

Initiative Measure No. 421

Hands Off The People's Initiative Stops politicians from taking away our rights Filed

OCT 17 2008

SECRETARY OF STATE

AN ACT Relating to protecting citizens' rights to participate in ballot measure processes; amending RCW 29A.72.110, 9A.84.030, 29A.72.120, 29A.72.130, 29A.72.170, 29A.72.150, 42.56.230, and 29A.72.030; adding new sections to chapter 29A.72 RCW; creating new sections; and prescribing penalties.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON:

POLICIES AND PURPOSES

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. Citizens want to ensure their right to participate fully in ballot measure processes. As guaranteed by the Washington state Constitution: "The first power reserved by the people is the initiative." The right of the people to petition and legislate through the initiative and referendum is a fundamental right protected by the Washington state Constitution. Citizens' participation in the legislative process by initiative and referendum has been subjected to hostility, interference and threats of interference by private and governmental actions. Because the constitutional right and power of initiative and referendum are the core of legislative policy-making, any legislative change that interferes with the state initiative or referendum process must be viewed with extreme skepticism because it is likely to be unconstitutional and therefore must be subject to expedited judicial review. The people intend that laws and rules adopted regarding the initiative and referendum processes be construed to facilitate and encourage the exercise of initiative and referendum powers. Laws or rules regarding the initiative or referendum process shall be construed narrowly to ensure protection of the citizens' rights to the initiative and referendum processes. Article I, section 4 of the Washington state Constitution and the First Amendment to the United States Constitution recognizes the right of the people to petition the government. This act is intended to facilitate the rights under these constitutional provisions. This measure would require expedited judicial review for any legislation that interferes with the state initiative and referendum process and establish protections for signature gathering. The people find that the people's right to participate in the ballot measure process deserves to be protected and encouraged.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 29A.72 RCW to read as follows:

As provided in article 1, section I of the Washington state Constitution, "All political power is inherent in the people and governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and are established to protect and maintain individual rights." Of the powers delegated to the legislature by Article II of the Washington state Constitution, the first right reserved to the people is that of initiative and referendum. The purpose of this act is to declare the intent of the people of the state of Washington that all laws affecting the right of initiative and referendum are to be construed in such a way as to facilitate, and eliminate any hindrance to, the right of initiative and referendum, and the right to petition the government. Legislative amendments that restrict, impede, or increase the burdens and requirements to the exercise of the right to initiative and referendum shall be narrowly construed. To that end, this act is to be liberally construed to effectuate its purpose of preserving and protecting the peoples' right to initiative and referendum.

PROTECTING THE CITIZENS' RIGHT TO PARTICIPATE BY REQUIRING EXPEDITED JUDICIAL REVIEW FOR BALLOT MEASURE LEGISLATION THAT INTERFERES WITH THE STATE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM PROCESS

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 29A.72 RCW to read as follows:

Any ballot measure legislation that interferes with the state initiative or referendum process must be subject to expedited judicial review. The review must be considered an emergency matter of public concern, and be heard and determined with all convenient speed. The Washington state Constitution guarantees the people the right to initiative and referendum and any legislation that frustrates the process or limits access to the process is very likely unconstitutional (and even if imposed by a state constitutional amendment, such policies likely violate the First Amendment and/or Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution) and therefore must be subjected to expedited judicial scrutiny to ensure the people's right to the initiative and referendum process is not impaired.

(1) For the purposes of this section, "ballot measure legislation that interferes with the state initiative or referendum process" includes, but is not limited to, any legislation that:

(a) Repeals the initiative and referendum process;

(b) Increases the percentage of signatures necessary to qualify for the ballot;

(c) Changes the requirements for petitions, including requiring witnesses or affidavits for signing petitions;

(d) Changes the requirements for petition circulators, including wearing identification badges or limiting the right to circulate petitions based on residency, age, or voter status;

(e) Changes the method of payment to petition circulators compensated for their service;

(f) Changes the procedure for validating or invalidating signatures;

(g) Levies new fees or increases current fees for filing an initiative or referendum or for submitting petitions to the secretary of state;

(h) Requires majority voter approval within certain jurisdictions affected by a measure in order for the initiative or referendum to be valid or effective within such jurisdictions;

(i) Decreases or limits the availability or access to public and private locations to allow petitioning;

(j) Changes to the information presented in the voters' pamphlet regarding initiatives and/or referendums;

(k) Requires a super-majority vote for an initiative or referendum; and

(l) Requires any proportionality for signatures based on geography or any other factor.

(2) Such restrictions must serve a compelling governmental purpose and in any legal challenge, the court shall review such laws with a legal standard of strict scrutiny to ensure the protection of the rights of citizens to participate in the initiative and referendum process.

(3) The supreme court has original jurisdiction to decide petitions challenging the constitutionality of any legislation that that interferes with the state initiative or referendum process. The attorney general must seek outside counsel to legally challenge any legislation that interferes with the state initiative or referendum process in state and federal court. The people's right to initiative and referendum must be vigorously defended. In addition to the attorney general's designated outside counsel, any person, after the enactment of legislation that interferes with the state initiative or referendum process, may file a petition directly in the supreme court seeking declaratory relief as to the constitutionality of the legislation that interferes with the state initiative or referendum process. The petition shall set forth the legislation, the objections to the law, any facts the petitioner contends are undisputed, and a request that the court declare the legislation unconstitutional. The petition shall be served on the attorney general the same day it is filed with the court.

(4) The petition shall be considered an emergency matter of public concern by the supreme court and heard and determined within ninety days of filing.

(5) The attorney general shall have seven calendar days after service of the petition to file an answer to the petition. Any person who seeks to intervene in the proceeding must do so at the same time the attorney general files an answer to the petition. Facts asserted in the petition which are not denied by the answer shall be deemed undisputed. The petitioner shall have seven calendar days to file a reply to the answer. Any facts asserted in the answer which are not denied by the petitioner in the reply to the answer shall be deemed undisputed. These requirements that facts asserted be denied if they are disputed is intended to replace any requirement for a separate agreed statement of facts, although the parties are not prevented from filing a separate agreed statement of facts by this section.

(6) If the court deems oral argument advisable and if necessary to meet the timeframe in subsection (4) of this section, the court may reschedule oral argument in any other pending case which does not directly involve the constitutional rights of a party.

(7) The court shall determine whether the legislation that interferes with the state initiative or referendum process serves a compelling governmental purpose and otherwise complies with the provisions of this section and is therefore a legitimate infringement upon the peoples' right to initiative and referendum.

(8) Review of laws that interfere with the state initiative or referendum process under this section shall be de novo, and all presumptions shall be rendered in favor of the peoples' right to initiative and referendum. The burden of proof shall be on proponents of the contested law to establish a compelling governmental interest justifying interference with the people's right to initiative and referendum guaranteed by the Washington state Constitution.

(9) A person who files an appeal under subsection (3) of this section and substantially prevails is entitled to an award of reasonable costs and attorneys' fees in pursuing the action in the supreme court.

(10) This section does not affect any governmental law or regulation required by the Washington state Constitution.

(11) This section applies to the initiative process and the referendum process at the state level.

(12) This section shall be self-executing. If any part or parts of this section are found to be in conflict with federal law, the United States Constitution, or the Washington state Constitution, the section shall be implemented to the maximum extent that federal law, the United States Constitution, and the Washington state Constitution permit. Any provision held invalid shall be severable from the remaining portions of this act.

PROTECTING CITIZENS' RIGHT TO PARTICIPATE BY ESTABLISHING PROTECTIONS FOR SIGNATURE GATHERING

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 29A.72 RCW to read as follows:

This section establishes protections for signature gathering. Interfering with signature gathering shall be illegal. Any person who is gathering signatures for an officially filed and processed initiative or referendum shall not have his or her right to petition infringed upon. Any person who is trying to sign a petition for an officially filed and processed initiative or referendum shall not have his or her right to sign a petition infringed upon. Any person who interferes with any person gathering signatures or interferes with any person trying to sign a petition shall be subject to the anti-harassment procedures in chapter 10.14 RCW and be subject to a civil penalties and shall be guilty of disorderly conduct under RCW 9A.840.030. For purposes of this section, "interfering with" includes, but is not limited to, pushing, shoving, touching, spitting, throwing objects, yelling, screaming, or being verbally abusive, or other tumultuous conduct, blocking or intimidating, or maintaining a presence within twenty-five feet of any person gathering signatures and any person trying to sign a petition. As the courts have consistently ruled, asking fellow citizens to sign a petition is core political speech, which is deserving of the highest levels of protection. Law enforcement must vigorously protect the rights of the people who want to sign initiative and referendum petitions to ensure they are not inhibited or restricted in any way. Signature gathering for an officially filed and processed initiative or referendum shall be a legally protected activity at large box stores, shopping centers, common areas in malls, and other retail locations open to the public, whether membership is required or not, where the business of the retailer is or was subsidized by public moneys, tax exemptions or reductions, or where the privilege of business operation is facilitated by public infrastructure, such as roads and utilities. Nothing in this section shall be interpreted to prohibit or limit signature gathering, which shall be legally protected at such locations, regardless of whether or not there has been a history of noncommercial, charitable, or public service activity. The people find that large box stores, shopping centers, common areas in malls, and other retail locations now perform a traditional public function by providing the functional equivalent of a town center or community business block. The people further find that the ability to gather the required number of voter signatures for a measure, and to communicate ideas, would be greatly reduced if access to such locations were denied. And so, because of the public subsidies and the public infrastructure provided, such locations must be available for signature gathering for an officially filed and processed initiative or referendum during its hours of operation at its pedestrian entrances and exits in a manner that does not directly block such entrances and exits, fully respecting the people's constitutional rights of petitioning and participation. Regarding public places, the courts have consistently ruled that signature gathering is legally protected and guaranteed and cannot be interfered with or inhibited in any way. But to remove any doubt: Signature gathering for an officially filed and processed initiative or referendum shall be a legally protected activity at public places, including, but not limited to, public rest areas, public parking lots, public parks, and public sidewalks and walkways that carry pedestrian traffic, and inside or outside public buildings, including, but not limited to, public sports stadiums, convention/exhibition centers, and public fairs. There can be no time, place, or manner restrictions in public places. Law enforcement must vigorously protect the rights of the people who collect voter signatures on initiative and referendum petitions in locations identified in this section to ensure they are not inhibited or restricted in any way.

The people find that they must be able to safely, freely, and peacefully petition their government for change without fear of retaliation or intimidation. Without the right to petition and the right to sign petitions, there is no functioning initiative and referendum process. Maximum legal protections must be afforded persons gathering signatures and persons trying to sign petitions to protect them from interference, harassment, or threat. Maximum penalties must be imposed against persons who interfere with the constitutionally protected right to initiative and referendum.

Sec. 5. RCW 9A.84.030 and 2007 c 2 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A person is guilty of disorderly conduct if the person:

(a) Uses abusive language and thereby intentionally creates a risk of assault;

(b) Intentionally disrupts any lawful assembly or meeting of persons without lawful authority;

(c) Intentionally obstructs vehicular or pedestrian traffic without lawful authority; or

(d)(i) Intentionally engages in fighting or in tumultuous conduct or makes unreasonable noise, within five hundred feet of:

- (A) The location where a funeral or burial is being performed;
- (B) A funeral home during the viewing of a deceased person;
- (C) A funeral procession, if the person described in this subsection (1)(d) knows that the funeral procession is taking place; or
- (D) A building in which a funeral or memorial service is being conducted; and

(ii) Knows that the activity adversely affects the funeral, burial, viewing, funeral procession, or memorial service.

(e) Interferes with a person collecting signatures or signing any initiative or referendum petition by pushing, shoving, touching, spitting, throwing objects, yelling, screaming, being verbally abusive, blocking or intimidating, or other tumultuous conduct or maintaining a presence within twenty-five feet of any person gathering signatures or any person trying to sign any initiative or referendum petition.

(2) Disorderly conduct is a misdemeanor.

PROTECTING CITIZENS' RIGHT TO PARTICIPATE BY MAKING IT SAFER FOR PEOPLE TO GATHER VOTER SIGNATURES

Sec. 6. RCW 29A.72.110 and 2005 c 239 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Petitions for proposing measures for submission to the legislature at its next regular session must be substantially in the following form:

The warning prescribed by RCW 29A.72.140; followed by:

INITIATIVE PETITION FOR SUBMISSION TO THE LEGISLATURE

To the Honorable, Secretary of State of the State of Washington:

We, the undersigned citizens and legal voters of the State of Washington, respectfully direct that this petition and the proposed measure known as Initiative Measure No. and entitled (here set forth the established ballot title of the measure), a full, true and correct copy of which is printed on the reverse side of this petition, be transmitted to the legislature of the State of Washington at its next ensuing regular session, and we respectfully petition the legislature to enact said proposed measure into law; and each of us for himself or herself says: I have personally signed this petition; I am a legal voter of the State of Washington, in the city (or town) and county written after my name, my residence address is correctly stated, ~~((and))~~ I have knowingly signed this petition only once, and I have voluntarily signed this petition without any compensation or promise of compensation.

~~((The following declaration must be printed on the reverse side of the petition:~~

~~I,, swear or affirm under penalty of law that I circulated this sheet of the foregoing petition, and that, to the best of my knowledge, every person who signed this sheet of the foregoing petition knowingly and without any compensation or promise of compensation willingly signed his or her true name and that the information provided therewith is true and correct.))~~ I further acknowledge that under chapter 29A.84 RCW, forgery of signatures on this petition constitutes a class C felony, and that offering any consideration or gratuity to any person to induce them to sign a petition is a gross misdemeanor, such violations being punishable by fine or imprisonment or both.

RCW 9A.46.020 applies to any conduct constituting harassment against a petition signature gatherer. This penalty does not preclude the victim from seeking any other remedy otherwise available under law.

(2) The petition must include a place for each petitioner to sign and print his or her name, and the address, city, and county at which he or she is registered to vote.

Without people willing to ask voters to sign petitions, the initiative and referendum process does not function. The people find that any person who gathers signatures for an initiative or referendum deserves maximum legal protection to guarantee the initiative and referendum process is preserved. Requiring people who gather signatures to publicly identify themselves allows opponents of the initiative or referendum to abuse, harass, intimidate, and threaten them. The people find that the people's constitutional right to peacefully petition our government for change is essential to ensure the protection of the initiative and referendum process.

Sec. 7. RCW 29A.72.120 and 2005 c 239 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Petitions for proposing measures for submission to the people for their approval or rejection at the next ensuing general election must be substantially in the following form:

The warning prescribed by RCW 29A.72.140; followed by:

INITIATIVE PETITION FOR SUBMISSION TO THE PEOPLE

To the Honorable, Secretary of State of the State of Washington:

We, the undersigned citizens and legal voters of the State of Washington, respectfully direct that the proposed measure known as Initiative Measure No., entitled (here insert the established ballot title of the measure), a full, true and correct copy of which is printed on the reverse side of this petition, be submitted to the legal voters of the State of Washington for their approval or rejection at the general election to be held on the day of November, (year); and each of us for himself or herself says: I have personally signed this petition; I am a legal voter of the State of Washington, in the city (or town) and county written after my name, my residence address is correctly stated, ~~((and))~~ I have knowingly signed this petition only once, and I have voluntarily signed this petition without any compensation or promise of compensation.

RCW 9A.46.020 applies to any conduct constituting harassment against a petition signature gatherer. This penalty does not preclude the victim from seeking any other remedy otherwise available under law.

(2) The petition must include a place for each petitioner to sign and print his or her name, and the address, city, and county at which he or she is registered to vote.

Without people willing to ask voters to sign petitions, the initiative and referendum process does not function. The people find that any person who gathers signatures for an initiative or referendum deserves maximum legal protection to guarantee the initiative and referendum process is preserved. Requiring people who gather signatures to publicly identify themselves allows opponents of the initiative or referendum to abuse, harass, intimidate, and threaten them. The people find that the people's constitutional right to peacefully petition our government for change is essential to ensure the protection of the initiative and referendum process.

Sec. 8. RCW 29A.72.130 and 2005 c 239 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Petitions ordering that acts or parts of acts passed by the legislature be referred to the people at the next ensuing general election, or special election ordered by the legislature, must be substantially in the following form:

The warning prescribed by RCW 29A.72.140; followed by:

PETITION FOR REFERENDUM

To the Honorable, Secretary of State of the State of Washington:

We, the undersigned citizens and legal voters of the State of Washington, respectfully order and direct that Referendum Measure No., filed to revoke a (or part or parts of a) bill that (concise statement required by RCW 29A.36.071 and that was passed by the legislature of the State of Washington at the last regular (special) session of said legislature, shall be referred to the people of the state for their approval or rejection at the regular (special) election to be held on the day of November, (year); and each of us for himself or herself says: I have personally signed this petition; I am a legal voter of the State of Washington, in the city (or town) and county written after my name, my residence address is correctly stated, ((and)) I have knowingly signed this petition only once, and I have voluntarily signed this petition without any compensation or promise of compensation.

~~((The following declaration must be printed on the reverse side of the petition:~~

I further acknowledge that under chapter 29A.84 RCW, forgery of signatures on this petition constitutes a class C felony, and that offering any consideration or gratuity to any person to induce them to sign a petition is a gross misdemeanor, such violations being punishable by~~ fine or imprisonment or both.

RCW 9A.46.020 applies to any conduct constituting harassment against a petition signature gatherer. This penalty does not preclude the victim from seeking any other remedy otherwise available under law.

(2) The petition must include a place for each petitioner to sign and print his or her name, and the address, city, and county at which he or she is registered to vote.

Without people willing to ask voters to sign petitions, the initiative and referendum process does not function. The people find that any person who gathers signatures for an initiative or referendum deserves maximum legal protection to guarantee the initiative and referendum process is preserved. Requiring people who gather signatures to publicly identify themselves allows opponents of the initiative or referendum to abuse, harass, intimidate, and threaten them. The people find that the people's constitutional right to peacefully petition our government for change is essential to ensure the protection of the initiative and referendum process.

Sec. 9. RCW 29A.72.170 and 2003 c 111 s 1818 are each amended to read as follows:

The secretary of state may refuse to file any initiative or referendum petition being submitted upon any of the following grounds:

(1) That the petition does not contain the information required by RCW 29A.72.110, 29A.72.120, or 29A.72.130.

(2) That if on the day of the signature deadline the petition clearly bears insufficient signatures; petition sheets submitted prior to the signature deadline must be processed by the secretary of state as required under RCW 29A.72.150.

(3) That the time within which the petition may be filed has expired.

In case of such refusal, the secretary of state shall endorse on the petition the word "submitted" and the date, and retain the petition pending appeal.

If none of the grounds for refusal exists, the secretary of state must accept and file the petition.

Concerning individual voter signatures on an initiative or referendum petition, the secretary of state must accept and may not reject a valid voter signature as long as the requirements in subsections (1), (2), and (3) of this section are fulfilled. Actions or inactions by the person who gathered a voter's signature can never be used as a reason to reject a valid voter signature on a petition or to reject a petition. For purposes of this section, "valid voter signature" means a voter's signature on an initiative or referendum petition sheet which matches, using the signature verification standard under Washington Administrative Code 434-379-020, the signature on file in the voter registration records. The people find that the secretary of state's policy, maintained for the past ninety years, to always count a valid voter signature is essential to ensure that voters are not disenfranchised and their right to petition, signature, and/or vote is not taken away from them.

Sec. 10. RCW 29A.72.150 and 2003 c 111 s 1816 are each amended to read as follows:

When the person proposing any initiative measure has obtained at least half the signatures of legal voters equal to or exceeding eight percent of the votes cast for the office of governor at the last regular gubernatorial election prior to the submission of the signatures for verification, or when the person or organization demanding any referendum of an act or part of an act of the legislature has obtained ((a)) at least half the number of signatures of legal voters equal to or exceeding four percent of the votes cast for the office of governor at the last regular gubernatorial election prior to the submission of the signatures for verification, the petition containing the signatures may be submitted to the secretary of state for filing. The secretary of state must, without delay, conduct validity checks on signatures as soon as petitions are submitted. Validity checks on signatures must be conducted immediately upon receipt of any subsequent submission of petition sheets by the signature deadline established under RCW 29A.72.030. The people find that it is very helpful to the initiative and referendum process for both proponents and opponents of a measure to know as expeditiously as possible the number of signatures and the percentage of valid voter signatures submitted so as to determine whether or not the measure has obtained the required number of valid voter signatures to qualify for the ballot.

Sec. 11. RCW 42.56.230 and 2008 c 200 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

The following personal information is exempt from public inspection and copying under this chapter:

(1) Personal information in any files maintained for students in public schools, patients or clients of public institutions or public health agencies, or welfare recipients;

(2) Personal information in files maintained for employees, appointees, or elected officials of any public agency to the extent that disclosure would violate their right to privacy;

(3) Information required of any taxpayer in connection with the assessment or collection of any tax if the disclosure of the information to other persons would (a) be prohibited to such persons by RCW 84.08.210, 82.32.330, 84.40.020, or 84.40.340 or (b) violate the taxpayer's right to privacy or result in unfair competitive disadvantage to the taxpayer;

(4) Credit card numbers, debit card numbers, electronic check numbers, card expiration dates, or bank or other financial account numbers, except when disclosure is expressly required by or governed by other law; (~~and~~)

(5) Documents and related materials and scanned images of documents and related materials used to prove identity, age, residential address, social security number, or other personal information required to apply for a driver's license or identicard; and

(6) Names and addresses of citizens who sign petition sheets for a measure. The people find that the secretary of state's longstanding privacy policy for citizens' names and addresses must be strengthened to avoid any possibility of harassment, intimidation, or retaliation. The names and addresses of citizens who sign petition sheets for a measure are personal, confidential information and exempt from public inspection and copying under this section. The people find that the citizens' right to privacy in the voting booth is a hallmark of democracy and extending that principle of protection to citizens who exercise their constitutionally guaranteed free speech rights by signing a petition is critical to the protection of the initiative and referendum process.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. A new section is added to chapter 29A.72 RCW to read as follows:

To ensure the safety of individuals who collect signatures for initiatives and referendums and to protect them from, and make them less susceptible to, intimidation, retaliation, or harassment, such persons can never be required by any governmental entity to put their name, address, city, state, zip code, phone number, email address, or any other identification on the petition. Additionally, no governmental entity may register or require a license of any person or entity which collects signatures or coordinates the collection of signatures for any initiative or referendum. The people find that the voters are the ones who determine whether an initiative or referendum qualifies for the ballot and takes effect. The sponsor of the initiative or referendum or any person gathering signatures for an initiative or referendum is liable for his or her own actions but not those of others.

Sec. 13. RCW 29A.72.030 and 2003 c 111 s 1804 are each amended to read as follows:

Initiative measures proposed to be submitted to the people must be filed with the secretary of state within (~~ten~~) sixteen months prior to the election at which they are to be submitted, and the signature petitions must be filed with the secretary of state not less than four months before the next general statewide election.

Initiative measures proposed to be submitted to the legislature must be filed with the secretary of state within (~~ten~~) sixteen months prior to the next regular session of the legislature at which they are to be submitted, and the signature petitions must be filed with the secretary of state not less than ten days before such regular session of the legislature.

A referendum measure petition ordering that any act or part of an act passed by the legislature be referred to the people must be filed with the secretary of state within ninety days after the final adjournment of the legislative session at which the act was passed. It may be submitted at the next general statewide election or at a special election ordered by the legislature.

A proposed initiative or referendum measure may be filed no earlier than the opening of the secretary of state's office for business pursuant to RCW 42.04.060 on the first day filings are permitted, and any initiative or referendum petition must be filed not later than the close of business on the last business day in the specified period for submission of signatures. If a filing deadline falls on a Saturday, the office of the secretary of state must be open for the transaction of business under this section from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on that Saturday.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. The provisions of this act are to be liberally construed to effectuate the intent, policies, and purposes of this act. Laws and rules adopted regarding the initiative and referendum process shall be construed to facilitate the initiative and referendum process. In any legal challenge, laws or rules regarding the initiative or referendum process shall be reviewed with a legal standard of strict scrutiny by the courts.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. Subheadings used in this act are not any part of the law.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. This act shall be self-executing. If any part or parts of this act are found to be in conflict with federal law, the United States Constitution, or the Washington state Constitution, the act shall be implemented to the maximum extent that federal law, the United States Constitution, and the Washington state Constitution permit. Any provision held invalid shall be severable from the remaining portions of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. This act shall be known and cited as the Hands Off the People's Initiative.

--- END ---
