SATURDAY, APRIL 8, 1882.
WASHINGTON AS A STATE.
Committee's Report on Our Admission.

The following is the report of the House Committee on Territories, recommending the admission of this (Washington) Territory as a State in the Union. It was doubtless drawn up and written by Delegate Brents. It will be found to be a most complete and exhaustive exhibit of the wealth and resources of this Territory, and as such is well worth perusing and preserving for future reference:

Washington Territory was organized out of a portion of the Oregon Territory by act of Congress of March 2, 1853. It is bounded by British Columbia on the north, Idaho on the east, Oregon on the south, and the Pacific Ocean on the west.

It is about 340 miles east and west, and 200 north and south, is in form nearly a parallelogram, and contains 69,990 square miles area.

By the census of 1860 its population, inclusive of Idaho and a part of Montana, within its boundaries, was 11,132. By that of 1870, the population within its present limits was 23,195. By a local census taken in 1878 it was 57,784. By the national census of 1880 it was 75,116. Its vote in 1870 was 6,182; in 1872, 7,801; in 1874, 8,494; in 1876, 9,907; in 1878, 12,047, and in 1880, 15,923.

Its taxable property, by assessment of 1878, was $17,865,988.81; in 1879, $21,130,484.08; in 1880, $29,709,587, and in 1881, $23,786,415.

The report of the Territorial Auditor, made in 1881, it was shown to be entirely free of debt, with a surplus of $22,217.91 cash in the treasury, $23,700,587, and in 1881, $23,786,415.

The present rate of taxation is but 2 1/2 mills on the dollar.

The amount of its poll and road poll taxes for 1880 was $73,352.90, and for 1881, $108,971.25.

Its people are hardy, intelligent, moral, enterprising, economical, law-abiding, and in full sympathy with our system of government and its most advanced civilization.

Its climate is mild, equable, and remarkably healthful.

them with power to form a State Government and to admit them into the Union, that they may enjoy the rights and privileges pertaining to American freedom and citizenship. Is there any just reason why their appeal should be refused?

Their character, habits, and civil institutions are unexceptionable. Their material and moral condition is better than most of preceding Territorial communities emerging into Statehood. From the facts given, it is manifest that the population of the Territory has increased as rapidly as its resources in the same stage of development, and certainly at no less rate than between the census of 1870 and 1880, which was thirty per cent. At this rate, it now has 75,116 inhabitants, and before its State machinery can possibly be constructed and put in operation it will exceed the number constituting the basis of Congressional representation. Of the twenty-two new States which have entered the Union through the portal of Territorial probation, the population by the preceding and succeeding censuses, and rate of increase during that decade, were as follows:

State	Date of admission	Population at date of admission	Population at next census	Rate per cent increase
Vermont	1791	251,243	311,463	24
Connecticut	1788	237,948	296,988	25
Tennessee	1796	250,000	300,000	20
Ohio	1803	2,322,000	2,500,000	8
Indiana	1800	210,000	250,000	19
Alabama	1819	49,502	117,261	137
Mississippi	1821	192,000	250,000	30
Arkansas	1836	92,000	197,211	115
Florida	1845	54,317	97,415	79
Wisconsin	1836	125,000	225,000	80
California	1850	92,000	270,000	293
Oregon	1859	17,294	34,465	100
Kansas	1861	107,000	210,000	96
Nebraska	1867	28,241	127,200	350
Colorado	1876	59,100	110,000	85

Comparing the population of these States by the census previous to their admission with that of this Territory by the last national census, we find that the latter exceeded by only four persons—Vermont, Louisiana, California and Kansas. Most of them fall far below this Territory in this regard.

Looking to the wonderful growth of these new communities, their population at the date of their admission can only be estimated approximately. Evidently, however, no more than five at the utmost of those in the list equalled this Territory at the present time. These were Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and Colorado.

By the time its constitution can be made and its admission accomplished, its population will doubtless exceed that of every one of these new States when admitted, with but two exceptions, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The ordinance of 1787, for the government of the territory northwest of the river Ohio, contained six separate articles of compact between the original States and the people and States in said territory, which are contained in the ordinance for the subsequent subdivisions of such territory into "States," or what are now termed organized Territories; and it therein expressed a declared belief "whenever any of the said States have sixty thousand free inhabitants therein, such State shall be admitted by its delegates into the Congress of the United States, on an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever."

The act of Congress of August 14, 1812, establishing a government for the territory south of the Ohio River, declared that the inhabitants of said territory "shall enjoy all the privileges set forth in the ordinance of the late Congress for the government of the territory northwest of the Ohio." By common acceptance at the time, this was regarded as a solemn compact with such Territories as might be organized out of the same, a suitable dimension for a State, to wit, a population more than those into which the North western Territory was to be subdivided, that each should be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever.

When the bill for admission of Tennessee was under discussion in Congress, this construction and application were given to these clauses by the advocates and opponents of the measure, and, indeed, no one seemed to regard them in any other light.

The act of Congress of August 14, 1812, for the government of the Oregon Territory, employs language even more explicit than that of the act for the government of the territory south of the Ohio. It declared, "that the inhabitants of the said territory shall enjoy all the rights and privileges granted and secured to the people of the territory of the United States northwest of the river Ohio, by the articles of compact contained in the ordinance for the government of said territory on the 13th day of July, 1787."

The Oregon Territory has since been subdivided, as contemplated by these articles, into four organized Territories, and the size to be erected into such States as compose our American Union. Oregon, the largest of these, as soon as she was supposed to have, and before she actually had, the requisite "sixty thousand free inhabitants," was admitted on February 14, 1859. The friends of her admission, in the debate in this House, effectually established a compact with the Territory, that she should be admitted on an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever, and which was to "forever remain unalterable unless by common consent," should be just as available in behalf of one subdivision as another. The people of Washington Territory are guilty of no act or practice incompatible with our laws and institutions, and have in no way forfeited their claim to its benefits.

Dr. Lamson—A High-Toned Poisoner.
The Dr. Lamson referred to a few days ago in the London dispatches as having been respited for a week upon the intercession of the President of the United States, is an American by birth and descent. He was found guilty by an English court in-law, who had a life interest in a fortune which was to revert to Lamson's wife after the death of her brother. His sentence was death.

Dr. George H. Lamson is a native of New York and of a highly-connected family. He was a young man of great promise, and been intellectual ability. His father, the Rev. William Lamson, is still living, and is the assistant rector of the American Episcopal church at Florence, Italy. On his maternal side the original is a direct lineal descendant of the distinguished Revolutionary general, Philip Schuyler, whose wife was a Miss Van Rensselaer, and whose three sons-in-law were Alexander Hamilton, Patroon Van Rensselaer and Hon. Mr. Carter, a member of the English Parliament.

Rev. Mr. Lamson, who is a man of wealth, removed to Europe several years ago, and his son George was educated there. He studied medicine and located in England, where he practiced. He married a highly respectable young lady, Miss John. He had some wealth, and his wife was comparatively wealthy, but his style of life exhausted their resources. She had one brother, Percy Malcolm John, who had a life interest in a fortune, which at his death was to go to his sister. Lamson conceived the idea of obtaining the same—of course without any boniface on the part of his wife, a most estimable lady—and proceeded to remove the youthful brother-in-law gradually but firmly, and slowly poisoned him. He was arrested and tried for the crime, and, though ably defended, found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death in London a few weeks ago. He was overwhelmed by the verdict and the sentence, finding only sufficient strength to call out, "I protest my innocence before God!" and fainted.

SARGENT MASON'S CASE.—The Judge Advocate General has rendered an opinion that the court-martial of Sargent Mason, who attempted to shoot the assassin of Garfield, was illegal, and that he is unlawfully detained. Meanwhile the people have made up a handsome purse for his wife to provide for her during the imprisonment of her husband. Commenting on the treatment which Mason has received at the hands of the military authorities, the Washington Capital says: "While all acknowledge that Mason's act was grossly improper, it looks queer that he should have been so brutally treated previous to his trial, while the murderer of Garfield has lived much more elegantly, and at the Government's expense, and fared better than at any time in his life—much more sumptuously than at the 'high-toned hotels and boarding-houses' to which he referred so frequently during his trial. The soldier who, compelled by a natural impulse of passion and anger, fired upon the cowardly slayer of his President, was thrown into a filthy, rat-infested dungeon, starved, robbed of his wages and sentenced to eight years' imprisonment in the United States. The assassin Guitau has ever since the murder of President Garfield enjoyed the most perfect privileges, has even been permitted the use of an additional cell as a business office, where in he receives his visitors and sells his photographs and autographs to the large community of veal-minded visitors. We Americans are a queer people. At the bottom, however, we are all right, and though Mason may suffer, his wife and family will be cared for and protected by the American people."

A THEATRICAL company was performing Othello in the Connecticut provinces. Owing to the illness of the lady who played the role of Desdemona a local tragedienne was assigned to the company. When she saw the enraged and foaming Moor advancing to another her courage gave out, and, lastly crawling under the bed, she began to yell for the police. The civility of the pit was aroused. A sturdy young country man mounted the stage, and, grasping Othello, mopped him around vigorously, amid the applause of the boys. When he recovered his freedom and his breath he explained that he didn't mean to hurt the girl, and was only following the cue of Shakespeare. "All right," replied the rustic champion, "when you come around again fetch Shakespeare with you, and if he can lick me I'll treat."

A CANADIAN pew-holder was recently sued by the congregation because he habitually went to sleep during the services and snored. The object of the congregation was either to compel him to stay away from church, as his presence was a nuisance, or to keep awake during the sermon. The court decided in favor of the defendant, holding that as the pew was his own he had a right to remain awake or take a nap as he saw fit.

The steamship Tokio, which arrived at San Francisco last week with 1,056 Chinamen, brings the startling report that a vast army of Mongolians—400,000—are congregating at Hongkong for the purpose of coming to the Pacific Coast. It is further stated that in order to evade the Chinese bill, recently passed by Congress, these people will come as English citizens by naturalization. England had better not try or permit this outrage.

A SPECIAL dispatch from the Oregonian from Spokane Falls details an affair that occurred between E. H. Cook, of the Times, and the manager and cashier of the Spokane bank, A. M. Cannon and B. H. Bennett, who had called on the editor to get a retraction of certain charges made in his paper. They both received severe bruises and scalp wounds, inflicted with an iron "sidestick" while Cook was only slightly injured. Cannon and Bennett were armed with revolvers, which were probably intended only as a means of intimidation, as but one shot was fired (by Cannon), and that went through the stove-pipe and into the ceiling.

SENATOR PENDLETON has introduced an amendment to the constitution providing for the election of postmasters, United States Marshals and clerks by the people, instead of being appointed by the President.

In a San Francisco court a member of a secret society has been adjudged guilty of contempt for refusing to divulge lodge business, and sent to jail.

Mrs. SARAH E. HOWE, the Massachusetts "strong-minded," who started the swindling women's bank, has been sentenced to three years' imprisonment in the house of correction.

SUMMONS.
IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF WASHINGTON TERRITORY, HOLDING TERMS AT LA CONNER FOR THE COUNTY OF WHATCOM.
No. 207.
HENRY WAILE, Plaintiff,
vs.
FLORA A. WAILE, Defendant.
Action brought in the District Court of Washington Territory, holding terms at La Conner for the County of Whatcom and complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court in the said County of Whatcom.
To FLORA A. WAILE, Defendant: In the name of the United States of America, you are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the District Court of Washington Territory, holding terms at La Conner for the County of Whatcom and complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court, and to answer the complaint filed therein within sixty days after the first publication of this summons.
This action is brought for the purpose of procuring a decree of said Court dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between plaintiff and defendant, for the reason of willful abandonment of plaintiff by defendant for more than one year before the commencement of this action and also to obtain the custody and control of the two minor children, the issue of said marriage, to wit: Edith Vivian and William Wallace, and to answer the claim that defendant is not a proper person to have the care and control of them.
And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the plaintiff's complaint herein, judgment will be taken against you by default as confessed, and the prayer of the complaint granted.
Witness the Hon. R. S. GREENE, Judge of said District Court, and the seal of said Court, this 27th day of March, A. D. 1882.
JAMES A. GILLILAND, Clerk.

HOSTETTER'S
STOMACH BITTERS
For a quarter of a century or more Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been the reigning specific for indigestion, dyspepsia, fever and ague, a loss of physical stamina, liver complaint and other troubles, and has been most emphatically endorsed by medical men as a health and strength restorative. It cures a headache and a nervous headache, a cold, a cough and a sore throat, a weak and ailing stomach, a bilious and a constipated bowels, and a general debility of the system. It is sold by all druggists and is taken generally.

GENERAL.

A Methodist minister of Brooklyn has been a student for the loss of his son's services through loading in the sea.

A white Siberian squirrel was caught in Cheshire, Conn., recently, and the owners have refused a large sum for the rarity.

Passimiquidity (Mo.) Indians are shooting large numbers of ducks. They report they've plenty in the vicinity of parts of Eel River.

Susan Morse, of Marlborough, Mass., an elderly maiden lady, died from starvation, having refused to eat food for a number of weeks, her reason being that all food tasted like oil to her.

New York fashionables complain of the poor quality of wedding-cake. A wedding cake is only intended for romantic young ladies to dream upon, we should judge that the worse it is, the more the dreams it engenders.

The Austrian-born bill have this remarkable feature about them, that, in holding them up to the light, the vignettes of Emperor Francis Joseph, on the face and reverse of the bill, are so peculiarly blended in one as to produce the illusion of the German Emperor. This looked upon as a good augury by the German population of Austria, and the bills themselves are called "Alliance bills."

Eastern bank Presidents and Cashiers, it would seem, have but little to learn in the way of absorbing other folks' money. They never get a wrinkle or two from President Taylor, of Utah. When certain impracticable saints grew restive because several millions had been swallowed up in the building of a new temple, who yet made no perceptible progress, the financier set their doubts at rest by a stroke of genius. "Brethren," he remarked, "we don't know exactly how the temple fund stands. There is no need of keeping any account. There is the building going right up before your eyes, and you can all see for yourselves. We will now sing the 130th hymn."

At Calais, Vt., the other day, Ira Carr died of heart disease, from which he had been suffering for some time. The first morning after his death, a relative, who had attended more or less upon the deceased during his sickness, confessed to a son of the deceased that his father had died from two doses of strychnine which she had administered to him.

Keep Together. This article is intended for families and members of families, now happily joined together not only in the bonds of nature, but in the bonds of affection and affection.

Gov. Blackburn's Quilting Frolic. The quilting at the Executive Mansion yesterday was the most enjoyable event ever witnessed in Frankfort. At least a thousand people packed the eight royal Kentucky cheer and participated in the rejuvenating party and jig.

At Hatfield House, on Monday, William Dimmock, a laborer, was assisting in laying a telephone wire when he slipped from a wall, and falling took hold of a wire used in connection with the Brush lights which are in operation at Hatfield House. He was immediately killed by the electric current.

English vegetarians, now style themselves "vinitas." The word is derived from "ven"—a combination of the initials of vegetables, eggs and milk. Prof. Newman, who fathers the new appellation, says that the title "vegetarian" is misleading and inaccurate, and that some substitute was necessary.

Which side of the street do you live on, Mrs. Kippie? asked a counsel who was cross-examining a witness. "On either side, sir. If you go one way, it's on the right side; if you go the other way, it's on the left."

It is common enough for young people to grow up with quite exaggerated ideas of the means of the family. The delusion is a pleasing one. It is a pity, so the parents think, to disabuse them. It is no harm, they perhaps calculate, that society should share the impression of the young people. When the process had gone on for a certain time, the illusion has to be broken up. It would make trouble in various directions if Miss Aretina's young man learned that she would have little or nothing, and if the Tompkins's circle, where her brother's visits are encouraged, ascertained that the family was not nearly so well off as was supposed. But at length the disclosure must be made. A sense of wrong is in the breast of Miss Aretina, which her brother shares. "It was cruel to let us think," she says, "and it will be odd indeed if each is not tempted to get as much as possible out of the apparent wreck."

Young people should be early treated as reasonable beings by their parents. It is better to be frank with them; if there be advantages, let them be understood and rated at their true worth. A habit of mind is thus formed and fostered, as the effect of which the young people—unless otherwise corrected—will be apt to say, "I am a mother-trusted as always; let us trust one another and keep together."

When the United States acquired possession of Louisiana, and for many years thereafter, New Orleans was the most luxurious city on the new continent. During the first half of this century a style of living was kept up in Louisiana, which, in an attempt to picture it, becomes simply indescribable, and which if described would not be believed.

Our Grandmothers. Taught their daughters that "a stitch in time saves nine." A pill in time not only saves nine, but oftentimes an incalculable amount of suffering.

Kidney Diseases. Kidney diseases afflict the greater part of the human race, and they are constantly on the increase. The use of the Kidney-Wort has become known, they are held in check and speedily cured.

"I am the Last of Six." One rainy forenoon, something less than a year ago, my only children, a youth walked into the store of C. N. Crittendon, New York, and in weak, husky tones, interrupted frequently by sobs, he said to me that he wanted a couple of bottles of HALE'S HONEY OF HONORHOUND AND TAR.

Plantation Life in Louisiana Before the War.

In 1798, Jean Etienne Bore, with a gang of thirty negroes, raised a crop of cane, and on its manufacture into brown sugar, sold it for $12,000. This enterprise established the sugar industry firmly in Louisiana. The rich planters at once embarked in it, while the small planters of cotton and tobacco prospered with less competition. In five years from the time of its introduction, 5,000,000 pounds of sugar was the annual yield of the colony, which had now some fifty or sixty thousand inhabitants.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

Of all the compounds which the Chemist's art has given to the world, for hundreds of years, for the purpose of restoring the hair to its natural growth and color, not one has been so perfect. Many of the hair dyes of the day are excellent, but the great mass of the hair dyes for promoting the growth and color of the hair, are not so perfect.
