LEAVES FROM A TRAVELER'S NOTE BOOK.

I.

We read in an old book, "The Voyage of Italy, by Richard Lassels, Gent.", that "travelling makes a man sit still in his old age with satisfaction, and travel over the world again in his chair and bed". Since these words were written great changes have come over the world. If the old "Gent." were to come to life again, he would open his eyes wide, at the modern improvements in the way of getting from one part of the world to another. The most remote points of the globe have, in our own day, come into close contact with each other. Every quarter of the formerly inaccessible, and to our ideas, uncivilized world at large has been brought, figuratively speaking, to our very doors by the increased facilities of communication. There is hardly a country that is not girded with the iron rail; the telegraph penetrates as well the jungles of India, and the land of The Flower Kingdom, as it connects, with its slender cable buried ocean-deep, the chiet nations of the civilized world.

Travel, to those who undertake it intelligently, cannot be valued too highly. It is a great educator and enlightener. By bringing to notice nations and people with different systems of government, and different manners and customs from our own, it enlarges the understanding and removes at the same time many of the prejudices and self-complacent notions which the various races of mankind are wont to indulge in. We find that there are other happy and prosperous nations beside our own, each one of which can boast of some one thing worthy of being imitated, and, insensibly, we become endued with the spirit of the universal brotherhood of the human race.

There is a lasting pleasure to be derived from travel; it furnishes one with a stock of delightful memories which nothing can ever erase. Sydney Smith says, that "a man is made happy for life by once having taken an agreeable tour".

We can, to-night, in this remote region, this Ultima Thule of the great republic, withdraw for a time from our surroundings, and recall many scenes of other lands, upon the beauties of which the eye has feasted. They pass before the mental vision panorama-like; and we see unfolded in turn, the broad Atlantic, picturesque England, beautiful France, romantic Switzerland, the purple waters and blue skies of the Indian Ocean, the Spice Islands of the East Indies, luxuriant in tropical vegetation, the dwelling places of the strange Asiatic races, and China and Japan with their curious people.

Let us then put upon paper, some recollections of our various wanderings; and it is not our intention to describe so much what we went to see, as what we saw that was most unlike what one sees at home. Knowing that there is hardly a quarter of the globe that has escaped the hand of the book-maker, or the pen of the correspondent, we beg for the indulgence of the reader, in that some entertainment will be found in these leaves from a Traveller's Note Book, which is all they are hoped to afford.

The sensations experienced on first beholding a foreign shore can hardly be described. The American feels a thrill when he, for the first time, looks upon a land so teeming with his racial associations as Great Britain. The history of England is virtually our history; the same blood courses in our veins; we speak the same tongue; we take pride in her long and illustrious array of statesmen and warriors. But to speak all this we cannot but feel but that it is a foreign land; that we are children who have long since left the parental roof, and have established, in another part of the world, a home for ourselves which we think is an improvement on the home-keeping system of the old folks.

Thinking of these things, we gazed upon the green hills of the Southern coast of old Ireland, on a bright and beautiful afternoon, in the early part of the summer of the year 1871.

The ocean voyage, like all new experiences, had been highly enjoyable. The acquaintances formed among the passengers had been pleasant ones; we were all thrown together and mutually interested by accident. In the little world carried by a trans-Atlantic steamer, there can always be found plenty of food for instruction and amusement. Glimpses of disconnected dramas, parts of farces, and fragmentary comedies would occasionally exhibit themselves. But let us hasten to terra firma. About thirty hours from the time that the shores of the Emerald Isle were sighted our good ship was safely moored along side of the famous Liverpool docks and then, for the first time, we stood upon foreign soil.

Educational.

Heretofore it has been almost a subject of ridicule, when any reference was made to the subject of education in Seattle; but the wise and proper legislation of the last session of the Legislature, granting Territorial scholarships, together with the class of scholars gathered together at the University, and the excellent corps of teachers now in charge of that institution, has well nigh erased the stigma formerly attached to the state of education in the metropolis of the Sound. While the cause of theoretical education, or that which is mainly devoted to training the mind, in place of that practical training which fits persons for some special pursuit, has advanced so far and taken so much higher ground within the past year. Yet almost unnoticed and wholly unaided, except by individual enterprise, another equally important educational institution has sprung into existence, with a full corps of trained professors, and nearly thirty pupils, that promises to supply a want long felt on the Sound. The Puget Sound Business College is the institution referred to. Although only a short time in existence, its course of studies, methods of instruction and organization is the most complete of any institution of the kind on the north-west coast, offering advantages fully equal to the Bryant & Stratton colleges of the Eastern cities. There are four professors now connected with the institution, and should the present indications of a most liberal patronage be continued, their number will be increased. Mr. Gunn, the principal, has had several years experience in the East in conducting similar institutions, while Mr. Gushie, the professor of penmanship, etc., is related to the family of Pason and Dunton, the celebrated penmen, and inherits the family skill as a teacher of that important art. This practical system of education, which prepares persons for actual business, has been too well tried to need the endorsement of the STAR: it only needs to be examined to demonstrate its own merits. Read their advertisement in another column.

The Unitarian Advocate.

The Advocate for July has come to us full of good things for those who believe in liberal christianity. It has a very kindly written review of Rev. Father Stewart's article on the "Trinity," a statement of the "Universalist's Faith," "Proceedings of the Oregon Universalist Convention," and an account of the editor's journey east of the mountains. Among its editorial notes is the following:

"For the benefit of our Eastern friends we would say that no danger is apprehended in this part of our Territory from hostile Indians. We have a disastrous Indian war on our hands, but there is no probability of any fighting west of the Cascade mountains. Walla Walla is being crowded by settlers fleeing thither with their families for safety, but the city will only be injured through the injury done the country. This is likely to be very considerable. Horses and cattle are driven off, flocks frightened away from their wheat fields, the lonely settler murdered; all these things will set the development of the great upper country back for years.

And those who know most of the nature of the Indians and of the causes of the outbreak feel that all might and ought to have been prevented. The whole reservation policy it seems is one that prepares the Indian for war, makes him a continual enemy, and makes a race war inevitable. Individual Indians should be punished for individual crimes, and encouraged to hold personal and real property under our laws. They are already citizens under the present constitution, and the belief of many if not of most of our wisest men who have dealt with them, is, that the abolition of all treaties, reservations and annuities, is the only needful thing to make friends out of all of them, and so to make such race and tribal wars impossible."

Mukilteo.

Notwithstanding the complaint all over the Sound of the extreme scarcity of money and the hard times, the energy displayed by M. V. B. Stacy since he secured control of the Mukilteo property is infusing life into that place, starting up permanent improvements and bringing many people there, who will no doubt ere long improve many of the great natural advantages of that place as a business centre.

Among the business changes that have taken place there recently may be noted the lease to Jackson Meyers & Co., the pioneer salmon canning company of the Sound, of the fishery and ground for their canning establishment for ten years from Jan. 1st 1879. The wharf will be improved and extensive additions made to the cannery there this year.

The Mukilteo brewery has been sold to Cantena, Bohen, and Klansman, who are manufacturing a good quality of beer. Wendel & Grandel from the Columbia river have purchased ground upon which they will erect a cooper shop.

T. G. Wilson the enterprising Seattle provision dealer, has purchased a lot there.

P. Trans, the carpenter, formerly of this place, has purchased one of the nine acre strips of land, and will build a dwelling house there on soon.

Patties are negotiating for the Livingston Mill site and 44 acres of land connected with it, which also belongs to the owners of the Mukilteo town-site. They will probably purchase and proceed at once to put up a saw mill there.

Five of the twenty strips of land are already sold, a number of others are negotiating for additional land on which to build, and establish business there. The steamers in passing stop there from ten to twenty minutes each week, its location is so excellent in this respect, that any business once well established there will be apt to maintain itself; therefore there is good reason to believe that by the end of the year there will be a permanent addition of perhaps a dozen or more families to the population of this section of the county, who will establish good schools and all the conveniences of social life.

A Splendid Chance.

Mr. Hurtle, who has done so much with Mr. Cotton to open Le Grand Marsh between here and the Skykomish river, left for the mines last spring, before leaving he placed in the hands of Sney & Mackintosh of Seattle, power to sell his valuable marsh property there.

This tract of marsh has no superior in this county, it is well drained, and almost ready for the plow. The high land is well situated for a village to unite for the post office, store, schools, blacksmith shop, etc. that before many years will be needed to supply the local wants of settlers in that vicinity.

The 320 acres of marsh land, if sold in tracts of 40 acres each to families, would make homes for 8 families. The upland could be divided among them, and by next year, without great labor it all could be in cultivation, and from date of settlement it could be made to yield an abundant support to every family who would settle thereon. The undrained marsh land around would then within a couple of years be improved, so that fully two thousand acres would be in cultivation there in one body in that time.

The terms of sale are so easy, that those who wish homes would do better to get this land at the prices offered, with the work done on it, than to take up wild land. This marsh alone will support a larger and more wealthy settlement than the celebrated Chimacum settlement, the pride of Jefferson county, and which now supports a large cheese factory and does the leading dairy business of the Sound.

In digging a well on G. O. Burr's place, Dwamish valley, a stone pestle was found twelve feet under ground, which he has kindly donated to the Athenaeum. Its manufacture must have been in the long ago. On Mr. Horton's place, across the river from Mr. Burns', in sinking an iron tubing well in bottom land, in the year 1873, near the bank of the river, when forty feet under ground, drift wood was found and brought to the surface, and in sinking this artesian well, when ninety-three feet under ground, they found fossil clams, oysters, and beach gravel. At Frank McLellar's place on White river, drift-wood was struck at about the same distance under ground in sinking a well.

Territorial Items.

The services of Judge Burke, Probate Judge of King County, have been secured as lecturer on Political Economy for the Puget Sound Business College.—Intelligencer.

N. P. RAILROAD.—Col. J. Milnor Roberts, Chief Engineer of the N. P. R. R., came up on the Oregon. He will immediately dispatch a force of 25 men to survey a route from the head of the Payallup coal road, across the Cascades by Yakima City to Wallula, to ascertain the most available route for a railroad across the mountains.—Dee.

ACCIDENT.—Sunday July 14th. Miss Ida Long of Chehalis, was thrown from a horse and sustained the fracture of an arm. The next day, a little daughter of Mr. Hillock, aged nine years, while playing around a burning coal pit fell into it and was burned in a shocking manner. Small hopes are entertained of her recovery.

DIPHTHERIA.—This dread scourge is still prevalent in the up-river country. Two younger sons of C. C. Lewis, Esq., have died, and other members of the family are sick. Two children of Mr. Julius Mess, also, have died, and a son of Mr. Horace Smith. We hear that there is also a case or two in town, but not serious, or likely to become prevalent. In general the health of the city is unusually good this year.—Intelligencer.

The track will be laid as far as Bush Prairie today. Progress was slow, this week, on account of there being so many curves, where the iron had to be bent. Hereafter the track will be straight and the work of putting down the rails more easily done. The locomotive is on the track in running order and is used to transport material to the front. Mr. Mason, of Tumwater put the engine together and has secured the position on her as engineer. No appointment of conductor has yet been made.—Courier.

LIGHT STATION.—Congress, at its recent session, made an appropriation of $50,000 for a lighthouse at Tillamook Head, and one of $3,000 for a light and fog signal at Point Wilson, Puget Sound. The inspector of this lighthouse district and the engineer have been ordered to jointly select sites for these stations, and to report their conclusions to the lighthouse board. They will visit the localities immediately.—Dispatch.

ACCIDENT.—A terrible accident occurred at Port Madison Saturday July 13th, which may possibly result fatally. While workmen were engaged in moving one of the large boilers from the bark Oakland to the machine shops, a Chinaman employed on the work crept under it for the purpose of removing some of the blocks or rollers, when the boiler rolled completely over him, crushing him in a terrible manner. The weight was kept off him, partially, by the blocks, or he would have undoubtedly been killed instantly. He is at present very low and not expected to live.

Judge Dennison appears to be taking the lead in the Constitutional Convention at Walla Walla. The work is progressing satisfactorily and the indications are that a constitution will be presented as the result of their deliberations, that will be adopted by a large majority this fall. The proceedings are too lengthy for publication, but when they adjourn, the STAR will furnish its readers the full text of the proposed constitution so that all can see for themselves what has been adopted in convention.

SCANDAL.

Breathe it forth gently,
Pomper it well—
Let not the world know how it comes

Soft let your voices be,
Downcast your eye—
So in their tone or glance

Be sure that you are not Forgetful to say
It was only a rumor

Shrug up your shoulders—
Is something behind
The tale you have whispered,

It is only a heart—
A strange pulsing thing,
On which your foul breathing

MEMORIAL ADDRESS

ON BEHALF OF THE

LADIES OF WASHINGTON TERRITORY,

DELIVERED JUNE 18, 1878.

Before the

Constitutional Convention,

BY MRS. A. S. DUNIWAY.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: I come before you at this auspicious hour, on behalf of a large body of the unrepresented citizens

I am not commissioned at this time by the silenced citizens, whom I have the high honor thus to represent,

TAXED WITHOUT REPRESENTATION.

And governed without consent. The pros and cons of these questions will be considered in the canvass which will naturally follow such action as your thought, action and purpose, that culminated at last in this immortal instrument, which is destined, so long as truth

and valor appeal to the human heart,

HALLOWED PRINCIPLES OF CIVIL, RELI-GIOUS AND POLITICAL LIBERTY

Were gathering their forces to feed this immortal child of free America. The persecutions of a Galien, of the Walden-ses, of the Huguenots of Michael Servetus,

And monarchs grew mad with ambition. Cannon boomed, sabers gleamed, muskets rattled and swords were sheathed in human gore.

But I need not follow that sanguinary struggle further. My constituents bid me say to you that from their childhood

NEW STATE OF WASHINGTON,

And be, like them, as they of right
ought to be "free and independent."

Mr. President, my constituents ask me to call your attention and that of this honorable body to the mutual grievances of men and women, as set forth in their equal protection of the laws. "To prove this let facts be submitted to a candid world." One half of the people, in their assumed office as sovereigns, constitute a practical aristocracy—an aristocracy of sex.

Permit me to speak of this consolidated aristocracy as an individual, for the purpose of more thoroughly elucidating my meaning. "He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good."

"For imposing taxes upon us without our consent. For depriving us in all cases of the benefits of a trial by jury of our peers."

"He has excited domestic insurrection among us by imposing peculiar legal and financial disabilities upon us when married."

"He has held two codes of laws in probate courts, one for man, in which supremacy power is his assumed and usurped prerogative, and another for woman, wherein she is received as every convention: My constituents bid me say to you that they especially deplore

the growing domestic insurrection

and the domestic hearthstone as the sacred guardian of human liberties. But we have learned that, first of all: there must be a home to keep, and a united head.

This, then, is Washington's supreme hour. And my constituents further pray
that their bill of rights may be ingrafted
into the body of our constitution—not over you. They would not, if they could, abridge your immunities or trample upon your inalienable rights. But they do come, in the name of the immortal Declaration of Independence, bearing in their hands the olive branch of peace,

GREAT STATE OF WASHINGTON,

the youngest born of the immortal galaxy may be wheeled into its proper orbit,
with the complaints of its hitherto unrepresented citizens turned into plans of rejoicing.

Grant to woman her rightful place beside you in the new constitution of the new state, which you are to christen Washington, and forthwith your new commonwealth shall become a star of the first magnitude around whose blazing

Mr. President, we are making history.
Do your duty, and other states, emulating your example, will catch the fire of your patriotism, and while following your precedent, will honor Washington

ENFRANCHISE YOUR WOMEN,

and Washington shall be the Massachusetts of the Pacific empire, and Walla Walla shall be her bloodless Banker Hill.
My constituents pray that you will not miss this opportunity to render your names immortal.

Michigan, who has already given forty thousand votes for woman's equality before the law in all things, announces her determination to renew the contest and quadruple the vote; Iowa is boasting that she will wave the first banner for woman's victory; and Wyoming

Thus, then, is Washington's supreme
hour. And my constituents further pray
that their bill of rights may be ingrafted
into the body of our constitution—not as a separate clause, to be accepted or rejected, as the prejudices of man may decide, but as an integral portion of the body politic, even as women are an integral portion of the human family.

Then shall this commonwealth,
The fairest, youngest of the galaxy,
Receive and wear the purest diadem
That e'er adorned a sovereign's brow.

Miscellaneous.

Maid of money—a young heiress.
The ugliest hood ever worn—Falsehood.

Washington couldn't tell a lie when he saw it.

A fool and his father's money are soon
parted.

The man who gives you the slip—the church usher.

George Washington was first in war
because he married a widow.

Snodgrass, speaking of that hot place,
calls it that warm by-and-by.

Envious people punish themselves for being inferior to their neighbors.

Doctors never allow ducks on their premises—they make such personal remarks.

It's hardly the thing to tell a damsel who prides herself on the little boot she wears that she is a large soled woman.

It has just been discovered that the quality of humor is not strained. This accounts for its too frequent coarseness.

Nations don't blow round for three months if they mean fight. Come, Victoria, you and the Czar take some soda
water and make up.

A polite man is one who listens to things he knows all about when they are told by a person who knows nothing about them.

The $50,000 monument to Gen. John E. Wool and wife is soon to be erected in Troy. It is to be of granite, fashioned like an obelisk, and will have an inscription by Bryant.

The total length of gas pipes in the new Opera at Paris is over fifteen and a half English miles; that of the Vienna Opera House, seven and a half. Oftentimes from 2,000 to 3,000 gas flames are required for lighting the stage alone.

A mother was explaining the origin of things to her little daughter. Having been told that God made the earth,
the child asked: "who made God?"

Napoleon was one day searching for a book in the library at Malmaison, and at last discovered it on a shelf somewhat above his reach. Marshal Monecy, who was present—one of the largest men in the army—stepped forward, saying,

"What was your business?" asked an attorney of a witness in the police court yesterday. "I was soldiering," was the reply. "What do you mean by soldier-ing?" "Soldiering," repeated the witness. "Well, what is a soldier? that's what I want to know," said the attorney.

A man in New Orleans has invented a process of manufacturing mirrors which it is claimed is destined to take the place of the quicksilver process. In ten or fifteen minutes the substance used in place of quicksilver is made to adhere to the glass, and the cost of the substance is not more than one tenth that of quick-silver. Any one can convert a piece of ordinary glass into a mirror after acquainting himself with the process.

A sagacious St. Louis cat observed that two of her kittens were invariably saved and the rest of them thrown into the Mississippi. Again becoming a happy mother, she hid two of her babies in an outhouse and carried the rest in a different direction. Investigation proved that she deliberately took them to the river and threw them in, evidently preferring to select herself the kittens
she wished to rear.

OUR WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON D. C. July 1st, 1878
 Congress is gone, and we are all glad of it, and let all the people say amen. It has come to be the most dangerous organization which ever undertook to make laws for a free people. Made up as the last one was, of ex-Confederate officers, hungry Democrats, and mediocre Republicans, the country may well breathe easier, now it has gone to the tomb of the Capulets. One great danger from such a body, is its ignorance. It does not know its own functions. The last Congress has seemed to ignore all distinctions and departments; has been ambitious to play the part of the law-making power, the executive power, the judicial power, all in one. It wanted to instruct the executive as to his use of the army; it wanted to sit as a court of review upon the actions of its predecessor; it wanted to convert itself into a new Electoral commission. If it has not destroyed our gallant army, if it has not paid off the rebel war claims, if it has not unseated President Hayes, it has not been from want of modesty, but from failure to effect its own schemes. But, nothing but good of the deed; and a leader body than the late Congress it would be hard to find.

The weather here has been delightful. Here it is, the last week in June, and scarcely a night when a man has not wanted a blanket. It is true, the farmers hereabouts complain. I was in Virginia, a week ago, and corn was not four inches out of the ground. It has stood there for two months; the almost incessant rains, which have left the air so cool have prevented its making any headway. But, such fields of wheat! Never was that crop more abundant, and it is all ready for the garner.

A pleasant wedding-party was that which gathered June 12th, at noon, in the First Congregational Church, to see Frank S. Presley, lately of the Republican staff, take to himself as wife, Miss Emma Cohen, so long the leading soprano of that Church. The bridal couple have just returned from a short stay at Old Point Comfort. After a few months in Ohio with the bride's relatives, they mean to make their home in Kansas.

The New York Avenue Presbyterian Church—the most aristocratic of all the Presbyterian Churches in the city—has just received a new pastor. Rev. J. R. Paxton, of Harrisburg, Pa. He is said to be able, but more odd and peculiar than his predecessor, Rev. Dr. Mitchell, who has gone to Brooklyn, N. Y. Indeed, in these days of itching ears, the odd and peculiar men are in great demand. It is smartness that Americans want. They are ready to listen to blasphemies even, from such men as Ingersoll, provided there is wit in them. It is the very rock on which Frenchmen split and Americans seem to be losing the staidness of Mother England, and taking to the flippancy of Infidel France. Ridicule is a mighty force, but there is nothing more fallacious.

Work on the Washington Monument is to be begun at once. Congress has authorized $30,000 of the appropriation of $250,000, which is continued, to be used. This work will be done under the directions of Col. Casey, of the engineer Corps, assisted by Captain Davis, fourteenth Infantry. It is not probable that more will be done this season than to make the foundation so secure that a doubt cannot be raised as to its stability hereafter.

The reported memorial services over Confederate graves and at Southern Press Associations are full of the old time bitterness of ante-bellum years. If the American people are foolish enough to put the Democratic party into power, there is no doubt that hot-headed men will attempt to recure a rescinding of all the constitutional amendments relating to the war; to undo all that has been done, and make the treasure and blood expended all in vain. The new policy of conciliation has produced no sort of impression upon the South, except to confirm the people there in their notions of State's rights, and that the negro has no rights that a white man is bound to respect. A new crop of young men are coming to the front there, which outnumbered all the Herods of the Confederacy.

Nice weather. Behind time this week, "slightly." Everything quiet in town, now-a-days. A cannon burst at Schome on the 4th; big scarce no hurtoe. For the probable cause of sleeplessness, Prev. III., first 3 words. A proper confession for an enterprising young grocer—Ecclesiastes XI. 7. The long and short of it—Johnathan and Edwards. The greatest contrast—Black and White. Distance—Long and Short. Our legal friend Mr. Nicoll informs us that the law business is looking up. Have you prepared your smoked glasses for the Eclipse? Now is the time. Olympians jubilant over the prospect of having their "big thing on wheels" completed by the 1st of Aug-uary. These hard times brings vividly to mind the words of the Psalmist; "Root hog or die." We understand that the Riverside Hotel will be re-opened before long. This will supply a want long felt in the upper part of the town. Even dog-bats feel the pressure of the hard times. The canines seem to have lost all enterprise. This is a "dog go'nd" shame. The Indians are committing fearful depredations east of the mountains, wantonly killing and mangling stock by the hundreds and thousands. When we see a man get the boot-jack to take off his hat, it sets us thinking; at any rate it indicates * * * "waser maser." They parted from the "River side," The moon (light) looked down on you and me; They did not pay "dat" little "Bill," And that's the trouble don't you see? "Boom sticks" were the subject of a law-suit before his Honor, Judge Haskell, a few days ago. The plaintiff in the action was represented by two amateur lawyers, but the "professional" who had charge of the defendant's side of the case was worsted. Such is life! Call and examine the stock of W. A. Jennings when in Seattle, it is the largest most complete and best of any stock in shoes and family groceries, and other lines in which it deals. First class goods and low prices is the rule. All goods delivered free to any part of the city and to all steamboats. Examine their list of specialties.

This office is under obligations to Col. Larrabee for papers containing full proceedings of the Constitutional Convention at Walla Walla. The Col. is active and enthusiastic in his attention to the work of forming a good State Constitution, and deserves well of his constituents.

When the stove factory was started at Puyallup no account whatever was made of the local market; but this is now so rapidly building up that two experienced coopers are kept busy all the time putting up barrels etc. for the local Sound market, when last there Fred. Oleson and A. Barnard were the gentlemen who had this business in charge.

There are few pleasanter men to trade with than Fred. Wusthoff of the new hardware store in Seattle, and there are none who have done more to introduce a very superior quality of the finest mechanics tools hardware etc. at reasonable rates than he has done. He has just received a very large stock of mechanics tools, logging, farming, milling and mining tools and machinery and is prepared to furnish to order every thing of this character. None who call need to come away dissatisfied.

J. L. Conner, the tide marsh farmer of La Conner informs us that over $20,000 annually is sent out of the country in the vicinity of that place for flour which can just as well be saved at home by raising their own wheat and having it ground at home; beside all this, there is almost an unlimited amount of wheat, barley and oats that could be ground into cut feed and readily sold at a good profit to the mill owners. To any good responsible man who will start a flouring mill at La Conner, with not less than two run of stone, Mr. Conner will not only give them a suitable mill-site, with plenty of water for steaming purposes, but will assist them liberally in other respects. Probably Messrs. Calhoun, Whitney, and other leading farmers would also liberally aid the enterprise—Who will improve this favorable opportunity?

The Indians.

According to official report, furnished by the Indian Office, there are in the United States 223,793 Indians, not including those in Alaska. In the number are included Indians in our own Territory, as follows: At Colville..... 3,457 At Lummi..... 940 At Neah Bay..... 808 At Nisqually and Puyallup..... 1,054 At Quinalt..... 311 At Skokomish..... 800 At Tulalip..... 2,900 At Yakima..... 3,650 Total..... 13,920

The city of Deadwood claims 6000 inhabitants, but it is doubtful if she has it, excepting on Sunday. That would be the best day on which to take the census, as men from all parts of the mining districts rush down to spend that day.

The Future of The United States.

It is not generally known, says a writer in the Coal Trade Journal, even in cultivated circles, that the amount of arable soil in America is greater than in Europe, Asia and Africa put together, and can therefore sustain more lives. This is no rash conclusion. I speak from a scientific basis, and I will show you what that basis is: Our continent is narrow, and therefore the winds of the ocean water it well. The mountain chains on the east side of the American continent are low; on the east side of the Old World are high. From this it results that the trade winds, laden with the wetness of the sea, are attracted to our land. The breadth of the Old World and its high eastern ranges cause the rainless interiors of Asia and Africa. Again, America is the land of fertile plains; the Old World of scorched plains. Our plains run north and south, and so attract and receive the rains. America is high under the equator, the Old World is wide; hence, with us a small surface is exposed to the scorching sun. The result is that the productive soil in the Old World is 10,000,000 square miles, and in the New, 11,000,000. Thus bursts upon us the fact that America can sustain a greater population than the Old World; and, if she can, it is unquestionable that she at some day will.

Too Much Marrying.

There is a young lady in the city who says she has more parents and step-parent's living than any one she ever heard of. This is the way she tells the story: "You know papa and mamma never could agree, and so finally they got divorced. I don't say whose fault it was, but mamma really did behave ugly sometimes, and even I could not get along with her. So when the separation came I went to live with papa. Shortly afterwards mamma married again, and papa was not long in following suit. I did not like it very well at first, but my step mother turned out to be first rate, and I got to like her splendid. Then papa seemed to get infatuated with another woman, and she wheedled around him until she made trouble, and the result was another divorce, and papa soon married the woman that made the trouble. When the second separation took place I went with my step mother, because I loved her and because my services were necessary to help take care of the baby. Then what does she do but go and get married. I declare I never saw so much marrying in my life. It only happened a little while ago, and my new step father—I suppose he is—treats me in a very kindly sort of way, as if he felt he couldn't help himself, but didn't exactly like it, and I don't like it a bit. I can't go back to mamma, because she is mad with me for going with pa in the first instance, and I can't go with papa because of that wheedling woman, and I can't bear to stay where I am. It is too bad that a girl should have a father and a mother and two step-fathers and two step-mothers all living at once, and not a home that I can feel at home in.—St. Louis Republican

The progressive Emperor of Brazil has caused to be abolished in the government College all requirements touching the religious opinions of the students. He also purposes to declare marriage a civil contract, remove all religious disabilities, and institute measures for the encouragement of European immigration. He is on the right track.

The people of Rome are now permitted to hold public meetings for the free discussion of national and political affairs. The rulers of the old world are gradually learning that the best safety-valve ever invented is the mouth of a discontented subject or citizen. It works to a charm.

From the annual announcement issued by the University of Washington Territory, we glean the following: The first term begins Sept. 2, 1878, and ends Nov. 29, 1878; the second term begins Dec. 2, 1878, and ends March 17, 1879; the third term will begin March 17, 1879, and ends June 13, 1879. The following is the faculty: A. J. Anderson, A. M., (president) Psychology and Mathematics; Mrs. L. P. Anderson, French and Elocution; A. T. Burnell, A. B., Latin and English; C. M. A little girl who was spending a few days with a farmer uncle, visited the barn-yard, and while looking at the well fed cows, remarked, "Why, uncle, just see; all the cows are chewing gum, aren't they?"

ACCIDENT.—A logger named C. C. Howard was fatally injured at the camp four miles from Freeport, in Cowitz Co. W. T., Friday July 12th. He with several others was engaged rolling logs down the runway into the river, and a Jam occurring about midway, a fifth log was sent flying down and striking the other it sent them with fearful velocity in every direction, and Howard who was below and cognizant of his danger found it impossible to escape, although he made the most strenuous efforts. One of the ponderous logs struck and threw him fiercely against a piece of timber injuring him fatally in the back. The unfortunate fellow lingered in much pain until Sunday, when he calmly passed away.—Bee.

If a cat doth meet a cat upon a garden wall and if a cat doth greet a cat, O need they both to squall? Every Tommy has his Tabby waiting on the wall, and yet he welcomes her approach with a yell and yawl. And if a kitten wish to court upon a garden wall, why don't he sit and sweetly smile and not stand up and bawl; and lift his precious back up high, and show his teeth and moan, as if 'twere colic more than love that made that fellow groan?

The latest triumph of Parisian novelty is the "Exhibition bouquet," a tiny artificial rose for the button-hole, with a crystal dew drop on one of the petals, and, on looking into the dewdrop, a miniature view of the Exhibition is discovered.

Secure Homes!

The best opportunity ever offered

—TO—

Secure Homes on easy terms that will soon be very valuable.

THE VALUABLE MUKILTEO TOWNSITE PROPERTY

Is divided into twenty-two strips of about nine acres each, extending back from near the water so as to include meadow and garden land already cleared, besides timber land on the bluff. Five of these fine Homesteads already sold. Credit will be given at low rates of interest to those unable to pay cash down. Also desirable property on the front for sale or lease on reasonable terms for business purposes. Bargains offered in tracts of 40 and 80 acres of land adjoining the Mukilteo townsite. The natural advantages of

MUKILTEO

Are not excelled by any other place on the Sound, for fishing, milling, ship-building or manufacturing purposes. All the steamers down the Sound to Snohomish, Whatcom and Island Counties, stop there going and returning; it is also on the direct route of ocean steamers up the Sound. There is also an excellent location for establishing of warehouses, from which to ship the products of Snohomish, Whatcom and Island Counties in deep water vessels. On these premises will also be sold a band of cattle, some thirty or forty head in all, thus affording those purchasing homes a chance to secure stock if they so desire.

In addition to the above, will be sold 320 acres of the finest marsh land in the Territory, known as the Hurley Ranch, with 20 acres of upland. This is only four miles from Snohomish City on

La GRANDE MARSH,

Well drained, not subject to overflow, soil extra fertile, dry and nearly ready for the plow. There is a wagon road to the premises, and products can be taken by this road or by boats from the premises to market. TERMS EASY. The best chance ever offered in the Territory to secure a fine farm. JUST THE LOCATION FOR A COLONY! as it can be subdivided into forty acre tracts, each of which will yield an abundant support for a family. Address

News Items.

Mrs. Bryam of Abingdon, Ill., is a cattle farmer, and last year she took premiums worth $1,150 at the fairs last Fall.

In the first three months of 1877 there were 2,858 failures in business of the United States. In the first three months of the present year the failures foot up 3,335. How is that for getting down to a solid basis of resumption.

Some one estimates that 20,000 Americans will visit Europe this summer and supposing that they will spend $1,000 each, the tidy sum of $20,000,000 of American money will be diverted to the enrichment of the "effete despotism".

The heavy rains in Southern California have greatly increased the prospects of a large crop of honey this year, in the various honey producing sections of that locality. The quantity will probably be largely in excess of that of any former season.

Near Somerset, Pa. the other day, Samuel A. Wilt, while digging a post hole, accidentally struck upon a large earthen vessel which contained twenty-seven hundred dollars in old gold and silver coins, principally Mexican dollars. The date of the newest coin is 1751.

The San Francisco Chronicle says the prospect at this time is that the present year will be, by millions of cents, the most productive of wheat and other cereals ever yet experienced by the farmers of California. The acreage of wheat is probably 35 to 40 per cent. greater than was planted in 1872, when our exports were 17,689,140 bushels, leaving a home supply of not less than 8,500,000 bushels for seed and bread. It is also probable that the yield per acre this year will average above that of 1872.

THE EXPENSE.—Potter's Investigating Committee promises to be an expensive concern. It has been asserted by an intelligent journal that it prosecutes its researches into all the details admissible under the resolution by which it was created, it will cost the country a million dollars. This however may be an over-estimate. Of course, there are questions which assume a magnitude far beyond all moneyed considerations. Whether or not this is one of them, is to be determined when the Committee gets through with its labors.

QUARTZ MINES NEAR SITKA.—The quartz mines in the mountains, not eight miles from Sitka are highly spoken of. Water and timber are both convenient and may both be had almost without price. In fact, there are experienced miners here who confidently predict that Alaska will ultimately yield more precious metals than both California and Nevada have. Coal, marble and galena abound, in addition to silver and gold. Along the Yukon river, the Indians make all their implements of war out of copper, which they dig up without difficulty. In fact the natural resources of Alaska are of immense value; all they need is to be developed under an efficient system of government.
