When wild war's deadly blast was blawn,
And gentle peace returning,
W' nony a sweetible fatheresas,
W' mony a wider mourning,
Ileft the lines and tented field,
Where lang I'd been a ledger,
My humble knapanck a' my wealth,
A pror and honest sedger.

A leat light heart was in my breast,
My hand unstained wit plunder,
My hand unstained wit plunder,
I cheery on did wander,
I cheery on did wander,
I thought upon the banks o' Goll,
I thought upon my Nancy,
I thought upon the witching smile
That caught my youthful fancy,

At length I renched the coming glen,
Where early life I sported;
I passed the null and trysting them.
Where Nancy all I controd:
Who spied but my aim dear maid.
Down by her mother's dwelling;
And turned around to hide the fixed.
This from my e'en was swelling.

life and the Senate and Crittenden was chosen his successor. He remained now in the Senate until 1848, when the Whigs elected him Governor of Kentucky. From midsummer of 1850 till Pierce was elected President, he was in Fillmore's Cabinet.— Afterwards he was re-elected to the Senato, and held his seat till the expiration of his term, March 4, 1861, when Garret Davis succeeded him.

Crittenden was a man abounding in traits that endeared him to the public—fond of a good story, genial and whole-souled in his manner, eloquent in debate and thoroughly American in his style of thought and expression. He was originally a Republican of the old order, then a Whig, then an "American." then a Compromise Peace man, always and to the last for the Union. In his latter days peace became very dear to him. He was for peace when the Polk people were shouting "Fifty-four forty or Fight;" for peace even at the expense of admitting Kansas by Toombe's bill, though against her admission under the Lecompton Constitution, which he held to be a fraud; for peace by compromises with the South in 1861, long after the South had determined beyond all peradventure that there should be no peace unless the North would submit to the dismemberment of the Union rather than declare war. He urged the adoption of amendments to the Constitution, which would declare Congress to have no power to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia, so long as it existed in Virginia and Maryland, and no power to abolish slavery in the pistic of the Paace Conference were stilled to the Paace

New York, July 28.—The Rebel steamer Merrimac built by the British, was captured by the gunboat Irigouois while attempting to run the blockide off Wilmington.

The Charleston Mercury of yesterday, speaking of the late attack on Port Wagner, admits that our forest held their position in front over two burse under a galling fire. The account, the house of the statement was terriffice—our fine being amply protected by bomb proofs.

The Death of a Statesman.

John J. Crittenden, the celebrated Kertuckian, died on Sunday morning. July 28th, at Frankfort, Mr. Crittenden was born in the year 1735, in Kentucky, where he has always lived. He was clucated as a lawyer. In 1816 he was cleeted to the Lower House of the State Legislature, and for several years he was its speaker. He was complimented by a nomination from President John Quiney Adams to the Sunday Maring the two years that comprised the short term for which he was cleeted to the Lower House of the State Legislature, and for several years he was its speaker. of the bayonet; and eried "To Kalonga and France!" and "To Smolensk and Destruction!

It was only at dark, after an entire day of the arfullest hand to hand fighting over done between the French and Russians, that the cannon of Eugene could be got through the streets and placed in battery on the opposite side of the town. Gread's and Campan's divisions of Davouat's corpus established themselves with difficulty in the woods and ravines on either side.—
The sun went down. Its descending blaze flashed from the bayonets of one hundred thousand of Koutosoff's infantry, now arrived on the woods eminence in the rear of Malo Jaroslavitz, with syren hundred thousand of Koutosoff's infantry, now arrived on the woods eminence in the rear of Malo Jaroslavitz, with syren hundred pieces of cannon. The firther advance of the French upon the Kalonga read, without a general battle, was impressible.

The next day! An inspection by Napoleon of the field of battle—the site of the town and its plat distinguishable only by parallelogranic lines of dead and desperatory wounded, and squeres of burned skeletons commingled with charred and smoking timber—everywhere overwhelming proof of the most unconqurable purpose of resistance—the swoop of the Heman Platoff, at the head of the thousand Coscaks, upon a park of 4d pieces of artillery, and the hair breadth escape of Napoleon is entire staff from earbure—a council of war—the bold Murat's demend for cavalry to cut the Kalonga road open right through Koutosoff's center—the wiser Davoust's entreaty to take the hitherto untraveled and unwasted route by Medyer—the strong opposition to this by the King of Napleon the fatal decision of Napoleon to return to France by the blasted path upon which he had come.

A Whisper to Daughters.

Girls before you decide to accept a man as your companion for life, look well to his resentments. See if he hates anybody soundly. If so, you run a risk in marrying him. Ad man who can hate well, has not the qualities to make a good friend.—A fruly noble soul will never hate bitterly, even though deeply injured. He stands on too high ground. He may be deeply hust, and much dispised; he may avoid, one he knows to be an enemy, but he does not harbor bitter hatred in his soul.

A noble mind is not always on the look-out for offensee, but takes good-humoredly slight annoyances that are plenty enough in every cue's pathway. Do not countentance a person who thinks to add to his importance by blustering at hotel servants, railead employees, or whenever he foels it safe to do it. Instead of proving him a cosmopolitan, as he vainly thinks, his barking and snarling only show his effinity to the puppy. Do not marry a rowdy if he is ever so rich, hoping your influence will reformed before you take a step from which you can never recede while life lasts.

It is an excellent sign for a young man if he is kind and attentive to his mother and sisters, such a one will be quite sure to make a kind husband. There is something kind and genial and worth loving in a young fellou that all the children run to, if they wish to ask a foro—one the lattle girls are not afraid to ask to carry them across the muddy streets,—one the boys look to naturally to help them out of their trouble with "that plaguy kite"—one who has a few minutes to spare from his work, to put up a awing that shall furnish weeks of enjoyment to the little folls. Children are sharp observers of human nature, and depend upon it a young man that all the children like has something about him worth litting, whether he wear home-spun or broad-cloth.

A Gitost IN A Belefic.—The inhabitants of a secluded village of the Montague Noire, in the department of the Aude, were roused from their beds one night recently by the sound of the toesin"—for such is the pompons phrase used by a local writer to describe the ringing of the single bell of the small parish church. The idea of a fire first suggested itself to the minds of the villagers, but as no fire was to be seen they flocked to the church to see what was the matter. To their great astonishment, however, the church door was locked; no voice responded from within to their loud shouts of inquiry; and yet the bell continued to ring loudly and hurricidly? "The cure was called up and brought the church key; "With trembling bearts the crowd followed their pastor into the sacred building. They penetrated into the belfry, and—oh! horrer of horrors!—the bell-rops was violently agitated and pulling the bell by itself. The good priest himself was scared at this fearful phenomenon, and his followers, pale with terror, dropped down upon their knee and crossed themselves.—It was midnight, the hour when spirits walk abroad. The priest armed with his goupillon, proceeded to exofeise the demon; but all the holy water in the church was soon exhausted, and yet the dreadful bell continued to sound. At length a peasant more interpid than the rest volunteered to climb into the steeple and look at the bell itself. As he mounted the dark, narrow, winding ladder which led to the abode of mystery, the terrified parishoners below mattered their paternosters with increased rapidity. In a few moments an unearthly shrick from the devoted measenger left no deubt on the minds of the people below that he had met with the devil Limself. As the unhappy man approached the bell, it did indeed cease to sound, but by the flickering pale light of this lantern he saw crouching down close to the chapper a black, monstring the bell that the had met with the devil Limself. As the unhappy man approached the bell, it did indeed cease to sound, but by the

he electrified them by making the following confession:

"My Christian friends, you all know that I tost my dear wife some months ago [sobs and tears] and that Nancy Sternes has been keeping house for me. And you know that I have a little child not a year old.—Well, sometimes that little child would cry in the night, and it would be a long time before I could quite it; and last Tuerday night—God forgive me!—the child eried so hard that Nancy arose and came into the roominad leaned over the bed to hush the child—and brothers and sisters, her leaning over me there made me forget Christ!"

Here the worthy deacon broke down entirely, and stood weeping, and wailing and blos ing his nose.

"What did you do?" demanded the minister sternly.

"1—ki—kissed her!" stammered out the Deacon between his soby, "but I have been ister sternly.

"I—ki-sised her!" stammered out the Deacon between his sobs, "but I have been very sorry about it, and prayed to be forgiven—and I want you to forgive me and pray for me brothers and sisters."

As the deacon bowed himself upon his seat like the mighty oak before the tornado, Deacon Goodfellow arose and astonished the audience still more by saying:

"Brothers and sisters, you have heard what brother Brown has said, and he wants our forgiveness. For my part I believe Brother Brown is truly penitent, and I am willing to forgive him with my whole heart. And brothers and sisters, I will add, still farther, that if I'd no wife, and a pretty girl like Nancy Sternes should come into my room, and lean over my bed, and lean over me, I'd kiss her, Christ or no Christ!"

Tonnessee:

"Adjutant Gen. Thomas, of the War Department was here not long since, and made a short but stirring speech, in reference to the Administration antis views. Concerning the negroes, he said: "The President is pained to learn that this unfortunate race who are trying to escape from their cruel masters, and coming to our lines for protection have been so often refused admittance, and told to return again to their masters. I charge you, if any of this unfortunate race shall come to your lines, you will not expol them, but receive them cordially. They are to be encouraged to come in, and to be received kindly, and fed, clothed and armed. I have the fullest authority for dismissing from the army any ciothed and armed. I have the fellest au-thority for dismissing from the army any man, be his rank what it may, for maltreat-ing this unfortunate race. I would rather do that, than give commissions, because such men are unworthy the name of sol-diers. This is the determined policy of the Administration."

diers. This is the determined policy of the Administration."

A SLAVE CAPTURES HIS MASTER.—Among the incidents of the Milliken Bend fight worthy of note was the capture of a rebel soldier by a darkey, who was his master three months ago. The Texan was caught in a tight place by one of Col. Leib's men, who cried out to him. "Hold on dar, and put down your gun, or I'll shoot." The rebel surrendered unconditionally, but after identifying his captor, said to ene of our officers that he protested against being held as a prisoner by his own slave.

"It's good enough for you, "said the officer: that's just the man to guard you.—And Jim," addressing the soldier; "if he don't behave himself, shoot him down."—The chivalrous Southern was very indiguant, and his wrath efferesseed in a series of "God damns" which fell upon the cars of the intelligent contraband" without offect. The dusky warrow kept also eyo upon his prisoner, but refused to hold any conversation with him, or answer any of his questions as to when he enlisted, or how he have he have to level a una this master.

shall be exported from the United States during the existence of the present war.— Much dissatisfaction is expressed in the Puget Sound country on account of enforcement of this order there—the people claiming that it was evidently never intend-ed to apply to this coast. It blocks up their market for live stock, which has heretofore been shipped to British Columbia, leaving them entirely without a market for their beef cattle. If this order is continued in force long our British neighbors at the North will have a starving time of it, as their country does not furnish them half a supply of beef. Since the enforcement of the order, beef cattle in the British Columbia mines have gone up from forty-five to fifty per cent. The Collector of the Pu-get Sound District has had a hard time enforcing the order, and has met with much opposition by exporters.

Buford's cavalry and a supporting infantry force, crossed the Rhappahannock at the R. R. station, thence with eavarly and artillery Buford proceeded towards Culpepper driving Stewart's cavalry before him, when near Culpepper Buford encountered a large force of infantry and artillery; a fleren fight ensued, lasting until dark, when he withdrew to Brandy Station—loss on both sides is considerable. This reconnoisance confirms the concentration of Lee's forces near Culpepper. And indicates that his headquarters is at Strasburg, four miles south-east of Cullepper.

Corps of infaitry crossed the Rhappahannock and are in position, to render Buford efficient support. According to the statement of intelligent prisoners, the rehal force is so scattered watching our movement that no general engagement is imment at present. Spices were arrested encountered for Richmond, with maps of all the fortifications about Washington, on thier persons.

THE WASHINGTON STATESMAN Published Every Saturday Morning

radino.—The light from the city of Umatilla Landing is said to be fading away. Already the streets wear the appearance of a "city of the plains," in consequence of the accumulated sand and dust, which, driven before the high winds that prevail there, is beginning to assume pyramidial forms against the shanties where it is blown. The barren desert on which the town is situated looks dreary enough now, with not a spear of grass in sight, while the heat reflected from the scorching sands is almost intofera-nble. The tender-footed pack trains as they travel over this desert waste clevate their pedals fike a furkey in a bed of coals and covered roofs of the houses give them the air tors, teamsters and packers at Salt Lake will prefer going thither to coming over to this side of the mountains. It is now a and the only thing now required to com-plete the resemblance is the lonely wail of the night own echoing from the tops of the spulldings, and which will are long mingle with that of the dismal howl of the cayote that shall come thither for sheller, when the packers have entirely ceased to visit the The hundreds of adventurers who ocked thither two and three mouths ago to spaculate in corner-lots have decamped to more genial abodes; leaving their lots to mercies of the winds and sands, convinced that the risk of leaving them to return and find them entirely under ground reture and had tem enturely under ground is preferable to remaing there and running the chances of being themselves covered up. We are sorry to notice these indications to the future backward progress of Unatilla; for we had hoped to see a city rise up there that would furnish another market for the vestments, nor lived long enough to con-vince the world that the idea of their projectors was anything else than na insane one The same fatality has in almost all cases in the actions of the people whom he called | Journal editors; for when a man's dem as though printed by his types, "he has writ himself an ass!"

PATRIOTIC CHINAMEN.-While the ladies were around the City the other day procuring subscriptions to the Sanitary Fund, they came ecross a couple of Celes-tial "San Choy's" and asked them if they would not subscribe something? Celestials at first did not comprehend the nature of the "call," but suddenly one of them threw open his elongated organs of vision and exclaimed, as he "cumtuxed" the subscription paper, "Oh yes! ne know now, the money is for everybody-soldiers;" whereupon he handed over a dollar, fifty cents for himself and the balauca for his partner. Their loyalty we presume will not hereafter be questioned, as contributing to the Sanitary Fund in a liberal manner seems just now to be the test. By the way, in these days of 'everybody soldiers' and in these times of wall men are created free and equal," why not raise a few regiments of "Johns?" They would make s of "Johns." They would make ers good for nothing enough for any. . If a report should get into circulation here that the Chinamen among us this coast ere to be drafted for the war, ingetr's Johns to their old quarters.

Wigg, rg Blurrs .- Mr. Dan, Welch, cthis city, who made a flying visit to White (Bluffs and) Priest Rapids on Monday, inthe new min tes at White Blufts. They re-coport prospects of from $3 to $20 per day. But few claim's Dave been opened. There is no timber in the vicinity of the nines, and dumber badders a shipped from Wallula franche age mines. The steamer (Tenino) champer hadbees I become the age of minos. The steamer (Teamo) woming down must be the quickest trip that has been accompled bed—leaving Price Rapids at half-past fear. —stopping some time at White Bluff-and other points on the account of the control of the con o'clock, Mr. W. arrived 1 here at 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the sam c day.

ges during the week. DEPOPULATING .- Mr. John Pritchet, who came down this week from Florence, informs us that the entire population of that mining camp, according to a recent census, was only 530. Mining operations, excepting on a few claims, were nearly suspended, on account of the failure of water. THE San Francisco papers announce the crival in that city, of T. J. Dryer, late arrival in that city, of T. J. No SUPPLIES FROM SALT LAKE .- The he reported immense stock of supplies or the road from Salt Lake to Boise has nevor arrived. The flour trains which were cessity for the importation of flour from Salt Lake to Boise, and the trains were stopped. We learn from parties who have had direct communication from Salt Lake, that the amount of supplies there is limit-ed,—the market baving been drained by traders who have been supplying the mines on the eastern slope of the mountains,-The mines at Beaver Head and Big Hole ore nearer to Salt Lake than those of pedata like acturacy in a occur, cannot gight for the grass plots which they cannot find until they have borie their "weary loads" filteen sules from the city. The dustpretty well es ablished fact that no plies, or at least a very small amount, be brought in to Boise this season from EXODUS FROM THE MINES .- The annu al exodus from the mines has commenced much earlier than usual. We see miners almost every day from the camps above who have left their diggings—some of them on their way to other camps, and others for the valleys and towns of Washington and Oregon, to remain until the opening of another season. The gulch diggings of Oro Fino, Florence and Elk city are fast becoming depopulated on account of the fail-ure of the water; and the number of miners in those camps who will remain late in the fall will not exceed one-third of those who have been there until the beginthat would farmish another market for the products of our valley.

IMPORTANT TO THE AMBITIOUS.—Out of more than forty newspapers that have been established in California since 1850 by persons unsequainted with the art of type-setting, and having the only qualification of the product of the type-setting, and having the only qualifi-cation of an idea that they were peculiary for the property of the distribution of they have been during the one just past,

The name of the other two we have hot learned to have head to have the hot learned.

ONE CENT LESS,—Mr. Weinheimer in forms as that he would rather pack from this place to Boise at one cent less per pound than to go to Umatilla Landing.

THE CELESTIALS .- The Chinese con tinue to make their way in numbers from British Columbia to the Colville mines.

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE SANITARY FUND -The committee of ladies appointed on thanksgiving day to take up a collection in and of the Suitary Fund went out upon their mission on Tu-sday and got $835 00. The scription paper is now in the hands of Mr. E. E. Kelly, to whom any who may have been "slighted" or not have had an opportunity to subscribe, are invited to hand in their names and their cash.
