SENTENCE OF ARTHUR FLOWEREE.—

At the last term of the District Court at Stellacoom, Pierce county, a young man belonging to a surveying party of the N. P. Railroad, was tried and found guilty of manslaughter, for the homicide of J. Dudley, last summer, at Tacoma.

A gentleman who was present at the time of his sentence by the Court, has furnished us a literal report of the remarks of young Floweree when asked what he had to say why sentence should not be passed against him. He said:

"If your Honor please—I desire to say a few words. I have been charged with one of the highest crimes known to the law. I have been tried, and the jury have pronounced me guilty, and your Honor is about to sentence me to spend some of the best years of my life, the flower of my days, in prison. I make no objection to the manner of my trial, nor do I appeal from the verdict of your Honor, and I thank you for the fairness and consideration I acknowledge was shown me upon my trial.
I have not been able to show all the facts connected with my case. I am not able to do so now. But in the presence of your Honor, and knowing that the eyes of God are upon me, I do solemnly swear, that when I did the act, and at the very moment I acted, I believed and was satisfied in my own mind, that my life was in instant danger, and I thought it necessary, and was fully convinced that it was necessary, to protect and preserve my own life. Of the event which is the lamentable cause of my being here to-day, I can only make this true statement, and hope it may have its due weight, in connection with my former good character and my youth, with your Honor in fixing the period of my imprisonment, and believe me when I call God to witness this, the truthful statement I have made.

The language of his reply to the inquiry of the Court breathes a spirit of truth which it would be difficult for a real criminal to counterfeit, and explains the apparent leniency of the Court and jury in their dealings with him. Poor Arthur! he is now in a situation to which death in almost any shape, unaccompanied by ignominy, would be preferable to himself and his friends; and yet he is no hardened criminal or perverse violator of law. Of a highly respectable Virginia family of the noble stock of the Huguenots, with fair natural abilities, a good education and heretofore without apparent vicious propensities in excess of others of his age and social standing who maintain fair reputations in society, no suspicion of dishonor or charge of criminality ever before attached to him. In an evil hour he entered one of those dens of infamy which an unsettled condition of society has tolerated in this frontier, known in the vernacular of the country as a "Mad House," where squat prostitutes, debauched white men, low gamblers, thieves and desperadoes, together with many persons of reputable standing, freed from the time from social restraints, meet and mingle on terms of equality, and each follow the bent of their own inclinations whether the motive be lust or idle curiosity. Young Floweree was set upon by one of the habitués of the house, between which and the railroad party there had grown up a deadly feud.
Believing his life in imminent peril, he drew his revolver and shot his assailant and immediately mounted his horse and fled to Stellacoom, where he voluntarily surrendered himself to the civil authorities and was lodged in jail to await his examination and trial for the homicide.
There were no witnesses of the transaction but the keepers and hangers-on of the infamous den, companions of the man who was shot, and upon their testimony alone the unfortunate and indiscreet young man was convicted, leaving to the jury and the Court only the discretion of awarding the smallest penalty which the law allows.

Our Railroad Connections.

Col. W. W. Chapman, the originator and manager of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad, has issued a circular setting forth the present condition of that enterprise, from which we make the following extracts:

"Your favorite enterprise, the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad has at last reached a point to leave no doubt of its success. Our united efforts, judiciously directed for a few months longer will make it a permanent institution of the land. It is not the prospect of millions of unearned wealth to the corporation that incites the deep interest manifested for its success. Far from it. It is the relief it will afford to hundreds of thousands of people—the people of the Pacific Northwest, and to none more than to the people of Oregon.

"For its wide spread and multiplied advantages, it challenges a parallel.— Opening communication between the United States, so to speak, and the Pacific Northwest, upon the shortest and most direct line for the China trade, it will become a national thoroughfare of the first importance, scarcely inaugurated until the sailing of the Columbia river and China steamers will be among journalistic notes, as common as the sailing of the California and Oregon steamers of to-day. Located throughout and adjacent to the vast agricultural and mining districts of Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington and Idaho; opening the Columbia river to competition in transportation; giving communication through the Cascade Mountains at all seasons, winter and summer; a branch to Walla Walla to be extended to Northern Idaho, with other branches from points on the main line to Canyon City, Silver City and Idaho City, consequent upon the construction of the main line, it will confer upon the inhabitants of the vast region of country east of the Cascade Mountains a series of benefits, the value of which it is scarcely possible to overestimate. Of these it is not necessary to speak in detail; the people of that country are too familiar with extortions and excessive charges for transportation; unjust discrimination and oppressive monopolies, to require herein any extended notice. They have before them daily the unoccupied lands, uncultivated fields, unmarketed crops, and unworked mines, and a general paralysis of their industrial pursuits, to remind them of the need of speedy cheap transportation. The consequences of these drawbacks are not confined to the country east of the Cascade Mountains.

Western Oregon and Washington bear their full share. To say that they do not, or that corresponding benefits would result to them from the accomplishment of this great work, would betray gross ignorance of the commercial intercourse of the two sections. It is not too much to say, that no one section of the road is calculated to extend its benefits further and wider than that which proposes the opening of the Columbia river to competition in transportation. From Utah to the British Possessions, and from the Cascades to the Rocky Mountains, wherever the habitation of the white man is to be found, there it will be felt and appreciated.

All the facts so forcibly stated in the foregoing, especially regarding the section of the road that proposes to open the Columbia river to competition, apply with much greater force to the Sea-tle than to the Portland route. The distance from the point of junction of the Seattle and Walla Walla road with the P. D. and S. L. Road, on the upper Columbia, is no less to Portland than to Seattle, Portland is an inland town 120 miles from the ocean, difficult of access for large ships at all times and at times cut off from all communication with the ocean by ice, and is 200 and 300 miles further from China than Sea-tle, which is at all times accessible to vessels of the largest class, and has one of the safest and best harbors upon the Pacific coast. Portland has nothing to exchange with the country east of the Cascades. Seattle has an abundance of lumber and coal, which is the great want of that country, to supply constant back freights, and thus greatly reduce the cost of transportation, as well as furnishing a most important element to the prosperity of the country.

Col. Chapman copies from the New York Tribune the following statistical facts showing the effects of railroads in promoting the growth and prosperity of the country:

"The growth of the West is seen by the rapid increase of the population of its cities:

"Chicago, from 4,000 in 1836 to 400, 000 in 1873.

"St. Louis, from 12,000 in 1836 to 400,000 in 1873.

"Cincinnati, from 33,000 in 1836 to 250,000 in 1873.

"Pittsburg, from 16,000 in 1836 to 300, 000 in 1873.

"In 1865, the construction of railroads began in Kansas. In 1873, there were 2,500 miles in operation. The population meanwhile had increased from 10, 000 to 100,000, the bulk of whom had gone there in four years. In Texas, since 1831, the population has increased from 100,000 to 1,000,000, there having been added to it 100,000 yearly for the last three years.

"West of the line of the Mississippi, the same rapid progress has continued building up first: Missouri, Iowa, and Minnesota; then the more western tier of States—Texas, Kansas and Nebraska —pausing only during the war, to be renewed with much more startling activity upon its conclusion.

"Here, again, with the extension of railways westward, one city after another arose along the banks of the Missouri to challenge with one or two exceptions, their old tier of sisters on the Mississippi. Omaha, Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Lawrence and Kansas City, all within a stretch of less than 200 miles, contain a population of from 20,000 to 50,000 each.
Practically, few of these had their birth earlier than the close of the war in 1865.

"Kansas City then had 8,000; it now has between 40,000 and 50,000 inhabitants.

"The gross earnings of the Union and Central Pacific roads last year was $24,137,923; net earnings, $13,504,838—sufficient to pay from 16 to 18 per cent. upon its cash cost. Nearly the whole of the enormous transportation represented by the above figures was simply created by the construction of the railroad. It did not exist heretofore, and could not have existed until the railroad was built.

"What has been the result of the construction of this railway upon California? To raise its population in four years from 500,000 to 800,000.

"Nevada, adjoining California on the east, then entirely uninhabited, except by starving Digger Indians, produces now $35,000,000 gold and silver annually.

"Utah, still further eastward, has, since the completion of the Pacific R. R., discovered silver mines which already produce $5,000,000 annually.

"About a year later, the Kansas Pacific Railway—a line averaging 150 miles south of the Union Pacific—succeeded in spanning the Buffalo Plain, and reaching the foot of the mountains in Colorado. The effect is seen in the increase of population in Colorado in three years from 39,864 to 100,000.

"About 6,000 tourists visit Colorado annually.

A still more remarkable effect of the construction of the railroad is to be found in the results from the Denver and Rio Grand Railroad—such a road as we propose to construct. The following is taken from a document prepared to be used before committees, as the same was gathered from the report of the Denver and Rio Grand Railroad Co.
The report goes to say:

"The territory described, containing no navigable waters, had been cut off from the great plains, and by wandering tribes of Indians from previous ready access. The first railroad had but just reached it from the East when the Denver and Rio Grande Railway Company was organized."

Before the railway replaced the stage-coach from Denver to Colorado Springs, the latter ran tri-weekly and carried (as is shown in the prospectus of the Co.) an average of five passengers per trip, or thirty both ways, weekly.

"During the year 1872 the railway, while under construction, carried on the same route 25,168 passengers, or an average of over 1,500 per cent.

"The estimate of passenger business that the road would carry the first year, as stated in the company's report, published before work was begun on the road, was thirteen passengers both ways, daily, or 182 weekly between Denver and Colorado Springs. The actual result was 23,168 passengers carried an average distance of 67 miles—equivalent to 22,187 carried from Denver to Colorado Springs, or 429 passengers weekly—over two and a half times the estimate.

"As regards tonnage, a few Mexican and other teams before the railroad was built, carried all there was.

"The actual freight hauled by the railroad in 1872, an average distance of 61 miles, was 47,212 tons, or, leaving out construction material, it was 34,882 tons of commercial freight.

"Again, by the United States census, taken immediately before the commencement of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway, Denver had a population of over 15,000. Pueblo, the present terminus, had not over 500 people. A count made a few weeks ago, shows that it has now, in the old and new town, a population of over 3,500, which will, in all probability, be doubled the coming year."

Colorado Springs did not then exist; now it has a population of about 1,500, and is continuing to grow at a rate that will give it 3,000 next year. Colorado City had about 300; it has more than doubled, while Little Fountain and other lesser points on the road, which scarcely existed, are growing into important country towns.

The farming population along the line has increased proportionally. Nearly one hundred miles South of Pueblo a similar growth is shown; and Trinidad, which had but a few hundred people when the railroad started, has now 1,400.

"In the mountains adjoining, westward, the mines of gold and silver have more than doubled their yield, which is now, in Colorado, from four and a half to five millions yearly.

IMMATERIAL ISSUES.—Members, Atkins, Bagley and Smithers, the three members of the Board of Regents who voted for repudiating the contract with Rev. A.
B. Nicholson and awarding the same to Rev. George F. Whitworth, as President of the University school, have deemed themselves called upon to publish a card in the Intelligencer joining issue with us on a statement of facts, as follows:

"1st. The Regents have never borrowed money at a greater rate of interest than what the fund receives, viz: one and one half per cent. per month.

"2d. During the time in which negotiations for a teacher were pending, there was not a day but what there was more than one of the Regents in Seattle and not a week but what all were here and might have been consulted if desired.

"3d. Mr. Whitworth, the present appointee to the Presidency, never 'intrigued' for the position, but on the contrary he was solicited to make a proposition to the Board for it, and received the appointment solely on the ground of his proven fitness for."

These being the sole points upon which issue is taken, the balance of our published statement must, of course, be taken as admitted, and we cannot see what purpose was intended to be served by raising these immaterial questions but to divert popular attention from the main issue, which was the repudiation of the contract with Mr. Nicholson and giving it to Mr. Whitworth on the same terms. As these statements, however, involve a question of veracity, by implication, we will briefly notice them in detail.

1st. We might readily have been mistaken as to the amount of interest paid upon money borrowed to pay current expenses. The money being borrowed at a three ball bank, the standard rates of which are two per cent. a month, we took it for granted those rates were paid, though that is immaterial to the fact that money was borrowed at high rates of interest while no measures had been taken to enforce the collection of dues to the fund which had been standing from three to five years.

2d. During the time in which negotiations for a teacher were pending, Mr.
Atkins was constantly employed at Tacoma, Mr. Jordan and Mr. Smithers were living, one five and the other five miles from the city, Mr. Bagley was spending a large portion of his time at Olympia, assisting in the publication of the Courier. If at any time between the meeting at which we were instructed to submit the propositions to Mr. Nicholson and that called several weeks subsequent to consider the proposition of Mr. Whitworth, there was a majority of the Board in the city at any one time, we were not aware of it, but had always found it difficult to get a meeting of the Board at any time; nor did we deem a meeting of the Board necessary after the propositions submitted to Mr. Nichols had been accepted, until after his arrival here, to arrange the details. Messrs. Bagley and Smithers voted for the instructions under which we acted; we subsequently met Mr.
Jordan and he entirely approved of the same; we met and conversed with Mr.
Bagley several times after we had published the fact that Mr. Nicholson had accepted the propositions which the Board had authorized us to make to him, and he never intimated dissent or dissatisfaction until after Mr. Whitworth put in his bid, embracing the identical terms which had been offered to and accepted by Mr. Nicholson.

3d. This is simply a question of definition. Mr. Whitworth had certainly privately interviewed some members of the Board and systematically avoided an exposition of his designs to others.
He was holding a lucrative position in the Indian Department at the time the arrangement was made with Mr. Nicholson, and neither proposed himself or was proposed by others for this place until he had lost his office and it became necessary to provide him with another.
Neither Mr. Jordan nor the author of this statement knew of his candidacy for the place until his election was a foregone conclusion. His "proven fitness for it" is in the fact that he has been a failure in everything else, and he must be fit for something. The term "intrigue" his supporters in the Board are entitled to share with him.

NEW MINISTERS.—The late Methodist Conference assigned to the Church in this city, Rev. A. Atwood, late of New Jersey; a gentleman of fine culture, pleasing address and good reputation as a preacher. He has arrived, with his family, and entered upon his charge.

Rev. Mr. Cosper, who has ministered in this field faithfully and acceptably during the past year, is assigned to Chehalis.

Rev. A. B. Nicholson, of the Presbyterian Church, is expected will take the missionary field vacated by Mr. Crowl, with his head-quarters in this city. He is spoken of by those who have heard him preach as the ablest minister they have ever heard upon this coast.

"We have too high a regard for Mr.
Whitworth's ability and sense of decency to imagine for a moment that he would employ the frothy mouthings of an idiot in his own advocacy or defence, as it would appear by the "Temperance Organ." If he can stand the fulsome adulation from such a source, we can much better afford to bear its meaningless abuse.

MARRIED.—In Seattle, at the residence of Hon. John Denny, August 26,

T. Denny, and Miss Mary L. Boren, all of King county.

tenced to six months confinement in the penitentiary.

Puget Sound Dispatch.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY Seattle, W. T., Sept. 3, 1874.

PERSONAL.—Dr. Plummer, of the W. U. Tel. Co., is in town.

REMAINED TO JAIL.—Ed. Seagirt, whose trial for murder was continued to next term of the District Court, was taken back to the Port Madison jail on Monday.

LOADING.—The Harvest Home is loading lumber at Colman's Mill, the Arucola is loading coal at the S. C. & T. Co.'s wharf and the Myer is loading coal at the Renton Coal Co.'s wharf.

That locomotive is still on the wharf, but will be moved to the R. R. track, soon, under the direction of Mr. Bullene. He proposes laying a section of track of wood on which to transport it.

CALICO BALL.—The Calico Ball, at the Pavilion, this evening, for the benefit of the "L. M. C." Boat Club promises to be one of the best we have had this year. Prof. White of Olympia will furnish music. Tickets $1 50.

OSTERS.—Mr. A. W. Piper, at the Candy Manufactory, has opened an oyster saloon in his establishment and will hereafter furnish oysters in any shape desired. Parties at the Ball this evening wishing oysters and coffee can be supplied by calling on Mr. Piper.

We are indebted to Mr. John Levy of Victoria, formerly of this city, for a copy of the "London Times," of the date of June 22, 1815. The paper contains official dispatches from the Duke of Wellington, announcing the victory of the battle of Waterloo. It is a 4 column paper about the size of the DAILY DISPATCH.

NEW ENGINE.—A ten ton locomotive, of Philadelphia manufacture, is landed upon Yester's wharf, for the Seattle Coal Co., to be employed in running coal trains from Lake Union to the wharf where the coal is delivered to vessels. Under the enterprising and energetic management of Mr. Hewes, the facilities for transporting coal from the mine to the wharf, now nearly completed, will be more than quadrupled, so that 500 tons a day can be delivered easily.

FIRE.—At Yester's mill at noon to-day, (Monday), there came very near being a large conflagration. Some part of the machinery gave out, and in letting off steam a spark was blown into and ignited some dry saw dust which had settled upon a rafter near the smoke stack, and before the fire could be extinguished a large hole was burned in the roof.

NEW ARRANGEMENT.—By a notice in another column it will be seen that Mr. J. M. Coleman has become lessee and sole proprietor of the lumber business at Yester's mill. As the manager of that establishment heretofore, Mr. Coleman has secured the confidence of all with whom he has had dealings as a perfectly reliable business man, and of the respect of this community as one of our most enterprising and public spirited citizens.

COUNTY FAIR.—We are informed by Mr. Moss, of Snohomish, who is now in this city attending the term of Court, that the citizens of Snohomish County contemplate holding a County Fair at Snohomish City on or about the first of October. Their plan is to secure a good representation at the Fair of the Western Washington Industrial Association by means of this exhibition. The best objects on exhibition there will be sent to the Territorial Fair. Regular Committees will be formed for the selection of those articles, but no premiums will be given and no admission fee charged. Residents of this county are cordially invited to send articles for exhibition to this fair and to attend. This would be a good time for an excursion to Snohomish. Many of our citizens would like to take a trip to that town, and if some of our enterprising young men would take hold it could be easily put through. We think the Zephyr could be chartered at a reasonable rate.

The little town of Snohomish has a library with several hundred volumes, a scientific collection that is constantly increasing, and a lyceum, before which there is a lecture on scientific subjects every week, by residents of their own town, and now they contemplate forming a County Agricultural Association, with head quarters there. That's an surprise for you!

Telegraphic

EXCLUSIVELY TO THE DAILY DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Plymouth Church committee last night submitted its report in the Beecher case in the presence of over 3,000 people. The report reviews the testimony and gives the names of the witnesses. The former is familiar history and the report adds nothing to it except the conclusion of the committee. They denounce Tilton and Moulton as conspirators, conspiring to ruin Beecher. The committee says: It is believed that no cases of adultery on record can be produced where an injured husband, upon learning of his wife's infidelity kept the fact to himself for six months, and then, after a private complaint to the offending party, received and accepted an apology for the offense and declared his forgiveness; and this followed by a restoration of the courtesies of friendship.

The committee also argued that Moulton had in his mind no other offense than improper overtures by Beecher and did not believe or understand that it was adultery. They quote the expression in his letter to Beecher: "You can stand it if the whole case were published to-morrow," and deride the idea that he could write thus, knowing Beecher was an adulterer, and confide this branch of the case by branding this performance as a fraud, which ought to end all controversy to the guilt or innocence of Beecher. They go on to speak of Moulton's connection with the affair in the character of a mutual friend, and admit that he obtained a strong hold upon Beecher's mind by his plausible manner and his apparently sincere desire to serve him.

Beecher knew that the accusation, though false, would, if became public, cause great scandal, and having an immense deal of labor on his hands, entrusted to Moulton the task of keeping this false accusation from the public. The strong language and tenor of some of Beecher's letters to Moulton in reference to the matter are freely admitted by the committee, but they say it must be remembered that using strong words and emotional expressions are characteristic of Beecher.

The committee here advert to the possibility that Mrs. Tilton had come to regard Beecher with such affection as, under the circumstances, tended to alienate her from her husband, and a fear that this was so, as was alleged by both Moulton and Tilton, may have added to Beecher's responsibilities.

The committee express regret at two errors into which Beecher fell. One was that in his troubles he did not seek counsel from the Christian men of his own brotherhood, rather than rely upon the counsel of a man of whom he knew so little, and whose character, as the record proves, he so sadly misjudged. The other was that he did not guard more closely his relations with the family of Tilton that there could be no possibility for fear in his own mind of an indiscretion by Mrs. Tilton for him, through any thoughtless friendship or agency of his.

"We find nothing in the evidence that should impair the free confidence of Plymouth Church or the world in the Christian character and integrity of Henry Ward Beecher. And now let the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, rest and abide with Plymouth Church and eminent pastor, so much and so long afflicted." The committee then take up the question as to the harmony and happiness which Tilton alleged ruled in his home until this trouble came upon him, and show by the testimony of Mrs. Tilton and Miss Turner that the exact reverse was the case and that Tilton was constantly guilty of great cruelty to his wife.

The committee then quote from legal authorities to show the nature of the evidence necessary to prove a charge of adultery, and show that not a particle of evidence such as the law requires has been produced by the accuser of Mr. Beecher, and that no suspicious circumstances ever were proved. The committee compare the life and character of the accuser and accused, and conclude from the evidence that Rev. Henry Ward Beecher did not commit adultery with Mrs. Tilton, neither at the time or times, or place or places set forth in the third and fourth sub-divisions of Mr. Tilton's statements, or at any time or place. Furthermore, we find from the evidence that Mr. Beecher has never committed an unchaste or improper act with Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, nor made any unchaste or improper remark, proffer or solicitation to her of any kind or description whatever. In reference to

Mrs. Tilton's course, the Committee show that she was greatly under the influence of her husband; to such an extent, indeed, as to make her hardly responsible at all times for what she did. Committee then referred to the charge that Beecher paid $2,000 to get the girl Bessie Turner out of the way, and to many people to whom Tilton had told publicly of his wife's criminality with Beecher to make it impossible for the latter to get rid of all of them. Report was signed unanimously and was received with a speech by Mr. Raymond, who was called upon. He spoke of Moulton as having tried to poison the minds of men against Mr. Beecher. Moulton rose to his feet and shouted, excitedly, "You are a liar, sir." Great excitement followed, and the loud cries of "Put him out! Put him out! Put him out!" etc. Mr. Moulton again rose to his feet and shouted, "I dare any of you to put me out."

The following resolutions were then unanimously adopted: Resolved, That the evidence before examining committee not only does not afford any foundation for putting the pastor of Plymouth Church on trial, but, on the contrary, establishes to the perfect satisfaction of this Church, his entire innocence and absolute personal purity with respect to all charges now or hereafter made against him by Theodore Tilton.

Resolved, That our confidence and love for our Pastor, far from being diminished, are heightened and deepened by the unmerited sufferings which he has so long borne, and that we welcome him with a sympathy more tender, and a trust more unbounded than we ever felt before, to his public labors among us, to our church, our families, our homes, our hearths.

At the close of the meeting the Doxology was sung and people began to disperse. Moulton, who occupied a seat at the reporters' table, was hustled considerably on the way out, and there were indications that had he not been protected by the police, public violence would have been offered to him. Upon reaching the door he was hurried to a carriage with a policeman each side the step, was driven rapidly away and the people dispersed.

MEMPHIS, Aug. 27.—A large meeting was held here to-night to express the indignation of the community at the barbarous treatment of the colored prisoners taken from the Trenton jail. B. M. Estes presided, with ex-Governor Harris, Judge Archibald Wright and Charles Clatvich as Vice Presidents. Speeches were made by ex-Governor Harris, Jefferson Davis, Col. Duncan McKee, Gen. Forrest and others, denouncing the cowardly assassination of the prisoners, and calling for the prompt and most energetic enforcement of the law against the perpetrators of the deed. Gen. Forrest stated that he stood ready to start to-morrow to assist the officers of the law to bring the assassins to punishment.

Resolutions were adopted expressing the horror and indignation of the community at the foul crime, and demanding of the State government prompt and energetic measures to bring murderers to justice, relieving the State as soon as possible from the disgrace of such horrible crimes, asking the Governor to employ the police experts of Memphis to assist in capturing the assassins, and to employ the best legal talent in the State to assist the Attorney General in prosecuting them.

time, but the committee took no notice of his offer. Consequently he went to Plymouth Church last night, having a right to be there as he was a member of the congregation and his wife a member of the Church. After hearing the misrepresentations in their report he sent a note to the moderator, requesting to be heard, but was not so permitted. Moulton says he has in his possession a letter from Beecher stating that Raymond, who made the attack on him last night, knows nothing about the case, although Raymond himself publicly stated that he knew all about it. Moulton says he will have all the letters printed, and concludes his card as follows: I have sought for four years, for the sake of the innocent children of two families, to shield Beecher from the exposure of his crimes of adultery, but Mr. Beecher, his committee, and his Church have united to compel me, for my own protection, to reveal him to the world, as I shall shortly reveal him, in a still worse light than that in which he now stands.

On her way to Monterey the steamer Fideletor was detained off Presidio several hours on account of some accident to her machinery, but finally put to sea. At Pigeon Point in a dense fog the str. struck on some rocks. No fog signal being sounded, she struck two or three times, but the engine being reversed she got off. One of her forward compartments was stove and filled with water. In that condition she proceeded on her voyage and returned safely to this port.

AUSTIN, Nev., Aug. 25.—This afternoon, during a violent thunder storm, Daniel Murphy, carman at the Oregon shaft, while wheeling a car out to the end of the dump, was struck by lightning and badly burned on the face and neck. The man was removed in an unconscious condition to his home.

Work of repairing damages caused by the recent flood progresses rapidly. Main street is one succession of dump piles, with cars, track, etc., complete. The dumps are caused by the debris in course of removal from houses and barns. Recent observations show that the water from the cloud burst of the 18th inst. flowed in equal quantities through Marshall and the adjacent canyon. Had the entire volume emptied into the portion of the canyon in which it is situated, the city would have been wiped out of existence.

The weather to-day was very threatening, and for some hours another cloud burst seemed imminent.

BARON ROUGE, Aug. 25.—Commissioners nominated Randall Gibson for the First District, William Troy for the Fourth District, and B. Spencer for the Fifth. The State Convention nominated J. C. Moncre for State Treasurer and adjourned. Resolutions and platform describe the party as the white people, embracing the Democratic, Conservative, Reform, Liberal and White-men's parties, with all opposing the present usurpation in Louisiana, which is maintained by force, illegally. They claim that the dominant party has inducted the negroes, making the unity of the whites a necessity. That, while recognizing all constitutional rights, they protest against encroachments compelling equality of races. That much needed reforms can only be effected by the election of whites. They disclaim any intention of carrying the election forcibly, denounce Governor Kellogg as a usurper, and favor the payment of the State's legitimate debts only.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 25.—The negroes at Pickettsville, six miles from Humboldt, last Saturday and Sunday threatened a riot on account of some supposed wrong done them. They manifested a disposition to kill two or three citizens, fire and sack the town. Yesterday 16 of the ring-leaders were arrested, taken to Trenton and jailed. About 1 o'clock this morning between 50 and 100 masked men entered town, rode to the jail, demanded and compelled the delivery of the keys, and took the sixteen negroes from the jail. Four were killed and two mortally wounded at the edge of town. They then rode off with the other ten. It is supposed they killed them as nothing has been heard from them since.—Considerable excitement among the negroes there, and the whites are taking defensive steps in case of an outbreak.

Last evening, they expressed great contrition and penitence for their crimes, and the rites of baptism were administered at their request. On the scaffold to-day, Crouch said he had no statement to make. Baker, in a clear, firm voice, addressed the assembly briefly, remarking that he repented sincerely and felt that God had forgiven him. He said he cherished no ill will against anyone and hoped all present would meet him in a better land. Just before stepping on the trap he said, "Good bye, everybody." Both exhibited firmness and resignation on the trying occasion. Their death was almost instantaneous, their necks being broken in the fall. Crouch lived 10 seconds, and Baker 11.

They denounce the salary grab, oppose the passage of the Civil Rights Bill and demand the payment of the public debt in exact accordance with the terms by which it was created; assert that the five-twenty are payable in legal tenders, according to the act of February, 1862, and that the subsequent act of March, 1863, pledging their coin redemption, was a usurpation; they favor the repeal of the National Banking law and the substitution of greenbacks; favor the repeal of all paper money at the earliest practicable day, denounce the present tariff and revenue laws as unjust to all producers, and pledge the party to nominate only men of tried honesty.
