MEDICAL.
U. S. Marine Hospital.
PORT TOWNSEND, W. T.
ANY SICK SAILOR WHO HAS PAID Hospital dues for two months preceding his application for admission, is entitled to Hospital relief.
Port Townsend Hospital.
The above institution having been placed on a permanent footing, as the United States Hospital for Marine Patients on Puget Sound, the proprietor takes pleasure in announcing that no pains or expense will be spared in ministering to the comfort and convenience of patients.
This is the largest General Hospital north of San Francisco, and by far the most complete in equipment. It has been thoroughly refitted and refurnished. Its general wards have accommodations for about one hundred patients and are peculiarly adapted for cases requiring the most careful treatment and constant supervision at limited expense. Those who desire them will be furnished with private rooms, entirely separate and distinct, at a slight additional cost.
The attention of Mill owners, and those interested in shipping, is called to the fact that seamen suffering from contagious diseases will be treated outside the Hospital without expense to the vessel.

What they do at Church.
It was after the evening service. Mrs. Coonton and the three Misses Coonton had arrived home. They sat listlessly around the room with their things on. Mr. Coonton was lying on the lounge asleep.
Emmeline, said Mrs. Coonton, suddenly addressing her eldest, did you see Mrs. Parker when she came in?
Yes, ma, replied Emmeline.
She didn't have that hat on last Sunday, did she?
No, said Emmeline. It is her new hat. I noticed it the moment she went down the aisle, and says to Sarah—
What on earth possesses Mrs. Parker to wear such a hat as that? says I.
Such a great prancing feather on such a little hat looked awful ridiculous. I thought I should laugh right out when I saw it, observed Sarah.
I don't think it looked any worse than Mary Schuyler's, with a flaming red bow on the back, said Amelia.
I don't see what Mrs. Schuyler can be thinking of to dress Mary out like that, said Mrs. Coonton with a sigh. Mary must be older than Sarah, and yet she dresses as if she was a mere child.
Did you see how the widow Marshall was tucked out? interrupted Emmeline. She was as gay as a peacock. Mercy, what airs that woman puts on! I would like to have asked her when she's going to bring back that pan of flour, and Emmeline tittered maliciously.
She's shining round old McMasters, they say, mentioned Amelia.
Old McMasters! ejaculated Mrs. Coonton, why he is old enough to be her father!
What difference do you suppose that makes to her? suggested Emmeline. But I pity him if he gets her. She's a perfect wildcat.
Svy Em, who was that gentleman with Ellen Byxby? inquired Amelia.
That's so, chimed in Sarah, with spirit; who was he?
What gentleman? asked Mrs. Coonton.
Why, I don't know who it was, explained Emmeline.
They came in during prayer. He was a tall fellow with light hair and chin whiskers.
It couldn't have been her cousin John from Brooklyn, suggested Mrs. Coonton.
Bother, no, said Sarah, pettishly. He is short and has brown hair. This gentleman is a stranger. I wonder where she picked him up.
She seemed to keep mighty close to him, said Amelia; but she needn't be scared. He looks as soft as a squash. Did you see him tumbling up his hair with his fingers? I wonder what the big ring cost—two cents? and Amelia tittered.
She's got one of them Victoria hats, I see, said Emmeline. If I had a drunken father I'd keep in doors I think, and not be parading myself in public.
Just then there was a motion on the lounge, and the ladies began to take off their things.
Hello, folks, said Mr. Coonton, rising up and rubbing his eyes; is church out?
Yes, said Mrs. Coonton, with a yawn which communicated itself to her daughters.
Did you hear a good sermon?
Pretty good, accompanied by another yawn all around.
See many good clothes? was the next question.
I suppose you think, Mr. Coonton, that is all your wife and children go to church for, to look at other people's clothes, said Mrs. Coonton, tartly.
That's just like pa, said Emmeline, with a toss of the head. He is always slurring church people. Pa sloped to bed.
A Clear Explanation.
THEY were husband and wife, and as they stood before the soldiers' monument, she asked:
What's that figure on top?
That's a goddess, he answered. And what's a goddess?
A woman who holds her tongue, he replied.
She looked sideways at him and began planning to make a peach pie with the pits in it for the benefit of his sore teeth.

Life of Nature.
For the WEEKLY ARGUS.]
Eternal heat, thou master hand,
Thy power encircles the heavens,
Worlds, multitudes of worlds,
Are begotten at thy command;
Thou bindest together these orbs of fire,
The air, the earth, the waters,
Suns, stars and planets—
All elements recognize thee their sire.
Thy power unmeasured on every hand,
Thy handy work in every fiber—
Boundless thou art on every side,
Unmeasurable by human hand;
Thy mind is loftier than all pride,
Than all the minds of human man,
Thy mercies are on every side,
Thy gardens floating the air,
The earth is one of nature's brides,
All life thereon receives her care.
Thy power is concentrated in them all,
To each an endless track assigns;
Thy power is such they cannot fall—
Harmonious progress blended with eternal time.

A New England Church in Olden Time
If we were to approach a New England village in those olden days, about nine o'clock Sunday morning, we should hear some one beating a drum or sounding a horn, or blowing a conch shell, or possibly ringing a bell, to call people to worship. As we came nearer still, we should see a flag waving from a log-built church or meeting-house. Entering the village, we should see a strong fence of stakes around this meeting-house, and a sentinel in armor near it; and we should see some of the men as they went in, leaving their muskets in his care. We should, perhaps, see a cannon or two planted near the meeting-house; and we should also see some strange wooden frames not far off, these being the stocks and pillory, put there to punish offenders. Looking at this church, we should see that it had very few glass windows, and that these had very thick and small panes, diamond shaped, and set in leaden frames. We should observe that the other windows had oiled paper instead of glass; and we see between the windows the heads of wolves that had been killed and displayed there during the year. If we were to look inside the little church we should not see families sitting together, as now, but they would be distributed according to age, sex or rank. In those days the old men sat together in one place in the church, the young men in another. The boys all sat on the pulpit stairs and gallery, with constables to guard them. Each of these constables had a wand, with a hare's foot on one end and a hare's tail on the other. These were to keep the people awake. If any woman went to sleep, the constable touched her on the forehead with the hare's tail; but if a small boy nodded, he was rapped with the other end, not quite so gently. No doubt the wand was often used for the services were sometimes three or four hours long, the sexton turning the hour-glass before the minister at the end of every hour. The only music consisted of singing by the congregation, from a metrical version of the Psalms, called The Bay Psalm Book. The whole number of tunes known to the congregation did not exceed ten; and few congregations went beyond five. This was the Puritan form of religious service. And people were not allowed to stay at home from it; for men called tything-men were sent about the town to look for those that were absent. Men were fined for every unnecessary absence; and, if they stayed away a month together, they might be put in the stocks or into a wooden cage.

A Fearful Tragedy.
A correspondent writes to the Madras (India) Mail from Madura, on August 8th:
Intelligence has been received at this station of a frightful catastrophe which befel a party of pilgrims to the Mahalingham shrine, on the Tinnevely frontier, on the evening of Sunday last. If we are to believe the reports of returned pilgrims, more than two hundred persons were drowned under circumstances of the most heartrending character. Thirty-three of the Madura pilgrims have been either carried away by the mountain torrent or are missing; and it is frightful to think how many more from Tennevely or other parts may have shared the same fate.
The shrine in question stands on the summit of one of the Saduragiri. The direction from Madura is south southwest, and the distance fifty miles. What particular manifestation of Siva this shrine was built to commemorate I cannot at present tell, nor is it known where the first devotee from whom the present one traces an unbroken line of succession established himself; but however that might have been, thousands of people from all parts of the country flock thither in this part of the year to get cured of fancied or real evils, and, if possible to lay by a store of blessings for themselves and their children. From the base of the hill a long circuitous path leads us to the shrine for a distance of ten miles or so, along fearful chasms and deep meandering mountain torrents, and through meshes of canebroke or other underwood.
The pilgrims arrived at the shrine, used to pass a night or so in the jungle without anything like a roof over their heads. The dry bed of the mountain torrent that skirts the shrine used to be their quarters, and there they cooked and ate their meals, sang and danced and otherwise made themselves comfortable. On the fatal evening there was the same spectacle as used to be in former years—thousands of men, women and children were talking or eating or dancing in the sandy bed; hundreds of sheep and fowls, brought up to be sacrificed, stood in mournful groups, each waiting in turn; some pilgrims more religious than the rest were rolling in front of the shrine or performing other equally curious evolutions; in fact everything went on without a hitch.
At 5 P. M. there was a tremendous shower of rain; ten minutes later the hitherto dry bed was full, and the water rushed headlong, carrying those who could not force their way through the crowd, and the general confusion was rendered still more dreadful by the darkness. Many dead bodies, intercepted by roots and bushes, were picked up in the bed; a good many were seen floating on towards the Waptrap tank; some were found jammed between stones, and only a very few of the ill-starred lot saved themselves by catching hold of some friendly bough.
Who is Old?
A wise man will never rust out. As long as he can move or breathe he will be doing for himself, for his neighbor, or for posterity. Almost to the last hour of his life, Washington was at work. So were Franklin and Young, Howard and Newton. The vigor of their lives never decayed. No rust marred their spirits. It is a foolish idea to suppose that we must lie down and die because we are old. Who is old? Not the man of energy, not the day laborer in science, art or benevolence; but he only who suffers his energies to waste away and the springs of life to become motionless; on whose hands the hours drag heavily, and to whom all things wear the garb of gloom. Is he active? Can he breathe freely and move with agility? There are scores of gray-headed men we should prefer, in any important enterprise, to those young men who fear and tremble at approaching shadows, and turn pale at a lion in their path, at a harsh word or frown.

NEW YORK FASHION NOTES.
Bustles have gone out of style in Paris.
White tulle is said to be becoming to every one.
Beaded jackets and trimmings have lost favor this season.
Short dresses are again to be worn in street costumes.
Blus plum is to be the fashionable color this winter.
Only invisible plaids and striped goods are to be fashionable.
The newest feature this season is the polonaise buttoned behind.
Jackets made of material like the costume are close fitting behind and loose in front.
The newest undersleeves have broad cuffs cut with round corners, turned over at the bottom.
It is said there will be less change in the shapes than in the materials for costumes this coming season.
Ladies when horseback riding wear white gloves, and if gentlemen accompany them they don them also.
Fashionable people in France take their bathing houses with them to the sea-shore. They are portable and can be packed in a trunk.
In selecting white stuffs, if for a silk dress, or wool for a baby's sock, or lace for a pocket handkerchief, the tint must be cream white.
Twenty-five dollars for the making of a dress, with extra charges for lining, buttons, etc., is the smallest bill sent to her customer by a fashionable dressmaker.
At a golden wedding recently each guest was presented with two double eagles, or a $40 pair of sleeve buttons, and the floral marriage bell was three feet in diameter.
Striped hose have had their day; those in one solid color with delicate clocking up the sides are the kind worn by ladies of good taste.
Overskirts are still very long and clinging, and so narrow a bustle cannot be worn with them.
GENERAL GOSSIP.
Ten well-filled street cars took part in a Salt Lake City funeral procession lately.
The Irish census discovers nearly 150 forms of religious faith in that country.
The greatest depth of the Pacific ocean, as found by the British ship Challenge, was about five miles.
A woman always wants her husband's judgment in the selection of a calico dress, and then buys one according to her own.
A long slim nose is an ornament in warm weather, but in the winter it looks so red and pinched as to be really a drawback.
The old ladies of Massachusetts are petitioning Gov. Gaston, of that State, not to hang Jesse Pomeroy, for the reason that in the present delicate state of his health it would be impossible for him to survive the operation.
It is stated that thirty tons of salmon were consumed by the Saratoga hotels this season; and this refutes the theory that fish are valuable brain food. Hundreds of young men left Saratoga hotels wearing their hair parted in the middle as usual.
Seven years ago George Francis Train stood in front of the Bank of California, and pointing with his cane to its frowning stone walls remarked that the people of San Francisco would, before ten years had gone by, see it collapse in a single day. He made the same assertion in a public hall there, and came near being mobbed.
It is well to take notice that it makes some difference which side of a postal card is written upon. Nothing except the address is to be written upon the stamped side. According to the ruling of the Postoffice Department any other writing upon the stamped side will subject the card to three cents postage, and if this be not paid in advance, the recipient will be subject to the collection of five cents, that is, of double letter postage less the cent already paid for the card.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1875.

HOUSE BILL NO. 46.

As we go to press we have only time to enter a short protest against the passage of the above measure. Time and experience have long ago proven the necessity of pilots in every commercial port in the world. The wisdom of the present Pilot Law has been manifest. Each year that has passed since it was enacted has but proved its efficiency. Under it our Foreign Commerce has been constantly increasing, and it has been a boon to our foreign shipmasters who, with scarcely an exception, have commended its provisions. The amendment above referred to virtually makes the Pilot Law a dead letter, for no pilot can be found to execute its provisions. The idea that the pilot boat must cruise outside the Cape in this tempestuous winter weather or forego the collection of pilot fees is a proposition as absurd as it is inhumane. The introducer of the bill (a sea captain himself) well knew the impossibility of his amendments being put into practical effect. We find it hard to draw a charitable conclusion as to his motives in presenting such an amendment. The people of Jefferson County and the whole Lower Sound pray that the Amendment BE NOT PASSED.

INSANE ASYLUM.—We see by the proceedings of the Legislature that the 27th inst. has been set apart for an investigation of the management of the Insane Asylum. Without entering the controversy, it is proper to say that the subject is of great importance, and it is to be hoped the matter will be thoroughly sifted. If the charges of mal-treatment of patients are sustained the offenders should be brought to justice; if not sustained it is high time the scandal was squelched.

THE PEACE POLICY.—During the recent council between the Government Commissioners and the Sioux Indians, a repetition of the Modoc massacre was barely averted by the courage and sense of honor of one of the chiefs present. A correspondent of a Chicago paper states that at this critical moment, the Commissioners and their insignificant cavalry guard "were completely covered by Remington, Sharp and other first-class rifles," in the hands of the hostile savages. Giving the Indians costly arms to murder our troops and settlers with is a fair exposition of the boasted peace policy.

VOTING IN WYOMING.—In this territory, as is generally known, ladies vote. Wyoming Territory, therefore, not only sets an example for other Territories, but it professes to have become civilized under the influence of women in politics. The Laramie Sentinel of a late date referring to it, says: We well remember the time when many a man stayed away from the polls rather than encounter the danger and rowdiness he must meet in order to vote. But all this is changed. Our elections go off as quietly as any other social gathering, no matter how heated a political campaign may be, or how important the issues at stake. And we all point with pride to the result, whether or not we agree as to the cause which has produced it.

EX-TREASURER SPINNER in a late letter advises the national banks not to get too much excited over any assessment put upon them to meet the expense of redeeming their circulating notes lest they wake up some morning and find they haven't any notes to redeem. "Never kick a sleeping dog," Mr. Spinner thinks is a very useful maxim.

EDITOR ARGUS: After the return of the Legislature from Seattle, about which much has been published, the members seemed to settle themselves down to active business. Much legislation of a general character has been initiated and not a little special legislation has been introduced and is now pending in one or the other of the two Houses. A bill has been enacted into a statute taking 35-100 of the money paid into Jefferson County Treasury for licenses, and applying it to the benefit of schools. The act of last session limiting your school district at Port Townsend to the limits of the city, has been repealed. The law in relation to the quarantine of vessels has been so amended as to allow the Board of Health to audit the bills of the health officer and draw on the Territorial auditor and treasurer for payment. The dog tax of Island county has been repealed, and a bill is before the House making it a misdemeanor to allow a dog to run at large where there are sheep in Island county. Mr. Miller, member from this county, seems very industrious in laboring to obtain special enactments for the benefit of his constituents. An act was introduced by Mr. Pickering in the Council to appropriate $20,000 from the Territorial treasury to be laid out on the road over the Snoqualmie Pass. The bill is favored by some members from east of the Mountains as well as some from the west whose localities it might benefit. It was thought for some time that the bill might pass, and seemed to turn in the Council on the vote of your member (Mr. Bradshaw) but he has signified his determination to vote against it, and its friends have abandoned all hope of its passage through the Council. A bill was introduced and passed the House by a vote of 19 to 9, prohibiting the sale or giving away of intoxicating drinks on election day. Messrs Harris and Foster voted in the negative. It is understood that your member in the Council will vote for the bill and that it will pass the Council and become a law. Mr. Foster, of your County, has introduced in the House a bill amending the Pilot law. His amendment, if passed, will place the line outside of which a vessel must be spoken on coming in, the westernmost part of Tatoosh Island, and no half pilotage, either inward or outward, can be collected, unless the vessel is spoken outside of that boundary coming in. Under the new law in relation to the appointment of all Territorial officers, the Governor will send to the Council for their approval a complete new Board of Pilot Commissioners. Their names will doubtless go in this week. The Territorial Fair commenced here on Monday, and but for the rainy weather would be a very creditable affair. The weather has been good until Sunday last, when it commenced raining and has rained incessantly until to-day, when it shows some sign of holding up. Most of the grain and vegetable portion of the display is by Mr. W. C. Bush, a colored man living upon Bush Prairie in this county. He has furnished stalks of corn fourteen feet high, bearing large ears three feet above a tall man's head. Grain of all kinds, and many varieties, potatoes, squashes and fruits of all kinds, of dimensions astonishing to even an old settler, while the ladies have furnished their handiwork in profusion. The display of horses, cattle, etc., I have not been able to examine on account of the continuous rains but will have more to say in my next. In addition to the Fair we have a caravan or show of wild animals on exhibition and the Phelps Dramatic Troupe, and to night a Sunday School Concert, so there is no lack of amusements. X.

DELANO'S SUCCESSOR.—A telegram from Washington of the 19th inst., says: "Ex-Senator Chandler had a long interview with the President this afternoon and accepted the appointment of Secretary of the Interior. As soon as Mr. Chandler had signified his acceptance, his commission was made out and a note sent to Chief Justice Carter, of the District Supreme Court to appear at the White House at noon. The Chief Justice accordingly proceeded to the Executive mansion and administered the oath to the Secretary. Delano then left and Chandler took his seat. The President arrived in Washington last week and held a regular cabinet session. There were present all of his cabinet, with Assistant Secretary Cowan to represent the interior department. The signal service office reports several earthquakes at Jamaica on the 14th. The valuable steam lumber mill of the Kennebec Land and Lumber Company of Maine, was burned on the 15th inst. Loss, $50,000; insured for $15,000. While the fire was in progress a derrick fell killing one fireman and severely injuring another. The city school, street and street light funds of San Francisco are exhausted. The Grand Lodge of Masons of California have elected John Mills Browne, of Mare Island, Grand Master, and Chas. L. Wiggin, Deputy Grand Master. Advice received at London announce that the Dutch ship, Wm. Bolman, from Newcastle June 3, for Portland, Oregon, has been totally destroyed by fire at sea. The crew were saved. Sharp shocks of earthquake were felt in Santa Clara and San Francisco on the evening of the 14th. Vibrations from east to west. The wife of John J. Marks, the convicted harbor commissioner of San Francisco, intends to apply to Gov. Pacheco for the pardon of her husband, and has so notified District Attorney Ryan. A grand banquet was given to Sheridan at the Palace Hotel last week. The large dining-room was used for the first time on that occasion, and was handsomely decorated with flags and flowers. The table was laid for 200 guests. Claffin & Co., of New York, have concluded to move to quash the indictments charging them with silk smuggling, instead of pleading not guilty. There is no general belief that the firm was guilty of substantial fraud, while trickery in the prosecution is largely suspected. Gen. Geo. H. Sharpe, surveyor of customs at the port of New York, corrects the statement recently published to the effect that on the occasion of the late return of Secretary Bristow's family from Europe, eighteen of their trunks were taken off the steamer at a point down the bay by a revenue cutter, and brought directly to New York and landed without being subject to examination. The surveyor says the revenue cutter did not take any person or any article of baggage from the steamer, and no baggage left the steamer by any other vessel. Mrs. Bristow had four trunks and four small packages, and they were examined on the dock the same as the property of other passengers. Mrs. Bristow made a declaration under oath of the contents of her baggage, stating that some of her personal attire was new and upon it the duties were paid. The woman's congress was opened in Syracuse, N. Y., on the 14th inst., by an address on "Women in Journalism," by Mrs. Cody, of New York. Miss Stacey, of Boston, read a translation of a paper on "Women in Medicine." In the evening an address was delivered by Mrs. Mary E. Livermore on "Superfluous Women."

On the evening of the 12th inst., at Clinton, La., a man was poisoned by taking a drink of water out of a dipper handed to him by one Catherine Matthews, in which was arsenic. When arrested she confessed her guilt, and said John Gair, her brother-in-law, instigated her to the act. That night a body of fifty armed men took Gair from the possession of the deputy sheriff and hanged him; then went into town and hung the woman Matthews. The United States steamer Tuscarora, now at San Francisco, will sail about the 1st of November and cruise among various groups of islands in the Pacific ocean, for the purpose of taking soundings to ascertain the most advantageous route for a cable in those waters. A delegation of 48 Chippewas, from Minnesota, visited the Indian department at Washington on the 15th. They left their agency without permission of the agent and were four weeks on the road, paying their expenses by dancing, etc., at the different towns. A half breed with them acted as interpreter. Their object in going to Washington was to complain of the unfair treatment they received from the agent. A letter from Henry Stanley, the explorer, dated Nyanza, Africa, March 1, 1875, was published on the 11th inst. in New York city, giving a highly interesting account of his 103 days' journey across the wilds of the African interior during his journey from Bagamogagi. At Kagohahi some of the party died, some from fatigue, famine, dysentery and fever, while a number had to be left at Urino, in the interior of Sana. The people are noted for their manly forms and are entirely naked. Pocock, a young English explorer, died at Chiwyn. Five of the party died after four days' march. Several fights occurred with wild tribes, in which both sides suffered. The natives of Natura fought a three days' battle against the explorers. Stanley lost 21 men and the natives 35. Altogether, with wars, famine and disease, he had lost 125 men, all Africans except Pocock.

British Columbia Items.

A slight shock of earthquake was felt at Victoria last Thursday. H. M. S. Myrmidon has received her orders to sail for Honolulu, thence, most likely, for the coast of Mexico. She will leave Esquimalt in about a week. The Mechanics' Literary Institute at Victoria, is receiving gratifying responses to invitation for competition in prize essay and poems. At the Chase River coal mine about 100 tons of coal have been brought to the surface, and it is now coming out at the rate of 40 tons per diem. Quite a number of intending settlers have gone to New Westminster. The str Otter, on her last trip down from the Stickeen, brought $150,000 in gold dust from the new mines and 150 passengers. The Harris (Island Survey) party has reached a point about half way between the head of Saanich Inlet and Sayward's mill, Cowhican. An excellent line of grade has been established. Cranberries are being put up at New Westminster in large quantities. In accordance with instructions from the British War Office, the new Martini-Henry rifle is to be in the hands of all troops throughout the Empire.

Affairs in Eastern Europe.

In an editorial resume of the state of affairs in Eastern Europe, the Pennsylvania Monthly says: The rule of the Turks over the Christians of the Levant has long been synonymous with cruelty, rapacity and intolerance. The worst forms of oppression, and injuries daily added to insults, have been the experience of Christians for generations. A slavery of the most degrading kind has been their portion from father to son, and every attempt to secure their freedom has been crushed in bloodshed. And so for more than a century the slaves, a handsome, brave, intelligent people, with a singular talent for poetry and music, and a passion for liberty, have stood bound at the very portals of Christian Europe, when the rattling of the chains could be distinctly heard within. Nor can it be doubted that the formation of a Servian kingdom would be a great gain, not only for the slaves, but also for the cause of civilization. The Turkish power has outlived its raison d'etre. It is an anachronism and, to use a newly-coined word, an "anapopism," too. It is a sluggish, inert barrier in the way of progress—a thorny obstacle in the path of civilization. Its power cannot be upheld by any plea of justice or right, and it has long since forfeited its claim to exist. On the other hand a Christian power, built up of Servia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Croatia, Montenegro, and the Slavic inhabitants of Albania, Roumelia and Bulgaria, would give an opportunity for the improvement of those countries, and for the development, intellectual and moral, of an interesting and highly-organized people, whose faith is Christian, whose spirit is free, and all of whose yearnings are in the direction of better things.

NOTES.

President Grant's St. Louis farm costs him $9,000 a year more than it brings in. Miss Beckwith, the great English swimmer, is a very handsome girl aged 15. Mrs. Hicks, "the great American widow" is coming home from London shortly. The Baltimore Gazette nominates Senator Bayard, of Delaware, for the Presidency. Don Pedro, of Brazil, who will shortly visit the United States, owns the finest diamonds in the world. Disraeli will soon marry the Countess of Chesterfield. The lady is rich and good looking, but over 65 years of age. The gambling fraternity of San Francisco are holding meetings to concert measures to defeat the re-election of Judges Blake and Louderback. In accordance with instructions from the British War Office the new Martini-Henry rifle is to be in the hands of all troops throughout Europe. It is proposed to erect a public statue in London of Mr. Plimsoll. The idea originated among the sailors of the port of London, but it has now assumed national proportions. The new opera house now building in London will be the largest in the world, except the one at Naples. It will cover nearly three acres of ground and be shaped like a horseshoe. A Nashville paper explains the financial question as follows: "Workmen do you know what is meant by five-twenties, seven-thirties and ten-forties? It means that you shall get up at 5:20 and not quit work until 7:30, in order that bondholders may get up the next day at 10:40. Ida Lewis denies being a heroine; says she is glad to attend to the lighthouse, because her parents are old and poor, and asks why people do not give them a little money or useful household articles if they must manifest their appreciation of her efforts to save the drowning. According to the San Francisco Bulletin the immigration into California has been greater this year than at any other time since that which followed the discovery of gold. The immigration from all quarters for the last eight months exceeds that to New York during the same period by more than twelve thousand. The chairman of the Democratic State Committee of Ohio, says their recent defeat was caused by a lavish expenditure of money, fraudulent votes and the introduction of the public school question by the Republican party. Prince Frederick Fritz will visit the Centennial at Philadelphia, escorted by a German squadron. There were 400 people rendered homeless by the fire at Fairview, Idaho, on the 11th inst.—nearly the entire population.

The Weekly Argus.

PORT TOWNSEND, OCT. 23, 1875.

LOCAL NEWS.

Foggy weather has prevailed during the past week.

The steamer Favorite has withdrawn from the route between this city and Olympia, and will resume her former position as a steam-tug.

A petition has been in circulation during the week for the purpose of raising means to build a walk on Taylor street from Washington street to the top of the hill. Of the success attending the scheme we have not been apprized.

NEW DRUG STORE.—On an opposite corner from the new hotel now being framed, preparations are also in progress for the establishment of a new drug-store by Dr. Minor—making the second institution of the kind in Port Townsend.

The str. Phantom brought over from Whidby Island, on Wednesday, eight tons of produce, principally barley and potatoes, consigned to Waterman & Katz, by whom it was shipped to Victoria on Thursday, per str. North Pacific.

The Exhibition by the Barney Bros., given in this place last Saturday evening, was well attended, and gave universal satisfaction. The feats of legerdemain were admirably executed and the violin solos elicited unbounded applause. Taken altogether it was a pleasant and chaste entertainment.

WORK on the new hotel is progressing, and ere long, should the weather continue favorable, shall expect to see its vast frame-work in place. Its design when carried out will constitute it a building without a rival on Puget Sound—comprising, as it will, all the latest and most approved systems of architectural finish and adaptation for the purposes intended.

THOMAS BRACKEN, Esq., returned home from the Cassiar mines, on Monday. He states that the majority of the miners had realized fair remuneration for their season's labor. At the time of his leaving there were some 500 men in the mines, and about 150 returned in company with him, many of whom contemplate going back again in the spring.

The marine disasters for September, in which the United States had an interest, numbered twenty-nine, involving a loss, exclusive of cargoes, of $353,000. Of the whole number twenty were schooners and three were ships. Three of the vessels were burned, one was sunk by collision, three were foundered, four were abandoned and eighteen were wrecked.

"ACCIDENTAL DROWNING" was the verdict of the Coroner's jury in the case of the soldier, named Martin Galvin, whose body was found about three miles north of Union Wharf last Monday afternoon. Deceased had been missing from the Fort since Thursday, and all efforts to discover his whereabouts had proved futile until by the action of the winds and waves his cold and lifeless body had been washed ashore. When last seen alive, he was sitting on the top of one of the piles at the end of the wharf, evidently under the influence of whisky. Thus has another casualty been added to the long list from the evils of excessive drinking. He was a member of Company C 21st Infantry, aged about 42 years, and leaves, we are informed, a wife and several children residing in the vicinity of Buffalo, N. Y. His term of service had nearly expired, and quite a sum of money was due him.

HENRY KUMMER, of the firm of Kummer & Logan, of this city, departed this life on the 16th inst, aged about 37 years. Deceased was for some twelve years in the employ of H. L. Tibbals, Esq., who says of him that "he was an honest, faithful man." He was a member of the Good Templars' Lodge of this city, to whose hall his remains were taken on Sunday, the better to accommodate the members of the order and the large number who wished to pay the last sad tribute of respect to the departed. A funeral sermon was delivered by Dr. Hyland, the procession was formed, and, preceded by the Port Townsend Brass Band, the mournful cortege took its way to the Masonic Cemetery, where all that was mortal of the deceased was interred in conformity with the rites of the order to which he belonged. It is due to Mr. Tibbals, to say that although he was stopping at Victoria, yet when he heard of Mr. Kummer's sickness he hastened to his bedside, and was unremitting in his attentions, and when death supervened he at once procured a lot on which to deposit the remains. Mr. Kummer was a native of Reading, Massachusetts, where a father, mother and sister still reside, and who are left to mourn their loss.

We inadvertently omitted last week to note the return of C. C. Bartlett from San Francisco, whither he had been for the purchase of new fall and winter goods.

THE steamship Salvador, arrived at this port on her return from Tacoma on Wednesday morning about three o'clock. She coaled at Seattle, and had on board 60 cords of cottonwood bolts, from Tacoma, and 80,000 feet of lumber from Seattle.

WELL, WELL!—And now comes intelligence through the Dispatch of another Homestead Association at Seattle, making the third or fourth, that has been gotten up in that city this season—this time, however, for mechanics and laborers.

THE bark Harvest Home, from San Francisco, made this port on Thursday. She brought as passengers, two families, hailing from Missouri, and bound for La Conner.

S. L. STRANGE, as will be seen by reference to our advertising columns is prepared to do teaming of all kinds, grading, furnishing of water to families, vessels, &c., &c.

We are informed that Capt. Scammon, of the steam revenue cutter Walcott, will go to San Francisco on the next steamer for the benefit of his health.

THE Costa Rican ship Herman forty days from Callao, arrived at this port on Monday, consigned to Fowler & Co.

THE Buena Vista went to sea yesterday in tow of the Goliath. She is bound for the Sandwich Islands.

We call attention to the notice of "Auction Sale" of valuable household articles, to be found in another column.

We learn that Mr. Benson, Whidby Island ferryman, who has been prostrated by sickness for some weeks is gradually improving.

Up-Sound Items.

(Compiled from up-Sound Exchanges.) Gen. McKenny will soon start up the old saw-mill at Olympia... Seven out of eight prisoners in the penitentiary on McNell's Island, are there for selling liquor to Indians... A man named Miller was instantly killed at Kalama on Wednesday week by one Hugal on account of domestic difficulties... Within the last two years 25 entries of coal land have been made in this Territory... Edgar Bryan has moved from Seattle to Whidby Island to take charge of the Union store... The University at Seattle has now 90 pupils... Hon. Orange Jacobs has left for Washington City... One of the teachers of the University at Seattle is a Presbyterian, one a Baptist, another a Unitarian, and still another a Catholic... The Territorial Treasurer's biennial report is now being printed... A new logging camp has been started on Lake Washington, near Black river... 358 entries were made at the Snohomish County Fair.
