THE Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation Company in its great work of reclaiming 200,000 acres of arid land by building immense canals and irrigating the same has placed Yakima County in the front rank as the great Hop, Fruit, Vegetable and Hay producing section of Washington. In the center of this magnificent agricultural and horticultural country the Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation Company has plotted and laid out the TOWN OF ZILLAH and on Monday, June 27th, 1892, the town market. Zillah is 25 miles south of North Yakima on the river of that name and is the official terminus of the Motor Railroad to be built to North Yakima. Zillah is the headquarters of the company and handsome quarters are being erected to be occupied by the officials as soon as completed. Situated as this town is there are legitimate reasons why it should be prosperous, progressive and healthy. Investigate Zillah.

YAKIMA AND THE STATE.

Interesting Items of News from Yakima and its Suburbs.

Bits of Gospel, Facts, Fancies, Personalities, and a Hodge-Podge of Paragraphs of Every Description.

Hugh C. Wallace, of Tacoma, has been made the national democratic committeeman for Washington.

The Great Northern has a deed to all the land needed for depot purposes in the new town of Wenatchee, and every alternate lot in the town.

A brother of D. E. Lesh, who recently arrived from the east, is now night telegraph operator at Cle-Elum, where he has been joined by his wife.

George Hazard was one of the interested spectators of the Chicago convention. Wonder if George still thinks that the Washington delegation was for Hill?

One day last week Frank Bristol of Temple, engaged a team of Wales & Immanuel, and the next heard of it was that it had been left at Prosser and Bristol had skipped in the direction of Walla Walla.

Ellensburg Capital: J. L. Banks and Mrs. Jennie D. Hovey were married at the residence of the bride last Thursday evening. The wedding was private, only a few intimate friends being present, and it was a surprise to most of their acquaintances. Their friends wish them a joyful married life.

A. S. Whitney, secretary and manager of the Western Washington Industrial Exposition company of Tacoma, writes to THE HERALD asking that the attention of citizens be called to the necessity of making early application for exhibition space. Yakima's display at the exposition last year proved of incalculable benefit to this section, and was largely instrumental in bringing here many investors and settlers from the Puyallup and neighboring valleys. As the World's fair display for Washington will be collected at the Tacoma exposition, the demand for space will be largely in excess of last year, and our citizens cannot afford to longer delay action, not only in the matter of application for space but beginning the collection of the exhibit.

ALUM AND AMMONIA IN OUR BREAD.

Shall We Drive Slow Poison From Our Breakfast Table?

A nuisance that troubled England fifty years ago is now rapidly spreading in this country, that is, putting alum in the bread we eat. This question is causing a great deal of discussion at the present moment, as it is revealed that alum is being used as a substitute for cream of tartar in baking powders. A story is told that a very large percentage of the baking powders sold on the market contain either alum or ammonia, and many of them contain both of these pernicious drugs. Much timely alarm is felt at the wholesale use of alum in bread, biscuit and pastry. To young children, growing girls, persons of weakly frame, alum bread eaten morning, noon and evening, is the most harmful. It is the small quantities taken at every meal that do the mischief. Alum is cheap, costing but two or three cents a pound, while cream of tartar costs 30c, and the high price of cream of tartar has led the cheap baker to make of alum. If the reader wants to know something of the corrosive qualities of alum let him touch a piece to his tongue then reflect how it acts on the tender, delicate coats of the stomach.

The Scientific American published in a recent number a list of alum and ammonia baking powders, which is of great value at this time. Following is a condensed list compiled from official reports. Powders marked with a star seem to have a general sale, as they are mentioned in at least two of the official reports:

- *ATLANTIC & PACIFIC
 - *ROYAL CROWNS
 - *DAVIS' O. K.
 - *GEM
 - *KEYSTONE
 - *SILVER STAR
 - *SNOWDRIFT
 - *STAR
 - *STANDARD.
- There are, in addition to the foregoing list from the Scientific American, a number of such powders sold in the western

J. H. Lewis Carries Oregon.

[Portland telegram to the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.]—United States Judge Denby, Judge Northrup and Judge McArthur, regents of the University of Oregon, returned here this morning from Eugene where they had gone to be present at the address before the state university. They were enthusiastic in their comments on James Hamilton Lewis. Judge McArthur said that his address was admitted unquestionably to be the finest delivered before the societies since the organization of the university. "It was," said he, "not only the finished oration of a learned scholar, but an able speech from a thoughtful man." Mr. Lewis addressed his oration to the decline of republicanism and the decline of intellect and the refusal of patriotism to continue loyal to a government whose wealth, when allowed to accumulate in the few, is permitted to deprive of wisdom, and to debase the liberties and privileges of the many. His address closed in one hour and forty minutes, at the end of which, amid continued applause, he was surrounded and closed about by the professors and faculty and the visiting ladies and gentlemen who were present in the crowded hall, seeking to congratulate him. If Colonel Lewis was a candidate for governor of this state instead of Washington, this speech, it is claimed here, would elect him by 5,000 majority.

Cesar's famous "Veni, vidi, vici,"—I came, I saw, I conquered—might be an appropriate motto for Ayer's sarsaparilla. We charge nothing for the suggestion. This great blood purifier conquers wherever it comes, and is now absolutely without an equal in the world.

THE PRESIDENTIAL VOTE.

The season of political figuring is at hand, and while the unthinking may claim from local feeling that the democrats have a sure thing, or the republicans are dead winners, the conservative man is carefully scanning the roll of states and classifying them, not in accord with his sympathies, but as facts and indications warrant.

Table showing electoral college results for Republican and Democratic candidates across various states like California, Ohio, and New York.

Of the so-called doubtful states, Connecticut, Indiana, Montana, New Jersey, New York and West Virginia, with 7 votes, are usually democratic, and about the democrats carry these and not a few others they would still have 15 votes more than a majority.

SEATTLE Telegraph: The F-I wants to know how Washington would like free trade in hops. Washington hops already sell at a price regulated by a free trade market, that of London. It hops were admitted into this country from the price would not fall. But we have been telling everybody that we can raise more hops than the rest, and better ones, in Washington than they can anywhere else in the world.

The hop growers of Puyallup and other unfortunate neighborhood should not come to Yakima and see how we deal with the pestiferous hop louse. Instead of wasting our money in spraying we just let the aphid have his own way until old Sol beats down at the rate of 10 degrees to the square inch and then Mr. Hop Louse; where is he. He answers not to the roll call, but instead, the little black spots on the hop leaves record the story of a mighty though gratifying holocaust.

Governor WILLEY, President governor of Idaho, has informed President Harrison; republican president of the United States; that he may need federal help to "protect" the laborers in the mines of Coeur d'Alene.

THOS. H. CAVANAUGH, of Olympia, has been superceded by Amos F. Shaw, of Vancouver, as surveyor general. This may be the result of what Col. Patrick Henry Winston designates as the need of an administration party in this state or it may be due to other causes which will develop in time.

WHY CLEVELAND IS STRONG.

New York World, June 23rd: The great majority of the Chicago convention did not and should not hesitate to nominate the candidate of its choice through fear that he is not strong in New York.

Cleveland is strong in New York. No other democrat would this year get as many votes as he. The democratic leaders who are opposing his nomination would support him loyally. The World has pledged them to do it. They would do it for their own future salvation if for no other reason.

Cleveland is stronger with the non-partisan business men than any other democrat would be. He is the candidate best fitted to divide the vote with Harrison. He has been tried and not found wanting. Business likes certainties. It knows where it would find Cleveland.

Cleveland will get thousands of independent and mugwump votes that no other democrat could command. He lost many of them in 1888, but Harrison's "wild debauch of spoils" has brought them back.

Cleveland would get more republican votes on the tariff issue than any other democrat. He embodies the integrity, independence and best reform spirit of the democracy. His sturdy honesty, courage and fidelity to duty would be more than an offset to the unscrupulous personal qualities of President Harrison.

If the convention should have the courage of its preference and nominate Mr. Cleveland, the World believes that he will have the largest vote ever cast for a democratic candidate in this state. We said this in 1884, and the election sustained our opinion. We did not say it in 1888 because the circumstances did not warrant it. We say it now to reassure any with whom doubt may linger at Chicago.

Cleveland can win. The Oregonian, while admitting that the democratic vice-presidential nominee spoke in favor of the unionists and declared for the maintenance of the federal government, criticizes him because he did not collect. It would be difficult to find anyone to testify to the gallant services of Messrs. Scott or Pitcock in the late unpleasantness.

Dearest this hot weather, when one realizes that he is rapidly wasting his fortune in paying for exceedingly small chunks of ice, the threat that glacial periods are periodic phenomena, and that another one may intervene in about 150,000 years, is not much of its terror.

A NARRATIVE OF TRUTH.

Inwardness of the Washington Delegation's Standing at Minneapolis.

Why John Cannon Switched—Cause of Banker Cannon's Hatred for Harrison—How the Delegation Stood.

Truth is not always disseminated with that thoroughness and precipitancy that it would be if fired from a unified cannon, but oft times it comes trickling out as though clarified by gradually passing through a percolator. So at last we are gaining knowledge of the wonderful and sad course of the republican delegation at the Minneapolis convention.

At the convention city, little attention was paid to Nelson Bennett, John McGraw, Cannon, Cleman or even the delegation as a whole. The state of Washington was down at the tail end of the roll call, and the big politicians who did the engineering knew they wouldn't be in it once in a hundred—that is, that the race would be won and the tale told before the vote of Washington was called, and therefore they gave our distinguished delegation the same consideration that they would a wind blown mare in a race with cracks.

How did Washington's delegation start off? They were Blaine men, with the exception of Cleman, of Yakima, Kirkman, of Walla Walla, and Perkins, of the great wheat section of the northeast; although a very eloquent office-holder from Spokane, who shall be nameless, says that Banker Cannon—be who loves to be interviewed and given an opportunity of saying that he has risen from the trough of poverty to become a multi-millionaire—was elected as a Harrison delegate and had pledged his faith to vote for him.

"How will Cleman go?" was asked of the friends of Blaine in the delegation before they left for the east. "Oh, he is a rip-roaring Harrison man now, but wait until Judge Turner sees him." The change that Aladdin's lamp made in the circumstances of the possessor was nothing as compared to the transformation that took place in Cleman when Turner began to rub him up. Harrison was a million miles off while Jimmy Blaine was his bosom friend and toyed play fellow, at any rate Cleman, who on every possible previous opportunity avowed his undying fealty to Harrison, plumped his vote for James Gillespie Blaine when that remarkable statesman was looking around for the ice box at his summer home at Bar Harbor.

Nelson Bennett and A. M. Cannon were apparently the strongest Blaine men in the delegation, and an interesting story-told of how Cannon changed from a Harrison enthusiast to one of the rabid opponents. On one of his eastern visits the Spokane banker was presented to the president, who made himself rather agreeable. The next time Cannon was in Washington was during the period when W. H. Calkins was being urged for a judgeship. Cannon was a strong supporter of Calkins, and at a reception at the White House he engaged the president in conversation, and finally said he would like to see him privately. The president led the way to an ante room, where Cannon warmly urged the appointment of Calkins. Harrison listened attentively, and finally said: "I have followed you closely, and now if you will give me your name the matter shall have due consideration."

When the roll was called at Minneapolis and the caller reached Washington, Harrison had more than enough votes to elect him, but notwithstanding that fact A. M. Cannon, the chairman of the delegation, arose and announced eight votes for Blaine. This was an astonisher, for at a meeting of the delegation held before the balloting began, when everything pointed to Harrison as the nominee, all of the delegation excepting Cannon and Bennett agreed that their votes were to be cast for the president in case his nomination was assured, and Kirkman and Perkins wanted their votes cast for him anyway. With Cannon's announcement there was disturbance in the Washington delegation, for Perkins and Kirkman were protesting and insisting that they must have their rights, and that the vote should be announced as cast; but Harrison's nomination had been confirmed, and the whole house was in an uproar, and so with the pressure brought to bear and with no opportunity to curb the eyes of the chairman Mr. Cannon had to go forward and report that he had made an error in his report, and even then he made a second one by announcing that the Washington delegation stood 8 for Blaine, 1 for Harrison and 1 for McKinley.

An adjourned meeting of the Hop Growers' association will be held at Mason's opera-house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Every grower should be present. The contract for Mrs. John Donald's residence has been let to A. F. Switzer.

W. W. Berk, president of the Seattle female seminary is in the city in the interest of that institution.

F. N. Cole and J. D. Riley, prominent Seattleites, were the guests of the Hotel Yakima this week.

Ed Butler and Henry Shook will open their new saloon Saturday.

A THIRTY THREE MAN. In Oldtown is a man who is making money fast out of clams, though he is at present feeding the clams to his pig. He keeps a hotel and has bonded a clam flat down around Mount Desert. His clams arrive each day. He keeps them two weeks, feeding them on celery meal and Indian meal. They laugh and grow fat. Then he boils them, a bushel at a time. He puts in a quart of water and takes out eight quarts. The water is strained and set aside for a day in a refrigerator. Then it is heated, seasoned with salt and pepper and sold for five cents a glass. He has a big trade.

A bushel of clams delivered costs sixty cents. He feels them forty cents' worth. He gives a four ounce drink. There are thirty-two drinks in a gallon, and sixty-four drinks are secured from a bushel of clams. Net profit on a bushel of clams, $2.30, and he sells on some days six gallons. Many try to imitate him, but no one knows how to feed the clams as he does. His pigs grow fast. Moreover.—Boston Transcript.

Newspapers and Soap. Frank Siddala, the soap manufacturer, was once asked why he did newspaper advertising altogether, and did not follow in the footsteps of other manufacturers, putting up signs boards, etc. He replied that in his experience he found that the man that does not read the newspapers never uses soap.—Detroit Free Press.
