Encalvotus Trees for Yakima.

Finan my credentials were ampie and in refer. Among them, too, a note for 350 pesetas had somehow slipped, which had lisappeared when they were handed back to me. Need I say after this how it ended? Or that while the polico officer cowed his courtous: "Adios" to me, and his men gathered up the watches, and the crew scowled, the prisoner was removed by force to the boat fairly foaming at the mouth, and screaming out to he last horrible threats which my earwere long in forgetting. I walked up and down the deck, brazening it out, but very sick at heart.

However, the San Miguel, despite her engineer's mishap, duly left in half an hour—a nervous half hour to me. With a thankfal heart I watched the fort rowned fills about Cartiagena change rom brown to blue, and blue to purple, whind us, until at length they sank fown in the distance.

But officers and men looked coldly on me, and that evening, at Almeria, I took up bag and baggage and left the San Miguel I had had enough of the thanks and more than enough of the thanks and more than enough of the company, if my cabin fellow, whom I left where I and found him—or nearly so—behind the alictoth. I believe that he succeeded in oaking his escase, not that I have since—sen him or heard from him. But fully a month later a friend of mine staying at he Hotel de la Paa, at Madrid, walked his properties of the staying at her Hotel de la Paa, at Madrid, walked under arrest for some hours on aspicion of being Morrissey; so that the atter must at that time have been at siberty.

THE END.

No worm or insect is ever found upon the encalyptus tree or in the earth where the encalyptus tree or in the earth where the roots penetrate. A row of trees planted through an orchard or vineyard will cause insects, worms and caterpillars to vacate that region. Two branches of the encalyptus used in the room or win-dows, or as decorations in dwelling rooms, will cause mosquitoes, moths, fleas and tiles to leave the gremises.

thermometer points to about 55 degrees, the genial colonel appears with a story pipe hat, silver-headed cane, black cost and vest, and a handsome satin-lined summer, overcoat monchalantly thrown over his arm. At 10 o'clock the mercury registers 65 degrees, and the gallant colonel has exchanged his stovepipe for a comfortable straw hat, and his overcoat and eane have disappeared. At 110'clock, when it gets still warmer, his vest is thrown to the winds, displaying an irreproachable white front, and at about 12 o'clock the black coat has been abandoned and a long linen duster has taken it place. The change does not enhance the colonel's usual good looks, but he is evidently in for comfort.

Finally, between the noon hour and 1 o'clock, when the sun sends the mercury above 80 degrees, the colonel may be seen minus a vest and applying a handsome silk handkerchief frequently to his brow. At 2 o'clock the vest has again been brought into requisition, and during the next few houre Colonel Winstom may be taken for a lightning change artist until 5 o'clock, when he once more presents himself at the domestic circle "dreased in his best suit of clothes."

THE SONS OF VETERANS.

A Payallap Newspaper Man's Account of Their Doings in Yakima.

Pagallup Commerce: Too much canno ragaintp Commerce: No mice cannot be said in praise of the kindly hospitality displayed by the people of Yakima to the Sons of Veterans, lately in state encampment at that city. * * * * I will only narrate a few circumstances outside of the encampment records, and will only do that in a rambling, disconnected fashe the high hilarity and enthu siasm absorbed in the very atmosphere of North Yakima, has knocked all ability for proper chronology higher than a kite. By reason of a wreck between Payallu-and the junction, we did not reach Yak ima till long after dinner, Tuesday, and had no sooner stepped upon the platforn-than we were captured by brothers of the Yakima camp, divested of grips and guitar, bundled into an ounibus and driven to quarters at the Bartholet house. driven to quarters at the Bartholet house. We had not been in town half an hour before we met R. B. Milroy, Q. M. Sarr't before we met R. B. Milroy, Q. M. Sanrit of wakinn camp, and a partner in the law firm of Turner, Milroy & Howlett, Capt. S. C. Harbour, Frank Rayback, W. L. Jones, C. E. Schwartze, chaplain; Chas. Van Buskirk, Ed. Merwin, and a goodly number of other brothers of the local camp, several of whom called upon us at our quarters, while we were acrubing off the grime of travel.

Chas. Van Buskirk, Ed. Merwin, and a goodly number of other brothers of the local camp, several of whom called upon us at our quarters, while we were acrubbing off the grime of travel.

About the first thing one notices in the city is the universal comliness of the Yakima ladies. There is not a city of 300 inhabitants on earth with more handsome women in it than Yakima. And to a proper degree they seem to reciprocate the appreciation of the brotherhood, which is demonstrated by a sign posted on a brick hard.

Nat Yestes, ex-postusanter of Lexington, logn., and his son is a member of the Yakima camp. And Yates reminds me that there are several other Heppuer Hills people in Yakima; Mrs. Cutts, nee Annis Jelison, of Lone Rock, and C. A. Cramer, of Heppuer, are among them. Henry Cock, chief of police, is big enough to scare anybody, but during the entire encampment he was as mild and kind as a pet elephant. Police Judge S. C. Herton is also a member of the Yakima camp and one of the most jovial members of the order, which is well attested by the high position he holds in the Brotherhood of Elks, being in the same degree with J. H. Janette, of the Tacoma camp. Wednesday noon the Tacoma delegation and P. B. Randolph, of the Linden camp, arrived and were escorted with colors flying by the Yakima camp and band to quarters at Hotel Yakima. It did not take the boys long to be introduced all around, and as Brother Mitroy son after gave us the liberty of the Yakima club, the comforts and geniality of those luxurious quarters soon put everybody en rapport. Yakima is noted for her hospitality, but one must experience a sample of it to fally appreciate the geniality of her free hearted and typical western citizens. Nothing attest this more than the establishment of a club-house, that will discount in elegance and comfort anything of the kind in Washington or Oregon.

Wednesday evening the boys had an informal reunion at the Yakima camp quarters, at which impromptu speeches were made by many members who were informally called upon the floor. Dr. Taylor, the Orting delegate, here covered himself with glory, in a speech that drew to the frequent applicance and comfort anything of the kind in Washington or Oregon.

And then filed in the drum corps, the pride of Yakima, which, though composed of kidlings ranging between the ages of four to fifteen, is, without question, the best drilled aquad of drummers and fifers in the new northwest. They are fancily uniformed in suits that well become their infantile frames. Major Fred Haines, the oldest boy in the squad, is drum-major of the corps. Major Haines is also a member of the Yakima canny, and a son of S. F. Haines, who, together with his hospitable inmity, will be long remembered by many of the boys at the encamponent.

Our acquaintance with the peace conservators of Yakima was quickly formed, but there was nothing official in its nature—merely a matter of social intercourse.
