from abroad have offered $100,000 for the
S. W. Lake Ditch Company's diggings.

For S. C. Taylor's horses were found dead on the range, a few miles north of Phini, this week. No cause for their death.

Myrtle Creek keeps its reputation this lun named Hensaker, who is being daily convicted and fined.

Mr. Wood, the gentleman so seriously injured by a log rolling over him at Ashland a new week ago, died Sunday and was buried the following day.

The Independent says: The majority of our farmers—in fact, all who can afford to do so—are storing their grain, and will wait for higher prices before selling.

The Douglas Independent says that Pitkin head surveyer at John's mill, had his car sawed off. The telegraph operator at Deadwood reports the woods all on fire and several millars reported burned or in danger there. The inhabitants are busy using means of protection.

ocratic paper at Lakeview, sometime during warehouses and there is scarcely one half the number of bushels stored at that point that there were last year.

Geo. Painter is in jail at Albany for stealing a saddle at Lebanon.

There are about one hundred and twenty students, altogether, in the college at Monmouth.

Farmers are about through hauling grain, and the warehouses are full, as well as at other places are full to overflowing.

Great preparations are being made, says the Albany Democrat, for the coming of Fall in this county, in fact a considerable amount has already been put in.

noted for quarreling. A few days ago they got into a quarrel and the man drove his better half off the farm with a revolver.

J. R. Cooper, proprietor of a saloon at Independence, tried to put out a drunken man named Wm. Cornelius, and in the scuffle a pistol went off, and Cornelius got shot in the leg.

We are glad to be able to state that M. V.
Brown has so far recovered that he now sits up during the greater part of the day, and a week or so he will probably be able to leave his apartments.

Hon. Stephen Stearns, in a communication to the Riverside, suggests connecting Dallas with the West Side railroad by a branch to Dixie, and also the building of a road from that place to Salem.

The money order business at Boise City amounts to about $3,000 a week.

The grist mill at Pataha is receiving wheat at 40 cents. The crop is immense.

Col. Osborne, of Pine Grove, fell from a house he was building and he is a circumstantial case of a thumb and forefinger of Henry Martin's at Colfax last Wednesday.

One hundred thousand bushels of grain are housed at Pataha City, and no way by which it can be moved.

The surveyors have located a railroad through Pataha City. Most every man in that section has a depot located in his front yard.

Fifty acres of good land have been donated for the site of Water City, the proposed seat for the new county of Washington, Idaho.

Hon. J. V. H. Vint and Thomas Rankham, while riding in a buggy near Madison,

Wheat, 30, oats 60, and barley 50 bushels per acre.

The brake on the Lewiston stage gave way on the Pataha grade the other day. A collision ensued, resulting in a broken leg for Jack Fisher, the driver, and serious injuries to two lady passengers.

The Dayton News says: Through the heroic efforts of a little ten year old son of Mr.
A. Reagan, his house was saved from being burned to the ground one day last week, during his absence. The brave little fellow upon discovering smoke coming from the roof climbed upon the house and as the water was handed to him dashed it upon the fire until it was entirely extinguished.

but at the present writing no trace of them has been found.

A Looking-glass correspondent writes: The harvest is over and the threshing about all completed in this valley. The farmers, though not raising as much wheat as they expected, have little cause to complain, as it is conceded by good authority that there is as much or more, wheat raised here as there was last year.

EASTERN STATES.

Prattie Fires.
BISMARCK, Oct. 8.—Prattie fires are doing considerable damage and creating much alarm in Dakota, but so far no buildings have been destroyed. Woods along the Missouri river are on fire and the town of Mandan was only saved by the activity of the citizens. The country between Bismarck and Fargo is burned thoroughly.
Four miles of ties and a bridge at Crystal Springs were destroyed. Trains have been delayed. The telegraph operators at Deadwood reports the woods all on fire and
several millars reported burned or in dan-
means of protection.

Robbed.
KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9.—The Chicago and Alton train was robbed of express money at Glendale, 15 miles east of this city, last night. It was stopped by about 20 masked men, who kept up a continual firing, while the messenger's safe was robbed. The messenger was knocked down, but not seriously hurt. Fifty thousand dollars was the estimated loss. The agent at Glendale is missing.

The Railroad Smash Up.
DENVER, Oct. 11.—The following are additional particulars of the great railway disaster: The first passenger coach was crowded against the embankment and crushed back the two following passenger coaches. The first coach was comparatively unharmed, the harvest of death being reaped in the second and third coaches. The fourth coach escaped with slight damage, and none of the passengers were injured. At least one can be ascertained, the accident was caused by the switchman having the making up of freight trains at Jackson Junction, occupying the main track with a switch engine and a passenger train. The Pacific Express press was considerably behind time. The express train, however, had made up nearly all last night.

Deaths.
DENVER, Oct. 12.—The following is a correct list of persons killed, so far as known to date: Milton Gilbert, engineer, of Detroit; Christopher Smith, of Detroit; W. J. Rice, of Philadelphia; Mrs.
Elizabeth Rice, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Mary Garland, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Annie Garland, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Catharine Spartano, of Philadelphia; Edith Spartano, aged 10, and Marian Spartano, aged 4; Wm. G. Collins, of Lowell, Mass.; Moses Green, of Troy, Vt.; Louis Morgan, of Birmingham, Canada; infant daughter of Mrs. George Jones, of Shenandoah, Pa., 18 months old; unknown man, evidently a Canadian, 25 years old, 5 feet 6 inches in height, short, black hair, smooth face, dressed in gray checked suit; unknown man, about 40 years of age, prominent Roman nose, black mustache, initials "G. E. R." wrought on right wrist, supposed to have been a sailor.

The wounded are thirty-one. They are all doing well, and no more deaths are likely to occur. The best of care is being bestowed upon them by the railway company. The postal and baggage cars of both trains are also total wrecks. The accident was caused by some misunderstanding of telegraphic orders.

An investigation before a coroner's jury composed of leading citizens of Jackson has been in progress all the forenoon, taking evidence of the accident. It is reported that it seems from their testimony that Colwell, the yardmaster, Sawyer, the switchman, and Jones, the engineer of the switch engine, are all alike responsible, and that all were guilty of negligence. They are all under arrest.

Another Collision.
WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 12.—A passenger train going East, which left this city at 6:30 o'clock last evening, and the Baltimore express, coming West, collided at Belton, a more or less railroad, on the 10th of Oct. at 10:30 o'clock. Both trains were running at the rate of 40 miles an hour, and were filled with passengers, who miraculously escaped injury, with the exception of a little girl, who was slightly hurt about the face.
James Askew, engineer, and John Smith, fireman, of train No. 1, were instantly killed.

Georgia Outlaws.
ATLANTA, Oct. 13.—The Judge of Baldwin county and a delegation of citizens reached here this morning, to ask the governor for military force to suppress the Georgia Tigers, a desperate organization who hold possessions of the country. They are a band of men Tuesday and burned several houses and have killed in the past 3 years 20 men and women, mostly negroes. The governor sent one of his staff and a number of detectives to the country, but the military is needed. Members of the legislature in the adjointing counties have been telegraphed for by their families and have gone home.
The feeling here is intense. The scene of disorder is only one day's ride from here.

A Sad Mission.
RALPH MECKER, son of N. G. Mecker, the late Indian agent at the White River Agency, has been appointed special agent of the department of the interior for the purpose of visiting the White River Agency at the earliest practicable day and recovering the bodies of his father and such other persons as may have been killed. Mr. Mecker will also gather up the papers, etc., of the agency. He starts to-night for Rawlins.

The Pillaged Agency.
RAWLINS, W. T., Oct. 13.—On entering the agency a scene of crime was presented itself. All the buildings except one were burned to the ground, and not a living thing in sight except the command. The Indians had taken everything except the four and four hundred. The women and children were missing and nothing whatever could be found to indicate what had become of them. They have either been murdered and buried or else taken away as hostages.

400 bodies of his father and such other persons as may have been killed. Mr. Mecker
will also gather up the papers, etc., of the agency. He starts to-night for Rawlins.

Liberty of De. It.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Last April J. R.
Alsip, bookkeeper for Meeker, James & Co., absconded, defrauding to the amount of $4,000.
It was ascertained that he had left for Callao on the British bark Guiding Star. Detective John went by steamer to Callao, arriving in advance of the bark, and when she made port arrested Alsip on a requisition. He with his prisoner took passage on the ship Valparaiso, which came into the harbor last evening.
While off Port Point, John, who was sitting on deck with Alsip, left him for a moment to speak with the captain about putting him on board a police boat before coming to anchor. On his return Alsip had disappeared but his coat was lying near where he had been sitting, and in a pocket was found the following letter:

To whom it may concern:—Rather than bear the ill I have, I have concluded to fly to those I know not of. I have said that I never would be taken to San Francisco alive, and I keep my word. I desire that W. E.
Robinson take charge of my effects. For all this—a shameful crime, a blasted life, a shameful end, and perhaps a damned soul—thanks to the honorable D. M.

J. R. ALSIP.

The tide was running strong, and it is considered impossible that Alsip should have escaped to the shore.

The Honorable Suit.
DEFENDANT's demurrer to the complaint of JOHN E. BURKE against J. O. Flood and the estate of Wm. J. O'Brien, deceased, to recover $25,000,000, was submitted to the court to-day for decision. Without argument on either side, the points of law raised being similar in all respects to cases brought against the Nevada Bank and the Pacific Railway by the plaintiff, and which were both fully argued and submitted a few days ago.

Horrible Deaths.
STOCKTON, Oct. 10.—The dwelling house of one under the ear. He and Father Mecker were stripped entirely naked. Another employee named Eaton was found dead. He was stripped naked and had a bundle of paper bags on his arms, and his face was badly cut by a wire and a bullet hole in his left breast. Frank Dressler, a brother of the one found in the coal mine, was found badly burned. He had without doubt been killed instantly, as a bullet had passed through his heart, the body of Lewis Thompson, Price, Eckridge and all other employes not named, were also found. Eckridge was found two miles this side of the agency, naked, and a bullet hole through his head.

In the house occupied by the Indians during Thornburgh's battle, in a breastwork made of stone, was found the dead body of an unknown white man, dressed in buckskin. He was sitting on his knees and had his gun in his hand. He had been shot through the forehead. From this it appears that the Indians were not alone in their hellish work. It is supposed that the Indians have gone to join the southern Utes, and that it is an invasion among the Indians of Merritt's command that the Indians who fought Thornburgh numbered at least seven hundred.

PUGET SOUND MAIL.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1879.

The Local Court Question.

Recent advices from Olympia, conveying intelligence that our Representative, Capt. H. Roeder, is most indefatigable in his efforts to accomplish the abolishment of our County Court, has given a new impetus to the petitions for the division of the County. Some six months ago the Mail took occasion to remark that the people of the southern part of Whatcom County, who pay at least two-thirds of the taxes thereof, would never submit to the abolishment of their court and return to the old pioneer style of crossing the Straits of Fuca in an open boat, at the risk of their lives, to attend court at Port Townsend, and the moment it was attempted they would sue for a division of the County so as to regulate their own affairs; for it should be borne in mind that with the exception of Semiahmoo and one or two other points in the northern part of the county we have no steamboat connection or business relations with Port Townsend. That prediction is now being verified, as is evidenced from the numerous signatures (some 300) on the division petitions. It is peculiarly unfortunate for the perpetuity of our District Court that it was not established at Captain Roeder's townsite at Whatcom instead of La Conner; for in that case he would labor as strenuously for its retention there as he now does for its abolishment at La Conner. In fact, we are informed that he rendered valuable assistance in lobbying through the bill establishing this Court two years ago, but he left Olympia before its passage and failed to see to it that his own town was designated as the seat of justice. We are thus plain, as it is important that the people of Whatcom County should understand the personal motives which govern our Representative on this important question. Now, let us advise that the Representatives and Councilmen of Whatcom, Snohomish and Island Counties combine not for the abolishment of the District Court at La Conner but the U. S. Court at Steilacoom for the County of Pierce and let that county be included in the Second District, as the people of Pierce have the most ample facilities of attending court at Olympia by land or water. By all means, let that useless United States judicial appendage be abolished and let the United States jurisdiction of that court be conferred upon the court at La Conner for the three counties of Whatcom, Snohomish and Island. If we understand the matter of United States courts, the Government allows only three within the Third Judicial District, and leaves it to the Legislature to designate the places for holding these courts. Hence we ask the Legislature abolish the U. S. court at Steilacoom, annexing Pierce to the Second Judicial District with court at Olympia; then reorganize the United States Courts of the Third Judicial District as follows: King and Kitsap Counties, with their court at Seattle; Whatcom, Island, Snohomish, with court at La Conner; and Jefferson, Clallam and San Juan with court at Port Townsend. This proposition should strike all candid and impartial minds as being just and equitable to all concerned.

PRESIDENT HAYES has delivered a speech at the reunion of his old Ohio regiment, in which he strongly advocates the doctrine that the political privileges of the freedmen must be maintained. He contends that "the right of suffrage is the right of self-protection. Its free exercise is the vital air of republican institutions. To establish now the State-rights doctrine of the supremacy of the States, and an oligarchy of race, is deliberately to throw away an essential part of the fruits of the Union victory. The settlements of the war in favor of equal rights in the supremacy of the laws of the Nation are just and wise, and necessary. Let them not be surrendered. Let them be faithfully accepted and firmly enforced." This is very emphatic language, and it clearly indicates that the President recognizes a wide difference between the conciliation of the South and the practical grant to its leaders of the right to disfranchise the freedmen. There are doubtless portions of the South in which the new colored voters enjoy political privileges as freely as any of their white fellow-citizens. But in other sections the votes of the freedman cannot be safely cast for candidates of their own choice, and in some districts the negroes are allowed to vote freely at general elections, but warned that their participation in the primary elections of the dominant party will not be tolerated.

The Member from Island's Officiousness Criticized.

LA CONNER, Oct. 16, 1879.

Mr. EBRON.—Last Tuesday a letter was exhibited in town, dated Olympia, W. T., addressed to Joseph L. Maddox of Skagit, Whatcom County, advising and soliciting Mr. Maddox to circulate a petition to abolish the Whatcom County Court. Said letter was subscribed Peter De Jorup, the Representative of Island County. We cannot see what could actuate Mr. Jorup to meddle with our affairs. Has he no business of his constituents to attend to? We were about as much surprised at this letter as probably Mr. Jorup would be if some citizen of Whatcom county sent a "local option" petition into Island County, or a petition to abolish the sale of liquor at Utsalady. The general feeling is one of indignation not at the desire to abolish the court, but at the meddlesome interference. The supposition is, if the letter is genuine, that the member elect from Whatcom county, who so nobly misrepresented things during the campaign in the endeavor to elect a Councilman whom his own party did not want, and so signally failed, falling also to get a petition to abolish the court, is endeavoring to use Mr. Jorup to further his ends. The letter says: "Get up a petition to abolish the court and I will carry it through for you; the House is all right but I don't know how the Council stands." Now, isn't this good! If the party will write down here we will tell him how the Council stands, or, if it is more convenient, just ask Hon. John McGlinn.

Gentlemen of the House and Council.—If the people of Whatcom County want the court abolished we will not seek the member from Island County to do our work. We have a man in Olympia to attend to the affairs of Whatcom county who, although he was not elected by either Democrats or Republicans but by sectional strife, and that strife stirred up and kept hot by himself for his own selfish purposes, nevertheless is there to represent or misrepresent us.

But the boomerang has rebounded; the chickens have come home to roost. He stands in the legislative halls a representative of nowhere—of no one but the interests and personal spite of Henry Roeder. The northern end of the county have gone back on him and the southern end won't own him, as the developments of a few days will show. "Lochiel, Lochiel, beware of the day When the Lowlands and Highlands shall meet thee in battle array!" It is coming hot and thick! Vox Populi.

ANOTHER SOUTHERN OUTRAGE.—Postmaster General Key has telegraphed the postal agent at Atlanta that the shooting of the postmaster at Blackville, South Carolina, requires immediate attention. The postmaster general will abolish the office if the postmaster is not safe while performing his duties and is not protected by the local authorities. Nix, the postmaster, is a colored man and a leader of his people, and the whites don't want him in office. He recognizes the person who shot him as a man named Williams. The shot passed through his arm and across his breast. He says, "I called upon the authorities for assistance, but being all democrats they refused to render any." The assassin was not even arrested.

This is the way Senator Blaine was interviewed the other day in Ohio: Mr. Blaine thinks the solid south will be confronted next year by a solid north, resulting in the election of the republican candidate for president. He was asked: "Whom will the republicans nominate?" "I think the shot gun policy which is in vogue in Mississippi and other states." "You failed to catch the drift of my question. Who will be the republican nominee for president?" "Of course, you have read all about Gen. Grant's reception at San Francisco. It was a magnificent ovation to our illustrious fellow-citizen, who is worthy of it all, and more too."

THE MODEL.—The Palouse country has the model fire department of the Territory, as described by the Colfax Gazette, which says of it: "In case of fire, the Tiger Engine Co. will find their machine in the creek, below Ren Taylor's paint shop, one of the hose carts on the bank near by, the other some place between the Ewert house and the saw mill, one of the nozzles in Martin's store, and the other lost."

There is at present a force of three hundred workmen grading on the Pea d'Oreille Division of the N. P. R. R., near the mouth of Snake river. The work is being vigorously pushed forward.

A GENERAL strike of all the trades in the United States and British North America is on foot.

It is reported that twenty-eight prospectors have been massacred by the Indians in Southeastern Utah.

General News in Brief.

GENERAL GRANT arrived at Portland on last Tuesday, and was received with great eclat and ovation. It is not his intention to visit the Sound, much to our regret.

The German quarrel with Japan is said to be getting more serious. Ten thousand one hundred tons of wheat were shipped from Wallula during the month of September.

A STONE has been placed to mark the spot where Stonwall Jackson received his death wound.

THERE are 49,000 sheep in Whitman county, W. T.

SICK HEADACHE.—This distressing complaint can generally be relieved by soaking the feet in warm water, in which a spoonful of powdered mustard has been stirred. Soak as long as possible; or till the water gets cool; it draws the blood from the head.

Susie's Diary.

BY MYRTLE. (From The Pacific Monthly.) May 1st.—Well, we are fairly moved and I am really too tired to write to-night, but as I promised papa that I would write something each day, I suppose I must try. We have hardly had time to see the place but think we shall like it very well, at least I shall, for I have always longed to live in the country. May 2nd.—The house is quite convenient and there is plenty of room for my gardening; but, oh! how I wish we could have got that sweet little cottage next door! I wonder who lives there; I half suspect it is some newly-married couple, for I caught a glimpse of a little creature in a gray dress and pale blue shawl, through the honeysuckles this morning. Well, I hope if ever I am married I can have just such a little bird's nest to live in. Such a lovely garden too; they must have very refined taste whoever they are, for the flowers are all of the choicest. Perhaps I may get some cuttings for my garden after a while, but I am afraid it takes a great deal of work to make such a garden as that. May 5th.—I am more and more interested in our neighbor; I am the man of the house today for the first time, and I don't see how that sweet little girl could ever fancy such a gloomy, stern looking man. I don't seem to prosper very well with my garden, it's harder work than I thought for, but I suppose I must have patience. May 10th.—Our next door neighbor, the pretty little lady, has gone away, I saw her drive off this morning with a gentleman who came in a spring-wagon, perhaps her brother; he looked so handsome and kind that I don't wonder she was glad to go with him for a while, and leave that bear, her husband, for I have fully made up my mind that he is a bear, though she always looks very happy. May 15th.—The little house is still without its mistress, the master evidently consoles himself with music, for I have heard both an organ and flute there lately. But why, I wonder, does he always play such mournful airs? I sat on the porch listening last night, and found myself crying just in sympathy. I don't see what great sorrow he can have, with so sweet a little wife. This evening I had been playing on the piano, and on going to close the blinds I saw him with his head bowed upon his hands in an attitude of perfect despair. I do hope, for his wife's sake, the man is not sentimental. June 1st.—I wonder what is the matter with my garden, nothing does well. I have hardly one thrifty looking plant except the old rosebushes that were here when we came. By the way I have found out the name of our neighbors. The postmaster asked me to-day if we did not live up next to Phillip Maynard, and when I told him I did not know the name of any one in the village, said "He lives in a little house with a pretty garden, and is a mighty queer chap." Mrs. Maynard has not come home yet. If I had a husband I don't believe I'd leave him alone so long. June 6th.—I was out, as usual, to-day in my garden, setting out some rose slips, when Mr. Maynard came to the fence and said: "Miss Lane, excuse me, but it is rather late for slips, and allow me to suggest that you water your plants in the evening rather than in the morning when the sun shines directly upon them." I was very much surprised, but it was so kindly said that I managed to stammer: "Oh, thank you, I am very ignorant about the plants, but I love them dearly and mean to have a garden of them if I can." He smiled and said he hoped I would succeed, and then he bowed and walked away. It was really wonderful the change that smile made in his face. I have thought of it so many times to-day. It made him look quite handsome and so kind. I wish his wife would come back, then I might get acquainted and learn so much about my garden, and perhaps get a peep into her conservatory. June 22d.—This morning Mr. Maynard gave me a beautiful bouquet of his choicest flowers and said he thought it was too bad for me to work all summer and then not have flowers, so wouldn't I accept a few of his. I think it was so very kind in him to think of it. I am afraid his wife can't be the sweet little woman that she looks or she would not leave him here alone so long, for I am sure he is lonely and sad. It is only for a moment when he is talking that the sad look leaves his face. July 5th.—It's too bad! I thought surely Mrs. Maynard would be back to spend the Fourth with her husband; but she was not. He started off early in the morning on that great black horse of his, and did not come back till nearly dark. I don't believe she loves him at all. It's a great shame for such a noble man to lead so lonely and unhappy a life. I declare I'm so sorry that here I am crying about it. July 8th.—Mr. Maynard has been so very friendly of late that yesterday I asked him when he expected Mrs. Maynard back. He looked surprised and said: "Mrs. Maynard?" I blushed for I knew he must think me very inquisitive, but I managed to say: "Yes, you know I saw her when we first came here." His eyes twinkled for a moment and he looked as if he never saw him look, but almost immediately grew grave again and said: "I am not sure when she will come," and lifting his hat he walked away. No danger of my asking any more questions, but what a shame it is for him to be treated so. I wish he was well acquainted with papa, for he will cheer any one up, and I am sure Mr. Maynard needs some one to cheer him. July 25th.—The strangest thing happened to-day. While I was at work in the garden Mr. Maynard came to the fence and said: "Miss Lane, you have never been through my conservatory; the flowers are at their best just now, if you care to see them I shall take great pleasure in showing them to you." Of course I went immediately and truly I was rewarded, for never before had I seen such a collection of rare and beautiful plants. It seemed like fairy land. When he showed me through his garden telling me of the plants and their names, and introduced me to the sweetest looking old Quaker lady who keeps house for him. As he opened the gate to let me pass out he said: "So you are pleased with my little place." "Yes, indeed," said I, "I never saw anything half so lovely; you ought to be very happy." But the moment it was said I felt sorry, for the old sorrowful expression came back to his face, and he simply said: "I hope you will come to stay longer some time." I suppose he means when his wife comes home, if she ever does. I don't see what kind of heart she can have to stay away so, and she looked so pretty and good too. July 30th.—I do wonder what is the matter with papa to-night, he acts so strangely. Every few moments he would burst out laughing, and when I asked him what was the matter he turned it off by asking some question about my garden, or the neighbors, or when Mrs. Maynard is expected home. I'm sure I don't know when she's expected and I don't care; it's my opinion she's a heartless flirt. I told papa as much, but instead of sympathizing with Mr. Maynard he only laughed more than ever. Perhaps papa's planning some surprise for me, but I shall be sure to find it out, for I always do. August 15th.—How can I write what has happened to-night. As I was walking up from the village this evening, and had got nearly home, Mr. Maynard overtook me, and said: "It is a pleasant evening, and I have something I wish very much to say to you; will you extend your walk a little?" and as we just then came up to the house he said to papa: "Mr. Lane, I am going to carry Miss Susie off for a little while, but will see that she gets safely back." Papa laughed and called out, "What will Mrs. Maynard say?" I was so provoked, for I thought Mr. Maynard would think it so rude. We walked on for a long while in perfect silence, then Mr. M. spoke, and so low that I could hardly hear him: "Susie, I love you, will you be my wife?" then for a moment I thought all the world had slipped from under my feet. "That man whom I had trusted and believed in so completely could speak such words to one who knew he had a wife! What could it mean! But one look into the clear honest eyes satisfied me even without another word. As he was waiting for an answer, I could only say: "The lady whom I saw—" "was my sister Helen, who came to make me a visit this Spring, because I would not go to her," he explained. A feeling of tumultuous joy had seized me and I was crying and laughing together. Then I felt myself gathered in two strong arms, and my lips pressed in a long kiss, and I am so happy. Coming home he told me how years before he had loved a beautiful but heartless girl who had promised to be his wife, but when he, having left town for a few weeks, came back to find her married to another, he had renounced all claims save that of his beloved music, plants, and books, but when I came, from seeing so much of my home life he had learned to love me. I don't know why, I'm sure, but I'm so glad it is so. Papa laughed heartily when I came home and commenced to ask for Mrs. Maynard until I fled up here leaving Philip and him together. December 24th.—To-morrow we are to be married, and I am going to the little white cottage as my mistress, for I would not hear of living anywhere else. Papa's merriment has not subsided yet, but I am too happy to mind his teasing, and I hope by my love and devotion to make happy a life once darkened by another woman's faithfulness. One of the Postles. Two rustics, who were on a visit to some exhibitions, were at a loss to decide the subject of a painting which particularly attracted their attention. They at length came to different conclusions, and stuck to them till a lady came near who was provided with a catalogue. Her kindness was immediately appealed to to determine between them, and the fair referee, turning to the number of the picture, informed them that it was Peter the Great and his Empress. "I told you so," exclaimed one of the connoisseurs, "with an air of triumph; it said it was one of the Postles." It was a wise man who said: "He is passing rich who can number friends enough for a jury—who can lose two or three and not be a bankrupt."

A Great Discovery. There is living near Catawauqua, Penn. in a heavy old age, the man who discovered how to use anthracite coal in the manufacture of iron. His name is David Thomas, and the story of his discovery he thus relates: "One Winter night in the old country, I sat with Mr. Crane, a brother superintendent of a blast furnace, over a grate fire of hard coal. We had talked of the recent invention of the hot blast, just patented by Mr. Neilson, a Scotchman, and our conversation had carried us pretty well along into the evening. The fire had burned low, and we were about to separate, when I picked up the bellows and began to blow it. 'You will put the fire out,' said Mr. Crane. As he spoke it flashed over my mind that if my bellows gave a hot blast it would bring the grateful coal to a bright glow, and with the thought there came like an inspiration upon me that the hot blast was all that was needed to utilize the rich beds of anthracite under our feet for making iron. I dropped the bellows and gave utterance to my thoughts. Mr. Crane smiled, then grew attentive, and as I went on thinking out my theory as I spoke he became interested. When I concluded we grasped hands over the dead coals of our anthracite fire and separated. Little sleep we got that night. To me it was one of restless anxiety. When I read an account of the night before the execution of a condemned man I always think of my night with my new idea. The next day I posted up to Scotland, and on my return I brought with me the plans of a hot-blast furnace, which we at once proceeded to build for the purpose of making iron with anthracite coal. It was a great success, and attracted capital to the development of the anthracite coal beds of Wales and the attention of the scientific world. Before that, for our furnaces we had brought coke from the distant bituminous coal fields, thereby increasing the cost of our product over establishments more favorably situated. The very hills beneath our feet were filled with rich deposits of anthracite, and the discovery of means to utilize it was like a mine of gold to the country around. Our experiment was a success. Of course, the scientific discussion carried on the papers in that country provoked attention in America, and the few scientific journals published here took up the matter, and thereby the ironworkers of this region came to know of its great value. They were then using charcoal and coke. At once they set to work on my plan. Gentle Thackeray. How affectionately and permanently in after years children remember their elders who have shown them marked kindness! No one loved children better than Thackeray. In the recently published memoir of Henry Compton, we read: I well recollect my brother and myself meeting my father returning from rehearsal through Hyde Park, in company with a tall, burly man of a ruddy complexion. My father carelessly introduced us as two of the "varmin's"; his friend shook hands with us, and inquired about our school affairs and sports more kindly than did most middle-aged gentlemen we knew. They were both engaged in conversation which we did not understand, till, just before reaching the barracks, my father said: "Well, we have to part here, as you are going to Oxford street." "Yes," said his friend, "I must leave you and your boys now," and, turning to us, he wished us good-by very heartily; then, as he was shaking hands with my father, he added, "I wonder what there is in my purse! There Compton, take it, and give the young 'uns what there is—not much, I'm thinking." "No, no," said my father; "you must not do that." "Nonsense, my dear fellow; I was a school-boy once, and know the value of tips. Everybody should tip school-boys—it does them good." So saying, he hurried off, leaving his purse with my father. "What is that?" we both exclaimed. "That's a very celebrated man called Thackeray," said my father. "How much is there?" was the next very natural question. I forgot the exact amount but we both went home some five or six shillings richer, much impressed with the celebrated man who had such "stunning" ideas, and carried them out so well. A cyclone, accompanied by a heavy rain, passed over the County Fair Grounds at Watonsville, Trecoola, Co., Mich., on the 3rd inst., doing great damage. Cloth tents are torn to shreds, and fences blown down. One tent, where tables were set for one hundred persons, was blown down, overturning the stove and large reservoir of boiling water, severely scalding six ladies, one of whom, with an infant six months old, probably fatally. In the main hall the exhibits were considerably injured by rain. The flower named "bachelor's button" is so called because it is apt to fall off. J. H. Settlemier, of Woodburn Nursery, in Marion County, keeps a large assortment of all kinds of fruit, shade and ornamental trees. Two and three year old Plum and Prune trees, $16 per 100. Send for his catalogue. I. G. Davidson, photographer of Portland, don't mislead his customers by promising $6 worth of photo work for $5, but simply charges $2 50 per doz. for cards and $4 for cabinets, and turns out the very best work. 007-2w

From the Rookport, Ill, Banner There is no medicine in the world which has gained such fame as St Jacobs Oil; this is, however, not in the least astonishing, when we consider its truly wonderful curative powers. Mr. F. Rodenberg, of Grandview, called at our office last week and related the following circumstance: I suffered with rheumatism for over six years; consulted many physicians, and tried hundreds of remedies; but without avail. Having seen St. Jacobs Oil advertised in your paper, and heard of some most astonishing cures, I sent to Rookport for a bottle of the Oil, and used it according to directions. The relief I felt was almost "electric." I got better at once, and now there is not a trace of rheumatism left in my body. If you are going to paint your house barn, wagon or machinery, the wonderful Impervishable Mixed Paint is surely the best, for it is warranted by their agents in your own town not to chalk, crack, peel or blister; to cover better and work easier than any other paint. The Impervishable Mixed Paint is the best, over all other paints, at the California State Fair, 1878. Get a circular from their Agent, which explains this Oil and what it will do for you.
