Public Writer.

A somewhat-noted writer for the Boston press, who died several years ago, was on one occasion found in the street intoxicated and taken to the watch-house, where he was kept over night. On being brought before the police magnistrate, next morning, he had become partially soler, when the following dialogue took place: Magistrate—"Well, prisoner, what do you do for a living ?"—"Prisoner—"I am a public writer." Magistrate—"And, pray, what do you find to write about?" Prisoner—"Al little to commend? ""—"Umph! and what do you commend? "Prisoner—"Al little to commend? As this case has more or less connection with the context between the city of Walla Walla and the several parties claiming portions of the town site, we deem it not improper to preface our decision in this case by a brief recital of the history of the whole matter.

In November, 1868, E. H. Berron settled upon a portion of unsurveyed layed in Walla Walla county, and as soon as the C. comment survey.

We do not recognize the expression of an intention, unaccompanied by acts of sufficient force to work a forfeiture. See Lesters Land Law page 423. There is no proof that Barron is not acting in good faith, and he has selemnly sworn that he is. If he is not, he has perjured himself, for the punishment of which crime provision is made in the law. We apprehend that the Territory will remain undivided, in spite of the agitators, until it becomes sufficiently populated to entitle her to admission as a State; then, if the Sound people desire to stay out and fremain in Territorial vassalage, we wont object provided we can agree upon the western boundary. It is not at all likely that Oregon can be induced to part with that postion of her territory formerly included in Wasco county; it promises to stay out and so may not be a supposition. The Division Question.

Some little discussion has occurred during the past few months touching the question of the division of Washington Territory, originating with the people of the Sound, and mostly confined to that locality. There has been thus far but little merit in the literation and has little investment in class who have been attracted hither by the lass who have been attracted thither by the lass who hav has been attached to the question by the people—the measure being regarded as in expedient at the present time. We have no idea that at the present time the division of the Territory is in any wise a practicable, but it is premature if it were researched, but it is premature if it were researched. The all improvements that are placed themselves in a condition to object and entire force of the proclamation make that living, a new eldorado is discorptionable, but it is premature if it were researched, and the old designed the rebel States into subjection to the Federica states in the idea of intimidating the rebel states into subjection to the Federica states. The administration of the Culture returns. practicable, but it is premature it it were not so. The only importance that can porsibly attach to the measure, in the present embryo condition of things, is of a purely political character; and the discussion of the question oxes its origin to a desire on the question oxes its origin to a desire on the condition of the discussion of the question oxes its origin to a desire on the question oxes its origin to a desire on the condition of the discussion of the question oxes its origin to a desire on the condition of the conditio

His leading dittorial announces the utter futility of his efforts during the time of the suspension, to harmonize the democracy of the State and concentrate its support upon "one leading paper." He traveled thousands of miles in his peregrinations, and owing to the democracy the polar owing object that he represented himself as the moving spirit in the analgamation project, he is the of the democracy. He has reproduced the Union, as the next best thing in the line of the suspension, and has the assurace to call upon the democracy to the State of his phllanthropic endeavors, and has the assurace to call upon the democracy. AN ENIGRANT.
Marth. October G. 1822. uburn, October 6, 1862.

Letter From Colville.

EDITORS SATERMIN.—Having been absent for a few days on a hinting excursion, I have very little to send syou'd what might be called news. As far ab Lean learn, everything accurnews. As far as Lean learn, everything goes on here in the same old hum-drum style, and dull-ness rules the hour.

Miners come dropping in occasionally, expect-ing to winter somewhere in this vicinity, and content for the present, to abandon the search for fabulous regions where gold is said to be found by the shovelfull, and settle themselves down to the more sensible conclusion of a fair day's wages for a fair day's work.

I hear incidentally that a party of emigrants having several white American women in having several white American women in their rain, have for some time been expected brev, with the intention of settling. It is to be regret-ted that so very few of that class have been in-duced to settle in this part of the country. Cer-tainly there is no lack of opportunity for them to make themselves homes, in a beautiful and heal-make interserves momes, in a beautin and near-thy locality top.

Since I cam's to this place I have become some-what intimate with a gentleman who resided for several years in Oregon; and who, when I friet-knew him, was troubled with certain web-like ex-receesaes on his feet, which I had the good for-tune to removely to that he is now enabled to went. No, elsbies, whereas formerly be wore No, elsevan. treesenees on he seek, wann I had the good by tone to remove so that he is now enabled to werr No. eights, whereas formerly be wore No. elevens. In gratitude for this little service, my Oregon acquaintance has given me his friendship and confidence. So that I was not surprised, when on reading your article or the Oregon Schalorial election, he went to his desk, and took therefrom the song which I encloses, and which he said your article reminded him of. Doubtlets you remember the notorious Lost-Valley-Straightout-Depublican letter of the great chosmonator on Roman History, the musical Guyernor of Oregon, John Whiteaker. Well, the soing as you will gee refers to thit unitie? It is somewhat stale, but as it has never been published, I thought it might interest some of your readers, especially those who reside in that humid region west of the Cascades, where a kiffs are plentiful and, gum boots are appreciated:

The Fiddlor's Lament.

NOT BYTOM MOORS.

NOT BY TOM MOORE.

There is not in this wide world, a valley so sweet,
As that valley where Straight out Republicans meet,
Yet the last string or gut from my fieldle mistigalt;
Es the cares of Loss Valley be appriged from my food
Not have the straight of the Statesann I fear,
Nor contempt from the pouph, a loca held so dear,
'This not that of whisky I can't get my fill,
On no, it is counting more hourible strill.
This that friends the beloved of my bosom will hear,
What a marginal 'Ve made of mysell, teat I fear.

Tis that friends the belowed of my bosom will bear, What a maggins I've misde of mysell, teat I fear, Uncle Joseph will consure, King Jell will book black, Case I let the secos on cat out of the seek.

Dearest valley, when dreams of a misk on have fled And the people have boffed my political head, when the people have boffed my political head, when the people have boffed my political head.

And dream o'er the beauties of classical lore.

Yours truly, Peren Snoons.

The Salem correspondents of the Portland papers represent the State Fair as a decided success. The Salem correspondents of the Portland papers represent the State Part as a decided success, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. All classes of industry were well represented on the grounds, the exhibitors evineing considerable rivalry and interest. The Fair closed on the 3d instant, by trials of speed between the blood stock of the State, the delivery of the annual address by Hon. R. P. Boise, and horselack riding by eleven ladies. The address is spoken of by the Oregonian as an able effort, delivered to seven or eight hundred shivering hearers, the speaker standing bare-headed and exposed to the Oregon mist and cold winder a historian plearers, the speaker standing bare-headed and exposed to the Oregon mist and cold winds. An address delivered under such circumstances ought to have been pronounced, "an able effort," whether it was or not.

—The Orgonian states that "Mr. T. W. Davenport has been appointed Indian Agent at the Umatilla Reservation, in place of W. H. Barnhart, who proceeds to Washington in a few days to settle up, if he can, certain-official transactions connected with this Agency."—The contributions to the sanitary fund in Oregon have reached the sum of $10,022 58. —The steamer Sierra Meede, on her last trip to San Francisco from Portland; took down $326,000 in dust and bars.

—Mr. Strong states that the entire line of telegraph from Yirka to Portland will be finished by this last of January next. —The memorial to Congress for the establishment of a branch mint Portland, has assated the feribatter. —A in Portland, has passed the legislature.—A company of troops belonging to Col. Steinberger's regiment, have been sent to Fort Steilacoom.—The steamer Maria has resumed her regular trips between Portland and the Cascades, connecting above with the steamer Dalles.

Words. Words are lighter than the cloud f Of the restless ocean spray; valuer than the treubling shadow That the next hour steals away; by the fall of summer rain drops Is the air as desply stirred, And the rose leaf that we tread on Will outlive a word. Yet on the dull silence breaking With a lightning flash a word, Bearing endless desolation On its blighting wings, I heard; Earth can forge no keener weapon Dealing surer death and pain, nd the cruel echo answere Through long years again. Innee know one word hang star-like O'er a dreary waste of years, And It only aboue the brighter Looked at through a mist of tears, While a weary wanderer gathered Hope and heart on life's dark way, By its faithful promise shining Clearer day by day.

Jeaner cay by day.

I have known a spirit calmer
Than the calmest lake and elear
As the heavens that gazed upon it,
With no wave of hope or lear;
And its deepest depths were stirn
Never, never more in slumber,
Only by a word.

Only by a word.

I have known a word more gentle.

Thus the breath of summer air.

In a listening heart it nestled.

And it lived forever there.

Not the beating of its prison.

Stirred it ever night or day;

Only with the heart's last throbbi

Could it fade away.

Words are muletly, words are living:
Serpents, with their venomed stings,
Or beight angels crowding round us
With heaven's light upon their wing.
Every word has its own spirit,
True or false, that never dies;
Every word man's lips have utered
Echoes in God's skies.—Household W

 If a man faints, place him flat on his back and let him alone.
 If any poison is swallowed, drink instantly half a glass of cool water with a heaping teaspoonfull each of common salt and ground mustard into it. This vomits and ground mustard into it. This vomits as soon as it reaches the stomach; but for fear that some of the poison may still remain, swallow the whites of two eggs, or drink a cup of strong coffee—these two being antidotes for a greater number of poisons than any dozen articles known, with the advantage of their being always at hand; if not, half a pint of sweet oil, or lamp oil, or "drippings," or melted butter, or lard, or good substitutes, especially if they romit quickly.

3. The best thing to stop the bleeding of a moderate cut instantly, is to cover it profusely with cob web, or flour and salt half and half.

4. If the blood comes from a wound by jets or spirts, be spry, or the man will die in a few minutes, because an artery is severed; tie a handkerchief loosely around near the part between the wound and the heart; put a stick between the handker chief and the skin, twist it around ustill the blood ceases to flow, and keep it there until the dector comes; in a 'position where the handkerchief cannot be used, press the thumb on a pyth near the wound, between the wound and the heart, increasing the pressure until the bleeding ceases, but do not lessen the pressure for an instant, until he physician arrives, so as to glue up the wound by coagulation or hardening of the cooling blood.

5. If your clothes take fire, slide the hands down the dress, keeping them close to the body as possible, at the same time sinking on the floor by bending the knees; if not extinguished, or great headway is gotten, lie down on the floor and roll over and over, or better, envelope yourself in a carpet, rug, bed-cloth, or any garment you can get hold of, always preferring woolen.

Young Warriors in Richmond. As a specimen of youthful depravity in Richnond, we take the following from the Enquirer: Rock battles are sources of amusement which many of the little boys of Richmond which many of the little boys of Richmond cannot resist. They hear so much of real fight, and see so many such horrors of war, that no sooner school is out than they form into armies and go to work throwing round shot in the shape of rocks, and any sort of "shell" they can pick up. A wound is usually succeeded by a "bawl," which is probably the only instance in which their fighting materially reverses the order of results in regular warfare. Nevertheless, they carry their wounds proudly, and after the swelling goes down they are pointed to by the juvenile heroes with a satisfaction indicative of their high appreciation of the high parallel that may be drawn between them and the bullet hole.

A VALUABLE REMEDY.—Every family should keep a quantity of chlorate of potash. We have never found anything equal to it for a simple ulcerated sore throat. Dissolve a small teaspoonfull of it in a tumbler of water, and then occasionally take a spoonfull of the solution so es to gargle the throat. It is nearly tasteless, and not at all offensive to take, and is hence well adapted to children. Nothing is better than this for chapped or zreeked hands. Wash them in the weak solution, and they will some and Wash them in the weak solution, and they will soon be well. It is also good for a rough, pimply, or chapped face. It may be obtained at any druggist's.

SPRUCE UF.—If you get a moment to spare, spruce up—put that gate on its binges, put a little paint on the picket fence you built hast year, trim up about your door yard, make it cozy and inviting—don't say you can't find time for these things. The fact is you have no right to go sloven ly—your wife and children will be happier, your farm will sell for more money in the market, and will be worth more to you at ne, if you devote an odd hour nov then and spruce up.

Two lawyers in Portland, returning from court the other day, one said to the other: "I have a notion to join Rev. Mr. H's church; been debating the matter for some time. What do you think of it?".
"Wolldn't do it." Well whe?".

"Because it would do you no possible lod, while it would be a very great injury the church."
