Using Records Retention Schedules: How Long Do Law Enforcement Misconduct Records Need to Be Kept?

Purpose: Provide misconduct retention guidance to state and local law enforcement agencies.

The Law Enforcement Records Retention Schedule covers the minimum retention period for general authority, limited authority, and specially commissioned peace/corrections officer misconduct records:

10 years after date of separation from agency

Records relating to complaints, grievances, misconduct, etc. (including their related internal reviews/investigations) involving peace officers or corrections officers.

Includes, but is not limited to:
- Misconduct and equal employment opportunity complaints, whether founded or unfounded;
- Progressive discipline imposed including written reprimands, supervisor coaching, suspensions, involuntary transfers, other disciplinary appeals and litigation records;
- Other records needed to comply with the requirements set forth in RCW 43.101.095 (Peace and Corrections Officer Certification) and 43.101.135 (Notice to Criminal Justice Training Commission of peace or corrections officer termination).

Excludes:
- Complaints, grievances, and misconduct records for corrections officers employed by state agencies;

Note: Retention based on 10-year requirement for peace and corrections officers’ personnel records (RCW 40.14.070(4)).

The Local Government Common Records Retention Schedule (CORE) and the State Government General Records Retention Schedule cover misconduct records of non-commissioned employees of law enforcement agencies.

The Law Enforcement, Local Government Common (CORE), and State Government General Records Retention Schedules are available from the Washington State Archives’ website.
