The Gifts of the Gods.

By JOHN G. JACK.

The saying is wise though it sounds like a jest.

That the gods only allow us to be great.

For though we may think we are specially blest.

We are certain they will not favor us best.

And what's the best? Nay, 'tis not to be great.

The final account isn't settled as yet.

Old Care has a mortgage on every estate.

Gain, Honor and Distinction are mortgaged to state.

And that's what you pay for the honor you get!

Is learning a treasure, how charming the pair.

When talent and culture are charmingly met.

And that's what you pay for the learning you get!

Is genius worth having? 'Tis not a doubtful quest.

And yet what a price on the blessing is set!

To suffer most in the hour of distress.

For that's what you pay for the genius you get!

Is beauty a blessing? To have it for what?

The gods never give it to those who are great.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

And that's what you pay for the beauty you get.

The question whether this war is to be prosecuted for the sole purpose of putting down the rebellion and restoring the Union, or for the purpose of destroying slavery regardless of the consequences to the Union, is now the great issue of the day.

The "unconditional Union" men are in favor of restoring the Union at whatever cost, regardless of the effect it may have upon slavery.

The Republican papers on this coast are taking much comfort from the result of the recent election in Kentucky, and they endeavor to create the impression that the successful candidates held views synonymous with the Republican or Union party.

The platform of the Union party, which all the candidates fully endorsed in sentiment nearly identical with the Democratic platform adopted at the Vancouver Convention in this Territory, but is more explicit.

It asserts that "our institutions are assailed by an armed rebellion on one side, which can only be met by the sword, and on the other by unconstitutional acts of Congress, and startling usurpations of power by the Executive, which we have seen by experiment can be corrected by the ballot-box."

And again, "That Kentucky is loyal to the government of the United States of America, and is determined to maintain that loyalty against both domestic and foreign foes."

The platform of the Kentucky Unionists further declares, "That there is a manifest difference between any administration of the government and the government itself, and enters its solemn protest against the proclamation of the President, by which he assumes to emancipate all slaves within certain States, holding the same to be unwarranted, unconstitutional and void."

It is not in harmony with their ideas of "freedom." Thus, if a war democrat is not an abolitionist he is with them a "copperhead" or a "traitor." A man must enforce all proclamations and all acts of the officials to be a "good Union man."

race? And if the attempt shall prove successful who but the radicals will be held responsible for the evils that must follow? All past experience has proven that the intermingling and amalgamation of the Caucasian and inferior colored races does not elevate the inferior but degenerates the superior races.

The intelligent masses will continue to fight the rebellion with bullets and radicalism with ballots until a triumph is achieved over both.

The Fruits of Secession.

When we reflect upon the destruction of the vast amount of property in the rebel States, and the desolation consequent upon an armed invasion, such as has been the portion of the South since the commencement of the rebellion, we can readily see that their punishment for the attempted overthrow of the Federal Union has been terrible.

Instead of destroying the Federal Government they have brought destruction and ruin upon themselves. Even with an early peace, the condition of the rebel States will be almost as a desert waste.

The intelligent masses will continue to fight the rebellion with bullets and radicalism with ballots until a triumph is achieved over both.

Latest from the East.

Chicago, August 14.—The Herald's Washington dispatch of yesterday says it is stated by those who profess to know much of the rebel programs, that the organization of negroes in the rebel service, had been determined upon. Those employed to be compensated by donations of land and emancipation at the end of the war.

Lists of prominent rebel prisoners have been forwarded to Gen. Meredith and it is expected that within a few weeks the exchange of enlisted men who have been paroled and released will be effected, and thus save our country 18,000 soldiers to serve in the army.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Information from the Army of the Potomac, just received, says, this morning a body of rebels came upon our signal party on Water Mountain, 3 miles from Warrenton, and captured three signal officers, one of whom subsequently escaped.

Major General Warren took temporary command of the 2d Army Corps to-day. New York, August 15.—The Tribune's Washington dispatch says the number of colored troops in the army is between 22,000 and 23,000. Thirty additional negro regiments are partly organized and rapidly approaching completion.

European Intelligence.

St. John's N. P., Aug. 15.—The steamer Hibernian from Liverpool the 6th has arrived. The Confederate loan in London had declined to 24 per cent. discount, but had rallied to 24 1/2.

Capt. Luce of the ship Sunrise publishes the particulars of the capture of his vessel by the rebel forces. The latter was flying the American flag, when she overhauled the Sunrise, but after some inquiry hoisted the Confederate flag and sent a prize crew on board.

The Times contains a letter from McRae, the agent of the Confederate loan, which says the purchase of cotton by the Confederate government amounts to 500,000 bales. The cotton is principally in Georgia and Alabama, and some in Eastern Mississippi and North-Western Louisiana.

The Army and Navy Gazette takes the most gloomy view of the military prospects of the Confederacy, and says the retreat of Bragg and the flight of General Joe Johnston before General Sherman's forces show sufficient signs of exhaustion.

towel, the yellow skin, the wiry arms, the wide mouth, scarcely proclaimed the creature a man.

Madame de Stael. M. Michelet thus sketches Madame de Stael: Madame de Stael, was, unhappily for herself, not handsome.

Charlotte Corday. After her condemnation, she requested the painter might be called, whom during her trial, she remarked as studying her features.

RATHER unexpected was the reply of the little urchin, who on being arraigned for playing marbles on Sunday, and sternly asked, "Do you know where those little boys go who play marbles on Sunday?"

As I approve of the youth who has something of the old man in him, so I am no less pleased with an old man who has something of the youth.

Her counsel, Chaveau Lagarde says: "Her features may be depicted, her face reproduced, but art is powerless to paint the soul breathing from her face."

JOURNEY OF LIFE.—Life is a journey over a hill. From youth to middle age we are clambering to the top; from middle age to seventy we gradually descend, and we find our grave-bed ready which mother nature considering our frailty, has made for us—in fine, she has taken our dust from one side of the hill to carry it and rest forever on the other side.

PRENTICE says: "If anybody is dissatisfied with Federal money, let him go South and get Confederate money. If anybody is dissatisfied with United States taxes, let him go South and pay Southern taxes. If anybody is dissatisfied with the United States enrollment, let him go South and enjoy the benefits of the Southern conscription."

A JOKER FOR A RULER.—The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette writes and that paper publishes the following joke upon President Lincoln: A worthy and very pious minister, it seems, had recently, by means unknown, escaped from the confines of the Confederacy.

A MILLIONAIRE of Paris wrote to Scribe: "My dear Sir, I have a great desire to be associated with you in some dramatic composition. Will you do me the favor to write a comedy, and permit me to add to it a few lines of my own? I will then have it produced in the most costly and splendid style upon the stage, at my own expense, and we will share the glory."

Down East a school was advertised thus: "Select school—Smith & Huggs. Smith teaches the boys and Huggs the girls."

MAIL CONTRACT.—There is only one "mail contract," says a young lady, that she would care about embracing, or embarking in, and that is a promise of marriage.

A MODEL HUSBAND.—A husband ought to have great good nature, good humor, and good sense. Lively by all means. Stupid by no means. His person agreeable rather than handsome. No great objection to six feet, with an exact symmetry of parts. Always clean but not foppish in his dress. Youth promises a duration of happiness, therefore is agreeable. Well read in the natural philosophy. A tolerable ear for music, but no fiddler. I must repeat it again, no fiddling husband. An easy and unaffected politeness. No bully; just as much courage as is necessary to defend his own and his wife's honor. May fortune smile on the man of my wishes!—Fanny Fern.
