OFFICIAL DECREE OF PERU.

The following, sent from the Treasury Department, Washington, D. C., to the Collector of Customs at this port, is interesting and worthy of the attention of business men:

Mariano I. Prado, Constitutional President of the Republic, considering

1. That in view of the doubts expressed by many of the consuls and communicated to the ministers of foreign affairs, it is necessary to determine the use value importers of merchandise are to make of the certified invoices required by Art. 187 of the existing consular regulations; and

2. The Articles 187, 188, 197, and 201, are frequently broken by importers of merchandise and captains of vessels arriving with goods from foreign ports, and that it is necessary these faults should not pass unpunished. I hereby decree:

1. Owners or consignees of cargo dispatched to the ports of the Republic will present the invoice certified by the proper Peruvian Consul as a proof of the invoices they are bound to present by Art. 38 of the commercial regulations.

Art. 2. Merchandise for which no certified invoices are presented, as required by articles 188 and 197 of the Consular regulations and Art. 1 of this decree, will be subject to a surcharge of 25 per cent. of the duty upon them as determined by the tariff. Merchandise entitled to enter free of duty will be taxed 25 per cent. on its total value.

Art. 3. Chief Inspectors of Custom houses, may concede to importers who do not present at once their certified invoices a reasonable time in which to produce them under a bond, representing the 25 per cent. of the fine, and on the production of the certificates only 5 per cent. extra will be collected.

Art. 4. The captain of a ship which enters a Peruvian port without being provided with certified documents of the respective Consul of the Republic, as provided by Articles 187 and 201 of the Consular regulations, will be subject to a fine of from 100 soles to 3000 soles, as determined by the Chief of the Custom house, but without becoming thereby exempt from the dispositions of Art. 28 of the Commercial regulations.

Art. 5. The fine imposed by the foregoing clause will not be inflicted if the captain should prove that the non-possession of the requisite documents was occasioned by a cause over which he had no control, such as shipwreck, fire or piracy, or if the vessel had not been cleared for a Peruvian port, and only arrived through stress of circumstances.

Art. 6. The provisions of the Commercial regulations of December 13, 1844, which have been replaced by those of the Consular Decree of June 22, 1876, are hereby declared null and void.

Art. 7. The present decree will be communicated to the consuls of the Republic, and fines established by it will be applied to the merchandise and vessels subject to them, which without having complied with the legal requisites, leave their port to departe eight days after the date on which the Consul of the Customs has given notice by advertisement of the provisions of this decree.

Art. 8. The dispositions contained in this decree will be considered as additional to the Consular regulations at present in force.

In Jackson town, Ogn., they continue to pick up nuggets of gold.

ARGUS GLANCES.

A railroad from Boston advertises daily excursions for May flowers. Missouri has just adopted a school law which requires School Boards to give the preference to colored teachers to colored schools.

St. Louis and Chicago are disputing about the quality of the beer brewed at each place. They are at larger heads over the matter.

A Kentuckian of immense leisure has ascertained that there are in one of the unabridged dictionaries 335 words of seven syllables, 24 of eight syllables, and three of nine.

The Turkish ironclad fleet numbers 25 vessels, carrying 159 guns. That of Russia consists of 29 vessels with 184 guns. But much of this latter is in the Baltic.

There was a grand time at Corvallis, Ogn., on Thursday, May 17th, in celebrating the event of breaking ground for the Yaquina Bay railroad. Crowds of people were there.

About sixty men are steadily at work at the Wellington coal mines, and Mr. Dunsuir has received applications from 178 others to go to work at old rates. The company is taking out 150 tons of coal daily and will soon be prepared for exporting.

The assessed value of Portland property in 1876 was $10,172,350, and in 1877 $12,113,355—an increase of nearly two million dollars. The indebtedness to be taken from the above reduces the value in 1877 to $9,632,750, and the indebtedness is a quarter of a million less this year than it was last.

The old Portland Bulletin printing press is now at Collier's iron works being repaired, and will be sent to Salem. This press was first used to print a daily paper at Washington city, over thirty years ago, and was shipped around the Horn to California about 1850. It was the first steam power press used on this coast.

Some men act very strange when they come here pretending to look for work. Instead of pushing out into the woods among the farmers, they hang about town. Very little if any of the logging or farming in this county is done in barrooms.

Those who push out generally find work. These who don't, go away cursing the place and everybody in it. Is it so everywhere?—"Star."

A curious experiment with the magnet was recently tried in London. A boy had broken a needle in the calf of his leg, and before resorting to surgical instruments it was decided to try the effect of a powerful magnet in withdrawing the steel. After a number of experiments in different positions the needle was drawn near the surface on the opposite side from which it entered, and was easily withdrawn.

ARTHUR PHINNEY'S REQUIEM.

And is he really stricken dead
In the full flush of manhood's prime,
Like oak tree shattered ere its time
By sudden flash of lightning dread?

The truest friend, the noblest foe,
The tenderest heart, the firmest hand,
The bravest one of all the land—
The stricken Pride of Ludlow.

And must we now return to earth
The stately form, the gentle heart?
Our burning tears unbidden start,
Alas! Alas! the noble worth.

We mourn the Pride of Ludlow,
Who stood so firmly at his post,
And with the friends who loved him most
We wall the stroke that laid him low.

Beloved by all since first he came,
Respected, honored too by all—
Passed from us now beyond recall
He left us none to bear his name.

We mourn the Pride of Ludlow,
Who numbers none among the just,
His soul is with the saints we trust,
We wall the stroke that laid him low.

PUGET SOUND ARGUS.

FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1877.

A GROSS MISREPRESENTATION.

In the valedictory of T. B. Merry, of the Seattle "Dispatch," his misstatement sets up a wall over his newspaper that is supported by a government position which, as he asserts, all other papers have. Among other journals enumerated by him as receiving official support, is the ARGUS, owned, according to his count, by a "man who makes his money in a government hospital." He further declares the inability of any newspaper to live without subsidies, pensions, &c., and admits its inability to publish a paper as a "legitimate business enterprise." Just how much of his statement in regard to this paper is true, we are perfectly willing for the time and the natural course of events to reveal. If we are laboring under the disadvantage of liabilities, no "$750 in hand paid" is expected to help us out of the slough of debt, and on to firm footing. One thing is certain—as we did not come to this place with the expectation of selling our influence, no disappointment will be felt on account of a failure to receive other than legitimate support. If Mr. Merry had been a little more careful to ascertain the authenticity of rumors, he would doubtless have been relieved of the mortification of being stigmatized as a publisher of base assertions.

The ARGUS expects to work its way up hill, simply by an exchange of values with the reading public, based on the determination to make an honest living in an honest community, or die in the attempt, regardless of what other papers may say or do. It receives no official support, and meets none.

The people of the lower Sound and of Port Townsend especially have abundantly shown their willingness to accord an honest and liberal support to a newspaper that has the hardihood to lift itself above all warping influences, and publish reliable news from a free, fair and conscientious standpoint.

Progress of the Trial.

On Saturday last, H. L. Sutton, having been arrested previously by Sheriff Miller and a few assistants, at Freshwater Bay, was brought before W. H. H. Learned, Justice of the Peace, for this precinct, for a preliminary trial. A hearing was granted to witnesses, and the Court decided that the prisoner was guilty of murder in the first degree, and proceeded to bind him over, without bail, to appear at the District Court in September. On Monday the man who was arrested with Sutton, was brought before the same Tribunal, and it was decided that his case did not come within the jurisdiction of the Court, so he was held to answer at the next sitting of the District Court, for being accessory to the crime after the fact. His bond was fixed at $1,000; and, in default, he was sent to jail.

Sheriff Miller certainly deserves great credit for the prompt and decided manner with which he discharged his duty after returning to this place, and learning of the murder.

It now seems that Mr. R. Hayes, who was so severely and unjustly censured for inactivity as the deputy of the Sheriff, was no deputy at all. This being the case, apologies to that gentleman are the order of the day.

SPECIAL ELECTION.—According to the order of Gov. Ferry, a special election is to be held in the counties of San Juan and Clallam, on the 12th inst., to choose a Joint Representative to the Territorial legislature, from the counties above named; none having been chosen at the regular election. Capt. Abernathy, of Dungeness, and Mr. E. D. Warbas, of San Juan island, are the opposing candidates, the regular count having resulted in a tie between them. The last named gentleman, however competent and suitable, does not come within the list of our acquaintances; hence we cannot recommend from any personal knowledge his claims upon the people. Capt. Abernathy has long been a respected member of the society of Dungeness; and as he has filled minor positions of trust with credit to himself, and as his ability to meet the expectations of his constituents is not questioned, we would say, vote for him—not because of his Republican principles, but in view of the foregoing facts which we can substantiate.

ARE MENTAL IMPRESSIONS INDELIBLE?

As a rule, great men have great memories. A mental organism, indeed, to be eminent, must of necessity have a tenacious hold upon all that impinges upon its tablet; else it were almost vain to store such a mind with useful information. Thoughts would die as soon as they were born; our knowledge concerning ourselves and the cosmogony of material things would be painfully evanescent, while, in its crippled condition, the inability of our mind to retain what it had received would forever mock our liveliest desires for acquisition.

A recent memory may be natural or acquired. And yet, strange to say, few of those to whom this heavenly gift comes as a birthright, ever put it to such goodly uses as are commensurate with its priceless value. Enough has been said, then, to warrant the conclusion that the greater number of those who have accumulated large measures of human knowledge and ascended the highest pillar of fame, are those who have cultivated habits of the most stern and unrelenting industry. We may conclude, moreover, that where natural endowment is happily united with human effort, a large acquisition and brilliant success must be the inevitable result. The case of Lord Macaulay illustrates this. Mr. Trevelyan has written a new biography of the great historian; a volume abounding in some very interesting and valuable reminiscences of his earlier life. It is related that when a young boy he went with his father to call upon a friend. While his father was absorbed in conversation, he read the whole of Scott's "Lay of the last Minstrel," a copy of which he had found on the table, and when he went home he recited as much of it to his mother as she had patience to hear. On another occasion, when only thirteen years of age, he found a newspaper in a Cambridge coffee house, containing two pieces of poetry, the one entitled, "Reflections of an exile," the other, "A parody on a Welsh ballad." Mr. Trevelyan says, "He looked them through once, and never gave them a thought for forty years, at the end of which time he repeated them both, without missing, or as far as he knew, changing a single word." We once heard a Brahmin say he never forgot anything after having heard or read it. Among the most eminent metaphysicians, indelibility of thought is regarded as the rule, while forgetfulness is only the temporary covering up of one impression or stratum of thought by others.

Dr. Abercrombie and Prof. Upham have expressed the opinion that there is no such thing as absolute forgetfulness; but that an impression once having found lodgment in the tissues of the brain is there forever. To substantiate this, instances are adduced where drowning persons, having been resuscitated, relate that, previous to returning consciousness, the whole of their past lives had passed in terrible and truthful review before their spiritual gaze; coming out in as bold relief as the doings of yesterday. If this point be well taken, how signally does it point to that unshackled condition that shall doubtless be the heavenly and perpetual estate of disembodied souls! Nay, reasoning a priori, there can be no forgetfulness in Heaven. But, on the contrary, once established in that realm where "there is no night," there is everything to warrant us that our knowledge, in regard to God, his glorious attributes and his works, like one of those mathematical increasing series, shall go on, forever and forever!

MYSTERY DISPELLED.—By the Victoria "Colonist" of the 3d inst., comes news of the ill-fated steamer George S. Wright, so long the subject of conjecture and doubt. The information seems to be authentic, and was obtained from an Indian miner named Coma, who was a coal passer on board the above named vessel at the time of her destruction. His confession was that the boilers of the vessels exploded at night, and she began to sink at once. Capt. Ainsley, with four U. S. officers and a passenger, got into a boat and called him to get in too. They rowed safely to shore near Cape Caution, and obtained blankets to keep them warm of the Indians. Shortly afterwards three canoe loads of Indians came along, and were ordered by the captain $300 to convey the party to Port Rupert, which they refused to do and proceeded to kill the whites, robbing them of all valuables and sinking their bodies in deep water. The supposition is that all the people on board who were in bed at the time of the explosion were drowned, as the boat went down almost immediately. This Indian Coma seems to have successfully evaded the police until quite recently, when he ventured into Nanaimo, where he was arrested and induced to confess what he was doubtless afraid to reveal before, for fear of punishment from the other Indians. He has identified two other prisoners as belonging to the party of murderers.

Fossil Remains on Whidby Island.

Capt. Chas. Willoughby, of the U. S. Coast Survey schooner Fauntleroy, while engaged in surveying on Whidby Island last week, discovered in the exposed bluff along the shore opposite Port Townsend, a large bed of fossil remains. They were those of some large animal, and the erosion of the bank by the waters of the Sound had left part of them exposed, while a portion were already washed down, and covered by the caving sand. The bones were very brittle, and great care had to be exercised in uncovering them; but the patience of the party was rewarded with success, for soon they had teeth, thigh bone, ribs, &c., of the long-buried stranger, and these proved him to be a well preserved specimen of the Eliphas Americanus, or Great American Elephant. The thigh bone was over four feet in length, and will give some little idea of the size of this specimen. In the space the stomach originally occupied were found petrified twigs showing that the food of this animal was the smaller branches of trees and shrubs the same as that of the elephant of today found in Africa and Asia.

We are glad to know Capt. Lawson proposes to carefully remove all these remains and have them placed in some scientific institution. Such evidences are the most reliable record of the past history of this part of Puget Sound, and tell us not only of the nature of the mineral wealth in its immediate vicinity.

PUGET SOUND ARGUS.

LOCAL NEWS.

A FEW days ago a friend came from the Skagit river, and reports the country over there improving rapidly. The large amount of lumber in the river is nearly cleared out; new settlers are coming in all the time, and there is plenty room and good land for more. In Mr. D. E. Gager's store a fine large stock of dry goods and groceries is displayed, supplying all the wants of settlers. The Horn Bros. have just put up a good hotel building, capable of accommodating 60 or 70 persons; and the most commendable part of their enterprise is that they expect to establish a business on purely temperance principles. Keep whiskey away from a newly settled country, and you have accomplished all the good that could possibly attend any ordinary philanthropic efforts.

MR. J. M. OWENS formerly a resident of Puget Sound, and for some time engaged in mercantile at Dunsmuir, has just returned after a similar occupation for about four years in the State of Georgia. He is looking better than hearty, though much older than when his good-natured countenance was more familiar among old associates out West. He proposes to stay in this part of the country at least until next fall, and perhaps permanently. There is a charm about Puget Sound life that can never be gotten rid of by those who leave after having enjoyed it for a season.

THE M. E. Church building in this town is still undergoing repairs, and when finished will present a very creditable appearance, having been almost rebuilt. Credit is due to the members of the society here who have labored so faithfully to make their house of worship what it should be—a neat, pleasant and comfortable place. The Sunday school held at Dr. Hill's is opened as usual, instead of at 2:30, as stated in our last issue.

ACCORDING to the report of our school examination, as shown elsewhere, it will be seen that the term has closed with a flattering exhibit. Mr. Huffman, the competent and successful principal, has acquitted himself in the most creditable manner; and, should the town be able always to secure the services of as suitable a person for the position, it will indeed be fortunate.

A STRAWBERRY Festival is in progress for the purpose of raising funds to complete the improvements on the M. E. Church building at this place. It is to be held on Tuesday evening, June 19th, 1877. The Committee of Arrangements is as follows: Dr. N. D. Hill, President; W. F. Kilgore, Committee on Refreshments; Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Toke and Mrs. Bill.

OWING to the rapid increase of our circulation, and consequent draft upon this office for extra copies of the paper, a few of our exchanges and no unsupplied last week; but, having ordered two extra quires for the immediate future, we trust to be able to meet all demands from this time on.

LAST Saturday and Sunday, Rev. A. Atwood, of the M. E. Church at Seattle, held the regular quarterly meeting at Dunsmuir. On Sunday morning the attendance was one of the largest ever collected at that place, and the interest manifested, more than usual.

A FEW days ago we had the pleasure of sampling some strawberries from the garden of J. J. Hunt, Esq., of this place, the fine berry, not larger than some of its fellows, measured 3/4 inches in circumference.

THIS week the prospectus of a new weekly journal came to hand—the "North Pacific Terminus." It is to be located at New Tacoma, with Wm. Pickens as editor and proprietor; terms, $3 per year.

EXAMINATION OF PORT TOWNSEND SCHOOLS.

Held May 30, 31 and June 1, 1877. Pupil ranking highest in the several grades were: First Grade.—E. P. Plummer. Second Grade.—Frank Pettygrove and Mary Plummer. Third Grade.—Thomas Butler, Kate Morgan, Ella Plummer, and A. A. Plummer. Fourth Grade.—Leonard Butler, John Van Bokkelen, Norman Sweeney, Perseus McCabe. Fifth Grade.—Henry Bracken, Nettie Tibbals, James McCabe, Harriet Appleton, Willie Learned, Ella King, Regine Rothchild, Louis Rothchild, Louise Stockand, Mary Hammond. Sixth Grade.—Blossom Sheehan, Frank Plummer, Harry Flint, Sophia Bleuschild. Whole number enrolled during the year was 116. Average attendance, 76. The Primary Department had the best attendance, and the Intermediate the fewest. Four pupils required corporal punishment. Visiting attending during the year, 110. The best attendance was during the months of September, February and March. The least attendance was during December and May. Regina Rothchild and Frank Plummer were new arrivals, and tardy but once each. Through the promotion have been reviewed chiefly for the annual examination. Several have been promoted at various times, that they might not be kept back by their classes.

All in all, the year has been a pleasant one, and the teachers' desire, to express their gratitude for the interest and encouragement manifested by the School Board and parents.

To the pupils we say again, that your diligence and politeness at school will long be remembered.

A. R. HOFFMAN, Principal.

THE TOURIST IN EUROPE.

The following letter from our correspondent, dated at Edinburgh, Scotland, April 20, 1877, gives an idea of a tourist's experience: "We spent a day in Liverpool, one in Manchester and a week in London. It is a great and wonderful city, and the sights that we saw in that brief space of time were enough to fill a lifetime. The first place we turned the corner abruptly, and there the full glory of that immense edifice burst upon us. I was prepared to see a large building, but its huge size and magnificent architecture fairly overwhelmed me. It stands in St. Paul's churchyard—its roof covering four or five acres of ground, but the plot looks cramped from the size of the great cathedral. Its dome is 80 ft. in diameter; 370 ft. to the top of the cross. The church is 550x230 ft. built in the shape of a cross. The nave inside are generally filled with monuments and statues of famous Englishmen; but they do not generally rank high as works of art. In the crypt, which is an immense vault, covering the underground portion of the dome, are buried the greatest sailor and the greatest soldier that Great Britain can boast—Admiral Horatio Nelson, and F. M. Arthur, Duke of Wellington.

The next day we visited Westminster Abbey. I had formed a high conception of the noble cemetery where rests the dust of more than twenty generations of illustrious Englishmen, and I was not disappointed. I spent a half-day within its sacred walls, gazing with interest and admiration upon the effigies, statues and monuments erected over the dust of the great men who lie buried there. As Fortune would have it, we entered the building by the North transept, and the first object that met my gaze was the monument to the idol of my boyhood days—the Great Earl of Chatham. He stands with "outstretched arm and eagle eye, bidding England be of good cheer and hurl defiance at her foes." It stands in a niche in the wall, probably 20 feet from the floor, the lower part being taken up with a pedestal in front of which are grouped three female figures reclining and representing History, Poetry and Justice. It is admirable as a work of art. His dust rests beneath. At the extreme end of the North aisle opposite, stands the monument surmounted by the statue of the younger Pitt, who was even greater as a parliamentary leader than "the Great Commoner," his father. But I have not time or space to tell of the testimonials erected to the memory of Wilberforce, Canning, Sheridan, Fox, Burke, Dryden, Goldsmith, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Shakespeare, Watts, Palmerston, and a host of others. There are tablets with medallion likenesses of the two Wesleys, and of Isaac Watts; but I missed that of the great dissenter, John Bunyan.

I saw, in Henry the Seventh's chapel, the tombs with effigies on top of them in stone, marble and alabaster, of twenty-one kings and queens, and several scores of knights and barons; but they did not interest me so much as the monuments to the great men who won their places in this abode by their heroic deeds and immortal names. One is being erected to Macaulay, but it is not yet finished. To a man who can spare the time and money, Westminster Abbey is well worth a visit of 3,000 miles to see. Westminster Hall, which stands close by, is a great building both in size and the beauty of its design. The Hall of the House of Commons is small and not imposing. It is only capable of holding 400 members, whereas there are 600. There are only cushioned benches with desks. The panels in the walls of the corridors, however, are filled with paintings representing scenes in the history of the British Empire, such as the Last Sleep of Argyle; Charles the First, of Nottingham; Speaker Parnell asserting the Privileges of Parliament. The Departure of the Pilgrims.

Of the Natural Gallery of Art, I can only say with the man who hauled sand up hill, "I can't do the subject justice." I saw 200 in all my life a tenth part of the fine paintings I saw that day. The gallery I believe is valued at about fifteen millions of dollars. There are to be found the choicest works of all the English masters—of Sir Joshua Reynolds, Gainsborough, Landseer, Turner, Leslie and dozens of others. Besides these there are six large galleries filled with the works of Michael Angelo, Titian, Vandyke, Rubens, Murillo and a hundred others of the most famous of the Italian, Flemish, Dutch, and Spanish Schools. I give the palm to the English, save only Claude Lorraine. I had no idea that the English excelled so much in fine arts.

In the British museum, devoted to zoology, geology, botany, and ancient statues, I spent a day. It cost $17,500, and is too immense to more than refer to. The Zoological Gardens in Regents Park is the receptacle of more wild animals and birds and reptiles than I ever dreamed were in existence; and I am sure the originals never came out of any ark, but must have been differentiated according to the theory of evolution. I spent the Sabbath in investigating this highly scientific subject—a portion of the day in driving round and viewing the palaces of the British aristocracy. I have not yet quite determined whether I would sooner be a Duke or a brewer, some of the brewers having palaces that vie with the noblest Dukes.

In the District Court for the Third Judicial District of the Territory of Washington holding terms at Port Townsend, for the Counties of Jefferson, Clallam, Island, Whatcom and San Juan.

GEORGE BARFIELD, vs. EMMA E. BARFIELD, his wife, Plaintiff, vs. MELICIOUS GAY, FIELDS and SARAH E. GARFIELD, his wife, Defendants.

Action brought in the District Court of the Third Judicial District of the Territory of Washington, holding terms at Port Townsend for the Counties of Jefferson, Clallam, Island, Whatcom and San Juan, and to answer the complaint filed therein within twenty days of the date of service, after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county; or, if served out of said district, then within sixty days of judgment, by default, will be taken against you according to the prayer of said complaint. The said action is brought to recover of you jointly and severally a judgment for $14,000 legal interest from the date, being the balance due from you to plaintiff for the rent of a certain house and premises in Port Townsend, W. T., from July 1, 1874 to April 9, 1877, and the costs and disbursements thereon, and that the separate property of defendant Sarah E. Garfield, be charged with the payment of said judgment, and you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint above served, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for relief therein demanded, all of which you more fully appear by reference to the complaint, a true and certified copy of which is attached to and accompanies this summons.

Witness the Hon. J. R. Lewis, Judge of said Court, this 10th day of April, A. D. 1877. JAMES SEAVY, Clerk. D. W. SMITH, Atty for Plaintiff. C. M. BRADSHAW, W. A. LISMAN, BRADSHAW & INMAN, ATTORNEYS AT LAW AND PROMOTERS in Admiralty. Port Townsend, W. T.

CENTAUR

LINIMENT.

One kind for the Human Family. The other for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvelous.

The White Liniment is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cures Lumbago, Chilblains, Lockjaw, Palsy, Itch, and most cutaneous eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands and feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind. When sprains or bruises occur, it is the most potent remedy ever discovered to heal the injured parts. The Centaur Liniment is used with great efficacy for sore throat, toothache, caked breasts, earache and weak back. The following is but a sample of numerous testimonials:

"Indiana Home Jeff. Co. Ind., May 26, 1873. 'I think it my duty to inform you that I have suffered much with swollen feet and corns. A few bottles of Centaur Liniment has done the work for me. I have not been free from these swellings in eight years. Now I am perfectly well. The Liniment is quite as applied warm. BENJAMIN BROWN.'"

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy, it is cheap, and every family should have the White Centaur Liniment.

The Yellow Centaur Liniment is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures, in three years, of sprain, strain, wind-galls, scratches, swellings, and general lameness, than all other remedies in existence. Head what the great expression say of it:

"New York, January, 1874. 'Every owner of horses should give the Centaur Liniment a trial. I've conducted the best article ever used in our stables.' 'H. M. Litch, Supt. Adams Ek. Stables, N. Y.' 'J. P. Lutz, Supt. U. S. Cavalry, N. Y.' 'ALB. S. OLLI, Supt. Nat. Ek. Stables, N. Y.'"

The best patrons of this Liniment are Farriers and Veterinary Surgeons, who are continually using some Liniment. It heals galls, wounds and poll evil, venereal swellings, and is worth millions of dollars annually to farriers, liverymen, stock-growers, sheep-railers and those having horses or cattle. What a farmer cannot do for $20 the Centaur Liniment will do at a trifling cost. These Liniments are sold by all dealers throughout the country. They are warranted by the proprietors, and a bottle will be given to any farrier or physician who desires to test them.

HONEY.

Pitche's Castoria is a complete substitute for Castor Oil, and is as pleasant to take as honey. It is particularly adapted to feeble and irritable children. It destroys worms, assimilates the food, regulates the stomach, and cures colic. Few remedies so soon and so completely cure colic, worms and whooping-cough. Castoria is a scientific and purely vegetable preparation, more effective than Castor Oil, and neither gives nor gives occasion for feverishness, cramps, or other dangerous symptoms. It is sold by all druggists and other matters connected with Marine Insurance and maritime affairs. Will also attend to a specialty of attending to business connected with the Probate Court.

JAMES C. SWAN, Attorney at Law, Probate in Admiralty AND NOTARY PUBLIC. Special attention paid to writing and extracting Marine Protests; preparing reports on Marine surveys; general average and claims; and all other matters connected with Marine Insurance and maritime affairs. Will also attend to a specialty of attending to business connected with the Probate Court.
