FROST BITTEN.

We were riding home from the Carroll's ball, Nelly Sansanger and I, you know;

Her fair lips drooped, her lids were low, and her dreamy eyes were full of rest.

Her white arms nestled along her lap, Her hands half holding, with weary grace, Her faded violets, a passive prey.

Was the far-off look on her fair young face, I watched her, speaking never a word, For I would not waken those dreamy eyes;

But the breath of the violets filled the air, And my thoughts were many and far from wise.

At last I said to her, bending near: "Ah, Nelly Sansanger, sweet 'twould be To ride together our whole lives long, Alone with the violets, you and me."

Her fair face flushed and her sweet eyes fell; Low as the number of meadow rills, Her answer came to me: "Yes, perhaps; But who would settle our carriage bills?"

The delicate blossoms breathed their last; Our wheels rolled hard on the stones, just then, Where the snow had drifted; the subject dropped, And has never been taken up again.

The Gallagher Divorce Case.

"My name is Gallagher," said the stranger, as he entered Col. Brown's law office. "I called to see you about a suit for divorce."

"Take a seat," said the colonel. "In the first place," said Mr. Gallagher, "I want to ask can a divorce be obtained on the ground of general incompatibility?"

"I am sorry," said the colonel. "I must ascertain the facts." "Because, if I can, I want you to begin six-eight divorce suits for me tomorrow, upon that ground."

"Sixty-eight?" "Let me explain. You see, about four years ago I went to Salt Lake City, and I was converted to the Mormon religion.

When I joined, Bishop Grubb said I ought to marry, and so I proposed for his daughter, and we were considered at once. On the following Thursday the bishop died. He left eleven widows.

His executors pointed out that I might probably assuage the grief and get a firmer grip on the property by taking them out of their lonely condition. So I married them, and also pooled in two sisters of one of them, living in Idaho, and a cousin of another--a cousin who was single, and had a cast in her eye."

"That made twenty, did it?" observed the colonel. "Twenty. Well then, the impression, your honor, naturally got around that I was a marrying man, and so the twelve apostles at their next meeting sealed to me four widows and an old maid that were drifting about the settlements with no one in particular to look after them, and as I took the net good naturally, why on the following week, Bishop Knox got the apostles to pass over to me a job lot of his relations, including two aunts, one grandmother, and a second cousin, and Bishop O'Toole threw in a step-sister, a mother-in-law, and three miscellaneous orphans, who were related to nobody. So, you see, I was gradually getting quite a family about me."

"And then, your honor, if any unattached woman would come along in emigrant trains, they were always ordered to be married to me, so that eventually, in addition to my other wives, I gathered in two Welsh women, a Mexican, an old lady from the Sandwich Islands, three Peruvians, the widow of a Japanese aerobut and a Kickapoo squaw. I thought the heads of the church were a little hard on me, but I had to submit."

"Did you have a happy household?" "In just coming to that. I can't say that we were all perfectly congenial, our tastes differed so. The Bishop Grubb delegation, for instance, would want caramels for breakfast in the morning, while the folks from Peru were determined to have clams. Bishop Knox's detachment would insist on cleaning house at the very time when Bishop O'Toole's relations wanted to give a party. If the Sandwich Islander and the squaw wanted to boil a dog or two in the soup kettle, there was always a fuss with the other women, and the Mrs. Gallagher who came from Japan used to make the rest of the ladies furious by turning somersets in the parlor when there was company, and by standing on her head on the piano stool. As for wash day! Well, one wanted it on Monday and another on Tuesday, and here is every likelihood that the motion appealed to in the elections will nominate to its sovereign that solitary and his friends, if, indeed, political ambition survives the predominance of ideal sentiment in his excited soul--Roman Opinion.

"Didn't mind you, eh?" "No. And so one day about three weeks ago I brought home a poodle for Julia, one of the younger ones. This looked a little like party, and of course the sixty-seven others wanted a poodle apiece at once. Now, I'm not able to pay apiece at once, so I gave them a year, so I declined. I saw there was trouble brewing, and the next day when I came home every woman of them had a dog of her own; been out and bought them. They ranged from blood-hounds to black and tan terriers. I remonstrated, and then--well, the women began to cry, and that set the dogs barking, and then Lucinda came for Julia's black hair, and the other ladies joined in, and the dogs pretty soon began to engage in the controversy, and in a few moments what might have been a happy family circle was a good deal more like a copy of the battle of Waterloo. So I fled and took the first train for the East, and abandoned the Mormon religion permanently, and what I want to know is if I can have those sixty-eight marriage bonds unmade. Money is no object so that I can get loose."

"I think it can be done," said the colonel. "Call in to-morrow."

And Mr. Gallagher withdrew with the air of a man whose mind had been greatly relieved--Max Adler in N. Y. Herald.

ENGLAND'S DECADENCE.

An Italian Essay on the British Empire. Reading the history of ancient Rome, when she was in the splendor of her power, we seem to assist at the spectacle of numerous wars conducted simultaneously and with success in the various parts of the then known world.

But she was the only power, and her greatness fell off through lack of worthy competitors. The modern Romans are at this moment engaged in war with the Afghans; they have to guard the frontier of Barmah; they are fighting in South Africa with the Zulus; they occupy Cyprus; they administer Egypt by personal interposition; and they look with covetous eye on Asia Minor.

Marvelous is the extension of their power, which seems to whet the appetite it can never satisfy. England, guided by the adventure loving and prehensile genius of Disraeli, would fain comprehend the world and confide it to that strange medley of influences, celestial and terrestrial, her missions and her merchandise. The one is auxiliary to the other, and the Gospel, translated into the idiom of the savage people, she aspires to rule, is wrapped in folds of cotton. Doubtless she will extricate herself with honor even from the wars she is engaged in, for difficulties animate the brave.

But the very "triumphs" of the Disraeli government are preparing its own speedy fall. It came to power as a protest against the rather mystic and peace-loving policy of Gladstone. England wanted to change the apostle and reformer for the pompous gladiator, and to fortify herself in the world with the show of extraordinary power. But to-day as she stands, that laurel wreath, in blood and tears, and that glory may bring profound humiliation. Gladstone undertook, single-handed, to assail his fortunate rival, and for a time his voice seemed solitary and almost unheard; his mind was even said to have been impaired by mysticism and vanity. His colleagues of the opposition had not the courage to compromise themselves in his company; but now the motion of Dilke in the house of commons censuring the war against the Zulus is supported by so considerable a minority that the time-serving journals like that of the city par excellence, are visibly preparing, by a series of transitions to abandon the Disraeli cabinet, while it is evident, from the issue of many partial elections, that the next appeal to the country will be its death knell. The majority of Englishmen are tired of adventure; they want to reconquer their liberty; for, despite that great safety valve, emigration, the operatives in the mother country, by the acute crisis of industrial and agricultural enterprise, we are on the brink of famine.

Gladstone and his friends, moreover, have for many years been aware that the Empire is too vast; it is a domain which overtaxes the strength and discipline of the people, and their discipline. There are hearts even to English discipline and force; even they are not superhuman. Hence the conception, at once elevated and far seeing, of the liberal party, according to which England's mission is to educate the colonies into free and self-governing states, capable of defending themselves single-handed. The conservative cabinet, on the other hand, has held an opposite course. It has provoked wars; it has sought to aggrandize the imperial territory, heedless of those most wise warnings of its adversaries that the more England gains in territorial extension the weaker she becomes, exposing herself, as she necessarily does, to attack in every quarter of the globe. At this moment her navy, in which she is pre-eminent, loses its importance and becomes subordinate to her army. And on land England cannot dispose of the colossal masses wielded by Russia, her powerful rival. Why tempt Providence by vainly defying the whole world? This is the melancholy demand which the hearts of the liberal party, and notably Gladstone, are putting to themselves. And their answer, obvious even in their silence, will cost the conservative cabinet its life. It is thus that people strong in their support, and their power, choose their Ministers, evoked as these truly are from the conscience of the nation. But all this benefit is due to the discipline and the good faith of parties. They are not cast down when their numbers are reduced; they bide their time, and they do, an idea which ripens in the well being of the country. As every noble and exalted idea has its moment of incarnation, so every party which represents it has days of triumph. A party in opposition, being in a minority, is not formidable by the number of its members, but by the quality of the ideas which it expresses. Gladstone three years ago was the only one to represent the opposition to an ambitious and "imperial" foreign policy--a policy which in the specious triumph of the hour concealed danger to come. Now the solitary of yesterday is followed by a legion in the course of the motion, and here is every likelihood that the motion appealed to in the elections will nominate to its sovereign that solitary and his friends, if, indeed, political ambition survives the predominance of ideal sentiment in his excited soul--Roman Opinion.

DESERTED TOWNS OF NEVADA--Now comes from Nevada silver district a list of wild cat mines abandoned and their mushroom towns deserted. We give a sample: Hamilton, that had 8000 people, has now 100; Treasure Hill 6000, now 50; Sherman town 7000, now one family. All these were incorporated cities, with mayor, councils, fire departments, daily newspapers, with innumerable hotels, churches, saloons, gambling dens, gorgeous fancy stores, ball rooms, and in the Toybe range, without a single inhabitant. Soon all will return to the wilderness whence they came, and the stock gamblers, whose money lies buried, can find the places by the howling beasts that denounce their predecessors as human cattle less rational than the beasts of the wilderness.

THE DALLES FIRE.

The Business Portion of the City Turned to Ashes.

At twenty minutes before 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon a fire broke out in the lamp room of Louis Kiss' hotel, the Pioneer. Those parties most conversant with the situation of affairs say that a man lit a cigar near the lamp room and threw it, with the blaze not extinguished, on the floor. In an instant the flimsy structure was in flames, with the equally combustible Walla Walla Hotel next door, catching rapidly. The greedy flames soon licked up the fat pine of which those houses were built, spreading across to the City Drug Store, Bull's Head Saloon and Dickerson's market. The wind was then blowing from the westward as is usual at this season. Then came the unlooked for shower of pelting rain just as the flames had spread down through the block and caught the Mount Hood, crossing over to Savage's paint shop and thence up to THE EMPIRE HOUSE.

Three stories high, old and dry as tinder. It was evident that if the wind continued our printing office and the hotel would go. F. W. Miller, large hardware store was covered with an army of men pouring water on the roof and sides and we had moved out all our fixtures, expecting to see the Empire office go with the rest, when suddenly the rain came and the wind shifted to the northeastward sweeping up through a portion of the town hitherto supposed to be an escape route. It caught the Hotel, the Pioneer, the City Drug Store, the Hotel, two buildings Handy & Sinnott and Thomas Smith owners; fire was stopped by fire-proof building of Snipes & Kinersly.

THE NEW EMERALD HOUSE. The largest building in the city, worth half completed and containing $2,500 worth of lumber alone. The flames caught it and for two hours it was in wild splendor till the rain was reduced to a heap of glowing embers. The Northern Pacific Railroad.

The Helena Independent has been favored with the reading of a private letter from Mr. C. B. Wright, late president of the Northern Pacific railroad to the Hon. Martin Maginnis, Montana's energetic delegate.

Through which the Northern Pacific is destined in the very near future to run, have in the past been very much depressed by the tardiness of the company heretofore in commencing operations.

Special dispatches to the STATESMAN from Washington, Warren's Digging, state that the Indians are raiding on the South Fork of Salmon river, fourteen miles from Warrens.

OUR DRAWBACKS.—Our dispatches announce another Indian outbreak, and two more murders by them, of men from past personal knowledge we know to be honest persevering citizens.

PAROLE'S APPEARANCE.—The special commissioner of the London Sportman, in commenting upon one of Parole's victories, says: "Like his sire, Parole is a brown, but not so big or so lengthy."

THE MILLS OF THE GODS.—A debate occurred in the British house of commons, last Tuesday, in which the interference of the Queen in public affairs was directly censured.

UNITY IS STRENGTH.—We hope that the democrats who proved traitors to their party at the last election are satisfied with their work.

EQUAL TO THE EMERGENCY.—A young gentleman of Walla Walla at a recent dinner was requested to reply to the time honored toast of "No man."

THE NEW CONSTITUTION.—A "New Constitution Party" is being organized throughout California. Denis Kearney opposes the organization, and is doing all in his power to get the supporters of the new constitution to join the Workingmen's party and recognize him as chief dictator.

Howard and Gibbon.

From the tenor of an article in the April number of the American Catholic Quarterly Review it is very evident that Gen Gibbon is not an admirer of Gen. O. Howard, for he intimates that Howard at the commencement of the Nez Perce pursuit in 1877 wasted five precious days at the start.

INDIANS AGAIN.—Special dispatches to the STATESMAN from Washington, Warren's Digging, state that the Indians are raiding on the South Fork of Salmon river, fourteen miles from Warrens.

COLFAX LETTER.—COLFAX, W. T., May 22, 1879. EDITOR STATESMAN.—We have yet another accident to report. It seems as though a week could not pass without somebody getting killed or smashed up.

THEY ALL KNOW HIM.—Rinehart, the shrewd Indian agent, has returned from Camp McDermitt without the Indians he went after, as they hadn't lost any of him or his starvation policy.

A RICH VEIN OF ORE has been discovered passing through the heart of Deadwood (D. T.) Cemetery, and the place has been transformed into a busy mining camp.

WE recommend the editor of the Port Townsend Argus to edit his paper and not allow every scallawag who has an animosity against his betters to ring in articles on him for the mere gratification of his own spite and jealousy.

IN spite of Hayes and Schurz we still think a white man is as good as an Indian, if he behaves himself.

FROM Baltimore papers we gather the cheering intelligence that ice is but ten cents per hundred.

XINTS TO FRUIT GROWERS.—The principle thing in raising strawberries, is to raise all the large ones to the top of the box.

TO A CORRESPONDENT.—No, enquirer, the person who does the crowning at a coronation, is not called a coroner.

GRUNERT-MECHTERHEIMER.—In this city, May 23, 1879, by Rev. E. J. Galvin, Mr. Oscar Grunert, to Miss Amelia Mechterheimer. Both of this city.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, May 14, 1879. EDITOR STATESMAN.—It was a surprise to all yesterday when the senate, by a decisive vote, concurred with the house in the proposition directing the secretary of the treasury to use for the payment of the arrears of pensions the eight or ten millions of money in his vaults, held there to redeem fractional currency long since worn out.

THE proposition mentioned above was a part of the legislative appropriation bill, and will of course share the fate of that bill. Opinions differ as to what Mr. Hayes will do when the bill goes to him, as it will in a day or two, but a veto is expected by pretty much everyone.

THE best speech so far made in the senate on the republican side against the legislative appropriation bill, was made on Monday by Senator Windom.

WALLA WALLA. The Wallaburgers are not demonstrative, but when they make a lay out, either in a religious, temperance, or political way, they mean business.

WALLA WALLA. After the Methodist conference meets, our citizens will throw themselves away upon the agitation of the railroad or some political question for the remainder of the season.

WALLA WALLA. A short time since Hominy of the Walla Walla sent messengers out announcing that he would hold a council on his own account at Wallula. The result not known. Hominy will be disappointed in the number of his followers.

WALLA WALLA. Some of our republican friends who believe that the dark ages extended over the United States up to the period of the inauguration of the republican party, are much exercised about the naughty conduct of the democratic congress. If Hayes keeps on fooling until the presidential question should be reopened and Thurman, president pro tem of the U. S. senate declared the lawful president, what a little while the blood letting Chandler's and Blaine's would have for a time.

WALLA WALLA. ONE BY ONE THE ROSES FADE.—Sheriff Schuchely arrived in the city yesterday with Win-ne-mee-cut, the last of the Perkins murderers. He looks the thoroughbred scoundrel he really is and deserves the same mercy he meted out to the defenceless man and woman he killed.

WALLA WALLA. THE WASHINGTON RESTAURANT.—This celebrated white man's restaurant has been sold to Kley & Kriese, the good reputation it attained with the old proprietors will be fully sustained by the new firm. No Chinese employed.

Judge no man till you have stood in his place. Never make yourself the hero of your own story. An auctioneer is a man of morbid tastes. The weather has been a little tough on spring chickens, and they show it. The nimble-footed mule is used as the light fantastic toe for a canal boat. The tramps are fleeing Texas, having got the idea that a bill to put them to work had passed the state legislature. A pale, worn, gray-haired woman, in a white mob-cap and white cassimere shawl—that is the Jenny Lind of these days described. It is said that there are 100,000 women in New York City who support themselves. It would be interesting to know how many support their husbands. If Mr. Edison ever perfects his electric light, some men will never miss the gas burner until they discover there is no place in the house to hang their hats. "And on her lover's arm she leant, And round her waist she felt it fold, And down the dusty street they went, Where soda and ice-cream are sold. General Joe Johnston is to be chief marshal on the occasion of the dedication of a monument to Virginia soldiers at Winchester, in that state, on the 6th of June. "Twenty years ago," said a colored philosopher, "niggers was wuf a thousand dollars apiece. Now dey would be deah at two dollas a dozen. It's 'stonishin' how do rarr an runnin' down."

The late Bishop Ames once said that he could stand the cry of a baby while he was preaching, but that the thumping of the mother's heel, and the buzz-saw "H-s-s-s" nearly drove him crazy. The present plan adopted by churches of making contributions by envelopes enables a man to drop two old-fashioned cartwheeled copper cents into the basket with as much style and flourish as if they were trade dollars at par. Mr. Frode has perpetrated an amazing blunder in his new book on Julius Caesar, whom he represents as returning from one of his campaigns "with the light of twenty victories blazing round his bayonets. "George Eliot," has lately fallen into a state of such indifferent health, that she is unfit for much intellectual labor, and her medical advisers are dubious as to the propriety of her resuming the writing of fiction for several years. "Now that this thing has commenced," remarked a Chicago resident at his breakfast, "I'll bet that before it stops forty emotional women will shoot men in this city." "Yes," replied his wife, looking sharply at him, "and then not half the men will be shot that ought to be."

The principal thing we have to rejoice over on the Fourth of July is the encouraging fact that the day doesn't come offener than once a year. We always cherish the memory of our forefathers with a deeper affection when we think of this. We entertained an entirely different opinion when we were a boy. Queen Victoria spends one day in every week in writing letters. She gets from fifty to a hundred telegrams a day, many of which require answering; and she carefully inspects all the private bills of her extensive establishment. She would no sooner trust a servant or tradesman or overseer, than one of her own children. General Grant's departure from Lucknow was exceedingly stately. A long line of big elephants were stationed along the railway track near the station, a battery fired off a royal salute, a military guard was drawn up facing the station, and a band played one of our National airs, while the British officers and civilians stood with uncovered heads. Twenty-two women in San Francisco daily hold themselves in readiness to supply the demand for temporary teachers. They go to the office of the school board in the morning, whence they are sent to houses needing teachers for the day. Their compensation is from three to four dollars a day when teaching, and $1 50 for the day when there is no call for them.

"Yes, said Davie," I know a man once, —Jake Mason, who went to a donation where six farmers were to contribute a jug of milk apiece. Well, one man—a very mean man—thought it would not make any difference if he contributed water in place of milk; so he filled up a jug with water and took it to the donation. When he got there he turned it over the bung, and it ran into a barrel where all the other farmers had poured their milk. Now, what do you think was the result? Why, every one of the six farmers happened to be as mean as Jake Mason. They all brought water.

The ASTORIA BLAZE.—Yesterday morning about 3 o'clock, the alarm of fire brought the slumbering citizens of Astoria to the streets in short order. The flames were seen leaping through the roof of Messrs. Trenchard & Upshur's building. The fire had gained such headway that the department was powerless to save the building, but those in the vicinity were saved. Large lots of powder, tar, oil and other explosives were stored in the warehouse, and several explosions occurred. Mr. Trenchard, who was sleeping in the store, barely escaped. Flavel's large warehouse, lately known as the Duncan & Hurne cannery, was fired several times, and the Occidental Hotel was considered for a time to be in danger; but the firemen worked splendidly and their efforts saved many thousands of dollars worth of property. No wind was blowing at the time or the town would have gone in spite of all efforts to save it. Trenchard & Upshur's loss is not yet stated. Their stock, consisting of ship chandler's goods and general merchandise was insured for $10,000, $5000 in the London, Liverpool and Globe, and $5000 in the North British and Mercantile companies, by J. Bachman & Bros., of this city. The building was 30x100, one story and a quarter, formerly occupied by George Flood. The loss and insurance on this is not stated. The origin of the fire is not known as yet.—Portland Standard, May 19.

LONDON has more Roman Catholics than Rome, more Jews than all Palestine, more Irish than Belfast, more Scotch than Aberdeen, more Welsh than Cardiff; its beer and gin shops, placed one after another in a line, would reach sixty-two miles, and one entire quarter of the city is inhabited by three hundred thousand of the most miserable wretches and worst thieves to be found upon earth. "We are going out with the tide," said a young man to a friend, as he filed down the aisle after a wedding. "In that case," said a lady in front, "you can afford to get off my train." And he did. Hot weather is coming, and a man won't necessarily be a cabbage head if he does wear cabbage leaves in his hat.

PAINÉ BROTHERS

DEALERS IN FARM IMPLEMENTS, WAGONS, PLOWS, MILL MACHINERY, &c. CORNER MAIN AND SECOND STREETS, WALLA WALLA, . . . WASH. TER. PAINÉ BROTHERS AGENTS FOR GARDEN CITY AND MOLINE Stirring and Breaking Plows AND EVANS AND GARDEN CITY SULKIES; ALSO EUREKA SWEEPSTAKE GANGS, THE SUPERIOR SEEDER (AS NOW IMPROVED) IS AHEAD OF ANYTHING. FARM WAGONS. The Bain Wagon is so well known to the farmers and freighters of this coast that it seems needless for us to say anything in its praise. We have sold them for the past thirteen years, and warranted every one sold, and the total claims for defective material or workmanship during that time have not amounted to one cent on each wagon sold. This fact speaks louder than anything we can say in their praise. PATENT "SKEIN TIGHTENER" On the Bain Wagon is a very valuable improvement, and is on no other wagon. For the coming season all farm wagons will have the new PATENT OIL TUBES with brass screw caps, which avoid the necessity of taking off the wheels to oil the axle-arrangement which teamsters will fully appreciate. We feel safe in asserting that there is no other wagon in the market that will compare with the Bain as now made in QUALITY OF MATERIAL USED and in completeness and excellency of workmanship. Our wagons are made to order, especially for our trade, and we pay extra to have all the timber "EXTRA SELECTED" out of thoroughly seasoned stock. All the wheels are put through—soaked in—boiling linseed oil before setting of tires, making shrinkage impossible. Mr. Bain does this in a more thorough manner than some others, who simply make a pretense of doing it, and make the application, if at all, only in "homoeopathic doses." The wood work, tires and ironing are extra heavy, but at the same time everything is well proportioned.

Bayliss' Patent Wheel Harrow. THE ONLY HARROW FIT FOR SOD GROUND. And the best in use for preparing land for seeding. Good as a plow to prepare summer fallow ground for wheat. Covers seed nearly equal to a Drill. A small boy can operate it and do twice the work of a Drag-harrow, with less labor. The Gangs are flexible to conform to a rough surface, and will fill a dead furrow so that it cannot be found. The twelve Discs act as so many little plows, turning the dirt over and making the soil mellow to the depth of six inches. It will pulverize shallow or deep by changing a bolt. Suitable for all kinds of soil, saving Time, Labor, Money, and Shoe-Leather. It is simple, durable and warranted. PAINÉ BROS., 26-11 or, Main and Second Streets.

LUMBER! LUMBER! BLALOCK, SON & CO., Have a full Stock of Lumber on Hand. YARD ON THIRD STREET. We also have at our Yard at Flavelville, a large Stock of LUMBER, WOOD, RAILS, POSTS, ETC. We can fill all Orders Promptly. BLALOCK, SON & CO. Walla Walla, May 10, 1879. 19-11

So large a portion of the Great Oregon Crops of the Pacific Coast have been cut by the BUCKEYE, that no farmer here can be ignorant of its merits or require argument to convince him of its superiority; as it is too well and too widely known to need comment. It is the perfection of all Reaper and Mowing Machines. We call special attention to our New and Perfected CANTON PITTS TRESHER. New in detail and general feature, DISTINCTIVE and PECULIAR, and it now stands the CHAMPION TRESHER OF THE WORLD. Threshermen who have used or employed this new style of Thresher, all unite in testifying that they are the BEST TRESHERS IN USE. It is designed and built expressly for Oregon and Washington, by one who thoroughly understands the requirements of the country, and the difficulties to be overcome. HAINES' (Genuine) SINGLE GEARED HEADS, Specially Improved for this Season—Ten or Twelve feet cut. Sole Agents for the OLD RELIABLE Schuttler Farm, Freight, and Spring Wagons, Studebaker Wagons, Studcherker 4 Spring Hacks, Regulator, Wind Mills, The most complete windmill in use, Edward Harvesters, Vastly superior to any other hand built Harvester in market. Will handle lodged or fallen grain, and clear it better than any known machine of its class. Taylor Sully Rakes, Self Dumping and Plain, Siskator and Straw Burning Engines.
