NATURE OF ACTION

1. The First and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution guarantee the right of individuals to associate in a political party, the right of that party to select its nominees for partisan political office, and the right of the individuals and their party to limit participation in the process of selecting nominees to those voters the party identifies as sharing its interests and persuasions. As the Ninth Circuit noted in striking down Washington's blanket primary, "... the Washington statutory scheme prevents those voters who share their affiliation from selecting their party's nominees. The right of people adhering to a political party to freely associate is not limited to getting together for cocktails and canapés. Party adherents are entitled to associate to choose their party's nominees for public office." Democratic Party of Washington v. Reed, 343 F.3d 1198, 1204 (9th Cir. 2003), cert. denied, 540 U.S. 1213 (2004) ("Reed").

2. One of the fundamental purposes of the First Amendment is to provide for and promote competition between ideas in American civilization. This purpose is advanced by requiring that the selection of a political party's candidates and nominees be done by adherents of the party rather than by those opposed to or indifferent to the party.

3. The State of Washington (the "State") has enacted Initiative 872, attempting to prevent the Washington State Democratic Party (the "Party") and its adherents from selecting their nominees, and to force the Party to be associated publicly with candidates who have not been nominated by the Party, who will alter the political message and agenda the Party seeks to advance, and who will confuse the voting public with respect to what the Party and its adherents stand for. The State seeks to appropriate the use of the Democratic Party's name in primaries and general elections in order to protect the political interests of the incumbent and the well-known at the expense of the committed and the innovative. Acting under color of law, State and local officials force the Party and its adherents to include supporters of other

1 parties and political interests in determining which, or whether any, candidate will carry the 2 Democratic Party name in the general election.

3 4. Initiative 872, as set forth in both Section 2 (“In the event of a final court 4 judgment invalidating the blanket primary, this People’s Choice Initiative will become 5 effective....”) and Section 18, was expressly intended to defeat the constitutional right of the 6 Party and its adherents to nominate candidates, recognized by the U.S. Supreme Court in 7 California Democratic Party v. Jones, 530 U.S. 567, 120 S.Ct. 2402, 147 L. Ed. 2d 502
8 (2000) and Reed. The Initiative, as implemented by State officials, eliminates mechanisms 9 previously enacted by the State to protect the First Amendment rights of the Party and its 10 adherents and provides no effective substitute mechanism for the Party to exercise its right to 11 limit participation in the nomination process and thereby protect its adherents’ right of 12 association from forced dilution.

13 5. This is an action to protect the First Amendment rights of the Party and its 14 adherents to advocate and promote their vision for the future without subtle or overt 15 censorship or interference by the State through the County Auditors acting under color of the 16 laws of the State of Washington. Initiative 872 is unconstitutional.

17 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

18 6. Plaintiffs’ rights of political association and political expression are guaranteed 19 against abridgement by the State and those acting under color of its laws by the First and 20 Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution and by 42 U.S.C. § 1983. This 21 case presents a federal question involving federally-protected rights, including freedom of 22 association and protection against state intervention into the association rights of the Party and 23 its adherents, set out in Reed. Jurisdiction is conferred upon this Court by 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 24 1343(a)(3), 2201 and 2202.

Plaintiffs

8. The Party is a “major political party” as defined in RCW 29A.04.086 and is organized for the purposes of promoting the political beliefs of its adherents, selecting and supporting candidates who support the political beliefs of the Party’s adherents and electing public officials who will conduct government affairs in a manner consistent with the Party’s philosophy. The Party has all the powers inherent in a political organization and is empowered to perform all functions inherent in a political party.

WASHINGTON'S PARTISAN PRIMARY

 7 11. The Defendants will administer partisan primaries this September. Pursuant 8 to the laws of the State, including the Montana primary system adopted by the Legislature and 9 RCW 29A.04.311, 29A.20.121, and 29A.52.116, the Party is required to advance its 10 candidates for Congressional, State and County offices by means of partisan political 11 primaries administered by the Secretary of State ("the Secretary") and the County Auditors.
 12 RCW 29A.52.116 states: "Major political party candidates for all partisan elected offices, 13 except for president and vice-president ... must be nominated at primaries held under this 14 chapter." The mandatory notice of the primary must contain "the proper party designation" of 15 each candidate in the primary. RCW 29A.52.311. RCW 29A.52.112, adopted by I-872, 16 requires that "For partisan office, if a candidate has expressed a party or independent 17 preference on the declaration of candidacy, then that preference will be shown after the name 18 of the candidate on the primary and general election ballots" The same statute also 19 provides that the "top two" vote-getters in the primary required by I-872 will advance to the 20 general election. The Secretary has asserted that only the two candidates who receive the 21 most votes on primary day will advance to the primary even if both candidates are associated 22 with the same political party. Former defendants Logan and Terwilliger have each asserted, 23 "At this time, I am not aware of any language associated with the Initiative that contemplates

1 a partisan nomination process separate from the primary.”

2 12. Neither the laws of the State nor the rules adopted or proposed by the Secretary 3 provide any mechanism for the Party to effectively exercise its right of association in 4 connection with the partisan primary in which it is forced by State law to participate. Any 5 individual may appropriate the Party’s name, regardless of whether the Party desires 6 affiliation with that person.
7

8 13. The State, through its filing and campaign advertising statutes, also compels 9 the Party to associate with any person who files a declaration of candidacy expressing a 10 “preference” for the Party, regardless whether the Party desires association with the person.
11 In addition, the State through its Voter’s Pamphlet propagates to all voters claims of Party 12 endorsement or nomination by candidates without regard to whether the Party has in fact 13 endorsed or nominated the candidates.
14

15 14. In addition to requiring the Party to accept as one of its candidates any 16 individual without regard to the individual’s political philosophy or participation in Party 17 affairs RCW 29A.04.127 forces the Party to permit any voter to participate in selection of the 18 Party’s standard-bearer without regard to the voter’s partisan affiliation or beliefs. The State 19 thus forces the Party and its adherents to associate with those who do not share their beliefs or 20 are openly antagonistic to them. Initiative 872 was intended to establish a de facto blanket 21 primary in response to a declaration that the blanket primary is unconstitutional and to 22 facilitate cross-over and ticket-splitting voting, thus depriving the Party of its right to prevent 23 supporters of other political parties and interests from participating in its candidate selection 24 and nomination processes. It was intended to force the Party to modify its message or have a 25 modified message forced upon it by the simple expedient of eliminating the Party’s selected

1 spokesperson in favor of a spokesperson selected by non-adherents of the Party. The 2 sponsors' official statement in support of the Initiative states, "Parties will have to recruit 3 candidates with broad public support and run campaigns that appeal to all voters." This 4 attempt at forced message modification was rejected as a legitimate state interest by both the 5 Supreme Court in Jones and the Ninth Circuit in Reed.

6 15. The other interests asserted as the basis for adopting I-872, codified as RCW 7 29A.04.206, were also rejected in Reed as legitimate grounds for invading the right of 8 political association.

9 16. The Party and its adherents are irreparably injured by the forced adulteration of 10 the Party's nomination process, by the State's active encouragement of cross-over and ticket-11 splitting, and by the resulting dilution and potential suppression of its message. The presence 12 and participation of non-party voters in the partisan primary inevitably alters candidates' 13 messages and actions and thereby dilutes the Party's message and influence. Dilution of the 14 Party's vote in any partisan primary carries with it the risk that the Party will be denied a 15 place on the general election ballot to the extent that only the "top two" vote-getters will 16 appear on the general election ballot. For example, if seven candidates carrying the Party 17 name each receive 10% of the vote at a partisan primary, and two candidates of other parties
18 each receive 15%, the Secretary maintains there would be no Party candidate on the general 19 election ballot, despite the receipt by candidates with the Party's identification or 70% of the 20 total vote.

21 17. Defendants-Intervenors Washington State Grange filed Initiative 872 in 22 January 2004 seeking to convert the State's then blanket primary election system into a Top 23 Two primary system. During the 2004 legislative session the Grange lobbied aggressively for 24 the Washington legislature to adopt a primary election system that was substantially similar to

1 Initiative 872. In the end, however, Washington repealed the blanket primary statutes, 2 including statutes referred to by Initiative 872, and adopted the "Montana" primary system to 3 replace the blanket primary.

4 18. Thereafter the Grange initiated a signature gathering campaign to place
 5 Initiative 872 on the November 2004 ballot. This campaign's promotional materials 6 represented to voters that the Initiative would "restore the kind of choice that voters enjoyed 7 for seventy years under the blanket primary." The promotional materials also represented 8 that "minor parties would continue to select candidates the same way they do under the 9 blanket primary. Their candidates would appear on the ballot for each office (as they do 10 now)." Voters were told that ballots would look the same after passage as before passage of 11 Initiative 872. On April 19, 2004, counsel for the Democratic Party advised the Grange that 12 petitions for Initiative 872 being circulated for signature contained material inaccuracies in 13 that the Initiative was seeking to replace the blanket primary but the laws had changed.
 14 Despite this warning, the Grange continued to pursue Initiative 872 as filed in January 2004.

17 19. As presented to the voters, Initiative 872 did not properly disclose the statutes 18 that would be amended if the Initiative passed.

20 SUPPLEMENTAL ALLEGATIONS REFLECTING MATERIAL EVENTS SINCE 21 THE FILING OF THE ORIGINAL COMPLAINT

22 20. After the passage of I-872, defendant Secretary of State requested the 23 Legislature adopt legislation implementing I-872. At the Secretary's request HB 1750 and 24 SB5745 were introduced in the 2005 session of the legislation. The Secretary's proposed 25 implementation would have amended RCW 29A.36.121(3) to eliminate provisions of the 1 statute relating to nomination by minor parties but proposed to re-enact the first sentence of 2 the section to read: "The political party or independent candidacy of each candidate for 3 partisan office shall be indicated next to the name of the candidate on the primary or general 4 election ballot." The Secretary also proposed emergency regulations, WSR 05-11-101, which 5 provided that on the ballot form to be used "the party preference or independent status of each 6 candidate shall be listed next to the candidate." WSR 05-11-101 at WAC 434-230-170

7 21. As a direct result of this litigation challenging the proposed implementation 8 and this Court's decision that the I-872 is unconstitutional, defendants repealed their proposed 9 implementation of I-872 in 2005, including the form of ballot that defendants proposed to use.
10 Thereafter, defendants argued to appellate courts that the form of ballot was not known and 11 that it might not be the form upon which the District Court's determination that I-872 is 12 unconstitutional had been based.

13 22. In 2006, by more than two-thirds vote, the Washington Legislature reviewed 14 and amended various election statutes. Among other things, the Legislature changed 15 Washington's primary election date to August. In 2007 the Washington adopted a 16 requirement that all partisan primary ballots contain a statement that a voter may only vote for 17 candidates of one party. To the date of this pleading, the Legislature has not amended RCW 18 29A.36.121(3) and its first sentence continues to read: "The political party or independent 19 candidacy of the each candidate for partisan office shall be indicated next to the name of the 20 candidate on the primary and election ballot."

21 23. In May 2008, two weeks prior to the commencement of filing of candidacies 22 for the 2008 election the Secretary adopted emergency regulations implementing I-872, 23 although this Court had not been requested to modify or vacate its injunction barring the 24 Secretary from implementing I-872. In his 2008 emergency implementation the Secretary 25 ignored RCW 29A.36.121(3)'s requirement that partisan primary ballots list the political party

1 or independent status of each candidate next to the name of the candidate. The Secretary also 2 ignored the requirements of RCW 29A.24.030 (as amended by I-872) that for partisan offices 3 declarations of candidacy must include a place for the candidate to indicate his or her major or 4 minor party preference or independent status. Instead, the Secretary implemented forms that 5 had no place to indicate independent status, only a box with which to decline to state a 6 preference. Similarly the Secretary's emergency regulations did not indicate the independent 7 status of candidates but instead indicated that the candidate had declined to state a preference.

8 24. As part of their implementation of Initiative 872, defendants have ignored, on 9 the basis that they are impliedly repealed, numerous valid statutes of the State of Washington.
10 The repeal of these statutes, or portions thereof, by implication if Initiative 872 were to pass 11 was not disclosed to the voters in connection with Initiative 872.

12 25. Washington's Public Disclosure Commission also adopted regulations 13 implementing I-872. In particular, the PDC adopted WAC 390-05-274 declaring that the 14 terms "party affiliation," "political party," "party" and "political party affiliation" when used 15 in RCW 42.17, WAC 390 or on forms adopted by the PDC meant a candidate's self-identified 16 party preference. In addition, the PDC adopted a new brochure in July 2008 providing 17 information to campaign advertising sponsors advising sponsors with respect to compliance 18 with RCW 42.17.510's requirement that political advertising and communications must 19 clearly identify a candidate's party or independent designation, as indicated by his or her 20 statement of preference on the declaration of candidacy. The PDC brochure indicated that 21 "Official symbols or logos adopted by the state committee of the party may be used in lieu of 22 other identification." The PDC brochure also advised advertisers that the traditional 23 abbreviations for political parties, such as "D., Dem., Demo," could be used to indicate the 24 candidate's party.

1 26. Election coverage both before and after the primary made no distinction
2 between candidates carrying the Democratic Party name who were authorized to use the party 3 name and candidates who did so without authorization. The practical effect of I-872 was to 4 confuse voters about which candidates carrying the Democratic Party name actually supported 5 the party and its objectives and candidates who had appropriated the party name for their own 6 political advancement.

7 27. As implemented by defendants, I-872 unconstitutionally interferes with the 8 internal affairs of the Democratic Party by allowing non-Democrats to participate in the 9 election of the Party's precinct committee officers and, based on their implementation of I-10 872, defendants have even declared non-members of the Democratic Party to be elected to 11 party positions. Pursuant to RCW 29A.80.030 the county central committee of a political 12 party consists of its precinct committee officers. Pursuant to Article II, Section 15 of the 13 Washington State Constitution, vacancies in the legislature or in any partisan county elective 14 office must be filled by a candidate who has been nominated for the vacancy by the pertinent 15 county central committee of the same political party as the legislator or local elected official 16 who caused the vacancy. RCW 29A.80.041 requires that in order to file for the office of 17 precinct committee officer for a political party a candidate must be a member of that party. In 18 addition, RCW 29A.80.051 requires that in order to be elected a precinct committee officer of 19 a party, a candidate must receive at least ten percent of the number of votes cast for the 20 candidate of the precinct committee officer candidate's party who received the highest 21 number of votes in the precinct.

22 28. Prior to the 2008 implementation of I-872 by the defendants, a candidate for 23 the office of Democratic precinct committee officer was required to state as part of his or her 24 declaration of candidacy that he or she was legally qualified to hold the office if elected and 25 that he or she was a candidate of the Democratic Party. Under the defendants' 2008

1 implementation of I-872, a candidate is no longer required to affirm that he or she is legally 2 qualified to take office if elected nor is the candidate required to request that his or her name 3 be printed as a candidate of the Democratic Party.

4 29. Prior to the 2008 implementation of I-872 by the defendants, a voter could 5 only vote in a Democratic precinct committee officer election if the voter had taken a separate 6 Democratic Party ballot, had responded affirmatively that he or she wanted to affiliate with 7 the Democratic Party or had voted only for candidates of the Democratic Party in partisan 8 races on the ballot. As part of their implementation of I-872, defendants directed that all 9 voters, without regard to whether such voters were adherents of the Democratic Party, would 10 be offered the opportunity to vote in Democratic precinct committee officer elections.
11 Defendants further directed that votes in the Democratic precinct committee officer elections 12 would be counted without regard to how the voter voted in other partisan races on the ballot.
13 Defendants finally directed that the requirement that in order to be elected a candidate must 14 receive at least ten percent of the votes received by the highest vote getter of that candidate's 15 party in the precinct would be ignored.

16 30. It is unconstitutional to allow non-party members to vote for a party's precinct 17 committee officers. Arizona Libertarian Party v. Bayless, 351 F.3d 1277 (9th Cir. 2003).
18 Defendant's implementation of I-872 is unconstitutional.

19 31. Subsequent to defendants' implementation of I-872, state officials, voters and 20 the press treated a candidate's statement in his or her declaration of candidacy that he or she 21 prefers the Democratic Party as indicating that he or she is associated with the Democratic 22 Party. The absence of any opportunity for the Party to object to association with a candidate, 23 the association of the candidate with the Party on ballots and in voter's pamphlets, the 24 requirement that all advertising referring to a candidate treat the candidate's party preference

1 candidates and advertisers to use the Party's symbols and logos, and the characterization by 2 state officials of candidates as "Democratic candidates" based on party preference statements
 3 under I-872, all create a forced association between the Democratic Party and candidates 4 stating a preference for the Democratic Party.

5 DENIAL OF EQUAL PROTECTION OF LAWS

6 32. In contrast to its invasion of the associational rights of the Party, by denying a 7 right to nominate candidates, the State expressly authorizes minor parties to nominate 8 candidates through a convention process. RCW 29A.20.121, re-adopted by the legislature in 9 2006, after this Court's issuance of an injunction against I-872 on other grounds, provides, 10 "Any nomination of a candidate for partisan public office by other than a major political party 11 may be made only in a convention" (internal punctuation omitted).

12 33. The State also affords minor political parties a mechanism to protect 13 themselves from individuals or groups who attempt to hijack the party name or force an 14 association with the minor political party. RCW 29A.20.171(1) recognizes that there can be 15 only one nominee of a minor political party. RCW 29A.20.171(2) provides for "a judicial 16 determination of the right to the name of a minor political party" The Defendants intend to 17 administer the State's partisan primary in a manner that denies the Party the right to nominate 18 its candidates and the right to its name. In doing so, the State improperly protects the First 19 Amendment right of association to minor political parties and their adherents, but denies the 20 same protection to Plaintiffs.

21 DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF WASHINGTON V. REED

22 34. In Reed, the Ninth Circuit held that Washington cannot force a political party 23 and its adherents to adulterate their nomination process. The Reed decision overturned 24 Washington's blanket primary system, which—like I-872—prevented the Party from controlling its own nomination process. The court, rejecting a litany of “compelling interests” advanced by the State to justify the invasion of First Amendment rights, stated that “[t]he remedy available to the Grangers and the people of the State of Washington for a party that nominates candidates carrying a message adverse to their interests is to vote for someone else, not to control whom the party's adherents select to carry their message.” Reed, 343 F.3d at 1206-07.

35. In Jones, the Supreme Court noted that forced political association violates the principles set forth in earlier cases, by forcing “political parties to associate with—to have their nominees, and hence their positions, determined by—those who, at best, have refused to affiliate with the party, and, at worst, have expressly affiliated with a rival.” 530 U.S. at 577. The Supreme Court also noted that “a corollary of the right to associate is the right not to associate. ‘Freedom of association would prove an empty guarantee if associations could not limit control over their decisions to those who share the interests and persuasions that underlie the association’s being.’ In no area is the political association’s right to exclude more important than in the process of selecting its nominee.” 530 U.S. at 574-575 (citations omitted). The Ninth Circuit decision followed the U.S. Supreme Court decision in California Democratic Party v. Jones, 530 U.S. 567 (2000). Reed, 343 F.3d at 1201.

36. There is no constitutionally significant difference between Washington’s previous blanket primary system held unconstitutional by the Ninth Circuit and the “People’s Choice” primary system. Indeed, the voter’s pamphlet statement prepared by I-872’s proponents stated that “I-872 will restore the kind of choice in the primary that voters enjoyed for seventy years with the blanket primary.”

1 governing the nomination of its candidates, requiring Democratic candidates and nominees to 2 be selected pursuant to rules adopted by the Party, and prohibiting candidates not qualified 3 under Party rule to represent themselves as candidates or the Party. The Party has provided 4 those rules to the Defendants.

5 38. The conduct of any partisan primary by State officials without implementation 6 of an effective mechanism for the Party to exercise its right to limit participation in 7 connection with that primary to adherents of the Party is action by those State officials under 8 law and color of law that deprives Plaintiffs of their civil rights.

9 39. The conduct of any partisan primary by State officials in which the state 10 promotes, permits or encourages claims by candidates in or on widely distributed State 11 election materials, including ballots and voter's pamphlets, to be associated with, members of, 12 endorsed by or nominated by the Democratic Party without regard to whether such candidates 13 are in fact associated with, members of, endorsed by or nominated by the Democratic Party 14 modulates and alters, and thus interferes with, the political message of the Democratic Party.
15 The conduct of any partisan primary by State officials in which the Democratic Party is 16 required to repeat in its own materials unwanted claims of association by candidates 17 unconstitutionally compels political speech from the Party. Requiring that the officers of the 18 Democratic Party be selected in a process that permits voters who are not affiliated with the 19 Democratic Party to determine the outcome unconstitutionally interferes with the internal 20 affairs of the Democratic Party. These actions by Defendants, acting under color of law, 21 deprive plaintiffs of their civil rights.

22 40. If the State is ~~County Auditors~~ are permitted to conduct a "qualifying" partisan

1 unconstitutional, then there is a substantial risk that the results of those primaries will be 2 invalid.

3 FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION: CONDUCTING AN INVALID PRIMARY

4 41. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference Paragraphs 1-40.

5 42. An actual controversy exists between Plaintiffs and Defendants with regard to 6 the exercise of Plaintiffs' federally protected rights. Plaintiffs are entitled to declaratory 7 judgment establishing the unconstitutionality of the State's primary system as applied to them.

8 43. RCW 29A.04.127 and RCW 29A.52.112 are unconstitutional to the extent that 9 they authorize the County Auditors to permit non-affiliates of the Party to participate in the 10 Party's nominee selection process.

11 44. RCW 29A.04.127 and RCW 29A.52.112 are unconstitutional to the extent that 12 they authorize the Secretary and County Auditors to facilitate cross-over voting and ticket-13 splitting by placing Democratic primary races on the same ballot as primary races for other 14 political parties or affiliations over the objection of the Party and without requiring 15 mechanisms to prevent voting in violation of the Party's associational rights.

16 45. Initiative 872 lacks a severability clause. Therefore, if any portion of I-872 is 17 unconstitutional, the entire enactment is void.

18 46. The primary system implemented by the Defendants is invalid under 19 Washington law, because it was superseded by statutes readopting the Montana primary 20 system in 2006 and 2007. In 2007, the Legislature adopted SB 5408, requiring separate party 21 ballots, or a consolidated ballot with a party "check-off" system for voters to affiliate with a 22 party before nominating candidates. In 2008, a bill was introduced in the Washington 23 legislature to adopt a "top two" system, including amendments to repeal minor party 24 convention, nomination and name control statutes, but was not adopted.

 2 judgment regarding their rights under the First Amendment and to their reasonable attorneys' 3 fees and costs in this case.

4 SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION: FORCED ASSOCIATION

5 48. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference Paragraphs 1-47.

6 49. RCW 29A.24.030, RCW 29A.24.031 and RCW 29A.36.010 are 7 unconstitutional under the First Amendment to the extent that they permit the State to compel 8 the Party during a primary to publicly affiliate with candidates other than those who are 9 qualified under Party rules to represent themselves as candidates of the Party.

10 50. The State's primary system, including RCW 29A.36.170, is unconstitutional 11 under the First Amendment to the extent that it places upon the general election ballot as a 12 candidate of the Party for any office the name of an individual who has been selected through a 13 voting system that deprives the Party of the ability to limit participation in nominee selection 14 to those the Party has determined should be included.

15 51. Initiative 872 is unconstitutional because, both in isolation and in conjunction 16 with other laws governing elections and election campaigns, it will confuse voters as to 17 whether candidates publically affiliated with the Democratic Party are, in fact, affiliated with 18 the Democratic Party or represent its views, and will further confuse voters regarding whether 19 messages advanced by candidates bearing the Democratic Party name on ballots, in the 20 voter's pamphlet, and in political advertising are those of the Democratic Party. Initiative 872
 21 constitutes a misappropriation by the Defendants and potentially by unauthorized candidates 22 of the Party's name, which is associated in the mind of the public with the Party and its 23 positions on important issues of the day.

24 52. Initiative 872, as implemented by Defendants, is unconstitutional because it 25 permits voters who are not adherents of the Democratic Party to elect directly officers of the 2 partisan office.

4 THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION: DENIAL OF EQUAL PROTECTION UNDER LAW

5 53. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference Paragraphs 1-52.

6 54. The State, through RCW 29A.20.171 and other provisions of state law, 7 provides protection for minor political parties from forced association with candidates who 8 may not share the goals or objectives of the minor political party and its adherents. Through 9 the convention process and the statutory procedures to resolve competing claims to the use of 10 a minor political party's name, those parties and their adherents may prevent 11 misrepresentations of affiliation on primary ballots prepared by the Defendants. The State 12 discriminates among political parties by providing a mechanism for minor political parties to 13 protect themselves from forced affiliation with candidates, but denying the same right to the 14 Party and its adherents under RCW 29A.24.030 and RCW 29A.24.031 by permitting any 15 person to represent himself or herself as a candidate of the Party.

16 55. Plaintiffs are entitled to their reasonable attorneys' fees and costs in connection 17 with this action pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983, et seq.

18 FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION:
 19 VIOLATION OF THE WASHINGTON STATE CONSTITUTION

20 56. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference Paragraphs 1 – 55.

21 57. I-872 identified the portions of Washington's primary and general election 22 laws both that it amended and repealed, as well as any new provisions it added to the statutory 23 scheme.

24 58. I-872 did not include in its text the provisions of existing state law (or prior 25 state law) regarding the August Montana primary, minor party convention rights, ballot 26 format, precinct committee officer elections, campaign finance regulation, protections for

1 unauthorized use of minor party political names by candidates or other statutes that would be 2 repealed or amended by I-872. Nor did I-872 include such statutory provisions in its list of 3 sections of the law to be repealed.

4 59. As approved by the voters in November 2004, Initiative 872's text violates of 5 Article II, Section 37 of the Washington State Constitution and is void.

6 60. Both the text of Initiative 872 and the sponsor's materials presented to the 7 voters in the course of its signature gathering campaign (as well as the general election 8 campaign for the Initiative) mislead and confused voters regarding the effect of the Initiative, 9 violating Article II, Section 37 of the State Constitution.

11 FIFTH FOURTH-CAUSE OF ACTION: INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

12 61. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference Paragraphs 1-60.

13 62. There exists an imminent and ongoing threat by State officials to deprive 14 Plaintiffs of their civil rights by selectively enforcing laws and permitting the State to blur 15 requiring Plaintiffs to select the candidates and nominees of the Party through a primary 16 process in which Plaintiffs are not permitted to exercise their First Amendment rights of 17 association and exclusion.

18 63. Plaintiffs will suffer irreparable injury if the Party's candidates and nominees 19 are selected in a process in which the Party is deprived of its right to define participation.

20 64. Plaintiffs are entitled to preliminary and permanent injunctive relief restraining
