Port Townsend Hospital.

The above institution having been placed on a permanent footing, as the United States Hospital for Marine Patients on Puget Sound, the proprietor takes pleasure in announcing that no pains or expense will be spared in ministering to the comfort and convenience of private patients.

This is the largest General Hospital north of San Francisco, and by far the most complete in equipment. It has been thoroughly refitted and refurnished. Its general wards have accommodations for about one hundred patients and are peculiarly adapted for cases requiring the most careful treatment and constant supervision at limited expense. Those who desire them will be furnished with private rooms, entirely separate and distinct, at a slight additional cost.

The attention of Mill owners, and those interested in shipping, is called to the fact that seamen suffering from contagious diseases will be treated outside the Hospital without expense to the vessel.

Never Give Up While Life Shall Last.

Never give up while life shall last! Though disappointments come; Success awaits the steadfast soul; Wherever he may roam; Your course may often be misjudged, Your motives misconstrued, But conscience tells you when you're right, Though wrong you may be viewed.

Never give up while life shall last! But bear a joyful part, Although 'tis true a smile may oft Conceal a saddened heart—Made sad, perhaps, to think that those By whom in need you stood, Repay you with an ingrate's scorn And base ingratitude.

Never give up while life shall last! Though you are left alone; Resolve you'll win a deathless name Which you can call your own. Firm resolution makes the man; It leads to wealth and fame; Though you may oft be scorned by those Whose welfare was your aim.

Never give up while life shall last! Though ill may oft provoke; Show mortals you've a spirit still That never yet was broke. Your foes may triumph for awhile, But other days will come, When right shall triumph over wrong, And seal its destined doom.

Never give up while life shall last! Though few the friends you meet; He wins whose courage never fails; To him there's no defeat. Let not the star of hope grow dim Where truth and right prevail, There's a sure success for him who wills, There's no such word as fail!

A Poet's Prosperity.

Bryant has made more money than any poet that ever lived. It has, however, not been the product of his muse, but of his newspaper. To this is to be added the fact that he is of simple habits, and cannot but be moderate in general expenses. He is estimated to be worth from $400,000 up to $600,000. No other editor except Bennett has exceeded this sum, or even equalled it, while, as for poets, which of this gifted clan ever dreamed of such successes? Bryant, indeed, reminds us (in this point at least) of what Jeffrey said of Byron in his critique, "He never lived in a garret like thorough-bred poets." But wealth never inflated his vanity. It came as the earnings of a great journal, and was never used for display.

The Heroine of a Mesalliance.

A Washington correspondent of the Buffalo Commercial says, in speaking of some women in the Interior Department: "That black-eyed, musical-voiced beauty whom you see conversing with the head of a bureau is one of the women you have so often read about and never yet seen, who in the warmth and veridancy of maidenhood, marry their father's servants and then are disowned and ostracised. This was her break! She had spent a year or more in travelling over Europe with her father, who was a wealthy New York merchant. She was tutored in the best culture and walked the social path of her parents, but under a too strict surveillance. The only man she came in close contact with outside of her relatives was her father's coachman. He was young and fine-looking. Her heart was captured and the coachman, though fortunately a man of conscience, could not resist the opportunity. They were married and the bride was banished from home to the humble lot of her husband. But she accepted her fate, and went to teaching and writing. Finally she secured employment of the Government in preparing official reports, etc., and she not only holds that position now, but is a liberally paid contributor to periodical literature. Her love of her husband has never grown cold; he does what work he can. Though her mother and brothers still live (her father is dead) in opulence in New York, she has never been called home nor forgiven."

There are thirty contested seats in the Forty-fourth Congress.

EUROPEAN CORRESPONDENCE.

MONACO, Jan. 10, 1875.

Monaco is a principality between Mentone and Nice. It is the smallest Government in the world. I should say that it is about one mile long, and half a mile wide. The town of Monaco is on a bold rocky headland that makes out into the sea, precipitous on all sides and strongly fortified.

The prince is a very old man and blind. His army consists of eighty men and is very amusing.

On the main land, but within the principality, is Monte Carlo, the last refuge of the gamblers of Europe, who made the watering places of the valley of the Rhine so notorious—Wiesbaden, Baden Baden, Hombourg, and other places. When they were driven from Germany they took refuge here, paying an immense sum annually to the prince besides beautifying the place with elegant drives, lighting it with gas, &c. Their annual gross gains are estimated to be ten million francs, or two million dollars. These receipts vary very much at different seasons of the year, but make an average gross receipt of $6,479.40 per day, or $456.60 per hour, or $7.61 per minute—the hours and minutes being only those of actual play. The prince receives $24,000 per annum. I am at a loss to see why people will play when such facts as these are before them.

PLEASANT LOCATION.

I am very pleasantly situated at the Hotel Beau Rivage, were I have a warm room and good food. The room is warmed by the sun, and has a temperature of about 60 degrees day and night. I can have a fire there if I want it. I have been here a week, and seem to be gaining every day. Twice a day I go to a "laiterie" and get a glass of goat's milk. The goat is brought down from the mountains, is milked before me and I drink it warm. It tastes very nice and will be beneficial. It is much pleasanter here than at Nice. Nice is not nice—there are bad smells there and poor drainage. Here all is fresh and sweet.

CONCERTS.

There are many attractions here. Free concerts three hours every day, by what is said to be the best orchestra in Europe. There are eighty performers, and their playing reminds me of Thomas's orchestra of New York. Also a free reading room, where all the principal papers of the world may be seen. These are supported by the gamblers. The orchestra costs $50,000 a year, so you may judge of the value of this musical treat.

GARDENS.

All around the Casino, as their establishment is called at Monte Carlo, are the most beautiful terraced gardens filled with tropical plants and flowering shrubs. The date palm is there with its feathery branches and its delicious fruit, together with many varieties of the aloe, cactus, &c. The whole place has a tropical appearance. I cannot begin to give you an idea of the many artistic beauties of that exquisite garden. There is a grove of stalactites covered with ivy; many inclined stairways where every step is of mosaic of a different pattern. Beds of roses in full bloom, an aviary of singing birds, olive trees, pine trees, heliotrope, African pepper tree, &c.

THE PRINCE'S GARDEN.

The other day I took a walk through the garden of the Prince. After walking up a long inclined road, we passed through the city gate and were shortly after wandering among the shady walks of the garden. It was a bright sunny day, and, with the ocean dashing the foot of the cliff on one side, and the lovely tropical foliage of aloe, cactus and palms on the other, the scene was enchanting in the extreme. The garden is protected by walls on the side toward the sea, and on looking over the edge we could see the face of the precipice covered with cactus and aloe, and far below the surf beating on the rocks.

The scenery here is much like Switzerland, but is on a smaller scale. Mountains rise from the edge of the sea to a height of 3000 or 4000 feet. To the east is seen the headland of Cape Martin, covered with verdure, and beyond is the coast of Italy. Nearer along the shore may be traced the line of the railroad winding around the bays and plunging through the headlands, with bridges, culverts and tunnels innumerable. On the hillsides may be seen the dark foliage of the olive, a tree whose whole appearance is almost perfectly represented by our willow. Above are the bare limestone cliffs, and above all is the bright blue of the sky. The air is pure, the sun is warm and everything is charming. I propose to remain here as long as I can.

The weather in Paris, since I left, has been dreadful in the extreme. This place seems like a paradise indeed, when compared with what is all around us, and as my health is so much improved, I think it more prudent for me to remain until spring, rather than risk the chance of a severe cold, or perhaps a serious illness, if I should too soon visit a colder climate; and as there is a good deal of interest here I shall write you several letters while I remain.

C. H. S.

Good Nature at Home.

No trait of character is more valuable in a wife than the possession of a sweet temper. Home can never be made happy without it. It is like the flowers that spring up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us. Let a man go home at night weary and worn out by the toils of the day, and how soothing is a word dictated by a sweet disposition! It is the sunshine falling on his heart. He is happy, and the cares of life are forgotten. A sweet temper has a soothing influence over the mind of the whole family. When it is found in the wife and mother, you perceive true kindness predominating over the natural feeling of a bad heart. Smiles, kind words and looks characterize the children; peace and love have their dwelling there. A sweet temper is more valuable than gold. It captivates more than beauty, and to the close of life retains all its freshness and power. One of the most precious reminiscences of life is where children can look back upon early home as the abode of cheerful good nature and affection.

Curiosities of Life.

Lay your finger upon your pulse, and know that every stroke some person crosses the river of death.

Half of all who live die before seventeen.

One out of ten thousand lives to be one hundred years old, and but one in a hundred reaches sixty.

The married live longer than the single.

There is one soldier to every eight persons, and out of every thousand born only five weddings take place.

If you take a thousand persons who have reached seventy years, there are of clergymen, orators and public speakers, 44; farmers, 40; workmen, 33; soldiers, 22; lawyers, 29; professors, 27; doctors, 24.

THE SHAH'S STRONG BOX.

The strong box of the Shah of Persia consists of a small room 20x14 feet. Here spread upon carpets, lie jewels valued at $75,000,000. Chief among them is the Kaianian crown, shaped like a flower pot, and topped by an uncut ruby as large as a hen's egg, and supposed to have come from Siam.

Near the crown are two lamb-skin caps adorned with aigrettes of diamonds, and before them lie trays of pearl, ruby and emerald necklaces, and hundreds of costly rings.

A Mr. Eastwick, who is reported to have been allowed to examine the collection, states that conspicuous among the gauntlets and belts covered with pearls and diamonds is the Kaianian belt, about a foot deep, weighing perhaps eighteen pounds, and one complete mass of pearls, diamonds emeralds and rubies.

Two scabbards of swords are said to be worth a quarter of a million each. There is also the finest torquis in the world four inches long, and without a flaw; and an emerald as big as a walnut covered with the names of kings who have possessed it.

The Sea Mouse.

The sea-mouse is one of the prettiest creatures that live under water. It sparkles like a diamond, and is radiant with all colors of the rainbow, although it lives in the mud at the bottom of the ocean. It should not be called a mouse for it is larger than a big rat. It is covered with scales that move up and down as it breathes, and glitters like gold shining through a fleecy down, from which fine silky bristles wave, that constantly change from one brilliant tint to another, so that, as Cuvier, the great naturalist says, the plumage of the humming bird is no more beautiful. Sea-mice are sometimes thrown up on the beach by storms.

A Jewess Buried Alive.

A shocking case of premature interment recently took place in the burial ground of the Jewish community in Brody, Galicia. The Jews, as is well-known, are prohibited, keeping corpses in their houses more than one day, and in accordance with this prohibition, deceased Israelites are generally buried twenty-four hours after death. A Jewish lady, the wife of a wealthy merchant, residing at Brody, had been a long sufferer, and was interred the day following her demise. After the week of mourning prescribed by the Jewish law had passed over, the bereaved husband was animated by the singular desire of opening his wife's grave, that he might gaze upon her once more. The Jewish Rabbi granted him permission, and the widower was horrified to find, when the coffin was open, the shroud in which the corpse was attired completely covered with blood. There were all the signs of a premature interment, and a fearful struggle for life.

Looking Glasses.—A mirror hung where the sun can shine on it is usually spoiled. It makes a granulated appearance familiar to housekeepers, though they may not be acquainted with the cause of the change. In such a state the article is nearly worthless, the continuity of the surface is destroyed and it will not reflect outlines with any approach to precision. Care must therefore be exercised in hanging.

One who thinks he knows all about farming says the best way to raise strawberries is with a spoon.

SATURDAY, APRIL 3, 1875.

THE QUILLEHUYTE COUNTRY.

We give place to the following from our special correspondent "R." with pleasure.

NEAH BAY, March 22, 1875.

EDITOR ARGUS:

As very little is known of the agricultural resources of this part of the Territory I send you the following which may interest parties wishing to settle on good land.

Twelve miles south of the Quillehuyte is another river, with a number of prairies equally as extensive.

At present the settlers go by trail from Duangness, or by canoe from this place.

According to the New York Tribune, which is good authority relative to Pacific Mail matters, the company's steamers are to receive five dollars for each through passenger carried by the overland railways.

IMMIGRATION.

Mr. W. Martin, of the Immigration Union, is on the way to Kansas to escort from that State a colony of about fifty families many of whom were sufferers from the grasshopper plague.

Now, while it is palpable that emigration from the grasshopper districts of the Western States to this coast is, in many respects, to be commended, it is not a little singular that the immigrants allow themselves to be cajoled by California speculators to such an astonishing degree as to take up with the arid plains and barren sandhills of the southern part of that State, where occur droughts—for example those of 1868 and 1869—to which the evil they are seeking to avoid bears no comparison.

A New Orleans dispatch says that General Augur, in command of the Texas border, telegraphed to Fort Brown to know if there was any truth in the rumors of raids and murders by Mexicans.

W. R. Bird's residence, near Crossfield, Md., was burned on the 30th ult., and two children perished in the flames.

The Secretary of the Treasury, on the 30th ult., directed Treasurer Spinner to withdraw from the available currency the balance of the Treasury $1,438,000 legal tenders, and to cancel and destroy them, the amount being 80 per cent. of the additional circulation issued to the National Banks the present month.

United States Treasurer Spinner has resigned, to take effect on July 1st. It is understood he pressed upon the President the necessity for his retirement.

It is stated positively that John C. LOCAL NEWS

Meteorological Observations.

Port Townsend, April 3, 1875. The following is a report for the month of March: Maximum of barometer, 30.12; Minimum of barometer, 28.99; Maximum of thermometer, 48°; Minimum of thermometer, 34°; Rain fall during the month, 3.99 in; Number of days on which rain fell 24. L. NESSEL, Observer.

PUGET SOUND CUSTOMS DISTRICT.—During the month of March the following number of vessels entered and cleared: Entered, 48; tonnage, 21,745. Cleared, 37; tonnage, 15,493. Total number, 85; total tonnage, 37,238. Exports, foreign, $49,425.

It is a noteworthy fact that while at nearly every port on the Sound more or less casualties have occurred from the high winds and storms of the past month Port Townsend has been entirely exempt. Vessels have lain in perfect security in our harbor, steamers have come and gone, and naught has transpired to disturb, for any length of time, the ordinary routine of business.

OCEAN STEAMERS.—The growing importance of this port as a maritime center is becoming more and more obvious daily, any reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Heretofore the wharf has been relieved of the freight of the Los Angeles, and the whistles of mail and passenger boats ceased to reverberate in our midst, when the steamship California from Sitka stopped here, followed in quick succession by the Los Angeles on her return to San Francisco, and the Gussie Telfair on her way from Portland to Sitka.

A SON AND DAUGHTER of our esteemed townsman, Dr. N. D. Hill—Dan and Katie—returned home last Thursday, after an absence of six months at school in Salem, Oregon, where their standing in scholarship and deportment has been such as to merit, and win, the approval of their teachers and classmates. On their arrival in this city friends and former school-mates eagerly repaired to welcome them, with exhibitions of joy and gladness.

THE Los Angeles, the first of the new line of steamers recently laid on between the Sound and San Francisco arrived at this port the 31st ult. She is commanded by Capt. Howell, with Capt. Doyle, Master of the Mastick, as first mate. Her arrival was signaled by a display of the stars and stripes from the flag-staffs and unusual enthusiasm of the populace. Remarkably rough weather prevailed on the passage up from San Francisco, which port she left on the 27th. Her passenger list numbered about a hundred, over one half of whom were seeking homes on the Sound. Out of about ninety tons of freight consigned to the various ports on the Sound, sixteen tons were for Port Townsend—103 pigs for Rothschild & Co., 27 do. for C. Eisenbeis, and 2 do. for H. A. Webster.

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.—On the 10th ult., the sloop Thornton, Capt. George Brown, left Victoria for the west coast of Vancouver Island, having on board goods to be distributed to the Indian chief Mahakia, and others of his tribe who rendered assistance to the unfortunate crew of the American bark Edwin, wrecked at Heshquiat Point, V. I., a few months ago. These Indians are part of the same tribe who murdered the crew of the ship John Bright some years ago, and were severely punished by the British Government, three of whom were hanged at the place where the crew were murdered. The promptness of our Government in rewarding them for their services in the case of the ship Edwin will teach them that it is more profitable to save than to destroy. Our consul at Victoria is deserving of credit for the promptness displayed in placing the matter before the Government, whose quick action will perhaps be the means of saving the lives of unfortunate seamen cast away on the rock-bound shore of Vancouver Island. There is no doubt that many vessels have been wrecked there and not a vestige left to tell the sad tale of murder and pillage. The following is a list of the goods: 13 prs. of blankets; 6 bbls. flour; 1 bbl. sugar; 2 bbls. molasses; 3 boxes tobacco; 10 boxes bread; 1 pipe pipes; 1 do. matches. The Superintendent of Indian Affairs for British Columbia, Doctor Powell, also made the Chief Mahakia a present of a splendid silver medal, with the name of the vessel and the services rendered, engraved on it, which he now wears with great pride. I had a conversation with some Clyquotots, the other day, who said that after a gale, the Indians along the coast would look out for the Boston ships, and save the men if they could.

JOHN E. BURNS, Esq., long a resident of this town, started last Friday, with his family, for San Francisco, which city he proposes to make his future abode. The good wishes of a large circle of friends will attend him thither.

THE little steam-ferry boat Fannie, plying on Port Discovery Bay, and laid up during the last two weeks, undergoing repairs, is now making her regular trips. She has all new tubes in her boiler and machinery and hull have been thoroughly repaired.

THE Postmaster-General has accepted the proposal of Mr. J. F. Tukey for carrying the mail between Port Townsend and Port Discovery for four years from the 1st of July next. Mr. Tukey has carried the mail on the above route the past thirteen years, and never failed to deliver it on schedule time.

FREE GRADING.—A little free grading was done on the rear end of the property owned by Mr. Plummer on Franklin street during the past week, through the influence of water on the bluff causing a portion of it to slide.

ON DIT.—That while the steamer Libby, by reason of tempestuous weather, was lying in a snug harbor at Whatcom, or thereabouts, the little steamer Phantom was performing her trips with regularity and precision.

OUR thanks are due the gentlemanly purser of the Los Angeles, Mr. Horton, for late copies of San Francisco papers.

Celebration at St. Paul's Church.

The Sunday-School Festival of St. Paul's Episcopal Church was held on the evening of Easter Sunday. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather there were fifty of the scholars in attendance. When we have to chronicle the unheard of event of eight inches of snow on the ground and a strong north-east wind blowing on Easter-Sunday, we cannot but praise the zeal of the children in making their way thither; but Easter being the queen of festivals in the Church, both old and young make an earnest effort to attend them, yet there were more than a dozen of the scholars who were unable to be present.

The classes of the school had names assigned to them as follows: "The Lambs of the Flock;" "The Children of the Heavenly King;" "The Young Messengers;" "The Young Mariners;" "The Young Soldiers;" and "The Young Reapers."

Each class carried a banner with an appropriate device as they marched to the church for inspection and examination by the Pastor. An offering for the work of the Church was presented. The offering of the evening amounted to $23.00. There was one feature of the Festival that was novel and very appropriate; it was a star of over two feet in diameter, partly decorated and mounted on a stand four feet high. Across the centre of it we could discern the outlines of the name Jesus. We were soon taught the meaning of this for every child who went to the church carried a bouquet which was placed in the opening designed for it in the star, and which went to make up the name Jesus. When the name was thus brought out and beautified, and the scholars had given the various names for the Savior found in Scripture and the last one stood and gave her title for Jesus, "The Morning Star," all the children arose and sang "Jesus is our Morning Star." The effect was grand, and it appeared as though the children in the temple were prolonging their hosannas to the Son of David.

The Rev. Mr. Hyland, in a few selected words showed how the name of Jesus was being honored and glorified from the day of His resurrection to the present, and how it would increase in honor and power until all creatures should become His. The festival was a grand success; and the singing fine, both in time and tune. The Church was trimmed with evergreens and such choice flowers as could be had at this season.

PERILS OF BARBERISM.

A Citizen's Adventure After a Shave.

A worthy citizen undertook to trim his beard, a short time since, and by a slip of the scissors spoiled the cut. He trimmed a little more, and still more, but it would look lop-sided. So he went to the barber's and got shaved for the first time in twelve years. He was very busy, and business detained him in his office until a late hour of the night, and when he went home he found that his family had retired. This was not an unusual occurrence, so he silently entered by means of a passage-way his own room, and addressed without lighting the lamp. He got partly into bed when his wife astonished him by uttering a loud and prolonged scream. He was very much alarmed for her, and feared she had lost her reason. He implored her to tell him what was the matter.

At the sound of his voice she screamed: Oh! Edward, come quick! and save me. I am here, dear, said he, but she only screamed the louder at the words.

He sprang out of bed and had just struck a light, when his brother-in-law, a muscular six-footer, rushed into the room and fired a revolver at his head. Luckily it missed, but his fist did not, for in a minute a pale-faced man with a long white robe, staggered under a blow that doubled the size of his organ of comparison.

My God! exclaimed the husband, are you all crazy? Bless my heart! exclaimed the muscular brother-in-law, if that ain't Ned himself. Why, what on earth tempted you to get yourself up in that style?

What style? asked the much-abused husband, as he rubbed the growing lumps on his forehead. Why, when did you shave?

It was all clear to him then. His wife had put up her hand in the dark, and meeting the shaved face of a man, took her husband for an intruder. She recognized his voice at first, but the second time he spoke her terror was too great, and she fainted. When the brother-in-law rushed in he saw a thin-faced man with a slightly bald head, in a long white night-robe, and in his rage at the supposed outrage fired at him, missed, and then knocked him down with his fist.

Fortunately his voice saved the husband from a second shot. His wife recovered from her faint only to faint again at the recognition of her husband's shaven face, and the pistol shot. He finally got to bed and slept very well until morning, when the baby, a child two years of age, approached the bed as he had been used to do, and frightened at the sight of a stranger, ran screaming from the room. Tipping of the carpet the poor child received a severe bump on its little head.

Matters were finally straightened up at home, but on the street his friends passed without speaking, and at the bank he was not only refused payment of a draft, but threatened with arrest for signing his own name in indorsing it. Of course a little explanation brought the various affairs all right, but it took so much time to explain, and for the confusion on his forehead to get well, that the aforesaid citizen vows he will never shave again, as he considers it a habit dangerous to peace, and even to life.

House and Farm.

Petroleum will preserve shingles.

The granary should be made rat and mouse proof.

Where orchards are plowed it must be done very carefully.

Now iron should be very gradually heated at first. After it has become heated to the heat, it is not so likely to crack.

Linen rags should be carefully saved, for they are very useful in sickness.

For closing cracks in cast-iron stoves, good wood ashes are to be sifted through a fine sieve, to which is to be added the same quantity of clay finely pulverized, together with a little oil. The mixture is to be moistened with water enough to make a paste, and the crack of the stove filled with it. This cement does not peel off nor break away, and assumes an extra degree of hardness after being heated. The stove must be cool when the application is made. The same substance may be used in setting the plates of a stove, or in fitting stove-pipes, serving to render all joints perfectly tight.

Prospectus for 1875—Eighth Year.

THE ALDINE,

The Art Journal of America,

ISSUED MONTHLY.

"A Magnificent Conception, wonderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive failures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an art journal, did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an ability to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph—THE ALDINE.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure light and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception—alone and unapproached—absolutely without competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quantity of the paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost; and then there is the chromo, besides!

The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in the narrow sense. True art is cosmopolitan. While THE ALDINE is a strictly American institution, it does not confine itself entirely to the reproduction of native art. Its mission is to cultivate a broad and appreciative art taste; one that discriminates only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the patrons of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable from home or foreign sources.

The artistic illustration of American scenery, original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than can be afforded by any inferior page. The judicious interspersal of landscape, marine figure, and animal subjects, sustain an unabated interest, impossible where the scope of the work confines the artist too closely to a single style of subject. The literature of THE ALDINE is a light and graceful accompaniment, worthy of the artistic features, with only such technical distinctions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.

PREMIUM FOR 1875. Every subscriber for 1875 will receive a beautiful portrait, in oil colors, of the same noble dog whose picture in a former issue attracted so much attention.

"Man's Unselfish Friend," will be welcome in every home. Every boy loves such a dog, and the portrait executed in oil, of the life, and the veritable presence of the animal itself. The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage tells that his own Newfoundland dog—the finest in Brooklyn—barks at it. Although so natural, no one who sees this premium chronicle will have the slightest fear of being bitten.

Beside the chronicle every advance subscriber to THE ALDINE for 1875 is constituted a member, and entitled to all the privileges of THE ALDINE ART UNION. The Union owns the originals of all THE ALDINE pictures, which, with other paintings and engravings, are to be distributed among the members. To every series of 5,000 subscribers, 100 different pieces, valued at over $2,500 are distributed as soon as the series is full, and the awards of each series as made, are to be published in the next succeeding issue of THE ALDINE. This feature only applies to subscribers who pay for one year in advance. Full particulars in circular sent on application enclosing a stamp.

TERMS. One Subscription, entitling to THE ALDINE one year, the Chromo and the Art Union, $6.00 per annum in advance. (No charge for postage.) Specimen copies of THE ALDINE, 50 cents.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtainable only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rates; cash for subscriptions must be sent to the publishers direct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the fac-simile signature of JAMES SUTTON, President.

CANVASSERS WANTED. Any person wishing to act permanently as a local canvasser will receive full and prompt information by applying to THE ALDINE COMPANY, 58 Maiden Lane, New York.
