THE managers of the Centennial show have omitted one thing. No building has been set apart for Moody and Shauky. We hope it is not too late for these gentlemen to secure a half acre, as we understand that Mart. Brown is going to "happen round" at Philadelphia next summer, and these revivalists may possibly succeed in saving his Democratic soul.—Ber.

FIFTEEN thousand female and fourteen thousand male "philanthropists" of Indiana sent a petition to Congress asking for the stoppage of the manufacture and sale of whisky in Washington and the Territories. What are these philanthropic busy-bodies driving at now? Do they wish to depopulate this Territory?

THE land in cultivation in Oregon and the products thereof, and the stock raised and gold mined thereon, if divided among the voters of the State, would give to each the following: 22 acres of land, 13 bushels wheat, 110 bushels oats, 10 bushels barley, 6 tons hay, 60 pounds of wool, $8 00 in gold dust, 4 bushels corn, 20 head of sheep, 4 head of hogs, 3 head of horses and mules, 10 head of cattle, 1 pound of tobacco, 19 bushels of potatoes, 43 bushels of apples, 6,617 feet of lumber, 7 pounds of cheese and 37 pounds of butter, making $1,419 to each voter, independent of coin. Oregon challenges any state in the Union to equal this showing.

He was constructing a shed for the ozen, and upon sawing off a piece of timber it fell striking the scaffolding and breaking Mr. Lawrence's leg above the knee.

A Danbury man put a pair of nine dollar shoes in the stove oven to dry, the other night. There was not much fire in the stove and so he closed the oven door. The next morning he built a fire without a thought of the shoes, and it was not until an hour later that they occurred to him. They were ruined then. The soles were turned up in a playful manner, and the uppers resembled somewhat the coast

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—To-day, being the 17th day of March, is the festival of St. Patrick's Day. No steps were taken towards a celebration by any natives of the Emerald Isle, residents of this city, and the day passed off very quietly, few remembering the fact.

NEWS ITEMS. Some spoofs of Olympia are going to interview the spoof of Pierce county. Forty dollars for six months is what liquor dealers have to pay to the corporation of Walla Walla.

HE didn't say a word. Sadly and silently he was removing them with a shovel, when his wife came in, and saw at a glance what had happened. "Well, that's just like a man," she indifferently exclaimed. "Why didn't you have sense enough to look into the oven before you started the fire?" He hadn't said a word of his loss. But now he spoke: "Gosh dam my eyes if I'll ever build at other fire!" And he is keeping his word. Where could a woman learn wisdom?

A single grain of barley was planted by an agriculturalist in the Isle of Man in 1872, and the same year produced three hundred grains. These were sown, and the second year's product was about half a pint. These were again sown, and the third year's product was fourteen pounds, which being again sown have realized this year about seven bushels, covering a space of one hundred yards by five. Thus there have been produced in four years seven bushels of barley from a single grain.

When "Spivins," of Mountville, W. Va., was city editor of the Wheeling Register, he wrote one evening: "To-day is the anniversary of the death of Louis Philippe," when the proof came up the name read "Sam Phillips." "Spiv," thought a mere note of the mistake would be sufficient, and so he wrote on the margin: "Who the hell is Sam Phillips?" Next morning the item came out: "To-day is the anniversary of the death of Sam Phillips. Who the hell is Sam Phillips?" "Spiv," didn't say a word about it to anybody.

A STREET INCIDENT.—He was only a little ragged boy, and as he stood gazing through the shop window, looking at the tops temptingly displayed within his face showed an eager longing which was touching in the extreme. His hands were loosely clasped behind his back with his palms turned upward. A lady noticed the little, earnest face as she, too, paused a moment before the tempting show. Then quickly dropping several pennies into the little hand, she passed on. The moment the boy felt the touch he turned and caught sight of the pocket-book in the hand of the retreating lady. Running after her, he looked up anxiously in her face, and said, "Oh! ma'am, did you know it was me?" "Yes," said the lady, smiling, "I knew it was you." And the child bounded away with a face radiant with happiness. Was not that an act of real, true charity?

A MATTER OF NO CONSEQUENCE.—The day had been set and the young man was nappy. But his father failed in business and he collected together all the pink love-letters, the lock of hair, the faded violet, &c., and started for her father's mansion. He was high-minded and honorable and he felt in duty bound to release her from the engagement. Yet he grew faint as he was ushered into the parlor. Such love as his wouldn't stay crushed.

"George! dear George!" she exclaimed as she entered the parlor and seized his hand.

"Arabella, I am here to do my duty," he said as he rose up.

"Why, yes, dear George, and what of it?"

"Aren't you—won't you—that is—"

"I'm glad of it—that's all!" she cried.

"You are?"

"Of course I am! I was talking with father, and he said if your father had failed for $50,000 he'd made at least $50,000 out of it, and of course you'd get twice as much as you counted on!"

A GEORGIAN negro was riding a mule, and when he came to a bridge the mule stopped. 'You take de bet den?' said the negro, and contrived to get the mule over the bridge. 'I won dat quarter, anyhow,' cried Sambo. 'But how will you get the money?' asked a man who had been close by unperceived. 'Tomorrow,' replied Sambo, 'masse gib me a dollar to get corn for de mule, and I take de quarter out.'

CROUP.—Says some one: Croup may be cured in one minute, and the remedy is simply alum and sugar. The way to accomplish the act is to take a knife or grater and shave off in small particles about a teaspoonful of alum, then mix it with about twice its quantity of sugar to make palatable, and administer it as quick as possible. Almost instantaneous relief will follow.

INSULTED.—Party with cold in his head to party opposite (referring to open window in railroad car)—"Say, wid you shud up that widow?"

It is a well-known fact that clover has the singular property of being able to extract from the atmosphere, without the aid of manure or stimulants, nitrogen sufficient for its own proper growth and nourishment. The straw and roots of the clover contain a large amount of nitrogen, and these, when plowed down, are therefore as valuable to the next crop sown as a copious supply of guano.

Rich mines are reported in the Big Horn and Owl Creek mountains.

WONDERFUL DISHES.—Numerously attended, says the New York World, and displaying in the supper-room a glory of victuals that has never been surpassed, the tenth annual ball of the Societe Culinairie Philanthropique at Irving Hall Wednesday evening must have proved a gratifying success. There was music in the ball room above, and dancing, and those that danced were full of Gallic nimbleness, and seemed to enjoy it thoroughly; but the eternal fitness of things made the supper paramount.—The room in which the supper was served was decorated with streamers of red, white and blue, which answered the requirements both of native and adopted patriotism. Rows of tables, chastely decorated in cloths of white, unadorned linen, quite filled the apartment; and on these were displayed during the evening the great master-pieces of architectural cookery. On the right upon entering the room, the visitor was confronted by a model of the British lion, with a sugar tail having an almond for a brush, standing rampant upon two pads of translucent jelly, and having beneath him a jungle of sponge cake. Next the lion were Washington and Lafayette shaking hands at the base of Bunker Hill—so called, but in truth one of the monuments at Baltimore. On another table stood the first Napoleon drilling a zouave. From the rear the piece bore every resemblance to the hero, but on close inspection from the front, alas! the revelation was a sucking pig, elevated rearwards and clothed in caramel and sundry similar plastic reinment. A travesty of a New Jersey fox-hunt, with turpin horses and carrot monkeys for riders, chasing potato foxes amid a dingle of spinach, formed another piece; and another an imitation of the projected statue to be placed in the harbor.—"Liberty Enlightening the World," in which tin troopers were to be seen issuing from the base of the monument, while a French frigate, with silver guns, sailed placidly on the bay of Welch rarebit. Other great pieces too, there were; fish many feet in length, large saddles of mutton and joints of beef of massive hams, surrounded by quivering jellies and appurtenances of indescribable glory. Supper was eaten at midnight, and sufficed to fill a bill of fare several pages in length.

A MATTER OF NO CONSEQUENCE.—The day had been set and the young man was nappy. But his father failed in business and he collected together all the pink love-letters, the lock of hair, the faded violet, &c., and started for her father's mansion. He was high-minded and honorable and he felt in duty bound to release her from the engagement. Yet he grew faint as he was ushered into the parlor. Such love as his wouldn't stay crushed.

"George! dear George!" she exclaimed as she entered the parlor and seized his hand.

"Arabella, I am here to do my duty," he said as he rose up.

"Why, yes, dear George, and what of it?"

"Aren't you—won't you—that is—"

"I'm glad of it—that's all!" she cried.

"You are?"

"Of course I am! I was talking with father, and he said if your father had failed for $50,000 he'd made at least $50,000 out of it, and of course you'd get twice as much as you counted on!"

A GEORGIAN negro was riding a mule, and when he came to a bridge the mule stopped. "I'll bet you a quarter," said Sambo, "I'll make you go over this bridge, and with this struck the mule over the head, which made him buble suddenly. 'You take de bet den?' said the negro, and contrived to get the mule over the bridge. 'I won dat quarter, anyhow,' cried Sambo. 'But how will you get the money?' asked a man who had been close by unperceived. 'Tomorrow,' replied Sambo, 'masse gib me a dollar to get corn for de mule, and I take de quarter out.'

CROUP.—Says some one: Croup may be cured in one minute, and the remedy is simply alum and sugar. The way to accomplish the act is to take a knife or grater and shave off in small particles about a teaspoonful of alum, then mix it with about twice its quantity of sugar to make palatable, and administer it as quick as possible. Almost instantaneous relief will follow.

INSULTED.—Party with cold in his head to party opposite (referring to open window in railroad car)—"Say, wid you shud up that widow?"

Middle aged female in weeds, who has been talking the last half hour, turning round indignantly, "What do you mean, sir? It is a pretty how-de-do when a woman can't open her mouth! I'll have you to know you can't shut me up!"

It is a well-known fact that clover has the singular property of being able to extract from the atmosphere, without the aid of manure or stimulants, nitrogen sufficient for its own proper growth and nourishment. The straw and roots of the clover contain a large amount of nitrogen, and these, when plowed down, are therefore as valuable to the next crop sown as a copious supply of guano.

Rich mines are reported in the Big Horn and Owl Creek mountains.

THE FIRST ROBIN.—When a gray-headed man living on the Cass farm came down town yesterday and reported that he had seen a robin flying among the trees, and added that spring must be near, he told the solemn truth. He wouldn't have lied about it for ten thousand dollars, and yet what was his reward as he entered a cigar store he said: "Well, I'm ahead of you folks. I saw a robin as I came down."

The four men seated around the stove smiled and turned their heads away. "Don't you believe it?" asked the good man.

"You are insane!" they shouted in chorus. "Do you think we are fools or infants?"

"But I did see one."

"And then they felt his head, asked him to run out his tongue, tried to count his pulse, and he went away with a heavy heart. He went into a lawyer's office, and the lawyer's greeting was so kind that the honest-hearted citizen said:

"Well, I saw a robin this morning."

"The lawyer's countenance fell. He tried to occupy all the chairs in the office with his feet, and after a long time he inquired:

"You have never fully recovered from that fall, have you?"

"But I really saw a robin," persisted the citizen.

The lawyer sighed, lit his cigar, and as he took up his pen he said to himself: "Sorry for it—used to be a brilliant fellow—probably have a guardian appointed!"

The citizen felt discouraged, and was on his way to the postoffice when a merchant, who slipped him on the back and exclaimed: "Rah for spring!"

"It's only a few days away," replied the citizen.

"Only a few days—coming right along."

There was a man who had perhaps seen the same identical bird, and the truthful citizen was encouraged to say: "Coming down this morning I saw my first robin."

The merchant took him by the arm, led him into a doorway, and earnestly said: "See here, John, we've been friends for fifteen years."

"Yes."

"And I've lent you money and always spoken well of you, haven't I?"

"You have."

"Well, now, for Heaven's sake don't go into lying for a regular thing! It's well enough to lie once in a while, but don't make a practice of it!"

"But I did see a robin!" exclaimed the distressed citizen.

"Oh, come now!"

"But I did!"

"Then farewell, John," sighed the merchant. "I've got my family to care for, my store to run, and I can't be seen talking to any such person."

The citizen saw a robin. It was a live robin—an early bird. And yet he didn't dare to tell another soul of it. In fact, when asked if he hadn't seen a robin around he denied it!—Free Press.

Puget Sound Dispatch.

Seattle, W. T., March 21, 1876. FROM DAILY OF SATURDAY.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.—A special to the DISPATCH from Port Townsend is as follows: "Captain Ingerson of the Schooner Clara Light, which left Seattle on the evening of the 15th, kicked his mate most unmercifully. The Captain called the mate, named Wm. Cook, from below and met him at the top of the companion way and kicked him on the head and face with the heel of his boot, almost scalping him. The Captain was arrested here and, after his examination, placed under $1,000 bonds for his appearance next September at the term of Court. The crew's testimony was against the Captain.

Mr. John Jones, a miner at Sehome, soon after entering the mine on Wednesday morning had a lot of coal fall on him, from which he sustained a complete fracture of the thigh-bone five inches above the knee, crushing his body somewhat seriously in the breast and side.

ERRATUM.—In the communication, "Law or Grammar" in yesterday's paper, an error of the compositor, overlooked by the proof-reader, makes one clause read "six inches wide" instead of "six feet" as it was in copy.

There will be services in the Congregational Church to-morrow at the usual hours.—Sabbath School immediately after the morning services. Pastor, Rev. James Hall.

From Daily of Monday.

OLYMPIA ITEMS.—A cinnamon bar was killed by John Longmire on Yelm prairie a few days ago. It is not often that these animals are seen out of the mountains, but probably the severe weather during the winter has sent this one out to rustle for something to eat. Indian Jim and Lucy his squaw, have been sent to the Tulalip Reservation, where they are being kept with the understanding that Jim is to be sent back in case he is wanted for trial for killing the other Jim. A little flurry of snow fell on Saturday last, of a singular nature. The flakes fell fast and were of extraordinary size, many measuring two inches across. The Chinaman, who was confined in the county jail on the charge of breaking into the Olympia book-store, broke jail Wednesday night and is now anxiously sought for by the authorities.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—While helping to unload some heavy chests from a truck on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Hillory Butler had the misfortune to catch his right hand between the brake of the truck and a corner of a chest, tearing and bruising the flesh in a shocking manner, but fortunately breaking no bones. The injured member was dressed and Mr. Butler is able to be around to-day.

A BATCH OF CASES.—Ah Gab, for committing a nuisance, was fined $5 and costs, on Saturday. Van Wee, for assault and battery was fined $3 and costs, on Saturday evening. Michael Lamb, for being disorderly, using obscene language and resisting an officer, was fined $15 and costs. All these cases were disposed of by Justice Scott.

On their arrival at Portland with their prize, it was discovered that he was not Shepardson at all but a man named Wilson, and their visions of $500 apiece vanished in thin air. They now mourn the loss of $30 expended in pacifying Wilson and in travelling expenses.

From Daily of Wednesday

BIDDING FOR B. C.—An Ottawa dispatch says: "Mr. James Gordon Bennett's party were handsomely entertained by the Premier last night. Rumors say, but it is incapable of credence, that Mr. Bennett is semi-officially charged by the Washington authorities to ascertain upon what terms British Columbia might be ceded to the United States. It will be recollected that upon several occasions old Mr. Bennett acted in a sort of official manner for the United States Government."

The steamer North Pacific only went up as far as Tacoma yesterday, where she transferred her Olympia freight and passengers to the Alida. She took on board 45 head of cattle for Phelps & Wadleigh and returned. After discharging the cattle here she returned to Tacoma, where she will again connect with the Alida and return on her regular Wednesday night trip.

INQUEST.—Coroner Weed yesterday went up to Cedar River, where he summoned a jury and held an inquest on the body of the one armed patent medicine man who was drowned day before yesterday. The verdict was that the deceased was a native of Prussia, named C. H. Munson, and that he was accidentally drowned. His body comes down on the Otter to-morrow.

It is our painful duty to announce the death on Sunday evening last of Mrs. Mahood residing on Yates Street. The deceased lady succumbed to an attack of variola aggravated by pneumonia.

The coal mine at Barclay Sound is being rapidly developed. Workmen are engaged in erecting a steam saw-mill and hotel, and parties are preparing tenders for the construction of a railway three miles in length from the shore to the mines.

By the arrival of the Otter at Departure Bay we learn that at Fort Rupert the Indian Chief Wakus, the same who strutted about Nanaimo with a long silver-headed cane, had caused several of his slaves to be slaughtered so as to provide the material necessary for a "hyas tyhee fesat." We thought that cannibalism was a thing of the past. Let some of the churches send a missionary there.

THE POWER OF MUSIC.—The celebrated preacher Bourdalone had a habit of preparing himself for the pulpit with a fiddle! He was to preach on a Good Friday, and the proper officer came to attend him to church. As the officer ascended the stairs he heard the sound of a violin, and as the door stood a little ajar, he saw Bourdalone in his cassock, playing a lively tune, and dancing to it about his study. He thought the reverend man raving mad. He knocked gently on the door. The father threw down his violin, hurried to his gown, and approached him, saying, "O, it is you, sir! I hope I have not kept you waiting. I am quite ready to attend you." The officer, as they went down stairs, could not help mentioning his surprise at what he had heard and seen. Bourdalone laughed. "The whole of the matter is this," said he; "in thinking over the subject of the day, I found my spirits too much depressed to speak as I ought to do, so I had recourse to my usual method of music and a little dancing. It has had its effect. I am quite in a proper temper, and go now with pleasure to what I should else have gone in pain."

A hater of tobacco asked an old negro woman, the fumes of whose pipe were annoying him, if she thought she was a Christian.

"Yes, brudder; I speets I is." "Do you believe in the bible?" "Yes, brudder." "Do you know that there is a passage in the Scriptures which says that nothing unclean shall inherit the kingdom of heaven?" "Yes, I've heard of it." "Well, Chloee! you smoke, and you cannot enter the kingdom of heaven, because there is nothing so unclean as the breath of a smoker. What do you say to that?" "Why, I speets to leave my breff behind when I go dar!"

The skin of a common house cat is rapidly rising in favor for pur pussies of dress fur.

BOB-TAILED MICE.—The Bangor Whig has this report from the Orono, Me.: "Some four years ago Mrs. E., living on that part of Marsh Island known as Webster, visited her neighbor, Mrs. P., one afternoon for a social chat, and was ushered into the parlor by the attendant to await the arrival of Mrs. P., who soon made her appearance. The ladies conversed very pleasantly for a few minutes, when suddenly a novel sight attracted their attention, and on stepping to the mantle they discovered that eleven mice had, during the preceding cold day, coiled themselves up on the warm chimney, and their tails stuck out upon the mantel through a crack in the finish of the room. As quick as thought, Mrs. P. left the room, and returning with a carving knife, deliberately cut off the tails of ever one of them with evident satisfaction, and kept them to show to her husband as proof of the truth of the story, when he should return home at night. The next day she performed the same operation upon four more, and our informant adds, that for the next three years the cat would bring in, occasionally, bob-tailed mice."

This year will be a great year for this American nation. It is leap year, Presidential election year, and the Centennial Anniversary of our Independence, and for the purpose of giving us a rest, during so much excitement there will be one extra Sunday, or fifty-three in all. It is better for young men to drink twice before thinking once.
