

THE MOSLEM TEMPLE. THE GREAT CHURCH AT CONSTANTINOPLE. There is a belief of long standing among the Greeks of Constantinople that the Church of Santa Sophia—now a mosque—shall be restored to Christianity.

ZACK CHANDLER contributed about $30,000 to the Hayes campaign last year. He is badly out of pocket, and how will he ever get even?

HOLDING ON TO POWER.—The villainous persistence in holding on to power at the expense of decency, honesty and honor will have its reactionary effect upon the republic.

PATERSON'S TROUBLE seems to be about equal no matter whether he leads behind his senatorial chair or goes to South Carolina to face a jury. If he appeals to the senate he will be ejected, and then South Carolina would bag him at once.

THE FLOATING VOTE.—In every close contest, more converts are made to one side or the other on the day of election by the persuasion of bank bills or their equivalent than by all the heated persuasion of eloquent orators during the campaign.

IN placing Mr. Wadleigh at the head of the committee on privileges and elections, and adding Mr. Ingalls to that committee, the republicans in the senate have done all in their power to forestall a fair consideration of the important courts now on the docket.

PIEVNA.—Some idea of the method of military operations in the East may be gathered from the description of Pievna in a state of siege. The Russians have contracted their circle around Pievna, it is said, to thirty miles, and an army of one hundred and twenty thousand men is distributed in two lines of trenches around the town.

INDIAN AGENCIES.—Father Mesplie is thoroughly familiar with the whole system of Indian mismanagement. Here is what he says of the agencies: At agencies where there are from five thousand to six thousand Indians perhaps a hundred and fifty visit the mission, and it may be that half a dozen children attend the mission school and learn to read.

ONLY A SHOWER.—The New York radical committee chirps quite hopefully and in an address just issued, expresses its conviction that a total rout of the democratic forces in the Empire State is impending.

A LACK OF SYSTEM.—George William Curtis is one of the most ardent advocates of civil service reform in American politics, and at the same time one of President Hayes' most devoted followers.

RADICAL FEDERAL.—The New York Tribune says: That was a pretty solemn gathering at Secretary Sherman's house in Washington, recently, when the republican leaders relieved their minds on the political situation, but it was illuminated with one delicious gleam of humor from General Butler.

GENERAL LOGAN is in Washington. He has views. He thinks the 80,000 office-holders are not working for the republican party, and denounces Mr. Hayes and the civil service reform.

TURKISH PROSPECTS DARKENING.—As the year draws to a close the Turkish prospects appear much darker than seemed probable a month ago. The Armenian campaign was supposed to have been concluded by the disastrous results of the first Russian attack, but Mukhtar Pasha, with true Oriental incapacity, remained inactive until his army was reinforced and reorganized, and he continued in a dangerous and exposed position when he ought to have had his army under the guns of Kars.

JUDGE TAFT is sedate and anxious. Ohio was fresher he didn't count upon. And he thinks the republican party is breaking up like winter in a general spring thaw. Taft washes his hands and reads his prayer-book a good deal more than he used to.

BEN SPOONER is the United States Marshal for Indiana. He is a strong radical, but the Philadelphia Chronicle says that he is no relation to the other Mr. Spooner commonly called Ben Butler.

CONKALING is said to be in splendid fighting trim and as saucy as he is arrogant. And poor Blaine, though fat and consequential, is afraid to knock the chip from the pasha's shoulder.

A STAMTLING ADMISSION.—The latest contribution to history comes from the pen of Hon. William Strong of Pennsylvania, one of the associate justices of the supreme court of the United States.

I do not believe that congress has any constitutional right to inquire into state elections for state elections.

BETTER suffer a present evil than open such a door, better than abandon all the time-honored principles of the democratic party. I am yours, W. Strong.

IN TRUBLE.—Mr. Durant, the president of the Union Pacific railroad, is a little misty in his interpretation of meum et tuum. Certain real estate was assigned to him in trust for the road by the city of Omaha, which he appropriated to his own use, and refused to return to the company.

It is possible for the small partisan majority of the senate to admit Kellogg, Lewis and Corbin; but who will answer for the sweep of the returning wave of retribution? Who will halt in the relentless prosecution of Wells and Anderson and Kellogg and their criminal associates?

JOSE SHEPARD, a vocalist and violinist of singular excellence, will visit Walla Walla the coming week, when he proposes to give several concerts. His entertainments at Portland gave general satisfaction and are highly spoken of by the local press.

THE MAIL due at Walla Walla, Wednesday noon, failed to arrive. Heavy snows and rains in the mountains at this season of the year frequently interfere with the regular transmission of the mails. Considering the mountainous character of the country traversed, our mails come through with remarkable regularity.

FATHER DUFFY has again been assigned to the charge of St. Patrick's church. This will be good news for the members of the church who had come to regard Father Duffy with something akin to filial reverence, and were pained and disappointed when the order was issued for his removal. This order has finally been reconsidered, and Father Duffy will again minister to the spiritual wants of the people who know and love him so well.

THE CONVENTION to frame a constitution for the coming state of Washington, which is to meet next June at Walla Walla, will consist of but five delegates, three from the territory at large, one from each of the three judicial districts, and one from each of the several counties. If political tricksters are left out of the convention, and the work of framing the constitution is left to men of probity and ability, we feel sanguine that the people will endorse the measure.

THE BLIND AND DEAF.—The late legislature very properly made provision for the education of the blind and deaf. The governor of the territory is authorized to contract with the Oregon authorities for the care of this class of unfortunate. The amount appropriated for the purpose is $1000, and the cost per person shall not exceed $25. This relief is restricted to children whose parents are unable to provide for them. As a whole the legislature was singularly weak and inefficient body, and this provision for the blind and deaf is about the only act that resulted to unqualified commendation.

EMIGRANTS.—Notwithstanding the season is far advanced, immigrants continue to pour into the country. The bulk of those now arriving had from California, where they were disappointed in securing lands. The large land grants that came the Golden State are death to men of small means, and hence we find this class flocking to the Northern country where they can obtain the best what lands in the world, and enter the same under the pre-emption or homestead laws. To the poor man who is able and willing to work, no country in the world offers such inducements.

MRS. A. J. DUNWAY is up in the Fa'ouse country, engaged in canvassing for her paper, and possibly selecting land where her boys can finally settle down upon and become independent farmers. We have often differed with Mrs. Dunway in her estimate of men and things, but gradually we have come to admire her for her pluck and the enthusiasm with which she advocates what seems to us a hopeless cause. Like all enthusiasts she is visionary, but it is well to recollect that all great revolutions have been brought about by people who were in advance of their time, and possibly it has been reserved for Mrs. Dunway to achieve the redemption of her sex from the wrongs they so patiently endure.

HUMILIATED.—Some of the members of the late legislature have a downcast look and avoid public display. Their faces are long, and generally they seem to be sally out of sorts. The impression is that they are ashamed of something they done, and on the principle that "open confession is good for the soul," we suggest that they make a clean breast of it. If they were caught taking bribes, or at any other dirty work, let them come out with it, and possibly the people will grant them absolution. Dodging round fence corners will never mend matters, and hence we recommend the ex-honorable to tell the truth and shame the devil.

A BAD SHOWING.—The District Court docket for November shows a formidable list of applicants for divorce. A stranger reading the list would infer that one-half the people in the country were engaged in stealing horses and the other half seeking to obtain releases from marital bonds. The inference, however, is not sustained by the facts. Divorces are not of more frequent occurrence in this county than in other localities, and as to horse thieves, the revival in that line is merely temporary. As a people, our morals are fully up to the regulation standard; and as to divorcees against property we will compare favorably with any other community on the coast.

HEAVY LIQUOR LICENSE.—The late legislature amended the license law whereby all keepers of saloons are required to pay at the rate of $300 yearly for licenses to sell liquor. Heretofore the price of licenses has been at the discretion of the county board. This discretion is now taken away, with the exception that in towns where there is but one saloon, licenses can be issued at the rate of $100 per annum. As the law now stands liquor dealers will pay $300 yearly to the county, $100 to the city, and $25 to the general government, making a total yearly tax of $425. One month with another we have thirty saloons in full blast in this town. The increased cost of licenses will tend to freeze the smaller establishments out, and leave dealers with capital a monopoly of the business. All the money realized from licenses is paid into the school fund.

Humbly Legislatures.

The idea of frequent meetings of legislative bodies is of English origin, but was never intended to apply to our one-house states and territories. The English Parliament frames the laws that govern one-half the world, and hence with great interests at stake and ever changing conditions in public affairs, frequent meetings of the Imperial Parliament became a necessity. But even in England, with all her great dependencies, the law only provides that Parliament shall convene at least once in three years. In this country many of the second and third rate states have annual sessions of their legislatures, and the longest period in any of the states or territories that intervenes between the meetings of the legislatures is two years. At their annual or biennial sessions "village statesmen" air their eloquence, and measure their importance by the number of bills they introduce and secure the passage of, through fair means or foul. They forget the maxim, "That the world is governed too much," and at times, as in the late Washington territory legislature, even go so far as to attempt the passage of summary laws—prescribed to the people what they shall eat or drink. In the dark days of New England the statute books were filled with laws of this character, and that something of the kind was not accomplished at the late session of the territorial legislature, was due the good sense of older and more experienced members. Recollecting this parody upon legislation, our people will be prepared to abolish legislatures altogether. But that being impossible, they will favor their meeting every five years, and in that way measurably reform the present nuisance. It is now proposed to give the election of U. S. senators directly to the people, and when this is done sessions of local legislatures can be intermitted to periods of five or ten years. With this change we shall get rid of the class of blatant demagogues who now come to the surface every first or second year, and our laws will remain on the statute books sufficiently long for the people to become acquainted with their provisions. Crude, ill-digested laws are the curse of the country, and must continue as long as the sessions of the legislature are of such frequent occurrence. When the convention meets to frame a state constitution, sessions of the legislature should be restricted to every third year, and then with sufficient time for each session, we may reasonably expect our laws to be framed with care, and such as the country requires.

DIPHTHERIA.—Several deaths from diphtheria have occurred within the city limits since our last issue, and it may be fairly stated that the disease has lost none of its malignancy. Medical men all agree that diphtheria is essentially a filth disease—that is, it originates from filthy surroundings. This being the fact, it is at once suggested that measures be taken to purify the neighborhoods in which it exists. In the immediate neighborhood of one of our public schools several deaths have occurred from this disease. In visiting the locality, a few days since, we noticed a duck-pond almost alongside the school house, and, considering the nature of the disease, we are forced to the conclusion that diphtheria will prevail in that neighborhood until the nuisance is abated. We visited another locality where diphtheria has prevailed for months, and there, too, we found filthy surroundings, and just the condition of affairs calculated to breed and disseminate this class of diseases. Another cause for the prevalence of "filth diseases" in our midst, is the use of well water. This water is nothing more than surface drainings, and, filtered through all manner of filth, is loaded with disease. To continue the use of this water is to invite the visitation of pestilence, and, if continued, Walla Walla will soon gain the reputation of being the most unhealthy town on the coast. Cleanliness is always the condition of good health, and just so long as water, tainted with impurity, is used in our households, we may expect diphtheria, typhoid fever, and all the long list of "filth diseases" to prevail. With proper precautions this can be made a healthy town; but to do so we must remove the filth that now festers in the back yards and alley ways and fairly poisons the atmosphere. This done, fathers and mothers will no longer be called upon to mourn the loss of their innocent children—the boys of the household.

A COURT OF INQUIRY is now in session, at Fort Walla Walla, convened for the purpose of inquiring into certain charges preferred against Col. Perry, by citizens of Idaho. It will be recalled that Col. Perry was reported as refusing to go to the assistance of a party of volunteers at a time when they were surrounded by hostile Indians, and in that way manifested a culpable indifference to their fate. This is one of the charges, which, at the time occasioned very great indignation. The inquiry is had at the demand of Col. Perry, who is confident that he can refute all charges that reflect upon him either as a man or a soldier.

MARCHING ON.—Dusenbery Bros. are making a grand fall campaign. Their store is constantly crowded with customers all anxious to come in for their share of bargains, and the little army of clerks are industriously employed in handling goods over the counters. In racing parlance, bottom tells; and so it is when it comes to business, the house that uniformly sells good goods at low prices, is sure to draw the crowd. This is the secret of the great rush to Dusenbery Bros., and if the reader wishes to be convinced he has only to give them a call and price their goods.

THE HOPE CROP this season promises to be immense. We hear of one mill owner who expects to market $200,000 worth of hams, bacon and lard. This party heads the list, but others come in with their five and six hundred head of hogs, and so the total crop will be three times that of any former season. So long as high freights rule, it will pay better to feed grain to hogs than ship it away, and it is owing to this fact that increased attention is given to raising hogs and other stock.

REV. E. L. GALVIN, of the Unitarian church, has made many friends during his short sojourn in this city, and is rapidly building up a congregation that embraces many of our best citizens. He has largely engaged our lady friends in the cause, and with their assistance there is no such word as fail.

FRANK PERDREINE is requested to call at this office and save costs.

A TRUSTWORTHY OFFICIAL.

The late legislature, with the assistance of Gov. Ferry, accomplished many things for which taxpayers will have to bear the brunt. One of the members from this county estimates that the legislature added at least $25,000 to the burdens that bear upon the people, every dollar unnecessary. We take it, that if the figures could be accurately obtained, $50,000 would be nearer the mark. Having increased the load of taxation, it might reasonably be expected that great care would be taken to guard the treasury against possible robbery. But here, as elsewhere, Gov. Ferry and his degenerate legislature left down the bars and, by their action, may fairly be charged to have invited robbery. The territorial auditor is the official who guards the approaches to the treasury, and with a dishonest auditor the territory is liable to be robbed to an unlimited amount. Having stated these facts, it is proper to remark that Gov. Ferry nominated T. M. Reed to the position of territorial auditor, and this nomination the council confirmed by a unanimous vote. Now, it so happens that the writer lived in California at an early date, and recollects as far back as 1855, that one T. M. Reed held the position of treasurer of El Dorado county. The same Reed was a candidate for re-election; but failed, and when called upon by his successor to turn over the money on hand, he asked for delay. The next day Reed was missing, and after allowing nearly a week to elapse the authorities forced the county safe and found that Reed was a defaulter in the sum of $13,500. From that day to this Mr. Reed has never found it convenient to visit El Dorado county. Two indictments were found against him at the subsequent term of the district court, and if he returns to his old home we presume, that even at this late day he will be furnished the opportunity to vindicate his character. In the meantime he fills the office of territorial auditor, and if the treasurer happens to be of an accommodating disposition, the pair of them can rob the territory out of twice the amount of the El Dorado steal. Let the people be thankful that the radical party sent them Gov. Ferry and a mutton-head legislature.

SAM, OF THE SAN FRANCISCO CIGAR STORE, comes to the front this week with a double column card, and calls attention to his immense stock of holiday goods. A few nights ago we had an opportunity to see his stock, and were particularly struck by his rare collection of mechanical toys. He has a striking figure of Gen. Grant that smokes a cigar just as natural as the great original. Also a lanolin toy that plays "ho-downs" equal to the real Virginia negro. These toys must be seen to be appreciated, and persons before making their holiday purchases should call and see Sam's unrivaled stock.

THE THEIVING SYSTEM OF CITY LICENSES, every where being abandoned, was revived by the late mutton-head legislature. Every proposition that had a stain in it seems to have met with favor at the hands of the men who were entrusted with the law making power. Walla Walla will now be able to support a score of loafers and ornament them with "stars" big enough for breast-plates.

ANNEXATION.—Hon. S. S. Fenn has presented in Congress a petition from the citizens of Northern Idaho asking to be annexed to Washington territory. In fixing the boundaries of the proposed state of Washington the counties in Northern Idaho can be embraced, and then there will be little difficulty about consummating the union.

IMPROVEMENT.—The second story front of M. Tom Quinn's store and saddle shop is being treated to a coat of mastic which greatly adds to the beauty of the building. The building has always been regarded as one of the best proportioned structures on Main street, and with the improvement noticed above it is a perfect beauty.

LEATHER AND SHOE FINDINGS.—Messrs. G. P. Poor & Co. have added to their usual trade a full stock of leather and shoe findings, thus enabling farmers and others to get anything in the line of leather, knives, pegs, etc. A business of the kind was required, and we doubt not the new enterprise will be well patronized.

DISTRICT COURT meets next Monday. The docket is full, and most likely will occupy the court the full term allowed by law.

AN IMPORTANT SUIT.

The owners of the flouring mills located on Mill Creek, immediately below town, have commenced suit against J. C. Isaacs, proprietor of the city water works, to enjoin him from diverting any part of the natural flow of Mill Creek from its proper channel. The complaint was filed on the 21st inst., and it is understood that the mill owners will vigorously contest the right of Mr. Isaacs to appropriate the water. This is a suit in which the city is largely interested, for the reason that if the complaint is sustained the town will to all intents and purposes be left without a supply of water. The wells, which have heretofore been our main dependence, are now conceded to be filthy and unfit for use. Our only recourse, under the circumstances, is to obtain a supply of water from Mill Creek, and if this is shut off, our condition will, indeed, be deplorable. In saying this much we have no disposition to disparage the claim of the plaintiffs. They have invested their means in large and extensive mills, and have rights of which they cannot be deprived. When the city of New York desired to appropriate the flow of the Croton river, she was obliged to purchase the rights of the mill owners along that stream, and this one item was no inconsiderable part of the expense attending the introduction of the water. So, too, of Philadelphia. That city found it necessary to purchase the mill sites for miles along the line of the Schuylkill river, and in that way expended hundreds of thousands of dollars. A few years since these water rights might have been obtained for the city at a merely nominal price. But the opportunity was neglected, and now they will cost a good round sum. The men who, as a rule, have managed city affairs have had less brains than the average cocoanut, and hence it is that at this late day the city is threatened with a water famine. By proper management it is possible that this controversy can be settled in the interest of the city, and the necessary supply of water secured for all time to come. Let us hope for the best.

FATHER MENPHEE, the celebrated missionary priest, is in Philadelphia, where he attracts much attention. Newspaper men have been "interviewing" him, and full reports, are published of all he says in relation to the mismanagement of Indian affairs. He gave a very full explanation of how Indian agents of a salary of $1500 a year manage to save $10,000 or $12,000, and generally he has opened the eyes of the public as to the abuses of the Indian system.

MARRIAGES, BIRTHS AND DEATHS are published free of charge, but the parties interested are expected to send in the notices. Neglect in this particular will always account for the failure to publish. If those concerned are too indifferent to furnish the notices, we do not propose to wear out shoe-leather in hunting them up.

MRS. JAMES CONLAN desires to return her sincere thanks to Mrs. James E. Bourne and Mrs. A. J. Daniels for kind attentions on the occasion of the sickness and death of her daughter.

THE UNITY AND AID ASSOCIATION, will meet at the residence of Mrs. Paine, on Tuesday, Nov. 27th, from one until four o'clock, P. M.

TERRITORIAL TROOPES will do well to keep away from Walla Walla. Those already here have failed to make expenses.

CHARLES H. STEN, of the Fa'ouse Gazette, is in town and speaks highly of the prospects of his paper.

Constantinople. A glance at a map of Constantinople will show the reader the general features of the city. The old city, formerly Byzantium, but now called Stamboul, is situated on the part which existed in 1453, when it was captured by the Turks.

The Seraglio. This was, until within a few years, the site of one of the most famous, romantic, and beautiful abodes of royalty the world has seen. Commanding from its airy and stately gold-fretted halls views of Marmora, the Bosphorus, and Golden Horn, with the snow-capped ranges of Olympus, and the site of Bursa, the first capital of Turkey, visible in the dim distance, its marble fountains ever spouting silver rain, its gardens ever in bloom, the gilded domes and minarets rising skyward around it like the fairy fabrics of the land of dreams, it was the central spot of the finest combination of natural and artificial scenery the world has yet seen.

A LESSON TO FATHERS.—The great secret of success in bringing up children is to establish and preserve perfect confidence between parents and children. If the father is the boy's best friend, as all wise mothers are the girl's, there is no trouble about keeping them from bad associates, whose vicious examples and silly bravado have a lasting effect upon their characters.

THE EXTINCTION OF SPECIES.—The extinction of many animals that are known to have formerly existed on the earth is a subject which cannot very easily be explained, while the number of them is greater than at first sight would be supposed. Various species no doubt undergo gradual extinction by changes which deprive them of their accustomed food; but others seem to die out from unknown causes.

IN AN AWKWARD PLACE.—Sweet are the uses of retributive justice. In passing through a train on the New York Central railroad to collect tickets, the conductor encountered, east of Utica a colored man who had neither ticket nor medium of exchange, and after a desultory discussion stopped the cars and kicked him off the platform. A few weeks afterward, the conductor took a chair in a barber shop in Albany, under the administration of a colored man. The barber covered his customer's face with lather, whipped out a glittering razor and while he was improving its edge by means of a strap that dangled from the wall, remarked to the gentleman in the chair: "Say, boss, you doesn't know me, does you? I remember the fellow you lambled from your train up at Tribes Hill! Dat was a bad thing for you to do, sah, an' I remembers it well." Right here the conductor bounded from his chair and danced around the room with the lather dripping from his chin, and his hair standing on end. He was finally induced to resume his seat, on the barber's pledging himself to do no mischief, but he did not enjoy the shave and breathed more freely when he was outside of the shop.

OLD TULUMNE.

The Humors of the Old '40ers.

The grim, ghastly humor of the '40er has attained a world-wide celebrity. Human life was at a discount in the majority of sections, and the killing or hanging of a man was treated more as if it were a comedy than a tragedy. The expression, "gone up the flume," applied to those who had "died with their boots on."

This was the origin of the somewhat anomalous expression "gone up the flume." At the southeastern angle of the walls is the fortress called the Vedee Koullier or Seraglio. This has often been used as a dungeon for prisoners of State, into which the foreign ambassadors were formerly thrown upon the breaking out of a strong garrison, which is always maintained there.

Every inch of ground was occupied and thousands of picks were swinging from morning to night, consequently the prospect of a woman over the road through this portion of the mines, was greeted at every step with a jovial welcoming shout of "Oh-h-h Jim" along the creek; "Oh-h-h Jim" rang out clear and strong from the slopes of Table Mountain, and "Oh-h-h Jim" floated from the distant plains of Rawhide. A deep bass note from the creek, each man ceasing to gaze earnestly at the woman, or perhaps, to swing his old, greasy slouch hat in token of the joy he felt at seeing so great a curiosity as a woman in the "diggings." Then he would return to his labor with thoughts of the "girl he left behind him," thinking, with tear-dimmed eyes, perhaps, of the aged mother or blooming sister who patiently waited his return from the far shores of the glittering Pacific.

A WORD TO BUSINESS MEN.—Judicious advertising always pays. If you have a good thing, advertise. If you don't, don't.

People who advertise only once in three months, forget that most folks can't remember anything longer than seven days. If you can arouse curiosity by an advertisement, let him do his advertising. You can't eat enough in one week to last a whole year, and you can't advertise on that plan either.

TIM'S OATH.—"Tim, this won't do; you must take warning by the fate of your friend O'Shaughnessy. Only three nights ago he came home much soberer than you are, but in attempting to blow out a candle his breath took fire, and he exploded—blew up—so that his friends in three days have not been able to scrape enough of him together to hold a wake over."

AMERICANS ARE LEARNING FROM THE MEMORIES. Prof. Butler writes from Nebraska to the Chicago Times: "Of late I have eaten a dinner cooked by grass, as well as examined straw-furnace in the houses of Bishop Peters and scores of his flock. There has been no freezing in his house (48x20) during the two years since it was built. Yet his only winter fuel has been straw, and his furnace—the iron work of which cost $5—is heated only three times a day. What Nebraska has wasted now warns a thousand Muscovites. Russian furnaces, I notice, are already set up in the houses of Yankees, who see that if their fuel shall be heneforth costly on their dwellings cold, the fault will be all their own."

Poultry Keeping by Boys.

It is one of the most promising indications of character when a boy shows a disposition to earn something. This desire to hold something in fee-simple is the very opposite of tramping. Among boys, the enjoyment of owning, buying and selling is very keen, and is often gratified in the getting of knives, old watches and trinkets, and making exchanges with each other.

Now comes a scheme that is just right. How can we teach a boy business habits better than by giving him an opportunity to "run" a henry? The accounts must be accurately kept; there must be buying and selling; there ought to be a profit. A miniature business springs up; and inasmuch as it is real, why is it not as good as a business college? A love of home is fostered by the ownership of flowers, small fruits and poultry.

They may learn when and where to purchase supplies to the best advantage, and how to sell the surplus products so as to give the most profit with the least expense. A pleasant self-reliance and good business habits may be growing, and, at the same time, a love for reward, refinement and humanity.—Poultry World.

DR. SONNENSTEIN, the leading Jewish Rabbi in St. Louis, delivered a course of lectures in his synagogue on Judaism. They were published in the daily press and extensively copied and read. He has commenced a series for this winter on Christianity and Judaism, in which he takes the ground that "while Judaism is in accord with modern science, Christianity never can be. Despite the efforts of many able men, Christianity and science are, and must be, antagonistic. Science and the Bible can not be reconciled. Christianity, moreover, can not be independent of the Bible. But what is the Bible to the Israelites? Even the Talmudic Jew does not deserve the credit it obtains among the Christians. The Talmud itself says that the unwritten law is higher and more to be honored than the written. Those who deal with the canon of the Jewish Bible knew that they had to do with the work of man, and did not believe in its divine origin."
