THE EXPRESS ROBBERY. - By the confession of Clarence Fagan, the mystery surrounding the robbery of Wells & Fargo's Express, at Kalama, has been cleared up. It appears from this confession that the robbery of the treasure box was put up months ago, and the conspirators only awaited an opportunity to make a large haul.

We have said and done as much as any newspaper in the country to expose, exposing, denouncing and breaking up the corrupt ring, under the management of which immense frauds have been committed in the name of the N.P. Railroad Company, but have never lost faith in the legitimate character of the original project, or said anything to throw any obstacle in the way of its ultimate success under proper management.

What influence their associations had upon the fall of these before-reputable young men, is a matter for serious consideration. There is no doubt that their moral sense was blunted and weakened by the example and success of the men whose patronage they enjoyed.

ly. I am in hope, however, that the bond holders will unite to take some action, and to use their rights for a foreclosure of the mortgage in the same way as the bond-holders of the St. Paul and Pacific are doing.

In introducing this paragraph, the Argus says: "That even Mr. Brown, of the Dispatch, has gone so far as to favor the scheme of the N. P. Road to get further assistance from the Government, well knowing, as he does, the immense frauds that have been perpetrated by this corrupt incorporation."

Heretofore a majority of the Directors belonged to a class of speculators with little or no capital or reputation of their own, who formed themselves into a ring combination to use the munificent subsidy of the Government for their own personal purposes.

The Express Robbery. CONFESSIONS OF BUDLONG AND FAGAN.

The following is a certified copy of the confessions of Budlong and Fagan, during the trial of the former at Kalama: CLARENCE E. FAGAN sworn and says: I am 24 years of age. My name is Clarence E. Fagan. I was agent for Wells, Fargo & Co. and telegraph operator, and was on the 21st of January, 1874, I am acquainted with Mr. Budlong. I received the treasure box of Wells, Fargo & Co. on the 21st of January, 1874, at my office.

Cross examined by Mr. Dennison. I mean when I say that I took it, that I took it out of the box myself, I took it out before the box was sent aboard the cars. I gave it to the defendant. It was in the top of the box. Capt. Taylor was there, and I think Mr. Dillingham. I don't know whether they saw me give it to him or not. I don't remember how long it was after I opened the box; I think it was about twenty minutes. I did not tell the defendant what to do with it. I gave it to him to keep that's what I gave it to him for.

I don't remember whether I gave him anything else at that time or not. I gave him the lead key before I think. I won't say whether it was before or after I gave him the package. I haven't the least idea when I gave him the key. I gave him the lead key the same day I gave him the package. I don't know whether it was before or after I gave him the package. I saw the lead key at the last examination lying on the table.

I have had $100 of the package. I have not got it now. I burnt it. There were three other keys made. They were made out of zinc. They were made in defendant's room. Some of the keys were made at another place, at C. T. Morris's house. The parties concerned in making the keys were C. T. Morris, myself and the defendant. We all know for what purpose the keys were made. It is true that C. T. Morris knew all about what those keys were made for. We were about ten days at C. T. Morris's house, making the keys and laying plans for robbing Wells, Fargo's treasure boxes. It was carried on in the night; the making of the keys. Mrs. Morris was away from home while this work was going on.

[Re-cross-examined by counsel.] The box was full and the package was on top, but we both took it. But I will take all the blame. (Signed,) C. E. FAGAN.

F. L. BUDLONG sworn and says: I heard Mr. Fagan's testimony. The package was taken out of the box as Mr. Fagan states. It was not in the box when the box was sent on board the cars. Mr. C. T. Morris, Mr. Fagan and myself were concerned in making the keys. The lead was melted in Fagan's room. The key broken off in the lock was made in my room. Mr. Fagan was present when the key was made. There was two keys made in Mr. C. T. Morris's house. They were made after the lead key which was broken off in the box besides myself and Mr. Fagan. The key was made for a blind. We all took an interest in it after the lead key was made. He assisted in making the other keys. Moulds were used at his house. All hands knew what we were making those keys for.

Mr. Morris, Fagan and myself were to share in the proceeds of any theft or robbery committed by the use of those keys. I have not had the benefit of the money taken from that package. Cross examined by Mr. Cronin. I think there was 4 or 5 keys made but there was only 3 that were any use. I don't think there was any zinc key made. I think there was one or two made of a mixture. I think they have been destroyed. I don't know whether Mr. Morris took any of those keys with him or not.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY. Seattle, W. T. Feb. 26 1874.

FRESH CREAM CAKES—Every Wednesday and Saturday, at the Confectionery, on Front street.

DAMAGE TO THE S.S. NORTH PACIFIC.—We are glad to know that the damage to the North Pacific was not nearly so much as at first reported. Five or six hundred dollars, it is now believed, will repair all the damage she sustained on that occasion. She will resume her regular trips the first of next week.

IMPROVEMENTS AT PORT TOWNSEND.—The Argus announces that Capt. E. S. Fowler has contracted with Mr. Carkeek, for a large two story store building, 80 by 30 feet, with walls 25 feet high, from the top of the foundation, the front to be of dressed stone. Also, that Mr. Carkeek is at present employed in making plans and estimates for another store building to be erected for another party.

PORT TOWNSEND ARGUS.—In the last number of this sprightly little paper, Al. Pettigrove, its founder and publisher for the last three years, announces his withdrawal, on account of ill health. C. W. Philbrick, a first-class printer and experienced publisher, will succeed him. Mrs. Philbrick is also a good printer and both are industrious and are bound to make a success of their undertaking.

MURDER.—On Monday afternoon, Mr. Seabirt, a shingle-maker, residing on a ranch on the Snohomish river about half a mile above Lowell was discovered brutally murdered. From the appearance of things he must have been attacked while in bed. He was cut with an axe on the head, hip and leg. The bed was covered with blood and there were marks of a scuffle on the floor. Since he was murdered his son Edward, a boy 15 or 16 years of age has been missing and it is supposed that the boy murdered his father and took himself off, or that the Indians committed the murder and kidnapped the boy, to make it appear that he murdered his father. For the above facts we are indebted to a gentleman who arrived from the Snohomish on Tuesday evening.

The records of Hon. S. E. Barr, Inspector of Customs for Shoalwater Bay, show the total number of cargoes of Oysters shipped to San Francisco from the bay last year, in schooners, to be twenty-seven, amounting to 112,800 baskets, which, if divided equally among the eighty oystermen now reputed to be engaged in the business, would make an aggregate of 1,410 baskets to each man, amounting to $1,410, at a fair market value. This statement shows the natural wealth of Shoalwater bay. The business will undoubtedly increase 15 per cent. the present year, making the surplus export 141,000 baskets. The shipments to Portland, the past year, amounted to over 4,000 baskets.—Astorian.

THE MASQUERADE BALL.—The masquerade ball on Monday evening was the event of the year, and was a grand success, financially and otherwise. There were about 50 couples of masqueraders on the floor and the number of spectators reached at least 200. Below we give a list of all the characters we could learn. We would have liked to have given a full list but were unable to procure it:

The procession afterwards called on Hon. G. A. Walkem, Premier, and other members of the local Government and serenaded them. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Experienced Utah miners say the alleged failure of the Little Emma mine was only a trick to freeze out British stock-holders. It is alleged that the working of the mine was not stopped because it had ceased to pay, but to mislead distant stock-holders. The managers, after suspending operations, carefully guarded the mine from intruders, in order to conceal the real state of affairs. The Sun says that at the time of the stoppage over $500,000 worth of first-class ore lay on the dump. Some months ago it was reported to parties here that operations in the mine had been resumed and the shipments of newly-mined ore averaged eight carloads daily. We saw letters from A. Majors to a friend in New York, dated Salt Lake City, Feb. 2, in which he says the Emma is yielding ore which assays by the car load $800 a ton, and from all he could hear they seemed to have a very fine vein in the lower level.

President Grant was interviewed to-day in regard to Indian Affairs. He made great complaint of the manner in which the Indian policy has been treated by the newspapers. He said there was apparently a concerted effort to misrepresent and pervert the results of the policy and a determination not to give credit for the good accomplished, and to hold the Administration responsible for the abuses and frauds which are the outgrowth of the old system. Under the old system, it was impossible for any portion of the Indian supplies to reach the Indians themselves. Under the new administration of Indian Affairs by far the greatest part of the goods and annuities went to the Indians directly, and the talk about corruption and the statements about outrages proceed largely from men whose profits and whose opportunities for swindling the Indians have been cut off. Under the former system Indian plunderers were so powerful an honest man could not remain in office. This has been thoroughly reformed, and dishonest agents are now the exception, where formerly they were the rule. "With all our efforts," said the President, "Some have succeeded in circumventing and cheating the Government, but as fast as discovered they are broken up and cast out. He expressed himself positively against any control of Indian Affairs by the army except in punishing refractory tribes who refuse to accept the Government's proffer of kind treatment for good behavior. He is highly pleased with the results obtained by religious agents, which he says has worked well there, being in addition to usual official responsibility of religious society meeting nomination. He cited the case of Indian Commissioner Smith as one of peculiar hardship and injustice. Newspapers had for months abused him without measure, and when he was vindicated maintained perfect silence and ignored the facts, while Smith's wife had been driven insane by the attacks on her husband. The President thought there should be a new statute for the punishment of lying.

A regiment became dissatisfied with being continually refused leave to go outside, and a number determined to make their escape. A desperate attack was made by the soldiers on the guard at the gate of the barracks, and fire was opened and returned at short range. The guard stood firm and the better disposed men turned against their insurgent comrades and after an hour's resistance the rebels laid down their arms. 13 were killed and 13 wounded. THE HAGUE, Feb. 23.—The Dutch troops from Alsace and Lorraine have published a manifesto repudiating Bishop Reas for his acknowledgement of the Frankfort treaty.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Mr. J. C. Stubbs, freight agent of the Central Pacific R.R. stated to a reporter yesterday that thus far nothing had been accomplished to secure an understanding between the Chicago roads and the Union and Central Pacifics. The managers of the Central would gladly prorate if they could induce the managers of the Union to do the same; but every effort for a settlement had thus far failed on account of the stubbornness of Vining, the general freight agent of the Union Pacific. In his opinion the Central and Union Pacifics should receive something more than the Chicago or other roads, but he would nevertheless prorate because business would be greatly improved thereby, though freight had not fallen off much on account of the difficulty. The Baltimore and Ohio was doing its business at very low rates.

The Pacific Mail S. S. Co. was injuring the Pacific roads far more than the action of the Chicago railways, that line having an established China and Japan trade which it would take many years for a new line like the trans-Pacific to acquire, but they would get trade and especially the tea traffic before long, as a lot coming overland was far superior to one transported via the Isthmus. This was owing to the fact that tea going overland was not subject to such changes in climate as going via Panama.

Mr. Stubbs was confident that the difficulty could not last long and everything would be peaceably settled in a few days.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—A dispatch from the Massack department of North Carolina says that the shooting of Steve Lowrey, the last of the Sealtown outlaws causes general rejoicing in Robeson county. Yesterday a large number flocked into Lumberton where the body lay. Lowrey when shot carried a rifle, three pistols and a knife. Rewards offered for his body amount to $6,000, which will be paid to the three young men who did the shooting.

LA CONNER, Feb. 24.—The surveying party under Hon. Lewis Van Vleet have just completed the survey and subdivision into 40 acre lots of the Swinomish Indian reserve.

A Real Romance.

Celia Logan, in the New York Graphic, relates the following: Whatever were the terms of separation between herself and her first husband, the child remained with its father...

For years the boy believed the story, but one day, on going to the Postoffice for his father's letters, he found one addressed to himself. It was from his mother!

It related how ill-treatment had driven her from his side; how, poor, alone and with the reputation of the world upon her, she had struggled for existence; but happier days had at length come— she was married to a Mr. Williams and was going to Europe.

The boy sprang up, vowing to do more than remember—to devote his life to finding her. He went to his father, showed him the letter, and asked him the reason of his deception.

Many a quiet family he started from their serenity by a raid upon them, photograph in hand, inquiring for his mother. At last there was but one city left to search— Washington.

He was now so near despair that he had half a mind, he said, not to call on them. But it was the last of the name whom he had not seen, and his search would be incomplete without it.

Her voice bade him enter. He flung open the door, and, exclaiming, "Mother, don't you know me?" he rushed frantically into her arms.

She was at that time an invalid, and the shock almost proved serious; but as joy never kills, they say, she recovered. He had worked his way almost all through Europe and America; consequently his education had been neglected; but, as he was only twenty-one years of age when he found his mother, she hoped to overcome that defect.

How is it that you came home from your party so early last night, Susan? Didn't you enjoy yourself? Susan— "Yes, ma'am; but the young man as took me in to supper insulted me."

The other day, at a concert, a gentleman having put his hat upon a chair to keep a place, returned to claim it after a short absence.

"Madame," said he, "you are sitting on my hat." The lady blushed a little, turned round, and said in blindest manner: "Oh, I beg your pardon! I'm sure I thought it was my husband's."

To a man who applied to Colonel Berry for victuals, the Colonel said, "Haven't you any money?" "No," said the man. "Advertise then," said the Colonel; "that's the way P. T. Barnum made his money."

BE CHEERFUL.—Emerson says: Do not hang a dismal picture on the wall and do not deal with sables and gloom in your conversation.

"There is one good thing about babies," says a late traveler; "they never change. We have girls of the period, men of the world, but the baby is the same self-possessed, fearless, laughing voracious little heathen in all ages and in all countries."

"Do you think," asked Mrs. Pepper, "that a little temper is a bad thing in a woman?" "Certainly not," responded her gallant husband; "it is a good thing, and she ought never to lose it."
