WHAT IT MEANS.—Thirty thousand Administration majority in Pennsylvania! Twenty thousand majority in the Quaker City! Is any intelligent man throughout this broad land ignorant of the meaning of this? It represents simply so much money, more or less, expended in the exportation and purchase of voters. It means that popular elections are reduced to a commercial basis, and that the party in control of the public treasury is in a position to perpetuate its power against a very large percentage of opposition majority. The Hartranft, the Grant candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, who has been elected by thirty thousand majority, is but little, if any, short of infamous in his private character. He stands convicted of the most infamous frauds; he was nominated by purchase, and twenty of the leading Republican papers of Pennsylvania, including Forney's Press, refused to support him. Buckalew, his opponent, was conceded by all parties to be a statesman of the first class and a citizen above reproach. Notwithstanding all this, Hartranft is elected only because the necessities of the Grant party demanded it, and that party controlled the money to do it. Not less than a hundred thousand votes have been bought up, like so many cattle in the market, to carry the three States of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana; for upon these elections the Presidential contest was to be determined. It is not possible that any observing man can believe that either of those States could have been carried for the Administration by the honest, uncorrupted vote of the citizen.

Even here in Washington Territory, with no voice in the Presidential election, we see a newspaper press sustained at an expense of not less than a thousand dollars a month, ostensibly under the control of Federal officers, bankrupts financially and morally, and is it not logically certain that money from the same source will be used in unlimited quantities to corrupt the voters in the same interest? Where does this money come from? There can be but one answer to this question. The taxes levied upon the people are used for their own subjugation, and party is but the instrumentality by which honest men are coerced into the support of this nefarious system, which is reducing our country to the condition of the Central American Republics.

The most surprising thing is, however, that Beriah Brown, the editor of the DISPATCH, who was notoriously the enemy of the Government during the war, and one of the most rampant and persistent advocates of "peace at any price," should now indignantly defend a course of conduct charged against Judge McFadden, which during the war was deemed by him the height of patriotism.—Courier.

That, if true, would not be more surprising than that a man claiming the special position of Mr. Struve should give currency to a personal slander without a word of truth in it. Beriah Brown was never convicted by act or utterance of hostility to his government; never uttered a sentence or sentiment in justification of secession, or in aid or comfort of the public enemy in time of war, nor sought or advocated peace on any other terms than a restoration of the Union under the constitution; and was never interfered with by the civil or military authorities for any act of actual or constructive hostility to the ruling powers. If Mr. Struve had substituted the name of Selenus Garfield for Beriah Brown, his charge would have been susceptible of proof, and he would only have to go to Portland to find the leading Grant editor of Oregon whose paper had been suppressed during the war for giving aid and comfort to the enemy. That is not surprising, however.

Jacob Hoover, Esq., the Liberal candidate for Prosecuting Attorney for this district, visited this city on professional business. He is a gentleman of fine literary acquirements, with an honest pride and honorable ambition in his profession, of sterling integrity and unexceptionable moral character. His election would be a vast improvement upon that position heretofore.

CHURCH IMPROVEMENTS.—Workmen are now employed in the erection of a parsonage for Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, on the lot adjoining the church, contracted to be finished by the first of November.

Work was commenced on the building of the Congregational Church on Monday last, it is intended to complete the same this fall.

OLYMPIA FAIR.—A gentleman just returned from the Fair, at Olympia, says the exhibition exceeds the most sanguine expectations of its friends. Persons just from the Oregon State Fair at Salem, give the preference in fruits and vegetables to the Olympia exhibition, and of the latter Fidalgo Island presents the best in quality and variety.

POLITICAL.—Judge McFadden, the people's candidate for Delegate to Congress, is now in Walla Walla, and after canvassing east of the mountains, will pass down the Columbia, speaking at Vancouver, Kalama and other points to Oysterville, in Pacific county, returning overland through Cowlitz, Lewis and Chelalis counties in time to spend the last week or ten days before the election in visiting the towns upon the Sound.

Mr. Garfield is now on the lower Columbia and is announced to speak at Olympia on Saturday next, at Steilacoom and Tacoma on Monday following Seattle and Port Blakely on Tuesday, Snohomish Wednesday, Coupeville and Shalady Thursday, La Conner Friday, Sehome Saturday, Semiahmoo Monday, San Juan Tuesday, New Duginess and Port Discovery Wednesday, Port Townsend and Port Ludlow Thursday, Seabeck and Port Gamble, Friday, Port Madison, Saturday, and Oakland Monday, Nov. 4.

RAILROAD CONNECTION.—The last rail has been laid on the road from Kalama to Hodgdon's, sixteen miles from Olympia, and regular daily trains will soon commence running the length of the line. The road from Olympia to the railroad is principally gravel, and comparatively good at all seasons. Passengers by this route can leave Olympia after breakfast and arrive in Portland on the evening of the same day, making the trip much more comfortably than any one of the three days formerly occupied in the journey.

STELLACOOM.—Olympia, Seattle, and perhaps Tacoma, will have railroad connections and be thriving commercial towns, but as a summer resort, or a place of residence for families of elegant leisure, Steilacoom excels them all in natural advantages. Its situation is as healthful as any, and its surrounding scenery as grand and beautiful as any in the world, with the additional attraction possessed by no other place upon the Sound, of magnificent drives for many miles around it. Many wealthy families in Portland and San Francisco are now looking to the Sound for future summer residences, and we make these suggestions for their benefit, though against our own personal interests.

RECORDER'S COURT.—On Monday last Ty Lee was convicted of a violation of Ordinance No. 3, (relating to stove pipe) and was fined $10, and cost taxed at $5.

Friday, John McLaughlin, convicted of an indecent assault upon a woman, was sentenced to thirty days imprisonment, and to pay the costs of conviction.

AN EXCITING CHASE.—One day during the past week a man was seen to suddenly emerge from a saloon on Commercial street, taking several panes of glass in his exit, and run at the top of his speed up the street. He was quickly followed by several others who made chase to the outskirts of the town, round the Duwamish Bay. A warrant was procured from Justice Bartlett, and the country scoured as far south and east as Black River, but we understand that the fugitive has not been reclaimed.

We learn that the hero of the escapade had been "roped in" to Mr. Garfield's favorite pastime—a friendly game of poker—with some professional gentlemen, and when he lost his last dollar, he outflanked them with the revenue officer's game—seized the pile, amounting to several hundred dollars, and sloped, to the great chagrin of our respectable citizens who defend gambling and prostitution upon the ground that they bring business and revenue to the town.

PUGET SOUND TELEGRAPH.—This line is completed and working from Port Townsend to Port Madison, excepting a gap of nearly two miles, Hoo's Canal, requiring a sub-marine cable which has not arrived. The land line will reach Blakely and be entirely finished on the west side of the Sound during the coming week. Offices are already opened at Townsend, Ludlow, Gamble, and Madison. Mr. Sweeney has 12 men employed between this city and Alki Point clearing a route for the wires.—The sub-marine cable is daily expected.

TEA.—E. Clayton & Co. received yesterday, 29 days from Yokohama, Japan, by Pacific Mail steamer, 302 packages of tea which they propose to sell by the package at less than San Francisco prices.

GRAPES.—We have seen Isabella Grapes raised by Dr. Maynard which are fully up to the average excellence of that variety on the Atlantic slope. There are a dozen varieties of American Grapes which would mature in this climate, and among them, perhaps the best are Norton's Seedling, Ives Seedling, and Roger's Hybrids. The cultivation of the Grape has been neglected in this vicinity, and our horticulturists should not forget that the growing season here is practically from four to six weeks longer than that of the Willamette valley—resulting from the influence of the semi-diurnal inflow of warm ocean-waters.

Telegraphic

EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE DAILY DISPATCH.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 10.—Adjutant General of Ohio came here to-day and took possession of State arms issued to Colored regiment, some of which were used in the riot last Monday.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11.—Speaker Blaine spoke to a large audience at Mercantile Library Hall to-night.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 10.—A meeting of straight Democrats to-day resolved to call a Convention here on the 22d inst., and nominate O'Connor electors.

TRENTON, N. J. Oct. 10.—New Jersey straight-out Democratic Convention met here to-day; W. W. Meredith elected chairman. A full electoral ticket was selected with Samuel J. Baird and Wm. M. Hiff for State at large.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Proclamation by President of United States: Whereas, the revolution of another year has again brought the time when it is usual to look back upon the past and publicly thank Almighty God for his mercies and blessings; and whereas, if any one people has occasion more than another for such thankfulness, it is citizens of the United States, whose Government is their creature, subject to their behests, who have reserved to themselves ample civil and religious freedom and equality before the law, who during the last twelve months have enjoyed exemption from any grievances or general calamity, and to whom prosperity in agriculture, manufactures and commerce has been vouchsafed; therefore, by these considerations I recommend that on Thursday, the 28th day of November next, the people meet at their respective houses of worship, and there make acknowledgments to God for his kindness and bounty.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done in the City of Washington, the 11th day of October, in the year of our Lord 1872, and of the Independence of the United States the 97th. Signed

U. S. GRANT, President.

The following has been issued from the Department of State:

The undersigned is charged by the President with the painful duty of announcing to the people of the United States the death of the illustrious citizen, William Henry Seward, distinguished for faithful and eminent service in various public trusts during a long series of years. He died at Auburn, State of New York, yesterday, October 10.—Charged with the administration of the Department of State at the most critical period in the history of the nation, Mr. Seward brought to the duties of the office, exalted patriotism, unwearied industry and consummate ability. A grateful nation will cherish his name, his fame and his memory. The several Executive Departments will cause appropriate honors to be rendered to the memory of the deceased statesman at home and abroad. Signed,

HAMILTON FISIL,
Secretary of State.

SAVANNAH, Georgia, Oct. 11.—Alexander Dimon shot at his father, David Dimon, three times, inflicting only flesh wounds, and then killed himself.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 10.—A new house No. 116, Market street, four stories high, fell this evening and killed six members of the family of Henry Nollis, merchant tailor.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—Vigilantes at Audville, Lafayette county killed one man and mortally wounded another last night for horse-stealing.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 9.—Republican Central Committee figure majority by actual returns from 47 counties, and partial returns with estimated majority from the balance of the State, 228 for Brown, Republican. Democratic Committee claim a net gain on returns from 55 counties on vote 1868, which with partial returns and estimated majorities from balance of State will elect Hendricks by 1,000 majority. The vote is so close that it may require official count to determine the result. Democrats are jubilant.

10-30 P. M.—Latest returns received to-night show a Democratic gain on State ticket and indicate election of Hendricks by small majority. Republicans gain two Congressmen and probably lose one.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Democratic State Committee concede the election of Republican Congressmen in all Republican districts except Hamilton, and 10,000 Republican majority on State ticket.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—Special to Commercial says nearly all returns from State have been received at Republican headquarters and make Hartranft's majority 31,000. Republicans gain seven members of Congress and lose one, in Sehome district. Twenty Republicans and seven Democrats elected. Republicans have a majority in the Constitutional Convention; sixty members of Assembly against forty Democrats; Senate stand seventeen Republicans to sixteen Democrats, but if Markly is elected in Clarion district, Republicans will have eighteen.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 9.—A jollification was held by Republicans to-night over the election. Procession was formed, marched to where Speaker Blaine was spending the evening and insisted on a speech. Mr. Blaine spoke for about ten minutes.

TOLEDO, Oct. 9.—This district gives Sherwood, Republican candidate for Congress, 150 majority, and a still larger majority for State ticket. The fight has been hard and closely contested, Republicans dividing on local interests.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 9.—A general strike among the workmen in this city is imminent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The following were the balances in the Treasury at the close of business yesterday: Currency, $6,367,522; coin, $78,958,650, including $24,950,000 coin certificates on special deposit; legal tenders held for redemption on certificates of deposit, 17,420,000. The Treasury Department is satisfied with effect on business of its late policy in selling gold and buying bonds.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Grand Jury has indicted Chief of Police McWilliams and Detective Doyle for conspiring to rob the First National Bank in Jersey City in June last; having burglars' tools and using them in breaking into the Bank. Doyle has filed bonds for $28,000. McWilliams had not been arrested at the adjournment of Court.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.—In Ripley's Ohio, yesterday afternoon, John Cochran shot and mortally wounded his brother-in-law, Frank Bidwell, who died this morning.

LOUISVILLE, Ky, Oct. 9.—This morning Dr. W. J. Bell, a well-known physician of this city shot himself in front of his son's Drug Store. He had just been refused admission by his son. Family troubles are supposed to be the cause of the rash act.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—At 3 o'clock this morning, during a heated political discussion between J. Milton Turner, colored minister to Liberia, and Geo. Molley, another prominent colored man, the latter stabbed the former with a pocket knife in the left breast, inflicting a wound thought to be mortal. Turner was conveyed to his residence and Molley was arrested.

RICHMOND, Oct. 9.—Five members of John Robinson's circus have been arrested charged with murder and robbing Davenport, in Charlotte County, Virginia.

ALBANY, Oct. 10.—Ex-Secretary Seward died at his residence here at 3 o'clock, P. M. to-day.

ALBANY, Oct. 10.—The sudden announcement of the death of Seward caused a profound sensation here. It was unexpected and produced wide spread regret.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 10.—Hendricks runs ahead of his ticket in almost every county. The Republicans have a majority of four in the Senate and eight in the house certain, with a prospect of ten majority in the House.

Later, 11 o'clock.—The Republicans concede the election of Hendricks by 500 majority; but claim Congressmen at large and the rest of the State ticket at from 400 to 600 majority. Niblack's majority in the First District is 125. Hunter, Republican, majority over Voorhees in the Sixth District is 605.

The Republicans have advertised a Mass Meeting, to-morrow night, for congratulation, with Gov. Morton, Gov. Brown and others as speakers. The Republicans claim 27 Senators to 23 Democrats, and 55 Representatives to 45 Democrats, giving them a majority of 14 on joint ballot.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., Oct. 10.—R. M. Speer, Democrat, has been elected to Congress from the Seventeenth District by 500 majority.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Col. Robert of Georgia, and Mr. Savage, of California, who of the Commissioners appointed by the President to investigate the depredations on the Rio Grande, arrived to-day and had an interview with the President who is much interested in their report, from which it appears that incursions of armed Mexican plunderers into Texas have been frequent since 1854; and that the stealings of cattle amount to several millions. Gen. Cortina is represented as one of the most active investigators of these expeditions by which he largely profits.

The military force along the border is insufficient for the protection of our citizens and Gen. McCook, commanding the Rio Grande, while corroborating the testimony of witnesses in regard to the raids, admits his inability, with the present force at his command, to prevent them.

The Commissioners will submit a formal report to Congress and have reason to believe that the President will send it with strong recommendations and that prompt measures will be taken to protect the citizens of the border in lives and property.

Puget Sound Dispatch.

Vol. 1. No. 46. BIRIAR BROWN, EDITOR. SEATTLE, THURSDAY, OCT. 17, 1872.

Republican County Ticket.

Absolutely independent of party commitment and party bias, and neutral in regard to no measure affecting the public interests, we shall treat the nominations presented by the Republican party with entire candor, neither discriminating for or against any one of them on account of party associations.

The nomination of David Higgins for Councilman, was, as every body knows, the result of a bargain for the support of the paper with which his name is associated. Without this understanding, he would have stood no more chance for a nomination by any convention for a responsible office, than he did for being elected a delegate at the primary meeting, having no other claim to the confidence and support of any portion of the community, except the gamblers and keepers of brothels, whose interests he represents.

C. Clymer and L. McMillan, the candidates for Representatives, both are citizens of respectable character. Though not publicly announced, we believe that it is generally understood, that these men were nominated with the understanding that they would support a prohibitory liquor law. We do not believe that the cause of public morals would be promoted at this time by the passage of such a law.

For Auditor, W. W. Theobalds is an unexceptionable nomination. He is honest and capable, and we believe his election would secure what is so much needed, a faithful and intelligent management of our county finances.

For Sheriff, as we have said before, we shall support H. A. Atkins, whoever is the candidate against him; because we believe him to be a man of courage, decision and incorruptible integrity, who will faithfully and fearlessly maintain the laws and see them duly executed; and because every element of lawlessness and lawlessness in the community is combined to compass his defeat and re-elect L. V. Wyckoff, during whose term lawlessness has enjoyed extraordinary immunity.

O. C. Shorey, the candidate for Treasurer, is a man for whom we have a due respect personally, but he is now the incumbent of that office, and we believe that public sentiment, as well as sound public policy demands frequent changes in the financial officers of the county, more especially in this county whose affairs are in such an uncertain and unsatisfactory condition.

W. M. York, the candidate for Probate Judge, is a young lawyer of fair ability and unexceptionable moral character.

The nomination of Edgar Bryan for Assessor is simply an outrage upon public decency and official honesty.

As the collector of this school district, the following is one of his bills rendered to a taxpayer:

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes Special school tax ($0.07), Advertising (2.50), Certificate of sale (2.00), Com. on (0.01), County and Territorial tax (.68), Interest on purchase price (.08), Postage (.06), Total $5.40.

This is only one of 217 like accounts. $2.50 was charged to the tax-payers for advertising each description for three weeks, which was a manifest conspiracy with the publisher to rob the tax-payers, some of whom were mulcted in these damages after they had called upon Bryan to pay their taxes, and did pay all that he produced against their property. There are men in the penitentiary for less swindling acts, and to elect this man to a responsible office would be simply to endorse official robbery.

Rev. George F. Whitworth, for School Superintendent, is an unexceptionable nomination.

We are not acquainted with any of the men named for the other offices and can only say from general report that the candidates for Commissioner are all fair men.

ly pity, remembering that dimmed, broken, defaced manhood is yet, in its lowest fall, the image of the very God.— But what can be said for that man who in the full possession of his faculties, and in full consciousness of his duties and responsibilities to society, with wife and children claiming his protection and defence from every evil which it is in his power to avert, who for a paltry share in the wages of prostitution gives his aid and influence to perpetuate and entail upon his successors a moral pestilence more to be dreaded than plague or cholera?

What of that newspaper publisher, who in contempt of the moral sentiment and legal recognition which consecrates one day in seven as sacred to rest and public worship, selects that day alone for printing and circulating in Christian homes, articles written for pay in defence of the manner in which the affairs of one of our citizens is conducted—a "citizen," a moral pariah, outlawed to all law, human and divine; whose "affairs" are the affairs of a house of prostitution, the most notorious, degraded and law-defying that ever disgraced a civilized community—characterizing as "phariseism," and "hysterics," a protest against this sink of pollution, wrung from a sense of outraged decency by its shameless displays upon our streets and thoroughfares—casting odium as upon women of "unsteady virtue," upon the mothers, wives and daughters of Seattle, who were impelled by the enmity of the public scandal and its threatening danger to growing sons and brothers, to publicly demand its recognition by our public authorities as a public nuisance—a thing to be abated or branded as a pestilence to be abated?

What of that convention of a party composed largely of moral Christian men, which unanimously endorsed the editor of that newspaper—the recognized organ and medium of communication with the public and advertiser of its licentious revels, of a house of prostitution—as a suitable person to assist in making laws for the government of the people and for the protection of public morals?

Has the brave old party, to which I cling with such faith and hope through the dark period of the war, come to this, that its necessities demand a temporizing policy with keepers of brothels and professional gamblers? Think you that the women, were they entrusted with the sacred suffrage, would thus barter it for party success?

You, Mr. Editor, have declared your independence of party dictation; how could you have done less and maintained your self-respect? God grant that many others will follow your example. Then, and not till then, can public morality successfully combat lawlessness and public profligacy at the polls.

But women must not protest, must not petition, but must drop their veils and pass on when they are jostled upon the public walks by public prostitutes; they must exhibit no consciousness when they are brought in contact with the keeper of a squaw brothel in the lecture room, upon the steamers, or in public carriages; they must keep silent when they see the fairest portion of the city, upon the most public thoroughfare to the country, surrendered to purposes the very thought of which brings the blush of shame to the face of every decent citizen; they must stand idly by and make no sign, when under their very eyes and within their hearing are the sights and sounds of revelry calculated to lure and attract their unthinking boys to a den of perdition which destroys both body and soul. Hush! your father, your husband, or your brother is a candidate for office! The party is in danger! It has its candidates for office who are pledged to see that no harm befalls it from the outraged laws, which it has so long put at defiance through corrupt officials! Its keeper musters the clear-eyed denizens of his den and retainers by the score to control primaries and hold the balance of power in party elections! It supports a newspaper, which will bespatter you with ribaldry if you say a word! J. L. B.

At a meeting of the citizens of Seattle called by the King County Reform Club for the purpose of selecting Delegates to a County Convention to be held on Saturday, the 19th, at the Pavilion on Saturday evening the 12th, Thomas S. Russell was elected Chairman, and C. C. Perkins, Secretary.

The following resolution was offered by William H. White, Esq., and adopted:

Resolved, That we are in favor of a thorough reform in our county affairs; that the delegates selected by this meeting be instructed not to vote for any one as a candidate who now holds a county office, and that in the event that the County Convention should nominate any one now holding office, then that the voters here represented are not in honor bound or required to support such nominee.

The following persons were then nominated and declared elected such delegates: John Denny, G. A. Weed, W. H. White, C. C. Perkins, H. H. Hill, Charles W. Moore, E. McLaughlin, D. S. Smith, R. H. Beatty, J. E. Kenworthy, J. D. Hinekey, John Collins, M. R. Maddocks, J. Wenzler, H. E. Norwood, B. E. Ball, C. Hackshaw, T. S. Russell, Charles Bashe, John Ross, R. Russell, L. S. Smith, J. J. McGivra, M. S. Booth, W. W. Barker, W. C. Smith, S. Kinney, W. E. Wilson, J. A. McDonald, S. F. Coombs and O. S. Warren.

On motion, the meeting adjourned. T. S. RUSSELL, Chairman.

Mr. GARFIELD ON THE RIVER.—The Vancouver Register, which flies at its editorial head the name of Selencius Garfield, closes an article on Mr. Garfield's visit to and speeches in that county, with the following significant remark: "The whole affair passed off so quietly we suppose the party must be afraid of making up their opponents."

A gentleman informs us that he was in Kalama the day on which Mr. Garfield was placarded to speak at that place. The meeting was appointed for afternoon, when Mr. Garfield, accompanied by Bench, repaired to the meeting house and waited for nearly an hour for an audience; so few appearing the performance was adjourned till evening, when a small congregation assembled to listen to the "silver-tongued orator," without exhibiting any interest or enthusiasm in the proceeding. Not a person connected with the railroad either met Mr. Garfield or took any part in his meeting. Upon this showing the Courier predicts a majority of two to one for Garfield in Kalama.

EDITOR DISPATCH.—The stage Co. of Coggan & Co., propose to run a line of stages from the end of the Railroad, at Hodgden's, to Seattle, as soon as the road around Stack mountain is built. To complete this road in King county, the business men and property holders of Seattle will be asked to assist District No. 12 in opening that part which lies in said county. The few settlers in the district have worked already from ten to thirty days each, and the necessity of opening the road, and for the people of Seattle to assist is too obvious to need argument. Contributions can be placed in the hands of the Supervisor, who will account to the Commissioner's Court for its faithful expenditure.

SURVEYING PARTIES.—Surveyor General Beach will leave on Monday's steamer for down the Sound, with two surveying parties. Capt. Wm. Jameson has charge of the one going to Snoqualmie, and Capt. J. A. Cornelius is in charge of the Nootsack party.—Courier, 12th.

FINE STOCK.—The Courier, in speaking of stock exhibited at the late fair, says: A large bull of the Devon and Durham breed, shown by Mr. C. Clymer, of Seattle, is one of the finest specimens on the coast. It weighs 1,950 pounds on the scales, and it is not surprising that our friend the owner, has sought legislation against the scrubs of that species. An exhibition of this animal, at the next session of the Legislature, will furnish one of the strongest arguments of such a measure.

KILLED FOR DISOBEYING ORDERS.—The drummer boy at Fort Vancouver, was shot through the heart and instantly killed on Monday evening, by the sentry on duty at one of the posts within the confines of the fort. The boy had been sent to the guard house for a trivial offense and put in one of the rooms without being confined. He attempted to leave, when he was called to halt by the sentry, but disobeyed the order and was shot down in his tracks, the ball going through and through him. Writs for the arrest of the soldier were served by the sheriff but the military officials refuse to give him up, Gen. Canby having ordered Gen. Granger to hold the prisoner until a writ from the supreme court of the territory was issued, or from the United States court of second district.

SALTING BUTTER.—The action of salt, sugar, saltpetre, etc. is to attract the water of the buttermilk to itself. The best butter may as easily be made with pure salt, as by the addition of the other ingredients named. The action of salt is to penetrate the buttermilk, absorb water, and make a strong brine, thus rendering decomposition and consequent putridity impossible. Buttermilk, the presence of which in butter imparts a disagreeable taste and subsequent rancidity to the mass, can be removed by working alone. The removal is assisted by the use of salt. Washing in pure, cold water aids materially in this. The quantity of salt used varies in different dairies. At the first working, about three per cent. of the weight of the butter should be used, taking care not to injure the grain of the butter in working. After an interval of twelve hours the butter should be reworked, after which it may be packed, adding about one per cent. more of salt at this time. If the butter is properly made this quantity of salt will be sufficient. No foul odors should be admitted about the room where the milk is kept, and where the various operations are performed. This is essential.

A good ordinary rule in butter making is to use one ounce of pure salt to the pound of butter, and if you allow also an ounce of the best granulated sugar to each four or five pounds, it will do no harm, but will assist in the preservation; but the best butter is made by attention to strict care in the manipulation and the perfect condition of the packages used.—Western Rural.

Some of the 600 Saints who recently arrived at Salt Lake from Europe are thus described by an exchange: One of them, an old lady from Copenhagen, verging upon the traditional three score and ten of the Psalmist, had her hair decorated with orange blossoms, surmounted by a white gauze hat. She was followed by Mr. Richard Jones, an old, gray haired English soldier, dressed in an infantry great coat, and wearing an old naval cap donated him by the first officer of the steamer Minnesota on the voyage from Liverpool, Jones having had his own blown off during a gale.

Next in order came a number of women, with babes in their arms and carpet bags and tin pots slung over their backs. One of these women mentioned had a retinue of eight little ones. There were babies fat and babies lean. Some of the Scandinavian youths wore red hats. The Swedes were quaintly attired in gray cloth, thick as ordinary carpet, while their linen was nearly as coarse as the duck of which summer pants are made. There were a few London clerks in the long procession, with threadbare clothes and out at elbows, who smiled at the change of scene, and with their countenances lit up with that kind of hope which is said to tell a flattering tale. Mr. M. C. Meekin, from Belfast, with his wife, pretty daughter and strapping son, were the only representatives from the "Emerald Isle;" but I explained in an apologetic manner to a reporter: "But we're all Scotch bodies." The age of the oldest Saint was 86 years, and the youngest infant Saint was six weeks.

Puget Sound Dispatch.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

SEATTLE, THURSDAY, OCT. 17, 1872.

Financial and Commercial.

SEATTLE, Oct. 16, 1872.

The Puget Sound Banking Company report gold in New York 113 1/2, currency, buying, 88; Sight Exchange on Portland and San Francisco, 1/2 per cent. premium, on New York 1 per cent. premium for Currency, 1 1/2 per cent. premium for Gold. Sterling Sight Drafts on Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., London, England, $5 10 per £. These drafts are cashed by special agreement all over Ireland, Scotland and the Continent free of charge.

There has been more demand for money during the week and lenders are very firm in their charges of two per cent. per month. We have heard of transactions as high as three outside of the banks.

Our enterprising young merchants, Crawford & Harrington, report trade during the week as much better than for some time past; and the sale of more goods in the past week than any week since they started in business. This speaks well for the popularity of this firm with outside buyers, built up by strict attention to the business and honorable dealings with the trade.

We note a number of transactions in the Real Estate Market; Tacoma still taking the lead as a speculative fancy, with an increased inquiry for Seattle and Holmes Harbor lands which are held very firm at the advanced prices.

The Portland papers are building up high hopes for their merchants for the great extension of trade of that inland city when the N. P. R. R. from Kalama is completed to some harbor on Puget Sound. Portland is centrally situated in Oregon and as that State settles up it will grow. It has a good country surrounding it and without doubt, with the great prospect of emigration, via the N. P. R. R. when completed, will make a city of 30,000 inhabitants within ten years.

As to being a commercial city to supply the merchants of Puget Sound they surely are mistaken. We have large houses in Seattle that can and do sell goods cheaper than they can be bought in Portland; and Puget Sound merchants will always be able to do so. Our merchants can buy their goods in San Francisco as cheap as the Portland merchant. Our heavy lumber trade brings ten vessels to Puget Sound to one to Portland, making a great rivalry for freight at San Francisco for our Ports, therefore freight can be brought here at one half what it can to Portland, leaving no margin for the Portland merchants for reshipment and railroad freight to the Sound.

On the completion of the railroad to the Sound, Portland merchants can ship their freight by vessel from San Francisco to Puget Sound and reship by rail at a less price than they now pay by the Columbia river, saving time and high marine insurance; and instead of selling goods to us will find us a most formidable rival for the trade of the upper Columbia. On the completion of the line over the mountains with our natural advantages, we must receive the trade of Eastern Washington, Idaho and Montana, of which a good part has heretofore gone to Portland.

An inland city cannot reasonably expect, according to the laws of trade and commerce, to compete with a city that has all the natural commercial advantages that we have. It can be as Pittsburg is to Philadelphia, Albany to New York, or Sacramento to San Francisco, a large and prosperous city but no rival for ocean trade and commerce.

"And Others."

Schwabacher Bros. & Co., so often mentioned in the marine reports of our cotemporary under the above designation, are making themselves manifest in their splendid brick store, with iron and French plate glass front, with the largest stock of general merchandize ever offered by one firm in this market, and their new store and its appurtenances are not excelled, in elegance, extent and convenience by any similar house north of San Francisco. When the firm are fairly settled in their new quarters, we will give a more extended description of this house, which is an ornament to our city and an honor to the enterprise of the firm under the judicious management of Mr. Bailey Gatzert.

PUMPHREY & YOUNG have just received, per steamer Prince Alfred, a large supply of the new series of school books lately introduced into Washington Territory, which they will sell at San Francisco catalogue prices.

Liberal deductions to Teachers and Jobbers.

RAILROAD SURVEYS.—All the surveying parties engaged upon the Sound, for the N. P. Railroad, have been ordered to report at head quarters, probably to be disbanded for the winter.

The annual Address before the Western Washington Industrial Association was delivered by Judge Jacobs, and is published in full by the Courier, at the request of the association. Like all intellectual efforts emanating from that source it is characterized by marked ability and practical common sense.

GLASS.—Messrs. Anderson and Hopkins have received between $500 and $800 worth of French plate glass, for the dwelling house now being built for Mr. J. R. Robbins. Some of this glass was 32 inches in size.

WESTERN WASHINGTON INDUSTRIAL ASSOCIATION.—The following is a list of the Officers of the Association elected for the ensuing year: Directors.—C. C. Hewitt, George F. Whitworth, C. M. Lawton, John A. Tenney, William Lemmon, E. Meeker, E. P. Ferry, S. P. Beach, G. A. Barnes, E. Eldredge, R. H. Hewitt, William Monks, and A. A. Manning. President.—George F. Whitworth; Vice President.—L. P. Beach; Recording Secretary.—A. A. Manning; Corresponding Secretary.—E. Meeker; Treasurer.—George A. Barnes.

These Directors and officers do not enter upon their duties till the first Monday in January next.

SUICIDE.—A telegram was received here this morning from Olympia, announcing that W. P. Buckner, the keeper of a restaurant at that place, had just committed suicide by shooting himself through the brain with a pistol. The deceased formerly lived in this city and was well known here. No further particulars have been received.

News reached Racine this afternoon, one of La Belle's boats having arrived with eleven of the crew. They state that four or five boats and one raft, all filled with people, left the sinking propeller a short time before she went down. They think that all the boats are safe, as the lake was comparatively smooth and weather calm, and that few if any passengers are lost.

The following is the account of the great four mile race yesterday at Jerome Park in which Mr. H. Sanford's Monarchist, by Lexington, distanced Harry Bassett. Monarchist went off first, with King Henry second, Bassett trailing.—The pace was very slow. At the quarter Bassett passed King Henry and ran a length or two behind Monarchist. In this way they ran the first mile. Passing the stand Col. McDaniels signalled Roe to go on at the turn. Bassett took the lead, holding it by half a length.—As they rounded the bluff, coming into view, they were neck and neck; at the 3/4 mile Monarchist led a trifle; at the furlong pole and stand Monarchist again took the lead. Again McDaniels ordered Roe to go on, and again Jimmy responded; but before reaching the quarter pole it was evident that Bassett could not or would not respond to Roe's call. From that point to the finish Monarchist slowly but surely increased the lead and won by 200 yards in 7:33 1/2. Bassett second, fifty yards in front of King Henry. Time: First mile, 1:52 1/4; second, 1:47 1/2; third, 1:56 1/4; fourth, 1:57.

Fred. Seward has arrived. Col. Seward with his son will probably not arrive in time for the funeral. The remains of Mr. Seward will lie in state at his residence on Monday until afternoon. Teaching as a Profession.

By BERNIA BROWN.

[Delivered before the Teachers Institute of King county, September 18, 1872, and its publication requested by resolution.]

A profession by general acceptance, is a vocation or employment requiring a learned education. From the earliest organization of government the professions have been the life and soul of all social institutions—the mainspring of all intellectual development and progress in literature, science and the arts. Until the invention of printing, the learning of the world was confined almost exclusively to the professions of Divinity, Physic and Law, represented respectively by the priest, the doctor and lawyer, who severally educated their successors of their own class, and thus maintained a monopoly of learning. At a latter period in history, when all the more enlightened civil governments of Europe were under ecclesiastical domination, learning was confined to the cloisters and monasteries; the priests were the only authorized popular educators, and education was held as a special privilege to the lay citizen or subject, under the most stringent regulations. The primary discovery and invention of the arts and sciences now in common use and of every day application, were chiefly of monastic origin, and were guarded from the popular ken like the tree of life in the garden of Eden—lest the people should partake thereof and become as gods.

At a still later period, up to the time of the English settlement of America, when the printed Bible was accessible to all who could read it, and books of general information were introduced in every well-regulated household, there were no popular schools, no teachers educated to that vocation as a profession; the priest, or minister, was the tutor of the young, and the doctor of divinity, physic or law, each in his special department, the professor in the College or University. This system yet prevails generally in Europe, and to a considerable extent in this country, which was the first to establish Normal Schools especially for the education of teachers.

From these historical facts it is manifest that teaching, as a speciality, has not yet been assigned a definite position and proper rank as a profession. That with all our boasted progress in general education in the arts and sciences, the recognized learned professions have not been added to since the primeval days when by God's appointment Moses was made a law-giver and Aaron a priest.

Popular education is a necessity of popular government. Virtue and intelligence are the basis of all good government and the sole guarantee for the maintenance of any, more especially a government of the people. If the foundation is defective, the edifice must necessarily fall. That system of popular education, however skillfully designed, will fail in strength and beauty, if not placed in the hands of competent and skillful workmen for construction. The teachers of our common schools—the educators of the people—are practically the architects and builders of our social and political system; the men and women who mould and direct the destinies of our country and our race; the first in the length and breadth of their influence, and should be the first in rank among the learned professions. That they are not; that the profession of priest, doctor, or lawyer, should rank the profession of public teacher in popular estimation, is a sad evidence of the foolishness of worldly wisdom; that the perishable things of time and sense are more highly valued than things eternal; that the body is more honored than the soul of man; that matter dominates mind; that intelligent human beings are actuated by the same motives as the beasts that perish—preferring present enjoyment to the elevation of their race and the eternal good of their own souls.

We would not depreciate or underrate the time and care devoted to fitting men for the other learned professions, or the benign influence of those professions upon society; we but ask that each should have its appropriate place and just appreciation. The most reverent and sacred office that man can fill, is that of the priest, who stands as a mediator and intercessor between man and his Maker. But his office only begins where that of the teacher ends, and would be of no avail except to control the passions of men through their fears and blind superstitions, if the teacher had not first prepared them for that light which leads them to their eternal good. We first educate the heathen before we convert them, for belief or faith without knowledge is but dead works.

The responsibilities of a physician are great; he often holds in his hands the issues of life and death to this perishable body. But in his vocation his work is as evanescent as the fiftal fancies of a dream; he may prolong life or he may hasten the end. In either event it is but a transient good or ill, which sooner or later perishes and leaves no ripple upon the social surface to extend its agitation into the far future. The lawyer has his responsibilities too, and they are important to the well being of society; he has to try the issues involved in the rights of man to life, liberty and property, and from the high position which is accorded to him on account of his talents and learning, he exercises a marked influence upon the moral condition of society. If he pursues his calling with the high and noble purpose of defending the weak against the chicanery of the wicked and despoiling, and in seeing that the benefits of the law are impartially and justly dispensed, all who come within his intercourse are made better by the association and confess the benignant influence of the profession.

But above and beyond all these, as incomparable as the things of eternity are beyond those of time, is the work of the common school teacher. He or she takes from the hand of the parent or guardian the raw material which is to be formed into the future man or woman who is destined for good or ill to govern society in their day and work out their own salvation for eternity, by such instruction and examples as they then receive at that plastic age when all impressions upon the mind are the most lasting and ineradicable. The material may be fine or coarse, well or illy prepared by home influences or inherent qualities of good or bad; but at that age when children attend school, between infancy and early manhood, they are the creatures of imitation and their teacher is always their model. The scriptural proverb—"Like priest, like people," applied more particularly to an age when the priest was the only teacher. Like teacher, like pupils, will apply with much greater truth to the common school system. Is the teacher refined, gentle, self-possessed and withal equitable and just in governing, the scholars, by whatever outside influences they may be surrounded, will gradually, but certainly fall into a like becoming demeanor. On the other hand, if the teacher is coarse and vulgar in manners, loud-voiced and of undisciplined temper, you will soon have occasion to observe the same peculiarity of deportment in the children of that school upon the street and at home.

To illustrate: if the man teacher is slovenly in his dress, chews tobacco or smokes, uses slang terms in his speech, sucks a tooth-pick during his hours of recitation, expectorates upon the floor, or practices any other vulgar habit, you will see all these habits repeated in grotesque imitation by his boys in spite of home injunctions or examples. If the woman teacher disregards feminine graces of deportment, has a masculine swagger, talks loud and in a coarse manner, chews gum, tips back in her chair and rests her feet upon a bench while hearing recitations, the girls under her tuition will grow up hoydens, with coarse manners, and no future efforts at refinement can ever after make of them accomplished or agreeable ladies.

Some may deem these small matters in education, but what is education without refinement of mind and manner?—The Psalmist prayed: "That our sons may grow up as young plants, and that our daughters may be as the polished corners of the temple." The sainted John Wesley said: "Cleanliness is next to godliness;" and there are few objects more repulsive to a person of refined sensibilities than an educated boor, disregarding the refinements of social intercourse, and assuming pragmatical manners by virtue of his literary acquirements. Whoever disregards the refinements and blandishments of conventional usage, violates a law of nature. God has planted in every soul a love of the beautiful; has garnished all His works upon earth and in the heavens with emblems of this sentiment. The highest evidences of Christian culture are manifested in the adornment of our homes and the temples erected to His worship. Is it becoming to a Christian people to give less attention to the adornment of the temple created in the image of God, by allowing it to become the abode of unclean things?

All intelligent observation will confirm this testimony to the influence of the teacher upon the pupil by force of example, and that it is no transitory impression, to be superseded by subsequent association and example, for the child is in a transit on state, growing into enduring and permanent manhood or womanhood, when the habits of manner and thought become fixed, responsible and self-asserting; no longer clay in the hands of the potter. He may change his views and opinions upon surrounding objects and events. He may become amenable to discipline and conform his acts in a measure to controlling minds; but as indelible as the ugly scars left by wounds or sores upon the body, are the moral scars and blotches received by the child while his ductile mind is being formed by education.

In this view, and it is the view sustained by intelligent observation and the philosophy of our nature, how great is the responsibility of a teacher even in its lowest walks. It is a high and holy calling. To perform its duties acceptably to God and man, according to the measure of its influence upon society, requires the most systematic training, the most entire self control, the highest cultivation of mind and manners, and total abstinence from every habit or indulgence of act or speech of a vulgar or demoralizing tendency; and these should be associated with a refined and gentle nature, a sincere love for children and active sympathy in all their sports, charity for their faults and patience for their perversity. All these capacities for teaching and governing would not make a perfect teacher of one who does not love the allotted work and enter upon it heartily; take an honest pride in it, and have for it a noble enthusiasm; who does not enter upon it bravely as a man, under the eye of the great Father; not for himself first and mainly, but really and in truth for all, as one of the great whole. That teacher would be hardly competent to train immortal souls for usefulness in this world and fitness for the eternal life beyond, who did not feel his responsibilities and dependence upon an overruling Providence to whom he is accountable for all his acts. Amid the jarring sectarianisms that surround us, we want no bigots or partisans to bewilder the minds of our children to the clearly understood principles of duty to God and man. We would have our teachers too religious to be sectarian; too patriotic to be partisan. No man can be a true loyal brother to man except as he strives to be a loyal son to the great God. The brotherhood below can be met only by him who looks sincerely to the Fatherhood above.

First of all, a man must recognize his manhood. He must know what it means to be a man; what it binds him to; what it asks of him. If he fails in this, he fails in all. His work, be what it will, must turn to ashes at the last. Standing here in this world of God's, among all His children and under God's eye, he must feel the solemn post he occupies and be prepared to do his work according to its true demands.

If he work, not like a man, but like a brute beast, with cunning as a fox, with greed as a wolf, let him and his works so perish as the beasts perish! No! He must for his own soul's sake take care of that. Not cunningly, not greedily, not fiercely, not selfishly must he begin his work, but courageously, trustfully, generously, as a brother among brethren. The way in which he looks at his nature must decide his life, must decide his death. We bury the successful miser who worked selfishly and let him and his memory rot. We bury the foxy trickster, who won his high place successfully by meanness, and leave him in our thoughts forever. The man who in any walk makes up his mind that it is not his business to work like a man, a true brother in God's great family, but like a single, selfish, fierce, or strong, or cunning single animal, may get what he calls success, but which is a miserable failure after all, and which men feel to be so, without any argument, as they come to stand by his unblest grave.

Teachers, we entreat you to make no such mistake; seek no such sham success; cheat your souls with no such device. Do your duty faithfully in that vocation to which in the providence of God you are called, and your life will be a success—joyful and painful it may be, but a true success.

UVA URST, or HARBERRY.—It may not be generally known that this tree, indigenous to this Territory, contains most valuable medicinal qualities. Our attention has been called to it by a gentleman who was cured of a painful chronic disease by it, and is now engaged in collecting the bark and roots to take with him to California, and who has prepared a decoction from the same which may be found at Maddock's drug store. It is described in the Materia Medica of the United States as follows:

"This tree is known for its valuable medicinal properties through many parts of Europe. In France the bark of the roots is used as a remedy for indigestion, known under the name of Vinamine. It is also known as a medicine throughout India, growing extensively in Lahote. It is a popular remedy as an antispasmodic in gravel, and particularly recommended when there is reason to conjecture the existence of ulceration in the kidneys, bladder or urinary passage, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, incontinence of urine, gleet, leucorrhoea and menorrhagia, phthisis pulmonaris."

WALLA WALLA AND COLUMBIA RIVER RAILROAD.—It is a matter of regret, not only to the people, but to the Company, that circumstance over which they had no control prevented the building and finishing of the railroad from Walla Walla to Wallula, on the Columbia river, this Fall. The Company have purchased all the necessary rolling stock for this road, including two engines, thirteen platform cars, etc. The Company are now engaged in putting in booms, and otherwise making improvements in the river preparatory to getting their logs and timber down to Wallula as soon as there shall come a slight rise in the water. The Company's saw mill at Wallula is now in running order, awaiting the arrival of their logs to commence active operations. Car and machine shops, and other buildings are to be erected this Fall at Wallula, and everything will be put in readiness to commence active operation early in the Spring, when work on the road will be rapidly pushed forward to completion. Many obstacles have been thrown in the way of the Company, which time alone can remove, but they have persevered, and are now more sanguine than ever that their efforts will be crowned with success.—Walla Walla Record.

A Paris paper tells the following story: A Breton peasant on his way to Paris, stopped at a barber shop in Rambouillet. While the barber was examining his razor the peasant noticed a dog sitting near his chair, and staring at him fiercely. "What is the matter with that dog?" The barber answered with an unconcerned air, "That dog is always there. You see when I cut off an ear—" "Well?" "Well, he eats it."

A distinguished English physician says: "There is no doubt that the premature dotage of many distinguished men has arisen from their ceasing in advanced life to exert their faculties, under the impression that they were too old to engage in any new enterprise."

RESULT OF THE FAIR TRIAL.—The Chicago Times says it is a strong statement to say that nothing more infamous and deplorable than this result has been achieved by an American jury for many years, but the circumstances warrant the expression. It would certainly be an interesting subject of inquiry what could be the mental and moral constitution of twelve men who agreed upon this verdict, and the motives or ratiocination by which they are led to it.
