

PUGET SOUND MAIL.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1879.

A New Land Office Wanted.

We heartily second the proposition of the Seattle Intelligencer for a new Land Office at that city. Some eighteen months ago the Mail advocated the establishment of a new Land Office at La Conner for the lower counties of Puget Sound, and we are happy to state that the proposition was somewhat favorably received by Delegate Jacobs and Register Brown. But all things considered, we shall not at present insist upon the office at La Conner as against Seattle, as that city is perhaps the easiest of access by the regular routes of travel from Jefferson, Clallam and San Juan Counties. We do, however, earnestly desire a change or readjustment of the two Land Offices of Western Washington, and believe the following facts and suggestions of the Intelligencer are strictly to the point:

That Seattle should be the location of one of the United States Land Offices in Washington Territory is a fact patent to all. It is a more central point, as far as trade and travel are concerned, than any other, and it is quite as impossible to come to Puget Sound without stopping at Seattle as it is to go up or down the Columbian Willamette without stopping at Portland. Three-fourths of the lands taken in this district during the past five years have been situated in the vicinity of Seattle, or to the north of it, and in getting title to these lands sixteen out of twenty of their claimants visited our town. The trip to Olympia means three days more time and the expenditure of from ten to forty dollars more money than the trip to Seattle, and this money comes mighty hard from the poor settlers of our backwoods. Land Offices are not intended for the maintenance of particular towns, but for the benefit of pioneers, tillers of the soil, and the people generally. We don't want to deprive the Olympians or anybody else of anything, but if what we can do will secure us a Land Office of our own we are in to do it. We confess, however, that we should very much like our Land Office presided over by Messrs. Brown and Stuart, the present Register and Receiver of this district, for two more efficient officers and pleasant gentlemen do not exist. The Territory should be divided into a few large districts. If the latter cannot be obtained, Vancouver should be made a sacrifice to the good of the people at large. Pierce, King, Suohomish, Whatcom, Island, San Juan, Clallam, Jefferson and Kitsap counties should comprise a district having its office at Seattle; Mason, Thurston, Chhalis, Lewis, Cowlitz, Pacific, Wahkiakum and Clarke a second district having its office at Olympia, while Eastern Washington could remain as it is, with offices at Colfax and Walla Walla, or in any other way most satisfactory to the people thereof. This district would then include one-third the population, one-third the wealth of the whole Territory; the other three districts including the remaining two-thirds among them. As now the Puget Sound District takes in one-half, and the other three divide the remainder. The division is not one of equality. The scores and hundreds of down Sounders who have gone to Olympia lately on land business are growing a good deal at the expense of time and money to which they have been put. Let them keep it up, call in the assistance of their neighbors, and appeal in the right manner to the Government at Washington. In time they will be heard, and, if justice is done them, the Land Office sought will be established in our midst."

The number of post offices in this country is getting to be so large that it is difficult to know what to do with them all. There are twice as many offices as there were in 1852, now numbering forty-one thousand, and the department finds trouble to communicate changes and other essential information to the great army of postmasters. The Postal Guide, established some years ago, was intended to facilitate such communication, but it was not printed often enough to keep up with events, and will hereafter be issued monthly instead of quarterly. It will specify all changes and will also contain the decisions of the department upon general subjects and all rulings upon special cases which can be of any interest for postmasters to know. Another new feature of this publication will be a list of the hamlets and settlements where there are no post offices and the names of the offices at which mail for them is delivered.

IGNORANCE of the whole truth is the source whence proceed the greatest errors.

In answer to the frequent inquiries received from parties in the East having designs on this Territory, our observations lead us to remark that the ranks of the learned professions and that of the unskilled laborer are already fully recruited. There are many thousands of acres of public land awaiting settlement, but it requires health and strength and at least a few hundred dollars to put a claim in a condition to sustain a family. Practical farmers, bona-fide laborers, and skilled mechanics, with or without means, can find employment at remunerative wages, or can make a living until they are able to set up business for themselves, providing they are willing to work at something until they strike a desirable opening. If you cannot do one thing, do another, and whatsoever you do, do your best; patient, faithful labor is sure of its reward in the end. Or if you can actually find nothing to do, set yourself earnestly to acquire some art or profession which may yield you a living. The stories of the beginnings of men of whom the world has heard are many of them records of perseverance in the face of difficulties. Franklin's penny roll, Abraham Lincoln's rail-splitting, Andy Johnson's tailoring—all these are historic. Stonewall Jackson walked over mountain and through forest to Washington to ask his enlistment, and to West Point when he got it, because he had no money to pay his fare. Any employment, however, distasteful or humble, is better than nothing for the man who has his way to make in the world.

MODEL JOURNALISM.—Moralizing on the Chronicle embroglio, the Sacramento Record-Union gives utterance to the following beautiful sentiments: "In these days of universal newspaper reading it is scarcely possible to exaggerate the importance of the effects which journalism may produce upon the morals, manners and general civilization of the community. The character of the leading journals will always be reflected more or less in the prevailing tendencies of popular thought, and the spirit which inspires the press, whether it be good or evil, cannot but retract upon the people who draw their ideas on current topics from it. The benefits which a healthy tempered journal may bring to its readers are very great, and the most important of them are those which are least recognized. Such a journal invariably pitches the life-key of thousands every day on a buoyant and pleasant note. Its utterances, its suggestions, its criticisms, are frank and manly, but at the same time they are in harmony with a generous, high and wholesome view of things. When wrong has to be pointed out, the work is done with all needful plainness and force, but there is no laborious searching out of the bad and evil side of every subject. The good journal is the outputting of sane and sound minds, working through healthy bodies. Its utterances are always to harmonize with its surroundings, to emphasize the good rather than the bad in life, to lift up the community rather than pull it down, to encourage it to better things by showing what is possible, rather than to discourage it by painting everything in the darkest colors. Such a journal makes all who read it somewhat the better for the perusal. Its suggestions are clean and sweet and pleasant. It recognizes and reflects the sunshine in the world, it prefers to dwell upon the magnanimous qualities of human nature, it gives the benefit of the doubt to the accused in all undecided cases, it always rather helps a man than hurts him. A community that is fortunate in its newspapers can always be distinguished from one that is unfortunate. It learns to look at the bright side of things. It learns to weigh all important questions dispassionately. It is not accessible to blind prejudice. It makes allowances for human foibles. It does not believe that the race is half saint and half devil, and that the latter category includes all who disagree with ourselves. It regards events with a genial and humane philosophy, in fact, and it is usually a very pleasant community to live in."

PREVIOUS to the California election an agreement was entered into by two Potaluma men named Tom McGuire, a red hot Republican, and Dr. J. P. Christie, a strong Democrat, in which, if Glenn was elected, McGuire was to ignite the contents of a barrel of tar while Christie cheered for the success of his candidate, and vice versa if Perkins was elected. Accordingly, the night after election, on the principal street, the agreement was carried out in the presence of a large crowd. In addition to the regular programme, fireworks were set off and bombs exploded, and a general good time indulged in.

A TRAMP dropped in and meekly inquired the way to the town of Thunder. He said that whenever he asked for work he was told to "go to Thunder," and he supposed they wanted hands there.

There is a very bad state of affairs in Georgia, which seems to the distant observer, if correctly reported, to be mainly the result of one-sided policies. The Democrats, having everything their own way, don't appear to have been as careful as they should have been in the administration of the State Government, and an exciting quarrel is in progress between Democrats on one side and Democrats on the other. The intimation is that the whole State administration will be shown inefficient and corrupt, and that all the State officers, with two exceptions, will be impeached. The Republicans are watching the situation with unbounded satisfaction and taking no part in the disturbance.

A neat compliment paid to General Grant during his stay in China, as well as a pleasing evidence of the friendly feeling entertained on the part of the Chinese Government for the United States, was the request preferred by Prince Kung that the distinguished American would endeavor to bring about a settlement of difficulties existing between the Chinese and Japanese Governments in regard to the ownership of the Loo Choo Islands. This is an old trouble, and one that has defied a great many attempts to set it at rest. Could General Grant succeed in the role of arbiter and unofficial envoy, he would confer a real benefit upon both claimants, as well as the country in dispute, and so would strengthen our foreign relations in the East.

No less than $5,000,000 in gold has left Great Britain for the United States within the past few weeks—$3,500,000 of which has arrived, and the balance is en route on the Atlantic Ocean. Will the fat money lunatics please take notice that our currency is expanded to the extent of this importation? This gold is money—not merchandise.

TOWN, COUNTY, & SOUND.

ITEMS of public interest from all points in Whatcom, Snohomish, Island and San Juan Counties are earnestly solicited.

The weather continues delightful for the farmers, thanks to Divine Providence.

GRAIN SHIPMENTS.—The farmers of La Conner have this week shipped about 6,000 sacks of grain to San Francisco by the steamer Alaska.

People are now turning attention to the purchase of timber land. The first notices of intention to do so in Whatcom County appear in the MAIL of this week.

Parties accustomed to indulging in abusive and indecent language in the public streets are cautioned to give La Conner a wide berth.

We hear of occasional "strikes" among the harvest hands in this locality, they demanding an increase of wages from $1.50 to $2.00 a day.

The steamer Josephine, on her last trip up the Skagit River, took on board fifty head of cattle for Mr. J. S. Stewart at his ranch near Bull's Camp.

Rev. E. O. Tade's missionary boat, the "P. P. Bliss," was stolen a few nights ago and scuttled or sunk on Guemes Island to evade detection.

The following is a list of letters unopened for at the La Conner post-office: Chas. T. Ames, Geo. W. Bohanna, Thos. J. Clark, Lamar Cheadle, Elias Carrier, H. S. Clark, Edmund Edressen, James W. Frazer, John Henstachel, David Glenn, H. T. Gill, D. W. Selve, Mrs. J. W. Thorp.

The following somnambulist incident did not occur on the Swinomish flats but East of the Mountains: One of the feeders of a threshing machine, while laboring under the effects of a night-mare, imagined that he was feeding the threshor and commenced to make a noise with his mouth similar to the hum of a cylinder when in motion, and vigorously went to shoving the hay out of the barn door.

HEARD FROM.—Capt. Smith, who a few weeks ago vanished from the admiring gaze of the people of La Conner and the Sound generally like a beautiful dream, has evidently abandoned the "Kentucky Colony" business for the millions that is in the "Gulf of California S. S. Co."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Capt. B. Smith, of the Gulf of California S. S. Co., and others have organized a company with a cash capital of $100,000 to open coal and iron mines in King and Jefferson counties, W. T., also to establish a steam-tug line on the Sound and for between Snohomish City and Snoqualmie Falls.

A Mr. Merritt, of Albany, Oregon, arrived here last Monday evening to see about making arrangements to diko the so-called Olympia marsh with his patent steam-diker.

THE Puget Sound District Court adjourned last Wednesday. Mary Phillips, an Indian woman charged with the murder of George Ehillips at Orcas Island, was found guilty of manslaughter, but recommended to the mercy of the Court.

THE Walla Walla Union computes the cost of transporting wheat from there to Portland at 34 cents per bushel. The Puget Sound farmer saves this amount by being nearer the markets of the world.

A BRASS BAND has been organized at Anacortes, this county, under the leadership of Mr. Graham. Hurrall for the brass band.

COL. G. O. HALLER has assumed command of the military station at Fort Townsend.

Mr. H. Brewster, of this place, who has been absent for several months past over in the Yakima region, returned here last week.

A SILVER MINE is being developed near Burrows' Bay, Fidalgo Island, by Schultz & Co., which promises to yield handsomely.

DISLOCATION.—A little child belonging to Mr. McKeen, of this place, and aged about ten months, had his shoulder dislocated one day this week by his brother carelessly lifting him from the floor.

The following is a list of letters unopened for at the La Conner post-office: Chas. T. Ames, Geo. W. Bohanna, Thos. J. Clark, Lamar Cheadle, Elias Carrier, H. S. Clark, Edmund Edressen, James W. Frazer, John Henstachel, David Glenn, H. T. Gill, D. W. Selve, Mrs. J. W. Thorp.

COL. G. O. HALLER has assumed command of the military station at Fort Townsend.

THE Dayton News is told that near where the Tukannon River empties into the Snake, a quarter of an acre of ground is covered with grain sacks, piled five high, awaiting shipment.

Up the Sound.

H. G. STANLEY has purchased the Jesse George property in Seattle with the view of residing at that city for the practice of law.

TINNERS COUNTY exported over 60,000 pounds of wool during the season.

It is estimated that there are 14,000 sheep in San Juan County, and 600 tons of wheat.

A man separated himself from about $600 of hard earned money, a few nights ago in Seattle. Cause, whisky.

The mail steamer Dispatch, plying between Port Townsend and Whatcom, has received extensive repairs which make her look like a new boat.

The University at Seattle opened its fall term with ninety students, which fact is a hopeful indication of what its future career is to be.

FRED SEARLING, of Seattle, has been nominated by Delegate Brents to the naval cadetship at Annapolis, and is now on his way thither.

The fog whistle at Point Wilson is ready to give hesitating ships the long drawn note of alarm.

The Intelligence makes the following summary of the King County finances: According to Auditor Booth's annual report, 799 warrants were drawn on the county treasury during the year ending June 30th last, the aggregate being $22,195.29, which, added to $19,698.96 outstanding at the beginning of the year, made a total of liabilities amounting to $41,295.80.

General News in Brief.

KNO & CO's salmon curing establishment of New Westminster, B. C., was burned down on last Thursday; loss, some $90,000.

GENERAL GRANT will arrive in San Francisco early next week, and will receive a grand ovation both in the harbor and in the city.

FULLY 1,000 silk operatives have arrived at Patterson, N. J., this year, from foreign lands.

There are 900 tons of standard silver dollars stored in the Treasury at Washington.

It is estimated that this year fully 80,000 tons of wheat will be shipped from Walla Walla valley alone.

It is charged that ministers have fled from Memphis, leaving their flocks to the ravages of the fever.

JAY GOULD tells the Howard Association of Memphis to keep at his noble work and he will foot the bills.

One steamer brought to New York from England the other day $300,000 in silver, and another $1,012,475 in gold.

Col. C. W. MOULTON, brother-in-law of Secretary Sherman, has sued the Cincinnati Enquirer for $50,000 for libel.

The steamship State of California made the passage from San Francisco to Portland last week in 49 hours and 20 minutes, the best time that has ever been made by any vessel.

CAPTAIN GOLDSMITH and wife, who attempted to cross the Atlantic in the skiff Uncle Sam, were compelled to abandon their effort in mid ocean, after terrible hardships.

According to the new census of Texas, posting a man as a coward in a newspaper or otherwise, because he refuses to fight a duel, subjects the poster to a fine of $500 to $1,000.

It is estimated that over 2,500,000 people have taken up homes in the West and South in the past five years. Of this number, not over 600,000 can possibly have been supplied by foreign emigration, the rest of the total of 1,920,000 emigrants being from the Eastern States.

ENGLISH financial writers say that the recent withdrawal of gold from England for the United States is probably the precursor of large shipment for American produce arriving in England and in France.

A Baby's Wall.

I am a little baby, one year old today. But, although only a year old, I have had enough of life already. I am sick at heart. I am disgusted with this cold, unfeeling world, and I am going to get out of it at the first opportunity.

Oh! if one year ago I could but have been allowed to gaze into futurity, and behold the miseries, tortures and discomforts that would continually attend me, I should certainly have shrunk from the risky step, and postponed my advent indefinitely. But no, this was not allowed me. I made the venture, and my little life has been beset with dangers and annoyances almost incalculable. Those who should have been my natural protectors, loving and tenderly guarding me, have been my most remorseless enemies. They have taken advantage of my weakness to abuse, torment and worry me in an outrageous manner, and I'll submit to it no longer.

When I am tired and sleepy I am instructed in the art of walking. When a pin has penetrated my cuticle I am forced to swallow a bottle of castor oil. When I am suffering for a supply of the lactal I am spanked. I am awakened in the middle of the night, taken down into the parlor, and kissed and hugged and smothered to death by a lot of women. They pull my ears, pinch my legs until they are black and blue, turn me upside down, roll me on the floor, bite pieces out of my cheek, stand me on my head, stretch my legs and arms, slobber all over my mouth, and count my ribs with their long, bony fingers. Do they think I've got no feelings? Do they imagine I'm an India rubber baby? And, then, if I exhibit anything but delight and enjoyment, and give vent to a feeble wail of remonstrance, I receive a clip alongside of the ear, and I'm sent off to bed. Oh, you remorseless fiends! If I had the physical ability, one of these days when you have cornered me, and are mercilessly inflicting upon me all the tortures of the Inquisition, I would strike out from the shoulder, and I'll bet $4 there would be lively work for the undertakers among you women. Why can't you let me alone! I know just exactly what is the matter with you. You don't hug and kiss me in this extravagant manner because of any love you bear me—not a bit of it—but you are a lot of sour, disappointed old maids, who never had an offer of marriage in your lives. You have never been kissed by the opposite sex, but the desire is so strong within you that you fall upon me like an avalanche, and I am smothered beneath your kisses and caresses.

And dad is just as bad as the women. He pitches me up into the air and cracks my cranium against the ceiling. The plastering falls, and I make more astronomical observations in a minute than a scientist makes in a lifetime. And then when I descend my paternal relation checks me under the chin, and asks me how I like balloon ascensions. He stands me on my head, and I suppose one of these days he will play football with me, and then I suppose that I will get the stuffing kicked out of me.

I've made up my mind to rebel. I won't suffer these indignities any longer. I'll get even with all you folks. You just wait until the first nice case of whooping cough or measles comes along. I'll catch it. See if I don't. And then I'll give you all the cold, dead shake. I'll go to a place where I can sleep all day, where I won't have to learn to walk, and also where there are no acrobatic fathers, no pugilistic brothers and no kissing females, and I'll never, never come back.

American Snobism.

In the Book of Snobs we read: "First the world was made; then, as a matter of course, snobs; they existed for years and years, were no more known than America." Can it be that now, in the fullness of time, they are known in America? Yet for whom else can the daily information from the Summer resorts be intended? We read in reports from those delightful retreats that Mr. and Mrs. A. yesterday entertained Mr. and Mrs. B. at dinner, and that Mr. and Mrs. C., Mr. and Mrs. D., Mr. and Mrs. E., Mr. and Mrs. F., Mrs. G., Mr. H., and Mrs. L., Mr. J., and Mr. and Mrs. K. were invited to meet them. We are informed, also, that Mrs. X. has issued cards for a garden party on Thursday next, and that Mr. and Mrs. Y. have invitations out for a ball on the 22d inst. We read further that yesterday Mrs. and Miss Z. gave a charming the dance, and among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. M., Mrs. and the Misses N., Mr. O., Mrs. P., Miss Q., the Messrs. R., Mr. S., Mr. and Mrs. T., Mrs. U., Mr. and Mrs. V., Mr. and Miss W., and many others. Also, that last evening Mrs. L. entertained at dinner Mr. and Mrs. M., Mr. and Mrs. the Misses N., Mr. O., Mrs. P., Miss Q., the Messrs. R. and Miss W. It is further announced that Lord Thomas Noddy and his governess have taken rooms at the Behemoth, that Mr. and Mrs. G. have arrived at their villa on Pacific avenue, and that it is understood that Mrs. J. will soon issue invitations for a lawn and yacht party, which is confidently expected will be one of the most recherche affairs of this brilliant season.

Before marriage a man is generally greeted by his sweetheart with, "My darling, is it you?" But after marriage she generally rushes to the door and shouts, "Hugh Henry, wipe your boots."

Washing the Hair.

Those who wash the rest of their body often neglect the head; the practice of smearing it with oil almost universally prevails. The Easterns do the reverse—they shave it. A greater comfort there cannot be than a bald pate. Washing the head is in no way prejudicial. Unless you wash the head, the washing of the body is neither complete nor satisfactory. The refreshment of washing the head may often be procured when it is impossible to wash the body. Soap and water are injurious, not to the hair, but to the hairdressers. The men of the East have no hair to show; but if soap and water injure the hair, whence comes the luxuriant abundance of that of the women? The hair of the head, like the fur of animals, is made to bear rain and wind, and to be a protection against them. You cover it up. The fur of animals thickens and straightens when exposed to air and wet. Your hair falls off, and you oil it. If it grows weak, change its habits. If it is not washed, and if it is oiled, begin to wash it, and leave off oiling it. Every week an Eastern lady has her hair thoroughly washed at the bath. It is first well soaped and rubbed. They are very particular about soap, and use none but that made of olive oil. The castle soap, which in this country is sold at the apothecary's, is the soap the least injurious to the skin. This is twice repeated. After the soap, they apply a paste of American bale and rose leaves. This is rubbed into the roots of the hair, and left to imbibe all the grease of the head; it is then, like the scalp, washed off with bowls of hot water, and leaves the locks perfectly clean and silken. From time to time they dye it. On these occasions an attendant mixes up a handful of henna dust in hot water, and thoroughly smears with it the hair, which is then turned up into a ball, and bound tightly with a napkin. In this state they go through the bath. When the napkin is removed, and the henna paste washed out, the hair, if before black, will have become of a bronze auburn, and if gray, red. The bath occupies from three to four hours, with the smoking, chatting music and dancing which accompany it, in an atmosphere which excludes every unpleasant sensation.

Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The poet, who of all that ever lived, knew best the desires of humanity has told us that among the things in which old age delights is troops of friends. We venture to say that since the world began there have not been many who have had more reason to be content in this respect than Dr. Holmes, who reaches today the threshold of old age. Among those who know him personally we do not believe there is one who is not his well-wisher, and tens of thousands who never saw him, all over this broad continent, in the land which has given to our language and in its world-encircling colonies regard him with affection. And well they may. For his sunny humor has cheered them in moments of depression and anxiety, his rare common sense has guided them amid the perplexities of life, and his cheerful optimism has made them think better of their fellow-men. During the larger part of his three-score years and ten his pen has been as busy as though his sole occupation was to write. Yet it has been only in the intervals of professional work that he has used it. The skilled and indefatigable physician, whose presence has brought comfort to so many sick chambers, has found time to write poems that the world will not willingly let die, has charmed us with his graceful prose and bestowed his wit and apt speech on every social gathering that Boston has seen for two score years. He is not of the kind that rusts out, and we are sure that every one of our readers will echo our wish that he may live in health and happiness for a score of years to come.

German Women as Laborers.

In Germany and Austria women seem to do the most of the farm work, and often the heaviest part of it. They pitch the hay upon the wagon, while the man—if there be one of the party—receives and stores it. I have seen many of them plowing, and others with scythe or sickle, holding their line with men. To sweep the streets of great cities, to trundle overburdened wheelbarrows or handcarts through streets crowded with swift-going droschkihs, to split, saw or pile firewood, to serve as unskilled laborers in glass and iron works, foundries and machine shops, to carry stone, bricks, sand and mortar to masons and bricklayers working on the upper stories of the highest buildings, will not seem to the average American woman strictly feminine occupations, yet so long as the flower of masculine youth and the vigor of European manhood are to be dedicated, as they now are, to barracks and camps, and must continue to be the occupations of the mothers of many future American citizens. In Germany the plow has generally supplemented the spade and the scythe the sickle, but not until I reached Central Austria, did I see a cradle; and even there its use appeared exceptional. —Letter of W. D. Kelly to Philadelphia Times.

The Youkers Gazette says: A great sorrow cannot be thrown from the heart as a fragment of rock is discharged from a blast. Therefore, when you meet a friend burdened with affliction tell him not coldly that he "must cast it off," but lend him the lever of sympathy to help lift and gradually remove it.

Blushing and Turning Pale.

Blushing is occasioned by sudden dilatation of the small blood-vessels, which form a fine network beneath the skin, and when they admit an increased volume of red blood cause the surface to appear suffused with color. Blanching is the opposite state, in which the vessels contract and squeeze out their blood, so that the skin is seen of its bloodless hue. The change effected in the size of the vessels is brought about an instantaneous action of the nervous system. This action may be induced by a thought, or unconsciously, by the operation of impressions producing the phenomenon habitually. In a word, blushing may become a habit, and is then beyond the control of the will, except in so far as the will can generally, if not always, conquer any habit. It is almost always useless, and certainly seldom worth while, to strive to cure a habit of this class directly. The most promising course is to try to establish a new habit which shall destroy the one it has desired to remedy. For example, if blushing is, as generally happens, associated with self-consciousness, we must establish the will of the will over that part of the nervous system which controls the size of the vessels by calling up a feeling opposed to self-consciousness. It is through the mind these nerves are influenced. Then influence them in a contrary direction by antagonizing the emotion associated with blushing. Thus, if the feeling which causes the blushing be expressible by the thought, "Here am I in a false and humiliating position," oppose, or still better, anticipate and prevent that thought by thinking, "There are you daring to pity or feel contempt for another." Avoid going on to think what "other" is, because the aim must be to eliminate self. Constitute yourself the champion of some one, any one, and everybody who may be pitied, and the everzealous and indignant foe of those who presume to pity. Most persons who blush with self-consciousness blanch with anger, and this artificial state of mock anger will soon blanch the face enough to prevent the blush. It only requires practice in the control of the emotions and the production of peculiar states at will—the sort of expertness required by actors and actresses—to secure control of these surface phenomena. Blushing and blanching are antagonistic states, and may be employed to counteract each other, control of the physical state of the blood-vessels being obtained through the emotions with which they are associated.—London Lancet.

Locomotives' Speed.

"How fast do you think we are traveling?" Charley Fraser, one of the oldest engineers of the New York, Lake Erie and Western railway, asked a Sun reporter, as they were standing together on the foot-board of locomotive 309, rushing over the meadows toward Rutherford Park.

"I should think we were going nearly a mile a minute,"

"A mile a minute!" said Fraser. "I doubt if you ever rode a mile a minute. Few locomotives have driving wheels over five feet, and I have my doubts if a five-foot wheel can be pushed a mile a minute. People have a very erroneous idea of the speed of railroad trains. We are not going now more than thirty-five miles an hour and this is very fast. Few trains make this speed. The passengers in the cars would think we were going a mile a minute sure if I was to pull out the throttle so as to send her forty miles an hour. The express trains make no such time as the local trains. Where we lose is with so many stops. No man could stand on a platform or face the wind going a mile a minute and live. The breath would actually be blown out of his body. You couldn't count the telegraph poles going a mile a minute. Talk to an old engineer of a passenger train going at that rate and he would laugh. I made a mile in a minute once, however. It was when I was but 18 years of age. I was an engineer then in charge of a fine six-foot wheel locomotive. There were a lot of railroad moguls on board, and the object was to make the best time we could. They were to ring the gong when we were going a mile a minute. I thought we were making it some time before the gong rung. At length, on a down grade, with a full head of steam, when we were spinning along as if we were all going to destruction, and the motion of the piston going over the center could no longer be distinguished, the bell rang. We had reached the rate of a mile a minute. It was the fastest I ever rode, before or since. I tried hard to make a mile a minute on subsequent trips, but lacked it three or four seconds every time. I couldn't squeeze another mile inside the sixty seconds. When you hear a man telling about riding in a passenger train that ran a mile a minute, don't say anything, but mentally scratch off a good allowance." N. Y. Sun.

It is a noticeable fact that every man who has seen the sea serpent states that its head is the size of a beer-cask.

Suffered Twenty Years.

"I have suffered for twenty years with itching and ulcerated piles, having used every remedy that came to my notice without benefit, until I used Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment and received immediate relief."

JAMES CARROLL,
(An old miner) Teocoma, Nevada.

If you are going to paint your house, barn, wagon or machinery, the wonderful Imperishable Mixed Paint is surely the best, for it is warranted by their agents in your own town not to crack, peel or blister; to cover better and work easier than any other paint. The Imperishable Paint was awarded the first premium over all other paints, at the California State Fair, 1878, and the Gold Medal at the Oregon State Fair, 1878. Get a circular from their Agent, which explains this wonderful discovery. Ask for the paint and you certainly would have no other.

HAVE YOU THE PILES?

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No one Need Suffer.

A sure cure for the blind, itching, itching and swollen piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst old chronic cases twenty-five and thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electrocures do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for Piles itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Thousands of cured patients attest its virtues, and physicians of all schools pronounce it the greatest contribution to medicine of the age. It matters not how long or severely you have been suffering, you can be cured. "22" Knife, knife, sold, medicine, medicine; knife again, and so on for a whole year; and yet the fungus growth which soon got so much upon me, and my misery increased until I despaired of life. For six months I was in the Cleveland City Hospital, from the effects of which I never expected to recover. After lying upon my back in bed, I was still in better condition, for in less than two weeks after leaving the hospital the whole trouble grew as fast and as great as ever. But, thank God, some one recommended Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment, which I tried, and today the growth has disappeared, the sore and itching is gone, I am happy and hopeful, and life has new charms for me. It is all due to this wonderful Ointment, which I will never fail to recommend so long as I live. No one else, it seems to me, could have saved the growth my terrible misery." Cleveland, Ohio.

"John Morgan is my brother and I can fully bear out his recommendation of Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. My brother would not doubt have had his grave long ago but for this Ointment. He has been a member of the Cleveland Photographic Society, and a member of the Cleveland College of Photography, Spencian Business College, Cleveland, Ohio." Cleveland, Ohio.

"We could if necessary print pages of letters of druggists and persons cured, praising this wonderful healing ointment. It has a larger sale and takes the lead of any other Pile remedy in the world." Sold by Druggists everywhere. Send addresses to Reddington & Son, San Francisco, Cal. apr 26-w314
