At the election, in Ohio last Tuesday the Democrats carried the state by a majority of upwards of 20,000.

Sowing and Reaping.

There is, perhaps, no department of labor which contains so few unreasonable expectations as that of agriculture.

Some labor to accumulate wealth, and succeed. Their houses and lands and stocks bring in princely incomes, and their capital steadily increases.

Garfield's Republicanism.

Not a few of the Republican county conventions in this territory have set forth James A. Garfield's Republicanism as their's by right of adoption, and in the same session endorse the present Republican programme of the nation.

Payment of the National Debt.

The question as to whether it is best to continue rapidly to pay the public debt, or to slow down, and divide the burden with the next generation, is likely to come before congress at the next session.

Voting For Principle.

It sounds very well in a political guide-book, to say, that there is sterling worth in a man who has a conviction, and who will go to the polls and cast a vote for that principle when he knows that his ballot alone will be counted for that conviction.

A New Organization Wanted.

If the Democrats expect to cut any respectable figure in the future political situation in this Territory, a re-organization of the party will have to be made, and that right soon.

Editorial Spinings.

The organ at the corner of Main and Second streets, seems to have no stops for the reeds.

The Use of Government Patronage.

The following letter from the pen of Daniel Webster, is being printed extensively in the east, as a subject for meditation to-morrow; that being the day set for the memorial services, at Marshfield, Massachusetts:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, March 20, 1841. To the Hon. Thomas Ewing, Secretary of the Treasury: Sir,—The President is of opinion that it is a great abuse to bring into the patronage of the general government to conflict with the freedom of elections, and that this abuse ought to be corrected wherever it may have been permitted to exist, and so be prevented for the future.

The Original Micawber.

Thomas R. Gunn, an English literature, well known in New York many years ago, contributes a pleasant story to the Detroit Free Press concerning the original of Dickens' famous character of "Wilkins Micawber." He says: "In recent numbers of the Free Press there have appeared paragraphs on the asserted identity of this immortal character with one Thomas Powell, a so-called literary man, still extant in New York city."

33,930—These are the figures—thirty-three thousand nine hundred and thirty dollars—

Next Goods.—In another column we present an advertisement of the new arrival of goods at F. F. Adams.

The Electric Light Masts.—During the last month or so, when the STATESMAN has mentioned that Walls Walla should have well-lighted streets,

A TRIBE WANTED.—A correspondent writes to inquire if we know of anybody who wishes to trade a farm for billiard table.

WOMEN IN GAINING.—Many persons have a great aversion to seeing ghosts in the dark, but a great curiosity to see a ghost if he could be seen in the light.

DEPARTURE OF MAJOR KEEFE AND FAMILY.—The departure of Major Keefe, and his family, is universally regretted in society circles in this territory.

PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE.—Nothing in the future is more certain than that next season, and for several seasons to follow, the world does not get out—fresh and salt meats will be very high at the butchers in this territory.

FRESH FRUIT AND VEGETABLES.—Thinking that the collection of fruit and vegetables, recently on exhibition at the pavilion during the fair, was altogether too prime to be consigned to obscurity, the STATESMAN requests the growers to allow us to choose what we require for the purpose of sending them to the Immigration Bureau at Portland.

TROUBLE AT THE FRONT.—Rumor of a riot at the "front" ran rapidly through the city last night, and soon became a "fact" that thousands of Montana roughs had surrounded the Northern Pacific railway force and wiped out several hundred whites and Chinamen.

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

Union, Oregon, is to have a woolen mill. The fall rains have commenced in earnest.

Mr. James Ireland, an old citizen, died at Milton on Tuesday. We are glad to see Mr. John F. Boyer at his old place in the bank.

Workmen are erecting masts in Portland for holding electric light lamps. Wheat 90 cents per bushel at Union, Oregon. Here it is 58 cent at the mill.

The County Auditor is working early and late recording transfers of real estate. W. H. Hammond has purchased the Page farm of 480 acres. Consideration $20,500.

Attention is directed to an article "The Court House Check," on the fourth column, first page of this issue. M. R. V. Stacy, of Seattle, has given a contract for the erection of a bivery stable, at Prescott. It will be 100x28 in size.

If anyone knows of the whereabouts of John Edward Flather, please send information to this office. He is sought for by friends in England. Mr. Geo. Gutherie, the butcher, has leased the shop formerly occupied by Chris Emma, on Main street, Third, and will take possession in a day or two.

The contractor erecting the hotel at Prescott, has been promised a $50 suit of clothes, if he will have the hotel there, ready for occupancy by the first of November. The exceedingly young youth who runs the Prof. at Union, Oregon, had another spasm, a case of "Frenzied Flush." Perhaps it will mature what little brains he possesses.

Mr. A. T. Hawley, of the Sound, has been engaged by the Post-Intelligencer to do special work in the northwest, and declines to come to Walls Walla as a writer on the new publication. Mrs. Ed. Baumeister, when the fair was at an end, presented us with a bottle of mixed pickles, put up by herself, and which gained the first prize. She will please accept our thanks.

Mrs. J. L. Luman has our thanks for the jar of pickled pears which won the blue ribbon at the fair. They are the best we ever ate and speak volumes for that good lady's home-keeping qualities. The Idaho Democrat says: Republican candidates of Alturas county have repudiated the action of the central committee, and each one is to handle his own sack and conduct the campaign to suit himself.

The Sponser rifle taken from Lacy, the wagon thief, has been recognized and claimed by Sam Ritchie, of Milton. A shoemaker of the same place claims the new pair of boots, taken by the same party. Thos. Hest, the manager of the Portland branch of the house of R. C. Janin & Son, Liverpool, was found dead in his bed at his home on Sixth street, near Hall, in this city yesterday, says the Oregonian of the 10th.

Z. K. Straight has made the purchase of three oil paintings—landscapes, for his residence. They are on exhibition at his store today. The larger of the trio is an autumn scene in central New York; not only a good subject but admirably executed. The Fair.

With Saturday night—and it should have been at 2 o'clock on Saturday, the extra hours being saved by breaking faith and word with the theatrical company—the Fair came to an end. And public sentiment is largely in favor of an ordinary notice for the Walls Walla County Fair, as it has been conducted, chiefly by the incompetent Secretary.

Three or four facts have been very clearly demonstrated during the continuance of the Fair. First, an incompetent and unpopular official, to whom is left the general management, is a very unnecessary expense; a mere drag to an enterprise like this. Second what we call a County Fair should become an Inter-State or Inter-Territory Re-union, and invitations to it should go to the people of Eastern Oregon, Washington and Idaho Territories.

The first step should be, to form a stock company, with the shares at five dollars, so as to be within the reach of every citizen of town and country. The next step should be the purchase of a small tract of land within easy walking distance of a central portion of the city; a tract that would always belong to the society or company; would always be used for this and no other purpose, and the people so to understand it. Here should be laid off the necessary tract for showing stock, either for premiums or speed. Adjoining this a plot should be set apart as a camping ground for visitors. A building should be erected to be used as a lichen for the campers, and another should be added as a shelter during a rain storm. Hundreds of people would come to a Re-union of this kind, every year, if they could escape the hotel life which they cannot afford; while to a gathering like this, there would also come, all who could be accommodated at the lodging houses and hotels.

This is the plan adopted in other states, notably in Oregon. They commenced the work hurriedly with debt, but they are rapidly liquidating it. This year they made enough to pay expenses and about $7,000 of the debt. They had what we had not, a crowd from far and near. People came by the hundreds who had provided tents for camping out. They found a camping place ready for them, and officials to look after their wants. Besides, the city of Salem was thronged with people all the week, and every resident made money; a very heavy per cent on their investment in the stock. There it was a Re-union. People come to such places less to see what is displayed, than to see each other, to compare notes, to renew old friendships and to make new acquaintances. Go to the Opera House here, or to the Driving Park, when you would last week, and you found the people gathered in groups talking; not paying any particular attention to what was there, on exhibition. In addition we want a large Agricultural Hall, common in all eastern cities of this size. Here can be gathered the things usually exhibited at a fair. When the Fair or Re-union is ended, the Hall can be rented for concerts and the rental will pay a fair dividend all the year round. Nothing is needed but four walls, an arched roof, a large portable table and seats. The expense of a better finishing can be earned by the hall. When such an affair as this is duly inaugurated the organizers will have no difficulty in getting the stock all taken. But as we have said, enterprising, popular men in whom the community have confidence.

Driftwood from Sunday.

H. M. S. Finamore. We should have had it Saturday night, and not compelled to search around in the aisles of memory for a remembrance of it, for this Driftwood.

We do not think the stage has witnessed anything so successful, in modern days, as this musical extravaganza, with humorous text and sparkling music; this phenomena of the age. It has overrun the country, attacking all sorts of actors and amateurs with a mania, getting in at the dinner tables of polite society enriching the songs and whistles of the streets, with its "Hardly ever's" and its "aria's d'estrada." Most surprising thing is, that few of its admirers can tell just what it is in this comic production that tickles them. Broad burlesque on the Italian operas are common enough, but this delicate travesty upon the conventional, which shows you about as much wit and drollery in the musician as in the actor, rather gets the best of your thinking. Yet there is not a ridiculous line or an exaggerated situation in Pinafore, when well played, as we hope it will be this evening. To be sure, it is replete with laughter-moving phrase. It is laid out precisely on the established operatic scheme, aria, recitative, chorus and all, not overdrawn in the least degree, but by a deft arrangement which shows the whole plan of the standard opera, it reveals its absurdities, and thus are the ludicrous aspects produced. Many an actor on the stage, or the platform, produces an irresistible effect by the intense seriousness with which he says the most ridiculous things. So it is, that in Pinafore, the very essence of burlesque is produced by the solemnity and composure which the operatic forms, fit mirthful verse. And it is no coarse, but an exceedingly fine sense of humor. One of the funny things of Pinafore is, that no matter what is said or done the chorus invariably sympathizes with the last speaker. They turn about with all the ease of a village gossip or a pot-house politician. They join in the autobiographical reminiscences of Sir Joseph Porter or pour floods of compassion on Josephine. It is the satirizing of the operatic characters to an iota. After the dramatic numbers we have that ludicrous scene of Ralph and Josephine in each other's arms, and the grand march to the footlights, and that "Oh joy, oh rapture unbounded," to the tune of an allegro vivace. Curious are the sentimentalities of women who have never been brought into a harsh encounter with the world. Leading a quiet life, and generally a peaceful one, they are full of generalities that they are perfectly confident would survive those disillusion which, they are informed, experience in the world brings. She believes that her supreme sensibility would survive all the great or little irritating influences of an active life out in the world. She clings to the idea that she would always be as gentle, as amiable, as tender in voice and manner in the midst of the hundred promoters of fretfulness and nervousness which beset one among the helter-skelter of work and wages. It will be so when the heavens rain toasted quail.

Now that it is all rail to Portland, our readers will be interested in knowing all about the running of trains. Half a dozen months ago, the passenger for Portland used up from 21 to 25 hours. As will be seen in the corrected time table, which we give below, about 16 hours will be the time between the two cities. We are told that in a few months, this will be shortened to about 12 hours. Passengers from Portland will eat supper at Bonneville and breakfast at the new hotel at Walla, having a sleeper between these two points. Passengers from Walla Walla will have supper at Walla and an early breakfast at Bonneville. Passengers from Walla Walla, for points on the Northern Pacific will have to remain at Walla from 7:30 p. m. until 6:35 a. m. It will be a long wait for those who cannot afford the expense of a hotel bill. To those who can, the stop over will be comfortable, now that the new and elegant hotel is about ready for occupancy.

So soon as terminal facilities are completed at Albina—the work is delayed on account of inability of saw mills to furnish lumber—the following time card for passenger trains on the O. R. & N. Co.'s railroad will go into effect:

TABLE OF DISTANCES. Following is the distance by rail from Portland to the principal stations in the Inland Empire. The site of the proposed Union depot at Couch's addition is taken as the starting point.

TABLE OF DISTANCES. Miles. Portland to... 186. Touladale... 18. Penitentiary... 230. Rooster Rock... 24. Walla J. N... 213. Monteata... 25. Walls Walla... 244. Bonneville... 11. Prescott... 263. The Dalles... 17. Dayton... 283. Blalock... 137. Riparian... 301.

Albina is one and four-tenths miles from the proposed depot, and the East Portland station near the O. & C. depot) two and eight-tenths miles. Oneonta is nearly a mile above Multnomah Falls. The company desired to make a station at the falls, but the cost of a side track in the mountains would have been enormous.

EDITOR STATESMAN: Almost every week the papers in Washington Territory chronicle the loss of one or more valuable lives from typhoid fever. While this is so, I cannot refrain from giving a word of advice as to the treatment of this disease.

European statistics previous to 1850 show that fully one-third of the typhoid fever patients perish under the old expedient (were do nothing) method. After the introduction of cold water the mortality was reduced to 2 per cent, changing what was a very serious disease into one comparatively harmless. In 1870 the German Government issued a pamphlet to each of the 5,000 physicians in the army (a copy of which I have in my office) making it a misdemeanor if they did not treat their typhoid patients with cold water.

In Switzerland, where this disease is epidemic the year round, the people all go to the hospitals for the benefit of this hydropathic treatment, even the very richest if they have not good bathing facilities in their houses. The rapid transportation—sixteen days from Europe—gives us among the emigrants many cases of genuine typhoid, a much worse form, and it becomes imperative that the best method for treating and curing this disease should be adopted. Why is it that public opinion will not accept this safe remedy?

That poverty which produces the greatest distress is not of the purse but of the blood. Deprived of its richness it becomes scant and watery, a condition termed anemia in medical writings. Given this condition, and scrofulous swellings and sores, general and nervous debility, loss of flesh and appetite, weak lungs, throat disease, spitting of blood and consumption, are among the common results. If you are a sufferer from this poor blood epidemic, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which enriches the blood and cures these grave ailments, is more nutritious than cod liver oil, and is harmless in any condition of the system, yet powerful to cure. By druggists.

Protection of School Children. The large attendance at our schools makes it a matter of the first importance that the buildings should be managed with regard to heating and ventilation so as to secure the best sanitary condition. The schools to a great extent, have charge, not only of the minds, but of the bodies of the children of the community, and as much attention should be paid to the one, as to the other. The daily gathering together of large numbers of children of all classes undoubtedly creates occasion for the spread of disease incident to youth, and hence, the most constant and rigorous care should be taken to mitigate the danger. It is one that cannot be entirely separated from our school system, but it can be largely controlled by good sanitary conditions in the buildings and by strict regulations. Some of the rooms in our best school buildings are overcrowded. In these rooms the teachers are overworked and ventilation is of course imperfect. An overcrowded school room cannot be made healthful except by lessening the number of its occupants. During cold weather, now here, the difficulty of keeping the school room thoroughly ventilated and preserving at the same time a proper temperature and freedom from draughts, is greatly increased and requires constant watchfulness of those in charge. Aside from this, there is another evil, commonly enough practiced in this country, which has been sought out by superintendents in the east, and corrected in many places. We refer to the habit of making children stand through long continued recitations. Here is what an educational journal says of it:

A more serious evil than any shortcoming of the text-book makers is found in the discipline of the school room which requires the children to stand during the recitations of their class. To boys this is a nuisance and a weariness of flesh, but it probably has more serious results than inspiring them with a hatred of learning and of everything connected with study. But with the girls the injury done to their physical system is alike beyond calculation and reparation. The time occupied in a single recitation from twenty to thirty-five minutes; to remain standing perfectly still and in a constrained attitude, tosing a mark and under a watchful eye of a teacher for that time is a physical and mental effort that would tax the energies of an ordinary man; but little girls and girls just entering into womanhood are required to do this, not once, but a half a dozen times a day. Of the women of American birth not one in ten is physically fit to live, nine out of ten are a greater or less extent invalids and suffering from injuries connected with their sexual structure. The causes of the physical bad condition of our women are too numerous to mention, but if anything was wanted to complete her break down, it would be very effectively done by the barbarous requirements put upon her while at school of standing up and tosing a mark. The enforcement of such a rule argues either gross ignorance of the most elementary facts of physiology, or still more culpable indifference to the health and welfare of the pupils who are compelled to ruin their health to get an education. The only reason alleged in excuse for it is the convenience of the teachers but a convenience of the teachers which is obtained only by the sacrifice of the children's health is too dearly bought.

Ladies Relief Association.

The following is the yearly report of the secretary of Walls Walla Ladies Relief Society, for the year ending Oct. 31, 1882:

The following is the Treasurer's report for the year ending Oct. 31, 1882: Dues received from members $316 05. Donation from Dr. Town, U. S. A. 20 00. By Cash 161 25. Proceeds of lectures 69 70. Proceeds of Charity Ball 161 25. Total $671 00. Amount paid out $286 80. Bal. on hand 384 20. MRS. S. C. WINGARD, ANNUAL ADDRESS.

Annual address of the Treas. of the Ladies Relief Society, read before the members on Tuesday Oct. 3, 1882. LADIES OF THE RELIEF SOCIETY.—In giving you a view of the charitable work accomplished by yourselves the past year, I had intended taking up each case receiving aid from the Society and giving in detail, its claims upon your sympathy, and the aid you furnished in response—but having held my position only part of the year, and not, at first, really knowing what should be my share in this great work, I would find it difficult to become conversant with their respective interests: therefore shall give only a brief, though, I hope comprehensive and satisfactory summary of the work in question.

I find, on consulting the records, that twenty-two families have been relieved of pressing want, eight cases receiving over two and less than five dollars each; three under ten; four less than twenty; and the balance various amounts above that, one case, the family of a disabled soldier, receiving as high as $114 24, all amounting to $336 30. This, in brief ladies, is your work. A fair commencement truly, especially as the numbers 22 and 400, are wholly inadequate to convey to your minds a full conception of the amount of real good accomplished. For more than 22 had present suffering and far more distressed, and their unavoidable trials rendered endurable by your loving sympathy. And you yourselves, by your many self-sacrifices in your search for human woe, must be conscious of the ennobling effects of self-denial and benevolence, in your true and happier lives, lifted up as it were for a time above the sordid and the common place, into that which ultimately leads to perfection.

I offer you my warmest congratulations upon your success, and bid you "God Speed" in the future, feeling confident that "having once put your hand to the plow, you will not turn back," though you have often been disheartened over imprudence, often ridiculed for the mistakes into which inexperience had led you and more often blamed, when you should have been praised.

There is a grand work before you, and I urge you to its continuance, assuring you that the head of now cast upon the water will fill your "ships at sea" with untold treasures. Before closing, let me give you one word of warning. It has been suggested that those who have actively labored this year, may now wish to withdraw, but I others may still their places, arguing that it would extend an interest in the work, and bring fresh zeal to meet and wear its burdens. True, so far as it goes, but a little reflection will convince you that the experience of the old workers is superior to the enthusiasm of the new, and you know we have divine authority for meeting zeal without knowledge. We all admit mistakes have been made the past year, and that for the good of the cause they should not be repeated in the future. Then let me appeal to those who have labored and become wise to other more laborers into the vineyard if they can but toll their personal efforts to the progress and that woe may cease, before another year completes its career, our Society thoroughly organized, and sending its helping hands and loving hearts into all the haunts of misery throughout our fair city.

"Ficus are not always facts," the incontrovertible facts concerning Kidney-Wort are better than most figures. For instance: "It is curing everybody," writes a druggist. "Kidney-Wort is the most popular medicine we sell." It should be by right, for no other medicine has such specific action on the liver, bowels and kidneys. Do not fail to try it.
