A SLEEPY LITTLE SCHOOL.

A funny old professor kept a school for little boys. And he'd romp with them in play-time and he wouldn't mind the noise; And in his little school-room, with its head against the wall, Stood a bed of such proportions as was big enough for all.

"It's for tired little pupils," he explained; "for you will find How very wrong indeed it is to force a building mad."

Whenever one gets sleepy and can't hold up his head, I make him lay his primer down and send him off to bed.

"And sometimes it will happen, on a warm and pleasant day, When the little birds upon the trees go toot-toot-toot."

When wide-awake and studious it's difficult to keep, One by one they'll get a-nodding 'till the whole class is asleep!

"Then before they're all in dreamland and their funny noses begin, I close the shutters softly, so the sunlight can't come in."

After which I put the school-books in their order on the shelf, And, with nothing else to do, I take a little nap myself!"

—St. Nicholas for March.

Democratic Timber Available.

What man will be selected to run for congress on the democratic ticket this fall is not much talked of as yet. Some of the territorial newspapers are insisting that it will again be Mr. Voorhees, but the retiring delegate who has been in Spokane Falls during the past week states emphatically that he would not under any circumstances accept a nomination for any office. He accepted the nomination last fall against his own wishes, and only because the leaders of his party in convention assembled insisted that he owed it to the party that had twice nominated and elected him to again be its candidate. He having fulfilled this obligation will leave it to others to step forward next time. It is not improbable that Governor Semple will be put forward by the democrats as their candidate for governor, and doubtless Hon. J. J. Browne of this city will be one of the two gentlemen selected to receive the democratic vote for United States senator. Territorial Attorney Metcalfe will perhaps receive the senatorial honor from the west side democracy, but if J. Hamilton Lewis, of Seattle, should be nominated for congress this may interfere with the selection of Metcalfe as the party nominee for the senate, as he is a resident of the same city.—Spokane Falls Review.

McCall Was Calumniated.

A very pretty little story which promises to develop into an interesting trial comes from Alaska. It is to the effect that about three years ago a man named McPherson sailed from San Francisco and eventually landed on one of the Aleutian Islands off the coast of Alaska. Mr. McPherson's entire outfit consisted of a suit of clothes, an American flag and cheek enough for a regiment, together with a paper purporting to have been signed by Attorney-General Garland appointing him United States commissioner. As soon as he landed on the island he raised the American flag with a great deal of ceremony and took command of 600 natives and compelled them to address him as "King McPherson." Each season he exacted a heavy tribute from the natives, and altogether he seems to have been having a lovely time. Things went along very smoothly until a few months ago, when, the report is, he had some trouble with three of his subjects, and fearing these might be meeting to hang the three rebellious ones. The report of McPherson's rule reached the treasury department and a special agent was sent to his island to investigate. This agent recently reported the facts to Secretary Windom substantially as they are given above. Now it is said that a revenue cutter will be sent to the island for the purpose of arresting McPherson. It is the intention of the authorities to take him to San Francisco and try him for murder.

Man and Wife.

Women are lonely, says Mrs. Annie Jensen. They miss their husbands. What amount of companionship exists between the American woman and the man? He starts for his office as soon as his breakfast is hurriedly swallowed. He does not come home at the lunch hour. He is barely in-season for a late dinner. Very possibly he belongs to a club and has an engagement as soon as dinner is done. If not that, his head is in bank or counting-house, and he studies the stock quotations in the night's paper, and counts as against a possible rise of wheat the day's gossip with which his wife is overflowing very small potatoes. They have callers, or they go to opera or theater. It may easily happen that they do not spend ten minutes in conversation with each other during the day. American men are always in a hurry. They seem to live for the sole purpose of catching trains. They have no time to amuse or be amused. The conditions of modern life separate them from women. The lives of men grow more and more simple—business comprehends the whole. The lives of women grow more and more complex—everything which is not business is given over to them. A man past the romantic epoch who honestly enjoys talking with women is not an average mortal. The every-day sort of man takes pains to be detached somewhere until all his guests have departed from his wife's 5 o'clock tea. The couple live in different worlds.

OUR GEORGE.

Washington Was Not All That Fancy Painted Him.

Description by One Who Knew Him—Was George Addicted to Drink, and Were His Feet Immense?

There has been a great affluence of portraits of George Washington lately in connection with the centenary of the first president's inauguration and the publication of the Sharpes papers, and the reflection cannot be escaped that if so many unfamiliar portraits insist upon coming out and being authenticated, one by one, as accurate likenesses of the Father of his Country, the people will presently be all at sea as to how he really looked. The Stuart portrait has been so long accepted as the Washington that when other portraits, showing almost a totally different man, turn up, we simply look at them in astonishment, and say to ourselves, "Can this be Washington?"

In view of this confusion no apology is needed for copying a remarkably realistic account of Washington, which was written by David Ackerson, of Alexandria, Va., in 1811, in answer to an inquiry from his son. Ackerson commanded a company in the revolutionary war, and he had many opportunities of observing the commander-in-chief. The letter from which this account is taken is in the possession of Dr. Joseph M. Toner, of Washington, D. C., who is engaged in editing Washington's diaries, and a correspondent of the New York Tribune has got hold of it. It describes Washington as he looked three days before the crossing of the Delaware, and again pictures him in the closing years of his life.

"Washington had a large, thick nose, and it was very red that day, giving me the impression that he was not so moderate in the use of liquors as he was supposed to be. I found afterward that this was a peculiarity. His nose was apt to turn scarlet in a cold wind. He was standing near a small camp-fire, evidently lost in thought and making no effort to keep warm. He seemed six feet and a half in height, was as erect as an Indian, and did not for a moment relax from a military attitude. Washington's exact height was 6 feet two inches in his boots. He was then a little lame from striking his knee against the tree. His eye was so gray that it looked almost white, and he had a troubled look on his colorless face. He had a piece of woolen tied around his throat and was quite hoarse. Perhaps the throat trouble from which he finally died had its origin about then. Washington's boots were enormous. They were No. 13. His ordinary walking shoes were No. 11. His hands were large in proportion, and he could not buy gloves to fit him and had to have them made to order. His mouth was his strong feature, the lips being always tightly compressed. That day they were compressed so tightly as to be painful to look at him. At that time he weighed 300 pounds, and there was no surplus flesh about him. He was tremendously muscled, and the fame of his great strength was everywhere. His large tent when wrapped up with the poles was so heavy that it required two men to lift it in the wagon. Washington would lift it with one hand and throw it in the wagon as easily as if it were a pair of saddle-bags. He could hold a musket with one hand and shoot with precision as easily as other men did with a horse-pistol. His lungs were his weak point and his voice was never strong. He was at that time in the prime of life. His hair was a chestnut brown; his cheeks were prominent, and his head was not large in contrast to every other part of his body, which seemed large and bony at all points. His finger joints and wrists were so large as to be genuine curiosities. As to his habits at that period, I found out much that might be interesting. He was an enormous eater but was content with bread and meat, if he had plenty of it. But hunger seemed to put him in a rage. It was his custom to take a drink of rum or whisky on awakening in the morning. Of course all this was changed when he grew old. I saw him at Alexandria a year before he died. His hair was very gray and his form was slightly bent. His chest was very thin. He had false teeth which did not fit and pushed his under lip outward.

What It May Signify.

The Spokane Review says: "Should it prove to be true that the Southern Pacific is back of the survey that is being made for a line from Portland to this city, by way of Yakima, this doubtless signifies a desire on the part of that company to form a connection at this point with the Canadian Pacific, by way of the Spokane & Northern, and connection also with the Manitoba and Union Pacific systems eastward, besides tapping the mineral and grain fields of this territory in the interest of its southern system. In the timber business between Yakima and Portland are exhausted fields of coal and mineral on this side of Yakima are the great granitic regions of the Big Bend and the whole of eastern Washington. The road thus extending diagonally across the territory from southwest to northeast would probably be the most profitable portion of the Southern Pacific system. A remarkable fact and one illustrating its directness of route is that it would strike the Northern Pacific line at right angles both at this point and at North Yakima. Its great advantage to Spokane Falls would be found in the fact that it would connect this city with the large agricultural and grazing country comprised in the southern portion of the Big Bend and which is not traversed by either of the roads leading out of this city. Following down the valley of Crab creek toward Priest rapids it would pass through a long stretch of virgin soil, a considerable portion of which is said to be good farming land, and which would all be directly tributary to the proposed road either in this direction or the other and largely in both."

The Missing Link.

The Hon. Tom Cavanaugh, like his bosom friend, Colonel Owings, "he's all right," and returns from a pilgrimage to the republican Mecca as well satisfied as the Colonel, after an interview with the chief executive's note lether, that "me and the president" are on the best of terms. Brother Cavanaugh is mildly enthusiastic over his prospects for being the next surveyor general of this territory. No one is better qualified, perhaps, for the position—under a republican administration. Mr. Cavanaugh is a link in the chain that binds the present to the past, and as one of the reminiscences of the old and now nearly obsolete regime would perhaps illuminate the niche to which he aspires to climb as well as any of the other grand old party war horses. Here's a boost for Mr. Cavanaugh.—Tacoma News.

No Hope For Him.

Penitent printer—I have been such a terrible sinner that I fear there is no salvation for me. Minister—Cheer up, my friend, there is hope for even the vilest. "But I have been such a great sinner. I have worked on Sunday papers, putting in type accounts of prize fights, murders and all manner of crime, thus helping to spread its influence all over the land." "But there is still hope for you if you truly repent."

FASHIONABLE BEVER.

Starkeepers Obligated to Lead Patrons Money to Retain Custom.

"The amount of cheek displayed by some people is astonishing," said a prominent merchant to the Herald's reporter this morning. "That is not a very strange assertion" mused our pencil driver as he vainly strove to look unconcerned, but the tell-tale blood mounted rapidly into his face, and he played hide and seek with the roots of his hair, dyed his nose a bright ruby color, and caused his shell-like ears to look like a pair of liver pads. The merchant noticed his embarrassment and added, "I do not refer to that particular brand of cheek which is now regarded as a distinguishing mark of your profession. The public good requires that every newspaper man should have a cast iron facial development. In fact, a reporter can never make his mark without it. Stern duty compels him to walk where angels fear to tread. It is his duty to beard the lion in his den; to examine the hind hoof of a quadruped called the ass; to come unbidden to the marriage feast; to guess a maiden lady's age; to intrude upon the sacred privacy of the family circle; to tickle the millionaire or railroad king out of bed at 2 p. m.; to go where he isn't asked; and to remain there until he gets kicked out; to interview his victim at all times and places; if admittance be refused at the door to crawl in at the window, climb down the chimney or peek through the keyhole; to tackle a judge on his bench or a railroad mogul in his sanctum; to meet contempt, coldness and hatred with a calm, sweet smile of assurance; to press in where almost any man under the heavens would be kicked out in an instant; to—"

It has quite an influence upon the bowels, and is often used by those who have imbibed too freely of intoxicants for the purpose of neutralizing the effects of the liquors. None of the drinks referred to are injurious if their glasses have been made in wholesome fountains. Nearly all first-class druggists manufacture their own flavored syrups, and many who do not purchase the imported French fruit essences. These come in bottles containing about a pint and a half, and retail at about 75 cents. The essences are obtained by expressing the fruit and concentrating the juice cold. Once opened it will ferment in the bottle, unless sweetened and used in a short time. A bottle of fruit essence will serve to make several bottles of flavor. It is said the American strawberries and raspberries do not make as fine a quality of essence as the European fruits; pine-apple and other fruit essences of domestic manufacture are equal to the same varieties of imported essences.

SUMMER DRINKS.

How Popular Temperance Beverages are Made.

The "Herald" informs the Reading Public What They Drink in Warm Weather.

In the summer time the regular drinker abandons, or at least cuts down on, his whisky and beer and takes to those lighter beverages, such as lemonades, mineral waters, punches and buttermilk, preferring not to risk his life so long as old Sol continues to hold undisputed sway. It may now be of interest to know something of the character and composition of the temperance beverages, and in this brief sketch a notice will be made of a few of them. The basis of all popular effervescent drinks is carbonated soda, or water strongly impregnated with carbonic acid gas. It is well known that this is a poisonous gas. It is the heaviest of all gases, and it is to be found in sewers, wells and shafts. It betrays the fire-damp in the coal mine, and enough of it may be eliminated by heat from a small piece of charcoal to furnish the means of suicide to any weary of life. The small quantity of this gas which enters into soda water, seltzer or champagne, instead of being injurious is considered beneficial. Seltzer waters, effervescent salts, sparkling wines and bottled ales owe their foaming qualities to its presence. Domestic still wines are sometimes carbonated by artificial means and sold for sparkling champagnes.

BODA-WATER.

The beverage popularly known as soda-water is so-called because it was formerly made from bicarbonate of soda, or baking-soda; and in the east bicarbonate of soda is still largely employed, the manufacturers claiming that no cheaper ingredient can be furnished that can so well serve their purpose. It is said the basis of all fermented beverages now manufactured is mostly made from sulphuric acid and ground limestone, and not "marble dust," as is generally supposed. It is ground to the consistency of flour in a powerful steam mill and passed through a sieve; the finer it is ground the greater the quantity of gas that will be produced. By the time it is well screened it is almost pure carbonate of lime, and is then poured into an air-tight metallic vessel, denominated a generator, and saturated with sulphuric acid. By the union of the gas and lime the sulphate of gypsum is formed and the carbonic acid is eliminated. Afterward the sulphate of gypsum is blown out through the pipes to another vessel, when it is passed through the water, for the purpose of freeing it of the presence of oil of vitriol or any other noxious gas. From the generator the gas is passed into portable fountains containing filtered water; for it is known that at a low temperature will absorb its own volume of carbonic acid gas, and the colder the water the more gas it will absorb. This is the reason why portable fountains are always kept in cool cellars.

BOTTLED WATER.

It is bottled upon good authority that of the bottled beverages, none of them are what they profess to be. There is no sarsaparilla in "sarsaparilla," no ginger in "ginger ale," nothing of a mineral character in "mineral water," and seltzer has neither water in its composition—except water. Ottawa beer is usually made with sugar, suet and aromatics, which will acetify soon after the beer is manufactured. It should be made fresh every day, but it is said it is not. The carbonic acid gas will disguise the bad taste of stale Ottawa beer until it has been swallowed, but soon internal disturbances takes place. Nearly all mineral water is acetified water, flavored with syrups. Much of the Ceylonale is acetified water flavored with Cayenne pepper. It is held that Cayenne pepper in small quantities is rather beneficial than otherwise, and it makes really a healthy beverage as compared with others.

Goldendale Young Ladies Mortified.

Down in Goldendale the young ladies are considering the advisability of circulating a petition asking the city council to pass an ordinance prohibiting the young men of town remaining later than one o'clock when visiting their girls. It is quite mortifying for a young lady to know that her fellow did not get home in time for breakfast after spending the evening with her.

In One Decade.

The decade from 1880 to 1890 will pass into history as associated with greater material progress than any other in modern times. The use of electricity as a motor and illuminating agent has been a demonstrated success in the last decade. It has been introduced in nearly all the great cities of the world. Ten years ago the use of electricity, both for illumination and as a motor, was in the experimental stage. Its larger use may be still experimental. It has not yet come into general use in dwellings, nor has it been employed to any great extent in moving ships and railway trains. It has not taken the place of other motors to any great extent for propelling street cars. But if its use is enlarged in the same ratio for the other decade, at the end of that period it will become of almost universal application for small motors and for illumination. This larger use will, of course, depend upon a large reduction in the cost. Ten years ago there were no known facts to warrant the prediction that electricity would be used in driving a great deal of machinery. The power was recognized, but the economy of use was not.

It was during the decade closing with the present year that the steel rail for railways came into universal use.

The iron rail has had its day. On some short roads a few tons of iron rails may be laid, and, in a limited way, old iron rails may be re-rolled, but the steel track has taken the place of the iron one. Luring this decade, also, steel has largely taken the place of iron in the building of ships. It has not wholly displaced the latter, but the present tendency is in that direction. It has also entered into the construction of all machinery to an extent never known in any former decade.

The science of gunnery has been revolutionized within the decade now closing.

The rule so long recognized by nations that each should have jurisdiction over the sea a marine league, or three miles, from the land was determined in that way because three miles was about the old range of cannon. Each nation could make good its dominion on the water within the range of a cannon shot. But the longest range of cannon reported during the present decade is thirteen miles. Will this improvement in the range of great guns modify the law of nations touching the exclusive jurisdiction over adjacent waters?

A YAKIMA PHILOSOPHER.

A Pioneer Sage Takes Up the Question of Law and Landed Property.

The Old Hermit Baron Cede Still in Force—Is Ten Acres of Land Enough for a Farmer?

EDITOR HERALD—Sir: I crave space in your valuable paper for a medley.

When Galileo discovered that this planet of ours was round all of the world's people then known clamored for his life, or at least to have him thrown in prison. To this cry he answered: You can imprison my body, but you cannot imprison my mind. I will continue my thinking, and give to mankind my thoughts as I receive them, and in this I will be justified in the future, and I hope other men in other times will do likewise.

How generous and unselfish the language of this great man; and even in this pushing and selfish age his philanthropy thrills the senses of all.

I have gotten into a thinking mood on a small scale, as I suppose it is natural for the children of a common parentage to think—some for good and some for evil—and it occurs to me that those who could enlighten and elevate their fellow men, in this day, keep as still as a clam in high water. Shakespeare said: "Men put into their mouths that which stealths away their brains." Those who are amply endowed with intelligence nowadays have their brains not stolen, but blunted and calloused, and the best instincts of their nature stolen through their breeches pockets. They keep their thoughts to themselves, in fear of losing that cursed dollar, and knowingly commit a moral wrong on their fellow men. Still a pessimist in calling this an age of progression. In what is it progressive? If you say this nineteenth century is progressive in an inventive sense you are right. Some will say that we are better educated and more intelligent, which is also right, but I have been musing how we have been progressing in selfishness and in a spirit of aggrandizement towards each other, not forgetting our mortgages and our usury tactics. Is this the way that we are progressing? Is it more like retrograding? It seems so to me. If we wish to be right in a natural sense, and to be truly progressive, we must take up the laws of Moses, or what are nearest them, the old Celtic clan laws, dropping the bandit baron clauses maintained in the middle ages, but which still linger to a degree, and which are a curse on man to the present day. If we simplify our laws in this great land, we can be as progressive as the heart can wish.

I have been thinking also how some people say that the pioneers of new countries are a greedy, monopolistic crowd. Is this generous? Is it just to call a pioneer a monopolist? He that has taken up the lamp of civilization and advanced to the privations of frontier life, while the man who follows the pioneer with his college scrip or shipmaster's boys thoughts of acres of our best land for a song to hold for a fancy price to be wrung from the home-seeker. Not a word is said about the former being a monopolist, but the advance guard is called greedy for holding on to 100 acres with which to support himself and his children.

I think I have heard some one say that the early settlers should divide their farms into ten acre tracts. I have debated on selling all my land except ten acres, but in figuring on the problem I asked myself some pertinent questions. How much land would I have for cultivation after taking off room for house, stables, door yard, etc., and how many fine horses and fancy cattle and chickens could I raise? Well, my dear sir, after much figuring I gave it up in disgust and concluded I was rather dull of comprehension. Then I tried again, taking a different tact, and thought how nice and pleasant it would be to shake hands every morning with my neighbors over the fence, and how snug and compact we all could be wedged in like sardines in a box, but then the thought of the financial outcome of this mode of farming would obtrude itself. You see, I have done my best to

The Board of Trade of our city, at its last regular meeting, appointed a committee to memorialize our county fathers to take the necessary steps towards constructing a suitable county court house and hall of records.

This is a move in the right direction. The wooden structure on Second street in this city, which now offers an excuse for county buildings, in old sage brush times answered the purpose.

Now, being enveloped by beautiful mansions and stately houses of commerce and trade, our old court house is as much out of place as the cowhide boots of the miner in the honor of a society belle.

Property in Yakima has become very valuable and is continually appreciating. Our public records, evidencing transactions and titles running up into the millions, must be preserved.

The present receptacle is inconvenient, circumscribed and absolutely unsafe in case of fire. Our county officers are not fittingly or, as in the instance of the county treasurer and school superintendent, at all provided with offices.

The sheriff, auditor and county probate judge are supplied with dingy, confined rooms, which, from courtesy perhaps, are styled offices.

Our court room is like a great barn with loft-halls no jury rooms or waiting apartments for witnesses. The judge is entirely without "chambers" and dependent upon the hospitality of the profession.

The records of our property and valuable estates of deceased persons and minor heirs, in a miserable pile of brick, which will crumble before a fire as a snow-flake exposed to the fall rays of a July sun.

We have had to sustain financial loss and great inconvenience from former loss of our county records by fire, and we should gain wisdom from experience.

Yakima county is growing—is fast filling up with a thrifty population—is becoming wealthy. Our public offices must be so arranged and equipped as to enable our public servants, judicial, executive and ministerial, to perform the many varied and constantly increasing duties they have to perform.

The HERALD hopes that our county commissioners will look at this matter with a large and wise economy, and by proclamation submit the question of a proper county building at the general election to be held on the 14th of May next.

We are satisfied that there will be but one report from our taxpayers—that ample, commodious, safe and elegant county offices and court room be at once constructed.

THE DING-DONGING OF DOTAGE.

Papa Holton is getting worse with the creeping on of old age. He has always been a subject of queer fancies and hallucinations but of late these have taken a more fantastical turn.

Heretofore these vagaries have centered in the belief that he carried the vote of the republican party in his inside pocket, but latterly, while maintaining the old, his mind has taken on a new and brilliant fancy.

For several weeks past his paper, the Republic, has portentously rumbled and grumbled about its being boycotted or "done up" in some sort of shape by somebody or something.

This was never understood by the readers of the Republic but now at great expense the HERALD is enabled to present the facts as emanating from Papa Holton himself.

There has been a plot. A deep, dark plot. A plot so villainous in conception as was the plot of Macbeth, and this plot had for its object the downfall of the Republic.

The conspirators are nominated in lowered voice and mysterious manner by Papa Holton were Edward Whitson, John G. Boyle, H. J. Svelley, J. B. Reavis, and E. M. Reed. What a fearful combination.

Their names alone would convict them in any court of justice were it not for the fact that the object of the commission of crime is generally enquired into and in this case no object could be conjured up for doing away with anything so harmless as the Republic.

This sincerely hoped that dotage has not fastened its sinuous tentacles upon poor Papa Holton, but the indications point most strongly that way.

AND who now are being canvassed for delegates to the constitutional convention? Why, John G. Boyle and H. J. Svelley. The HERALD was solicited to use its influence to the election of these two men by that astute politician, P. Sanford Burke.

Boyle and Svelley are both good men, but the HERALD can't support them. There is something more wanted than the fact of a man being good. We want the best men, and men who are identified with the country in ways more binding than simply seeking or holding office.

SEATTLE is making her moral spurs profitable. Up to a week ago she had arrested fifty-six of the scarlet women and collected $2175 in fines—to apply on street work. At the present rate she reduces the assessment rate of the virtuous rich.

It now seems that Ralph W. Wheeler was appointed receiver of the U. S. land office at Seattle and not Major J. B. Hayden, as was reported by telegraph. The Major seems by his own great beard that he is free from all feeling of chagrin and disappointment.

YAKIMA IS IMPROVING.

Improvements on All Sides—New Buildings Soon to be Constructed—Other Interesting Notes.

The school directors, at the urgent request of many citizens who realize the present need of more school room and the utter inadequacy for the future, will call an election for the first Saturday in June for submission to a vote the question of building a $5000 addition to the present public school building, or the erection of a new brick building, to cost $10,000, on the west side of the track.

The Board of Trade has appointed a committee, consisting of Dr. W. F. Morrison, Edward Whitson, J. M. Stout and J. B. Reavis, to lay before the county commissioners, at the May term, the reasons recognized by all why there should be built a new court house adequate to the needs of the county and in keeping with the present wealth of the county and its future prospects.

Messrs. Goodwin & Pugsley report the sale of Yakima realty for the month of April, to date, as upwards of $500,000.

Fred R. Reed telegraphed from Tacoma Wednesday that he had that day disposed of ten thousand dollars' worth of Yakima avenue real estate.

J. J. Tyler is building a two story dwelling house of seven rooms on the Third street property recently purchased by him.

Some eastern capitalists have recently been overlooking the Sunnyside country and have decided on building a system of irrigating ditches to reclaim that fertile country.

Outside capital is ever ready for investment in Yakima. The returns have been so great, and the conditions are so favorable, that little persuasion is required to induce its coming here.

It is claimed that a million and a quarter of dollars of foreign money is now invested in Yakima realty and improvement enterprises.

The county commissioners at the May meeting should push the matter of opening and improving Second street from gap to gap. This is a natural thoroughfare, and at comparatively small expense it can now be made one of the most useful avenues in this section, and certainly an attractive drive as can be found in the territory.

Negotiations are on foot for the sale of the opera house property, which, if consummated, will result in Mr. Switzer building a new temple of Theatrics to cost $30,000. He has already made arrangements for the money, and no confident is he that the transfer will be made that he is now looking around for a desirable location for the proposed building.

Messrs. Cadwell and Goodwin & Pugsley will commence the building of some cottages on the tract of land recently purchased from John Reed.

R. T. Vining, of Tacoma, this week purchased of Dave Wilson 50 feet on Yakima avenue, adjoining the new hotel, together with a half interest in the division wall. Mr. Vining will immediately begin work on a two-story brick to cover his new acquisition.

The stone for the foundation of the new two-story, fifty-foot brick, to be erected on the corner of Second and A streets, is being hauled and work will commence as soon as the plans, which are in the hands of Architect Arnold, are completed.

The wooden building, on the corner of Yakima avenue and Second street, opposite the First National bank building, is on stilts preparatory to removal to make way for the new three-story brick to be erected by Messrs. Lewis, Engle and Terry.

The Opening of Oklahoma.—The Oklahoma, after years of delay, has been opened to the settler. The event was one of the most remarkable on record.

The trains over the Santa Fe road from Kansas City, on Monday, if they had been coupled together, would have reached over a mile, and great caravans of wagons and thousands of horsemen were all headed the same way in one wild rush to get the most desirable of the lands.

The crowds were composed mainly of speculators and thieves, with a sprinkling of farmers. The town of Guthrie sprang up in an hour, with a bank, a daily newspaper, and other business houses, and the city election which was held the first day showed a poll of nearly 10,000 votes.

When the hour of noon came and the signal was given that the boomers could cross the dead line, the rush was unprecedented. Drivers galloped their horses, and when they found they were not getting along fast enough they cut the tags which bound their horses to the wagons and bounding pushed on with the leaders, leaving the "prairie schooners" where they stopped to care for themselves.

Oklahoma was opened without bloodshed, but every lot and quarter-section is guarded with rifles.

This motto of Washington territory is "Alki." This is a Chinook word, meaning by-and-by or after awhile. The coat of arms in connection with which this motto appears represents a scene of commerce, with a city, port of entry and steamers at the wharf.

Now that we have "got there," so to speak, this word "Alki," which means by-and-by, might appropriately be changed to the Chinook word "Alta," which means now or at the present time.—Spokane Falls Review.

Evidently the administration is making it so uncomfortable for hold-over officials as to make their resignations a relief to them. Among the later resignations announced are those of First Comptroller of the Treasury Durban and superintendent of foreign mails, Nicholas M. Bell.

The big mill of the Tacoma & St. Paul lumber company started up at the former place on Monday. It has a capacity of 250,000 feet of lumber per day and employs 300 men. A twin mill will be built by the same company.

The crew and passengers of the wrecked steamer Denmark, numbering 788, were saved by the steamer Missouri. The Denmark was abandoned in a sinking condition.

PAID DEARLY FOR HIS SINECURE.

On Sunday night a young Englishman named William Carroll paid a severe penalty for a thirty days' spree. About midnight, while loaded to the guards, he attempted to cross the railroad track in order to find shelter in one of the cabins on the west side. He was so full that he neither saw nor heard an approaching freight train, and the result was that he was knocked down and his left foot crushed in such a manner that amputation was found necessary. Dr. Coe, assisted by Doctors Heg and Savage, took off the injured member at a point a few inches above the ankle. Carroll is now being cared for by the authorities and is getting along nicely.

FIRE AT FORT SIMCOE.—On Friday night of last week the large building used as the girls' dormitory and boarding house at Fort Simcoe caught fire from cause unknown and quickly burned to the ground. The building was formerly used as the barracks of the fort but for some years it has been the quarters of the Indian maidens attending the school. So quickly did the building burn that nothing was saved except some wearing apparel. The original cost of the structure was $80,000.

PERSONAL.

J. C. Ross, of Prosser, was in town this week. Wm. Ker left for Portland Tuesday on a business trip. Col. L. S. Howlett made a trip to Spokane Falls this week. Mrs. Wm. Ker and children returned from Victoria Sunday. Wm. Stewart, a son of J. T. Stewart, came over from Seattle on Friday last. R. B. Milroy left Wednesday for a brief visit with his parents at Olympia. Messrs. H. Harris and S. Kreidler returned from San Francisco Wednesday. Dr. G. J. Hill sailed on the 17th inst., on the steamer City of Paris, for England. Dr. J. J. Chambers, late of Coalville, Utah, is in the city and proposes to locate. Will Hubbard left on Saturday last for San Francisco for a month's visit with his mother. Mrs. H. K. Owens, nee Miss Alice Keith, will be here shortly on a visit to her father. W. W. Fish, of Elmira, N. Y., who is a large holder of Yakima property arrived in the city today. Mary E. Bonds, of this city, was married to Charles A. Martin, of Whatcom, at Seattle, on Tuesday. Burton G. Winton, of Addison, New York, is in the city, intent on getting some Yakima real estate. C. W. Hobart, editor of the Tacoma Real Estate Journal, was in the city Wednesday and Thursday shaking hands with old friends. Mrs. Geo. Scott and family, of Seattle, spent several days in Yakima this week visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Scott. They are on their way east. A. D. Whitney, late of the Carlton House, Olympia, has been in the city several days this week figuring on becoming the owner and landlord of the new Hotel Yakima. Capt. Mullan, H. S. Huson, and his brother, C. E. Huson, who recently arrived from Kansas with the intention of locating, passed through Yakima Friday en route for Spokane Falls. Samuel Colyer, cashier of the Merchants' National bank of Tacoma, and a son of that celebrated Rev. Robt. Collyer, spent several days in Yakima this week and made extensive purchases of Yakima realty. Clara Berwick Colby, editor of the Women's Tribune, published at Beatrice, Nebraska, was in the city this week in attendance on the convention of the W. C. T. U. Mrs. Colby expects to lecture at the opera house within a week or two if she can arrange her dates to that end. John P. Kent, a citizen of North Yakima when this town was in its bud, but now a prosperous butcher of Walla Walla, stopped over a day on his way home from the Sound and renewed old friendships. He was surprised, and, as he still owns property here, was greatly delighted at the progress made by Yakima. The delegates from Yakima to the G. A. R. convention at Spokane Falls are H. K. Ward and C. M. Holton. Among those who have passed through here from the west are J. M. Brown, of Ellensburg, R. G. O'Brien, J. R. Hayden, Thos. Cayanaugh, Phillip Hillis, A. B. Cowles and Wm. McKicken, of Olympia, Thad. Honson and Judge Calkins, of Tacoma. Hop twine at S. J. Lowe's. Economy Barb Wire at S. J. Lowe's. Screen doors and windows to fit at S. J. Lowe's. You can get anything you want at S. J. Lowe's. Car load of Bain wagons on draft at S. J. Lowe's. Superior stoves, warranted for ten years, at S. J. Lowe's. Potatoes 35 cents per sack at Carpenter Bros. & Atherton's. Where did you get that fine Rochester lamp? At S. J. Lowe's. Say, Jones, who sells the best line of machinery in town? Why, S. J. Lowe, of course. Country produce bought at its highest market value at Carpenter Bros. & Atherton's. Waited.—At the Guillard House, immediately a woman to do housework and a girl to wait on table. Carpenter Bros. & Atherton have just received an extensive and complete line of staple and fancy groceries. Lost.—A light gray overcoat, with steel buttons, worn by a five year old boy. One dollar reward if returned to Bartholomew Bros. Attention, smoker! Attention, chewer! Eschelman Bros. have lately received a large and assorted stock of cigars and tobacco, on which they are making a special run. They claim to have the best brands in town for the money. It may be to your advantage to see their stock. E. J. Hamacher, for several years Ellensburg's leading photographer, has purchased the gallery lately owned by F. M. Isler. He has remodeled it completely, making the parlors very attractive. Mr. Hamacher is now prepared to take pictures in the latest styles and finish, at prices suitable to all. Visit his parlors and see specimens of his work. The now popular Guillard House is being remodeled and being made more attractive for its guests. Besides the fact that Mr. Guillard sets an excellent table, there is another reason of the popularity of this hotel—that is, Chinese men are scarce, and accommodating girls have been employed as waiters, and excellent women cooks may be found in the kitchen instead of Chinese.

YAKIMA REALTY.

The Demand for Real Estate Daily Growing Greater. Heavy Sales this Month—Values Have Strong Upward Tendency. Report of MacLean, Reed & Co. The past month has shown the greatest number of sales of realty in the history of Yakima. There have been larger individual sales but never so many transactions nor at such good figures. Perhaps the largest sale was that made by M. V. B. Stacy of seventy lots to a syndicate, for a consideration of $30,000. The same syndicate purchased property from other parties for which they paid upwards of $25,000. There is no diminution of faith in the future of Yakima. The melancholy prophets have vanished and in their place have appeared buoyant spirits who see with unerring eyes the bright things in store for the Jewel City of Central Washington and the rich country surrounding. The improvements being made and about to be made are giving stability to realty values in all quarters of the city. There is double the building going on now than ever before at this early season but it is not a circumstance to what is promised for the near future. Dwellings are going up on all sides but still the cry is for more houses—and for more lumber with which to build them. More brick business blocks are projected and in process of materialization than in all the past history of the city. Prosperity is perched upon our banners and the movement is strongly upward and onward. The transfers given below are through one firm, Messrs. MacLean, Reed & Co., and as there are five firms all doing a large business, and innumerable street brokers, the volume of the transactions can only be imagined. Process, April 14th, 1899.
EORON HERALD—Dr. Hord's shingle still hangs out to show the seeker after health the way to find it; but the doctor is absent and has been for a week, whether to return or not seems doubtful.

Mr. Cronson has an exhibition at his shop a new invention in the horse-shoe line, patented by Mr. Bowen, of Chicago. The new shoe is made of steel; is much lighter, and can be made at less cost than the old shoe.

Mr. Kemp, though usually rather reticent about his plans for the future, mentioned the other day that instead of retiring to his summer resort in the mountains he will take a trip to Montana, on pleasure bent.

Mr. George Delaney arrived from Walla Walla a week ago and is having his section of land here turned over as fast as four gang and a walking plow can do the work.

The issue of the Columbia Kicker has been delayed, owing to the unavoidable absence of the corresponding editor on the road-up. He will return soon, however, and the Kicker may be looked for, at any rate, in time to take an active part in the next presidential campaign.

Mr. Taylor paid a visit to Horse Heaven a week ago and is delighted with the view prospects. He wishes to exchange some stock for deeded land and a little farming himself.

Mr. Kinney says he never said he was going to build a "brown stone front." So there!
Mr. Lape pays a visit to Fandithin this week. Rumor says he will bring a better half with him when he returns.

MacLeish, Reed & Co. have $100,000 to loan on improved farm lands. Applications for loans will receive prompt attention.

AN AGE OF WONDERS.

After Centuries of Bigoted Darkness, Light!

Every Assault Upon the Impregnable Citadel of True Science Adds Numberless Converts to Its Cause.

The annihilation of calumny has been completed. The deadly projectiles hurled have missed their destination. The shafts and arrows lie broken at the feet of victory. And when Aurora's rays shall have pierced the smoke of the battlefield, the name of the histogenetic system of medicine will glitter a bright and imperishable star in the diadem of science, when those who tried to wind their slimy coils around the snowy throat have mouldered in oblivion and their epitaphs have vanished from the face of the earth.

Seattle, Washington. My little boy, when four years old, was taken sick with scarlet rash. We had competent medical aid but he never fully recovered. For three years he was sick, could retain nothing on his stomach, sometimes would vomit ceaselessly for a week, not retaining even water.

As by the aid of the god-sent Histogenetic Medicines I recovered from the verge of the grave and was able to do considerable of my household in ninety days. Well, we got Dr. Jordan's medicine for our little boy and his reason returned and so did his health, and in two months from first taking his medicine he went to school.

We are convinced, as is everyone who has used the unprecedented Histogenetic Medicines, that it accomplishes the apparently impossible, and that to compare them to all the other medicines like comparing bright sunlight to Egyptian darkness.

Edmund, Washington. I have been sick for the last 15 years with a complication of diseases. Rheumatism and kidney troubles were very bad, but heart disease was the worst of all. Many times I thought I would not survive it. The sharp, agonizing pain in my heart would take my breath and make me dizzy.

My boy, ten years old, was broken down with rheumatism. His limbs were all distorted out of shape from the baneful effect; he suffered great agony, and could not turn in bed. The worst of all his heart was greatly affected from it and it almost stopped his breath.

My daughter, Mrs. E. Richard, Sterling, Washington, was pretty bad with consumption, bleeding from the lungs, and cough generally characteristic of the dreaded malady. The disease was of four years' standing. I came to Dr. J. Eugene Jordan, my daughter being too feeble to come.

IT'S KITTEN CATKIN'S DAY.

Mrs. Cleveland's Example—A Pussy Willow Craze Started.

What It Is and Where It Is to be Had—Blossoms Trimmings With Pussy Willow Lunches and Receptions.

What is the pussy willow? That's the agitating question of the day, the demand of the hour. What is, where grows, where is the pussy willow? The echo drearily answered, "Where? Where?" in a sombre, aggressive sadness, until the St. Louis Post-Dispatch learning of the general inquiry in the limits of the city determined to investigate and explain to the public the full meaning and status, the cause and circumstances of the tantalizing, the fashionable, the hitherto unanswered query.

To be botanical, the "pussy willow," or the "Catin" is an imperfect species of efflorescence of the willow, the blossom before the leaves come out. There are no petals, and as the calyx is all there is to it, it is of course incomplete. It resembles somewhat in appearance a caterpillar in curling, drooping effect. In France it is of a bright golden color. In the eastern part of this country they are less so, whilst in Colorado they are almost white. The term generally used for this growth is the "kitten willow." The old poem tells of it thus:

See the yellow catkins cover All the slender willows over, And on mossy banks so green Star-like primroses are seen.

No catkins and primroses are contemporary growths so far as season is concerned. The "pussy willow" is destined to be the fad of the hour, the problem, ruler of fashion.

Occur Wilde's sunflower will be but a slight circumstance to the reign of the kitten catkin.

Just now they are like the embryo belle of society, not yet quite out, but the reticent is only a prelude to a storm of notoriety. When a few warm days have with their sunlight aid heat taught the trees and the flowers how sweet it is to live in the world, when, or even before the other places and growths have blossomed, the pussy willow "pussy willow" will come unconsciously to fill the mission Mrs. Cleveland has decreed it shall.

This new justice of the supreme court is a gentleman of the best legal attainments, and he is endowed by nature with an exalted intelligence and a high sense of justice, and will take to the bench an equipment of great capacity, sterling integrity and general ability, which will carry him through the duties of his office with honor to himself and credit to the high appointing power.

Tacoma R. E. Journal: All parts of the territory have experienced during the past year a notable influx of newcomers, and the aggregate increase in a desirable, permanent population, while to a considerable extent cosmopolitan in character, has been principally from states and territories of our own country and Canada and especially from the states contiguous to the eastern ends of our great transcontinental lines of railway.

A prominent socialist, speaking of the new fad, said: "We have already had orders, plenty of them, for the 'pussy willow,' but the fashion sprang on us so suddenly we were not prepared to meet the demand. It is too late now to force them, as we should have done, and the only way to appease the urgent request is to send youth for a quantity. We have five orders for luncheons and one for a large reception to be given on Locust street immediately after Lent. These orders only came yesterday after the Cleveland luncheon, but we expect innumerable others. I can't imagine why such a quiet, unpretentious growth is selected to be the popular favorite of the day, but that it is certainly destined to be. It will be a drawback to florists while it lasts, because it can be obtained elsewhere without our aid. I hope the fashion will not be of long duration. Women are so strange in their fancy. They are always springing some new fancy in the way of flowers as well as anything else. Mrs. Cleveland was not in league with the florists, certainly, when she set the fashion with her 'pussy willow' luncheon."

A call was made on a fashionable modiste who answered quickly: "Certainly the 'pussy willow' craze will extend to dressmaking. To-day a lady came in to have an order she had given me for a braided panon for her spring gown changed. The material is a set of chocolate or rather olive drab, and she was to have it braided in a corresponding shade. To-day she has decided to have it formed of artificial 'pussy willows,' which she is having made at an artificial flower-maker's in this city. The fashion bids

MONEY IN FRUIT TREES.

A Rich Source of Revenue When They Commence Bearing.

A Means of Enhancing Washington's Attractiveness and Development.

Under a similar heading the Northwest Horticulturist says: Now that Washington is a star in the galaxy of states, it behooves those interested in the highest welfare of this new accession to study the best means of enhancing the attractiveness of this richly endowed country to those who are intending to make it their future home; not alone to them, however, but also to those who dwell within its hospitable borders. The question as to how this may best be done is one which is well answered by the heading of this article, the province of which is to suggest a means of enhancing Washington's attractiveness by the development of hidden sources of wealth, nowhere more promising of future development than in this state. Probably the best method of encouraging the cultivation of fruits is to make offers of prizes for the best kept and best planned orchard. This has been practiced for very many years in Illinois especially, and to the succinct reports of the examining committee, descriptive of site, exposures, soils, selection of fruit and method of handling practiced in the premium orchards is largely due the fact that there are so many splendid orchards in Illinois. It could not be otherwise; an educator of the most potent kind was at work developing from the resources at hand, through emulation and the offer of rewards, the latent genius of the farmer and the fertility of the soil. So great was the result of these educational efforts that the farm without its orchard would seem an oddity now in the Sucker state. So, too, may Washington, by the early establishment of a board of agriculture and the adoption of the wise steps taken by wise statesmen in other and less favored states, make of herself a very garden spot, rivaling the Hesperides, and attracting wealth and labor, brains and brawn and beauty, to build up the brightest and noblest commonwealth the world has ever known.

In two decades hence a bird's eye view of this grand country should show wide fields of richest harvests of cereals, myriads of prosperous cities with teeming populations of healthful and vigorous people, whose faces are index to the fact that prosperity attends them, workshops whose busy chimneys and humming fall soothingly on the ear, orchards dotting its wide surface with trees bearing a wealth of fruit that would be deemed fabulous in any place but Washington—God's last and best gift to the citizens of earth's crowning nation—fruits whose lusciousness excels and whose profits surpass that of any other industry or source of wealth within its well-laden borders. The time will be—and it does not take a very prophetic eye to see the day approaching—when fruit will pour out a flood-tide of riches into Columbia's lap that will be unapproached and unapproachable. How best to bring about this result is a theme that deserves greater study and greater effort than has been devoted to it in the past.

Among other measures we may suggest the organization of a board of agriculture. A result would be to enhance values of lands as they have been enhanced in California, with better and more permanent effects, because more available resources stand behind the enhanced values in this state. The feeling seems prevalent in many minds that lands and lots have touched a point beyond which they may not safely go, but with the proper portrayal of the possibilities of the fruit industry in Washington to the people all over the United States, we may say that prices have not begun to advance as they will yet advance, and that vast wealth will yet be accumulated from the enhanced values of farm and fruit lands here.

To the Farmers of Yakima County and Vicinity.

Fawcett Bros. are the only agricultural implement house in Yakima county, and are the only firm that make farm machinery a specialty. They handle goods direct from the best and most noted factories in the United States, and it is a well known fact that it is an advantage to deal with parties that get their goods direct from the manufacturers. They handle repairs for all the machinery they sell, and keep them in stock at all times. Save time and a great expense by dealing with a firm that keep a full supply of repairs. They are agents for the celebrated Moline wagons and hacks, purchased direct from the manufacturer. Morrison walking, sulky and gang plows, and the Climax disc harrow, the world renowned Tiger mower and steel wheel self-dump standard hay rake. Also, all kinds of haying tools, all steel plows and twine binders. If in need of any kind of farm machinery, do not fail to give me a call before buying elsewhere.

Twenty-Six Years Ago.

In 1863 Wahkiakum was the banner republican county of Washington territory. Twelve votes were cast and all were in favor of the republican candidate for congress. The territory was then divided into twenty counties and eleven of them gave their electoral vote to the democratic candidate, by majorities ranging from one in Chehalis, to 252 in Walla Walla. The republicans carried the other nine counties by majorities ranging from 11 in Pierce to 79 in Pacific, where only 11 democratic votes were polled. This democratic counties of that campaign were Chehalis, Clallam, Clark, Island, Jefferson, Kitsap, Skamania, Sowanish, (now known as Mason), Stobomish, Spokane and Walla Walla, and those republicans were Coville, King, Klickitat, Lewis, Pacific, Pierce, Thurston, Whitman and Wahkiakum.

Unless You Have Time To Make Some Money at Once.

BUT JUST NOTE A FEW FACTS.

TO-WIT: It is often said, and truthfully, too, that it is not so much what we make as what we save that makes us rich—or, in other words, the person who makes the dollar go farthest gets the best value out of it. The value of the dollar is known by its purchasing power, and not alone by the given quantity of 100 cents. In certain places in Europe, one dollar will purchase twice the amount of life's necessities that it will in the United States. The consumption being no more, it therefore provides for twice the length of time, or is worth 100 per cent. more in actual value. The prudent person will always consider the value of a dollar in relation to its purchasing power, and before spending it will ask himself, "Where will this dollar go farthest in the way of buying necessities and comforts?" A moment's reflection will answer, "At Vining & Bilger's," where 90 cents has about the same purchasing power as a dollar in most any other place here.

The way to prove this is to call and examine goods and prices, which will be cheerfully shown to all. They have the lowest and best selected stock in town, and it is certainly the place to go to find all you want very cheap in the line of Hardware, Cutlery, Tin, Granite, Iron and Woodware, Bird Cages and Lampware, both stand and hanging Lamps. You can save money by comparing prices, and satisfaction guaranteed at
