A Word to the Wise.

Love hailed a little maid,
Romping through the meadow;
Heedless in the sun she played,
Scornful of the shadow.
"Come with me," whispered he;
"Listen, sweet, to love and reason."
"By and by," she mocked reply—
"Love's not in season."

Years went, years came,
Light mixed with shadow;
Love met the maid again,
Dreaming through the meadow.
"Not so coy," urged the boy,
"List in time to love and reason."
"By and by," she mused reply—
"Love's still in season."

Years went, years came,
Light changed to shadow;
Love met the maid again,
Wading in the meadow.
"Pass no more; my dream is o'er;
I can listen now to reason."
"Keep thee coy," mocked the boy—
"Love's out of season."

Epigram on Frederick the Great.

"King, author, philosopher, poet, musician,
Free-mason, economist, hard, politician;
How had Europe rejoiced if a Christian he'd been!
If a man, how he would have enraptured his queen!"

This was handed about Berlin, and shown to that great legislator, the Prussian monarch, who deemed it a libel, because it was true; and instead of employing a counsel, filing an information, and taking other tedious methods, took a more summary way of punishing the author, who, he knew, must be Voltaire, at that time resident at Berlin. He sent his sergeant-at-arms, not with a mace and scrap of parchment, but with such an instrument as the English drummers use for the good of the foot soldiers who commit offences against the law military. The Prussian hero went to the house of the poet, and told him he came by His Majesty's special command, to reward him for an epigram on his royal master, administering thirty lashes on his naked back. The poor philosopher knew that remonstrance was vain, and after submitting with the best grace he could, opened the door and made a farewell conge to his unwelcome visitor, who did not offer to depart, but told him, with the most Germanic gravity, "that the ceremony was not yet concluded, for that the monarch he had the honor of serving must be convinced that his mission was punctually fulfilled, on which account he must give a receipt." This was also submitted to, and given in the manner and form following:—"Received from the right arm of Conrad Bachoffer, thirty lashes on my naked back, being in full of an epigram on Frederick King of Prussia. Vive le Roi."

Sharp Shooting.

"Father, what does the printer live on?"

"Live on? On what other folks do; why do you ask?"

"Because you said you hadn't paid anything for your paper, and the printer still sends it."

"Wife, spank that boy."

"I shan't do it, for there's no reason."

"No reason? Yes, there is. He's entirely too smart."

"That comes of marrying me."

"How so? What do you mean?"

"I mean just this, the boy is smarter than his father, and you can't deny it."

"That's queer talk, and I wish—"

"I don't care what you wish; the boy knows enough to see that a man, printer or no printer, can't live on nothing; I should think you ought to be ashamed to cheat the printer, and then—" Bang goes the door, and out goes the father and husband, growling like a bear with a sore head.

In a public school in New York, a short time since, on an alarm of fire, a terrible panic ensued, and many of the scholars were injured by rushing to the doors, and one of the teachers, a young lady, jumped from a window. Among the hundreds of children with whom the building was crowded was one girl, among the best in the school, who, through all the frightful scene, maintained entire composure. The color indeed forsook her cheek. Her lip quivered. The tears stood in her eyes, but she moved not.

After order had been restored, and her companions had been brought back to their places, the question was asked her how she came to sit so still without alarm, when everybody else was in such a fright.

"My father," said she, "is a fireman, and he told me if there was an alarm of fire in the school, I must just sit still."

Col. L. was at one time a popular practitioner in a criminal court. On one occasion, when he was for the prosecution, his witnesses had been subjected to a terrible cross-examination from Mr. Ingraham, who appeared for the defence. After the testimony of the State had closed, Col. D. said to his opponent:

"Now, Mr. Ingraham, I intend to handle your witness without gloves."

"That is more than I would like to do with yours," responded Mr. Ingraham.

"Dennis, darlint, och, Dennis, what is it you're doing?"

"Whisht, Biddy, I'se trying an experiment!"

"Murther! what is it!"

"What is it, did you say? Why, it's giving hot water to the chickens I am, so they'll be after laying boiled eggs!"

Dr. Stone, one of the most celebrated and successful physcians of New Orleans, being asked how many yellow fever patients he had lost during the past season, replied, "About twenty-five hundred, as that number still remains unaccounted for after the other physicians had made their reports."

"Sam, I have lost my watch overboard—it lies in twenty feet of water. Is there any way to get it?"

"Yes, of course there is."

"How, Sam?"

"Why, divers' ways, to be sure."

An Eastern paper, in speaking of the arrival of some great man, says he was "escorted from the boat by a great conflagration of people." That was literally a warm reception.

A woman will tolerate tobacco smoke in a man she likes, and even say she likes it; and yet, curiously enough, how she abhors it in a man she dislikes!

The man who "took a walk," the other day, brought it back again; but the next day he took a ride, and has not since been heard of.

What word is there of five letters from which, if you take away two, six still remain? Sixty.

The man who shot time on the wing has renewed his age.

LOVE WORKS WONDERS.

A Sketch from Life.

My friend Tom has a natural affection for dirt, or rather dirt has a natural affection for Tom. It is to him what gold was to Midas; whatever he touches turns to dirt. No matter how white the cravat—no matter how immaculate the vest, the moment that it comes within the sphere of Tom's influence, its whiteness is gone—it is immaculate no longer. Dogs, sweeps and lamplighters never pass him without leaving upon his dress unequivocal marks of their presence. Once, and once only, I saw him cross the street without encountering the wheels of a carriage. I opened my mouth to congratulate him, and before I could utter one word it was filled with mud. The careless blockhead lay at my feet, full length in the gutter. At my earnest solicitation, he purchased a suit of precisely mud color. It was a capital idea. He crossed the street three times; he walked half a mile, and turned, in appearance, at least, unscathed. The thing was unprecedented. True, he was welcomed by the affectionate caresses of a dog that had been enjoying the coolness of a neighboring horse-pond; true, he received a shower-bath from the wheels of an omnibus. But to plaster mud on Tom's new coat, was "to gild refined gold—to paint the lily."

"Tom will be a neat man yet," I said, as I witnessed the success of my plan.

In about half an hour it was my fate to meet a gentleman with seven stripes of green paint on his back; it was my friend Tom; he had been leaning on some newly-painted window-blinds.

His shoeblack declares that "he can't see no use in blackening his boots when they never remain black;" and his washerwoman, with a very proper regard for her own reputation, has been compelled to discard him, not from any ill-will, but, as she declared with uplifted hands, "if any one should ask me if I washed Mr. Smith's clothes, what could I tell them?" But there were very few things in this world with which Tom could have more easily dispensed than the services of his washerwoman.

Having no other amusement, one morning I strolled over to Tom's rooms. As I ascended the stairs, I heard his voice in a very decided tone, "but it must be done, and so there is an end to it."

"Really," was the reply, "anything within the limits of possibility, but, to make a coat in ten hours—I will promise anything in the world, but I really fear I shall be unable to perform."

"If double your price would be any object"—

"Certainly, sir, if you insist upon it; certainly. I will put every man in my shop upon it; it shall be done in time. Good morning, sir."

The door opened, and a fellow with shears and measures passed out. What could Tom be doing with a tailor?

"Just the man I wanted to see," he exclaimed. "I require your advice upon a very important affair; which of these cravats do you think most becoming?" and he spread before me some half dozen, of every hue and fashion.

"Now, what in the name of all that is wonderful, does this mean, Tom? A fancy ball, is it? You have chosen an excellent disguise; your nearest friends will never know you. But you cannot support the character; if you had taken that of a chimney sweep, now; but that would have been too natural. Tell me truly, Tom, what does all this mean?"

"Why, the fact is, Frank," passing a hand through his hair, redolent of macassar, "I have concluded—I think I shall be a little more neat in the future. You, doubtless, remember the good advice you gave me some time since; it has had an excellent effect, I assure you."

Now, it so happened, that of all the good advice I had ever given Tom, this was the first instance in which he had seen fit to follow it. So I could not attribute the metamorphosis of my friend to my eloquence. Who but a woman ever changed a sloven to a fop.

"Pray, where are you going this evening," I continued, "that you must have a new coat so suddenly?"

"Going? nowhere in particular. I had, indeed, some idea of calling on my old friend, Mr. Murray; no harm in that, I hope?"

Conviction began to flash upon me.

"Your old friend, Mr. Murray; and his young niece, Miss Julia, has no share in your visit, I suppose? I heard that she arrived in town last night?"

"Now, upon my word, Frank, you mistake me entirely. I did not know that she was in town last night—when I—that is, when I—I did not know anything about it."

"And so you were there last night, too! Really, this is getting along bravely."

"Why, the fact is, Frank, you must know everything. I called last evening, to see Murray on some business, about that real estate, you know. I had no more idea of meeting a woman than a boa-constrictor—my beard was three days old—my collar ditto—and the rest of my dress in excellent keeping. I became engaged in conversation, and, somehow or other, I forgot all about the real estate."

"And so you are going again to-night—and that is the secret of your new coat!"

"By no means; I wanted a new coat, and tailors are so long, you know. Do you think blue will become me? Blue is her favorite—that is—I mean blue"——

"Oh, go on—don't stammer—blue is her favorite color, is it?"

"The fact is, Frank—take another glass of this wine—the fact is—good wine, isn't it? been two voyages to the Indies—the fact is, I suppose—I rather fancy—I am a little in love. Try some of that sherry. What are the symptoms, Frank—a queer feeling about the heart, and something which drives the blood through one like lightning?"

"Exactly! I believe I have seen Julia—short and chubby, isn't she—with red hair, and a little squint-eyed?"

"Frank, I never did knock you down, though I have been tempted to do so a great many times; but if you don't stop that nonsense, I will."

"Quite valiant in the defence of your lady-love. Well, Tom, I will confess that she is a lovely girl, and to-morrow I will come and learn your success. So, good morning."

"Well, Tom, what success?"

"Would you believe it! she did not recognize me."

"Not recognize you!"

"No. You know what a quiz that Murray is. As soon as he saw me enter, dressed in such style, he came up, shook hands with me, and without giving me a chance to say one word, introduced me to Julia, as Mr. Frederick Somebody. And, would you believe it! the little witch did not know me. I think I should not forget her so easily. Nor was that all. Murray said something about the fellow who called there the previous evening—a country cousin, he said, clear enough, but an incorrible sloven. And Julia said, he dressed like a barbarian—just think of that, Frank—a barbarian! She shall pay for that yet. Such eyes—and she steps like a queen. Well, Frank, a clean collar does make a vast difference in a man's appearance. Lovely as Hebe herself. Terrible difference, clean linen makes.

The last time I saw Tom, he was scolding his eldest son for coming into the drawing-room with muddy boots.

French Authors' Views of Women.

Catalani.—Only he who has nothing to hope from a woman is truly sincere in her praise.

Madame de Maintenon.—In everything that women write there will be thousands of faults against grammar, but also, to a certainty, always a charm never to be found in the letters of men.

J. J. Rousseau.—Men can better philosophise on the human heart, but women can read it better.

Michelet.—It is a universal rule, which, as far as I know, has no exception, that great men always resemble their mothers, who impress their mental and physical mark upon their sons.

Madame Fee.—A woman frequently resists the love she feels, but cannot resist the love she inspires.

Madame de Stael.—Love, in a woman's life, is a history; in a man's, an episode.

Diderot.—There exists among women a secret tie, like that among priests of the same faith. They hate each other, yet protect each other's interests.

Stahl.—No woman, even the most intellectual, believes herself decidedly homely.

Duclos.—Great and rare heart offerings are found almost exclusively among women; nearly all the happiness and most blessed moments in love are of their own creating, and so also in friendship, especially when it follows love.

Octave Feuillit.—Providence has so ordained it that only two women have a true interest in the happiness of a man—his own mother and the mother of his children. Besides these two legitimate kinds of love, there is nothing between the two creatures except vain excitement, painful and idle delusion.

Lemesle.—Most of their faults women owe to us, whilst we are indebted to them for most of our better qualities.

A Strange Story.

In the town of Julich there lived and worked a tall young carpenter. One day a well dressed positive-looking gentleman ("Baron Von Hempesch," the records name him) enters the shop; wants "a stout chest, with a lock on it, for household purposes; must be of such and such dimensions, six feet in length especially, and that is an indispensable point; in fact, it will be no longer than yourself, Herr Zimmerman; what is the cost? when can it be ready?"

Cost, time, and the rest are settled.

"A right stout case, then; and see you don't forget the size; if too short, it will be of no use to me, mind!"

"Ja wohl! Gewiss!" and the positive-looking, well clad gentleman goes his way.

At the appointed day he re-appears; the chest is ready; we hope an unexceptionable article.

"Too short, as I dreaded," said the positive gentleman.

"Nay, your honor," said the carpenter, "I am certain that it is six-feet-six," and takes out his foot rule.

"Pshaw! it was to be longer than yourself."

"It is."

"It isn't."

The carpenter, to end the matter, gets into his chest, and will convince any and all mortals. No sooner is he in, rightly flat, than the positive gentleman, a Prussian recruiting officer in disguise, slams down the lid upon him, locks it, whistles in three stout fellows, who, picking up the chest, gravely walk through the streets with it, open it in a safe place, and find—horrible to relate—the poor carpenter dead; choked by want of air in this frightful middle passage of his. Name of the town is given Julich, as above; date not. And if the thing had been only a popular myth, is it not a significant one? But it is too true; the tall carpenter lay dead, and Hompesch got imprisoned for life by the business.

Sut Lovegood's Colt.

The first locomotive Sut ever saw was standing with steam up, and nearly ready to go, making no noise save a suppressed humming from the safety-valve. Sut had, in his "skeery," cautious way, clambered up to the top of the tender to find out "what sort of a beast" it was, when the engineer slyly gave the whistle lever a long pull—shoy-y-y! Sut lit twenty feet distant on a pile of cordwood, and after running until he got straightened up, he turned all eyes, and said:

"What in the duce did you do to it, mister?"

Just at this moment a negro came trundling a truck, with a cooking stove, a joint of pipe on the flue hole, and pots and pans hanging all round. Sut took a look first at the locomotive, and then at the stove. A light broke over his perplexity, and he shouted to the engineer:

"Oh, yes, I understand it all now; the durned old brute was jest a nickerin' for her colt!"

"George, what does c-a-t spell?"

"Don't know, sir."

"What does your mother keep to catch mice?"

"Trap, sir."

"No, no; what animal is very fond of milk?"

"A baby, sir."

"You dunce, what was it scratched your sister's face?"

"My nails, sir."

"I am out of all patience. There, do you see that animal on the fence?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then tell me what c-a-t spells?"

"Kitten, sir."

All the swallows of Paris assembled in the Place Vendome a short time ago, to marshal their emigration. It was a singular and impressive spectacle. The roofs of the buildings were black with the swarming columns. After they had gone the rear guard moved off some three days behind the flight of the van.

Wise men mingle mirths with their cares, as a help either to forget or overcome; but to resort to intoxication for the ease of one's mind, is to cure melancholy by madness.

Divorced by Mistake.

One winter there came to Trenton, New Jersey, two men, named Smith and Jones, who had both of them designs upon the Legislature. Jones had a bad wife, and was in love with a pretty woman—he wished to be divorced from his bad wife, so that he might marry the pretty woman, who by the way was a widow, with black eyes, and such a form! Therefore Jones came to Trenton for a divorce.

Smith had a good wife, good as an angel and the mother of ten children, and Smith did not want to be divorced, but did want to get a charter for a turnpike or plank-road, to extend from Pig's Run to Terrapin Hollow.

Well, they with these different errands came to Trenton, and addressed the assembled wisdom with the usual arguments. First, suppers mainly composed of oysters with a rich background of venison; second, liquors in great plenty from "Jersey lightning,"—which is a kind of locomotive at full speed, reduced to liquor shape—to Newark champagne. To speak in plain prose, the divorce man gave a champagne supper, and Smith, the turnpike man, followed with a champagne breakfast, under the mollifying influence of which, the assembled wisdom passed both the divorce and turnpike bills; and Jones and Smith—a copy of each bill in their pockets—went rejoicing home, over miles of sand, and through the tribulation of many stage coaches.

Smith arrived home in the evening, and, as he sat down in his parlor, his pretty wife beside him—how pretty she did look!—and five of her children overhearing the other five studying their lessons in the corner of the room, Smith was induced to expatiate upon the good results of his mission to Trenton.

"A turnpike, my dear; I am one of the directors, and will be President. It will set me up, love; we can send our children to the boarding school, and live in style out of the toll. Here is the charter, honey."

"Let me see it," said the pretty little wife, who was one of the nicest of wives, with plumpness and goodness dimpling all over her face, "let me see it," as she leaned over Smith's shoulder.

But all at once Smith's visage grew long; Smith's wife's visage grew black. Smith was not profane, but now he ripped out an awful oath.

"Blast us, wife, these infernal scoundrels at Trenton have gone and divorced us."

It was too true; the parchment which he held was a bill of divorce, in which the name of Smith and Smith's wife appeared in frightfully legible letters.

Mrs. Smith wiped her eyes with the corner of her apron.

"Here's a turnpike," she said sadly, "and with the whole of our ten children staring me in the face, I ain't your wife! Here's a turnpike."

"Blast the pike and the Legislature and ——."

Well, the fact is that Smith, reduced to single blessedness, enacted into a stranger to his own wife, swore awfully. Although the night was dark, and most of the denizens of Smith's town had gone to bed, Smith bid his late wife to put on her bonnet, and arm-in-arm they proceeded to the clergyman of their church.

"Goodness, bless me!" exclaimed the good man as he saw them enter; Smith looking like the last of June shad, Smith's wife wiping her eyes upon the corner of her apron. "Goodness, bless me, what's the matter?"

"The matter is, I want you to marry us two right off," replied Smith.

"Marry you," ejaculated the clergyman, with expanded fingers and awful eyes; "are you drunk, or what is the matter with you?"

However, he finally married them over straightway, and would not take a fee; the fact is, grave as he was, he was dying to be alone that he might give vent to a suppressed laugh that was shaking him all over; and Smith and Smith's wife went joyfully home and kissed every one of their children. The little Smiths never knew that their father and mother had ever been made strangers to each other by legislative enactment.

Meanwhile, and on the same night, Jones returned to his native town—Burlington, I believe—and sought at once the fine black eyes which he had hoped shortly to call his own. The pretty widow sat on the sofa, a white kerchief tied carelessly about her round white throat, her black hair laid in silky waves against each rosy cheek.

"Divorce is the word," cried Jones, playfully patting her double chin; the fact is, Eliza, I'm rid of that cursed woman, and you and I'll be married to-night. I know how to manage those scoundrels at Trenton. A champagne supper—or was it breakfast?—did the business for them. Put on your bonnet, and let us go to the preacher's at once, dearest."

The widow, who was among widows as peaches among apples, put on her bonnet and took Jones' arm, and—

"Just look how handsome it is put on parchment!" cried Jones, pulling out the document before her; "here's the law that says that Jacob Jones and Ann Caroline Jones are two."

Putting her plump gloved hand on his shoulder, she did look at it.

"O dear!" she said, with her rosy lips, and sank back, half fainting, on the sofa.

"O blazes!" cried Jones, and sank beside her, rustling the fatal parchment in his hand; "here's a lot of happiness and champagne gone to ruin."

It was a hard case. Instead of being divorced, and at liberty to marry the widow, Jacob Jones was simply, by the Legislature of New Jersey, incorporated into a turnpike company, and what made it worse, authorized to run from Burlington to Bristol! When you reflect that Burlington and Bristol are located just a mile apart, on opposite sides of the Delaware river, you will observe the extreme hopelessness of Jones' case.

"It's all the fault of that turnpike man who gave them the champagne supper—or was it the breakfast?" cried Jones in agony. "If they'd chartered me to a turnpike from Pig's Run to Terrapin Hollow, I might have borne it; but the very idea of building a turnpike from Burlington to Bristol bears an absurdity on the face of it."

So it did.

"And you ain't divorced," said Eliza, a tear running down each cheek.

"No!" thundered Jones, crushing his hat between his knees, "and what is worse, the Legislature is adjourned, and gone home drunk, and won't be back to Trenton 'till next year!"

It was a hard case.

The mistake (?) had occurred on the last day of the session, when legislators and transcribing clerks were laboring under a champagne breakfast. Smith's name had been put where Jones' ought to have been, and "wisey wearsey," as the Latin poet has it.

A Caution to Young Men.

A young medical student from Michigan, who had been attending lectures in New York for some time, and considered himself exceedingly good looking and fascinating, made a determined onset on the heart and fortune of a blooming young lady who was boarding at the same house with him. After a prolonged siege, the lady surrendered. They were married on Wednesday morning. The same afternoon the "young wife" sent for and exhibited to the astonished student a "beautiful little daughter," three and a half years of age.

"Good Heavens! then you were a widow?" exclaimed the astonished student.

"Yes, my dear, and this is Amelia, my youngest. To-morrow, Augustus, James and Reuben will arrive from the country, and then I shall have all my children together once more."

The unhappy student replied not a word; his feelings were too deep for utterance. The next day the "other darlings" arrived. Reuben was six years old, James nine, and Augustus a saucy boy of twelve. They were delighted to hear they had a "new papa," because they could now live at home and have all the playthings they wanted. The "new papa," as soon as he could speak, remarked that Augustus and James did not much resemble Reuben and Amelia.

"Well, no," said the happy mother; "my first husband was quite a different style of man from my second—complexion, temperament, color of hair and eyes—all different."

This was too much. He had not only married a widow, but was her third husband, and the astonished step-father of four children.

"But her fortune," thought he, that will make some amends." He spoke to her of her fortune.

"These are my treasures," said she, in the Roman matron style, pointing to her children.

The conceit was now quite taken out of the Michigander, who, finding that he had made a complete goose of himself, at once retired to a farm in his native State, where he could have a chance to render "his boys" useful, and make them sweat for the deceit practiced upon him by their mother.

Paddy's Pig.

In "Southern Lights and Shadows; or Life in Australia," we find the following amusing anecdote.

As a shadow to all these sunny southern lights, I must here mention that I did meet with a few extraordinary mean men in Sydney. There was one, a merchant prince, who made it a boast that he had never given away a shilling in his life. So far as I know, he only departed from his extreme selfishness on one occasion, and the circumstances are worth relating. One morning, a poor Irishman stepped into his counting house, and looking the very picture of misery, said,

"Oh, may it plaze yer honor, I've lost a pig—the only pig I had—Misthress——, the governess, has given me a pound, and sent me to you for another. She says you have enough gold to build a sty wid, and will be sure to give me a little."

At first, old hardfist refused; upon which Paddy threw himself on a stool, and raised such a piteous wail that the merchant, thinking he was mad about the death of his pig, gave him a pound to get rid of him.

Next day the proprietor of the defunct porker was passing the warehouse, and seeing his benefactor at the door, pulled his hat to him.

"Well, did you get drunk with that pound, or buy another pig?" asked the rich man gruffly.

"Bought a pig, yer honor—a darling little thing, with a swate twist in his tail like a lady's curl."

"Well, it's to be hoped you'll take better care of him than you did of the other. What did he die of?"

"Die of! Did ye say die of, now? Why, get out wid ye—he was so fat I killed him!"

Japanese Jugglery.

Before leaving Japan, we saw a most interesting display of a winter evening amusement for children.

One of our Dutch friends had presented us with a small box containing what looked like several hundred pieces of broom straw, from three-eighths to an inch in length.

"Throw one of those in that cup of hot water!" he said. We did as desired, and it had no sooner touched the surface than it expanded into a perfect representation of a Japanese woman in full dress. Another proved to be a very buffalo-like cow, a third was a sword, and a fourth quite a handsome walking cane.

"Throw in a dozen at a time!" said our friend.

Of course we complied—picking them up at random—and they all proved to be different. There were houses, dogs, short-tailed cats, horses, trees, and flowers; and I suppose had we thrown in half of the box we should have seen a duplicate of almost everything known to the Japanese. As it was, however, we curbed our curiosity, divided the contents of the box between us, and stowed them away in our rooms for the purpose of astonishing the natives at home.

At a convention of clergymen, not long since, it was proposed by one of the members, after they had dined, that each man should entertain the company with some interesting remarks. Among the rest, one drew upon his fancy and related a dream. In his dream he went to heaven, and he described the golden streets, &c. As he concluded, one of the divines, who was noted for his penurious and money saving habits, jocosely said:

"Well, did you see anything of me in your dream."

"Yes, I did."

"Indeed! what was I doing?"

"You were on your knees."

"Praying, was I?"

"No—scraping up the gold!"

"What are they talking about?" said a member during the debate on the money question.

"Theology," was the reply.

"Theology! why I thought it was the money question!"

"Well, money is their deity, and they are discoursing about that."

The costume of the Spanish ladies has not changed for two hundred years. They actually wear the same style of dress that their great grandmothers did.

THE PUGET SOUND HERALD

PUGET SOUND HERALD.

STEILACOOM, W. T., FRIDAY, SEPT. 9, 1859.

APOLOGY.

Our paper is not only late, this week, in making its appearance, but its columns present little attraction. This is owing to a conspiracy entered into by Dr. J. B. Webber and others, to defraud us of a portion of our working time, and substitute therefor a little recreation. The conspiracy succeeded to a charm. We left Steilacoom on Tuesday, with the understanding that we were to return on the following day; but, having got our person in their possession, they refused to release it within forty-eight hours, notwithstanding our protestation that we could not spare so much time from our labors. In Olympia we were greeted by many kind friends whom we were truly glad to see, while both in the capital and on the road we saw much that gratified us, and which we shall from time to time advert to, hereafter.

We trust our readers will accept our apology, and the Doctor our thanks. The time lost we shall soon recover, and in future endeavor to make amends for present neglect.

A METEOR.—The good people of Thurston and Sawamish Counties were somewhat startled, a fortnight ago, by the appearance of a meteoric body, in the form of a large ball of fire, which, after traversing the air for a long distance, exploded with a loud report, distinctly heard in the two counties named. Our friend Wm. Walter, of Sawamish, writes us as follows respecting it, under date of "Sawamish county, Aug. 23, '59:" "Yesterday our neighborhood was startled with hearing and feeling a dreadful loud report, such as a large cannon near by. I was in the field at the time, and went to the house, where Mr. Krise was, who said that it shook the house. This morning I went around the neighborhood, and found that everybody heard the strange report. Lastly, I called on Col. Simmons, who said that it was a meteor; that two Indians in his employ saw it fly and burst. They came to his house very much alarmed. The meteor burst northwest of this place; and as it came from an easterly direction, no doubt it was seen by somebody in your vicinity." We have not heard of its appearance here.

INDIAN OUTRAGE AT NEAH BAY.—On the evening of August 6th, says the Victoria Gazette, a party of the Macaw tribe of Indians attacked Mr. H. A. Webster, of the firm of Webster & Strong, who have an oil and fishing station at Neah Bay, whilst his brother and Mr. Maggs had gone out in their boat to meet the steamer Northerner. The Indians, taking advantage of Mr. Webster being alone in his house, made a most brutal attack upon him, striking and mangling his face and head with stones, and then dragged him for a distance of 300 yards to the beach. They then threatened him with their knives, drawing one across his throat, and otherwise maltreating him. They would in all probability have taken his life, but for the return of the party from the steamer, when, becoming alarmed, the savages left in their canoe. Mr. Webster managed to crawl from the beach to the house, where he was found by his brother and friend. His injuries were so severe as to confine him to his bed for some time, but he is now recovering. Representations of this occurrence have been made to the Indian Agent at Port Townsend, and an effort will be made to have the U. S. steamer Massachusetts sent to Neah Bay to make reprisals for this outrage.

STABBING AFFRAY.—At about 12 o'clock, last night, a quarrel took place in the store of Mr. P. J. Mooney, between some three or four young men, which led to a fight with deadly weapons, in which F. C. Seaman was stabbed in the abdomen with a knife. A youth named Geo. Melville was charged with the stabbing, and this morning was brought before Justice Shorey for examination. The examination not being concluded when night set in, an adjournment of the case was had until Monday, when an affidavit from Seaman will be given in evidence. The wounded man is doing well.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—On last Tuesday night, between twelve and one o'clock, a young man named Robert Williams, while going up the road leading to the garrison, was robbed of $135. He states that he was seized by two men, (one of whom presented a pistol at him) who had secreted themselves by the roadside, and his money demanded. Having no alternative, he gave it up, when they immediately disappeared in the timber. Constable Whitman was soon informed of it, and has since been endeavoring to ferret out the highwaymen, but up to this time without success.

RUM AND ROWDYISM.—During the week there have been several fights in town, originating in the too free use of bad rum. We regret to witness this evidence of decline in morals, and hope soon to see it checked.

DAMAGED.—For want of time, this week, we are unavoidably compelled to defer the publication of several communications.

THE PROBLEM SOLVED.

Lieut. Mullan has received an express from Fort Benton, says the Dalles Journal of the 2d inst., with the pleasing intelligence that his long cherished anticipations have been fully realized by the arrival at that point of the steamer Chippewa, direct from St. Louis, laden with two hundred and eighty tons of freight. This is no unimportant incident even in this era of eventful transactions; for by it, 800 miles of steam navigation have been added to that of the Missouri, making a distance now open to steamers from St. Louis, in this direction, of 3000 miles on the eastern slope of the continent. On this side we have steam—on the Columbia—in the same line as far as the mouth of Snake River, leaving only a distance of land travel of 600 miles over which Lieut. Mullan is now building a wagon road with all the characteristic thoroughness of his nature. The next matter to be determined, is the length of time each year that steamboats can reach Fort Benton. We believe in the end this will be accomplished longer than any one—the most sanguine—has hitherto anticipated. Settlement and trade will follow up speedily the clatter of the steamers' wheels on both sides of the continent, and narrow the unsettled region down to a trifling belt indeed—and must lead at an early day to the opening in this direction of a great highway for mails, and travel from east to west. Therefore, this pioneer voyage of the Chippewa is one fraught with importance to the people of this Valley—an event, the consequence of which can scarcely be overestimated by them—and should encourage all to work with renewed energy in the development of the resources of the land.

In regard to the progress of the Fort Benton Military Road, in course of construction by Lieut. Mullan, the Journal also says:—"The advent of the steamer Chippewa at Fort Benton invests this work with additional interest. On the 16th of August, the Road had been completed as far as the Cœur d'Alene Mission, a distance of 199 miles from Fort Walla Walla. Much heavy work has been necessary of late. A party was at work on another piece of the road—in advance—of 11 miles, which it was expected would also be finished by the 22d August. A second party had also been set to work about the sources of the St. Francis de Borgia. A small party, under Mr. Sohon, are ahead exploring the line to Fort Owen, in St. Mary's Valley. Another exploration is being made by Mr. Engle, of a line from the Mission to Thompson's prairie on Clarke's Fork, thence up that stream to Fort Conner, thence to the mouth of the Bitter Root and back to the St. Francis de Borgia. The Indians have talked much of this last route. In the prosecution of the main work, much topographical information of a wide scope of interesting country must be acquired of ultimate advantage in the near future of this country. As of interest, we append the latitude and longitude of the following points on the Road:

Walla Walla Landing, lat. 46° 03', lon. 119°.
Fort Walla Walla, lat. 46° 03' 6", lon. 118° 24'.
Fort Taylor, Snake River, lat. 46° 33', lon. 118° 16'.
Camp, St. Joseph River, lat. 47° 23' 9", lon. 117° 04'.
Cœur d'Alene Mission, lat. 47° 32' 8", lon. 116° 24'.

MINNESOTA EMIGRANTS.

We are indebted to Mr. Charles Goodrich, says the Dalles Journal of the 2d inst., for the following information in regard to the immigration from the Northwestern States, via Saskatchewan, to Fraser River. He informs us, that after the pioneer party had left them at Pembina to make their outfit, they were delayed for five weeks through the rascality of the man who had promised to outfit them for the trip. The season being so far advanced when they arrived at Fort Pitt on the Saskatchewan river, in the British Possessions, they concluded to winter there. They were indebted, he says, to the officers of the Hudson Bay Company at the Fort for many acts of kindness. They started late in the spring and reached the foot of the Rocky Mountain on the 1st July, and came up with a party of four, that had wintered at the Red River Settlement. On the 2d July they entered Sinclair Pass—after twenty-eight days travel they arrived at Tobacco Plains, and met there a party of fifteen, that had also wintered at Red River—this party struck for the head waters of the Missouri, and came through the Mountains at the Boundary Line Pass. They report that there were about 150 that had wintered at Red River, destined for the golden fields of Washington Territory and Fraser River. The winter in that latitude was very severe, and in consequence they experienced some hard times. They were not annoyed by the Indians on the route, but on the contrary met with marked consideration, being supplied gratuitously with fresh meat on several occasions; they speak in unbounded terms of the hospitality of the Koottonais at the Tobacco Plains; these Indians, in addition to supplying them with provisions, furnished them with fresh horses for their jaded ones. Mr. G. states that the distance from St. Paul, Minn., to Fort Edmunton on the Saskatchewan, as measured by an odometer, is 1,237 miles.

THE INDIAN FEELING.—From the quarter of Colville, says the Dalles Journal, we have received the assurances of one well informed in the premises, that a feeling entirely friendly to the whites exists among the Indians of that section, including the Pen d'Oreilles, Cœur d'Alenes, Spokanes and Colvilles—as the principal men of those bands give constant assurance, at least, that they are utterly free from all hostile intentions. We refer to this in order to dissipate any idle fears of Indian disturbance, which may prevent miners from venturing into the mineral districts of the Wee-nach-ee and Pen d'Oreille rivers.

PACIFIC.—A heifer known to be but fifteen months old, born in the vicinity of the Dalles, (Oregon) owned by Messrs. Noble & Scholl, gave birth, about the 20th ult., to two living calves, each of ordinary size and condition at the present moment.

PUBLIC SCHOOL EXHIBITION.

An exhibition of the public school of this district, which has been for the past twelvemonth under the tuition of Rev. Geo. W. Sloan, took place last Friday evening. It was not designed on this occasion, nor was an attempt made, to exhibit the proficiency of the scholars in their studies; but we learn that their improvement has been exceedingly rapid, as was indeed manifest at the exhibition. We have not the time to notice this interesting affair as we could wish, and must therefore rest content with simply calling attention to the annexed

Programme:

Here followed the distribution of premiums; after which, Rev. G. W. Sloan made a few closing remarks. The whole concluded with the song, "Good Bye."

THE EMIGRATION.

The advance trains of the overland emigration of 1859 are beginning to arrive on the frontier in considerable numbers. Some have already reached this and other valleys. From those arrived, we have the gratifying intelligence that the people in the rear are coming on prosperously. Mr. I. C. Criswell, just arrived, called on us yesterday, and furnished us with some information relative to the progress and condition of a portion of the emigration.

Capt. Sheats' train, one company, with eighteen wagons, 121 head of loose stock, left Grand Round Aug. 16. A train of 8 wagons and 30 head of cattle left Malheur river, and intended to come into the upper part of Willamette Valley.

Capt. Goodall's train, 8 wagons and 30 head of stock, was left 40 miles east of Fort Boyce.

Capt. Purdum's train was passed 30 miles this side of Three Islands. In this train were 9 wagons and 125 head of stock, of which 25 head were fine blooded animals.

Capt. Woodward's train, 9 wagons and 50 head of stock, were at Three Islands Aug. 6.

Capt. Lane's train, 13 wagons and 75 head of cattle, was also at the same point. Capt. Lane died, (date not given) of inflammation of the brain, 50 miles east of Fort Hall. He was properly buried, and a substantial stone was erected above his remains.

Capt. Neddra's train 13 wagons and 50 head of cattle, was last seen at Raft river, bound in by the Applegate route.

Independent train, 18 wagons and 50 head of stock, was at Fort Snyder.

Capt. Goodall, in a difficulty with a Mr. Tuttel, was shot in the mouth, the ball passing nearly through the head. He was, however, getting along at last accounts. The difficulty occurred a few miles from Fort Boyce.

The emigrants, with the exception of Capt. Sheats' train, were abundantly supplied with provisions. Capt. Sheats' company was destitute of food.

There was at Grand Ronde a company of Artillery, from Camp Floyd, destined for Fort Vancouver. The company consisted of one hundred men and eight field pieces. Mr. Criswell did not ascertain the name of the commanding officer.—[Portland Daily Advertiser.

FROM VICTORIA.

The arrival of the steamer Julia, at an early hour this morning, put us in possession of Victoria peapers of the 7th inst. We glean the following items from the Gazette of the 1st:—

The shipments of gold dust for the month of August sum up as follows:—Per Wells, Fargo & Co, $99,623; and per Freeman & Co., $46,578; making a total forwarded, by express alone, of $146,000.

An elopement has recently taken place on Bellevus Island. The place is evidently becoming civilized.

The imports of Victoria for the month of August, have amounted (as per Harbor Master Permits) to $315,357 69. The exports for the same period, exclusive of the amount forwarded to British Columbia, have been $8,125.

On a map of British Columbia and vicinity, drawn by a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, and published in London last year by Phillips & Co., the San Juan Archipelago (including an island north of Bellevue) is given as a portion of Washington Territory.

SUTLERS.—The War Department has adopted a regulation, fixing the tax upon sutlers at posts occupied by one or more companies, at ten cents a month for each officer and enlisted man belonging to the command in each regiment. The fund accruing to it as above, or as much of it as may be necessary, will be appropriated to the maintenance of the band.

THE EXPRESS COMPANIES have again laid us under obligations for files of papers, Pacific and Atlantic.

SNOHOMISH RIVER.

To the Editor of the Puget Sound Herald:

SNOHOMISH RIVER, W. T., Aug. 28, 1859.

Being somewhat inclined to ramble, and not being otherwise engaged, I left Steilacoom some three weeks since for the purpose of visiting some of the more important places on the Sound, and looking at the country generally. After spending some time at Seattle and elsewhere, I concluded to visit this portion of Washington Territory, having been previously informed by different parties who had traveled through it that it was the best country for farming and stock growing they had seen on the Pacific coast. I arrived at the crossing of the Military Trail on the Snohomish River on the 20th inst., and, as all reports are more or less exaggerated, I must confess I was agreeably surprised to find the countryas good if not better than it was represented to be.

The trail crosses the river some fifteen miles above its mouth. The land on either side of the river is of the very best quality for agricultural purposes. The bottom land on the river varies from three to five miles in width, and I venture the assertion that more fertile soil cannot be found in Washington Territory than is found in the bottom lands on the Snohomish, Skywhamish and Snoqualmoo rivers.

There are several large prairies on the Skywhamish river, which rival in richness of soil the richest prairie lands in Iowa or Illinois; and, being situated on one of the most beautiful streams of water imaginable, which is navigable for small river steamers at all seasons of the year, they present facilities to the husbandman unequalled in this country.

To persons passing up the river, the forests would seem to be almost impenetrable to man or beast. Such was my impression while ascending the river. However, since my arrival at this place, I have traveled over a considerable portion of country, and I find no difficulty in penetrating the most dense appearing forests on the rivers.

While here, I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Robert Goodburn, of Steilacoom, who is superintending the cutting of the Military Trail from Fort Steilacoom to Bellingham Bay. Mr. Goodburn informs me the trail is completed to within four miles of the river, and is of the opinion that he will be through to the river by the first of September. The result is, on and after this date parties desirous of visiting this portion of Washington Territory can do so either by land or water. The distance via the trail from Seattle to the crossing on the Snohomish is estimated at forty-five miles; via steamers, fifty.

The Snohomish river is navigable for first class river steamers up to this point, and for small river steamers, forty to fifty miles further.

Mr. Hiel Barnes and E. S. Cady have located claims on the north side of the river, immediately at the crossing. Mr. E. H. Tucker has located a claim on the south side, opposite the claims of Barnes and Cady. At this writing, the above named gentlemen are busily engaged in felling the timber and clearing the land preparatory to building.

They are just the men
That have the sand
To fall the trees and clear the land.

TOURIST.

CARPENTERS.

To the Editor of the Puget Sound Herald:

STEILACOOM, W. T., Sept. 9, '59.

In your paper, some two weeks back, you say you learn that, so great is the demand for carpenters that they cannot be had in consequence of so many buildings going up, &c. For the special benefit of your informant, I would state that there are plenty of carpenters in town to do all the work required, and all that is necessary to procure their labor is moderate wages, and the cash when the labor is performed. Mechanics must live, and so must boarding-house keepers; and, in order to enable both to live, it is necessary that wages approximating the cost of living should obtain.

If a man contracts for a piece of work, and takes it so low that he cannot make wages for himself nor his men, it is an undoubted fact that he is always in want of hands. Now I fear your informant was one of these; if so, such men as these are a disadvantage to any place, and in a very few words I will state the reason why, in the first place, he comes to you and advertises in your paper for hands. Mechanics at a distance pick up the paper, read the advertisement, and, being out of employment, start at once for the place. They arrive here, find no employment, loaf around the taverns for a week or a fortnight, and finally go away poorer than they came, cursing all concerned in their deception. This I have often witnessed, and know it to be a fact. I speak of other places as well as this.

A CARPENTER.

THE STEAMER NORTHERNER arrived this afternoon with a company of troops and a large frieght from San Francisco via Vancouver, W. T. The freight mainly comprised government stores for the Quartermaster at this post.

MARRIED.

On Saturday, Sept. 3d, by Rev. George W. Sloan, at his residence, LUTHER J. KEECH to SARAH SILKIRK, both of Pierce county, W. T.

On Sunday, Sept. 4th, in Steilacoom, by Rev. George W. Sloan, MARTIN SCHMING to Miss ELIZABETH GERLACH, both of Pierce county, W. T.

The above couples kindly remembered us on the occasion of their nuptials. They have our earnest wishes for their happiness through life.

STEILACOOM ACADEMY.

THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING HAD several years' experience as a teacher in a High School in Pennsylvania, designs opening an Academy in Steilacoom, for the instruction of the youth of both sexes. He proposes to give a thorough practical education in the various branches, and flatters himself that he is well qualified by education for the task.

The Academic course will consist of three departments. The tuition, per quarter of eleven weeks in each department, will be as follows, viz:

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT—Orthography, &c. $8 00
JUNIOR DEPARTMENT—English Grammar, &c. 10 00
SENIOR DEPARTMENT—Algebra, &c. 12 00

The school will be opened on the first Monday in November. Parties abroad who may wish to communicate with him on the subject will address to Steilacoom Post Office, Pierce County, W. T.

26:tf Rev. GEORGE W. SLOAN.

NOTICE—THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING SOLD HIS stock of merchandize to Messrs. King and Walker, and also the butcher business to J. R. Mecker & Sons, would respectfully tender his thanks to the citizens of Steilacoom and the surrounding country for their very liberal patronage to him, and indulges the hope that the same will be continued to the present proprietors.

All persons indebted to him are requested to call at the old stand and settle their accounts.

26:tf D. H. BYRD.

A TERM OF THE DISTRICT COURT OF Pierce County, W. T., will be held at Steilacoom City on MONDAY, the 19th day of September next, it being the third Monday of said month, to continue for two weeks, unless sooner adjourned.

Presiding Judge—Hon. O. B. McFadden, Chief Justice of the Territory of Washington.

WILLIAM H. WOOD, Clerk.

Special Notices.

☞ Dr. Guysott's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, put up in quart bottles, contains more of the pure Honduras Sarsaparilla than any other preparation extant, which is chemically combined with the Extract of Yellow Dock and the Extract of Wild Cherry, thus making the remedy more thoroughly efficient than any other Sarsaparilla before the public. At the same time it is perfectly free from all mineral poisons, which cannot be said of any other of the Sarsaparilla compounds. The invalid should beware of mineral and metallic poisons, which enter into and form the active basis of most of the Sarsaparillas and Panaceas of the day. Guysott's Compound Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla does not contain a particle of these substances, as any one can ascertain by applying the necessary tests.

Let all poisonous Sarsaparilla preparations alone, and use Guysott's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, which is thoroughly efficacious, perfectly harmless, and purely vegetable. All kinds of disease yield to its genial influence.

As a purifier of the blood, and the various skin diseases, it has no equal.

Be sure and get the QUART BOTTLES, sold by druggists generally.

PARK & WHITE, General Agents, Importers and Dealers in all valuable Patent Medicines, 132½ Washington street, San Francisco. 30:3m

☞ For the Lungs, Coughs, Colds, &c., use Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

We regard the Wild Cherry tree as one of Nature's own physicians—a sort of Good Samaritan of the Forest—for its "medical gum" has relieved the sufferings and saved the lives of thousands. The Balsam prepared by Dr. Wistar is a pure and perfectly reliable preparation of the real Cherry essence, and it is a remedy by no means "bad to take." We speak confidently and strongly in its praise, from having witnessed its renovating influence in consumptive cases, when all other prescriptions had proved of no effect.

Sold by all respectable druggists.

Be cautious, as there are many counterfeits. Look well at the signature before purchasing. Take none unless it has the name of "Henry Wistar, M.D., Philadelphia," and "Sanford & Park," engraved on the outside wrapper. All others are base imitations.

PARK & WHITE are the only Agents, to whom all orders should be addressed.

Hostetter—The surprising effects of HOSTETTER'S VEGETABLE STOMACH BITTERS, in removing bile, forcing an appetite, imparting health and tone to the system, and dissipating dyspeptic symptoms, are truly wonderful. Every nervous, debilitated, weak and emaciated person, male or female, should try it at once. One wine glassfull, taken three times each day, before meals; or, if the patient should be a lady or child in a debilitated condition, half the quantity will do until sufficient strength is restored, which will be realized in a very short time, and convince the patient of the truth of the above named happy results, which have gained for these Bitters such an enviable reputation everywhere.

PUGET SOUND HERALD.

STEILACOOM, W. T., FRIDAY, SEPT. 9, 1859.

FROM EUROPE.

The steamship Europa arrived at New York July 27th, bringing dates from Europe to the 16th of July. The peace news is fully confirmed, but no further particulars have transpired beyond the fact that the Dukes of Tuscany and Modena return to the States. Letters from Paris note much discontent there concerning the terms of pence, although peace itself gave satisfaction. The Paris Ciecle objects to Austrian influence still being suffered to remain in Italy, and calls for the expulsion of the petty Italian Princes, who are but confederates of Austria. Napoleon, on his arrival in France, would proceed direct to St. Cloud, deferring his official entree into Paris till he makes at the head of an army. The Emperor and King of Sardinia entered Turin on the 15th, amid the enthusiastic acclamations of the people.

The Austrian correspondent officially announces the conditions of the treaty of peace thus:

Austria and France will support the formation of an Italian Confederation. Lombardy, as far as the line of the Mincio, is to be given up. Mantua, Peschiera and the whole of Venetia remain in Austrian possession. The Princes of Tuscany and Modena returned to their States. A universal amnesty is granted.

The Vienna correspondent of the London Times says, three applications were made by Napoleon to Austria before she would consent. Overtures were made direct by Napoleon for promoting the mediation by the neutrals.

The same correspondent says that the Pope was burnt in effigy at Milan, and unfriendly feelings existed between Napoleon and Victor Emanuel.

It was rumored that the Emperor and Empress of the French would visit Vienna.

It is reported that the French army has commenced its countermarch.

It is thought probable that the dismissal of Cardinal Antonelli would follow this state of affairs.

It was rumored that Gen. Garibaldi was about to issue a proclamation, and it was considered doubtful whether he would lay down his arms up to the 11th.

The formation of the Hungarian Legion had proceeded prosperously, five thousand men having already joined.

A letter from Rome, dated the 8th, says that the Pope had sent autographed letter to Napoleon, announcing his determination to demand armed intervention from the Catholic powers.

Switzerland has ordered the disbandment of her troops called out during the war. Prussia has ordered her troops on the march to halt. The papers were mainly engaged in speculations upon the sudden conclusions of peace and its results.

The interview between the Emperors at Villafranca is said to have lasted nearly three whole days.

The statement of the Bank of France for July shows a decrease of cash of over eleven millions of francs.

The Emperor of Austria has ordered an immediate cessation of the recruiting just commenced.

It is remarked that Sardinia, by accepting Lombardy without the fortress necessary to defend it, has made herself the vassal of France, and that Italy has gained nothing, while the Emperor returns to Paris, nominally conqueror, but in reality, a baffled and dishonored man.

Victor Emanuel entered Milan on the 13th of July, amid the enthusiastic plaudits of the citizens.

Victor Emanuel had issued a proclamation to the people of Lombardy, announcing their annexation to Sardinia, according to their own desire many times expressed, and his determination to ameliorate their political condition.

It was reported at Paris that great agitation prevailed at Milan; that troubles had arisen at Venice; that Florence was disturbed, and that the Parisian population was indignant at the Emperor for failure to fulfil his promises.

FARMS FOR SALE.

SIXTEEN CLAIMS IN THURSTON AND Pierce counties for sale—The undersigned, as the agent of others, has for sale sixteen land claims in this and the adjoining counties, all of which are more or less improved, and some under a high state of cultivation. Among these claims are several that are admirably adapted for cattle ranges, and others that are not excelled for fertility on the Pacific coast. Some of them are claims of 320 acres, and others pre-emption claims of 160 acres. Payment will be taken in cattle or money, at prices ranging from $400 to $3000.

Parties having Farms for sale will find it to their interest to intrust them to the undersigned; he being probably better acquainted with the country than anybody now living in this county, the knowledge of which fact has induced many in pursuit of claims to apply to him. Terms moderate.

☞ The following letter, which emphatically speaks for itself, was written by the Dean of the Faculty of the Philadelphia College of Medicine to the editors of the "Pacific Medical and Surgical Journal," San Francisco, for publication:

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7th, 1859.

To the Editors of the Pacific Medical and Surgical Journal:

GENTLEMEN—My attention has been called to an article in the December number of your journal, in regard to the ad eundem degree granted by the Philadelphia College of Medicine to Dr. L. J. Czapkay. When the application for the degree was made to the Faculty, it was accompanied by affidavits and testimonials to the effect that Dr. Czapkay was a regular graduate M.D. of the University of Pesth, had served as Surgeon in the Hungarian army, and was a regular practitioner of medicine. On the strength of these the degree was granted. The ad eundem degree, as the name implies, is conferred on graduates only, and gives us new privileges. Had there been the slightest suspicion of irregularity, the application would have been refused. By inserting this in your journal, you will do an act of justice to the College, and confer a favor on Yours, very respectfully,

H. RAND,

Dean of the Faculty of the Philadelphia College of Medicine.

Dr. L. J. Czapkay's private Medical and Surgical Institute is on Sacramento street, below Montgomery, opposite the Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s office, San Francisco. The Doctor offers free consultations, and asks no remuneration unless he effects a cure. Office hours, from 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.

CERTIFICATE.

I, the undersigned, Governor of Hungary, do testify hereby, that Dr L. J. Czapkay has served, during the contest for Hungarian liberty, as Chief Surgeon in the Hungarian army, with faithful perseverance—whereof I have given him this certificate, and do recommend him to the sympathy, attention and protection of all those who are capable of appreciating patriotic self sacrifice and undeserved misfortune. WASHINGTON HOTEL,

Corner of Main and Second streets,

OLYMPIA, W. T.

SILAS GALLIHER, Proprietor.

THE PROPRIETOR HAS RECENTLY ERECTED, IN CONnection with and as a part of the "Washington Hotel," a large two story building, 20 by 60 feet, by which he is enabled to provide the travelling public with a larger number of capacious, comfortable and excellently ventilated apartments than can be afforded by any other public house in Washington Territory. An idea of his ability to accommodate the public may be judged from the fact that the hotel contains twenty-five private rooms, (exclusive of family apartments) six of which are large drawing rooms or parlors.

Thankful to the public for the liberal patronage heretofore extended to the proprietor, and having thus enlarged upon his former business, he feels confident he can render the sojourn of strangers with him comfortable and pleasant, and no pains shall be spared to set his table as well as any in like business. Beds and bedrooms furnished to such as may desire them.

Board by the day and week.

A good stable is attached to this establishment, which will be amply supplied with forage for the accommodation of animals of the traveling public

A share of public patronage is respectfully solicited.

TOWN LOTS!

BILLS'S ADDITION TO STEILACOOM.

GOOD CHANCE FOR INVESTMENT!

THE SUBSCRIBER, HAVING LAID OUT his land claim, adjoining Capt. Balch's claim, into Town Lots of one acre each, is now prepared to sell Lots to suit parties desiring either to locate and improve or seeking investment. This claim, for advantageous location is not excelled by any on Puget Sound. The site has been laid out with a view to beauty and convenience; the streets being four rods wide, and the whole plot well watered by springs. Sites for three churches have already been donated and set apart. The prices of Lots range from $50 to $150 each, according to locality.

The proprietor contemplates building a wharf from the claim during the coming summer, which cannot fail to greatly enhance the value of the entire property.

Parties wishing to purchase can do so by applying to FRANK CLARK, Esq., of Steilacoom, who, by power of attorney, is authorized to sell and convey lots

MANUFACTURERS, MECHANICS AND INVENTORS.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

TO BE ENLARGED!

A NEW VOLUME—NEW SERIES,

To commence on July 2d, 1859.

Instead of 416 pages, the Yearly Volume, Enlarged Series, will contain 832 pages of valuable Reading Matter, useful and instructive to all classes.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN IS PUBLISHED weekly in quarto form, suitable for binding, and the numbers for a single year contain information in regard to new inventions, machinery, all branches of manufacturing processes, agricultural implements, engineering, millwrighting, iron manufacture, chemistry; in fact, almost every industrial pursuit receives more or less attention in its columns.

All Patent Claims officially published every week, as issued from the Patent Office; and for Inventors and Patentees it contains information not to be obtained elsewhere, and which no mechanic, inventor or patentee can well do without.

As a family journal it has no superior for real practical utility, since in its columns will be found useful practical recipes. Careful attention will be given, from time to time, to reports of the metal, lumber, and other markets.

Each number will contain sixteen pages and forty-eight columns of matter, with illustrations of patented machines and other engravings, comprising in a single year about 600 original engravings.

With the enlarged series is presented an opportunity to subscribe not likely to occur again for many years. It will be like commencing a new work—Vol. I, No. 1, New Series.

Send in your subscriptions without delay, so as to begin the new volume—July 2d.

Terms $2 a-year—$1 for six months.

Southern, Western and Canadian money or post-office stamps taken at par for subscriptions. Canadian subscribers will please to remit 26 cents extra on each year's subscription, to pre-pay postage.

A liberal discount to clubs. A prospectus, giving full particulars of the inducements for clubs, with specimen copies of the paper, and a pamphlet of information concerning the procuring of patents may be had gratis, by addressing Agriculture.

Care of Mares and their Foal.

In the first place, however, to begin from the beginning, the system of a horse's feeding, as well as of his grooming and stabling, commences, and if it be intended that he shall be a valuable and superior animal, must needs commence, before he is born. If his dam, while pregnant of him, be overworked, be under-fed, be neglected, and kept cold or filthy, or allowed to pick up her own subsistence as she may on open fields or commons, the foal must be a starveling; and, ten to one, will never attain its full size, or the full possession of its powers. If to neglect before its birth be added neglect of the dam and young creature, both, during its minority; if they be exposed to cold, to rain, snow, heat, in a word, to the weather and its changes, generally; if they receive no food—the dam, but what she can gather from the pasture—the foal, but the thin and unprofitable milk which the dam can produce from such sustenance; if they have no comfortable, airy shed to protect them from the scorching suns of summer, no warm stable to shield them from the nipping cold of autumnal nights, the foal will be, from the first to the last, but a wretched, stunted, starveling creature, and will never repay the breeder the expense or pains of rearing him.

According to the nature, quality and blood of the foal, so should the mare before and after parturition, and the foal, from the time of its birth, be nurtured, housed and fed. It is not of course to be expected that a cart mare, in foal to a cart stallion, a Norman, Canadian or Cleveland, or Clydesdale, the produce of which expects only to be a cart horse of improved degree, or, at the best, a heavy carriage-horse, should receive the pains, and have the expense lavished on her which would be expended on a thoroughbred mare, having the blood of twenty generations in her veins, and stinted to a horse inheritor of all the glories of the turf, to the days of its first and noblest champions. Still, it is a truth, that if it be worth the while to breed a good beast at all, it is worth the while to breed not only a good beast, but the very best beast, if one can, of the race or family to which he belongs; and this cannot be done unless both the dam, before parturition, and the dam and foal together, after the birth of the latter, be so supplied with food, warmth and shelter, as to allow the little animal an ample fund whence to draw his bone, his muscles, the development of his size and his blood, and, in a word, sufficient nutriment for the production of all those qualities which one would desire him to possess when he shall have attained his maturity.

Mares and foals should, then, always be supplied, in their summer pastures, with a good, cool, airy shed, for shelter against the sun or rain; in their winter quarters, with a close, warm, but thoroughly clean and ventilated stable. They should have abundance of good, rich, succulent food of the best quality; especially the dam, before the birth of the foal, and during the time while she is suckling it. It is not necessary, but it is desirable, that she should have oats or corn; where it is a thorough-bred mare in foal to a thorough bred, and expected to produce a racer, she should be cared for almost as if she herself were in work, and should have, at least, her two feeds daily, before parturition; and, after the birth and in the early days of nursing, two good mashes of steamed oats and bran, given moderately warm, in addition to her pasturage. As the foal gains age, she should have her oats regularly, and the young thing should be encouraged to eat of oats, likewise, as early as possible. He will soon take to it, and a quart or two per diem, increased to a full peck during the first year, and to two pecks, added to his pasturage in summer, and his hay chopped straw, or feed in winter, in his second year, will amply repay the owner in the quality of bone and muscle which the animal will form, and in the increased size, beauty and stamina, which will be his characteristics when he is growing toward maturity. It is not too much to say, that a foal, treated thus, will be, at two years old, the equal of any three year old, allowed to take his chance, without any food but that furnished by his dam from her ordinary commons, or picked up by himself, in his summer pasture or winter straw yard.

Destruction of Trees.

Allow me to call attention to the following: "The system of stripping the bark off the trunks of trees for the purpose of destroying the insects which infest them has now been generally applied to a large number in the Champs Elysees and elsewhere in Paris, and has led to the discovery of a curious fact, recently communicated to the Imperial Horticultural Society by M. Robert. It appears that trees may be deprived of the whole of their bark, not only without experiencing any injury, but even with considerable advantage, the operation tending to increase their power of vegetation. Elms, for example, which before the operation did not increase more than one or two millimetres in diameter each year, have been found to increase four or five when stripped of their bark. Trees having a very thin bark, such as the birch and others, need not be stripped to obtain a similar result; it is sufficient for the purpose to make longitudinal incisions in the bark by means of a kind of three-bladed scarificator. It is now intended to subject all the young elms in a languishing state to this treatment throughout Paris, it having answered perfectly with those planted on the fortifications. In a commercial point of view, the discovery is of some importance." The above, if correct, promises most valuable results.

Swine are often troubled with a disease denominated by veterinarians the "kidney worm." Corn, soaked in very strong lye made of wood ashes, is said to be an infallible remedy. Salt and brimstone, in small quantities, is a preventive, and, indeed, the only one known. Comfortable quarters and good food are of really more importance in the successful management of these animals than many are inclined to suppose, and should never on any account be neglected.

No single establishment in the world can truthfully claim to have manufactured and sold anything like so large a number of Reaping and Mowing Machines during the same time, while my experience dates back to the origin of my machine, in 1834, having been actively and exclusively engaged in their manufacture for the last fifteen years. I am now more largely engaged in the manufacture of these machines than ever before, and, with my improvements for 1859, do not hesitate to warrant my machine as a Reaper, Mower, and Reaper and Mower, superior to any other for simplicity, durability and perfect working; and further to say, that farmers who may desire it are at liberty to work my machine through the harvest with any other, and keep and pay for the one preferred. The position of the Raker in my machine, (as patented) upon the main frame, where there is great strength, and where the weight adds to the power of the machine, is the only right one. Other makers have to haul their raker on the platform, where he must submit to having the dust thrown in his eyes by the opera tion of the reel, and to being jolted over the clods by the little platform wheel over which he rides, necessarily racking their machine to pieces. This accounts, in part, for the great durability of my machines as compared with others.

Great Council Medal awarded my machine in London, in 1851.

Grand Gold Medal of Honor at Paris, in 1855.

Highest Prize at the French Universal Exhibition, in 1856.

Highest Prize of Royal Agricultural Society of England, in 1857.

Highest Prize of the United States Agricultural Society, in 1857.

As the Best Reaper.

Publications made by the manufacturers of the Manny machine, claiming the highest honors, etc., at the French Universal Exposition, in 1855, are known by them to be FALSE. The success of my machine, as indicated by figures above, is its highest praise, while the awards of premiums, generally, are worthy of no confidence, although reaper makers make a business of laboring and cheming to secure the little annual one horse premiums of the country. Although it may not be generally understood, it is nevertheless true, that these machines have always been sold at comparatively low prices, and but for the improvements which I introduced and sold them by thousands, for the ten years past, other smaller manufacturers would doubtless have put the price much higher.

I could furnish thousands of testimonials from farmers and others, of the truthfulness of every statement I have made, and much more I may further remark, that all of the reaping machines of any prominence in the country are mere modifications of my machine, all other manufacturers having necessarily limited experience in comparison with my own.

A single year's severe service will satisfy the farmer, that in point or durability my machine is far superior to all others; besides several most important advantages, referred to in my regular annual circular in pamphlet form, which will be furnished those who desire further information, by addressing me or any one of my agents.

BROOKLYN HOTEL,

Corner of Broadway and Sansome streets,

SAN FRANCISCO.

THE PROPRIETOR OF THIS WELL known and old established house is still at his old tricks—of feeding the public at the low price of Six Dollars per week, and still they come to partake of his good and well furnished table; and as Mr. Kelly is one of the pioneer hotel keepers of this city, he pledges himself that there will be nothing wanting at his house to make the public comfortable.

The house is centrally located, in the vicinity of the Custom House, Post Office, and also of the up river and ocean steamers, and contains a number of single and family rooms, well ventilated, suitable for ladies and single gentlemen.

There is also attached to the house a READING ROOM, and a LIBRARY which contains a large number of selected standard works. There is also, at the arrival of each steamer, which belongs to the house, to convey passengers and baggage, free of charge. The public are respectfully requested to give the house a trial.

A WAGON,

Board, per week, $6; per day, $1; Meals, 50 cents; Lodging, per night, 50 to 75 cents; Lodging, per week, $2 to $4. JOHN KELLY, Jr., Proprietor.

Udolpho Wolfe's Schnapps.

A Medicinal Diet Drink, of eminently salutary qualities, manufactured by him-self exclusively, at his factory at Scheidam, in Holland, and well known during the last twelve years throughout the Atlantic and Western States.

It is made from the best Barley that can be selected in Europe, with the addition of an aromatic Italian berry of acknowledged and extraordinary medicinal qualities. It has long since acquired a higher reputation, both in Europe and America, than any other diuretic beverage.

Analyzed, it is a perfectly pure Liquor, in its effects a mild and wholesome tonic. It is extensively used and approved by the medical faculty, the temperance people, heads of families, &c.

In Gravel, Gout and Rheumatism, in Obstructions of the Bladder and Kidneys, and in general Debility, its effects are prompt, decided, and invariably reliable. And in Dropsical affections, with all these maladies, but, in all cases in which they are produced by drinking bad water, which is almost universally the cause of them, it operates as a SURE PREVENTIVE.

For Fever and Ague it is one of the most efficacious preventives that can be resorted to.

The Aromatic Scheidam Schnapps

Is consequently in great demand by persons traveling, or about to settle in those parts of the country especially, as well as by many in every community where it has become known on account of its other remedial properties.

In all cases of Dropsical tendency, it is generally the only remedy required, when adopted in the early stages of the disease. In Dyspepsia maladies, when taken in proper quantities, as a diet drink, and especially at dinner, it is found, by uniform experience, to be eminently efficacious in the most obstinate cases, when even the best of the usual remedies have failed to afford more than temporary relief. In cases of Flatulency, it is an immediate, invariable specific; and it may be administered in diluted and proportionate quantities even to young infants, in all those paroxysms of griping pain in the stomach and bowels to which they are especially subject, as well as in the cholic of grown persons.

Its judicious adoption in connection with the principal meals, or at those seasons of exhaustion dictates its use, never fails to relieve the debility attendant upon protracted chronic maladies, low temperament and exhausted vital energy, by whatever cause induced. These are facts to which many of the most eminent medical men, both in Europe and the United States, have borne testimony, and which are corroborated by the highest written authorities.

Put up in quart or pint bottles, in case of one dozen, with my name on the bottle, cork and face simile of my signature on the label.

For sale by all the respectable druggists and Liquor dealers in California and Oregon.

London Cordial Gin, Club House Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, Medicated Schnapps, Royal Schnapps, &c., &c., &c.

Under the above and similar titles, the liquor mixers of this city are bottling large quantities of adulterated, unwholesome trash, vowing but little, on which they hope to realize large profits by selling in California.

Avoid all compounds.—Some are so skilfully prepared as to pass for good Liquor, except with the best judges. If you would be safe, use only the long established, renowned, genuine WOLFE'S SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS.

Useful Publications.

Leonard Scott & Co.'s

REPRINT OF THE BRITISH PERIODICALS.

—AND THE—

"Farmer's Guide."

Great Reduction in the price of the latter Publication.

LEONARD SCOTT & CO., New York, continue to re-publish the following BRITISH PERIODICALS, viz:

1. The London Quarterly, (Conservative.)
2. The Edinburgh Review, (Whig.)
3. The North British Review, (Free Church.)
4. The Westminster Review, (Liberal.)
5. Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine, (Tory.)

These Periodicals ably represent the great political parties of Great Britain—Whig, Tory, and Radical; but politics form only one feature of their character. As organs of the most profound writers on Science, Literature, Morality, and Religion, they stand as they have ever stood unrivalled in the world of letters, being considered indispensable to the scholar and the professional man, while to the intelligent reader of every class, they furnish a more correct and satisfactory record of the current literature of the day, throughout the world than can possibly be obtained from any other source.

The receipt of Advance Sheets from the British publishers gives additional value to these reprints, especially during the present exciting state of European affairs, inasmuch as they can now be placed in the hands of subscribers about as soon as the original editions.

Terms:

For any one of the Four Reviews, per annum	$8 00
For any two of the four Reviews, " "	5 00
For any three of the four Reviews, " "	7 00
For Blackwood's Magazine, " "	3 00
For Blackwood and the three Reviews, " "	9 00
For Blackwood and four Reviews, " "	10 00

☞ Payments to be made in all cases in advance. Money current in the state where issued will be received at par.

Clubbing.

A discount of twenty-five per cent from the above price will be allowed to clubs ordering direct from Scott & Co., for four or more copies of any of the above. Thus four copies of Blackwood, or of one Review, will be sent to one address for $9; for copies of the four Reviews and Blackwood for $30; and so on.

Postage.

☞ In all the principal cities and towns, these works will be delivered FREE OF POSTAGE. When sent by mail, the POSTAGE to any part of the United States will be but 24 cents a year for "Blackwood," and but 14 cents a year for each of the Reviews.

Splendid offers for 1858 and 1859 together.

Unlike the more ephemeral Magazines of the day, these Periodicals lose little by time. Hence a full year of the Nos. (with no omissions) for 1858, may be regarded nearly as valuable as for 1859. We propose to furnish the two years at the following extremely low rates, viz:

For Blackwood's Magazine,	4 50
For any one Review,	4 00
For any two Reviews,	6 00
For Blackwood and one Review,	7 00
For Blackwood and two Reviews,	9 00
For three Reviews,	8 00
For Blackwood and three Reviews,	12 00
For the four Reviews,	11 00
For Blackwood and the four Reviews,	14 00

* To avoid fractions, $5 may be remitted for Blackwood, of which we will forward that work for both years, post paid.

N. B. The price in Great Britain of the five Periodicals above-named is about $31 per annum.

As we shall never again be likely to offers such inducements as those here presented,

NOW IS THE TIME TO SUBSCRIBE!!

☞ Remittances must, in all cases, be made direct to the Publishers, for at these no commission can be allowed to Agents.

The Cheapest Family Paper in the World!

The latest reliable Fashion Plates, Dress Patterns, useful and ornamental Needle Work Diagrams, and Embroidery designs in every number.

The Best Writers, the Best Stories, and Most Engravings.

Specimen copies sent free of postage, on receipt of a stamp; but stamps will not be returned for subscriptions. Subscribers and agents must inclose the money—Cash; and write names, post offices, counties and States, plain and distinct.

☞ Canvassing agents (particularly females) wanted everywhere. Agents are allowed to retain 20 cents out of each 50 cent subscription they obtain, and some are now clearing as high as $25 a week profit for themselves. Postmasters and Teachers can act as agents on the same terms.

Persons receiving specimen copies of the Literary Gazette are requested to act as agents, or hand it to those who will, and they shall be sent a copy of the paper one year gratis, as compensation for their trouble. This is an easy way to pay for a year's subscription, and the effort will put money in the pockets of those who need it, and extend our circulation. Instead of earning 50 to 75 cents a day with her needle, or by teaching school, a smart woman can obtain from 10 to 20 subscriptions every fair day in the week, and clear for herself $2 to $4, while she would have made only 75 cents at her old occupation.

☞ All persons extending the circulation of the paper continually get a copy gratis.

Applicants for agencies are requested to send us the names and post-office address of all the leading people they know of, who would be likely to subscribe, and a specimen copy for inspection will be mailed to each of them free of postage. Agents find this plan very profitable to them, as they obtain subscriptions much easier.

Inclose an extra three or ten cent stamp when a written answer is wanted. Address

PIANOS, MELODEONS,

Alexandre Organs,

AND

MUSIC.

PRICES GREATLY REDUCED!

HORACE WATERS,

No. 333 Broadway, New York,

Agent for the sale of the best Boston and New York PIANOS AND MELODEONS.

THE LARGEST ASSORTMENT OF MUSIC in merchandise in the United States!—Pianos from five different manufacturers, of every variety of style: from those in plain rosewood cases, for $200, to those of the most elegant finish, for $1000. No house in the Union can come in competition for the number, variety and celebrity of its instruments, nor the extremely low prices at which they are sold.

Horace Waters' Modern Improved Pianos,

With or without iron frames, have, in their new SCALE AND IMPROVED ACTION, a power and compass of tone equalling the grand, with the beauty and durability of the square piano. The press and first music masters have justly pronounced them equal, if not superior, to any other make. They are guaranteed to stand the action of any climate.

HORACE WATERS' MELODEONS, (tuned the equal temperament) superior in each desirable quality. Can also furnish Prince's, Carhart's and Smith's Melodeons. Prices from $45 to $125; for two sets of reeds, $150; two banks of keys, $200; organ pedal bass melodeons, $250, $275 and $300—less a liberal discount.

ALEXANDRE ORGANS:

Five stops, in rosewood cases, $160; 8 stops, do. do., $180; 8 stops, with percussion, $225; 12 stops, do., do., $250; 12 stops do., size larger $300; 15 stops, do. do., $375. Each instrument warranted to give satisfaction or purchase money refunded.

SECOND HAND PIANOS

At great bargains always in store; prices from $30 to $140.

MUSIC.

One of the largest and best catalogues of Music now published. All the music and music books published in the United States for sale at this establishment. Martin's celebrated Guitars and all kinds of Musical Instruments and music merchandise at the lowest prices. Music sent, whenever ordered, post paid. Catalogues sent by mail. A liberal discount to dealers, teachers, seminaries and clergymen.

Testimonials of the Horace Waters Pianos and Melodeons.

The Piano came to hand, and in first rate order. It is a beautiful instrument.—LEE & WALKER, Philadelphia.

John Hewitt, of Carthage, New York, who has had one of the Horace Waters Pianos, writes as follows:—"A friend of mine wishes me to purchase a piano for her. She likes the one you sold me in December, 1858. My piano is becoming popular in this place, and I think I can introduce one or two more—they will be more popular than any other make."

We have two of Waters' Pianos in use in our seminary—one of which has been severely tested for three years—and we can test
