KIT CARSON.
 The following admirably written and eminently just criticism was contributed to an Eastern paper by Gen. E. Fitzgerald Beale, late Surveyor General of California:
 "KIT CARSON'S RIDE."—Under this title comes to us in Harper's Weekly, a very long poem by Mr. Joaquin Miller, which we are told was first published in England. As well as we can make it out, it seems to be an ugly cross of Browning on Swinburne, but without the merits of either.
 It is rarely that the license allowed to poets has been more thoroughly abused than in the lines which are contained in the article that heads this notice. As a rule in poetry, when fact is departed from, it has always been to exaggerate the virtues of a departed hero, but never to misrepresent him by rendering his picture ridiculous much less indecent, and as we recall the modest, earnest, refined simplicity of CARSON, and compare it with the frenzied and licentious ruffian presented in the poem and picture referred to, we cannot but regret that the scalp of Joaquin had not been counted among the "coups" of that re-doubted knight of the prairies and mountains. How far the descendants of that upright and noble man might be justified in suing the author for defamation of character in a city court, we do not know, but are sure that before a jury of "mountain men," away off in the Rockies where Kit's fame is yet cherished by many a hardy pioneer, we might safely count on "exemplary damages." What an abuse of all common sense is such stuff—as though a drunken man had read "How the news was carried to Ghent," and then slept off the fumes of a debauch dreaming of "Chastelard." And this is a representative poet! That virtuous gent! woman, Dame Quickly, says of the famous Pistol—
 "He a captain! Hang him rogue! He lives upon moulted stewed prunes and dried cakes." A captain! These villains will make the word "captain" as odious as the word "sectary," which was an excellent good word before it was ill-used. Therefore Captains had need look to it.
 CARSON was a man cleanly of mind, body and speech, and by no manner of means a Border ruffian. He had no gift of swearing. The only oath I ever heard him use, was that of William the Conqueror, which I had once read Lim out of a stray volume of "Tristram Shandy." On this occasion, he drew a long single-barreled pistol, (old Constable's make,) which Fremont had given me, and I to Kit, for we had no "gold mounted Colt's true companions for years," in those simple-minded days, and with slow, deadly speech, which carried the sense of imminent mischief in it, said to one who was in the act of a cowardly wrong upon a sick man:
 "Sergeant, drop that knife, or 'by the splendor of God,' I'll blow your heart out."
 He had not the advantages of education, but was wise as the beaver, and of great dignity and simplicity of character, and not given to the least vulgarity of thought or expression, nor would he tolerate it in those about him.
 It is not enough that this "metre ballad-monger" has talked of a man of whom he evidently could have known nothing, but he has made this King of the mountains as absurd as the ring-master of a circus, with his "catenas red and spangled with gold," and his "red silk serapes" and "gold mounted pistol," and he has caricatured in the person of his hero, a wonderfully remarkable class of men, who have passed away before the advance of civilization, and left only a dim shadow of their renown behind them. It is not enough that he puts into the mouth of a calm, dignified, sweet nature, such words of bosh as would make a love-sick idiotic ape quite ashamed of himself, but he slanders a character as chivalrous as that of a knight of romance, by making him escape on his lady love's horse from a danger in which she is left to perish.
 We lament the good old days, as we remember with grim satisfaction what prompt and efficient action the noble old Roman mob took on an occasion, and we feel sad as we think if this poem had been written a couple of centuries ago, it might have been criticised with severity we should deplore as a philanthropist, but would contemplate with clamor resignation from a literary standpoint.
 Third Citizen—Your name, sir, truly?
 Cinn.—Truly, my name is Cinn.
 First Citizen—Dear him to pieces, he's a con-spirator.
 Cinn.—I am Cinn, the poet! I am Cinn, the poet.
 Fourth Citizen—Tear him for his bad verses, tear him for his bad verses.
 Dear old Kit! Not such as this poet pointed you, do I recall the man I loved.
 Looking back through the misty years, I see a man—Tasso—if you had lived in an earlier age—would have placed by the side of Godfrey, and made the companion of Tancred and Rinaldo. A man, pure, very pure in his nature—not given to lustful ways, but calm, serious and sweet of temper; a man of very moderate stature, but broad fronted and elastic, yet by no means robust of frame, though gifted with immense endurance and nerves of steel. A head quite remarkable for its full size and very noble forehead; quiet, thoughtful blue eyes and yellow hair, a firm strong jaw and a face somewhat dished, like an Arab horse, that made a man who had never seen him before, look at him again with the thought that he would "do to tie to;" arms rather long, and thin strong flanks, with slightly bandy legs. This was the outward shape which enclosed a spirit, as high and daring and as noble as ever tenanted the body of a man.— No man this to take his woman's horse, because it was faster than his own, and leave her to a prairie fire while he galloped to twaddle, in tumid bosh, over "her marvelous eyes." Oh, Kit, my heart beats quicker, even now, old fellow, when I think of the time twenty-five years ago, when I lay on the burning sands of the great desert, una mesquite bush, where you had tenderly as a woman would have put her first-born, laid me, sore from wounds and fever, on your only blanket. I see the dim lake of waterless mirage. I see the moving sands ripple with the faint, hot breeze around us, and break upon our scattered saddles. I see the poor mules famishing of thirst, with their tacked flanks and dim eyes, and hear their sad and plaintive cry go up out of the wilderness for help. I see the men dogged, resolute, or despondent, standing around or seeking such shelter as a saddle-blanket over a gun-stick or withered sage bush would afford, and then under that sun of flame and of those burning sands, without a thought of ever seeing water again, you poured upon my fevered lips, the last drop in camp from your canteen. Oh, Kit I think again of afterwards on the bloody Gila, where we fought all night and traveled all day, with each man his bit of mule meat, and no other food, and when, I so worn from a hurt could go no further, begged you to leave me there and save yourself.

 I see you leaning on that old Hawkins gun of yours, (mine now) and looking out of those clear blue eyes at me with a surprised reproach, as one who takes an insult from a friend. And I remember when we laid side by side on a bloody battle-field all night, when you mourned like a woman, and would not be comforted; not for those who had fallen, but for the sad hearts of the women at home when the tale would be told. And I remember another night we passed side by side, in the midst of an enemy's camp, where discovery was death, and where you would not take a mean advantage of a sleeping foe.
 And I recall how you avenged the death of the Delaware, on the Klamath, with a quick and sombre vengeance.
 Then you were with Fremont, and afterwards at the solitary desert spring of Archilette, when you all stood around shocked at the horrid spectacle of slaughter which met your eyes—a whole family done to sudden death by Indians.
 Fremont asked, "Who will follow the wretches and strike them in their camp?" It was you, old Kit, and Alexis Godey, who took the trail. A long and weary hundred and twenty miles you followed that bloody band. You two attacked, in broad daylight, a hundred, killed many, for which you brought our grizzly mountain vouchers back, and recovered every stolen horse for the sole survivor, a little boy—and this you did in pity for the women who had been slain.
 And out of such a man the poet has made the libidinous monkey of his story.
 Oh, wise of counsel, strong of arm, brave of heart and gentle of nature, how bitterly have you been maligned.
 EL MARIPOSA.

California Correspondence.
 COLUMBIA, Cal., June 6, 1872.
 EDITOR DISPATCH.—This is the sixth day of summer; the season of rains is past, and we must be content with what has been done for us in the production of hay and grain, for but little can be added to these crops from this date. It is all over with them for this year after the lapse of a few days more. The wheat and other grain crops have only to ripen off a little more before cutting, and the hay is falling rapidly before the vibrating swing of the mowers. Owing to the sun and early suspension of the rains, our grain crop will not come up to the figures anticipated in the earliest part of the growing season. Much of the late sowing will not go to seed and must be cut for hay if cut at all. But a very large amount of grain, and especially of wheat, will be raised notwithstanding, an enormous breadth of land having been sown, and much of the early sowing will yield well. Here in the mountain districts the season has been more unfavorable than in the country lower down. Our crops were literally inundated and drowned through the winter months, so much so that but little growth was obtained, and the early termination of the rains and the remarkably dry weather which ensued pinched them severely. In the winter of 1861-2 121 inches of water fell in the town of Sonora, by a careful and correct measurement by a gage kept by Dr. Suel, a scientific and very particular gentleman.

 I spent that winter on the same ground where I spent the past one, and I know that the winter of 1871-2 exceeded that of 1861-2, on the score of the rain-fall.
 Only just think of it! ten feet of water fallen upon your farm within the grain-growing season, and then have your crops dried up and spoiled, or nearly so, before coming to maturity! That's what's the matter with this part of the country—our rains come in floods and pass off before the weather is warm enough to promote the advancement of our winter crops, leaving them to be slain by the dry, paroling winds of Spring and the withering heat of early Summer. These remarks are calculated for the meridian of the mountain districts, but will often be found applicable to much adjoining territory. There are not over three months of green feed for stock, of comfortable amount, in the year, in this region of the country. The fire would now run in our pasture lands, and it was near the first of April before our stock could make a comfortable living by grazing. I was obliged to be out in the terrible storms many a time during the winter, with my spade, turning the water this way and that, in order to save my winter-sown crops from being washed away and my tillage from destruction, my cellar from being filled, &c. But notwithstanding this liquid condition of farming affairs during the winter months, had you been here, Mr.
 Editor, you might have seen me carrying the water-pot into the garden early in May, to sprinkle the thirsty drooping plants. It is said that there is but a single step between the sublime and the ridiculous, and I am going to leave it to the reader to say which of these such weather as above described more properly represents. Do not all speak at once. But a truce to the weather-changes, crops, &c.
 Since the nomination of the Tribune philosopher for the Presidential office, the political cauldron begins to simmer around the edges right smartly. There is more disposition among the Democrats to accipit the Cincinnati nomination than I at the first supposed there would be. It is all Greeley down here now. The people make three meals a day on raw Greeley. But he is hard old meat to digest, and lays hard on the stomachs of some of the Democrats, particularly those of the Brick Pomeroy order. But if the 9th of July Convention at Baltimore concludes to swallow the Cincinnati nominee, he'll go down slick enough hereabouts, with the plain form and Brown condiments, for all the Democrats here are well satisfied with the two latter. The personal part of question amounts to but little, and will be ignored, as a general rule, if, upon due deliberation, the said Convention deems it fitting and wise, under all the circumstances, to adopt the Cincinnati Convention's doing entire. If it should Greeley is the "coming man."

 the lapse of a few days more. The wheat
 off a little more before cutting, and the
 hay is falling rapidly before the vibrat-
 a very large amount of grain, and especially of wheat, will be raised notwithstanding, an enormous breadth of land
 ly sowing will yield well. Here in the

Puget Sound Dispatch.

Vol. 1. No. 31.

SEBASTIAN BROWN, EDITOR.

Seattle Thursday, June 27, 1872.

OFFICIAL KUKLUX.

The organ of the "Ring" at Olympia says: "Yesterday afternoon a large number of the friends of General T. J. McKenny presented him, at his residence, with an elegant gold-headed cane."

This presentation was intended as a "reward of merit" to McKenny for a ruffianly assault committed upon a man old enough for his father, in the presence of the wife of his victim. The "friends" who joined in this demonstration in honor of a lawless act, were almost exclusively of a class popularly known as "pap-suckers," or "spoils ganders."

Question of Veracity.

A considerable portion of the editorial columns of the last issue of the Courier is devoted to special pleading and pettifoggery evasion of the main issue presented by us in the case of Gov. Ferry's arraignment on a question of veracity. The sole point which it makes is, that we not technically correct in presenting incidents and facts relating and subsequent to the main issue; not at all touching the question of veracity which was pending against Ferry.

In the question under consideration the fact has not been controverted that Ferry stated in the Convention at Kalama that he held in his hand the names of thirty Democrats who had voted at the Republican primary meeting in Olympia, by whose votes he had been defeated and Marshall Blinn and Elwood Evans elected delegates to that Convention. The question of veracity which we presented was based solely on this statement, and it has never been answered.

hands the proof which he has never yet given, though often challenged to do so, and continues to rest under the imputation of being a common liar while holding the most exalted official position in the Territory.

As to the matter in which we are accused by the Governor's official and personally immaterial to the main issue; we have but to say, we saw and read in the Vancouver Register, an article defending Ferry, giving the names of Blinn, Howe, Hale and others, not one of whom had for years acted with the Democratic party, as among those included in Ferry's thirty Democrats. We subsequently saw the article copied into the editorial columns of the Courier, Ferry's own organ, with editorial comments on the same, which we did not read, as we rarely find an editorial article in that paper which would pay for the time occupied in its perusal, unless it is upon some subject of special interest, which is of rare occurrence. The fact that the article was a special defence of Ferry, and was copied into his own editorial columns as such, was all that was pertinent to the question at issue.

A Matter Worth Studying.

Don Piatt, in his lively paper, The Capital, draws a most laughable picture of the promoters of the Cincinnati convention, in view of the Greeley movement. The authors of the Cincinnati movement, including the New England free traders, the seceders and the Stanley Matthews crowd, proposed to create a demonstration in opposition to Grant that would be highly respectable, conservative, stupid and satisfactory till the votes came to be counted, and then it would fall short. They had a nebular sort of an idea of a reformed administration, and a great statesman for a president, with his head among the stars, and the object of great international respect and a kind of awful creature under whom rascality would not flourish—not because rascals would be less numerous, or busy, or greedy or cunning, but because they would be in such awe of the great reform President, that they would not dare to steal under his administration. With these ideas, as beautiful and about as substantial as the mystic that glitters in the sunrise, they went to Cincinnati. There, instead of being a choice collection of dignified old gentlemen gathered for the purpose of inaugurating this movement with all the proprieties becoming so great an occasion, was a collection, as Don Piatt says, "half mob and half camp meeting"—twenty or thirty thousand men, the most active, the most boisterous, the most impulsive in the country—wild for a change, and determined to carry it with a rush and hurrah—the elements of a revolution. And it is a revolution, gigantic in its dimensions, general in its character, and radical in the result which it will accomplish.

Wholesale Mart

here for these and other articles of Eastern manufacture in our line, instead of having to pay freight to California and Oregon for them. Being permanently located at Seattle, the most central point on the Sound for distribution—having fitted up rooms suitable for our business in all its branches, and especially with view of establishing this trade, we can assure the public that we shall sustain this enterprise against all foreign competition. As merchants are not usually prepared with suitable rooms for keeping this class of meats, they can procure their supplies from us in quantities to suit, on very short notice, thereby obviating the necessity of keeping a large stock on hand for their trade, besides saving the risk of transportation and keeping, and the use of means necessarily involved.

DR. AORN AT PORTLAND.—Dr. Aorn will be at his apartments, corner of 3d and Morrison streets, Portland, Oregon, from the 12th of July until the 12th of August.

The quarantine of the passengers of the Prince Alfred was raised on Monday last, and those destined for the Sound came up on the North Pacific on Tuesday evening.

The North Pacific brought about a dozen persons on her last trip, who contemplate making this city their home. We bespeak for these gentlemen the kind attention of our citizens. Every facility should be afforded them to engage in their several avocations.

The necessity of placing a line of steamships between San Francisco and the Sound Ports, was fully developed by the last trip of the Prince Alfred.—The owners of that "unfortunate ship" would do well to put her in the coal track, as she is entirely unfitted for passengers. As long as she was under competent command, passengers could endure a four or five days trip—but as she has not steam-power sufficient to make headway against a stiff gale of wind, her trips one way or the other most of the year, are of necessity extended to eight and nine days.

We are informed that steps have been taken to purchase two first class ships to establish a line between San Francisco and the Sound.

UNITED STATES HOTEL.—This old and popular hotel is gaining rapidly in public favor under the management of Mr. Johnson, who has taken a lease of the Tremont House, which is to be used exclusively for sleeping rooms and parlors. Both houses are cleanly kept and the table is specially commended by the guests as unequalled on the Sound.

GRAND CONCERT.—The Concert to be given on the Fourth of July, under the management of the Viouxtemps Brothers, will be the grandest affair of the kind ever attempted on this coast. The Anvil and Ratanplan choruses, now in rehearsal, would be creditable to the oldest societies of professional singers. An interesting feature of the performance will be telegraphic dispatches from the Grand Musical Jubilee at Boston, for which arrangements have been made.—Over three hundred voices will join in the concert assisted by a full orchestra.

THE QUARANTINE.—Col. Latrobe and daughter, with several others of the passengers of the Prince Alfred, who have been in quarantine at Victoria for ten days, arrived by the North Pacific on Tuesday evening. The little girl who first had the small pox died on Sunday last. Two cases among the crew of the Prince Alfred had subsequently developed. All who were exposed to the infection are in quarantine for twenty days more.

DR. AORN HAS spent a week in this city during which he has treated many cases of chronic diseases of the eye, ear and throat, with almost miraculous success—restoring sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, and speech to the almost dumb, causing the hope to the afflicted that he will soon favor them with another visit. He goes this morning to Victoria where he will remain till Tuesday next; from thence to Olympia to remain from the 3d to the 8th proximo, when he will return to Portland.

DR. AORN GOES TO VICTORIA.—Dr. Aorn, the successful Oculist, Aurist and Physician for Chronic Diseases, will leave to-day by the North Pacific for Victoria where he can be consulted until Monday evening, July 1st.

DR. AORN AT OLYMPIA.—Dr. Aorn will be at the Pacific Hotel, Olympia, from Wednesday morning, July 3d, until Monday morning, July 8th.

NOTICE.—Base Ballists will meet in the Dispatch Buildings, second floor, this (Thursday) evening at 7 1/2 o'clock, pursuant to adjournment.

MONSTER STRAWBERRY.—We were shown last week a strawberry, which grew in the garden of D. N. Hyde, Esq., that measured, in circumference, 7 inches one way and 5 1/2 inches the other.

A LAUNCH.—A large number of our citizens took passage on the steamers Alida and the Success, on Tuesday evening, for Port Blakely, to witness the launch of the new steamer built for Renton, Smith & Co., the mill owners. We have only time and space to say the launch was the most beautiful we ever witnessed, and the vessel, named Port Blakely, is a splendid and substantial specimen of design and workmanship.

DIVINE SERVICE.—Rev. Mr. Curtis from Oregon, will preach at the new Baptist Church in this city on Sunday next, at 11 o'clock. Also in the evening at 7 1/2 o'clock.

The Honorable Auditor of the Public Accounts will meet at the North Pacific Gardens on Friday evening, June 28, at 7 1/2 o'clock. Important business will be transacted.

DIED.—In this city on Thursday, June 20th, Margaret A. wife of Samuel Knight, aged 29 years. A native of Sydney, Australia. Sydney papers please copy.

Beriah protested through the columns of his paper in San Francisco, against Abraham Lincoln and his ungrateful public demagogues, and he only saved his neck by secreting himself.—The truth is the Courier is curtailing the circulation of the DISPATCH. "That's what's the matter" Courier.

The person above referred to by his Christian name—a mode of address peculiar to the "Oregon style" of journalism—has a distinct recollection of being the object of felon outrage; but he has no recollection of ever having heard or read of its approval by any one of respectable social standing, or who was not in sympathy with ruffianism or lawlessness; and while an object of hatred to all of the latter class, he has never been accused of any specific act of offense against any civil, moral or social law. The power of the Courier to curtail the circulation of the DISPATCH is manifested by an increase of subscribers which we could not have hoped for without it.

Up-Sound Items.

From the Tribune: ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.—The son (about 14 years old) of Mr. Barnes, who lives some eight miles from town, received a severe wound in the left shoulder, by the accidental discharge of his gun, while out hunting on the 16th inst.

RECEIPTS AND PROFITS OF THE FESTIVAL.—The gross receipts on Wednesday evening from the Episcopal Festival in this city, amounted to $173. After paying all expenses, there was a clear profit left the ladies of $127. Their success was much greater than anticipated.

FIRE IN THE TIMBER.—As we go to press, a large fire is raging and spreading in the timber between Olympia and Tumwater. There is danger of its destroying valuable property, if it should continue to spread. A somewhat dry spell has imparted a combustible character to the timber and undergrowth, which makes it extremely dangerous now to clear land without the aid of fire.

Port Townsend Correspondence.

PORT TOWNSEND, June 24, 1872. Editor Dispatch.—As a port of entry this is a most peculiar place. Foreign ships have a great deal of trouble in getting sailors. I formerly thought that soldiers as a class were a hard set of citizens but they are not to be compared with the sailors of this place. They will, as a general rule, ship for a voyage and after having received the advance will try to withdraw from their agreement. The shipping masters act honorably in the matter; but in many cases force has to be used to get sailors on board after they have shipped. The bark Clove, Capt. Roe, bound for China, after much trouble succeeded in getting a crew the other day and a rougher set of men I never saw; hardly one of them but had a black eye or two, a broken nose, or some other injury received in some one of their numerous rows on shore. She sailed to-day.

Business is still very dull and there is but little prospect of better times ahead. Having had no rain for the past eight weeks the farmers are very dispondent, for unless we have some rain very soon the hay and Spring grain will not more than pay for cutting.

A new priest, Rev. Father Maus, late of Vancouver has been sent here by the bishop of Vancouver to take charge of the Roman Catholic church in this section of country. Father Maus is highly spoken of wherever he has lived; and as he is a good scholar and excellent preacher, in a short time he is sure to have a large congregation.

After Mass on Sunday last a meeting of the Catholics was held in the vestry of the Church for the purpose of raising funds to build a new Church on a beautiful lot on the hill, which was purchased, through Father Prefontaine, by subscription some years ago. Rev. Father Maus was called to the chair and Mr. P. Johnson was elected Secretary. After stating the object of the meeting the President appointed the following Building Committee. Messrs. Johnson, Sheehan, Dalley, Braeken and Murphy.

Father Maus will have charge of the Church in Ports Gamble, Ludlow, Discovery and Seabeck and as far down as the Cape, including Port Duginess and Whidby Island.

There are soon to be two new schooners built at Port Discovery, one of them 126 feet keel, will be commenced in a few days. The other, a smaller one, will be commenced in about three weeks.

It really would seem that the predictions made by the Hon. Wm. H. Seward in 1869, in a speech he delivered up in Sitka, are being confirmed more and more every year. He predicted that Puget Sound and Alaska would be the great ship yards of the world and that in twenty years from then a city would spring up on Puget Sound that would rival San Francisco. Who can question the truth of this statement when we see ships that were built at Ports Madison, Gamble and Ludlow, as well as Utsalady and Discovery, for quality of material cannot be excelled if equaled in the world; and hence in five years from now, you will see or hear of ships being built at every mill on Puget Sound.—Let us all then hail the day when the sound of the hammer will be heard all over this Sound, and the iron horse with his shrill whistle echoing from our highest peaks, the musical strains of humanity as they leave their homes in the east and west the north and the south to make happier homes in this famed, rich and beautiful Territory.

BARNEY O'RAGAN.

FROM NANAIMO.—The steamer G. S. Wright arrived from Nanaimo at 8 30 yesterday. She reports that the California was hauled alongside of the Idaho and all of her freight, whether wet or not, was put on board of that steamer. She was hauled on to the beach yesterday morning to repair damages—a job which will occupy a week or ten days. The Idaho sailed at 7 A. M. yesterday for Sitka, and will return to Nanaimo and discharge her freight on board the California, take in a cargo of coal and sail direct for San Francisco. The California, having received the Sitka freight from the Idaho, will sail for Portland. The Geo. S. Wright will leave to-day for Portland and take in freight, etc., and start for Sitka about the time of the arrival of the California at Portland.—Colonist, June 25th

Telegraphic

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—It is reported that as high as twenty dollars per ton has been offered for vessels to load grain for Liverpool. Last year there was a surplus of tonnage here seeking unsuccessfully for charters.

The woman suffragers close their session this evening. To-day they passed resolutions declaring all men and women were born free and equal, and that all who denied this proposition are enemies, and shall be punished by a withdrawal of their support, etc.

The thermometer ranges from 80 to 90 degrees—so long a period of very hot weather has seldom been experienced in San Francisco.

About fifteen hundred pounds of powder belonging to the California Powder Company, stored in a shed, exploded this evening. The shed was blown to atoms; nobody killed.

New York, June 22.—A fire on Liberty street, near Nassau, early this morning, destroying the drug store of G. A. Earkinbrash. Shortly after the fire commenced an explosion of carbonic acid occurred, and 15 firemen were severely injured.

The metal manufacturers held a meeting last night, and decided to make no compromise or no advance on wages.—It is reported that 13 shops in Jersey City resumed work on the eight hour system.

New York, June 22.—Afternoon. The injured firemen have all been removed to the Park Hospital. The explosion occurred among some carboys of vitriol when being removed hurriedly by the firemen. The contents of the store were scattered in every direction. The fire is supposed to have originated in the basement among some kerosene.

A young man named Evans was arrested here last night on a charge of robbing a lady in Baltimore, a few weeks ago, of $2,500 worth of diamonds and $700 in money. Evans is related by marriage to Attorney-General Williams, but on account of bad habits was long since discarded by his family.

ALBANY, June 25.—The strike in the West Albany Central R. R. shop is ended; nearly all the workmen have returned to work.

BOSTON, June 21.—The audience in the Coliseum this afternoon, fully equaled in numbers and enthusiasm that of yesterday. The day was dedicated to Austrian Kaiser. An overture dedicated to Emperor Francis Joseph, was performed by the orchestra and created loud applause.

Three more jurors were obtained in Stokes' case to-day, making seven in all.

New York, June 22.—Strikes are dying out; the threatening demonstration at Steanway's factory this morning did not occur.

PORT JARVIS N. Y., June 22.—The attempt of the emissaries of the eight hour League at New York, to get up a strike in the Susquehanna shops, where thousands of men employed, failed.

BOSTON, June 25.—The Mayor vetoed the order of the City Council opening the Public Library on Sundays.

There is no foundation in the report of Nelly Grant being engaged to marry a Scotch Lord.

MONTREAL, June 21.—The banquet given to Lord Lisgar last night, was a splendid affair, and was attended by persons of distinction. Sir Hugh Allan presided.

LONDON, June 21.—There was a collision between a freight and a grave train on the Great Western R. R. last night; one man killed and several wounded.

St. JOHN, N. F., June 25.—The steamer St. John was lost near St. Peters on Thursday. The mails and passengers were rescued.

the passengers are dead. Over sixty were badly injured. The engineer was killed and the fireman badly injured. The sufferers were principally 2nd class passengers.

New York, June 21.—The World's special from Geneva says: In an interview to-day with the World correspondent, Charles Francis Adams said: "I adhere to the principles laid before the Cincinnati Convention, and would accept Baltimore nomination if platform is good, and offered spontaneously, but I will never be wire-pulled into place. I am deeply concerned for State rights."

WASHINGTON, June 21.—From the latest reliable information received here, there is no reason to believe that the Supplementary Articles to the Treaty of Washington, on quite a new basis, submitted by Granville, are now a subject of negotiation between the British and American Governments; on the contrary there is truth in the allegation made in some quarters in Geneva, that at the next meeting of arbitrators the announcement will be made the question of indirect damages is settled. There is the best reason for the belief that at their brief session on the 14th, the arbitrators decided such claims cannot properly come before them, and must therefore be excluded. Of course the British Government must be satisfied with the decision of the arbitrators in excluding the consideration of indirect claims, and it is thought here that in consequence of this action of the tribunal the additional articles to the treaty rendered unnecessary, and accordingly will be altogether withdrawn from the controversy.

Home and Farm.

DELICATE CAKE.—Take the whites of four eggs, beaten to a stiff froth, one cup flour, half a cup of sweet milk, three tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of saleratus, three of cream tartar.

ALMOND CAKE.—One cup of sugar, one of flour; three eggs beaten light; one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, half a teaspoonful of soda, one pound of almonds. Mix the sugar, flour, and cream of tartar together, then add the eggs. Blanch and chop the almonds and mix them in, and lastly stir in the soda dissolved in a little hot water as possible. Bake immediately.

SPONGE CAKE.—One cup of sugar, one of flour, three eggs, beat fifteen minutes, then add essence of lemon, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, half teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in half cup of milk.

PHYSIOLOGICAL EFFECTS OF COFFEE.—An interesting communication was recently made at a meeting of the Academy of Sciences in Paris in regard to the value of coffee as an article of food. Attention was called to a statement of Mr. Gasparin, in 1850, that the miners of Chaleroi preserved their health and great vigor of muscular force, by the use of less than half of the nutriment indicated as necessary by theory and daily observation. Using food containing less nitrogen and carbon than the daily ration of the monks of La Trappe, whose countenances are pale, and who exercise scarcely one-fifth as much as an ordinary workman, these Belgian miners were more industrious and energetic in their labors. The secret of the difference was stated by Mr. Gasparin to consist in the use every day by these miners of a pint of an infusion of about an ounce of coffee, prepared in two quarts of water, which served the purpose of counteracting the injurious effect of an insufficient supply of food.

Reference was also made to an experiment in 1860, by Mr. Jousand, in which, by the use of a decoction of about an ounce and a half of powdered coffee, a young man was kept, with no other food whatever in good health and strength for seven days, during which time he took more active muscular exercise than usual, without any special inconvenience.

The particular deduction from these experiments appears to be that coffee has an important action in preventing denutrition and emaciation. An illustration of this is seen, according to the author, in the effect upon the urea. In one experiment, about half a grain of caffeine was consumed daily, and the amount of urea was diminished 28 per cent; while an infusion of about two ounces of roast coffee diminished it by 20 per cent. This is asserted to be the result by very careful experiments of a physiologist upon himself, providing that caffeine and roast coffee diminish the oxidation of the system, and temper the process of denutrition. The excessive frequency and intensity of the beating of the heart was also found to be reduced in several instances. It is probable, according to the author, that a similar action is exerted by some other substances—the Paraguay tea, especially, which, it is well known, enables the natives of the Andes to subsist for a long time on an incredibly small amount of food.—Harper's Monthly.

GREEN PEA SOUP.—Take some young carrots, turnips, onions, celery, and cabbage-lettuce; cut them in slices, and put them in a stew-pan, with a little butter, and some lean ham cut in pieces. Cover them closely, and let them stew for a short time. Kill up with stock sufficient for the soup required, and let it boil until the vegetables are quite soft, adding a few leaves of mint, and the crust of a roll; pound all, and having boiled a quart of peas, as green as you can, strain them off and pound them also; mix them with the rest of the ingredients, and pass through a sieve. Heat it, and season with salt, pepper, and sugar; add a few young boiled peas and use the spinach to restore it.

POISONOUS PAPER COLLARS.—A clergyman residing in Sussex county, Delaware, having been greatly troubled with numbers in his hands, and other symptoms which led his physician to suspect lead poisoning, sent to us the ash resulting from the combustion of one of the paper collars worn by him, and we found upon analysis that it contained carbonate of lead in considerable quantity. This dangerous substance is used in the glazing of some cuffs and collars made of paper, and when the hands and neck perspire or any abrasion of the skin occurs, the lead is absorbed and poisoning results. The brand of collars containing the lead was represented to be what is known as the "Dickens" collars.

GREELY LONGEVITY.—Horace Greeley is of a long-lived race. We read in an exchange that his uncle, John Greeley, died at Londonderry, New Hampshire, on the 16th ult, aged 89 years 5 months and 5 days. He was the last survivor of thirteen children born to Zachariah and Esther (Senter) Greeley. His father died in his house some twenty years ago, aged 94. His last surviving brother, Zachariah, (father of Horace) Greeley, died at Wayne, Erie county, Pennsylvania, December 18, 1868, aged 86. John Greeley lived temperate in all things, an upright and respected farmer, and was in the full enjoyment of his faculties until a few days before his death. He was always an earnest Democrat in politics.

Some years ago Mr. Trollope, who holds a position in the General Post Office, London, was one of the witnesses for the prosecution in the case of a subordinate who was charged with stealing a letter. He had told his story, and had to submit himself to cross examination. "You are, I believe, a novelist?" "I am." "That is, you write works of fiction?" "I do." "Stories which are not true?" "Yes." "Lies, in fact?" "If you choose to style them such?" "And your mother was a novelist, too?" "She was." "And you get money for your works?" "I do." "And your mother before you?" "I suppose so." "And yet," said the counsel, with mock indignation, "the jury are asked to convict my unfortunate client upon the evidence of a man who, as well as his mother, got their living by writing lies."

A rural Grant organ in Pennsylvania says: "The Democracy cannot vote for a man who went to Arkansas to ball Jeff Davis, and to Harper's Ferry to help hang John Brown; who is in favor of Protection for New York and Free Trade for Pennsylvania; and who was imprisoned in Paris for defrauding his creditors, and in Fort Lafayette for advocating Secession." We submit that there are New-York editors who might sit at the feet of this provincial fabulist and learn things. The skill with which he compresses into half a dozen lines so much invention, reminds one of that thesis written by a competitor in a Civil Service examination who was required to write a grammatical sentence containing the words pig, goat, doctor, orphan. The result was: "A goat is stronger than a pig a goat looks at you and so does the doctor but a goat has fore legs a boy who aint got no mother is an orphan if he aint got no father he is a two orphan."

A CHILD THAT VOMITS PINS.—Rev. R. Hargrave narrates a most wonderful phenomenon in physical life. A son of John Hargrave, living near Rensselaer, Ind., aged about four months, was taken with spasms, seeming to choke. The family physician, Dr. Langbridge, was sent for; and with what was ejected by vomiting, and taken by surgeon, some twenty pins were discharged from his stomach, some quite corroded. Subsequently nearly a hundred were discharged from the bowels, making in all 116, of different sizes, but mostly the medium-sized pins, and mostly giving evidence of having been a long while subject to the action of the juices of the stomach. The pins are preserved and subject to inspection. How the pins got into the child is the mystery, no less than how they got out of him. Dr. Langbridge owes it to the profession and science generally to throw what light he can upon this strange circumstance.

EX-SENATOR DOOLITTLE.—In a lengthy letter addressed to the editor of the Cairo, Illinois, Bulletin by ex-U. S. Senator Doolittle, he among other things says: "I believe the re-election of Grant, and the continuing for another term of four years of the same principles, policy and practices in the federal administration would endanger Republican liberty in this country; and, therefore, assuming as is generally assumed, that Grant and Greeley are to be the opposing candidates in the presidential contest, instead of advising the Democratic Convention to oppose the Liberal Republican movement, or to put candidates in the field in opposition to it, my advice would be to act with it, although the candidates chosen to lead it, may not be our first or even our second choice among Liberal Republicans, and although we had no voice in their selection. We go for measures. As for men we only inquire, are they honest and capable and true to their principles."

POISONOUS PAPER COLLARS.—A clergyman residing in Sussex county, Delaware, having been greatly troubled with numbers in his hands, and other symptoms which led his physician to suspect lead poisoning, sent to us the ash resulting from the combustion of one of the paper collars worn by him, and we found upon analysis that it contained carbonate of lead in considerable quantity. This dangerous substance is used in the glazing of some cuffs and collars made of paper, and when the hands and neck perspire or any abrasion of the skin occurs, the lead is absorbed and poisoning results. The brand of collars containing the lead was represented to be what is known as the "Dickens" collars.

GREELY LONGEVITY.—Horace Greeley is of a long-lived race. We read in an exchange that his uncle, John Greeley, died at Londonderry, New Hampshire, on the 16th ult, aged 89 years 5 months and 5 days. He was the last survivor of thirteen children born to Zachariah and Esther (Senter) Greeley. His father died in his house some twenty years ago, aged 94. His last surviving brother, Zachariah, (father of Horace) Greeley, died at Wayne, Erie county, Pennsylvania, December 18, 1868, aged 86. John Greeley lived temperate in all things, an upright and respected farmer, and was in the full enjoyment of his faculties until a few days before his death. He was always an earnest Democrat in politics.
