Stage Line to Auburn.

There is now a fine chance for those interested in stage enterprises to make a profitable investment in the establishment of a stage line from Wallula via this city to Wallula being the nearest point Auburn. of navigation to the Powder river mines fixes it as the place where miners and travelers en route to that country who prefe the more comfortable modes of travel and conveyance, will come. The road now un der construction from this city to Auburn is pronounced by those who have traveled over the line, in every respect preferable to that of any other traveled route, and it may with certainty be expected to be so far completed in time for the early spring trade that there will be no impediments in the way of staging over it. The known exist-ence of rich gold mines, both at Powder river and Boise and the consequent widespread excitement relative thereto, justifies the belief that an immense travel will go thither next season; and the advantages of this road in its superiority over others and its nearness to navigation will render it the great thoroughfare over which this extensive travel must pass. Even if there were any other route that could vie with this in securing the lower country travel -a proposition which is placed beyond peradven ture—the travel alone from this city, from Wallula, and from the adjacent mining regions would be a sufficient guarantee of profitable investment; but it only remain for some person or company to announce that they will put such a line on in the

THE LEGISLATURE.—The Oregonism of the Ist has the following in relation to the Washington Territory Legislature:

The Jerislature meets to day at Olympia. By private letter from that place we learn that most of the members had arrived and an organization may be expected by to-morrow afternoon, if moreorier. The legislature is composed of thirty members of the House and nine members of the Council. Several rominisert gentlemen see candidates for the presiding Chair, among whom we have heard of Hon 3 J. B. Ferusson, T. M. Reed, T. D. Bagiev and —— Hurt, for Speaker of the House, and Hon. Paul K. Hubbs, O. B. McFadden, and J. M. Moore for President of the Council.

FOREIGN INTERVENTION.—The latest are settling down to the very reasonal conclusion that intervention in American affairs would only tend to prolong the war, and that the better way for them to do in the premises is to leave Americans to fight their battles and settle their difficulties in

He informs us that the mining region, so far as prospected, extends cast and west some thirty miles, and north and south fifteen miles. The diggings are on the north branches of the Boise, and are drained by three creeks known as Grimes creek, Moore's creek and Placer creek. Nearly all the small gulches and banks along these crecks pay from $5 to $50 per day. The richest bank diggings have been found on Moore's creek and the richest gulch on Placer. One claim on the former prospects a depth of fifteen feet from 5 cents to $1,50 to the pan, and other claims there prospect nearly as well. On Placer creek, durray & Co., have taken out of their claim as tight as $500 per day.

A NEW IDEA .- A newspaper called the Sanitarian, to be devoted to the interests of the Sanitary Commission, is soon to be issued at Oregon City. It is to be pubof the Sanitary Commission, is soon to be issued at Oregon City. It is to be published semi-monthly at $2 per year, and the prospectus announces that one half the proceeds of the concern are to be donated to the Sanitary fund. The paper is to be published and edited by an association of young men-mone of whom are printers, of cebirse, of they never would embark in so wild a scheme. The idea of devoting one-half the income of spnewspaper in Oregon to a charitable purpose seems fungy to say the least. Such institutions in that country have heretofore been regarded as objects of charity themselves rather than accumulators of money for charitable purposes; and just for the reason too, that persons knawing as little of the business in which they were investing as we presume this "committee" does, have dabbled into it. Deeming the object of the "committee" a laudable one, we cannot but wish them success, but apprehend that before they get through with their enterprise they will stand more in need of assistance from the Sanitary Commission than the Commission will from them.

FROM SALMON. Our last intelligence from the Salmon mines is to the 25th Nov.
The weather was quite cold, with but little snow, and miners were laying by generally. It is supposed that the number of persons It is supposed that the number of persons who expect to winter there will not exceed five hundred, while the supply of provisisions is amply sufficient to accommodate four thousand people. Those who contemplate going to Salmon mines early next spring will not have to rin the gauntlet of starvation they did last season.

A Vigilance Committee has been formed recently at Florence, which it is said, has made a very perceptible change in the deportment of persons with road agency predicities. Quite a number of suspicious characters had taken their leave for parts unknown.

The city of Auburn, Powder River, contains bout five hundred buildings, and a permanent opulation of about three thousand. Some of he principal streets are about three miles long.

M. Proudhon to Louis Napole A letter from Brussels to the London

M. Proudhon to Louis Association.

A letter from Brussels to the London Speciator eays.:

I have found the intellectual portion of the Belgian community all in a flutter on account of an article by which the celebrated M. Proudhon has been pleased of late to grace the columns of the office de publicitie. It is in the shape of an epistle addressed to the Emperor of the Erench. "Sire." says M. Proudhon to the Emperor of the Erench. "Sire." says M. Proudhon to the Emperor of the Erench. "Sire." says M. Proudhon to the Emperor of the Erench. "Sire." says M. Proudhon to the Emperor of the Erench color of the Erench of Boileau has ceased to be infinical to the Erench. Both the policy of the Prussians and the discussions of the German Confederation are matters perfectly unittelligible to the Eightum, we held under the Erench. Both the policy of the Prussians and the discussions of the German Confederation are matters perfectly unittelligible to the Eightum, we held and provided and provid and the discussions of the German Confederation are matters perfectly unintelligible to the German Rhine. Belgium, we are led to believe, expects you. In Belgium, as in France and still more than in France, the people fast and dream; the middle classes digest their food and snore; the youth smoke and make love; the soldiers gape; there is nothing but emptiness in public opinion, and political life is no more. Tradespeople are already alive to the profits they are likely to derive from annexation; the workman looks forward to an increase of wages; the clergy will be decrease of wages; the clergy will be detion; the workman looks forward to an in-crease of wages; the clergy will be de-lighted to get rid, through you, of the idle clamors of the liberal part; the represen-tatives—is there any energetic resolution to be expected from men who spend as many as six weeks in disputing about an infidel buried in holy ground? The walls of Anvers will crumble down at the very sound of your trumpels, and to Orangist Flanders such a trick played off on the Govnment will be found most acceptable.

THE PAPER CURRENCY.—A despatch from Washington, of date 20th October, from Washington, of date 20th October, says:

There is no foundation for the current report that the Secretary of the Treasury will apply to the next Congress for authority to issue more Treasury notes. It is probable that Mr. Chase will ask Congress to legislate so as to curtail the issue of bank bills, and thus restore the value of Government paper to the gold standard—
It is the opinion of many financiers who have been in Washington of late, that if no more Government paper were to be issued, and if all the paper issues of the banks could be suppressed, the Government paper would instantly rise to the value of gold.—
The Government is convinced that someoney. It has been proposed in certain quarters It has been proposed in certain quarters that henceforth, instead of issuing any more paper currency, the Treasury Department shall issue six months and one year six per cent. certificates of indebtedness. The old demand notes are vapidly coming in, as the importations for the last two or three months have been very heavy, and the duties have been mostly paid in the old notes instead of coin.

THE DEFENSES AT HARTER'S FERRY.—A letter from Harper's Ferry says:

If it be any consolation to the public to know that this important position is now impregnable against any possible atteck, let them take assurance to that effect.—The three hights are now securely fortified against all peradventure. The "Ax Brigade" has for weeks been busy in clearing away the woods on the aumnits, fire been called in the doi. Its work in-burning-up the brush, and batteries now frown from every eminence. The work of fortification still continues, and this morning, as I was cut-tously picking my way down the rocky eminence, I encountered a team of twelve mules tugging and straining overy muscle eminence, I encountered a team of tweive mules tugging and straining every muscle in dragging a buge thirty-two pounder Parrott gun up the crest. I shall not, however, emulate the peculiar patriotism of one of your cotemporaries, which keeps the enemy fully posted as to the exact de-fenses of these hights. I content myself with giving you the comfort that Harper's Ferry will never again pass out of the hands of the nation.

MRS. PARTINGTON ON THE NEW MILITARY CROP.—A shadow passed our window, the door opened, and looking up we saw the form of Mrs.

T've just dropped in, she said. Dropped in!
and she weighs one hundred and fifty if she does an punce. She held out her souff box, as she said, 'Good morning,' filled with Rhedo's delectable. Ike was by her side, and before we had time to prevent it, he had both arms stuck to the fiv namer on the desk before us. 'I've just droped in to ask,' she said, as we looked up inquir peu it to use, sue saint, us we tooked up inquir-ingly, what sort of a crop the secessionists will be likely to get from planting cannon, that I see aomething about in the papers? Don't believe will come up."

'Perhans it may, we said, favoring the idea,

'Perhaps it may, we said, favoring the idea,' is we see many sprouts about in nniform that are evidently sons of guns, and if, as Mr. Field has said, a boldier's sire and grandsire may be a sword, why not ag unit sid-recondants?

'May be so,' said she brightening up, 'may be so, it isn't the most unlikely thing that never came to pass, and that may be why guns wear breeches. I declare I never thought of that before.'
