NO. 49.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Sept. 23, 1891.

I have resided in the Yakima Valley for 12 years, engaged in general farming, fruit and hop culture. I raise all my products by irrigation, and have never failed a single year in obtaining bountiful

I farmed formerly in the State of Kansas. I find all kinds of husbandry here much more profitable than in Kansas. And as to climate, such things as blizzards and cyclones are not known. Our winters are very short, and the spring and fall are perfectly delightful. All our farmers who are industrious are prosperous and happy.

D. E. Lesh, proprietor of the celebrated fruit farm called "Fruit Vale," swears that on one Alexander peach-tree grew, during the year 1890, five hundred and twenty pounds of peaches, which he sold for $52; that off four apple-trees twenty oz. pippins, he sold 100 boxes, 4,600 pounds, at $125. My whole orchard, between six and seven acres of peaches, apples, plums, pears and apricots, brought me, during the season of 1890, about three thousand dollars.

A florist makes the assertion that a blue rose is among the impossibilities, but, while an explanation of this curious fact may be equally impossible, he fails to mention a very inseresting law which governs the coloring of all flowers, A knowledge of this law would save many flower growers hours of unavailing and foolah hope. The law is simply this: The three colors, red, blue and yellow, never all appear in the same species of flowers; any two may exist, never the third. Thus we have the red and yellow goes, but no blue; red and blue to the various members of the viola family/as pansies, for instance) but no red; fed and yellow gladioli, but no blue, and so on. In speaking of the business of the world a large proposition is encountered. Envy

The Great Prestige of Royal Baking Powder envied by all competitors.

The envy shown by other baking powder manufacturers of the great prestige of the Royal Baking Powder is not at all surprising.

For thirty years the Royal has been the standard for purity and strength in baking powders, and has been placed at the head by every board of official examiners—whether State or National. The Royal Baking Powder Company controls its own cream of tartar factory and the processes for making the only absolutely pure cream of tartar; it sends its product to millions of homes all over the world, supplies the Army and Navy, the great transatlantic steamers, the finest hotels and restaurants, and is recommended by the best chefs and authorities on cuisine in every land. Its sale is larger than that of all other cream of tartar baking powders combined; it has more friends among housekeepers than any other deep pause, itering which I had been made to realize to the full my own utter moral and intellectual nothingness. "You may be sure she's pretty. Mrs. Wade wouldn't have foisted her upon us if she wasn't pretty, but unspeakable. It's a vile plot on her part to destroy my peace of mind. You won't believe it, Vernon; but I know that woman. And what does the vir! mean by signing her.

These facts are bitterness to the makers of the inferior baking powders; hence their advertisements, filled with malice, envy and falsehood, against the Royal.

Vernon; but I know that woman. And what does the girl mean by signing herself 'Respectfully,' I wonder?'

"It's the American way," I ventured gently to interpose.

"So I gather," my wife answered, with a profound accent of contempt. To her anything that ion't done in the purest English way stands, ipso facto, self condemed immediately.

A day or two later a second letter arrived from Miss Easterbrook, in reply to one of Lucy's suggesting a rendezvous. I confess it drew up in my mind a somewhat painful picture. I began to believe my wife's fears were in some ways well grounded.

to get your baggage checked. And that's how I came to want an escort."

Bernard smiled good naturedly. "Then you had only a fixed sum," he asked, "to make your European tour with?"

"That is so, sir," Melissa answered, looking up at him quizzically through those pretty gray spectacles. "I'd put away quite a little sum of my own to make this trip upon. It was my only chance of seeing Europe and improving myself a little. I knew when I started I couldn't go all the round trip with the rest of my party, but I thought. I'd see out with them anyway and go shead as long as my funds held out, and then when I was through I'd turn about and come home again."

"But you put away the money yourself?" Locy asked, with a little start of admiring surprise.

stal de St. Jean, you know, where Memiling put them. And it is so delightful to see great pictures like those—though they're tiny little things to look at—in their native surroundings, exactly as they were first painted; the Chasse de Ste. Ursule, and all those other lovely things, so infantile in their simplicity, and yet so equisitely graceful and query and beautiful. I don't know as I saw authing in Europee to cought them were a surrounding the surround the surrounding t things, so infantile in their simplicity, and yet so exquisitely greaceful and pure and beautiful. I don't know as I saw anything in Europe to equal them for pathos in their own way, except, of course, the Fra Angelicos at San Marco in Florence.

"I don't think I ree seen them," Lucy murmured, with an uncomfortable air. I could see it was just dawning upon her, in spite of her patwolsing, that this Yankee girl, with her imperfect command of the English tongus, knew a vast deal more about some things worth notice than she berrelf did. "And where did you go then, dear?"

"Oh, from Bruges we went on to Ghent," Melissa answered, leaning back and looking as pretty as a picture herself in her sweet little traveling dress, "to see the great Van Eyck, the 'Adoration of the Lamb,' you know—that magnificent panel picture. And then we went to Brussels, where we had Dierick Bontis and all the later Flemings; and to Antwerp for Rubens and Vandyke and Quirtin Matsys; and The Hague after that, for Rubens and Vandyke and Quirtin Matsys; and The Hague after that, for Rubens and Vandyke and Quirtin Matsys; and The Hague after that, for Rubens and Vandyke and Quirtin Matsys; and The Hague after that, for Rubens and Paul Potter; and Amsterdam in the end, for Van der Helst and Gerard Dow, and the late Dutch painters. So, you see, we had quite an artistic tour—we followed up the development of Netherlandish art, from beginning to end, in historical order. It was just delightful."

"I went to Antwerp once," Bernard put in, somewhat sheepishly, still twiring his mustache; "but it was on my way to Switserland; and I didn't see much, as far as I can recollect, except the cathedral and the quay and the hotel I was stopping at."

"Ah, that's all very well for you," Melissa answered, with a rather envious
