successes on the side of the Union ar well calculated to inspire the Government sympa thizers with new confidence. The grandest fea ture of the campaign is the engagement that took place between the little iron gun boat Monitor, and the monster Merrimack, at Newport News in which the former received twenty-three shots against her sides and top without apparent injury, We copy the following account from one of the officers who participated in the engagement :

MESSIRS, EDITORS:—As it may be some time before the official report of Chief Engineer Simers is made public. I have thought that the fecta of the shot on our vessel in the late engagement with the Merrimac might be interesting to you. The details of the fight, which lasted three hours and a half, have already been made public, so that I will confine myself to the effect of the shot upon us.

The Merrimac's projectiles were mostly percion shells, fired from 10 to 11-inch rifled piece The Merrimac's projectiles were mostly percussion shells, fired from 10 to 11-inch rilled pieces.
Twenty-three rhots struck us, including two from the Memostot, which, during the engagement, fired over our heads. The deepest indentation on our terret was 2 1-2 inches, produced by a 150upound percussion shell, fired at a distance of 20 of feet perpendicular with the side. Our deck received four shot, making slight depressions. One for shot struck us on the angle formed by the deck and side, tearing up the iron plating about onehird the width of a sheet, starting the bolts and splintering the wood a little. Three or four othwere struck us just above the water line, with no other effect than making indentations of 2 inches.
The pilot-houre received one shot on one of the upper cornurs, nearly battering it down. A little later in the action, however, a heavy shell was thrown from the distance of about 15 feet against

INFRACTIONS OF LAW .- Walla Walla is not so bad a place as some, at a distance, would like to make it. Persons journeying through here on their way to the mines, frequently seem to think their, way to the mines, frequently seem to think themselves when they arrive here beyond the reach of law, and from not being in possession of the facts, are led to commit misdemeanors—possibly "just to see how it goes." Two cases in point came up last week—one a big "web-foot," (who, by the way, bears the reputation of being a very peaceable man when at home,) took it into his head that he would "clean out" a down town his head that he would "clean out" a down town the first which have the second that he would "clean out" a form to work the mideral possession of the facts, are led to commit misdemental to the form of the facts of the form of the facts of the his head that he would "clean out" a down town saloon, and forthwith proceeded to put his dire design into execution by flourishing a pistol and roaring out that he was "on it." He succeeded whereby admirably—put to flight the half-dozen or more immates of the establishment, and stood "champion of the field." But complaint was man properly that the property of the pion of the field." But compliant was mane ugainst him, and a warrant issued for his arrest, which one of the deputy sheriffs proceeded to serve. Don Quixotte like, he ex-dently seemed to think here was another chance for adventure, and made a dash at the deputy with a drawn knife. But the deputy wouldn't be frightened—quietly drew a revolver and fired at the offender, which the "exession" his neck. Web-foot conclusions. slightly "creasing" his neck. Web-foot conclu-ded the game was becoming serious, and without ded the game was becoming serious, and without invoking the aid of his dislenea, to stimulate him for his dislenea, to stimulate him to further distance of valor, at once gave himself up. He reposed that night and for the two or three successive ones in a "eastle" at the lower end of the city. He afterwards had a hearing before his Honor, Judge Oliphant, and upon paying a fine and costs of prosecution, was set at liberty, convinced no doubt that Walla Walla is "Not so had a place as some would like to make it. And whether good, or whether had, Depends on how one takes it."

One tining, at least, is very certain: it many of the strangers and sojourners here would conduct themselves as they do at home the name of the place abread would not be so unenviable; for nearly all the violations of law and order that have taken place within our limits during the last year have been committed by that clas THEATRICAL .- Mr. and Mrs. Pope, supported by Mr. and Mrs. Beatty, the Robinson family, Messrs, Ruby, Lane, Dennis Townsend and Harris, have been playing an engagement during the week at the Pio-

The ben-eft and last appearance of Mrs. Pope was announced for yesterday (Friday) evening. when the Play of Camille was to have been presented; but as the bills did not say positively the last appearance," we rather expect to see Mrs. P. on the boards again during the coming week. In case of a re-engagement, we would suggest that a se-lection of pieces in which the char eters are not all compelied to swallow poison, or be run through with daggers, would be well by way of a change. We have learned "how well they die." Can't they show us "how to live"—to "grin and hear it," even though love, matrimony, satisfied ambition, or all the goods that flesh is heir to stare them in the face? At the Varieties Theater, we have STILL THEY COME .- Our streets afford daily exhibitions of the continuance of the throng bound for the mines east of this polot. The number, instead of diminishing, seems evidently on the increase. A large proportion of those now moving thitherward are from California, as has been a goodly number of the vanequed Mondacher.

Our earniest wish is that the miners may all be successful; yet we shall not be surprised if the reverses that have characterized all the mining excitements since the discovery of gold in California shall mark this one, and the stampede from the diggings be as, present the stampede from the diggings to as, present the stamped from the digging to the stamp great using the content and the first the rich discoveries. That all will find employment there it is acarcely reasonable to suppose.
