How to Raise Seedling Pears.

The following interesting article on Seedling Pears is taken from the last number of the California Culturist:

With very many who have made the attempt to raise seedling pears, or even pear stalks, from the seed, a great deal of disappointment has occurred. The failure, in many instances, without doubt is in consequence of the imperfect or poor seed, as the fact is well established that much of the seed of the pear that, upon inspection, appears perfect, never germinates. But probably the more general cause of failure is in the imperfect mode adopted by gardeners of starting their seeds.

The pear seems peculiar in one respect, for whilst apple seeds will germinate at almost any depth, from half an inch to six inches, if the ground be warm and moist; the pear will not, and probably fifty per cent. of all the pear seeds sown are lost by being covered too deeply. To the amateur, as well as the nursery grower of pear stalks, we commend the following for its reliability, emanating from one whose long and successful experience entitles it to the highest consideration:

Planting pear pips for the purpose of raising new varieties is a very interesting employment. Some eight inch pots should be kept at hand filled to within an inch of their rims with tolerably fine mold, and when a fine pear is eaten or one decays, the pips should immediately be planted in the pots about half an inch deep. A piece of perforated zinc or woven wire should then be placed over the pot, to keep out the mice and birds, and allow the rain to enter. The pots may remain out of doors all the winter. In March or April the young plants will make their appearance, the wire cover may then be removed, and as soon as the young plants have made six leaves they may either be potted into single pots and planted out in a rich border in May, or at once transplanted from the seed pot to the border. They will, if the soil be rich, each make a shoot from one to two feet in length the following season; this will make a graft or grafts, which should be grafted on strong stocks on the branches of bearing trees, and in a few years fruit may be expected.

The raising of pears from seed may be made much more interesting if the sorts from which they are raised be known; for this purpose only one kind should be sown in a pot, and its name placed with it. In a very few years they show their origin in their leaves and shoots, and seem to go in races. I have at this moment a number of seedlings raised from Ne plus Meuris; they nearly all look alike; some of them have borne fruit exactly like their parent; one or two, however, much larger, but unfortunately they ripened in October, and were not remarkably good. I have also a batch of seedlings from Beurre d'Aremberg; these, with one or two exceptions, are apparently of the same race; one of them bore some fine fruit the past season exactly like the Beurre d'Aremberg, but they ripened on the tree the first week in September, and were of the most delicious flavor, so that if an early pear of the same flavor were wanted it would be an acquisition. Seedlings from Passe Colmar and Glout Morceau retain their family likeness in their habits very remarkably, and this will account for many of the new pears being so much like our older varieties; there are some eight or ten new pears of the Passe Colmar race among our new sorts ripening at different periods, and nearly as many of the Glout Morceau tribe, among which Beurre Bachelier seems hardier than its parent; Victoria later, and so on. To me, a lover of pears, it is most interesting to watch the development of character in seedlings, and I beg earnestly to recommend the raising of them in the manner I have directed, to those of your readers who have leisure, a garden, and are gardening lovers. Disappointment must be expected, for a fine looking seedling pear will often prove anything but fine flavor. When young trees give their first fruit, the best method is to ask your friends to the first tasting, and then if they prove very bad indeed it gives occasion for a hearty laugh. I once had a seedling raised from Pearson's Incomparable, which was as large as a Catillac pear, or say a moderate-sized turnip, and of a bright orange color. I watched it with intense interest, and when it ripened invited my neighbors to the tasting; in doing so I think we all burst into a roar, for it was a horrid compound, in which acid and bitter and sweet struggled hard for the ascendancy. I have had other laughable adventures with seedling pears, but hope, in gardening matters never flags.

Horse Taming.

The English papers publish the following extract from Mr. Rarey's pamphlet:

In order to obtain perfect obedience from any horse, we must first have him fear us, for our motto is, Fear, love, and obey; and we must have the fulfilment in the first two before we can expect the latter. When you have entered the stable, stand still, and let your horse look at you a minute or two, and as soon as he is settled in one place, approach him slowly with both arms stationary, your right hanging by your side, and the left bent at the elbow, with your hand projecting. As you approach him, go not too near his head or croup, so as to make him move either forward or backward, thus keeping your horse stationary; if he does not move a little either forward or backward, step a little to the right or left very cautiously; this will keep him in one place.

As you get very near him, draw a little to his shoulder and stop a few seconds. If you are in his reach, he will turn his head and smell your hand; not that he has any preference for your hand, but because that is projecting and is the nearest portion of your body to the horse. This all colts will do, and they will smell your naked hand, just as quickly as they will anything that you can put in it, and with just as good an effect, however much some men have preached the doctrine of taming horses by giving them the scent of articles from the hand. As soon as he touches his nose to your hand, caress him, always using a very light, soft hand, merely touching the horse, always rubbing the way the hair lies, so that your hand will pass along as smoothly as possible.

As you stand by his side, you may find it more convenient to rub his neck or the side of his head, which will answer the same purpose as rubbing his forehead. Favor every inclination of the horse to smell or touch you with his nose. Always follow each touch or communication of this kind with the most tender or affectionate caresses, accompanied with a kind look and pleasant word of some sort, such as "Ho! my little boy—ho! my little boy!" "Pretty boy!" "Nice lady!" or something of that kind, constantly repeating the same words, with the same kind, steady tone of voice; for the horse soon learns to read the expression of the face and voice, and will know as well when fear, love, or anger prevails, as you know your own feelings; two of which, fear and anger, a good horseman should never feel, &c., &c.

Preserving Fruits.

An Ohio correspondent of the American Agriculturist prefers the use of wide mouth glass bottles in which to preserve fruits fresh. Instead of a cork, she uses new cotton cloth, cut into round pieces sufficiently large to well cover the neck of the bottle; and instead of sealing wax, she uses common rosin, melted with a little tallow, and carefully spread upon the cloth, which is to be placed over the mouth of the bottle, coated side down, then tied and coated on the outside. For cheapness and security she regards this as superior to any other mode. Late in the season, large stone jars, &c., are used in the same way to keep larger fruits.

The better animals can be fed, and the more comfortable they can be kept, the more profitable they are, and all farmers work for the profit.

Corn fodder is a valuable substitute for grass; and, if drilled in, yields three or four times the quantity per acre that grass does.

The Infant's Dream.

O! cradle me on thy knee, mamma,
And sing me the holy strain
That soothed me last, as you fondly pressed
My glowing cheek to your soft white breast;
For I saw a scene when I slumbered last
That I fain would see again.

And smile, as you then did smile, mamma,
And weep as you then did weep;
Then fix on me thy glistening eye,
And gaze, and gaze till the tear be dry;
Then rock me gently, and sing and sing,
Till you lull me fast asleep.

For I dreamed a heavenly dream, mamma,
While slumbering on thy knee;
And I lived in a land where forms divine,
In kingdoms of glory, eternally shine;
And the world I'd give, if the world were mine,
Again that land to see.

I fancied we roamed in a wood, mamma,
And we rested as under a bough;
Then near me a butterfly flaunted in pride,
And I chased it away through the forest wide,
And the night came on, and I lost my guide,
And I knew not what to do.

My heart grew sick with fear, mamma,
And I loudly wept for thee;
But a white-robed maiden appeared in the air,
And she flung back the curls of her golden hair,
And kissed me softly, ere I was aware,
Saying, "Come, pretty babe, with me."

My tears and fears she guiled, mamma,
And she led me far away;
We entered the door of the dark, dark tomb,
We passed through a long, long vault of gloom,
Then opened our eyes on a land of bloom,
And a sky of endless day.

And heavenly forms were there, mamma,
And lovely cherubs bright;
They smiled when they saw me, but I was amazed,
And wondering, around me I gazed, and gazed,
And songs I heard, and sunny beams blazed—
All glorious in that land of light.

But soon came a shining throng, mamma,
Of white-winged babes to me;
Their eyes looked love, and their sweet lips smiled,
And they marveled to meet with an earth-born child,
And they gloried that I from earth was exiled,
Saying, "Here, love, blest shalt thou be."

Then I mixed with the shining throng, mamma,
With cherub and seraphim fair;
And saw, as I roamed the regions of peace,
The spirits which came from this world of distress;
And there was the joy no tongue can express,
For they know no sorrow there.

Do you mind when sister Jane, mamma,
Lay dead, a short time agone?
Oh! you gazed on the sad and lovely wreck
With a full flood of wo you could not check,
And your heart was so sore, you wished it would break;
But you loved, and you ayre sobbed on.

But, O! had you been with me, mamma,
In the realms unknown to care,
And seen what I saw, you ne'er had cried,
Tho' they buried pretty Jane in the grave when she died;
For, shining with the blest, and adorned like a bride,
Sweet sister Jane was there.

Do you mind that silly old man, mamma,
Who came so late to our door;
And the night was dark, and the tempest loud,
And his heart was weak, but his soul was proud,
And his ragged old mantle served for his shroud
Ere the midnight watch was o'er?

And think what a weight of wo, mamma,
Made heavy each long-drawn sigh,
As the good man sat on papa's old chair,
While the rain dropped down from his thin gray hair,
And fast as the big tear of speechless care
Ran down from his glazing eye.

And think what a heavenward look, mamma,
Flashed through each trembling eye,
As he told how he went to the baron's stronghold,
Saying, "O! let me in, for the night is so cold!"
But the rich man cried, "Go, sleep in the world,
For we shield no beggars here."

Well, me was in glory, too mamma,
As happy as the blest can be;
He needed no alms in the mansions of light,
For he sat with the patriarchs, clothed in white;
And no seraph there had a crown more bright,
Nor a costlier robe than he.

Now sing, for I fain would sleep, mamma,
And dream as I dreamed before;
For sound was my slumber, and sweet was my rest,
While my soul in the Kingdom of Life was a guest;
And the heart that has throbbed in the climes of the blest
Can love this world no more!

MICKENOCK THE BRAVE.

One afternoon, in the spring of 1829, a young Indian, named Mickenock, of the Ottawa tribe, on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan, having engaged too freely in the use of fire drink, commenced a quarrel with and finally stabbed to the heart a son of one of the chiefs. Knowing that he must suffer by the hands of some one of the family, whose relative he had killed, he immediately collected his own family and fled into the woods. The chief and his sons at once commenced search for the murderer; no pains nor toil was spared to ferret out the hiding place of the unfortunate and guilty Mickenock; but the summer passed, the leaves began to fall, and no trace could be found of the murderer. Almost in despair, the old chief, burning to revenge the death of his son, looked about for some relative of Mickenock, upon whom he could satisfy this darling desire of the Indian heart; but no one could be found; all the family and blood relatives of Mickenock were with him in his hiding place.

Despairing at length of either finding his enemy or avenging himself upon any of the blood relations, the chief determined to avail himself of the privilege allowed by an Indian custom, and to avenge himself upon one of the relatives of the wife of the murderer. Mickenock, although effectually concealed from the old chief, was nevertheless conversant through some of his friends of all that was transpiring in the chief's wigwam; and so soon as he learned the chief's determination to avenge his son's death upon one of his wife's relatives, he immediately sent in word to the old chief's wigwam, that upon the day of the meeting of the council, which was then soon to be held, he would deliver himself to atone for the life of his son. The chief received the information with evident gratification.

A few weeks passed away, the great lodge was erected, and the council at length assembled. The chief communicated the intelligence which he had received from his son's murderer, and it was agreed that no business should be transacted until Mickenock should appear. The council sat in silence until about twelve o'clock, when suddenly the brave Mickenock bounded into the midst of the council, calmly surveyed the chiefs, and sat down in silence in the centre of the lodge; his wife and children immediately followed and formed a circle round him; then taking out his flint, he struck a spark, and lighted his pipe, and smoked it in silence; the eyes of all the council and his little family were fixed intensely upon him. At length Mickenock arose, and addressing himself to the chief, said, "I killed your son, he was a young brave, he did me no wrong, he was my friend. I drank the fire drink, the fire drink made me kill your son: Mickenock is very sorry, and deserves to die." Then turning to the oldest brother of the deceased he drew a knife from his bosom. "There," said Mickenock, "is the knife that drank the heart's blood of your brother; take it, like a brave man, and avenge your brother's death." This said, Mickenock instantly laid bare his whole heart. The brother spat upon his hand, clenched his knife with a death-grasp, and drew up his arm. Mickenock, pointing to the spot nearest his heart, gave the word "Strike." Instantly the brother plunged his knife to the hilt into the bosom of the brave Mickenock, who fell dead at his feet.

The wife and children of Mickenock beheld the whole scene, apparently without moving a muscle; but the moment he expired they all fell upon him, and embraced him, with sobs and tears, and groans, and wailing, which cannot be described, and altogether presented a picture of such unfeigned anguish and genuine sorrow as to overcome and melt every spectator of the scene.

After the wife and children of Mickenock had thus expressed their sorrow for half an hour, the old chief thus addressed her: "Wife of Mickenock, we are satisfied, your husband was a brave man—henceforth you are my daughter, and your children are my children; go into my wigwam, you shall be well treated, and live with me as my daughter; these children shall grow up around me, and shall be taught to be brave like their father."

Revolutionary Anecdotes.

Gov. Livingston, of New Jersey, harbored a suspicion (upon what foundation we know not) that Sir Henry Clinton had formed a plot for his assassination. Livingston, most unadvisedly, wrote to Clinton, accusing him of such a design, and added, by way of a deterring threat, that for every one he (Sir Henry) could find to execute the deed, he (Livingston) could command a dozen to assassinate him. Sir Henry laconically replied that he was happy to congratulate Gov. Livingston on his amiable associates.

During the war, Howley was Governor of Georgia. He was a rough-looking Irishman, and went upon crutches. Upon the invasion of that State by the British, the seat of government was removed from Savannah to Augusta. At that place was a young British officer, an Irishman by birth, on his parole. This officer, being a guest at one of the Governor's dinners, was drawn into a political discussion by his host. Now Howley was a great lover of raw gin, (that is, gin uncontaminated with water) drank nothing else at his table, and was the first to be drunk there. In the height of argument, and aided, no doubt, by the fumes of his favorite gin, Howley furiously exclaimed, "Don't talk to me. You are not my equal. I am the Governor of a sovereign State. Send your king to talk with me. For my part, I heartily despise your nation, and renounce it forever." Here the officer rose, and, bowing profoundly, replied, "In the name of all England I humbly thank you."

How to keep Tailors Honest.

The tailors of Inverness are an ingenious race of men, and fully as good craftsmen as their brethren in the south. We find, however, that their predecessors, a hundred years since, were somewhat suspected. In the letters of Captain Burt, written about the year 1730, it is mentioned as a "notable precaution against the tailors' purloining," that the following plan was adopted by the inhabitants:—"This is to buy everything that goes to the making of a suit of clothes, even to the stay-tape and thread; and when they are delivered out, they are together weighed before the tailor's face. And when he brings home the suit, it is again put into the scale, with the shreds of every sort, and it is expected the whole shall answer the original weight."

It has hitherto been customary, when a fellow is "corned," or "blue," or "fuddled," to say he is "tight." Now we protest against this abuse of the word. It has not a particle of applicability to the case in point. In sober truth, a drunken person is loose in the tongue, loose in the knees, loose in his clothing, loose in his morals, and loose every way you can fix it! Do call things by their right names.

A Battle Incident.

At the battle of the Thames, a laughable incident occurred, which is thus related by one who was in the engagement:

The British General had formed his men in order, with the cannon pointing down the road by which the Americans were advancing. Gen. Harrison took advantage of this, and ordered Col. Johnson's mounted regiment to charge at full speed, by heads of companies, (so as to expose the least possible front) pass through the open intervals, and form in the rear of the British force. The movement was brilliantly executed by the batallion, and under the command of Lieut. Col. Johnson, at the same time having the Indians with the other batallion.

It happened that in one of the companies under James Johnson's command there was a huge brawny fellow named Lamb; he weighed about two hundred and ten pounds, was a brave man, and good humored as good, as brave men proverbially are. Lamb had broken down his Kentucky horse by his great weight, and was mounted instead upon a short, stout, wild Canadian pony, from whose sides his long limbs suspended almost on the ground, while his burly frame rose high above the beast's, looking not unlike an overgrown boy astride a rough sheep.

When the charge was made, Lamb's pony took fright and broke into a run; Lamb pulled until the bit broke in the animal's mouth, and all command of him was lost. The little pony stretched himself to the work, dashed out of the ranks, soon outstripped all the file leaders, and pushed on in advance of the company. Lamb was no longer master of his horse or himself. If he rolled off, he would be trampled to death by his friends: if the horse rushed upon the British lines with him, so far ahead of the rest, he must inevitably be killed. Either way death seemed inevitable, and, to use his own expression, he thought he'd "jist say something they could tell his friends when they went home."

He struck both feet into his pony's flanks and urged him to his utmost speed. On they drove some fifty yards in front of the leading file, Lamb's gigantic person swaying from side to side, and his legs swinging in a most portentous fashion, the little Canadian "pulling foot" all he knew how, his ears thrown back, and his eyes flashing from under their shaggy foretop with all the spite and spleen of a born devil. Just as he got within a stride or two of the British, Lamb flourished his rifle, and roared out in a voice of thunder, "clear the way, for I'm coming!"

To his surprise the lines opened right and left, and he passed through unhurt. So great was their astonishment at the strange apparition of such a rider and such a horse moving upon them with furious velocity, that they opened mechanically at his word of command, and let him pass.

As soon as he gained the rear of their position, Lamb rolled on the grass, and suffered his pony to go his own road. A few minutes more, and he was with his comrades securing the prisoners.

More than a Match for a Robber.

In a Persian apologue, the lesson and benefit of SINCERITY are beautifully taught.

A mother, in giving her son forty pieces of money as his portion, made him swear never to tell a lie, and said: "Go, my son, I consign thee to God, and we shall not meet again till the day of judgment."

The youth went away, and the party he traveled with was attacked by robbers. One fellow asked what he had, and he said, "Forty dinars are sewed in my garment." The robber laughed, thinking he jested.

Another asked the same question, and received the same answer. At last the chief called and asked him, and he said: "I have told two of your people, already, that I have forty dinars sewed up in my clothes." The chief ordered his clothes to be ripped open, and found the money.

"And how came you to tell this?"

"Because," the child replied, "I would not be false to my mother, to whom I have promised never to tell a lie."

"Child," said the robber, "art thou so mindful of thy duty to thy mother at thy years, and am I insensible, at my age, of the duty I owe to my God? Give me thy hand, that I may swear repentance on it."

He did so. His followers were all struck with the scene. "You have been our leader in guilt," said they to the chief, "be the same in the path of virtue;" and instantly made restitution of spoils, and avowed repentance of the hand.

Religion was designed to regulate the every day life of those who profess to be its subjects. But in how many instances does the "fruit" of Christianity, as exemplified in the ordinary duties of men, utterly fail to commend the Gospel to those who never felt its power? "Is Mr. —— good?" asked a bank officer of a Director, the other day, in the hearing of a friend of ours. "That depends on whether you mean God-ward or man-ward," was the answer. "God-ward," continued the Director, "Mr. —— is good. No man in church is sounder in the faith, or prays oftener in our meetings, or is more benevolent, according to his means. But man-ward, I am sorry to say that Mr. —— is rather tricky."

What is Gentility?

If we were to venture an opinion on the subject, we would say that gentility is that deportment, whether at home, in society or in the street, which is the result of a desire to avoid saying or doing anything that could give offence to others. A strict observance of the law would undoubtedly secure for its observer the respect of all with whom he would be brought into contact, and in carrying it into practice, if he aim at the highest standard of gentility, he must consult the taste of the most refined and even the most fastidious, or else he may fall short of his object, and be considered as a gentleman by one set of persons and vulgar by another. A man who should act up to the following standard could hardly fail to be considered as a gentleman by everybody, although he might be considered by many as rather too much of one:

It is not genteel to swear.

It is not genteel to indulge in licentious conversation.

It is not genteel to talk loud in company, or at a public table.

It is not genteel to laugh loud.

It is not genteel to interrupt others in conversation.

It is not genteel to be quick and abrupt in talking.

It is not genteel to advance your opinions in a dogmatical and positive manner.

It is not genteel to attempt to give force to your assertions by hammering on the table or by any extraordinary gesticulation, as if you were infallible.

It is not genteel to put your mouth so close to the face of the person you are talking to as to incommode him with your breath, even though you may fancy it to have the odor of a nosegay.

It is not genteel to slam a door in going in or out of a room where there are other persons.

It is not genteel to take the wall of a lady in the street.

It is not genteel to carry with you into company the fumes of cigar smoke.

It is not genteel to smoke cigars in company, or to spit tobacco juice upon a carpet or into a nice fireplace.

It is not genteel to smoke cigars in the street, as some respectable looking strangers are often seen to do.

It is not genteel for tweedledum to turn up his nose at tweedledee in company.

It is not genteel to talk at concerts or lectures so as to prevent others from hearing.

It is not genteel to contradict others.

It is not genteel to lean back in a chair.

It is not genteel to rub your head, whilst seated on a sofa, against the newly papered wall of a parlor.

It is not genteel to stand before a fireplace and intercept the heat from others who are as cold as yourself.

It is not genteel in company to comb your hair with your fingers.

It is not genteel to talk in company more than your full share.

It is not genteel to stick your feet upon a chair or on a table.

It is not genteel to whistle or hum a tune in presence of strangers or ladies.

It is not genteel to laugh at the table, especially without any apparent cause.

It is not genteel to say or do anything in presence of others, which, if said or done by them, would offend your feelings or sense of propriety.

These are no sketches of fancy. They are pictures drawn from real life, and perhaps there is hardly a man that will not find one or more of the hints that will fit his case.

When Tamerlane had finished building his pyramid of seventy-thousand skulls, and was standing at the gate of Damascus glittering with steel, with his battle-axe on his shoulder, till his fierce hosts filed out to new victories and carnage, the pale on-looker might have fancied that nature was in her death throes; for havoc and despair had taken possession of the earth, and the sun of manhood seemed sitting in the seas of blood.

Yet it might be, on the gala-day of Tamerlane, a little boy was playing nine-pins in the streets of Mentz, whose history was more important to men than Tamerlane's. The Tartar-Khan, with his shaggy demons of the wilderness, passed away like a whirlwind, to be forgotten forever; and that German artisan has wrought a benefit, which is yet unmeasurable, expanding itself through all time. What are the conquests and expeditions of the whole corporation of captains, from Walter the penniless to Napoleon Bonaparte, compared with these moveable types of Johannes Faust?"

The leader of a musical band having taken great pains, but without effect, to teach a performer true time, observed in wrath that he murdered it. "And you, sir," observed the other, "eternally beat it; pray which is the worst?"

Among the writers of all ages, some deserve fame, and have it; others neither have nor deserve it; some have it, not deserving; others, though deserving, yet totally miss it, or have it not equal to their deserts.

In all waters there are some fish that have to swim against the stream; and in every community persons are to be found who delight in being opposed to everybody else.

PUGET SOUND HERALD.

STEILACOOM, W. T., FRIDAY, OCT. 22, 1858.

STEILACOOM—ITS ADVANTAGES, ETC.

The Alta California of a recent date contains a letter purporting to have been written in Steilacoom, Aug. 21st, which we cannot refrain from noticing. As it is under the head of "editorial correspondence," we presume it to be written by one of the traveling editors of that journal mentioned in this paper some weeks since. Our main purpose in calling attention to it is to correct some glaring errors into which the writer has unwittingly fallen respecting matters too well known here to be controverted by a stranger, whose information is obtained either from parties not qualified to give it, or is wrongly noted down at the time. At least one of them is attributable to the latter cause, as we shall show in its proper place.

The first error is contained in the statement that "Steilacoom is a port of entry." This is a bit of intelligence of which nobody here is cognizant. It is a port of delivery, and not a port of entry.

Error second is found in the following sentence:—"Connected with the post is a mile square of land, which has been leased by the U. S. Covernment from the Puget Sound Agricultural Company for ten years from the 1st January, 1859, at an annual rent of $20 000." Readers here will not fail to see at a glance errors both in the date and amount. The first is merely typographical, but the second was evidently noted down wrong, or confounded with something else. The gentleman from whom the writer obtained his information could not have given any such figure as $20,000, when he well knew the amount to be only $600. A moment's reflection must convince him of his mistake, when he considers, as he states below, that this land is valueless for cultivation, and at present it certainly possesses value for no other purpose. Surely he could not intentionally have written the above figure.

Another error consists in the statement that "nearly all the land within a circuit of ten miles of Steilacoom is a bed of pure gravel, which will never pay for cultivation." Upon the very poorest of the land of which he speaks, the Puget Sound Agricultural Co. have harvested twenty bushels of wheat per acre, repeatedly, as we are assured not only by members of that Company, but also by American settlers now occupying some of the same land. Much of the land condemned by the writer as worthless, for fertility is not surpassed in the world. Large tracts are found, within five miles of Steilacoom, which produce fifty bushels of wheat per acre, without previous preparation of the soil further than plowing. Nay, we are reliably informed, by a gentleman of the utmost integrity, and one well acquainted with the character of all the land in this country, that there is a larger quantity of fertile land in this county than in that of any other in the Territory. A correct judgment of the nature of a country, it is thus seen, cannot be formed by passing hastily through it on horseback, without diverging from the traveled road.

We will conclude by copying entire, with out comment, a paragraph in the letter on "Steilacoom's advantages:"—

Steilacoom aspires to become the great city of Puget Sound, and it has some important advantages. The first advantage is that it is really the head of navigation for large sailing vessels, the Sound above being comparatively narrow and crooked, so that the winds are prevented by the high banks from reaching the water, and the tides are so strong that large vessels are in danger unless they have a wind. Steilacoom lies about east-north-east from Olympia, and is therefore only about four miles farther from the southern part of the Territory. Its second advantage is that the harbor is very large and deep, and the shore steep, so that vessels of any size can come in close to the bank. Its third advantage is its proximity to the Nachess and Snoqualmie passes, in the Cascade mountains, through which passes there will be, at no distant day, a considerable travel to and from the eastern division of the Territory, especially when the rich and extensive auriferous region on the upper Columbia and its tributaries shall be filled with miners. There is now a good wagon road through the Nachess pass, made for military purposes by the U. S. authorities. The Snoqualmie pass is the better pass of the two, and Steilacoom is probably the best point from which to start to cross it, the route being over dry prairie covered with good grass; whereas the road from Seattle, though 5 or 6 miles shorter, is through dense timber, where the land is swampy and grass scarce. A fourth advantage is the vicinity of Fort Steilacoom, where a large amount of military stores are used, all having to be landed at Steilacoom, and thus going to increase its trade. The fort is also the centre of a number of military roads running north, east and south, all bringing tribute to Steilacoom. A fifth advantage is its position in a bend of the Sound, so that no railroad can pass it without passing through it.

A GOOD WIFE.

"She is a world of happiness," says Sir Thomas Overburry, "that brings with it a kingdom in conceit, and makes a perfect adjunct in society; she's such comfort as exceeds content, and proves so precious as cannot be paralleled, yea more inestimable than may be valued. She's any good man's better second self, the very mirror of true constant modesty, the careful housewife of frugality, and felicity. She commands with mildness, rules with discretion, lives in repute, and ordereth all things that are good or necessary. Her voice is music, her countenance meekness; her mind virtuous, and her soul gracious. She's a blessing given from God to man, a sweet companion in his affliction and joint co-partner upon all occasions. She's (to conclude) earth's chiefest paragon, and will be, when she dies, heaven's dearest creature."

It is very pleasant to observe how different modern writers and the inspired author of the book of Proverbs describe a fine woman; some, like Sir Thomas, agreeing in their descriptions with the inspired author, while others, of more modern date, find merit only in the woman of the world—of fashion. The former confine their praise chiefly to personal charms and ornamental accomplishment; the latter celebrates only the virtues of a valuable mistress of a family—of a useful member of society; the one is acquired with all the fashionable languages of Europe—the other opens her mouth with wisdom, and is perfectly acquainted with all the uses of the needle, the distaff and loom; the business of the one is pleasure, the pleasure of the other is business; the one is admired abroad, the other at home. Her children rise up and call her blessed, and her husband also praiseth her. There is no name in the world equal to this, nor is there a note in music half so delightful as the respectful language with which the grateful son or daughter perpetuates the memory of a sensible and affectionate mother.

Having said thus much, by way of preparing our bachelor friends for what is to follow, and reconciling them to the change which we would suggest in their social relations, without further remark we shall proceed to the point for which we started. Complaint has been made by several highly esteemed unmarried friends of the great dearth of marriageable females in our vicinity, and very truly. Many who are now wretched for want of comfortable homes, with "heaven's last best gift" presiding therein, would lose no time in allying themselves with the fair daughters of Eve, if they would but deign to favor us with their presence. There is probably in the Union no community of a like number of inhabitants, in which so large a proportion are bachelors. We have no spinsters.

The young men here seeking life-partners are every way fitted to assume the incidental responsibilities. They already, in many instances, have comfortable homes, which only lack the presence of females to render them in the highest degree attractive. There are probably not less than fifty bachelors in and near Steilacoom, nearly all of whom are eager to put their necks in the matrimonial noose. With few or no exceptions they are abundantly able to provide comfortable homes, and even to surround themselves with the luxuries of life. For good moral character they rank high; indeed, we may safely challenge any community of equal numbers in the world to produce the same proportion of young men so little tainted with vicious habits. It is in a great measure owing to their freedom from vice that they have now such ample means. We can and do conscienciously commend them to the notice and favor of the fair sex abroad. They would be considered very desirable matches in large cities.

Will not our cotemporaries in San Francisco and elsewhere notice this fact, and in pity help us to fill the void of which we complain? Having learned that San Francisco was recently visited by a large number of females, we hope the appeal is not made in vain.

Gov. McMULLEN.—Elsewhere will be seen an article from the Oregon Democratic Standard, reflecting severely upon Gov. McMullen for alleged attacks in the Federal Capital on the character and conduct of army officers in this country. The cudgel is so well handled by our cotemporary that we abstain from comment; resting content with merely inviting attention to it. It is a well merited rebuke, and we commend it to the perusal of all.

LOCAL MATTERS.—Absolutely nothing worthy of note has transpired in our bustling busy town during the past week. There has been neither a fight nor a drunken man visible to the naked eye; probably owing to the presence of the contractors for building the county jail, who are about to enter upon the work.

THE WAR ENDED.

It is with no little gratification that we are able to announce, as our readers will be rejoiced to learn, that the Indian war has been brought to a close. The force they brought into the field against Col. Wright has been repeatedly defeated, and finally dispersed; the hostile tribes engaged in the war have all, or nearly all, submitted, well satisfied of their inferiority; their leaders have been hung or shot, and they have given hostages for their future good faith. The campaign just closed has been a short but brilliant one, thanks to the efficiency of the officers in command. Too much praise cannot be accorded to Gen. Clark for his promptitude, foresight, and generous provision of men and means. The people of Oregon and Washington Territories owe him a debt of gratitude it would be difficult to over pay.

The following closing scenes in the war we copy from the Oregon Democratic Standard of the 13th instant:—

The troops of Col. Wright's columns have returned to Fort Walla Walla, and the Artillery Battalion under command of Captain Keyes is already in march on this post, en route for Fort Vancouver, where three companies will remain for the present; the other three companies will possibly be sent to California—that is, orders are issued directing such a movement.

After the troops had passed to this side of Snake River, on the morning of the 2d inst., the Yakima chief, Ouhi, father of Qualchin, having attempted to escape, was mortally wounded. Up to the time of his futile attempt, he had appeared contented with his duress, but seized the occasion when momentarily separated from the command, and in charge alone of Lieut. Morgan, 3d Artillery, to make a dash through the bushes. Morgan, however, followed him, promptly, and with three shots severely wounded him and his horse. At the same time Private Behn, of E troop, 1st dragoons, came up and gave Ouhi the coup-de-grace in the way of a shot through the head, from which he died in two hours.

Thus has perished another of the chief malcontents—and another summary, intelligible lesson has been taught to the Indian mind in relation to the consequences of resistance to our authority.

The remains of Capt. Taylor and Lieut. Gaston have been buried at Walla Walla with military honors.

The expedition has thus returned after so signally brilliant a campaign, with the loss of but two men—accidentally poisoned—and one dragoon horse and thirty-five mules.

From the quarter of Fort Simcoe we learn with pleasure of an occurrence of a moment—another link in the chain of successes. Michel, the nephew of Kamiakin, and leading murderer of Bolon, the Indian Agent, in 1855, has been captured by Major Garnett, and is now in the gaurd house at Fort Simcoe, soon, we trust, to expiate by the cord for that atrocious and eventful murder.

HIGH PRICES.—Those of our farmers who supply milk and butter are reaping a golden harvest. For milk the price is 75 cents per gallon, and for butter 75 cents per pound. These prices are very high—too high for this country, where the cost of keeping cows is as nothing, when compared with the cost in the Atlantic States. There, 20 cents is considered a good price for butter, and 8 or 10 cents per gallon for milk. Is it strange that our farmers get rich quick, on such prices?

OFF FOR FRAZER'S RIVER.—A paragraph in a Milwaukie (Wis.) paper of July 26th announces that a party left that place on that day for Fraser River. It says that "some of them are printers, and all of them are capable of finding a fortune, if it is there to be found. We hope they may all find favor with the fickle goddess. They go by the way of St. Paul, and have elected their officers, as follows: Captain, Robert Lundy; Pilot, J. Hogan; Commissary, Michael Welsh; Engineer, J. R. Busby.

"WHERE SHALL I DELIVER IT?"—Such was the anxious inquiry of one of Hartwell's Cambridge Express messengers, lately, as he received a parcel bearing the following superscription:—"Timothy O. Conner, No. 82 Eliate street, Boston, States of Massachusetts, for Timothy Murphy, please to deliver to Mrs. Lahy, North Cambridge, to be left at Porter's Hotel, Cambridge, Mass."

A boy at Watertown, N. Y., was left by his mother to watch his infant brother. The little thing cried, and he ran after the mother, but she did not choose to return with him. He ran after her a second time, and was again sent back alone. After a while the mother returned to her home, and there sat the boy upon a pillow, under which was the infant. The affrighted mother snatched the pillow away, but it was too late—the babe was dead. The boy, to silence its screams, had adopted this means.

HOME AGAIN.—Stephen and Paul Judson, who left Steilacoom at a very early period for the mines, returned home on Wednesday last. They received a cordial greeting from their friends.

THANKS.—Messrs. Joseph and Warren Sherwood, of North Bay, have our thanks for a small consignment of vegetables, for family use. They were very acceptable.

Gen. H. S. Foote is laboring under a painful affliction at the residence of a friend near Memphis, and fears are entertained that he cannot recover.

The Albany Statesman says, it is a curious fact, that every general officer in the American army of the revolution was a Free Mason, except Benedict Arnold.

A Kiss that Didn't Pay.

The Toledo Record gets off a good one in regard to a citizen of Iowa, whose wife, in his absence, had been kissed by a drover, while giving a glass of water. When he heard of the outrage he started at once in pursuit, found the drover after a hard day's ride, and accused him of the theft.

The drover admitted the truth of the soft impeachment—said he had been a long time from home, was sorely tempted, and in an unguarded moment of frenzy purloined the kiss, but that he had not damaged the woman in the smallest particular—was very sorry—thought it was no matter to make a great ado about, and therefore begged to be excused.

The husband finally concluded that this was the right view of the matter, and agreed to settle it upon the receipt of $5 for his day's ride. This being satisfactory, the drover handed over a $10 bill and received a $5 in change. But when the aggrieved benedict returned home and consulted his detector, he found the bill a counterfeit. He found he had suffered the indignity of having his wife kissed by a "nasty drover," passed one day in the saddle, and lost five dollars, and concluded that it didn't pay.

The Indianapolis Journal says a young woman in that city committed suicide by taking strychnine, giving as a reason that she had been in better circumstances and could not bear to be working in the kitchen for a living. Among her effects were found scraps of poetry, snatches of love songs, and eleven daguerreotypes, nine of which were of men.

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry,

THE BEST REMEDY EVER KNOWN

For Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Bleeding of the Lungs, Difficult Breathing, Pain or Weakness of the Breast or Side, First Stages Consumption, &c.

In short, this Balsam is peculiarly adapted to every disease of the Lungs and Liver.

Wild Cherry has long been known to possess important medicinal properties. This fact is familiar to every matron in our land, and Physicians often prescribe it in different forms for a variety of complaints. Tar also has been equally noted for its virtues; and some physicians, whose fame is familiar to the whole country, have gone so far as to declare that even Consumption could be cured by that alone. In other hands, again, it was nearly valueless, owing, no doubt, to their ignorance in preparing and administering it; a difficulty now entirely obviated by patient experience and long experiment.

The extraordinary medicinal powers possessed by these two substances are now, for the first time, combined and embodied in DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. By a nice chemical process, everything deleterious or useless is rejected, so that what remains is the most extraordinary and truly efficacious remedy for all kinds of pulmonary and liver diseases ever known to man.

CAUTION.—As there are many Counterfeits, look well at the signature before purchasing; take none unless the name of Sanford & Park is engraved on the outside wrapper—all others are base imitations.

Sold by all Druggists and country merchants.

NEW ARRIVAL.

P. KEACH,

HAVING JUST ARRIVED FROM SAN FRANcisco, per steamer Constitution, offers for sale, at the lowest cash prices, a large and well selected

STOCK OF GOODS,

Suited to the wants of farmers, miners, and the town trade. My stock is selected with care; and, as my expenses are very small, I am determined to sell goods cheaper for coin, dust, or country produce, than any other store on Puget Sound. Miners are particularly requested to call and price my goods before purchasing elsewhere, as I intend to give them a good deal of grub for a little dust.

Special Notices.

☞ Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters for Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Nervous or Chronic Debility, are very pleasant in taste and smell, and can be taken under any circumstances. In cases of Dyspepsia it acts like magic, strengthening the tone of the stomach, stimulating the digestive powers, and giving ruddy health to the cheek and brightness to the eye. In all cases of diseases of the stomach, whether acute or chronic, it may be recommended for its soothing, cordial and renovating influence. Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Nausea, Nervous Tremors, Relaxation, Debility, etc., are relieved by the Bitters in a very short space of time, and a perseverance in their use never fails to work a thorough cure. Every family should have Hostetter's celebrated Stomach Bitters. No article is so peculiarly adapted to our climate. Sold by Druggists, Hotels, and first-class saloons throughout California and Oregon.

CAUTION.—Buyers are particularly requested to beware of a spurious article manufactured and represented to be Hostetter's Bitters, which all who sell or use the genuine article can detect, as it is never sold by the gallon, but in square bottles containing a full quart, with the cork covered with a metallic cap, and name on cap and bottle, with directions for use.

PARK & WHITE, Sole Agents, to whom all orders should be addressed, 132 Washington st., San Francisco. 1-3m

☞ Dr. L. J. Czapkay.—We would direct the especial attention of invalids to a perusal of Dr. L. J. Czapkay's advertisement, to be found in another column of this paper, in order to place the services of a learned and experienced physician within their reach. So much ill has been inflicted on the human family from the pernicious and ignorant practices of empirics, that it seems as if we were fulfilling a bounden duty to make known where relief can be obtained. To those unfortunate enough to suffer from the effects of sexual or private diseases, or their ill-treatment, we cheerfully commend Dr. L. J. Czapkay as a man of rare scientific and medical acquirements, possessing all the requisites, from long experience and acknowledged skill, for the successful practice of his profession. Having made sexual complaints an especial study, like the celebrated Ricord, of Paris, he is enabled to guarantee a permanent and speedy cure in all cases of private or chronic disease, whether the effects of contagion, self-abuse, or loss of virility; and in order that patients at a distance may avail themselves of his advice, free consultation by letter is open to them. The knowledge that we have of the numerous cures he has effected some of which were of long standing, leads us to place much faith in Dr. C.'s efficacy, and commend him to the confidence of those in ill health. Dr. Czapkay's office is in Sacramento street, below Montgomery, nearly opposite the Pacific Mail Steamship Co's office, San Francisco. 26:3m

☞ Dr. Guysott's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, put up in quart bottles, contains more of the pure Honduras Sarsaparilla than any other preparation extant, which is chemically combined with the Extract of Yellow Dock and the Extract of Wild Cherry, thus making the remedy more thoroughly efficient than any other Sarsaparilla before the public. At the same time it is perfectly free from all mineral poisons, which cannot be said of any other of the Sarsaparilla compounds. The invalid should beware of mineral and metallic poisons, which enter into and form the active basis of most of the Sarsaparillas and Panaceas of the day. Guysott's Compound Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla does not contain a particle of these substances, as any one can ascertain by applying the necessary tests.

Let all poisonous Sarsaparilla preparations alone, and use Guysott's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, which is thoroughly efficacious, perfectly harmless, and purely vegetable. All kinds of disease yield to its genial influence.

As a purifier of the blood, and the various skin diseases, it has no equal.

Be sure and get the QUART BOTTLES, sold by druggists generally.

☞ For the Lungs, Coughs, Colds, &c., use Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

We regard the Wild Cherry tree as one of Nature's own physicians—a sort of Good Samaritan of the Forest—for its "medical gum" has relieved the sufferings and saved the lives of thousands. The Balsam prepared by Dr. Wistar, is a pure and perfectly reliable preparation of the real Cherry essence, and it is a remedy by no means "bad to take." We speak confidently and strongly in its praise, from having witnessed its restoring influence in consumptive cases, when all other prescriptions had proved of no effect.

Be cautious, as there are many counterfeits. Look well at the signature before purchasing. Take none unless it has the name of "Henry Wistar, M.D., Philadelphia," and "Sanford & Park," engraved on the outside wrapper. All others are base imitations.

Hostetter—The surprising effects of Hostetter's Vegetable Stomach Bitters, in removing bile, forcing an appetite, imparting health and tone to the system, and dissipating dyspeptic symptoms, are truly wonderful. Every nervous, debilitated, weak and emaciated person, male or female, should try it at once. One wine-glassfull, taken three times each day, before meals; or, if the patient should be a lady or child in a debilitated condition, half the quantity will do until sufficient strength is restored, which will be realized in a very short time, and convince the patient of the truth of the above named happy results, which have gained for these Bitters such an enviable reputation everywhere.

PUGET SOUND HERALD.

STEILACOOM, W. T., OCT. 22, 1858.

GOV. McMULLEN AND THE ARMY.

This officer, now sojourning at the Federal Capital, and consequently absent from his post of duty in Washington Territory, is reported in some of the papers from the east as having indulged himself in the severest animadversions on the army officers stationed in this part of the country, which raise the most unpleasant issues of fact with that gentleman, and place the officers alluded to in a seemingly unenviable position. We indulge the hope that the newspaper statements mentioned may turn out to be incorrect, as far as Gov. McMullen may be concerned, yet the grave character of the charges alluded to, the somewhat important position of the officer making them, and the hitherto irreproachable and unreproached character of the gentlemen affected by these sweeping denunciations, demand at the hands of the press something more than a passing notice. If, from any cause, Gov. McMullen has so stooped, and has maligned the names of the army officers stationed in Washington and Oregon Territories, we will say that the spirit that dictated the malevolent stab, and the circumstances under which it was inflicted, exhibit a degree of mendacity, the parallel of which we have seldom known. If there be grades and degrees of foolish malice, it could be said, that that was the more honorable and manly which sought its object in the open day, and that the species of spite which slaked its vengeance in the absence, and behind the back, of its adversary, was, of all human turpitude, the most despicable and revolting. The latter is the spirit and impulse which nerves the arm of the assassin. If these charges were made, they were uttered where, from the surroundings of the libeller, the most damage could be done to the persons against whom the shafts were directed, and where, from the physical impossibility of an early reply, and refutation, the full intended evil would have been wrought before a disavowal or denial could be heard; and hence serious, if not irreparable, injury would be inflicted on the characters of gentlemen and to the army service itself, and with no chance of answering. If these charges were true—which they are not—the most ordinary form of the cheapest gentility would seem to require that, owing to the importance of the positions of the gentlemen assailed, fair notice should have been given of the character and scope of the specifications, to whom uttered, and the field where the issues were to be met, and failing to do which, the mind unpleasantly concludes that the lesser spirit of spleen impelled the blow, which avoids being answered in kind.

If there are officers in the army to whom these accusations would apply, they should have been designated specially. If there are officers who are innocent, justice, humanity, and the most meagre charity peremptorily required that they should have been specially excepted. As the only reply we see proper to make at this time to these assertions of McMullen's, we say that they are known to be entirely groundless and utterly false, by every informed man in that Territory, the executive duties of which Gov. McMullen has never satisfactorily discharged. There are blows to give as well as blows to receive. If the officers of the army have been as regardless of their duties as has the Executive of Washington Territory, then we say that every one of them should be cashiered and turned out of the army at once. If they have comported themselves in their respective stations with no more appropriate and fitting dignity than has that Executive, then indeed does the service merit, and will assuredly receive, the scorn and contempt of every right-minded man.

To illustrate, we point with pride to the conduct of Col. Wright, Major Garnett, and other brave officers, who have so signally distinguished themselves, in the recent Indian campaign, in contrast with the official behavior of Gov. McMullen, during the time he has been the Executive of Washington Territory. Have these officers shown themselves inefficient? have they ever abandoned their duty? has either of them made a pilgrimage to the other side of the continent, when duty called them here? On the contrary, have they not at all times shown themselves efficient, trustworthy, prompt, and in all things faithful? We do not choose to further refer to the record Gov. McMullen has made for himself in this country. It is sufficiently well known to the inhabitants of the Territory he was imported to govern.

Yet, Maj. Garnett, Col. Wright and others are embraced in this bill of accusations filed at the Federal city by a Governor, and filed, too, at a time when they were engaged in subduing a foe, the implacable and relentless foe of the very people so much blessed with such a Governor, who performs his duty to them at a distance of three thousand miles!—[Democratic Standard.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.—PROSPECTUS.

Volume Fourteen begins Sept. 11, 1858.

MECHANICS, INVENTORS, MANUFACTURERS and Farmers—The Scientific American has now reached its Fourteenth Year, and will enter upon a new volume on the 11th of September. It is the only weekly publication of the kind now issued in this country, and it has a very extensive circulation in all the States of the Union. It is not, as some might suppose from its title, a dry abstruse work on technical science; on the contrary, it so deals with the great events going on in the scientific, mechanical and industrial worlds as to please and instruct every one. If the Mechanic or Artisan wishes to know the best machine in use, or how to make any substance employed in his business—if the housewife wishes to get a recipe for making a good color, &c.—if the inventor wishes to know what is going on in the way of improvements—if the manufacturer wishes to keep posted with the times, and to employ the best facilities in his business—if the man of leisure and study wishes to keep himself familiar with the progress made in the chemical laboratory, or in the construction of telegraphs, steamships, railroads, reapers, mowers and such other machines and appliances, both of peace and war—all these desiderata can be found in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, and not elsewhere. They are here presented in a reliable and interesting form, adapted to the comprehension of minds unlearned in the higher branches of science and art.

TERMS—One copy, one year, $2; one copy, six months, $1; five copies, six months, $4; ten copies, six months, $8; ten copies, twelve months, $15; fifteen copies, twelve months, $22; twenty copies, twelve months, $25, in advance.

Udolpho Wolfe's Schnapps.

A Medicinal Diet Drink, of eminently salutary qualities, manufactured by him exclusively, at his factory at Schiedam, in Holland, and well known during the last twelve years throughout the Atlantic and Western Seas.

It is made from the best Barley that can be selected in Europe, with the essence of an aromatic Polish berry, of acknowledged and extraordinary medicinal qualities. It has long since acquired a higher reputation, both in Europe and America, than any other beverage.

DYSPEPSIA, it is a FRAGRANT PURE Liquor, in its effects a mild and wholesome tonic. It is extensively used and approved by the medical faculty, the temperance people, heads of families, &c.

In Gravel, Gout and Rheumatism, in Obstructions of the Bladder and Kidneys, and in general Debility, its effects are prompt, decided, and invariably reliable. And it is not only a remedy for those maladies, but, in all cases in which they are produced by drinking bad water, which is also at universally the cause of them, it operates as a sure preventive.

For Fever and Ague it is one of the most efficacious preventives that can be resorted to.

The Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps

Is consequently in great demand by persons traveling, or about to settle in those parts of the country especially, as well as by many in every community where it has become known on account of its other remedial properties.

In all cases of Dropsical tendency, it is generally the only remedy required, when adopted in the early stages of the disease. In Dyspepsia maladies, when taken in proper quantities, as a diet drink, and especially at dinner, it is found, by universal experience, to be eminently efficacious in the most obstinate cases, when even the best of the usual remedies have failed to afford more than temporary relief. In cases of Flatulency it is an immediate and invariable specific; and it may be administered in diluted and proportionate quantities even to young infants, in all those paroxysms of griping pain in the stomach and bowels to which they are especially subject, as well as in the choicest grown persons.

For judicious adoption in connection with the principal meals, or when a sense of exhaustion dictates its use, never fails to relieve the debility attendant upon protracted chronic maladies, low temperament and exhausted vital energy, by whatever cause induced. These are facts to which many of the most eminent medical men, both in Europe and the United States, have borne testimony, and which are corroborated by the highest written authorities.

Put up in quart or pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with my name on the bottle, cork, and fac simile of my signature on the label.

LONDON CLUB HOUSE GIN.

To the Public.

THIS celebrated Gin—pretending to nothing but what it is, viz: a pure and unadulterated article, and assuming no artificial merits of what it is not, as some of its rival imitators do—after eight years of public approval and very extensive sales in the cities of New York, Philadelphia, Boston and the Western cities, has been pronounced by the public, as well as by the best medical and scientific authorities throughout the United States and the Canadas, to be superior, and only as a beverage of general use, to any other article competing against it, but is unequalled in its medicinal efficiency in all classes of complaints. To persons traveling in these days of rapid transit from East to West, North to South, and more particularly to those crossing the Isthmus, and who are constantly changing their water as well as their climate—who are drinking, indeed, a dozen kinds of water in every twenty-four hours, such a draught containing some property acting in chemical antagonism to the preceding one, thereby causing an unnatural degree of excitement to the stomach—it is positively and absolutely necessary to use a counteracting agent. From the fact that this article is prepared expressly to meet such exigencies, and to act, as we know it will act, as an antidote, we confidently prescribe it as the very best article in the country. The name of Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps has never been attached in any way to this article.

The London Club-House Gin

Requires none of the usual "caution to the public" to beware of counterfeiters; it being, like all other genuine articles, beyond the base art of counterfeiting.

The London Club-House Gin

Is an antidote to the horrible adulteration to which every thing alcoholic is submitted—the noxious poisons made up and sold as AROMATIC SCHNAPPS, &c.

The London Club-House Gin

Requires no "word of advice," no "caution to the public." Those who once drink it find security in its virtues against the vicious temptations of drinking any of its vile imitations. Even under "advice;" while those who "caution the public" against counterfeiters have themselves been cautioned by the public to beware of any but THE LONDON CLUB-HOUSE GIN

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, MASS., April 17th, 1858.

WM. H. DALY, New York:

DEAR SIR—I have made a chemical analysis of your "Aromatic Valley Whisky," and find it a pure, fine-flavored Rye Whisky, containing no injurious matter of any kind, and recommend it as suitable for medical and public purposes.

CHARLES T. JACKSON, M.D.,
State Assayer.

NEW YORK, April 19th, 1858.

I have analyzed a sample of "Daly's Aromatic Valley Whisky," and find it to be a pure article, of fine flavor, and without any deleterious admixture.

JAMES R. CHILTON, M.D., Chemist.

WM. H. DALY, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—Your "Aromatic Valley Whisky" is received, and, after careful examination, I find it to be a pure article, entirely free from the adulterating ingredients so frequently used.

NOTICE
To the Consumers of
CLUB HOUSE GIN!

The great reputation of Daly's Old
LONDON CLUB HOUSE GIN,

In consequence of its superior and uniform quality, has induced other parties to import, and also to put up in this market, an inferior article of Gin, branded

"LONDON CLUB HOUSE."

We caution consumers against purchasing any of these brands of Gin for the genuine. Each case of the genuine article is branded

"Old London Club House Gin, Wm. H. D."

The name of J. T. DALY is also blown in each bottle; none other being genuine.

Miscellany.

A clown walked up leisurely to the stall of those small traders who furnish canal tourists of limited means with 'wittles and drink,' and just as he was on the point of vending a large lot of sausages to a hungry looking traveller, which was to last till his arrival at Buffalo, the clown aforesaid looking suspiciously at the article, and addressing the seller: 'Is them good sassengers?'

'Yes them are good sausages, you ignorant ramus. You would like to keep me from selling 'em if you could fix it that way, I don't doubt.'

'No I wouldn't,' responded the vagabond. 'I don't know nothing 'special about them sassengers, they may be good sassengers, for aught I know to the contrary; I don't say they ain't good sassengers, not I upon my honor; all I do say is, that wheresomever you see them kind of sassengers you don't see no dogs!'

'I guess, on reflection,' said the traveler, 'that I won't negociate for them are articles. The man's last remark has gi'n me a dislike to 'em.'

A clergyman in Connecticut was reading to his congregation the beautiful and poetic Psalm of David where he says:

'Mercy and Truth are met together; Righteousness and Peace have kissed each other.'

At this point a little girl in the assembly manifested great interest, and whispered to her mother:

'That's as true as you live. I saw Righteous Hill kiss Grace Peabody behind the smoke-house, but how did the minister know it?'

Mr. Curran, the late celebrated Irish advocate, was walking one day with a friend who was extremely punctilious in his conversation; hearing a person near him say curosity for curiosity, he exclaimed, 'how that man murders the English language!'

'Not so bad,' replied Curran, 'he has only knocked an eye out!'

A gentleman was once making fun of a sack that a young lady wore. 'You had better keep quiet,' was the reply, 'or I will give you the sack.'

'I should be most happy,' was the gallant response, 'if you will give it to me as it is, with yourself inside of it.'

Snooks asked, the other day, why the people who were at the fire at Pratt's hat store were like the hats that were burnt?

'I give it up,' said Swipes.

'Because they lost nap.' 'Pshaw!' answered Swipes, 'that joke's too fur fetch'd.'

'Your house is on fire,' said a stranger rushing into a parlor of a sober citizen.

'Well, sir,' was the answer of the latter, 'to what cause am I indebted for the extraordinary interest which you take in the affairs of my house?'

'Here,' said the librarian of an apprentices' library, 'here's a book which will set you a thinking.'

'Lord bless you,' replied the hard worked mechanic, 'I want something that will keep me from thinking.'

'Please sir, I don't think Mr. Dosem takes his physic regular,' said a doctor's boy to his employer.

'Why so?'

'Cause he's getting well so precious fast.

An Irishman was once brought up before the magistrates for marrying six wives. The magistrate asked him how he could be so hardened a villain? 'Please your worship,' says Paddy, 'I was trying to get a good one.'

A schoolboy being asked by his teacher how he should flog him, replied, 'If you please, sir, I should like to have it upon the Italian system of penmanship, the heavy strokes upwards, and the down ones light.'

A very small pattern of a man lately solicited the hand of a fine buxom girl. 'Oh no,' said the fair lady, 'I can't think of it for a moment. The fact is, Tommy, you are a little too small to put in a bed.'

First boy—'Say, Bill, then you're getting a dollar a week now.'

Second boy—'Well, you might know that by seein' all the fellers come soapin' around me that wouldn't a noticed me when I was poor.'

We have been told of a blind young lady who lately discarded her lover because a confidential friend informed her that the young man squinted.

Babies were described, many years ago, as noisy, lactiferous animalcule, much desired by those who never had any.

A young lady being asked why the noun bachelor is singular, replied, 'because it's very singular they don't get married.'

There is a good reason why a little man should never marry a bouncing widow. He might be called 'the widow's mite.'

It is said that the 'pilliars' of liberty are stuffed with the feathers of the American eagle.

'Ned has run away with your wife,' said one friend to another. 'Is it possible?—I truly pity his sad mishap!'

Mr. Dubois is so skeptical that he won't believe even the report of a cannon.

Nothing checks the play of the imagination more effectually than empty pockets.

'Here's to internal improvement,' as Dobbs said when he swallowed a dose of salts.

Human existence hangs upon trifles. What is beauty without soap?

A church is expected to last long if its sleepers are sound.

Punch says 'a secret warranted to keep in any climate is a woman's age.'

Leonard Scott & Co.'s
REPRINT OF THE BRITISH PERIODICALS.
—AND THE—
"Farmer's Guide."
Great Reduction in the price of the latter Publication.
LEONARD SCOTT & CO., New York, continue to republish the following BRITISH PERIODICALS, viz:
1. The London Quarterly, (Conservative.)
2. The Edinburgh Review, (Whig.)
3. The North British Review, (Free Church.)
4. The Westminster Review, (Liberal.)
5. Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, (Tory.)

These Periodicals ably represent the great political parties of Great Britain—Whig, Tory, and Radical; but politics form only one feature of their character. As organs of the most profound writers on Science, Literature, Morality, and Religion they stand as they have ever stood unrivalled in the world of letters, being considered indispensable to the scholar and the professional man, while to the intelligent reader of every class, they furnish a more correct and satisfactory record of the current literature of the day, throughout the world than can possibly be obtained from any other source.

Early Copies Secured.
The receipt of Advance Sheets from the British publishers gives additional value to these reprints, especially during the present exciting state of European affairs, inasmuch as they can now be placed in the hands of subscribers about as soon as the original editions.

Terms:
For any one of the Four Reviews, per annum.....$3 00
For any two of the four Reviews, " " 5 00
For any three of the four Reviews, " " 7 00
For Blackwood's Magazine, " " 4 00
For Blackwood and the three Reviews, " 9 00
For Blackwood and four Reviews, " 10 00
☞ Payments to be made in all cases in advance. Money current in the state where it is received will be received at par.

Clubbing.
A discount of twenty-five per cent from the above price will be allowed to clubs ordering direct from Scott & Co., for four or more copies of any of the above. Thus four copies of Blackwood, or of one Review, will be sent to one address for $12; for copies of the four Reviews and Blackwood for $30; and so on.

Postage.
☞ In all the principal cities and towns, these works will be delivered FREE OF POSTAGE. When sent by mail, the POSTAGE to any part of the United States will be but 24 cents a year for "Blackwood," and but 14 cents a year for each of the Reviews.

Splendid offers for 1856 and 1857 together.
Unlike the more ephemeral Magazines of the day, these Periodicals lose little by age. Hence a full year of the Nos. (with no omissions) for 1856, may be regarded nearly as valuable as for 1857. We propose to furnish the two years at the following extremely low rates, viz:

For Blackwood's Magazine, - -	4 50
For any one Review, - -	4 00
For any two Reviews, - -	6 00
For Blackwood and one Review, -	7 00
For Blackwood and two Reviews,	9 00
For three Reviews, - - -	8 00
For Blackwood and three Reviews,	12 00
For the four Reviews, - -	11 00
For Blackwood and the four Reviews,	14 00

*To avoid fractions, $5 may be remitted for Blackwood, of which we will forward that work for both years, post paid.

N. B. The price in Great Britian of the five Periodicals above-named is about $31 per annum.

As we shall never again be likely to offers such inducements as those here presented,
NOW IS THE TIME TO SUBSCRIBE!!
☞ Remittances must, in all cases, be made direct to the Publishers, for at these no commission can be allowed to Agents.

THE FARMER'S GUIDE to Scientific and Practical Agriculture. By Henry Stephens, F. R. S., of Edinburgh, and the late J. P. Norton, Prof. of Scientific Agriculture in Yale College, New Haven; 2 vols. royal octavo; 1600 pages, and numerous wood and steel engravings.
This is confessedly the most complete work on agriculture ever published, and in order to give it a wider circulation, the publishers have resolved to reduce the price to five dollars for the two volumes
When sent by mail (post paid) to California and Oregon, the price will be $7. To every other part of the Union and to Canada (post paid) $6. ☞ This work is not the old "Book of the Farm."
Remittances and communications should always be addressed, post paid, to the publishers.

BROOKLYN HOTEL,
Corner of Broadway and Sansome streets,
SAN FRANCISCO.
THE PROPRIETOR OF THIS WELL known and old established house is still at his old tricks of feeding the public at the low price of Six Dollars per week, and still they come to partake of his good and well furnished table; and as Mr. Kelly is one of the pioneer hotel keepers of this city, he pledges himself that there will be nothing wanting at his house to make the public comfortable.
The house is centrally located, in the vicinity of the Custom House, Post Office, and also of the up river and ocean steamers.
The house contains a number of single and family rooms, well ventilated, suitable for ladies and single gentlemen.
There is also attached to the house a READING ROOM, and a LIBRARY which contains a large number of reliable standard works. There is also, at the arrival of each steamer, which belongs to the house, to convey passengers and baggage, free of charge. The public are respectfully requested to give the house a trial.
A WAGON,
Board, per week, $6; per day, $1; Meals, 50 cents; Lodging, per night, 50 to 75 cents; Lodging, per week, $2 to $4.

San Francisco, Dec. 26, 1857. 1 3m

WASHINGTON HOTEL,
Corner of Main and Second streets,
OLYMPIA, W. T.
SILAS GALLIHER, Proprietor.
THE PROPRIETOR HAS RECENTLY ERECTED, IN CONnection with and as a part of the "Washington Hotel," a large two story building, 20 by 60 feet, by which he is enabled to provide the travelling public with a larger number of capacious, comfortable and excellently ventilated apartments than can be afforded by any other public house in Washington Territory. An idea of his ability to accommodate the public may be judged from the fact that the hotel contains twenty-five private rooms, (exclusive of family apartments) six of which are large drawing rooms or parlors.
Thankful to the public for the liberal patronage heretofore extended to the proprietor, and having thus enlarged upon his former business, he feels confident he can render the sojourn of strangers with him comfortable and pleasant, and no pains shall be spared to set his table as well as any in like business. Beds and bedrooms furnished to such as may desire them.
Board by the day and week.
A good stable is attached to this establishment, which will be amply supplied with forage for the accommodation of animals of the traveling public.
A share of public patronage is respectfully solicited.

The Greatest Discovery of the Age.
GREAT BLESSING TO MANKIND - INNOCENT BUT POTENT.
Dr. L. J. Czapkay's PROPHYLACTICUM, (self disinfecting agent) a sure preventive against Gonorrhœa and Syphilitic diseases, and an unsurpassed remedy for all venereal, scrofulous, gangrenous and cancerous ulcers, foetid discharges from vagina, uterus and urethra, and all cutaneous eruptions and diseases. For sale at Dr. L. J. Czapkay's office, Sacramento street, nearly opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s office, San Francisco. As inoculation is a preventive against small pox, so is Dr. L. J. Czapkay's Prophylacticum a preventive against syphilitic and gonorrheal diseases. Harmless in itself, it possesses the power of chemically destroying the syphilitic virus, and thereby saving thousands of young debauchees from being late fed by the most loathsome of all diseases. Let no young man who appreciates health be without Dr. Czapkay's Prophylacticum. It is in very convenient packages, and will be found convenient to use, being used as a soap. That disease can be prevented by the use of proper agents, is as well an established fact as that it can be cured after its establishment. The principle, which is now universally recognized, was received even before the days of Jenner, the discoverer of vaccination in 1796, and its multiplied benefits ever since have received, as they deserved, the attention of the medical faculty. It was in pursuit of this branch of the medical science that Dr. L. J. Czapkay fortunately made the discovery of his Prophylacticum, which, for the prevention of syphilitic, gonorrheal, cancerous and cutaneous disorders, stands unrivalled by any agent in the Pharmacopœia. The effect of this agent, after coition, is immediate, and removes the possibility of a contraction of disease. If, however, the disease has been contracted, it is useful in neutralising the poisonous secretions which by absorption produce the horrid consequences known as secondary syphilis. It has been administered by the Doctor in many thousand cases, and he has yet to find the first in which it has failed to subserve the purpose for which it was administered. Price, $5. Full directions are attached to each package. In cases where the Prophylacticum is used as a curative, Dr. Czapkay will furnish gratis a prescription for his Blood Purifier.
All communications from the country, addressed only to Dr. L. J. Czapkay, San Francisco, will be strictly and confidentially attended to, and the remedies, with the greatest care and secrecy, immediately despatched by express or other conveyance to their destination.

TO THE AFFLICTED.
DR. L. J. CZAPKAY returns his sincere thanks to his numerous patients for their patronage, and would take this opportunity to remind them that he continues to consult at his Institute for the cure of chronic diseases of the Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, digestive and genital organs, and all private diseases, viz: Syphilitic ulcers, gonorrhœa, gleet, strictures, seminal weakness, and all the horrid consequences of self abuse, and he hopes that his long experience and successful practice of many years will continue to ensure him a share of public patronage. By the practice of many years in Europe and the United States, and during the Hungarian war and campaign, he is enabled to apply the most efficient and successful remedies against diseases of all kinds. He uses no mercury charges moderate, treats his patients in a correct and honorable way, and has references of unquestionable veracity from men of known respectability and high standing in society. All parties consulting him, by letter or otherwise, will receive the best and gentlest treatment, and implicit secrecy.

Suffer not when a Cure is guaranteed in all stages of Secret Diseases.
Self abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages, Strictures, Gleets, Gravel, Diabetes, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Mercurial Rheumatism, Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles, Diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Nose and Eyes, Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus's Dance, and all diseases arising from a derangement of the Sexual Organs,
Such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, general Weakness, Dimness of Vision with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Disease, Eruption upon the Face, Pain in the Back and Head, Female Irregularities, and all improper discharges of both sexes. Inmates not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines prescribed are pleasant, without odor, entirely vegetable, causing no sickness, and free from mercury or balsam. During fifteen years of practice, in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands who, in the last stages of the above mentioned diseases, had been given up to die by their physicians, which warrants me in promising to the afflicted who may place themselves under my care a perfect and speedy cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of Consumption, Scrofula, and many other diseases, and should be a terror to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected; a majority of the cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure the disease, but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which, with the disease, hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption.
But should the disease and treatment not cause death speedily, and the victim marries, the disease is entailed upon the children, who are born with feeble constitutions, and the current of life corrupted by a virus which betrays it self in scrofula, tetter, ulcers, eruptions, and other affections of the skin, eyes, throat and lungs, entailing upon them a brief existence of suffering, and consigning them to an early grave.
Self abuse is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the system, drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system, rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage and business, and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind, predisposed to consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of Self-abuse that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected, and, with the abandonment of ruinous practices, my patients can be restored to robust, vigorous health
Irregularities and all diseases of males and females treated on principles established by fifteen years of practice and sanctioned by thousands of the most remarkable cures. Medicines, with full directions, sent to any part of California, Oregon and Washington Territories, by patients communicating their symptoms by letter. Business correspondence strictly confidential.
